Another good illustration of this species of relief is found in a federal case where it was held that a shareholder of a railroad company which has located and partially constructed its line may maintain a bill to enjoin a rival company from appropriating this work to its own use, when he shows that the directors of his own company are acting in sympathy with the rival company, have furnished it with knowledge of certain defects which render their own location invalid, and have refused to resist such appropriation. Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., 48 Fed. 615.

17. Slattery v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 91 Mo. 217, 4 S. W. 79, 60 Am. Rep. 245.

18. Sheridan v. Sheridan Electric Light Co., 38 Hun (N. Y.) 396.

19. For an example of such a bill see Mayer v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 38 Fed. 197.

20. Hill v. Nisbet, 100 Ind. 341; Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865; Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206; Havens v. Hoyt, 59 N. C. 115.

21. Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206.

22. The case of Butts v. Wood, 38 Barb. (N. Y.) 181, holding the contrary is quite off the track, unless its language be restrained to the facts before the court.

23. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

pany purchase for themselves the controlling interest of another and connecting railroad for the purpose of making contracts more favorable to the other road than to their own corporation, the transaction will be set aside as being opposed to public policy, in that it places the directors in a situation where they are tempted to act in violation of their duty.[24]

15. What Laches Will Deprive Shareholders of This Right to Equitable Relief — a. In General. In these cases, as in others, the shareholders will, by unreasonable delay in bringing their action, lose their right to relief in equity.[25]

b. Application of Principle Where Act Is Ultra Vires. In the application of this doctrine it can make no difference that the act complained of was ultra vires in the sense of being beyond the powers of the corporation itself.[26] But it is not an unreasonable conclusion that where the act is not ultra vires the shareholder rests under a stronger obligation of objecting to a course of action which is being taken by the managers of the corporation.[27]

c. Laches Not Imputed to Shareholders Who Do Not Join in Action Where Other Shareholders Are Prosecuting It. Where the action is prosecuted by some of the shareholders as representatives of all,[28] those shareholders who do not join as plaintiffs of record in such an action are not subject to the imputation of laches, while one of their number is prosecuting a suit seeking to impeach the action complained of.[29]

d. Doctrine of Laches Analogous to Estoppel In Pais. The doctrine of laches in this relation is analogous to the doctrine of estoppel in pais. The meaning is that if a shareholder intends to treat an act of the corporation as illegal, and to hold the directors personally answerable, he must tell them so. He cannot stand by and see it done, objecting to it on other grounds, and then hold them responsible for reasons not alleged in opposition at the time.[30]

16. What Circumstances of Acquiescence, Waiver, or Estoppel Conclude Shareholder — a. In General. Disregarding particulars it may be said that a shareholder may also in many cases be deemed to have acquiesced in the conditions of which he complains, to have waived his right to object, or to have become estopped by his conduct from maintaining a suit in equity, for the purpose of

24. Pearson v. Concord R. Corp., 62 N. H. 537, 13 Am. St. Rep. 590.

25. California.— Wills v. Porter, 132 Cal. 516, 61 Pac. 1109, 64 Pac. 896, under a statute delay of two years fatal to the action.

Georgia.— Alexander v. Searcy, 81 Ga. 536, 8 S. E. 630, 12 Am. St. Rep. 337.

Massachusetts.— Dunphy v. Traveller Newspaper Assoc., 146 Mass. 495, 16 N. E. 426; Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen 52.

Minnesota.— Pinkus v. Minneapolis Linen Mills, 65 Minn. 40, 67 N. W. 643.

Missouri.— Burgess v. St. Louis County R. Co., 99 Mo. 496, 12 S. W. 1050, supineness and delay construed into an acquiescence and ratification.

New York.— Marbury v. Stone, 160 N. Y. 701, 57 N. E. 1116 [affirming 17 N. Y. App. Div. 352, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 184, circumstances under a statute where delay of two years fatal to the action]; Catlin v. Green, 120 N. Y. 441, 24 N. E. 941, 31 N. Y. St. 532; Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. 103; Roberts v. New York, etc., R. Co., 31 N. Y. Suppl. 577, 64 N. Y. St. 167 (acquiescence for three years barred equitable relief); Haar v. Consolidated Carsen River Dredging Co., 17 N. Y. Suppl. 25, 43 N. Y. St. 1.

Pennsylvania.— Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370; Shaaber's Appeal, (1889) 17 Atl. 209.

Tennessee.— Kirtland v. Purdy University, 7 Lea 243.

West Virginia.— Boyce v. Montauk Gas Coal Co., 37 W. Va. 73, 16 S. E. 501.

United States.— Jesup v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 43 Fed. 483; Foster v. Mansfield, etc., R. Co., 36 Fed. 627; Leo v. Union Pac. R. Co., 19 Fed. 283.

England.— Gregory v. Patchett, 33 Beav. 595; Graham v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 12 Beav. 460, 2 Hall & T. 450, 14 Jur. 494, 20 L. J. Ch. 445, 2 Macn. & G. 146, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 132, 48 Eng. Ch. 114; Hodgson v. Powis, 1 De G. M. & G. 6, 15 Jur. 1022, 21 L. J. Ch. 17, 50 Eng. Ch. 5; Ffooks v. London, etc., R. Co., 17 Jur. 365.

26. Burgess v. St. Louis County R. Co., 99 Mo. 496, 12 S. W. 1051; Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370.

27. Leo v. Union Pac. R. Co., 19 Fed. 283.

28. See infra, XI, F, 1, b, (III).

29. Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 103.

30. Hodges v. New England Screw Co., 3 R. I. 9; Graham v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 450, 14 Jur. 494, 20 L. J. Ch. 445, asserting rights in the corporation or of influencing the disposition of its assets.[31]

b. What Circumstances Have Been Held Not to Estop Shareholder. It has been held, but on doubtful grounds, that the acquiescence of the shareholders owning all of the capital stock, in wrongs committed by the directors of the corporation for the benefit of another corporation under their control, does not preclude relief against such wrongs, even if the action to obtain such relief is brought in the name of one of the acquiescing shareholders for the benefit of the corporation.[32]

17. When Action of Shareholders Deemed Ratification. If the act complained of has been acquiesced in by the shareholders, their conduct may amount to a ratification of it, such as will estop the corporation, on a principle hereafter stated,[33] and where the corporation is estopped they will be estopped.[34] And although the act is ultra vires an estoppel may arise against the corporation and consequently against the shareholder, on the ground that it has received and retained the benefits of the transaction such as will estop the shareholder unless he offers to restore the benefits so received.[35]

18. What Persons Have Standing of Shareholders to Invoke Equitable Relief — a. Must Be Shareholder — (I) Rule Stated. The general rule is that to entitle a party to relief by injunction against illegal or fraudulent proceedings of corporate officers he must be a shareholder of the corporation.[36]

(II) Creditor of Shareholder. For instance one who is merely the creditor

2 Macn. & G. 146, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 132, 48 Eng. Ch. 114.

31. See for the principle Rex v. Physicians College, 5 Burr. 2740. For example a shareholder who knows of unauthorized acts by the directors done with the bona fide intention of benefiting the corporation will be presumed to have assented to such acts where he does not dissent within a reasonable time, unless his failure to dissent is reasonably explained. St. Louis, etc., Min. Co. v. Sandoval, etc., Min. Co., 116 Ill. 170, 5 N. E. 370; Pinkus v. Minneapolis Linen Mills, 65 Minn. 40, 67 N. W. 643; Libbey v. Packwood, 11 Wash. 176, 39 Pac. 444 [rehearing denied in 39 Pac. 647].

Illustrations of this doctrine could be expanded, involving great detail, but a citation of the cases must suffice.

Alabama.— Van Kirk v. Adler, 111 Ala. 104, 20 So. 336.

Georgia.— Cole v. Dyer, 29 Ga. 434, shareholder voting for directors not allowed to file a quo warranto to oust them.

Illinois.— Perry County v. Stebbins, 66 Ill. App. 427, shareholders acquiesced for more than twenty years, making no objection.

Iowa.— Hart v. Mt. Pleasant Park Stock Co., 97 Iowa 353, 66 N. W. 190, holding that a shareholder ratifies an arrangement by presiding at the meeting and making no objection thereto.

Michigan.— Boynton v. Roe, 114 Mich. 401, 72 N. W. 257.

Missouri.—Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865.

Nebraska.— Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458, shareholder had attended meeting and voted to carry arrangement into effect.

New York.— Burden v. Burden, 159 N. Y. 287, 54 N. E. 17 [affirming 8 N. Y. App. Div. 160, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 499, shareholder cannot assail the right of his corporation to hold and own property conveyed to it as part of the scheme of organization entered into to settle differences between himself and his partner]; Skinner v. Smith, 134 N. Y. 240, 31 N. E. 911, 47 N. Y. St. 528; McNab v. McNab, etc., Mfg. Co., 62 Hun 18, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 448, 41 N. Y. St. 906.

Utah.— Jackson v. Crown Point Min. Co., 21 Utah 1, 59 Pac. 238, 81 Am. St. Rep. 651, estopped from questioning the acts of the board he helped to elect.

United States.— Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. 381, 16 L. ed. 488 (although the complaining shareholder attended the meeting by proxy and dissented, but declined to vote when his vote would have controlled the action of the meeting); Northern Trust Co. v. Columbia Straw-Paper Co., 75 Fed. 937.

England.— Whitwam v. Watkin, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 188, persons who sold to a corporation stock in another corporation, which it was beyond the power of the latter to purchase, cannot, as shareholders, upon purchasing shares in the latter corporation, maintain an action against its directors for the illegal expenditure of the money.

32. Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co., 41 Nebr. 374, 59 N. W. 838.

33. See infra, XV, B, 7, a, (I) et seq.

34. Arkansas River Land, etc., Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 13 Colo. 587, 22 Pac. 954.

35. Hinckley v. Pfister, 83 Wis. 64, 53 N. W. 21.

36. Berford v. New York Iron Mine, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 236, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 836, 21 N. Y. St. 439; Roebling v. Richmond First Nat. Bank, 30 Fed. 744.

of a shareholder cannot maintain a suit in equity for a decree compelling the corporation to declare and pay dividends upon its shares.[37]

(III) Policy-Holder in Mutual Insurance Company. The unascertained interest of a mere policy-holder in a mutual insurance company is insufficient to sustain an equitable action to prevent the corporation from exercising its statutory power of converting itself into a stock corporation.[38]

(IV) One Who Expects to Become Shareholder. One who expects to become the owner of shares in a corporation cannot, before becoming such owner, be heard in equity to complain of ultra vires acts of the corporation or be permitted to interfere with the affairs of the company.[39]

b. Whether Must Be Registered Shareholder. Ordinarily a person entitled to relief against breaches of trust by the directors and wrongs by the majority of the shareholders must himself be a registered shareholder.[40] But a person who is entitled to be registered as a shareholder cannot be turned out of court and refused a hearing merely because the officers of the corporation wrongfully refuse to register him as such.[41] And on principle the same rule must apply in cases of persons who are contingently so entitled.

c. Pledgees. Thus the pledgee of shares may occupy this position. It has been maintained on unanswerable reasons that a pledgee of corporate shares has a standing in equity to remove a cloud from the title of the corporation to its land,[42] or to call the directors to account for breaches of their trust.[43]

d. One Who Has Not Paid For His Shares. Moreover, the complaining shareholder must occupy a meritorious position as between himself and his corporation. He must have complied with the terms of his subscription by paying for his shares,[44] or otherwise yielding the consideration for which they were issued.[45] If his stock is void under a statute, by reason of not having been fully paid for "to the amount of its par value," he cannot ask the aid of a court of equity, based upon the rights of a shareholder.[46]

e. Equitable Owners. The equitable owner of shares necessarily has a right to have his interests protected by an appeal to a court of equity in proper cases the same as a legal owner has. Thus it has been held that one who has transferred his shares for a formal purpose, for instance for the purpose of facilitating the winding-up of the company, is still the equitable owner of them, and as such may sue as a shareholder to recover unappropriated assets of the corporation.[47] This must be the rule under the modern codes of procedure, which adopt the rule of equity requiring an action to be brought in the name of the real party in interest.[48]

f. Holder of How Many Shares. A shareholder who has a definite right which 37. Berford v. New York Iron Mine, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 236, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 836, 21 N. Y. St. 439.

38. Grobe v. Erie County Mut. Ins. Co., 39 N. Y. App. Div. 183, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 290 [affirming 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 462, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 628].

39. Mayer v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 38 Fed. 197.

40. Atty.-Gen. v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 28 N. E. 346, 13 L. R. A. 251; Armstrong v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 26 Ohio L. J. 93; Brown v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 53 Fed. 889.

41. Carson v. Iowa City Gas-Light Co., 80 Iowa 638, 45 N. W. 1068; Ernst v. Elmira Municipal Imp. Co., 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 583, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 116.

42. Baldwin v. Canfield, 26 Minn. 43, 1 N. W. 261.

43. Green v. Hedenberg, 159 Ill. 489, 42 N. E. 851, 50 Am. St. Rep. 178; Smith v. Smith, etc., Co., 125 Mich. 234, 84 N. W. 144. And see McCaleb v. Goodwin, 114 Ala. 615, 21 So. 967; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 22 Wash. 172, 60 Pac. 141.

That pledgees of the capital stock of a corporation are not entitled to notice of the acts of its directors see Havemayer v. Bordeaux Co., 8 Nat. Corp. Rep. 127.

44. Landes v. Globe Planter Mfg. Co., 73 Ga. 176.

45. Busey v. Hooper, 35 Md. 15, 6 Am. Rep. 350.

46. Hinckley v. Pfister, 83 Wis. 64, 53 N. W. 21. See also St. Louis, etc., Min. Co. v. Sandoval, etc., Min. Co., 116 Ill. 170, shares never paid for, assessments not paid, shares liable to be forfeited.

47. Thompson v. Stanley, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 317.

48. Larwill v. Burke, 19 Ohio Cir. Ct. 449.

he is entitled to have protected cannot be turned out of a court of equity because he is not the holder of more than a single share;[49] and, although one who has purchased a single share for the purpose of bringing such an action may not have acquired such a standing, yet if it appear that he is the equitable owner of ten other shares in respect of which he would be assessable in favor of creditors the rule may be different.[50]

g. One Entitled to Shares in Corporation Formed by Consolidation. A shareholder in one of four companies which had been consolidated under the provisions of a statute, who had not converted his stock into the stock of the consolidated company as the statute authorized him to do, has no standing to maintain a shareholder's bill against such company.[51]

h. One Who Has Held and Surrendered Trust Certificates. One who has held trust certificates issued by a corporation cannot, after surrendering such certificates in exchange for stock of the company, assert other rights than those of a shareholder, in enforcing rights of the company against those fraudulently conspiring against such rights.[52]

i. One Whose Shares Are Valueless and Cannot Be Made Valuable by Relief He Seeks. A shareholder of an insolvent corporation whose stock is worthless and cannot be made of any value by the granting of the relief prayed for in his bill cannot maintain a suit to set aside an order appointing a receiver and a decree directing a sale of property of the corporation, on the ground that its officers and directors fraudulently colluded with the complainant in the proceeding in which the receiver was appointed and the sale directed, to enable it to obtain the order and decree.[53]

j. When Corporation Is in Hands of Receiver. A shareholder seeking to enforce causes of action vested in the corporation or its receivers must show himself qualified to sue on the rights of one or the other.[54]

k. Shareholder at Time of Transaction Complained of. The shareholder must be such at the time of the transaction of which he complains. One who was not a shareholder or a judgment creditor of the corporation at the time of the transfer of its business to a new corporation had no standing in equity to complain that such transfer was ultra vires, as being in violation of the prohibition against transfers in insolvency.[55] So far as the federal courts are concerned this rule is enforced by equity rule ninety-four; but this rule does not apply in the state courts, and one such court has held that a transferee in good faith of corporate shares after the doing of an ultra vires act may maintain a suit to annul such act where the former owner of the shares neither voted the shares in favor of the act nor acquiesced in it.[56]

l. Shareholder Must Be Such at Time of Commencement of His Action. But the shareholder must have been such at the time of the commencement of his suit.[57]

m. Shareholder Who Has Lost His Right to Vote For Non-Payment of Dues. It has been held that the mere fact that a shareholder has lost his right to vote on his shares because of the non-payment of dues does not deprive him of the character of a member of the corporation for other purposes under the New York

49. It has been reasoned that the largest shareholder has no more right than the holder of a single share to sue in his own name to enforce corporate rights. Van Kirk v. Adler, 111 Ala. 104, 20 So. 336.

50. Elwood v. Greenleaf First Nat. Bank, 41 Kan. 475, 21 Pac. 673.

51. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20.

52. Alexander v. Donohoe, 68 Hun (N. Y.) 131, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 652, 52 N. Y. St. 21 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 203, 38 N. E. 263, 62 N. Y. St. 153].

53. Darragh v. H. Wetter Mfg. Co., 78 Fed. 7, 23 C. C. A. 609.

54. Holton v. Wallace, 77 Fed. 61, 23 C. C. A. 71.

55. Wilson v. Mechanical Orguinette Co., 57 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 173.

56. Forrester v. Butte, etc., Consol. Copper, etc., Min. Co., 21 Mont. 565, 55 Pac. 353 [denying rehearing in 21 Mont. 544, 55 Pac. 229].

57. Fitchett v. Murphy, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 181, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 182 [reversing 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 544, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 322].

General Corporation Law, providing that the term "member of a corporation" shall include every person having a right to vote at a meeting of the corporation.[58]

n. Shareholder Without Certificate. As already seen[59] the possession of a certificate is not necessary to make a person a shareholder, that being merely the evidence of his title. Accordingly it has been held that one who has subscribed for the stock of a corporation and paid in his money becomes a shareholder, and is entitled to maintain the rights of that position, although no certificate of stock is issued to him.[60]

o. Holder of Shares Subject to Option of Purchase by Other Shareholders. It has been held that a requirement in the by-laws of a corporation that before a sale of its stock the holder thereof shall offer it in writing, through the treasurer, to the then existing shareholders, is solely for the benefit of such then existing shareholders; and they alone are entitled to object on the ground of a non-compliance therewith.[61]

19. Shareholder Must First Exhaust His Remedy Within Corporation — a. In General. A bill by one or more shareholders in behalf of the general body cannot be maintained unless it shows that plaintiffs have exhausted the means of putting the corporation in motion.[62]

b. Rule Where Grievance Will Admit of Temporary Delay — (I) In General. If the grievance will admit of a temporary delay, so that if it can be redressed in no other mode a resort may be had to a corporate election, the shareholders will not be permitted to sue.[63]

(II) Unless Wrong Is Being Done by Majority of Shareholders. But if the wrong is being perpetrated by a majority of the shareholders, who can perpetuate it by electing directors in their interest at each successive election, then the minority are entitled to resort to a court of equity for redress.[64]

c. Failure of Corporation to Sue Condition Precedent. Where the complaining shareholders do not sue to redress grievances peculiar to themselves, but proceed in right of the corporation, or what is the same thing in right of all the shareholders, then the failure or refusal of the corporation itself to demand redress is a condition precedent to the right of the shareholders to sue or to 58. Buker v. Steele, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 346.

59. See supra, VI, H, 7, a.

60. Tennessee Mountain Petroleum, etc., Co. v. Ayers, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1897) 43 S. W. 744.

61. American Nat. Bank v. Oriental Mills, 17 R. I. 551, 23 Atl. 795.

62. Alabama.— Johnson v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 125 Ala. 465, 28 So. 2; Roman v. Woolfolk, 98 Ala. 219, 13 So. 212.

Colorado.— Miller v. Murray, 17 Colo. 408, 30 Pac. 46; Beshoar v. Chappell, 6 Colo. App. 323, 40 Pac. 244.

Connecticut.— Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456.

Georgia.— Colquitt v. Howard, 11 Ga. 556.

Kansas.— Home Min. Co. v. McKibben, 60 Kan. 387, 56 Pac. 756.

Kentucky.— Jones v. Johnson, 10 Bush 649.

Maine.— Hersey v. Veazie, 24 Me. 9, 41 Am. Dec. 364.

Massachusetts.— Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

Missouri.— Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206.

New York.— Fitchett v. Murphy, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 181, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 182 [reversing 26 Misc. 544, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 322]; Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212; Forbes v. Whitlock, 3 Edw. 446.

Pennsylvania.— Chamberlain v. Peoples' Bridge Co., 2 Dauph. Co. Rep. 329.

Rhode Island.— Hodges v. New England Screw Co., 1 R. I. 312, 53 Am. Dec. 624, 3 R. I. 9.

South Carolina.— Latimer v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 39 S. C. 44, 17 S. E. 258.

Tennessee.— Deaderick v. Wilson, 8 Baxt. 108.

United States.—Porter v. Sabin, 149 U. S. 473, 13 S. Ct. 1008, 37 L. ed. 815; Hutton v. Joseph Bancroft, etc., Co., 83 Fed. 17 [citing Dunphy v. Traveller Newspaper Assoc., 146 Mass. 495, 16 N. E. 426; Holton v. New Castle R. Co., 138 Pa. St. 111, 20 Atl. 937]; Whitney v. Fairbanks, 54 Fed. 985; Putnam v. Ruch, 54 Fed. 216.

England.— Foss v. Harbottle, 2 Hare 461, 24 Eng. Ch. 461; Orr v. Glasgow, etc., R. Co., 6 Jur. N. S. 877, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 8 Wkly. Rep. 643; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790.

63. Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

64. Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

appear as plaintiffs,[65] unless a state of facts is alleged and proved which makes it apparent that such a demand would be futile.[66] The reason is that if every shareholder were allowed to bring such suits at pleasure, the directors might find themselves harassed by a multiplicity of suits and by endless litigation.[67] The principle is that the shareholder or shareholders seeking to maintain the action must show that they have used in good faith reasonable efforts to obtain redress at the hands of the corporation.[68] Such an effort, it has been well said, must be an earnest, and not a simulated, one.[69]

d. When Demand Must Be Made Upon Directors to Sue — (1) In General. This reasonable effort will generally consist in a demand upon the directors to have an action brought and prosecuted in the name of the corporation to redress the grievances complained of.[70]

65. Alabama.—Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763.

California.— Bacon v. Irvine, 70 Cal. 221, 11 Pac. 646; Cogswell v. Bull, 39 Cal. 320.

Colorado.— Miller v. Murray, 17 Colo. 408, 30 Pac. 46; Byers v. Rollins, 13 Colo. 22, 21 Pac. 894.

Connecticut.— Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456.

Georgia.— Alexander v. Searcy, 81 Ga. 536, 8 S. E. 630, 12 Am. St. Rep. 337; Henry v. Elder, 63 Ga. 347.

Kentucky.— Shawhan v. Zinn, 79 Ky. 300.

Maine.— Kennebec, etc., R. Co. v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 54 Me. 173; Hersey v. Veazie, 24 Me. 9, 41 Am. Dec. 364.

Massachusetts.— Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

Missouri.— Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206.

New York — Greaves v. Gouge, 69 N. Y. 154; Vanderbilt v. Garrison, 5 Duer 689.

North Carolina.— Moore v. Silver Valley Min. Co., 104 N. C. 534, 10 S. E. 679.

Tennessee.— Wallace v. Lincoln Sav. Bank, 89 Tenn. 630, 15 S. W. 448, 24 Am. St. Rep. 625; Boyd v. Sims, 87 Tenn. 771, 11 S. W. 948; Memphis Gayoso Gas Co. v. Williamson, 9 Heisk. 314; Black v. Huggins, 2 Tenn. Ch. 780.

Texas.— Becker v. Gulf City St. R., etc., Co., 80 Tex. 475, 15 S. W. 1094.

West Virginia.— Rathbone v. Parkersburg Gas Co., 31 W. Va. 798, 8 S. E. 570.

Wisconsin.— Doud v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 65 Wis. 108, 25 N. W. 533, 56 Am. Rep. 620.

United States.—Taylor v. Holmes, 127 U. S. 489, 8 S. Ct. 1192, 32 L. ed. 179; Quincy v. Steel, 120 U. S. 241, 7 S. Ct. 520, 30 L. ed. 624; Memphis v. Dean, 8 Wall. 64, 19 L. ed. 326; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. 331, 15 L. ed. 401; Weidenfeld v. Allegheny, etc., R. Co., 47 Fed. 11; Allen v. Wilson, 28 Fed. 677; Converse v. Dimock, 22 Fed. 573; Dannmeyer v. Coleman, 11 Fed. 97, 8 Sawy. 51; Morgan v. Railroad Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,806, 1 Woods 15; Newby v. Oregon Cent. R. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,145, 1 Sawy. 63; Smith v. Poor, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,093, 3 Ware 148 66. Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788; Movle v. Landers, 83 Cal. 579, 23 Pac. 798; Beach v. Cooper, 72 Cal. 99, 13 Pac. 161; Knoop v. Bohmrich, 49 N. J. Eq. 82, 23 Atl. 118; Kelsey v. Sargent, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 150.

67. Macdougall v. Gardiner, 1 Ch. D. 13, 21, 45 L. J. Ch. 27, per James, L. J.

68. Rathbone v. Parkersburg Gas Co., 31 W. Va. 798, 8 S. E. 570.

69. Bacon v. Irvine, 70 Cal. 221, 11 Pac. 646; Hawes v. Contra Costa Water Co., 104 U. S. 450, 26 L. ed. 827; Dannemeyer v. Coleman, 11 Fed. 97, 8 Sawy. 51.

70. Alabama.— Decatur Mineral Land Co. v. Palm, 113 Ala. 531, 21 So. 315, 59 Am. St. Rep. 140; Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763.

California.— Bacon v. Irvine, 70 Cal. 221, 11 Pac. 646.

Connecticut.— Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456.

Georgia.— Alexander v. Searcy, 81 Ga. 536, 8 S. E. 630, 12 Am. St. Rep. 337.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner County, 51 Kan. 617, 33 Pac. 312, unless it appears that he has in good faith, but without success, attempted to secure action by its directors or managing officers or that demand for their action would be unavailing.

Kentucky.— Shawhan v. Zinn, 79 Ky. 300.

Maine.— Ulmer v. Maine Real-Estate Co., 93 Me. 324, 45 Atl. 40.

New York.—Vanderbilt v. Garrison, 5 Duer 689.

North Carolina.—Moore v. Silver Valley Min. Co., 104 N. C. 534, 10 S. E. 679.

Tennessee.— Boyd v. Sims, 87 Tenn. 771, 11 S. W. 948; Memphis Gayoso Gas Co. v. Williamson, 9 Heisk. 314.

Texas.— Becker v. Gulf City St. R., etc., Co., 80 Tex. 475, 15 S. W. 1094.

Virginia.— Mount v. Radford Trust Co., 93 Va. 427, 25 S. E. 244, without alleging that he has requested the board of directors to bring such suit, or stating facts showing that such request would be unavailing.

West Virginia.— Rathbone v. Parkersburg Gas Co., 31 W. Va. 798, 8 S. E. 570.

Wisconsin.— Doud v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 65 Wis. 108, 25 N. E. 533, 56 Am. Rep. 620.

United States.— Taylor v. Holmes, 127 U. S. 489, 8 S. Ct. 1192, 32 L. ed. 179; Quincy v. Steel, 120 U. S. 241, 9 S. Ct. 520, 30 L. ed. 624; Weidenfeld v. Allegheny, etc., R. Co.,

(II) Refusal of Directors Must Be Wrongful. Some of the cases moreover emphasize the proposition that it must clearly appear that the refusal of the directors to institute an action in the name of the corporation to redress the grievances complained of was a wrongful refusal,[71] and one of them is to the effect that the refusal must amount to a clear default, involving a breach of duty.[72] But all this is implied in the statement that there are breaches of trust or other grievances to be redressed, and that the directors will not allow an action to be brought in the name of the corporation to redress them; because under such circumstances their refusal is necessarily wrongful.

(III) Rule Same With Reference to Action Against Assignee For Creditors For Maladministration. Where the majority of the directors are qualified to sue the assignee for creditors for maladministration, a shareholder's bill seeking the same relief must allege that the shareholder first demanded that the directors bring the suit.[73]

e. If Demand on Directors Futile, Effort Must Be Made to Induce Action on Part of Shareholders. If the demand made upon the directors that they bring the proposed action in the name of the corporation to redress the grievance complained of is refused, then a further effort must be made to induce such action through the body of the shareholders, unless the circumstances are such as to show that such further effort would be futile.[74]

f. Doctrine of Federal Courts on This Subject. The doctrine of the federal courts on this subject was distinctively formulated by Mr. Justice Miller in a case decided in the year 1881, which has continued to be regarded as the leading case on the subject. It is essentially the same as that stated in the preceding paragraph, but recited in detail and with particularity.[75] The federal doctrine is formulated by the supreme court of the United States, in what is known as the ninety-fourth equity rule as follows: "Every bill brought by one or more stockholders in a corporation against the corporation and other parties, founded on rights which may properly be asserted by the corporation, must be verified by oath, and must contain an allegation that the plaintiff was a shareholder at the time of the transaction of which he complains, or that his share had devolved on him since by operation of law, and that the suit is not a collusive one to confer on a court of the United States jurisdiction of a case of which it would not otherwise have cognizance. It must also set forth with particularity the efforts of the plaintiff to secure such action as he desires on the part of the managing directors or trustees, and if necessary of the shareholders, and the causes of his failure to obtain such action." [76]

47 Fed. 11; Newby v. Oregon Cent. R. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,145, 1 Sawy. 63.

71. Wallace v. Lincoln Sav. Bank, 89 Tenn. 630, 15 S. W. 448, 24 Am. St. Rep. 625.

72. Memphis Gayoso Gas Co. v. Williamson, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 314; Memphis v. Dean, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 64, 19 L. ed. 326.

73. State v. Mitchell, 104 Tenn. 336, 58 S. W. 365.

74. Wolf v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 195 Pa. St. 91, 45 Atl. 936 (stating averments which have been held insufficient to show that the directors would have refused the application); Robinson v. West Virginia Loan Co., 90 Fed. 770; Church v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 78 Fed. 526.

That the court will presume that it is not impracticable to convene a meeting of the proprietors capable of controlling the directors see Miller v. Murray, 17 Colo. 408, 30 Pac. 46; Weidenfeld v. Allegheny, etc., R. Co., 47 Fed. 11 (under the ninety-fourth equity rule); Foss v. Harbottle, 2 Hare 461.

75. Hawes v. Contra Costa Water Co., 104 U. S. 450, 26 L. ed. 827. See also Taylor v. Holmes, 127 U. S. 489, 8 S. Ct. 1192, 32 L. ed. 179; Dimpfel v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 110 U. S. 209, 3 S. Ct. 573, 28 L. ed. 121; Detroit v. Dean, 106 U. S. 537, 1 S. Ct. 560, 27 L. ed. 300; Huntington v. Palmer, 104 U. S. 482, 26 L. ed. 833.

76. This rule has been construed and applied in the court which promulgated it, in a very instructive decision where the allegations of a bill were held insufficient under it; a decision which every pleader should carefully study before attempting to draw a shareholder's bill of this nature to be filed in a circuit court of the United States. The court concluded from an analysis of the bill that the inference that the proceeding was a preconcerted and simulated arrangement to foist upon the circuit court of the United

g. What Is Sufficient Request to Directors Under General Rules of Equity Procedure. As to what is a sufficient request to the corporation to institute suit, it has been held that a request made in any mode, so as to be a legal request to the corporation, is sufficient.[77]

h. Manner in Which Efforts to Induce Action on Part of Corporation Must Be Set Forth in Pleading. If a single shareholder, or a minority of the shareholders, bring such an action, their bill or complaint must set forth in detail and with particularity the efforts made by them to secure the desired action on the part of the corporation, and these allegations must be proved[78] or the suit will be dismissed.[79] It has been held that in a bill in equity by a shareholder against the corporation, charging that the directors have done acts ultra vires and in violation of law, and praying for an injunction, an appointment of a receiver, and a winding-up of the affairs of the corporation, the complainant must allege that the directors in office at the time the bill is brought have been asked to act, or that they have refused to act; or that failing with the officers the corporation itself has been asked to protect itself; or that it has refused to do so; or that it is incapable of action; or that the necessary delay in securing corporate action would prejudice the complainant; and where such allegations are not made the bill is demurrable.[80]

20. Circumstances Which Excuse Making of Request to Directors to Sue — a. In General, Where Such Request Would Be Useless. Generally speaking the making of a request or demand upon the directors that they bring the appropriate action is dispensed with, as a preliminary to a shareholder's suit, where a state of facts is averred and proved which shows that the making of such a demand would be useless and that it would not be complied with.[81]

b. Where Directors Would Necessarily Be Opposed to Prosecution of Action — (I) In General. The general rule is that where the directors are shown to occupy such a relation to the transaction complained of that they would necessarily be antagonistic to the prosecution of the action which the complaining shareholder requests them to prosecute, a demand that they bring and prosecute the action in the name of the corporation will be dispensed with.[82]

(II) Where Directors Themselves Are Guilty Parties. This happens where the object of the suit is to impeach breaches of trust or other fraudulent States a jurisdiction in a case which did not fairly belong to it was very strong. Quincy v. Steel, 120 U. S. 241, 9 S. Ct. 520, 30 L. ed. 624.

For a case where the pleading was held not to comply with the ninety-fourth rule upon facts based upon the judge's private knowledge see Squair v. Lookout Mountain Co., 42 Fed. 729. For another case where the allegations of the bill were held insufficient to comply with the ninety-fourth rule of equity see Weidenfeld v. Allegheny, etc., R. Co., 47 Fed. 11.

As to what is sufficient request under the ninety-fourth equity rule see Quincy v. Steel, 120 U. S. 241, 9 S. Ct. 520, 30 L. ed. 624.

77. Circumstances under which a request made to a committee was sufficient. Hazard v. Durant, 11 R. I. 195.

Frequent protests, although made to the directors, not sufficient. Boyd v. Sims, 87 Tenn. 771, 11 S. W. 948.

Simulated notice made to lay the foundation of an action not sufficient. Bacon v. Irvine, 70 Cal. 221, 11 Pac. 646.

78. Dillon v. Lee, 110 Iowa 156, 81 N. W. 245.

79. Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206; Robinson v. West Virginia Loan Co., 90 Fed. 770.

80. Ulmer v. Maine Real-Estate Co., 93 Me. 324, 45 Atl. 40.

81. Smith v. Dorn, 96 Cal. 73, 13 Pac. 1024; Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378. See also Higgins v. Lansingh, 154 Ill. 301, 40 N. E. 362; Elred v. American Palace-Car Co., 99 Fed. 168 (where it appears that there is no collusion and that a demand on the directors of the corporation to bring the suit would have been useless, notwithstanding United States equity rule ninety-four); Wier v. Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 940 (instancing United States equity rule ninety-four); Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347. It was so held where the petition, in an action by a shareholder to recover assets misappropriated by officers holding a majority of the stock, alleged that such shareholders had conspired to wreck the company, and had done ultra vires acts, and diverted to their own use large sums of money belonging to the corporation, and had constituted themselves and others who were mere dummies the board of directors and controlling officers of the corporation in pursuance of such conspiracy. Joy v. Ft. Worth Compress Co., 24 Tex. Civ. App. 94, 58 S. W. 173.

82. See infra, XI, B, 20, b, (II).

acts committed by the directors themselves, in which case they would not be proper parties plaintiff but would be proper parties defendant, and where, if the request were granted the litigation would necessarily be subject to the control of the persons opposed to its success, as where the object of the bill is to restrain the doing of an act which the directors have already resolved to do, such as the restraining of a consolidation with another corporation.[83]

(III) Where Directors Are Under Control of Parties Whose Acts Are Complained of or Who Are Necessarily Adverse to the Litigation. This also happens where the directors are the tools or the creatures, or under the control of the shareholders or of third persons, or corporations whose acts are complained of and who are necessarily adverse to the litigation,[84] as where the directors are under control of the shareholder holding a majority of the stock, and the fraud which it is sought to redress has been instigated by this majority shareholder, and the minority shareholders are the parties bringing the action;[85] where the object of the bill is to impeach an unlawful contract, and the directors are under the control of the persons with whom the contract was made;[86] where one corporation has acquired a majority of the shares of a rival corporation, and the object of the bill, brought by a shareholder of the company

83. Alabama.—Mack v. De Bardeleben Coal, etc., Co., 90 Ala. 396, 8 So. 150, 9 L. R. A. 650; Nathan v. Tompkins, 82 Ala. 437, 2 So. 747.

California.— Smith v. Dorn, 96 Cal. 73, 30 Pac. 1024; Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788; Ashton v. Dashaway Assoc., 84 Cal. 61, 22 Pac. 660, 7 L. R. A. 809; Moyle v. Landers, 78 Cal. 99, 20 Pac. 241, 21 Pac. 1133, 12 Am. St. Rep. 22.

Colorado.— Miller v. Murray, 17 Colo. 408, 30 Pac. 46.

Indiana.— Wayne Pike Co. v. Hammons, 129 Ind. 368, 27 N. E. 487; Rogers v. Lafayette Agricultural Works, 52 Ind. 296.

Iowa.— Schoening v. Schwenk, 112 Iowa 733, 84 N. W. 916.

Maryland.— Davis v. Gemmell, 70 Md. 356, 17 Atl. 259.

Minnesota.—Bjorngaard v. Goodhue County Bank, 49 Minn. 483, 52 N. W. 48.

Missouri.— Hannerty v. Standard Theater Co., 109 Mo. 297, 19 S. W. 82, shareholder suing to recover for the corporation property rights that have been lost by the fraudulent misconduct of the directors still in office.

Montana.— Gerry v. Bismarck Bank, 19 Mont. 191, 47 Pac. 810, two of the four directors active participants in the wrongs complained of, the other two acquiescing.

Nebraska.— Ponca Mill Co. v. Mikesell, 55 Nebr. 98, 75 N. W. 46, where the wrongdoers are in control of the corporation, both by owning a majority of the stock and by being the corporate officers.

New Jersey.— Knoop v. Bohmrich, 49 N. J. Eq. 82, 23 Atl. 118.

New York.— Nash v. Hall Signal Co., 90 Hun 354, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 940, 70 N. Y. St. 655; Anderton v. Wolf, 41 Hun 571, 4 N. Y. St. 101; Kelsey v. Sargent, 40 Hun 150; Ithaca Gas Light Co. v. Treman, 30 Hun 212; Brown v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 27 Hun 342; Brewster v. Hatch, 4 N. Y. St. 617.

Rhode Island.— Eaton v. Robinson, 18 R. I. 396, 27 Atl. 595.

Texas.— Baker v. Gulf City St. R., etc., Co., 80 Tex. 475, 15 S. W. 1094.

Wisconsin.— Eschweiler v. Stowell, 78 Wis. 316, 47 N. W. 361, 23 Am. St. Rep. 411.

United States.— Berwind v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 98 Fed. 158 (where it is alleged in the bill that the corporation is controlled by the defendants, and this notwithstanding equity rule ninety-four); Excelsior Pebble Phosphate Co. v. Brown, 74 Fed. 321, 20 C. C. A. 428 (where the corporation is dominated by a president and board of directors who are charged with wrecking the corporation for their own private ends); Barnes v. Kornegay, 62 Fed. 671 (to prevent the corporation from submitting to illegal taxation where the state owns three fourths of the shares and casts its vote as a unit, and the directors representing it have a majority, and the president and directors have done all they can do to accomplish such taxation); Ranger v. Champion Cotton-Press Co., 52 Fed. 611 (notwithstanding United States equity rule ninety-four); Barr v. Pittsburgh Plate-Glass Co., 40 Fed. 412.

Other special circumstances dispensing with the necessity of a demand upon the corporate authorities to bring the action in the name of the corporation. Stebbins v. Perry County, 167 Ill. 567, 47 N. E. 1048 [reversing 66 Ill. App. 427]; Davis v. Gemmell, 70 Md. 356, 17 Atl. 259; Averill v. Barber, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 255, 25 N. Y. St. 194.

84. Chicago Hansom Cab Co. v. Yerkes, 141 Ill. 320, 30 N. E. 667, 33 Am. St. Rep. 315; Aiken v. Colorado River Irr. Co., 72 Fed. 591 (corporation under the control of directors who are the instruments and tools of the one responsible for the fraud).

85. Chicago Hansom Cab Co. v. Yerkes, 141 Ill. 320, 30 N. E. 667, 33 Am. St. Rep. 315.

86. Currier v. New York, etc., R. Co., 35 Hun (N. Y.) 355.

about to be swallowed up, is to restrain the purchasing corporation from voting at a corporate election in respect of such shares, and it appears that the directors of the victim corporation constitute a majority of the governing board of the victor corporation;[87] where the directors of the corporation are under the control of another corporation whose acts are complained of;[88] where another corporation has assumed full control of the corporation and the directors of the corporation are the mere creatures of such dominant corporation;[89] where another corporation has purchased a majority of the shares of the corporation for the purpose of getting control of it and suppressing its competition, and where it practically controls the governing body of the former corporation;[90] or where the corporation became accommodation indorser on paper on which its president was personally liable, and permitted judgment to go against it by default when it had a good defense, and permitted its property to be advertised for sale under execution on a small judgment, all of which acts were done while a majority of the present board of directors were members of the board.[91]

(iv) Where Wrong Is That of Corporation and Against Shareholder Personally. If the right claimed is denied by the corporation, although necessarily through the mouth of its officers, for in such a way only can it speak, and if the wrong is capable of being redressed by an action against the corporation alone, and the right of action rests in the individual shareholder, then of course this rule has no application.[92]

(v) Instances Where Such Demand Unnecessary. The preliminary demand upon the directors to bring the appropriate action on the part of the corporation has been held unnecessary where the action was brought by a shareholder alleging that the board of directors in issuing new stock refused to issue to him his due proportion, and seeking to restrain them from issuing any more until they should issue his due proportion to him;[93] also where the object of the action was to compel the corporation to cancel certain shares alleged to have been unlawfully issued, and incidentally to restrain the holders of such shares from voting thereon;[94] and generally where the object of the bill is to restrain the doing of ultra vires acts, because a single shareholder has a right to an injunction for that purpose.[95]

c. Where Corporation Has Been Abandoned or Dissolved. It has been so held where the corporation has abandoned its business and ceased to appoint officers;[96] where the corporation has been abandoned or has suffered a de facto dissolution by the non-user of its franchises and request made to those who constituted its last board of directors, that they bring and prosecute in the name of the corporation the appropriate action, will generally be dispensed with, as where the corporation has ceased to do business for a long term of years, and its directors are unknown, or all the incorporators are before the court.[97] If in such a case a corporation is or has been in the hands of a receiver the corporation may, notwithstanding federal equity rule ninety-four, sue the receiver to call him to account.[98] But this rule does not apply where, after the expiration of the charter, the corporate existence is continued for the purpose of winding up its affairs.[99]

87. Mack v. De Bardeleben Coal, etc., Co., 90 Ala. 396, 8 So. 150, 9 L. R. A. 650.
88. Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co., 41 Nebr. 374, 59 N. W. 838.
89. Earle v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 56 Fed. 909.
90. George v. Central R., etc., Co., 101 Ala. 607, 14 So. 752.
91. Bridgeport Development Co. v. Tritsch, 110 Ala. 274, 20 So. 16.
92. Wood v. Union Gospel Church Bldg. Assoc., 63 Wis. 9, 22 N. W. 756; Dousman v. Wisconsin, etc., Min., etc., Co., 40 Wis. 418.
93. Dousman v. Wisconsin, etc., Min., etc., Co., 40 Wis. 418.
94. Wood v. Union Gospel C. B. Assoc., 63 Wis. 9, 22 N. W. 756.
95. See infra, XI, C, 4, a et seq.
96. Thompson v. Stanley, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 317; Crumlish v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 28 W. Va. 623.
97. Tennessee Mountain Petroleum, etc., Co. v. Ayers, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1897) 43 S. W. 744.
98. Lafayette Co. v. Neely, 21 Fed. 738.
99. Taylor v. Holmes, 127 U. S. 489, 8 S. Ct. 1192, 32 L. ed. 179.

d. Requesting Receiver, Etc., to Sue After Insolvency — (I) In General. If the corporation, by reason of insolvency, is in the hands of a receiver or other trustee, for the purpose of liquidation, then a request which would have been made upon the directors if the corporation had been a going concern is properly made upon the receiver or trustee, and if it is refused, the shareholder's action may proceed.[1] A shareholder may maintain an action and receive all the assets of the corporation, joining the corporation and necessary parties to assert his rights, without requesting the receiver to bring such an action, where the conduct of the receiver is equivalent to a refusal.[2]

(II) In Case of Insolvent National Bank. In case of an insolvent national bank the demand must be made upon the comptroller of the currency,[3] and if it is refused it seems that the shareholder's action may proceed in a state court.[4]

(III) In Causes Which Have Been Removed From State to Federal Court. In a shareholder's action commenced in a state court and afterward removed to a court of the United States, the complaint need not set out with particularity the efforts of the complainant to secure action on the part of the managing directors or trustees, since the federal equity rule ninety-four does not apply in such a case; but if the state court had jurisdiction, and if the federal court has the same jurisdiction in succession thereto, and if the entire record anywhere shows that the corporation will not proceed to vindicate the right of the shareholder, he will be allowed to proceed with the prosecution of the suit.[5]

e. When Shareholder May Intervene For Purpose of Defending. Where an action has been brought against a corporation for the use of its president and two of its directors, who constituted a majority of the board, and the corporation in its answer admits plaintiff's collusive action, a shareholder will be permitted to intervene and defend the action without alleging that he requested the officers of the corporation so to do.[6]

f. Request That Corporation Sue Not Necessary to Vindicate Rights Personal to Particular Shareholder. It must be kept in mind that this doctrine, which requires the aggrieved shareholder or shareholders to exhaust all reasonable efforts within the corporation to induce the bringing and prosecution of the proper action by and in the name of the corporation applies only where it is the purpose to vindicate a right belonging to the corporation, or where the object of the suit is to control the management of the corporation, or to defend against, or to redress breaches of trust committed by those having such management. If the right is a right of a particular shareholder, and not a right in respect of which the corporation could bring an action, then it is not necessary to make any request on the governing body of the corporation to have such an action brought, as for example where a shareholder brings an action against directors and against original shareholders, to recover shares which do not belong to the company, but which the original subscribers permitted the company to use as a part consideration for the construction of its works, under an agreement that whatever shares were left should be divided among the promoters and subscribers.[7]

g. Refusal of Corporation to Sue Must Be Averred and Proved — (I) In General. The complaint, petition, or bill, by whatever name called, must allege

1. Fisher v. Andrews, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 176; Wallace v. Lincoln Sav. Bank, 89 Tenn. 630, 15 S. W. 448, 24 Am. St. Rep. 625.
2. Farwell v. Great Western Tel. Co., 161 Ill. 620 [affirmed in 161 Ill. 522, 44 N. E. 891], receiver had retained as counsel the largest creditor.
3. U. S. Rev. Stat. (1872), § 5234.
4. Brinckerhoff v. Bostwick, 23 Hun (N. Y.) 237; Nelson v. Burrows, 9 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 280.
5. Evans v. Union Pac. R. Co., 58 Fed. 497.
6. Shively v. Eureka Tellurium Gold Min. Co., 129 Cal. 293, 61 Pac. 939, opinion by Smith, Commissioner.
7. Krohn v. Williamson, 62 Fed. 869, opinion by Taft, J.

that the corporation or its directors have been requested to prosecute the action and have refused so to do.[8]

(11) Particularity of Averment Under Ninety-Fourth Federal Equity Rule — (A) In General. The complainant must not only allege this, but, under the ninety-fourth rule for the practice of the courts of the United States in equity, he must set forth in detail the efforts which he has made to induce the directors to institute a suit in the name of the corporation to redress the grievances complained of, and with sufficient particularity to show that the effort on his part has been real and earnest and not simulated.[9]

(B) This Rule Followed in Some State Courts. And this exacting rule of pleading has been followed in some of the state courts.[10]

(C) Instances of Sufficient Averments. The following may be cited as instances of averments of efforts to secure action on the part of the corporation or its directors, which have been held sufficient: That the present board of directors have openly connived at the fraud and approved of the transaction which the shareholders seek to impeach;[11] "that the said defendants, though requested so to do, have wholly neglected and refused to comply with these reasonable expectations and requests of your orator," this being deemed sufficient and sustained by proof of such request made to a committee exercising the powers of the board so far as they could be delegated;[12] and that in consequence of the preponderating number of votes held by one shareholder, under whose influence the directors acted, it was impossible for plaintiffs or any other shareholders to take any steps within defendant company to remedy the acts of the defendant mentioned.[13]

(D) Instances of Insufficient Averments. On the other hand the following averments have been held insufficient: That the board of directors consisted "nearly, if not entirely," of the persons who committed the wrong, these allegations not presenting an issuable fact;[14] in a suit by minority shareholders which seeks to prevent the foreclosure of a mortgage on corporate property an averment that the corporate officers are in collusion with the parties seeking the foreclosure, this not excusing a demand on the board of the directors to take steps to prevent the foreclosure;[15] that one of the directors, who is a party defendant, controls a majority of the stock and elects such a board as he may chose;[16] that the board of directors consists of seven members of whom three were elected and controlled by a rival corporation, while the others are independent of this control except

8. Doud v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 65 Wis. 108, 25 N. W. 533, 56 Am. Rep. 620. See to the like effect the following cases:

Alabama.— Mack v. De Bardeleben Coal, etc., R. Co., 90 Ala. 396, 8 So. 150, 9 L. R. A. 650; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Woods, 88 Ala. 630, 7 So. 108, 16 Am. St. Rep. 81, 7 L. R. A. 605; Merchants', etc., Line v. Waganer, 71 Ala. 581.

California.— Cogswell v. Bull, 39 Cal. 320.

Connecticut.—Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456.

Georgia.— Alexander v. Searcy, 81 Ga. 536, 8 S. E. 630, 12 Am. St. Rep. 337.

Kentucky.— Shawhan v. Zinn, 79 Ky. 300.

Massachusetts.—Dunphy v. Traveller Newspaper Assoc., 146 Mass. 495, 16 N. E. 426; Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

New York.— Greaves v. Gouge, 69 N. Y. 154; Vanderbilt v. Garrison, 5 Duer 689.

North Carolina.— Moore v. Silver Valley Min. Co., 104 N. C. 534, 10 S. E. 679.

Tennessee.— Wallace v. Lincoln Sav. Bank, 89 Tenn. 630, 24 Am. St. Rep. 625.

United States.— Dimpfell v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 110 U. S. 209, 3 S. Ct. 573, 28 L. ed. 121; Detroit v. Dean, 106 U. S. 537, 1 S. Ct. 560, 27 L. ed. 300; Hawes v. Contra Costa Water Co., 104 U. S. 450, 26 L. ed. 827 (leading case); Memphis v. Dean, 8 Wall. 64, 19 L. ed. 326; Morgan v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,806, 1 Woods 15.

England.— Foss v. Harbottle, 2 Hare 461, 24 Eng. Ch. 461; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790.

9. Quincy v. Steel, 120 U. S. 241, 7 S. Ct. 520, 30 L. ed. 624; Foote v. Cunard Min. Co., 17 Fed. 46, 5 McCrary 251.

10. Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206.

11. Mussina v. Goldthwaite, 34 Tex. 125, 7 Am. Rep. 281.

12. Hazard v. Durant, 11 R. I. 195.

13. Mason v. Harris, 11 Ch. D. 97, 48 L. J. Ch. 589, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 644, 27 Wkly. Rep. 699.

14. Cogswell v. Bull, 39 Cal. 320.

15. Alexander v. Searcy, 81 Ga. 536, 8 S. E. 630, 12 Am. St. Rep. 337.

16. Dunphy v. Traveller Newspaper Assoc., 146 Mass. 495, 16 N. E. 426.

one, who is alleged to have been a director before the interest of the rival was acquired, and to have no interest in the corporation;[17] a bill filed by a minority of the shareholders against the corporation and a majority of the directors, seeking to hold them accountable for breaches of their trust, charging them with forming a combination or ring for their own private profit and the expense of the other shareholders, none of which are ultra vires, but failing to set forth any attempt to procure redress within the corporation.[18]

(III) Bill Failing to Aver Such Request and Refusal Bad on Demurrer. A bill, petition, or complaint, by whatever name called, which fails to aver that the corporation, on request, has refused to bring the proper action, is bad on demurrer,[19] unless circumstances are set out which excuse the making of such a request.

(IV) Whether Taken Advantage of by Plea in Abatement. It seems also that the defect, being one which goes to the capacity of the plaintiff or plaintiffs to sue, may be taken advantage of by a plea in abatement.[20]

(V) Whether Objection Can Be Made by Objecting to Evidence, Demurrer Ore Tenus, Etc. But it is held that as it goes merely to the capacity of plaintiff to sue it is waived if not demurred to;[21] although in a later case in the same jurisdiction, it is said that the defect may be taken advantage of by objecting to any evidence which is in the nature of a demurrer ore tenus.[22]

(VI) Such Averments, When Dispensed With. Under principles already considered, the rule which requires this averment in the bill, petition, or complaint is dispensed with where the pleading contains other allegations which show that a request made to the corporation or to its directors to bring an action would have been useless, or which otherwise shows a state of facts dispensing with this requirement.[23]

h. Willingness of Corporation to Sue a Good Defense. Where a shareholder brings the action, and avers a request upon the directors to bring the action in the name of the corporation and the refusal on their part to comply with the request, and defendant pleads to the bill, denying the allegation that the corporation has refused to sue, and alleging that it has commenced a suit to enforce the rights in question, this presents a good defense.[24]

C. Injunctions as Means of Effecting Such Remedies — 1. General Statement of Cases Where Injunctions Granted. The remedies of shareholders in the

17. Mack v. De Bardeleben Coal, etc., Co., 90 Ala. 396, 8 So. 150, 9 L. R. A. 650.

18. Merchants', etc., Line v. Waganer, 71 Ala. 581. Another court has held that the shareholders of a corporation cannot, without demand upon their own directors and their refusal, bring an action against another corporation on the ground that it is wrongfully interfering with the rights of their own company, simply because a majority of their own directors are shareholders to a larger extent in the defendant corporation than in their own, and that the minority of their own directors are also directors in the defendant company. Boyd v. Sims, 87 Tenn. 771, 11 S. W. 948.

19. Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378; Greaves v. Gouge, 69 N. Y. 154; Vanderbilt v. Garrison, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 689; Doud v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 65 Wis. 108, 25 N. W. 533, 56 Am. Rep. 620; Macdougall v. Gardiner, 1 Ch. D. 13, 45 L. J. Ch. 27; Foss v. Harbottle, 2 Hare 461, 24 Eng. Ch. 461; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. Ch. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790; and other cases in the preceding notes.

20. Memphis v. Dean, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 64, 19 L. ed. 326. Although in general a denial that shareholders had demanded that the corporation should bring suit against its treasurer on demand due the corporation should be made by plea in abatement, yet, where the plaintiffs alleged that they made the demand, which the defendants denied, the issue was properly raised. Dillon v. Lee, 110 Iowa 156, 81 N. W. 245.

21. Wood v. Union Gospel Church Bldg. Assoc., 63 Wis. 9, 22 N. W. 756.

22. Doud v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 65 Wis. 108, 25 N. W. 533, 56 Am. Rep. 620.

23. Smith v. Dorn, 96 Cal. 73, 30 Pac. 1024; Moyle v. Landers, 83 Cal. 579, 21 Pac. 1133, 23 Pac. 798; Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347. See also Ashton v. Dashaway Assoc., 84 Cal. 61, 23 Pac. 1091, 7 L. R. A. 809; Parrott v. Byers, 40 Cal. 614, 620.

Instance of a good complaint by a shareholder of a land company to enjoin issuing of scrip. Rogers v. New York, etc., Land Co., 1 N. Y. Suppl. 908, 17 N. Y. St. 131.

24. Memphis v. Dean, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 64, particulars just considered are generally sought for and effectuated through the agency of the writ of injunction. Perhaps the most usual cases where injunctions have been granted may be ranked under four heads: (1) Where the directors or a majority of the shareholders are proceeding to make fundamental changes in the original contract of association contrary to the will of the majority;[25] (2) where the directors or a majority of the shareholders are attempting to divert the joint funds to a purpose outside the objects for which the corporation was organized,[26] which is practically the same thing as the preceding;[27] (3) where the action of the majority of the shareholders, although not ultra vires, is plainly a fraud on the minority, or oppressive as against them, and the directors and trustees act with and form a part of the majority;[28] and (4) where the directors of a corporation threaten any other breach of trust injurious to the shareholders, in which case equity will enjoin it before it has been committed, or relieve against it afterward, where possible.[29]

2. NOT GRANTED TO RESTRAIN ILL-ADVISED OR SEEMINGLY UNPROFITABLE ACTION. But this refers to positive breaches of trust. Injunctions are not granted against the directors of corporations merely to restrain ill-advised action, or action apparently unprofitable to the shareholders.[30]

3. INJUNCTION RESTRAINING ILLEGAL AND ULTRA VIRES ACTS. Whether the action is brought by the state or the government through its attorney-general to redress usurpations of power by those in control of the corporation, or whether it is brought by individual shareholders, the relief which is accorded often takes the 19 L. ed. 326; Newby v. Oregon Cent. R. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,145, 1 Sawy. 63.

25. Zabriskie v. Hackensack, etc., R. Co., 18 N. J. Eq. 178, 90 Am. Dec. 617; Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401.

That a court of equity will undo such an act after it has been done, where it would have enjoined it before it had been done, in case the rights of innocent third persons do not supervene, see Wright v. Oroville Gold, etc., Min. Co., 40 Cal. 20.

26. Marseilles Land, etc., Co. v. Aldrich, 86 Ill. 504; Stevens v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 29 Vt. 545; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331, 15 L. ed. 401; Logan v. Courttown, 13 Beav. 22, 20 L. J. Ch. 347; Munt v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 13 Beav. 1, 15 Jur. 26, 20 L. J. Ch. 169, 3 Eng. L. & Eq. 144; Dumvile v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 12 Beav. 444; Salomons v. Laing, 12 Beav. 339, 14 Jur. 471, 19 L. J. Ch. 225, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 289; Cohen v. Wilkinson, 12 Beav. 125, 13 Jur. 641, 18 L. J. Ch. 378, 1 Hall & T. 554, 14 Jur. 535, 1 Macn. & G. 481, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 758, 47 Eng. Ch. 384; Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513; Graham v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 450, 14 Jur. 494, 20 L. J. Ch. 445, 2 Macn. & G. 146, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 132, 48 Eng. Ch. 114; Carlisle v. South Eastern R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 366, 14 Jur. 535, 1 Macn. & G. 689, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 682, 47 Eng. Ch. 546; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114 [affirmed in 2 Hall & T. 201, 14 Jur. 491, 19 L. J. Ch. 410, 2 Macn. & G. 389, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 169, 48 Eng. Ch. 300]; Stevens v. South Devon R. Co., 15 Jur. 235; Henry v. Great Northern R. Co., 4 Kay & J. 1; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790; Blain v. Agar, 5 L. J. Ch. O. S. 1, 1 Sim. 37, 27 Rev. Rep. 150, 29 Rev. Rep. 110, 2 Eng. Ch. 37; Sharp v. Day, 1 Phil. 771, 19 Eng. Ch. 771; Hichens v. Congreve, 4 Russ. 562, 4 Eng. Ch. 562; Natusch v. Irving, Gow Partn. (3d ed.) 398.

27. Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 40.

28. Wright v. Oroville Gold, etc., Min. Co., 40 Cal. 20; Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 25 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 410, 9 L. R. A. 527 [reversing 52 Hun (N. Y.) 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409].

29. Connecticut.— Sears v. Hotchkiss, 25 Conn. 171, 65 Am. Dec. 557.

Massachusetts.— Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

New Hampshire.— March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

South Carolina.— Charleston Ins., etc., Co. v. Sebring, 5 Rich. Eq. 342.

United States.— Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. 331, 15 L. ed. 401.

England.— Browne v. Monmouthshire R., etc., Co., 13 Beav. 32, 15 Jur. 475, 20 L. J. Ch. 497; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114 [affirmed in 2 Hall & T. 201, 14 Jur. 491, 19 L. J. Ch. 410, 2 Macn. & G. 389, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 169, 48 Eng. Ch. 300]; Stevens v. South Devon R. Co., 15 Jur. 235.

30. Clinch v. Financial Corp., L. R. 5 Eq. 450; Gregory v. Patchett, 33 Beav. 595; Browne v. Monmouthshire R., etc., Co., 13 Beav. 32, 15 Jur. 475, 20 L. J. Ch. 497; Lord v. Copper Miners' Co., 1 Hall & T. 85, 12 Jur. 1059, 18 L. J. Ch. 65, 2 Phil. 740, 22 Eng.

form of an injunction restraining illegal or ultra vires acts of the directors.[31] This remedy proceeds on one or both of the following grounds: (1) That the shareholders have the right to have the directors restrained from doing a threatened or contemplated act which would subject the franchises of the corporation to forfeiture at the suit of the government;[32] (2) that they have the right to have them restrained from applying the funds of the corporation to objects other than those warranted by the governing instrument of the corporation.[33]

4. Single Shareholder Entitled to Such Injunction — a. Rule Stated. It is therefore a rule of universal recognition that a single shareholder may maintain a suit in equity to restrain the directors and managing officers and agents of the corporation from employing its funds contrary to, or in a manner not authorized by, the charter, governing statute, articles of association, or other constating instrument.[34]

Ch. 740; Foss v. Harbottle, 2 Hare 461, 24 Eng. Ch. 461; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790; Cunliff v. Manchester, etc., Canal Co., 2 Russ. & M. 480 note, 11 Eng. Ch. 480; Ware v. Grand Junction Water Works Co., 2 Russ. & M. 470, 11 Eng. Ch. 470.

31. Connecticut.— Sears v. Hotchkiss, 25 Conn. 171, 65 Am. Dec. 557.

Illinois.— Bradley v. Ballard, 55 Ill. 413, 8 Am. Rep. 656.

New Hampshire.— March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

New York.— Fisk v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 36 How. Pr. 20; Atty.-Gen. v. Utica Ins. Co., 2 Johns. Ch. 371.

Pennsylvania.— Manderson v. Commercial Bank, 28 Pa. St. 379.

England.— Gray v. Lewis, L. R. 8 Eq. 526; Atwool v. Merryweather, L. R. 5 Eq. 464 note, 37 L. J. Ch. 35; Munt v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 13 Beav. 1, 15 Jur. 26, 20 L. J. Ch. 169, 3 Eng. L. & Eq. 144; Cohen v. Wilkinson, 12 Beav. 125, 13 Jur. 641, 18 L. J. Ch. 378; Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114.

32. Manderson v. Commercial Bank, 28 Pa. St. 379; Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347; Bloxam v. Metropolitan R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 337; Hoole v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 262, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 153, 16 Wkly. Rep. 260; Gray v. Lewis, L. R. 8 Eq. 526; Clinch v. Financial Corp., L. R. 5 Eq. 450; Gregory v. Patchett, 33 Beav. 595; Logan v. Courtown, 13 Beav. 22, 20 L. J. Ch. 347; Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 13 Eng. L. & Eq. 506; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 106, 40 Eng. Ch. 550; Gray v. Chaplin, 3 L. J. Ch. O. S. 161, 2 Sim. & St. 267; Ware v. Grand Junction Water Works Co., 2 Russ. & M. 470, 11 Eng. Ch. 470. But see Hodges v. New England Screw Co., 1 R. I. 312, 53 Am. Dec. 624, 3 R. I. 9.

33. Such is the doctrine of many of the preceding cases. See also Pickering v. Stephenson, L. R. 14 Eq. 322, 41 L. J. Ch. 493, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 608, 20 Wkly. Rep. 654, directors of a foreign corporation restrained from applying its funds in the further payment of the costs of a prosecution for a libel.

Where an agreement between two corporations is not ultra vires as to the one, but is as to the other, only a shareholder in the latter can claim an injunction against its being carried into effect. Maunsell v. Midland Great Western R. Co., 1 Hem. & M. 130, 32 L. J. Ch. 513, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 347, 11 Wkly. Rep. 768.

Injunction not granted to restrain the payment of a week's extra wages to meritorious employees. Hampson v. Price's Patent Candle Co., 45 L. J. Ch. 437, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 711, 24 Wkly. Rep. 754.

Under the principle of the text injunctions have been granted where the corporation was created to manufacture pig-iron, and the directors undertook to employ its funds in erecting a corn and flour mill (Cherokee Iron Co. v. Jones, 52 Ga. 276); where the directors undertook to employ the funds of a corporation in paying another corporation engaged in the same business for ceasing to exercise its franchises, that is to say, in buying off a competing company (Leslie v. Lorillard, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 392); and where the directors of a railroad company had obtained permission from the legislature to extend their railroad beyond the terminus named in the original charter, and where the shareholders had accepted the act authorizing the extension by a majority vote, but against the dissent of plaintiff (Stevens v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 29 Vt. 545).

34. Alabama.— Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763; Bliss v. Anderson, 31 Ala. 612, 70 Am. Dec. 511.

California.— Wright v. Oroville Gold, etc., Min. Co., 40 Cal. 20; Neall v. Hill, 16 Cal. 145, 76 Am. Dec. 508.

Georgia.— Cherokee Iron Co. v. Jones, 52 Ga. 276; Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.

Illinois.— Marseilles Land, etc., Co. v. Aldrich, 86 Ill. 504.

Iowa.— Teachout v. Des Moines Broad-Gauge St. R. Co., 75 Iowa 722, 38 N. W. 145.

b. Reason of Rule. Briefly stated the reason of this rule is that each shareholder has the right to stand upon the contract of con-association and to say the joint funds shall not be applied to objects not therein agreed to or contemplated.[35]

c. And Without Requesting Directors to Sue Themselves. The rule previously stated,[36] which requires the shareholder before bringing such an action to request the directors to bring an action, in the name of the corporation, has no application here; because the very object of the action is to restrain the directors from doing a threatened, unlawful act, and it would be absurd to request them to bring an action to enjoin themselves from doing what they are threatening to do. They would necessarily be the substantial parties on both sides of the action. It would therefore not be an adversary proceeding, but would necessarily be collusive and a mockery of justice.[37]

5. Other Cases to Which Use of Writ of Injunction Extends. Without entering into impracticable details it may be said that the use of injunction at the suit of shareholders has been extended to restraining the trustees and directors of corporations from illegally voting in respect of certain shares whereon they claim the right to vote, when the effect of such vote will be to control the election of directors;[38] to restrain one corporation from voting in respect of shares which it holds in another corporation;[39] to restrain a forfeiture of the shares of a member for the non-payment of an assessment made by persons who were not duly elected to the office of directors, but who have usurped the functions of that office;[40] to enjoin usurping directors, pending a proceeding at law to oust them, from taking any course of action injurious to the corporation, but not in other cases, there

Kentucky.— Botts v. Simpsonville, etc., Turnpike Co., 88 Ky. 54, 10 S. W. 134, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 669, 2 L. R. A. 594; Shaw v. Campbell Turnpike Road Co., 15 S. W. 245, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 799.

Maryland.—Du Puy v. Transportation, etc., Co., 82 Md. 408, 33 Atl. 889, 34 Atl. 910, although owning but a single share.

Minnesota.— Small v. Minneapolis Electro Matrix Co., 45 Minn. 264, 47 N. W. 797.

Missouri.— Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206.

Nebraska.— Wilcox v. Bickel, 11 Nebr. 154, 8 N. W. 436.

New Hampshire.— March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

New Jersey.— Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; Zabriskie v. Hackensack, etc., R. Co., 18 N. J. Eq. 178, 90 Am. Dec. 617; Gifford v. New Jersey R., etc., Co., 10 N. J. Eq. 171; Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401.

New York.— Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 52 Hun 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409 [reversed on other points in 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 25 Abb. N. Cas. 410, 9 L. R. A. 527]; Leslie v. Lorillard, 40 Hun 392; Colles v. Trow City Directory Co., 11 Hun 397; Copeland v. Citizens' Gas Light Co., 61 Barb. 60; Christopher v. New York, 13 Barb. 567; Young v. Rondout, etc., Gas Light Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 443, 39 N. Y. St. 602. Compare Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. 637.

Vermont.— Stevens v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 29 Vt. 545.

Virginia.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. 40.

United States.— Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. 381, 16 L. ed. 488; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Thomas, 18 How. 384, 15 L. ed. 460; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Deholt, 18 How. 380, 15 L. ed. 458; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. 331, 15 L. ed. 401; Du Pont v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. 467, 21 Blatchf. 534.

35. Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331, 15 L. ed. 401. For similar statements of the doctrine see Wright v. Oroville Gold, etc., Min. Co., 40 Cal. 20; Wilcox v. Bickel, 11 Nebr. 154, 8 N. W. 436; March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

36. See supra, XI, B, 19, a et seq.

37. Davis v. Gemmel, 70 Md. 356, 17 Atl. 259. In actions of the kind now under consideration, there is scarcely a trace of the idea that the complaining shareholder must first request the directors to sue; and some of the courts, in stating the rule discussed in previous sections, which requires the shareholder first to request the directors to sue, are careful to state that it applies where the object of the suit is to restrain their action in a matter not ultra vires. See for instance Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763. But it may be doubted whether there is any foundation for such a distinction.

38. Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763.

39. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Woods, 88 Ala. 630, 7 So. 108, 16 Am. St. Rep. 81, 7 L. R. A. 605 [overruled it seems in the later decision of American Refrigerating, etc., Co. v. Linn, 93 Ala. 610, 7 So. 191].

40. Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763; Garden Gully United Quartz Min. Co. v. McLister, 1 App. Cas. 39, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 408, 24 Wkly. Rep. 744. Compare Nathan v. Tompkins, 82 Ala. 437, 2 So. 747.

being an adequate remedy at law;[41] to enjoin unlawful and ultra vires consolidations with other corporations;[42] to enjoin the directors of a turnpike company which has no authority to consolidate with or to purchase other roads, from purchasing a new road, and paying therefor in the stock of the company, which has no market value, if the effect would be to lessen dividends;[43] to enjoin the transaction of business before due incorporation, by one of the incorporators using the corporate name, since this would make the shareholders liable as partners;[44] to enjoin the enforcement of judgments rendered against the corporation where a statutory winding-up proceeding has been commenced, and where the judgments have been recovered under such circumstances that they would create liens and priorities which would result in a fraudulent diversion of the corporate property from its general creditors;[45] to enjoin the consummation of the lease whereby the entire business of the corporation is transferred to another corporation for a term of years;[46] to enjoin the use of the funds of the corporation in purchasing the shares of another corporation;[47] to enjoin the use of the funds of the corporation in paying a tax illegally levied upon its property, in which case the proper taxing officer of the state may be joined as a defendant;[48] to restrain the corporation from applying for a license and paying the tax or fee imposed by act of congress for conducting the business for which the license is granted;[49] and to enjoin a voluntary dissolution and winding-up which has been agreed upon by the majority of the shareholders, for the purpose of entering upon a scheme of reorganization, provided such scheme gives to the dissenting minority the option of withdrawing their several interests in the old corporation, or of taking a proportionate number of shares in the new one.[50]

6. Circumstances Under Which Such Injunctions Denied. As already seen[51] injunctions are not granted by courts of equity to determine the policy or to manage the business of corporations, but the principle that the majority must rule is adhered to in corporate as well as in political government, under American systems, in the absence of fraud, oppression, or ultra vires acts.[52] In pursuance of this view a fundamental change in a charter granted by the legislature, empowering the corporation to engage in a new enterprise, will not be enjoined where sanctioned by a vote of the majority of the shareholders,[53] or, according to the

41. Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613, 4 So. 763. That a court of equity will decide whether persons assuming to perform functions of a corporate office have a right so to act, for the purposes of a suit before the court only, see Johnston v. Jones, 23 N. J. Eq. 216. As in a case where a new board is elected with a view of effecting a consolidation with another corporation, and a bill is filed by a shareholder to enjoin them from so doing. Nathan v. Tompkins, 82 Ala. 437, 2 So. 747.

42. Nathan v. Tompkins, 82 Ala. 437, 2 So. 747; Botts v. Simpsonville, etc., Turnpike Co., 88 Ky. 54, 10 S. W. 134, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 669, 2 L. R. A. 594; Shaw v. Campbell Turnpike Road Co., 15 S. W. 245, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 799; Young v. Rondout, etc., Gas Light Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 443, 39 N. Y. St. 602; Maclaury v. Hart, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 125, 32 N. Y. St. 1137 (consolidation of two religious corporations); Mills v. Hurd, 29 Fed. 410.

43. Shaw v. Campbell Turnpike Road Co., 15 S. W. 245, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 799.

44. Ricker v. Larkin, 27 Ill. App. 625.

45. Harding v. Fiske, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 139, 25 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 348.

46. Small v. Minneapolis Electro Matrix Co., 45 Minn. 264, 47 N. W. 797. So where the directors undertook to lease the property of the corporation, it being a gas company, to another such corporation, for a term of years, with a privilege of renewal, without the unanimous consent of the shareholders. Copeland v. Citizens' Gas Light Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 60.

47. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.

48. Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Thomas, 18 How. (U. S.) 384, 15 L. ed. 460; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Debolt, 18 How. (U. S.) 380, 15 L. ed. 458; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331, 15 L. ed. 401.

49. Corbus v. Alaska Treadwell Gold-Min. Co., 99 Fed. 334.

50. Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490.

51. See supra, XI, B, 11.

52. Kentucky.— Dudley v. Kentucky High School, 9 Bush 576.

Massachusetts.— Converse v. Hood, 149 Mass. 471, 21 N. E. 878, 4 L. R. A. 521.

New Jersey.— Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 241; Gifford v. New Jersey R., etc., Co., 10 N. J. Eq. 171.

New York.— Bach v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 12 Abb. Pr. N. S. 373.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Jarret, 7 Serg. & R. 460.

53. Durfee v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 doctrine of another court, where the change is of such an essential character as results in transferring the whole property to another corporation, will an injunction go to prevent it, if the corporation will indemnify the dissenting shareholder against loss.[54] Mere irregularity in the exercise of corporate power will not afford ground for such relief;[55] nor will such relief be granted at the suit of a complaining shareholder unless it be made to appear that the threatened injury will be of a substantial character.[56]

D. When Such Remedies Extend to Winding-Up and When Not — 1. General Rule That Equity Has No Jurisdiction to Dissolve Corporation and That Shareholder Cannot Maintain Bill in Equity to Wind Up Corporation — a. Rule Stated. In absence of statutes enlarging its powers the general rule is that a court possessed of chancery powers merely has no jurisdiction, either at the suit of the state through its attorney-general, or at the suit of a shareholder or other private person, to dissolve a corporation and decree its winding-up, for the misuser or non-user of its franchises, or for other cause; but that the only proceeding which can be taken to that end is a proceeding by the state, on information in the nature of quo warranto, in a court of common-law jurisdiction.[57] The rule is of ancient derivation, and as applied to modern business corporations is destitute of reason, and has been substantially abolished in England, and in the United States greatly impinged upon by the statute law.[58] Subject to exceptions here and there considered, the general rule, in the absence of statutory authorization, is that a shareholder as such cannot maintain an action in equity to wind up the company, take an account of debts and assets, apply its property to the payment of its liabilities, divide the surplus among the shareholders,[59] and for

Allen (Mass.) 230. But compare New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 27 Miss. 517.

54. Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685.

55. Dudley v. Kentucky High-school, 9 Bush (Ky.) 576.

56. Albers v. St. Louis Merchants' Exch., 45 Mo. App. 206. That an injunction will not be granted and a receiver appointed at the suit of a single shareholder see People v. Erie R. Co., 36 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 129.

Other instances of injunctions denied.— Dudley v. Kentucky High-school, 9 Bush (Ky.) 576; Johnson v. Cottingham Ironing Mach. Co., 8 Mo. App. 575 (to enjoin a sale of corporate property under a deed of trust); Small v. Minneapolis Electro-Matrix Co., 57 Hun (N. Y.) 587, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 456, 32 N. Y. St. 887 (to restrain them from transferring the assets, business, etc., to another corporation); Woodruff v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 30 Fed. 91 (to restrain the officers from voting at a corporate meeting in another state).

Circumstances where preliminary injunctions have been granted.— Raleigh v. Fitzpatrick, 43 N. J. Eq. 501, 11 Atl. 1; Young v. Rondout, etc., Gas Light Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 443, 39 N. Y. St. 443.

Instances where preliminary injunctions have been denied.— Benedict v. Columbus Constr. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 23, 23 Atl. 485 (to restrain a continuation of business); Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 32 Fed. 350 (to restrain the preferred shareholders from voting, etc.).

57. Atty.-Gen. v. Chenango Bank, Hopk. (N. Y.) 596 (where the chancellor expressly pointed out that the power which he was exercising was a new power conferred by the legislature); Atty.-Gen. v. Niagara Bank, Hopk. (N. Y.) 354; Atty.-Gen. v. Utica Ins. Co., 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 371 (where the subject was considered at length by Chancellor Kent); Verplanck v. Mercantile Ins. Co., 1 Edw. (N. Y.) 84 (where the bill was brought by a shareholder and an injunction was denied); S. C. on preliminary application, 2 Paige (N. Y.) 438.

58. This has been pointed out by different judges in the following cases: Pratt v. Pratt, 33 Conn. 446, 456 (by Hinman, C. J.); Fougeray v. Cord, 50 N. J. Eq. 185, 24 Atl. 499 (approving the other cases here cited); Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212 (by Chancellor Walworth).

59. Alabama.— Anderson v. Buckley, 126 Ala. 623, 28 So. 729, appointment of receiver refused on application of shareholders under special circumstances.

Illinois.— Baker v. Backus, 32 Ill. 79.

Kentucky.— Oldham v. Mt. Sterling Imp. Co., 103 Ky. 529, 45 S. W. 779, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 207.

Massachusetts.— Folger v. Columbian Ins. Co., 99 Mass. 274, 96 Am. Dec. 747; Com. v. Union F. & M. Ins. Co., 5 Mass. 230, 4 Am. Dec. 50.

New York.— Denike v. New York, etc., Lime, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599; Wilmersdoerffer v. Lake Mahopac Imp. Co., 18 Hun 387; Gilman v. Green Point Sugar Co., 4 Lans. 482; Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. 637; Latimer v. Eddy, 46 Barb. 61; Howe v. Deuel, 43 Barb. 504; Galwey v. U. S. Steam Sugar Refining Co., 36 Barb. 256, 13 Abb. Pr. 211; Ramsey v. Erie R. Co., 7 Abb. Pr. N. S. 156, 181; Peo-other incidental relief, such as canceling outstanding bonds issued contrary to law.[60]

b. Statutory Exceptions to This Rule. Statutory exceptions to this rule exist in New York and in other states.[61]

2. Appointing Receiver to Wind Up — a. In General. To say that a court of equity will not ordinarily interfere to dissolve a corporation and to wind it up is tantamount to saying that it will not ordinarily appoint a receiver to take possession of the assets of the corporation and distribute them, because this would be tantamount to dissolving it by a decree in equity.[62] While this principle may not have full application to a mere business company, not exercising franchises of a public nature,[63] such as a manufacturing corporation,[64] a so-called land company,[65] or even a national bank,[66] yet it seems to have full applicaple v. Erie R. Co., 36 How. Pr. 129; Verplanck v. Mercantile Ins. Co., 1 Edw. 84.

Ohio.— North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co. v. Rehn, 8 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 594, 6 Ohio N. P. 185; Goebel v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 2 Ohio S. & C. Pl. 377, 7 Ohio N. P. 230 (shareholder cannot ask for a receiver of a corporation on allegations of mismanagement of the board of directors).

Pennsylvania.— Thoma v. East End Opera House Co., 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. 230.

Tennessee.— State v. Merchants' Ins., etc., Co., 8 Humphr. 235.

Wisconsin.— Hinckley v. Pfister, 83 Wis. 64, 53 N. W. 21; Strong v. McCagg, 55 Wis. 624, 13 N. W. 895.

60. Hinckley v. Pfister, 83 Wis. 64, 53 N. W. 21. Compare Benedict v. Columbus Constr. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 23, 36, 23 Atl. 485.

61. 2 N. Y. Rev. Stat. 463, 464. See the statute set out and commented on in Verplanck v. Mercantile Ins. Co., 1 Edw. (N. Y.) 84. In Hitch v. Hawley, 132 N. Y. 212, there is, in the opinion of the court by Vann, J., an instructive history of the legislation of New York with reference to this subject.

Provisions of the New York Code of Civil Procedure on the subject of dissolving corporations in equity. Hitch v. Hawley, 132 N. Y. 212, 30 N. E. 401, 43 N. Y. St. 625 [affirming 8 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 322, 28 N. Y. St. 416]. Dissolving an incorporated merchants' exchange under the provisions of the New York Code of Civil Procedure. Hitch v. Hawley, 132 N. Y. 212, 30 N. E. 401, 43 N. Y. St. 625.

Provisions and construction of the statute of New Jersey, empowering the chancellor to wind up insolvent corporations on the application of a creditor or a shareholder. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Consolidated Electric Storage Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 402, 23 Atl. 934; New Foundland R. Constr. Co. v. Schack, 40 N. J. Eq. 222, 1 Atl. 23; Rawnsley v. Trenton Mut. L. Ins. Co., 9 N. J. Eq. 95; Brundred v. Paterson Mach. Co., 4 N. J. Eq. 294; Parsons v. Monroe Mfg. Co., 4 N. J. Eq. 187; Oakley v. Paterson Bank, 2 N. J. Eq. 173. That equity will interfere only where the object of the formation of the corporation is plainly impossible of attainment see Benedict v. Columbus Constr. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 23, 23 Atl. 485. General allegations of insolvency not sufficient under New Jersey statute, but the facts and circumstances showing insolvency must be set out. New Foundland R. Constr. Co. v. Shack, 40 N. J. Eq. 222, 1 Atl. 23; Rawnsley v. Trenton Mut. L. Ins. Co., 9 N. J. Eq. 95; Brundred v. Paterson Mach. Co., 4 N. J. Eq. 294; Parsons v. Monroe Mfg. Co., 4 N. J. Eq. 187.

Where a suit for the winding-up of a corporation is instituted by a shareholder under a state statute in a federal court, it is to be regarded as adversary and not voluntary as to the corporation, for the purposes of federal jurisdiction, and this conclusion is not affected by the fact that the corporation offers little or no resistance to the proceedings. Huntington v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 98 Fed. 459. Necessary for the shareholder in such a suit to show that he was the owner of the shares when the acts complained of occurred, not sufficient for him to show that he was the owner of them when the suit was brought. Robinson v. West Virginia Loan Co., 90 Fed. 770.

Circumstances under which a hotel company will be dissolved and wound up. O'Connor v. Knoxville Hotel Co., 93 Tenn. 708, 28 S. W. 308.

62. Brown v. Home Sav. Bank, 5 Mo. App. 1.

63. See supra, I, D.

64. Abbott v. American Hard Rubber Co., 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 578.

65. Fougeray v. Cord, 50 N. J. Eq. 185, 24 Atl. 499.

66. Elwood v. Greenleaf First Nat. Bank, 41 Kan. 475, 21 Pac. 673, untenable decision that a state court can appoint a receiver on the petition of a shareholder to wind up a national bank which is insolvent, and in a process of voluntary liquidation. See also Robinson v. Dolores No. 2 Land, etc., Co., 2 Colo. App. 17, 29 Pac. 750, holding that a single shareholder may maintain an action for the appointment of a receiver. That a receiver may be appointed upon the petition of a minority of the shareholders where the majority have combined with the directors to mismanage the affairs of the company for their own benefit and to freeze out the minority see Hall v. Astoria, etc., Lumber Co., 5 R. & Corp. L. J. 412. That any of the petitioners for the dissolution of a corporation tion to corporations exercising franchises of a public nature, such as a railroad company.[67]

b. Receiver Not Appointed Because of Mere Dissatisfaction With Respect to Corporate Management. On a principle already considered[68] a receiver will not be appointed on the petition of a shareholder, even where the jurisdiction exists, merely because the minority are dissatisfied with the management of the majority, in the absence of fraud or of insolvency.[69]

c. Appointment of Receiver in Case Where Corporation Had Been Dissolved. It seems that where a corporation has been dissolved in a proceeding by quo warranto, the court cannot go forward, in the absence of a statutory authorization, and appoint a receiver on motion of the state's attorney, but that a court of equity would have the power to make such an appointment to administer the assets, upon the application of a creditor or shareholder.[70]

d. Right of Minority Shareholder Upon Dissolution to Have Corporate Property Sold and Distributed. It seems that the general rule with regard to partnerships applies[71] in the case of corporations, which is that upon a dissolution a dissenting shareholder cannot be forced into a reorganization or compelled to accept a calculated or theoretical valuation of his shares, but is entitled to have the property sold and converted into money and to have his distributive share of that money.[72]

E. Further as to Form of Relief — 1. Relief Molded to Reach Justice of Case — a. In General. In this as in other cases a court of equity, when it has the proper parties before it, will mold its decree according to the justice of the particular case, and will not turn the complainant out of court because he may have prayed for a different species of relief from that to which he is really entitled.[73]

b. Preventive Relief, Accounting, Following Corporate Property Into Hands of Third Parties. It has been observed, speaking of this subject: "The relief awarded is often of a preventive character, and, in many cases, the officers have been required to account for a breach of the trust reposed in them, and for the misapplication of the funds and property of the company. If other parties have participated with the officers in such proceedings, they may be joined as defendants, and held to their just responsibility; and property of the company may be followed into their hands."[74] Another court has well stated the principles on which relief may be varied in the following language: "It is often necessary, in order that the plaintiff may obtain full justice, that the relief granted him be as may withdraw, where the court finds that the petitioners did not own the requisite amount of stock to entitle them to maintain the proceeding, but that upon such withdrawal the court cannot allow another to be substituted in his stead, see Herancourt Brewing Co. v. Armstrong, 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 468. As to the power of the circuit court to appoint a receiver under the South Carolina act of 1869, relating to insolvent banks, see Donaldson v. Johnson, 3 S. C. 216. State of evidence sufficient to warrant an injunction against voting upon certain shares of stock and the appointment of a receiver. Ayer v. Seymour, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 249, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 650.

67. Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 637. Compare Wayne Pike Co. v. Hammons, 129 Ind. 368, 27 N. E. 487, where a receiver was appointed because those owning a majority of the shares had allowed its road to get out of repair, but where the court held that so much of the decree as ordered a sale of its property was erroneous.

68. See supra, XI, B, 11.

69. Fluker v. Emporia City R. Co., 48 Kan. 577, 30 Pac. 18. Compare Wanneker v. Hitchcock, 38 Fed. 383, where a petition for a receiver of certain shares of stock was denied on the same ground.

70. Havemeyer v. San Francisco Super. Ct., 84 Cal. 327, 24 Pac. 121, 18 Am. St. Rep. 192, 10 L. R. A. 627.

71. As to this rule see Dickson v. Dickinson, 29 Conn. 600; Sigourney v. Munn, 7 Conn. 11; Godfrey v. White, 43 Mich. 171, 5 N. W. 243; Briges v. Sperry, 95 U. S. 401, 24 L. ed. 390; Rowlands v. Evans, 30 Beav. 302; Wild v. Milne, 26 Beav. 504; Hale v. Hale, 4 Beav. 369; Burdon v. Barkus, 4 De G. F. & J. 42, 8 Jur. N. S. 656, 65 Eng. Ch. 42; Featherstonhaugh v. Fenwick, 17 Ves. Jr. 298, 11 Rev. Rep. 77; Crawshay v. Collins, 15 Ves. Jr. 218, 10 Rev. Rep. 61.

72. Mason v. Pewabic Min. Co., 133 U. S. 50, 10 S. Ct. 224, 33 L. ed. 524.

73. Pomeroy v. Benton, 77 Mo. 64.

74. Black, J., in Slattery v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 91 Mo. 217, 225, 4 S. W. 79, 60 Am. Rep. 245 [citing Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen (Mass.) 52; Russell v. Wakefield Waterworks Co., L. R. 20 Eq. 474, 44 L. J. Ch. 496, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 685, 23 Wkly. Rep. 887].

varied and diversified as the means that have been employed by the defendant to produce the grievance complained of. If a trustee is shown to have been unfaithful, the court may not only compel restitution, but may also restrain him by injunction from similar acts, or, if deemed necessary, may remove him from his trust. If he has called to his aid other confederates, they also may be enjoined from further participation in the acts which infringe upon the rights of the plaintiff. A court of equity will always find the means of enforcing its decrees against a delinquent defendant, and its power in this respect is as extensive as the exigencies of the case."[75]

2. ENJOINING DIRECTORS AND APPOINTING RECEIVER. If the relief takes the drastic form of enjoining the directors from the further exercise of the duties of their office the court will necessarily appoint a receiver to take charge of the assets and administer them as a trust fund, for the creditors first and for the shareholders afterward, under principles hereafter stated.[76] But as courts of equity have in general no jurisdiction to decree the dissolution of corporations, and as the removal of directors and the appointment of a receiver would be tantamount to a dissolution, it may be concluded that where one or more shareholders bring an action in equity to prevent or redress frauds and breaches of trusts in the management of the corporation, the relief which the court will grant will seldom take the radical form of enjoining the directors from the further exercise of the functions of their offices, because this would be tantamount to decreeing a dissolution of the corporation.[77]

3. RELIEF DOES NOT ORDINARILY EXTEND TO REMOVAL FROM CORPORATE OFFICE. The amotion of corporate officers was never a branch of equity jurisdiction. The power over ordinary trusts does not exist to the same extent, in the case of the directors of corporations, unless given by statute. No such power was ever asserted or claimed by the English court of chancery.[78] Generally speaking equity has no superintendence over the officers of corporations except to restrain them and to hold them answerable in cases of fraud and breaches of trust and to compel them to account as trustees.[79] It has no power to award an injunction indefinitely suspending an officer of a corporation from the exercise of his functions.[80]

75. Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 32, 28 Pac. 788, opinion by Harrison, J.

76. It has been seemingly well held that if the directors of an insolvent corporation fail to perform their duty of protecting its creditors and applying for a dissolution, a shareholder is entitled to bring an action for the preservation and distribution of its assets; and a receiver if necessary may properly be appointed, although a dissolution of the corporation is not sought. Porter v. Industrial Information Co., 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 262, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 328.

77. Tutwiler v. Tuskaloosa Coal, etc., Co., 89 Ala. 391, 7 So. 398; Burham v. San Francisco Fuse Mfg. Co., 76 Cal. 24, 17 Pac. 940 (injunction against directors, before the coming in of the answer, refused); O'Neil v. Progressive Endowment League (circuit court, Baltimore, Md., not reported).

78. Robertson v. Bullions, 11 N. Y. 243. See also Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 637; Latimer v. Eddy, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 61; Howe v. Deuel, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 504; Ramsey v. Erie R. Co., 7 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 156, 38 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 193; Atty.-Gen. v. Clarendon, 17 Ves. Jr. 491 (where it was said by the master of the rolls that the court of chancery "has not jurisdiction with regard either to the election or amotion of corporations of any description"). The doctrine of some of the earlier New York chancery cases, admitting the power of equity to remove or suspend corporate directors or trustees (Lawyer v. Cipperly, 7 Paige (N. Y.) 281; Bowden v. McLeod, 1 Edw. (N. Y.) 588; Kniskern v. St. John's, etc., Lutheran Churches, 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 439) was denied by the court of appeals of that state at a later period. Roberson v. Bullions, 11 N. Y. 243. The observation of Harrison, J., in Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 32, 28 Pac. 788, that the court may in such a case if deemed necessary remove the director from his trust was a dictum merely, as the case arose on a demurrer, and the prayer for relief is no demurrable part of a pleading. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the more than doubtful proposition was advanced in Ramsey v. Gould, 57 Barb. (N. Y.) 398 that an action may be maintained by a creditor or shareholder of a railroad corporation against its officers, and that the relief may extend so far as their suspension and removal from office. Davis v. Hofer, 38 Oreg. 150, 63 Pac. 56.

79. See Neale v. Hill, 16 Cal. 145, 76 Am. Dec. 508.

80. Griffin v. St. Louis Vine, etc., Growers

4. Compelling Directors to Account. This is one of the usual forms of relief, under appropriate conditions of fact, in shareholders' suits.[81] This relief has frequently been accorded to a single shareholder who has been wrongfully excluded from his share of the profits of the corporation.[82]

5. Compelling Restoration to Shareholders of What They Have Lost. Where the action proceeds in right of the individual shareholders who bring it, the relief will often take the form of restoring to them what they have lost,[83] as for example their several holdings of shares in the corporation.[84]

6. Other Forms of Relief. Under appropriate conditions of fact relief may be had in the form of canceling a deed as a cloud upon the title of the corporation, where the deed was made by all the directors, although not convened and sitting as a board, but not where it was made by the sole owner of the shares in the corporation, for then it was fraud on its face;[85] of compelling third persons to specifically perform an agreement with the corporation, joining the corporation as defendant;[86] and of restoring to a representative of the corporation, generally a receiver appointed by the court, what the corporation has lost by the misconduct of its unfaithful directors.[87]

Assoc., 4 Mo. App. 595. To the same effect see Mickles v. Rochester City Bank, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 118, 42 Am. Dec. 103 note; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790; Atty.-Gen. v. Clarendon, 17 Ves. Jr. 491; Atty.-Gen. v. Dixie, 13 Ves. Jr. 519. See further as to the jurisdiction in New York People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 57 N. Y. 161; Staten Island North Baptist Church v. Parker, 36 Barb. (N. Y.) 171; Hartt v. Harvey, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 55, 10 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 321, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 245; Mickles v. Rochester City Bank, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 118, 42 Am. Dec. 103 note. And see Paynter v. Clegg, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 480, 30 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 432.

81. Schoening v. Schwenck, 112 Iowa 733, 84 N. W. 916; Davis v. Hofer, 38 Oreg. 150, 63 Pac. 56; Weir v. Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 940; Adley v. Whitstable Co., 17 Ves. Jr. 315, 11 Rev. Rep. 87.

For a bill to compel the managing officers of an unincorporated club to account, and the rulings thereon of Lord Romilly, M. R., see Richardson v. Hastings, 7 Beav. 323, 301, 8 Jur. 207, 72, 13 L. J. Ch. 142, 129, 29 Eng. Ch. 323, 301, 11 Beav. 17, 16 L. J. Ch. 322.

What will not defeat bill.—A bill in equity to compel the officers of a corporation to render an account to its shareholders will not be defeated by the remedy which would be afforded by a writ of mandamus to compel the production of the books, since the shareholders are entitled in addition to the information which the officers can supply. Weir v. Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 940.

82. Adley v. Whitstable Co., 17 Ves. Jr. 315, 11 Rev. Rep. 87. In one case the remedy went so far as to displace the unfaithful directors, appoint a receiver, direct the remaining property of the corporation to be sold, and the complainant's share of the profits to be set apart to him. Fougeray v. Cord, 50 N. J. Eq. 135, 24 Atl. 499. Compare Wolf v. Underwood, 96 Ala. 329, 11 So. 344, where a prayer for the distribution of earnings among shareholders was denied. Such an accounting has been decreed in a shareholder's suit where the directors, by their answer, admitted that they had secured all moneys collected on account of the corporation, did not deny that they had received the amount alleged in the complaint, and did not plead a stated account in bar, or tender the issue of nothing in arrear. Davis v. Hofer, 38 Oreg. 150, 63 Pac. 56.

For other cases where accountings against directors were decreed see Whitman v. Holmes Pub. Co., 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 47, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 167; Spaulding v. North Milwaukee Town Site Co., 106 Wis. 481, 81 N. W. 1064 (judgment rendered only for ten per cent of the profits, all of the shareholders except ten per cent of them having settled and accepted satisfaction); Pendery v. Carleton, 87 Fed. 41, 30 C. C. A. 510; Earle v. Burland, 27 Ont. App. 540 (in a suit by minority shareholders, court ordered a distribution among the shareholders, as undrawn profits, of the reserved fund except a reasonable sum for carrying on the business). Right of a tontine policy-holder to an account. Pierce v. Equitable L. Assur. Soc., 145 Mass. 56, 12 N. E. 858, 1 Am. St. Rep. 433. That equity will entertain a bill for an accounting, although there may be a remedy at law, where the legal remedy is doubtful or inadequate, see Ludlow v. Simond, 2 Cai. Cas. (N. Y.) 1, 2 Am. Dec. 291 note, a case of high authority. Compare Smiley v. Bell, Mart. & Y. (Tenn.) 378, 17 Am. Dec. 813, where it is held that the jurisdiction of equity depends upon whether the accounts are mutual and complicated. To the same effect see Lesley v. Rosson, 39 Miss. 368, 77 Am. Dec. 679.

83. Bulkley v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 7 Mo. App. 589.

84. Grant v. Green, 46 Ill. 469.

85. Baldwin v. Canfield, 26 Minn. 43, 1 N. W. 261.

86. Woodroof v. Howes, 88 Cal. 184, 26 Pac. 111.

87. Thompson v. Stanley, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 317.

F. Parties to Such Actions — 1. Parties Plaintiff — a. When Single Shareholder May Sue — (I) To Prevent Doing of Ultra Vires or Illegal Act Injurious to Plaintiff. A single shareholder is at liberty to bring a preventive action in equity, where the directors and managing officers of the corporation are threatening to do an ultra vires act injurious to his rights as a shareholder.[88]

(II) Where Right Sought to Be Vindicated Is Personal to Particular Shareholder. Then of course he must sue alone unless the other shareholders have a common interest with him.[89]

(III) Where Action Is Against Promoter For Fraud and Deceit. Subscribers to the shares of a proposed corporation are not necessary or proper parties to an action by another subscriber against a promoter of the corporation for fraudulently cheating plaintiff and other subscribers out of the money subscribed and paid to him as promoter.[90]

b. When Not Necessary to Join All Shareholders by Name — (I) Where Shareholders Are Numerous and Widely Scattered. Where the shareholders are numerous and scattered so as to render it impossible or very inconvenient to join them all by name as parties plaintiff, a number of them may file a bill in behalf of themselves and all the others standing in the same situation with them; but those who are not joined by name will be allowed to intervene and to join by name upon undertaking to share with the others in the expenses of the litigation, and the decree will be binding upon all, including those who did not join.[91]

(II) Where Majority Are in Fraudulent Conspiracy Against Rights of Minority. It will frequently happen that a majority of the shareholders are in the fraudulent conspiracy against the rights of the minority. Here the minority, or one of the minority, suing for himself and the other in like situation with him, may file the bill.[92] Where the bill is thus filed it is not necessary that the shareholders should be made parties by name,[93] nor, under the same circum-

88. Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331, 15 L. ed. 401 (bill to enjoin the directors from paying an illegal tax); Hoole v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 262, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 153, 16 Wkly. Rep. 260. Compare Wood v. Draper, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 187; Hawes v. Contra Costa Water Co., 104 U. S. 450, 26 L. ed. 827.

89. Pierce v. Equitable L. Assur. Soc., 145 Mass. 56, 12 N. E. 858, 1 Am. St. Rep. 433.

90. Jones v. Caldwell, 116 Ala. 364, 22 So 456.

91. Wallworth v. Holt, 4 Myl. & C. 619, 18 Eng. Ch. 619. See also Jones v. Johnson, 10 Bush (Ky.) 649; Mann v. Butler, 2 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 362; West v. Randall, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,424, 2 Mason 181; Smart v. Bradstock, 7 Beav. 500, 29 Eng. Ch. 500; Richardson v. Hastings, 7 Beav. 323, 8 Jur. 207, 13 L. J. Ch. 142, 29 Eng. Ch. 323; Harvey v. Harvey, 4 Beav. 215; Silber Light Co. v. Silber, 12 Ch. D. 717, 48 L. J. Ch. 385, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 27 Wkly. Rep. 427; Bromley v. Smith, 5 L. J. Ch. O. S. 53, 1 Sim. 8, 2 Eng. Ch. 8; Manning v. Thesiger, 1 L. J. Ch. O. S. 28, 1 Sim. & St. 106, 1 Eng. Ch. 106; Shuttleworth v. Howarth, 4 Myl. & C. 492, 18 Eng. Ch. 492. Mare v. Malachy, 1 Myl. & C. 559, 13 Eng. Ch. 559; Hichens v. Congreve, 4 Russ. 562, 4 Eng. Ch. 562; Cockburn v. Thompson, 16 Ves. Jr. 321; Adair v. New River Co., 11 Ves. Jr. 429. But see Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212; Lund v. Blanshard, 4 Hare 9, 30 Eng. Ch. 9; Richardson v. Larsent, 7 Jur. 691, 2 Y. & Coll. Ch. 507, 21 Eng. Ch. 507; Evans v. Stokes, 1 Keen 24, 15 Eng. Ch. 24; Deeks v. Stanhope, 14 Sim. 57, 37 Eng. Ch. 57; Long v. Yonge, 2 Sim. 369, 2 Eng. Ch. 369.

92. Wood v. Draper, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 187; Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347; Samuel v. Holladay, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,288, 1 Woolw. 400, 1 McCahon (Kan.) 214; Menier v. Hooper's Tel. Works, L. R. 9 Ch. 350, 43 L. J. Ch. 330, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 209, 22 Wkly. Rep. 396; Bloxam v. Metropolitan R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 337; Salomons v. Laing, 12 Beav. 339, 14 Jur. 471, 19 L. J. Ch. 225, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 289; Macbride v. Lindsay, 9 Hare 574, 16 Jur. 535, 41 Eng. Ch. 574; Preston v. Guyon, 5 Jur. 146, 10 L. J. Ch. 73, 11 Sim. 327, 34 Eng. Ch. 327; Hichens v. Congreve, 4 Russ. 562, 4 Eng. Ch. 562; Baldwin v. Lawrence, 2 Sim. & St. 18, 1 Eng. Ch. 18. See also Bromley v. Smith, 5 L. J. Ch. O. S. 53, 1 Sim. 8, 2 Eng. Ch. 8; Douglas v. Horsfall, 2 Sim. & St. 184, 1 Eng. Ch. 184.

93. Dennis v. Kennedy, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 517; Wallworth v. Holt, 4 Myl. & C. 619, 18 Eng. Ch. 619; Taylor v. Salmon, 4 Myl. & C. 134, 18 Eng. Ch. 134; Hichens v. Congreve, 4 Russ. 562, 4 Eng. Ch. 562; Cockburn v. Thompson, 16 Ves. Jr. 321.

stances, is it an objection that some of the shareholders have become adversely interested to those filing the bill.[94]

(III) But Plaintiff Must Join by Name Other Shareholders Having Common Interest With Him, or Else Sue Professedly For Them. While as already seen[95] the right of the shareholder to maintain the action cannot in many cases be made to depend upon the concurrence of the other shareholders with him, since all the others may be joined in the unlawful conspiracy which he seeks to redress, yet according to the prevailing theory it is indispensable either that those having a common interest with him should be joined as plaintiffs in his bill, or else that without naming them he should bring his bill professedly in his own behalf and in behalf of all other shareholders similarly interested with himself. In the English chancery practice this rule has been regarded as imperative. This was the course adopted in Natusch v. Irving,[96] and nearly all the English authorities are to this effect,[97] and the American authorities generally concur.[98]

94. Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513; Clements v. Bowers, 1 Drew. 684.

95. See supra, XI, C, 3.

96. Reported in Gow Partn. App. No. VI (3d ed.) p. 398.

97. Gray v. Lewis, L. R. 8 Eq. 526; Atwool v. Merryweather, L. R. 5 Eq. 464 note, 37 L. J. Ch. 35; Clinch v. Financial Corp., L. R. 5 Eq. 450; Stevens v. South Devon R. Co., 13 Beav. 48, 9 Hare 313, 15 Jur. 235, 41 Eng. Ch. 313; Browne v. Monmouthshire R., etc., Co., 13 Beav. 32, 15 Jur. 475, 20 L. J. Ch. 497; Logan v. Courtown, 13 Beav. 22, 20 L. J. Ch. 347; Munt v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 13 Beav. 1, 15 Jur. 26, 20 L. J. Ch. 169, 3 Eng. L. & Eq. 144; Dumvile v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 12 Beav. 444; Salomons v. Laing, 12 Beav. 339, 14 Jur. 471, 19 L. J. Ch. 225, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 289; Cohen v. Wilkinson, 12 Beav. 125, 13 Jur. 641, 18 L. J. Ch. 378, 1 Hall & T. 554, 14 Jur. 535, 1 Macn. & G. 481, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 758, 47 Eng. Ch. 384; Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 13 Eng. L. & Eq. 506; Graham v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 450, 14 Jur. 494, 20 L. J. Ch. 445, 2 Macn. & G. 146, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 132, 48 Eng. Ch. 114; Macbride v. Lindsay, 9 Hare 574, 16 Jur. 535, 41 Eng. Ch. 574; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114 [affirmed in 2 Hall & T. 201, 14 Jur. 491, 19 L. J. Ch. 410, 2 Macn. & G. 389, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 169, 48 Eng. Ch. 300]; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 106, 40 Eng. Ch. 550; Preston v. Guyon, 5 Jur. 146, 10 L. J. Ch. 73, 11 Sim. 327, 34 Eng. Ch. 327; Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790; Gray v. Chaplin, 3 L. J. Ch. O. S. 161, 2 Sim. & St. 267; Wallworth v. Holt, 4 Myl. & C. 619, 18 Eng. Ch. 619; Taylor v. Salmon, 4 Myl. & C. 134, 18 Eng. Ch. 134; Sharp v. Day, 1 Phil. 771, 19 Eng. Ch. 771; Hichens v. Congreve, 4 Russ. 562, 4 Eng. Ch. 562; Ware v. Grand Junction Water Works Co., 2 Russ. & M. 470, 11 Eng. Ch. 470; Douglas v. Horsfall, 2 Sim. & St. 184, 1 Eng. Ch. 184; Baldwin v. Lawrence, 2 Sim. & St. 18, 1 Eng. Ch. 18; Benson v. Heathorn, 1 Y. & Coll. Ch. 326, 20 Eng. Ch. 326.

98. Connecticut.— Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456; Sears v. Hotchkiss, 25 Conn. 171, 65 Am. Dec. 557.

Georgia.—Young v. Moses, 53 Ga. 628; Colquitt v. Howard, 11 Ga. 556.

Illinois.— Whitney v. Mayo, 15 Ill. 251.

Massachusetts.— Davis v. Peabody, 170 Mass. 397, 49 N. E. 750; Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378; Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen 52; Heath v. Ellis, 12 Cush. 601; Abbott v. Merriam, 8 Cush. 588.

New Hampshire.— March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

New Jersey.— Kean v. Johnson, 19 N. J. Eq. 401.

South Carolina.— Charleston Ins., etc., Co. v. Sebring, 5 Rich. Eq. 342.

Texas.— Evans v. Brandon, 53 Tex. 56.

Vermont.— Stevens v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 29 Vt. 545.

United States.— Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. 331, 15 L. ed. 401; Smith v. Poor, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,093, 3 Ware 148.

Amending the bill so as to let additional shareholders join as plaintiffs. Moyle v. Landers, 83 Cal. 579, 23 Pac. 798.

Compliance with rule that all persons interested be made parties.— When shareholders sue for themselves and all others having a like interest, making the corporation defendant of which they are members, there is a compliance in theory at least with the rule that all persons interested in the subject-matter of the suit should be made parties. In theory all such are before the court. They are either actual parties to the record, or are properly represented by those who are parties, and may become plaintiffs, if they are dissatisfied with their position as defendants, as members of the company. March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

If the relief prayed for may by possibility be injurious to any of the parties joined as plaintiffs, those parties must be made defend-

(iv) Suit Must Be Bona Fide For Those in Like Interest With Plaintiff. Where the shareholder prosecutes the suit professedly for himself and for other shareholders in like interest with himself, the rule is imperative that plaintiff must prosecute the action bona fide, truthfully, and sincerely, for those standing in like interest with himself; and hence if it is made to appear that he is put forward as a dummy for an adverse interest his suit will not be entertained.[99]

c. Any Other Shareholder May Be Joined as Plaintiff. Such being the nature of the action, it necessarily follows that any shareholder other than the plaintiff filing the bill may on his application be joined as plaintiff in the action.[1]

d. Creditor and Shareholder Joining. It has been held that a creditor and a shareholder of a corporation who, upon the refusal of the receiver of the corporation to bring the action, commence an action against the directors of the corporation for loss of corporate funds owing to their neglect, may join as plaintiffs and bring the action for the benefit of all the corporate creditors and shareholders, where they are very numerous and it is impracticable to bring them all before the court.[2] But this does not seem to be sound, since a creditor and a shareholder do not occupy a common relation to the trust fund.[3] It has been held, however, that where some of the shareholders of a dissolved corporation bring a bill against the directors to recover funds lost by their mismanagement and breach of trust, they must bring it not only in behalf of the other shareholders, but also in behalf of the creditors.[4]

2. Parties Defendant — a. When Corporation Necessary Party. Where the object of the action is to prevent or redress a wrong to the corporation, the corporation itself is an indispensable party, either as plaintiff or defendant.[5]

b. When Corporation Should Be Impleaded as Defendant — (i) In General. It follows that whenever in such case the directors or other officers who wield the ants, because, as observed by Lord Lyndhurst, "each and every of them may have a case to make adverse to the interest of the party suing." Mozley v. Alston, 16 L. J. Ch. 217, 229, 1 Phil. 790, 19 Eng. Ch. 790.

Where a bill filed by certain shareholders on behalf of themselves and others, for relief against an alleged breach of trust, is demurred to on the ground that some of the parties on whose behalf the plaintiffs profess to sue appear to have been implicated in the transaction complained of, the proper test of such objection is to see whether the bill states facts with respect to those parties, which as against them would amount to a defense to the suit. Atlanta Real Estate Co. v. Atlanta Nat. Bank, 75 Ga. 40; Apperley v. Page, 11 Jur. 271, 16 L. J. Ch. 302, 1 Phil. 779, 19 Eng. Ch. 779.

Such a bill not multifarious because many shareholders join. Atlanta Real Estate Co. v. Atlanta Nat. Bank, 75 Ga. 40. Nor does it create a statutory misjoinder of causes of action. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 N. Y. 444; Dennis v. Kennedy, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 517.

Allegation of the joinder of parties who are not proper to be joined rejected as surplusage. Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788; Douglas v. Horsfall, 2 Sim. & St. 184, 1 Eng. Ch. 184; Baldwin v. Lawrence, 2 Sim. & St. 18, 1 Eng. Ch. 18.

99. Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 637; Forrest v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 4 De G. F. & J. 126, 7 Jur. N. S. 887, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 666, 9 Wkly. Rep. 818, 65 Eng. Ch. 99; Filder v. London, etc., R. Co., 1 Hem. & M. 489. But Lord Langdale, as master of the rolls, held that it did not constitute a sufficient objection to the character of plaintiff that he has filed his bill "at the instigation and request" of a rival company. Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513.

1. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 N. Y. 444; Wood v. Union Gospel Church Bldg. Assoc., 63 Wis. 9, 22 N. W. 756. The fact that the state is a shareholder does not authorize a citizen to be joined. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582. Construction of a complaint brought on behalf of the plaintiff and all other shareholders and scrip-holders. Rogers v. New York, etc., Land Co., 1 N. Y. Suppl. 908, 17 N. Y. St. 131.

2. Miesse v. Loren, 5 Ohio N. P. 307 [citing Delano v. Case, 121 Ill. 247, 12 N. E. 676, 2 Am. St. Rep. 81; Landis v. Sea Isle Hotel Co., 53 N. J. Eq. 654, 33 Atl. 964; Ackerman v. Halsey, 37 N. J. Eq. 356; Brinckerhoff v. Bostwick, 88 N. Y. 52].

3. That a person not a shareholder cannot be joined as plaintiff with a shareholder see Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347. Contra, Baldwin v. Canfield, 26 Minn. 43, 1 N. W. 261.

4. Camp v. Taylor, (N. J. Ch. 1890) 19 Atl. 968.

5. Cunningham v. Pell, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 607; Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 222, power of the corporation refuse to allow the action to proceed in its name as plaintiff, or whenever their relation to the subject of the action is such that it would be improper for the action to proceed in the name of the corporation as plaintiff while the corporation should remain under their control, it is indispensable that it should be joined as defendant.[6]

(II) In Suit to Restrain or Relieve Against Breaches of Trust by Directors — (A) In General. The corporation is a necessary party defendant to a bill filed against the directors praying for relief against a breach of trust by the directors, or that they may be restrained from using the funds and property of the corporation for the consummation of a breach of trust.[7]

(B) Or to Restore to Corporation What It Has Lost Through Such Breaches of Trust. This is the rule where the object of the action is to restore to the corporation assets which its directors and officers have unlawfully converted to their own use,[8] and where it is sought to charge the directors personally in favor of the corporation for losses happening through their mismanagement or neglect.[9]

(III) In Contests Between Shareholders and Third Persons. Although the contest may be between shareholders and third persons, or between an alleged shareholder and one to whom shares standing on the books of the corporation have been transferred, yet if any decree which can be rendered will necessarily 24 Am. Dec. 212; Ferris v. Strong, 3 Edw. (N. Y.) 127.

6. California.— Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788; Beach v. Cooper, 72 Cal. 99, 13 Pac. 161.

Colorado.— Byers v. Rollins, 13 Colo. 22, 21 Pac. 894.

Georgia.— Colquitt v. Howard, 11 Ga. 556.

New Jersey.— Camp v. Taylor, (Ch. 1890) 19 Atl. 968.

New York.— Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 9 L. R. A. 527 [reversing 52 Hun 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409]; Greaves v. Gouge, 69 N. Y. 154; Gardiner v. Pollard, 10 Bosw. 674; Stromeyer v. Combes, 15 Daly 29, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 232, 18 N. Y. St. 154; Carpenter v. Roberts, 56 How. Pr. 216; Hand v. Atlantic Nat. Bank, 55 How. Pr. 231; Wells v. Jewett, 11 How. Pr. 242; Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212.

Ohio.— Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162, 22 Am. Dec. 785.

South Carolina.— Charleston Ins., etc., Co. v. Sebring, 5 Rich. Eq. 342.

United States.— Davenport v. Dows, 18 Wall. 626, 21 L. ed. 938; Samuel v. Holladay, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,288, Woolw. 400, McCahon (Kan.) 214.

In Mason v. Harris, 11 Ch. D. 97, 48 L. J. Ch. 589, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 644, 27 Wkly. Rep. 699, the bill was filed by two shareholders, in behalf of themselves and all the shareholders except the persons named as defendants, against the managing director, two other directors, and the company. The bill was sustained.

7. Connecticut.— Allen v. Curtis, 26 Conn. 456; Sears v. Hotchkiss, 25 Conn. 171, 65 Am. Dec. 557.

Georgia.— Colquitt v. Howard, 11 Ga. 556.

Kentucky.— Jones v. Johnson, 10 Bush 649.

Maine.— Hersey v. Veazie, 24 Me. 9, 41 Am. Dec. 364.

Massachusetts.— Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378.

New Hampshire.— March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

New York.— Thornton v. Wabash R. Co., 81 N. Y. 462; Gardiner v. Pollard, 10 Bosw. 674; Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212.

South Carolina.— Charleston Ins., etc., Co. v. Sebring, 5 Rich. Eq. 342.

Tennessee.— Deaderick v. Wilson, 8 Baxt. 108.

Texas.— Evans v. Brandon, 53 Tex. 56.

United States.— Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. 331, 15 L. ed. 401.

England.— Silber Light Co. v. Silber, 12 Ch. D. 717, 48 L. J. Ch. 385, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 27 Wkly. Rep. 427; Carlisle v. South Eastern R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 366, 14 Jur. 535, 1 Macn. & G. 689, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 682, 47 Eng. Ch. 546; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114 [affirmed in 2 Hall & T. 201, 14 Jur. 491, 19 L. J. Ch. 410, 2 Macn. & G. 389, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 169, 48 Eng. Ch. 300].

But compare Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401.

8. Byers v. Rollins, 13 Colo. 22, 21 Pac. 894; Stromeyer v. Coombes, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 29, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 232, 18 N. Y. St. 154; Carpenter v. Roberts, 56 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 216; Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162, 22 Am. Dec. 785; Charleston Ins., etc., Co. v. Sebring, 5 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 342.

9. Camp v. Taylor, (N. J. Ch. 1890) 19 Atl. 968. See also Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 7 Hare 114, 13 Jur. 602, 18 L. J. Ch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 152, 27 Eng. Ch. 114. But see Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 13 Eng. L. & Eq. 506.

affect the rights of the corporation the action cannot proceed unless it is made a defendant.[10]

(IV) Corporation Non-Resident, Suit Dismissed — (A) In General. Where any decree which can be rendered will necessarily affect the rights of the corporation, if the corporation is a non-resident, so that it cannot be impleaded, the suit cannot proceed, but must be dismissed.[11]

(B) Unless Foreign Corporation Served by Publication. It seems, however, that a foreign corporation can be served by publication, so as to bring it before the court in such an action, and if this is not done the suit will be dismissed.[12]

(V) Corporation, if Resident, Must Be Served With Process. If the corporation is a resident, and there is neither service of process upon it nor a voluntary appearance by it the suit must be dismissed.[13]

(VI) Exception Where Corporation Is Dissolved or in Liquidation. An exception to the foregoing rule, rendering it necessary to make the corporation a party defendant, may possibly be admitted where the corporation has suffered a de facto dissolution;[14] but it would seem that its presence as a party defendant cannot be dispensed with unless it has suffered such a dissolution as disables it from suing or defending as a corporate body. If there is a statute giving it power to sue and be sued after its dissolution, for the purpose of winding up its affairs, then its presence cannot be dispensed with.[15]

c. When Directors Must Be Made Parties Defendant — (I) In General. Those directors against whom relief is sought must of course be made parties defendant.[16]

(II) Directors Against Whom No Relief Is Sought. Even where no relief is sought against the directors, and their rights will not be affected by the decree in a different degree from the rights of the shareholders generally, it has been held that they must be made parties defendant.[17] And where the object of the action is to undo a fraud committed by its own directors or officers in collusion with a third party, it has been held that the directors are necessary parties defendant, on the theory that the action is primarily against them.[18]

(III) Whether Directors Must Be Joined or May Be Sued Separately. Where the object of the suit is to charge the directors with a liability in behalf of the corporation or the shareholders for breaches of trust, it is not necessary to join as parties all who have concurred in the breaches of trust complained of, but relief may be had against any or all of those who did the wrong.[19]

10. Kendig v. Dean, 97 U. S. 423, 24 L. ed. 1061.

11. Barney v. Baltimore, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 280, 18 L. ed. 825; Shields v. Barrow, 17 How. (U. S.) 130, 15 L. ed. 158; Dormitzer v. Illinois, etc., Bridge Co., 6 Fed. 217; Hannibal First Nat. Bank v. Smith, 6 Fed. 215.

12. Cunningham v. Pell, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 607. See also March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732.

13. Samuel v. Holladay, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,288, 1 Woolw. 400, McCahon (Kan.) 214. But see Baldwin v. Canfield, 26 Minn. 43, 1 N. W. 261.

14. Ervin v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 20 Fed. 577.

15. Camp v. Taylor, (N. J. Ch. 1890) 19 Atl. 968. When one of the shareholders in a national bank may maintain a suit in equity in a state court for the appointment of a receiver, the bank being in process of liquidation, where the corporation alone has been made a defendant. Elwood v. Greenleaf First Nat. Bank, 41 Kan. 475, 21 Pac. 673.

16. Griffin v. St. Louis Vine, etc., Growers' Assoc., 4 Mo. App. 596; Meyers v. Scott, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 753, 20 N. Y. St. 35; Ribon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 Wall. (U. S.) 446, 21 L. ed. 367.

17. Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788; Woodroof v. Howes, 88 Cal. 184, 26 Pac. 111.

18. Slattery v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 91 Mo. 217, 4 S. W. 79, 60 Am. Rep. 245.

19. Mayne v. Griswold, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 463, 9 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 25; Cunningham v. Pell, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 607; Ervin v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 20 Fed. 577. See Percy v. Millaudon, 3 La. 568; Cazeaux v. Mali, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 578; Gaffney v. Colvill, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 567; Franklin F. Ins. Co. v. Jenkins, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 130; Protection Ins. Co. v. Dummer [cited in Cunningham v. Pell, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 607, 612]; Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347; Atty.-Gen. v. Wilson, Cr. & Ph. 1, 4 Jur. 1174, 10 L. J. Ch. 53, 18 Eng. Ch. 1. See also Van Cott v. Van Brunt, 2 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 283; Coventry v. Barton, 17 Johns. (N. Y.) 142, 8 Am. Dec. 376; Peck v. Ellis, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 131;

(iv) Where Action Is at Law to Charge Directors With Statutory Liability. So where the action is at law to charge the directors upon a statute liability, as for instance for making dividends except from surplus profits, dividing or reducing the capital stock without the consent of the legislature, making prohibited loans or discounts, or the like,[20] it is not necessary to join all the directors who participated in the act, although the essential nature of the act was such that it would not have been performed by one director alone; but plaintiff may proceed against them separately.[21] In these cases, whether the action is at law or in equity, the governing principle is that the directors who are proceeded against as tort-feasors have no right to be joined, because they are not entitled to contribution as among themselves.[22] "Neither equity nor law is solicitous in regard to contribution between tort-feasors."[23]

d. Whether Shareholders Must Be Made Parties. While in case of unincorporated societies, all the shareholders or directors are necessary parties defendant,[24] yet this rule does not apply in the case of incorporated companies; since as already seen[25] they are in theory of law strangers to the corporation. Special circumstances, however, may exist to render it proper or even essential for a minority of dissenting shareholders proceeding in such a bill to implead as defendants the majority shareholders so far as practicable — which in general means all that can be found within the jurisdiction.[26] Thus if the assets of the corporation have been improperly diverted into the hands of individual shareholders, the complaining shareholders may join them as defendants and pray that they be required to restore the assets thus diverted;[27] and this they may equally do if the assets have been improperly diverted into the hands of strangers.[28] So it has been held that where the shareholders in a corporation are not numerous, and the minority complain, by bill, of the votes and motives of the majority, and of the corporate conduct consequent thereon, it is not improper that all of the shareholders as well as the corporation be made parties.[29] It has been held that a bill by the minority shareholders, the object of which is to take the property of the corporation out of its hands and practically to dissolve it, because of alleged frauds on the part of its officers, cannot be maintained without making the officers and the other shareholders parties.[30] And a court of equity may in its discretion permit a shareholder to become a party defendant for the purpose of protecting his own interest and the interest of such other shareholders as choose to join him in the defense against unfounded or illegal claims against the corporation, where the directors fraudulently refuse to attend to its interests.[31]

e. When Third Parties Must Be Joined as Defendants — (i) Rule Stated. Any third person or corporation against whom relief is sought must of course be joined as a defendant; and where a bill seeks to restore corporate assets wasted by breaches of trust of the directors or officers, if other parties have participated Arnold v. Clifford, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 555, 2 Sumn. 238; London Gas-Light Co. v. Spottiswoode, 14 Beav. 264; Fussell v. Elwin, 7 Hare 29, 27 Eng. Ch. 29.

20. 1 N. Y. Rev. Stat. 589, § 1.

21. Gaffney v. Colvill, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 567. It should be stated that the decision was influenced by the language of the statute which used the words "every director," thus indicating that they might be dealt with separately. See also in support of the text Buell v. Warner, 33 Vt. 570.

22. Miller v. Fenton, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 18; Peck v. Ellis, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 131; Heath v. Erie R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,306, 8 Blatchf. 347; Wilkinson v. Parry, 4 Russ. 272, 4 Eng. Ch. 272; Franco v. Franco, 3 Ves. Jr. 75, 3 Rev. Rep. 50. See also supra, IX, P, 13, a et seq.

23. Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378, 399, opinion by Wells, J.

24. Whitney v. Mayo, 15 Ill. 251; Richardson v. Hastings, 7 Beav. 301, 8 Jur. 72, 13 L. J. Ch. 129, 29 Eng. Ch. 301. Compare Richardson v. Hastings, 11 Beav. 17, 16 L. J. Ch. 322.

25. See supra, VI, F, 1, a et seq.

26. See for instance Ribon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 Wall. (U. S.) 446, 21 L. ed. 367.

27. Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162, 22 Am. Dec. 785.

28. See infra, XI, F, 2, e, (i) et seq.

29. East Rome Town Co. v. Nagle, 58 Ga. 474.

30. Morse v. Delaware Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 944.

31. Kanawha Coal Co. v. Ballard, etc., Coal Co., 43 W. Va. 701, 29 S. E. 514.

with them in such breaches of trust, they may, according to the established principles of equity pleading, be joined as parties.[32] And in general any and all persons, natural and artificial, may be made parties who have received the benefit of the illegal act of the directors, and who claim an interest in the maintenance of the illegal act.[33]

(II) Examples Under This Rule. Thus where a shareholder seeks to enjoin the performance of a contract between the corporation of which he is a member and another corporation, the latter should also be made a party defendant to the suit; otherwise the former might be put in the position of being restrained from doing that for the non-performance of which the corporation might be subject to an action at law.[34] So where a bill is filed by a non-consenting shareholder of a railroad corporation which has become consolidated with three others to have the consolidation declared void and proceedings under it enjoined, it will be dismissed if the president and directors of the consolidated company are not made defendants.[35]

(III) Third Parties From Whom Directors Have Derived Secret Profit Need Not Be Joined. But where the bill seeks only to make faithless directors account for secret profits which they have received in consequence of a breach of trust, other persons in concurrence with whom the fraud was committed are not necessary parties defendant, for example lessees of corporate property.[36]

f. When Shareholders Allowed to Defend For Corporation — (I) In General. As a general rule a corporation can appear to defend litigation only in its corporate capacity, represented by its properly constituted officers.[37] But if a suit is brought against the corporation, and the directors, in breach of their trust, fail or refuse to make defense to the same in the name of the corporation, shareholders will be permitted so to do.[38]

(II) Shareholder May Appear and Defend For Himself and Other Shareholders. A shareholder, when thus made a party defendant, will be permitted to appear on behalf of other shareholders who may desire to join him in the defense.[39]

(III) Corporation Not Bound by Decree. But since the corporation is not before the court it will not be bound by any order or decree rendered against

32. Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen (Mass.) 52; Slattery v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 91 Mo. 217, 4 S. W. 79, 60 Am. Rep. 245; Eldred v. American Palace Car Co., 99 Fed. 168.

33. Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen (Mass.) 52; March v. Eastern R. Co., 40 N. H. 548, 77 Am. Dec. 732; Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331, 15 L. ed. 401; Gray v. Lewis, L. R. 8 Eq. 526; Clinch v. Financial Corp., L. R. 5 Eq. 450; Salomons v. Laing, 12 Beav. 339, 14 Jur. 471, 19 L. J. Ch. 225, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 289; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 13 Eng. L. & Eq. 506; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 6 Eng. L. & Eq. 106, 40 Eng. Ch. 550.

34. Hare v. London, etc., R. Co., 2 Johns. & H. 80, 7 Jur. N. S. 1145, 30 L. J. Ch. 817.

35. Tyson v. Virginia, etc., R. Co., 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,321, 1 Hughes 80. See also Ribon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 Wall. (U. S.) 446, 21 L. ed. 367, where the rule was applied so as to dismiss a bill in equity by reason of the non-joinder of third parties in interest.

36. Brewer v. Boston Theatre, 104 Mass. 378, 399 [citing Wilson v. Moore, 1 Myl. & K. 126, 7 Eng. Ch. 126; Walker v. Symonds, 3 Swanst. 1, 19 Rev. Rep. 155].

37. Blackman v. Central R., etc., Co., 58 Ga. 189; Central Trust Co. v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 48 Fed. 14; Forbes v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,926, 2 Woods 323.

38. Fitzwater v. Seneca Nat. Bank, 62 Kan. 163, 61 Pac. 684, 84 Am. St. Rep. 377 (upon their tender of an answer stating valid matters of defense to the action, and the making of a showing by evidence of reasonable grounds of belief that such defense can be finally proved upon a trial of the case, and that the officers whose duty it is to make it are wrongfully or fraudulently refusing to do so); Bronson v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 2 Wall. (U. S.) 283, 17 L. ed. 725.

Texas — Intervention by shareholder. — So under the peculiar practice in Texas an interested shareholder may intervene in a suit against the company to protect his rights. Mussina v. Goldthwaite, 34 Tex. 125, 7 Am. Rep. 281.

39. Bronson v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 2 Wall. (U. S.) 283, 17 L. ed. 725.

it, or by any admissions made in the answer or stipulations that might be entered into by the parties or their counsel.[40]

(iv) When Shareholders Not Allowed to Defend For Corporation. It is absolutely essential, in order to exhibit a right to appear and defend for the corporation, for the shareholder to aver that the corporation itself has refused to defend, otherwise his answer will be struck out on motion.[41]

g. When Decree Executed Against Those Who Were Not Parties. When a decree has been obtained on behalf of the individuals whose rights have been thus fully and honestly investigated and established, a court, proceeding on the footing of that decree, will carry the directions thereof into execution against other individuals who were not parties.[42]

XII. FORMAL EXECUTION OF CORPORATE CONTRACTS.

A. Authority of Corporate Officers and Agents to Execute Contracts

— 1. Authorization by Shareholders. At common law the shareholders are strangers to the corporation;[43] and unless the charter, the governing statute, the articles of incorporation, the by-laws, or other constating instrument, contains a provision requiring the assent of the shareholders, or of a given number or proportion of them, to the making of a contract, such as a mortgage, a lease, a bill of sale, an assignment for creditors, or the like, no such assent is necessary. It is to be observed that provisions in the governing statutes or other governing instruments of corporations requiring the assent of a stated number of shareholders to the making of contracts of a given description are not uncommon, especially with respect to corporate mortgages.[44]

2. Authorization by Board of Directors. It seems on the one hand that instruments which in order to be valid require the use of the corporate seal require the authorization of the directors;[45] although, where the instrument is otherwise formally executed and the seal is formally affixed, authority to execute it is presumed.[46] But with respect to all those contracts which are made in the ordinary administration of the business of the corporation by its managing officers or contracting agents no anteeedent authorization by the board of directors applicable to each particular case is required, but a general authorization or employment to make contracts of a class which embraces the particular contract will be sufficient.[47]

40. Bronson v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 2 Wall. (U. S.) 283, 17 L. ed. 725, opinion by Nelson, J.

41. Park v. New York, etc., Oil Co., 26 W. Va. 486; Park v. Ulster, etc., Petroleum Co., 25 W. Va. 108 (and this although the answer avers that the complaining shareholder has purchased three fourths of the stock of the corporation). Where shareholders intervene in a suit filed against their corporation, and allege that through fraud and collusion the officers and directors refuse to defend the suit, it is not error to refuse to permit the shareholders to defend in the name of the corporation, when they decline to proceed in their own names as shareholders, in behalf of themselves and other shareholders who may see proper to join with them in the defense of the suit. Cornell v. Sims, 111 Ga. 828, 36 S. E. 627.

No defense to an action by a corporation that another party has become the owner "of the sole beneficial interest in the rights, property, and immunities of the corporation"; and an answer so alleging may be stricken out on motion. Winona, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 359. See also Central Trust Co. v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 48 Fed. 14, for a collection of facts where shareholders were refused permission to intervene and defend.

42. Weale v. West-Middlesex Waterworks Co., 1 Jac. & W. 358, 21 Rev. Rep. 183.

43. See supra, VI, F, 1, a et seq.

44. In Pennsylvania it seems that unanimous consent of the shareholders of a corporation is unnecessary to validate a lease entered into by such corporation, but the votes of a majority are sufficient. O'Neill v. Hestonville, etc., R. Co., 9 Pa. Dist. 2.

45. Hoyt v. Thompson, 5 N. Y. 320; repeated in Luse v. Isthmus Transit R. Co., 6 Oreg. 125, 25 Am. Rep. 506.

46. Schallard v. Eel River Steam Nav. Co., 70 Cal. 144, 11 Pac. 590; Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94; Eureka Iron, etc., Works v. Bresnahan, 60 Mich. 332, 27 N. W. 524. See also infra, XII, D, 3, c, (II), (A) et seq.

47. Bradstreet v. Royalton Bank, 42 Vt. 128.

3. Authority to Do Particular Acts Without Express Authorization From Directors — a. To Employ Counsel. It has been held that where by the terms of the charter all the powers of the corporation are vested in the directors, the president alone has no authority to employ counsel to conduct litigation on behalf of the corporation.[48]

b. To Sign Promissory Notes. A provision in the governing instrument of a corporation that a particular officer shall sign the name of the corporation to particular instruments, for example to promissory notes, does not prevent the directors from authorizing any other corporate officer to perform this function.[49]

4. Failure of Directors to Enter Their Resolution of Record. Where an antecedent authorization by the board of directors is necessary to the making of a given contract, their failure to enter their resolution of record does not affect its validity, but the fact may be proved by parol;[50] and the rule is the same where the contract does not recite the previous authorization.[51] On the other hand, where the contract appears upon the face of the corporate records to have been authorized by the directors, a third person, in the absence of knowledge, or of circumstances putting him upon inquiry, need not look further; but he has the right to presume that the record correctly recites the facts and that the authority was formally given at a board meeting.[52]

5. Authorization at Irregular Board Meeting — a. In General. Nor is it at all necessary in case of a mortgage that the vote or resolution authorizing its execution should be passed at a regular meeting of the directors.[53]

b. Where Corporation Has Received and Retained Benefit of Transaction. The corporation cannot repudiate such a contract on the ground of the want of a resolution of the board,[54] or on the ground that the resolution was irregular, as that it was passed at a board meeting held outside the state,[55] even where the contract conveys lands, unless there is a statute prohibiting the meeting of the directors outside the state.[56]

6. Power of Attorney in Fact Must Appear. As in case of a natural person, where a conveyance of corporate lands is made by an attorney in fact other than by its regular officers, who signs its name and affixes its seal, his power of attorney must appear, and ought to consist of a written authorization from the board of directors or other managing body.[57]

B. Observance of Statutory Formalities — 1. Must Be Observed Unless Construed as Being Directory or Dispensed With by Corporate Usage — a. Rule Stated. Where the governing statute requires certain formalities to be observed in the execution of the contracts of a corporation, then unless those formalities are observed the instrument will be invalid,[58] unless, having reference to the distinction between mandatory and directory statutes, the court gets rid of the operation

48. Bright v. Metairie Cemetery Assoc., 33 La. Ann. 58.

49. Cameron v. Decatur First Nat. Bank, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 34 S. W. 178 [affirming 4 Tex. Civ. App. 309, 23 S. W. 334].

50. California.— Yolo Bank v. Weaver, (1892) 31 Pac. 160.

Illinois.— Oakford v. Fisher, 75 Ill. App. 544.

Maine.— Warren v. Ocean Ins. Co., 16 Me. 439, 33 Am. Dec. 674.

New Jersey.— McMichael v. Brennan, 31 N. J. Eq. 496.

United States.— Allis v. Jones, 45 Fed. 148.

51. Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94. Not necessary to record such resolution in the office of the recorder of deeds. Mullanphy Sav. Bank v. Schott, 135 Ill. 655, 26 N. E. 640, 25 Am. St. Rep. 401.

52. Morisette v. Howard, 62 Kan. 463, 63 Pac. 756.

53. Eureka Iron, etc., Works v. Bresnahan, 60 Mich. 332, 27 N. W. 524.

54. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174. See also Yolo Bank v. Weaver, (Cal. 1892) 31 Pac. 160.

55. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Cowdrey, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 459, 20 L. ed. 199.

56. Missouri Lead, Min., etc., Co. v. Reinhard, 114 Mo. 218, 21 S. W. 488, 35 Am. St. Rep. 746.

57. Ware v. Swann, 79 Ala. 330; Standifer v. Swann, 78 Ala. 88.

58. Salem Bank v. Gloucester Bank, 17 Mass. 1, 9 Am. Dec. 111; Beatty v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 109, 3 Am. Dec. 401. See also Maas v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 11 Hun (N. Y.) 8.

of the statute by construing it as being directory merely,[59] or unless dispensed with by corporate usage; for although the corporation may be authorized by their act of incorporation to act or contract in a particular mode, they may by a course of practice render themselves liable on instruments executed in a different mode.[60]

b. Evidence of Corporate Usage Hence Admissible. Upon the question whether a contract has been executed by the officers of a corporation with the formality necessary to bind the corporation, the usage of the corporation in executing similar contracts is hence material evidence.[61]

c. Usage That Contract Is Complete Although Document Is Not Delivered. For example, although delivery is ordinarily essential to the validity of a deed or other written obligation, yet, as in the case of a policy of insurance, there may be a usage under which it may be retained by the insurance company until called for by the insured under an understanding that it shall be regarded as being in force; so that in case of a loss before the delivery the company may be held liable.[62]

2. Rule Where Statute Requires Contract to Be in Writing — a. In General. Such a statutory rule may be enforced and the contract held invalid so long as

59. Alabama.— Bates v. State Bank, 2 Ala. 451.

Florida.— Southern L. Ins. etc., Co. v. Lanier, 5 Fla. 110, 58 Am. Dec. 448.

Illinois.— Moreland v. State Bank, 1 Ill. 263.

Minnesota.— Dana v. St. Paul Bank, 4 Minn. 385.

New Hampshire.— Union Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Keyser, 32 N. H. 313, 64 Am. Dec. 375.

New York.— U. S. Trust Co. v. Brady, 20 Barb. 119; Mott v. U. S. Trust Co., 19 Barb. 568.

Pennsylvania.— Northern Liberties Bank v. Cresson, 12 Serg. & R. 306.

South Carolina.— State Bank v. Hammond, 1 Rich. 281.

Wisconsin.— Rockwell v. Elkhorn Bank, 13 Wis. 653.

England.— Prince of Wales L., etc., Assur. Co. v. Harding, E. B. & E. 183, 4 Jur. N. S. 851, 27 L. J. Q. B. 297, 96 E. C. L. 183.

60. Connecticut.— Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94; Witte v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 260; Bulkley v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 252, 7 Am. Dec. 271.

Massachusetts.—New England Mar. Ins. Co. v. De Wolf, 8 Pick. 56.

New York.— Boisgerard v. New York Banking Co., 2 Sandf. Ch. 23.

United States.—Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. 381, 16 L. ed. 488.

England.—Bargate v. Shortridge, 2 Eq. Rep. 605, 5 H. L. Cas. 297, 24 L. J. Ch. 457, 3 Wkly. Rep. 423, 31 Eng. L. & Eq. 44.

61. Hood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 502; Stamford Bank v. Ferris, 17 Conn. 259; Bridgeport v. Housatonuc R. Co., 15 Conn. 475; Bulkley v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 252, 7 Am. Dec. 271; Warren v. Ocean Ins. Co., 16 Me. 439, 33 Am. Dec. 674; Angell & A. Corp. § 237.

62. Keim v. Home Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 42 Mo. 38, 97 Am. Dec. 291; Brownfield v. Phœnix Ins. Co., 35 Mo. App. 54; Mead v. Davidson, 3 A. & E. 303, 1 H. & W. 156, 4 L. J. K. B. 193, 4 N. & M. 701, 30 E. C. L. 153. See also Tayloe v. Merchants' F. Ins. Co., 9 How. (U. S.) 390, 13 L. ed. 187.

Enforcing verbal agreements for policies.— That a statute requiring all policies of insurance to be signed and sealed by certain officers does not disable the insurance company from making verbal agreements to execute policies which will be enforced see the following cases:

Iowa.— Davenport v. Peoria M. & F. Ins. Co., 17 Iowa 276 [citing Kohne v. Insurance Co. of North America, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,920, 1 Wash. 93].

Kentucky.— Franklin F. Ins. Co. v. Hewitt, 3 B. Mon. 231.

Massachusetts.— McCulloch v. Eagle Ins. Co., 1 Pick. 278.

New York.— Lightbody v. North America Ins. Co., 23 Wend. 18; Perkins v. Washington Ins. Co., 4 Cow. 645; Carpenter v. Mutual Safety Ins. Co., 4 Sandf. Ch. 408.

Ohio.— Palm v. Medina County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 20 Ohio 529.

Pennsylvania.—Hamilton v. Lycoming Mut. Ins. Co., 5 Pa. St. 339.

United States.— Tayloe v. Merchants' F. Ins. Co., 9 How. 390, 13 L. ed. 187; Andrews v. Essex F. & M. Ins. Co., 1 Fed. Cas. No. 374, 3 Mason 6.

But such phraseology is regarded as consisting of enabling words merely. Sanborn v. Fireman's Ins. Co., 16 Gray (Mass.) 448, 77 Am. Dec. 419. See also Kennebec Co. v. Augusta Ins., etc., Co., 6 Gray (Mass.) 204; First Baptist Church v. Brooklyn F. Ins. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 69 [reversed in 19 N. Y. 305]; Commercial Mut. Ins. Co. v. Union Mut. Ins. Co., 19 How. (U. S.) 318, 15 L. ed. 636 [affirming 2 Curt. (U. S.) 524, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,372].

An agreement for a lease of real estate from a corporation is not required to be executed or assented to by the corporation with the same formality as the lease itself. Conant v. Bellows Falls Canal Co., 29 Vt. 263.

it continues to be executory,[63] or at least wholly executory,[64] at least where the corporation has pleaded the statute and relied upon it as a defense,[65] but not where it has been executed by one of the parties and the corporation has received the benefit of it;[66] or with respect to foreign corporations unless such corporations are expressly embraced in the statute.[67]

b. Operation of Statute of Frauds. The statute of frauds applies to corporations as well as to individuals; and hence a contract which if made by an individual would be invalid under the statute of frauds because not in writing would be equally invalid if made by a corporation.[68]

C. Presumption of Authority and Regularity of Corporate Acts — 1. GENERALLY. Excluding the operation of express statutes, a very extensive principle of the law of corporations, applicable to every kind of written contract executed ostensibly by a corporation, and to every kind of act done by its officers and agents professedly in its behalf, is that, where the officer or agent is the appropriate officer or agent to execute a contract or to do an act of a particular kind in behalf of the corporation, the law presumes a precedent authorization, regularly and rightfully made, and it is not necessary to produce evidence of such authority from the records of the corporation; always provided that the corporation itself had the power, under its charter or governing statute, to execute the contract or to do the act.[69]

2. ILLUSTRATIONS OF THIS PRINCIPLE. Under the operation of this principle a deed or mortgage purporting to have been executed by a corporation, which is signed and acknowledged in its behalf by its president and secretary, will be presumed to have been executed by its authority.[70] It follows from this principle that where a mortgage is given by a corporation to secure a debt which it has the power to contract, the mortgagee, advancing the money in good faith, is not bound to look beyond the mortgage for the authority for its execution.[71] In like manner all loans and discounts made by the officers of an incorporated bank will be presumed to have been made by the directors, until the contrary is shown by the party impeaching such a transaction.[72] So where the governing statute designates the president and cashier as the officers to sign contracts for a banking association their signatures become presumptive if not conclusive evidence that a contract so signed is that of the corporation; and third persons may safely rely upon the presumption.[73] So proof of the signatures of the officers of a corporation to a release under seal, purporting to have been executed by the corporation, is prima facie

63. Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623; Curtis v. Piedmont Lumber, etc., Co., 109 N. C. 401, 13 S. E. 944; Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 Ohio St. 336.

64. Foulke v. San Diego, etc., R. Co., 51 Cal. 365.

65. Curtis v. Piedmont Lumber, etc., Co., 109 N. C. 401, 13 S. E. 944.

66. Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623; Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 Ohio St. 336.

67. Rumbough v. Southern Imp. Co., 106 N. C. 461, 11 S. E. 528.

68. Smith v. Morse, 2 Cal. 524.

69. The leading case on this principle is U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 64, 6 L. ed. 552, where, notwithstanding a forcible dissent from Marshall, C. J., the principle laid down by the court met with immediate recognition, and has been steadily adhered to by American courts from that time to this. See also Trott v. Warren, 11 Me. 227; Episcopal Charitable Soc. v. Episcopal Church, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 372; McCulloch v. Eagle Ins. Co., 1 Pick. (Mass.) 278; Foster v. Essex Bank, 17 Mass. 479, 9 Am. Dec. 168; Salem Bank v. Gloucester Bank, 17 Mass. 1, 9 Am. Dec. 111; All Saints' Church v. Lovett, 1 Hall (N. Y.) 191; U. S. v. Amedy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 392, 6 L. ed. 502.

70. New England Wiring, etc., Co. v. Farmington Electric Light, etc., Co., 84 Me. 284, 24 Atl. 848; Gorder v. Plattsmouth Canning Co., 36 Nebr. 548, 54 N. W. 830. So in case of a mortgage executed by the president, secretary, and treasurer of the corporation, to secure a debt within the power of the corporation to create. Eureka Iron, etc., Works v. Bresnahan, 60 Mich. 332, 27 N. W. 524.

71. Manhattan Hardware Co. v. Roland, 128 Pa. St. 119, 18 Atl. 429; Manhattan Hardware Co. v. Phalen, 128 Pa. St. 110, 18 Atl. 428.

72. Bank Com'rs v. Buffalo Bank, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 497.

73. Gillett v. Campbell, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 520.

evidence of its due execution.[74] So where an undertaking on appeal, purporting to have been executed by the corporation as surety, was signed by its second vice-president and its assistant secretary, with the corporate seal affixed, the authority of the officers to execute the instrument was presumed in absence of evidence to the contrary.[75]

D. Sealed Instruments — 1. When Corporate Seal Necessary and When Not — a. Ancient Rule That Corporation Can Act Only by Its Seal. One of the inherent or implied powers of a corporation at common law was the power to adopt and use a common seal.[76] By the strictness of the ancient common law a corporation could express its will only through its seal.[77]

b. Gradual Relaxation of Ancient Rule — (1) In General. The ancient rule that a corporation could act only by its seal[78] has been greatly relaxed in later times, if indeed not wholly abrogated. As explained by Mr. Justice Story in a leading case,[79] the necessity for the relaxation was early felt in the management of matters of minor importance, such as the retention of servants and the like.[80] Gradually the observance of this formality was dispensed with even in the weightier concerns of corporate bodies to such an extent that the acts and contracts of a corporate officer within the scope of his authority, although not under seal, came to be regarded as binding upon the corporation.[81]

74. Josey v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 12 Rich. (S. C.) 134.

75. Gutzeil v. Pennie, 95 Cal. 598, 30 Pac. 836. That contracts of officers of a corporation organized under the statutes of the state wherein they are made will be presumed to have been made in pursuance of their authority derived under such statutes rather than of that derived from a foreign incorporation under the same name see Dean v. La Motte Lead Co., 59 Mo. 523.

76. 1 Bl. Comm. 475.

77. "For, though the particular members may express their private consents to any acts, by words, or signing their names, yet this does not bind the corporation; it is the fixing of the seal, and that only, which unites the several assents of the individuals who compose the community, and makes one joint assent of the whole." 1 Bl. Comm. 475. "The ancient rule of the common law that a corporation could neither act, speak, nor whisper apart from the instrumentality of its common seal." Knapp J., in Crawford v. Longstreet, 43 N. J. L. 325, 329. See also the following cases:

Delaware.—Fidelity Ins., etc., Co. v. Niven, 5 Houst. 163.

Indiana.— Sheffield School Tp. v. Andress, 56 Ind. 157.

Kentucky.— Waller v. State Bank, 3 J. J. Marsh. 201.

Maryland.— State University v. Williams, 9 Gill & J. 365, 31 Am. Dec. 72.

New Jersey.— Baptist Church v. Mulford, 8 N. J. L. 182; Ransom v. Stonington Sav. Bank, 13 N. J. Eq. 212.

New York.—Clark v. Farmers' Woolen Mfg. Co., 15 Wend. 256.

Ohio.— Sheehan v. Davis, 17 Ohio St. 571.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552.

78. 1 Bl. Comm. 475.

79. Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

80. Atty.-Gen. v. Davy, 2 Atk. 212, West. t. Hardw. 121, 26 Eng. Reprint 531; Manby v. Long, 3 Lev. 107; Windsor v. Gover, 2 Saund. 302, 305*d* [citing 4 Hen. VII, 6; 13 Hen. VII, 17; 13 Hen. VIII, 12].

81. Alabama.— Everett v. U. S., 6 Port. 166, 30 Am. Dec. 584; Branch Bank v. Harrison, 2 Port. 540.

Illinois.— Racine, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 49 Ill. 331, 95 Am. Dec. 595; New England F. Ins. Co. v. Schettler, 38 Ill. 166.

Indiana.— White Water Valley Canal Co. v. Hawkins, 4 Ind. 474.

Kentucky.— Covington v. Covington, etc., Bridge Co., 10 Bush 69; Lee v. Flemingsburg, 7 Dana 28.

Louisiana.—Marlatt v. Levee Steam Cotton Press Co., 10 La. 583, 29 Am. Dec. 468.

Maine.— Burnham v. Webster, 19 Me. 232; Abbot v. Hermon, 7 Me. 118.

Massachusetts.— Episcopal Charity Soc. v. Episcopal Church, 1 Pick. 372; Canal Bridge v. Gordon, 1 Pick. 297, 1 Am. Dec. 170; Foster v. Essex Bank, 17 Mass. 479, 9 Am. Dec. 168; Salem Bank v. Gloucester Bank, 17 Mass. 1, 9 Am. Dec. 111; Hayden v. Middlesex Turnpike Corp., 10 Mass. 397, 6 Am. Dec. 143.

Mississippi.— Petrie v. Wright, 6 Sm. & M. 647.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452.

New Hampshire.— Eastman v. Coos Bank, 1 N. H. 23.

New Jersey.— Antipoeda Baptist Church v. Mulford, 8 N. J. L. 182.

New York.— Lyons Bank v. Demmon, Lalor 398; Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Powell v. Newburgh, 19 Johns. 284; Dunn v. St. Andrew's Church, 14 Johns. 118.

Ohio.—Palm v. Medina County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 20 Ohio 529.

(11) State of Law in England With Regard to Corporate Seals. In a modern work on corporations[82] the state of law in England with regard to the necessity for the use of seals by corporations is discussed at considerable length with the citation of numerous statutes and judicial authorities, from which it will appear that the judges in that country, according to some of their decisions, are still "fast in the wax," while more recently they have adopted the sensible conclusion that sealing is not required in the case of trading corporations, which designation would it seems include such corporations as our American joint-stock corporations, organized for pecuniary gain.[83]

c. May Appoint Agents and Confer Authority Upon Them, Without Use of Its Seal. Modern courts, instead of pointedly denying that a corporation could act only through its seal, have made the departure from the ancient doctrine by holding that while a corporation in general must act through its common seal yet that it may appoint an agent whose acts, within the scope of his powers, do not require any such appendage to impart to them validity.[84]

Pennsylvania.— Magill v. Kauffman, 4 Serg. & R. 317, 8 Am. Dec. 713.

South Carolina.— Colcock v. Garvey, 1 Nott & M. 231.

United States.— Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

England.— Rex v. Amery, 1 Anstr. 178, 2 Bro. P. C. 336, 1 T. R. 575, 2 T. R. 515, 1 Rev. Rep. 306, 533; Harper v. Charlesworth, 4 B. & C. 574, 6 D. & R. 572, 4 L. J. K. B. O. S. 22, 28 Rev. Rep. 405, 10 E. C. L. 708; Wood v. Tate, 2 B. & P. N. R. 247, 9 Rev. Rep. 645; Doe v. Woodman, 8 East 228, 9 Rev. Rep. 422; Rex v. Chipping-Norton, 5 East 239; Rex v. Bigg, 2 East P. C. 882, 3 P. Wms. 419, 24 Eng. Reprint 1127.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1801.

82. 4 Thompson Corp. §§ 5058, 5059.

83. England Copper Miners' Co. v. Fox, 16 Q. B. 229, 15 Jur. 703, 20 L. J. Q. B. 174, 71 E. C. L. 229; Sanders v. St. Neots' Union, 8 Q. B. 810, 10 Jur. 566, 15 L. J. M. C. 104, 55 E. C. L. 810; Wells v. Kingston-Upon-Hull, L. R. 10 C. P. 402, 44 L. J. C. P. 257, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 615, 23 Wkly. Rep. 562; South of Ireland Colliery Co. v. Waddle, L. R. 3 C. P. 463, 37 L. J. C. P. 211, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 405, 16 Wkly. Rep. 756 [affirmed in L. R. 4 C. P. 617, 38 L. J. C. P. 338, 17 Wkly. Rep. 896]; Totterdell v. Fareham Blue Brick, etc., Co., L. R. 1 C. P. 674, 12 Jur. N. S. 901, 35 L. J. C. P. 278, 14 Wkly. Rep. 919; In re Contract Corp., L. R. 8 Eq. 14, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 964; Nicholson v. Bradfield Union, L. R. 1 Q. B. 620, 7 B. & S. 747, 35 L. J. Q. B. 176, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 830, 14 Wkly. Rep. 731; Church v. Imperial Gas Light, etc., Co., 6 A. & E. 846, 7 L. J. Q. B. 118, 3 N. & P. 35, 1 W. W. & H. 137, 33 E. C. L. 443; Beverley v. Lincoln Gas Light, etc., Co., 6 A. & E. 829, 7 L. J. Q. B. 113, 2 N. & P. 283, W. W. & D. 519, 33 E. C. L. 434; Stafford v. Till, 4 Bing. 75, 13 E. C. L. 407; Denton v. East Anglian R. Co., 3 C. & K. 16; Australian Royal Mail Steam Nav. Co. v. Marzetti, 3 C. L. R. 1179, 11 Exch. 228, 24 L. J. Exch. 273; London Gas-Light, etc., Co. v. Nicholls, 2 C. & P. 365, 12 E. C. L. 620; Reuter v. Electric Tel. Co., 6 E. & B. 341, 2 Jur. N. S. 1245, 26 L. J. Q. B. 46, 4 Wkly. Rep. 564, 88 E. C. L. 341; Henderson v. Australian Royal Mail Steam Nav. Co., 5 E. & B. 409, 1 Jur. N. S. 830, 24 L. J. Q. B. 322, 3 Wkly. Rep. 571, 85 E. C. L. 409; Haigh v. North Bierley Union, E. B. & E. 873, 5 Jur. N. S. 511, 28 L. J. Q. B. 62, 6 Wkly. Rep. 679, 96 E. C. L. 873; Pauling v. London, etc., R. Co., 8 Exch. 867, 23 L. J. Exch. 105, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 816; London Fishmongers' Mystery v. Robertson, 12 L. J. C. P. 185, 5 M. & G. 131, 6 Scott N. R. 56, 44 E. C. L. 78; Clark v. Cuckfield Union, 1 L. & M. 81, 16 Jur. 686, 28 L. J. Q. B. 349.

84. Alabama.— Bates v. State Bank, 2 Ala. 451; Everett v. U. S., 6 Port. 166, 30 Am. Dec. 584.

Florida.— St. Andrew's Bay Land Co. v. Mitchell, 4 Fla. 192, 54 Am. Dec. 340.

Illinois.— Board of Education v. Greenbaum, 39 Ill. 609.

New Mexico.— Western Homestead, etc., Co. v. Albuquerque First Nat. Bank, 9 N. M. 1, 47 Pac. 721.

North Carolina.— Buncombe Turnpike Co. v. McCarson, 18 N. C. 306.

Pennsylvania.— Wolf v. Goddard, 9 Watts 544.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. 338, 5 L. ed. 631; Mechanics' Bank v. Columbia Bank, 5 Wheat. 326, 5 L. ed. 100; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1239.

In England trading corporations may appoint attorneys to act for the corporation without affixing the corporate seal to the instrument of appointment. Faviell v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 6 D. & L. 54, 2 Exch. 344, 17 L. J. Exch. 297; Reg. v. Cumberland, 5 Eng. R. Cas. 332; Thames Haven Dock, etc., Co. v. Hall, 7 Jur. 238, 5 M. & G. 274, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 441, 6 Scott N. R. 342, 44 E. C. L. 150. Compare Arnold v. Poole, 2 Dowl. N. S. 574, 7 Jur. 653, 12 L. J. C. P. 97, 4 M. & G. 860, 5 Scott N. R. 741, 43 E. C. L. 444.

d. May Contract Through Agents Duly Authorized by Corporate Vote. Corporations now generally contract through the intervention of their principal officers, such as their president and secretary, or of other agents specially appointed thereto, and in either case, when duly authorized by a corporate vote, which is generally a vote of the board of directors or trustees, but sometimes as we shall see a vote of the shareholders.[85]

e. Bound by Simple Contracts, Including Negotiable Instruments, and by Implied Contracts, Entered Into by Its Agents Within Scope of Their Authority. It is now the settled American doctrine that a corporation may make promissory notes and simple contracts without affixing its corporate seal, and that it may be bound like an individual by contracts entered into by its agents acting within the scope of their authority, and by contracts implied from a course of dealing or from the circumstances of a transaction.[86]

f. May Act Without Seal Whenever Individual Can — (1) In General. The old rule that a corporation cannot make a contract except by the use of its corporate seal is entirely exploded,[87] and the rule is that unless the charter or govern-

85. Connecticut.— New Haven Sav. Bank v. Davis, 8 Conn. 191.

Kentucky.— Garrison v. Combs, 7 J. J. Marsh. 84, 22 Am. Dec. 120.

Maryland.— Kennedy v. Baltimore Ins. Co., 3 Harr. & J. 367, 6 Am. Dec. 499; Union Bank v. Ridgely, 1 Harr. & G. 324.

Massachusetts.—Hayden v. Middlesex Turnpike Corp., 10 Mass. 397, 6 Am. Dec. 143; Essex Turnpike Corp. v. Collins, 8 Mass. 292; Andover, etc., Turnpike Corp. v. Hay, 7 Mass. 102.

New York.— Dunn v. St. Andrew's Church, 14 Johns. 118.

South Carolina.— Colcock v. Garvey, 1 Nott & M. 231.

Virginia.—Legrand v. Hampden Sidney College, 5 Munf. 324.

86. California.— Smith v. Eureka Mills Co., 6 Cal. 1.

Illinois.— New Athens v. Thomas, 82 Ill. 259; Columbia Casino Co. v. World's Columbian Exposition, 85 Ill. App. 369.

Indiana.— Christian Church v. Johnson, 53 Ind. 273; McCabe v. Fountain County, 46 Ind. 380; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Evansville, 15 Ind. 395; Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203; Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Ross v. Madison, 1 Ind. 281, 48 Am. Dec. 361.

Iowa.— Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239.

Kentucky.— Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171.

Maine.— Came v. Brigham, 39 Me. 35.

Massachusetts.— Speirs v. Union Drop-Forge Co., 174 Mass. 175, 54 N. E. 497 (contract of employment); Fay v. Noble, 12 Cush. 1.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452.

New Jersey.— Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221; Stratton v. Allen, 16 N. J. Eq. 229.

New York.— Smith v. Law, 21 N. Y. 296; Barnes v. Ontario Bank, 19 N. Y. 152; Leavitt v. Blatchford, 17 N. Y. 521; Peterson v. New York, 17 N. Y. 449; Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9; Ketchum v. Buffalo, 14 N. Y. 356; Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. 146; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. 20; Beers v. Phœnix Glass Co., 14 Barb. 358; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. 27; Halstead v. New York, 5 Barb. 218; Brady v. Brooklyn, 1 Barb. 584; McCullough v. Moss, 5 Den. 567; Russell v. New York, 2 Den. 461; Moss v. Rossie Lead Min. Co., 5 Hill 137; Safford v. Wyckoff, 4 Hill 442; Kelley v. Brooklyn, 4 Hill 263; Moss v. Oakley, 2 Hill 265; Tucker v. Rochester, 7 Wend. 254; Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664; Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Atty.-Gen. v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 9 Paige 470; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

North Carolina.— Craven v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 289.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Pittsburgh, 41 Pa. St. 278; McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant 36.

Rhode Island.— Clarke v. School Dist. No. 7, 3 R. I. 199.

United States.— White Water Valley Co. v. Vallette, 21 How. 414, 16 L. ed. 154; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351; Hailey First Nat. Bank v. G. V. B. Mining Co., 89 Fed. 439; Bayerque v. San Francisco, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1137, 1 McAll. 175.

England.— Dunn v. Sayles, 5 Q. B. 685, D. & M. 579, 8 Jur. 358, 13 L. J. Q. B. 159, 48 E. C. L. 685; Aspdin v. Austin, 5 Q. B. 671, D. & M. 515, 13 L. J. Q. B. 155, 48 E. C. L. 671; Whittle v. Frankland, 2 B. & S. 49, 8 Jur. N. S. 382, 31 L. J. M. C. 81, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 639, 110 E. C. L. 49; Hartley v. Cummings, 5 C. B. 247, 57 E. C. L. 247, 2 C. & K. 433, 61 E. C. L. 433, 12 Jur. 57, 17 L. J. C. P. 84; Reg. v. Welch, 2 E. & B. 357, 17 Jur. 1007, 22 L. J. M. C. 145, 75 E. C. L. 357; Pilkington v. Scott, 15 L. J. Exch. 329, 15 M. & W. 657.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1801.

87. California.— Crowley v. Genesee Min. Co., 55 Cal. 273, under California Civil Code.

Maryland.— Union Bank v. Ridgely, 1 Harr. & G. 324.

Massachusetts.— Canal Bridge v. Gordon, 1 Pick. 297, 11 Am. Dec. 170; Rumford v. Wood, 13 Mass. 193.

ing statute requires it the act of the corporation need not be evidenced by its corporate seal, except where a seal would be required in the case of individuals.[88] If therefore the necessity of affixing a seal to a deed has been abrogated by statute generally, a corporation will not be required to affix its seal to its deed.[89] It is said that the acts of a corporation, evidenced by a vote, written or unwritten, are as completely binding upon it, and are as full authority to its agents as the most solemn acts done under the corporate seal; and that promises and engagements may as well be implied from its acts and the acts of its agents as if it were an individual.[90] In other words a corporation may make a valid contract without using any seal, when not expressly required to contract under its corporate seal.[91]

(II) Seal Not Required in Banking Transactions. The use of a corporate seal is not required in indorsing bills of exchange or accepting drafts, or in any of the numerous instruments required in banking transactions.[92]

New York.— Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Munn v. Commission Co., 15 Johns. 44, 8 Am. Dec. 219; Danforth v. Schoharie, etc., Turnpike Road, 12 Johns. 227.

Pennsylvania.— Chestnut Hill, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Rutter, 4 Serg. & R. 6, 8 Am. Dec. 675.

Virginia.— Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. 338, 5 L. ed. 631; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

England.— Rex v. Bigg, 2 East P. C. 882, 3 P. Wms. 419, 24 Eng. Reprint 1127.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1801.

88. Alabama.— McCullough v. Talladega Ins. Co., 46 Ala. 376.

Florida.— Southern L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Lanier, 5 Fla. 110, 58 Am. Dec. 448.

Illinois.— B. S. Green Co. v. Blodgett, 55 Ill. App. 556.

Indiana.— Christian Church v. Johnson, 53 Ind. 273; Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Ross v. Madison, 1 Ind. 281, 48 Am. Dec. 361; Globe Acc. Ins. Co. v. Reid, 19 Ind. App. 203, 47 N. E. 497 [modified in 49 N. E. 291].

Iowa.— Muscatine Water Co. v. Muscatine Lumber Co., 85 Iowa 112, 52 N. W. 108, 39 Am. St. Rep. 284; Merrick v. Burlington, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Iowa 74; Ring v. Johnson County, 6 Iowa 265.

Maine.— Warren v. Ocean Ins. Co., 16 Me. 439, 33 Am. Dec. 674.

Missouri.— Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187.

New Mexico.—Western Homestead, etc., Co. v. Albuquerque First Nat. Bank, 9 N. M. 1, 47 Pac. 721.

New York.— Watson v. Bennett, 12 Barb. 196; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. 27; New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 1 Hilt. 562; Beth Elohim Congregation v. Brooklyn Cent. Presb. Church, 10 Abb. Pr. N. S. 484; American Ins. Co. v. Oakley, 9 Paige 496, 38 Am. Dec. 561. A deed executed by trustees individually under special statute without corporate seal was held good in De Zeng v. Beekman, 2 Hill 489.

Pennsylvania.—Hamilton v. Lycoming Mut. Ins. Co., 5 Pa. St. 339; McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant 36.

Texas.— In one case it is said that trading corporations are permitted to do many things in the way of simple contracts, without the common seal of the corporation, which municipal corporations are not allowed to do. San Antonio v. Gould, 34 Tex. 49. This refers to the English doctrine referred to in 4 Thompson Corp. § 5059.

Vermont.— Sheldon v. Fairfax, 21 Vt. 102.

Wisconsin.— Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 349, 78 Am. Dec. 709.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 68, 6 L. ed. 552, per Story, J.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1801.

89. East End Bldg., etc., Co. v. Hughey, 16 Ohio Cir. Ct. 19.

90. Elysville Mfg. Co. v. Okisko Co., 1 Md. Ch. 392; U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 64, 6 L. ed. 552.

91. Alabama.— State University v. Moody, 62 Ala. 389.

Indiana.— Wolcott Christian Church v. Johnson, 53 Ind. 273.

Kentucky.— Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171.

Maine.— Stanley v. Brunswick Tontine Hotel Corp., 13 Me. 51, 29 Am. Dec. 485.

Maryland.— Stoddert v. Port Tobacco Parish, 2 Gill & J. 227.

New York.— Hoag v. Lamont, 60 N. Y. 96; Brady v. Brooklyn, 1 Barb. 584; Beth Elohim Congregation v. Brooklyn Cent. Presb. Church, 10 Abb. Pr. N. S. 484.

Pennsylvania.— Rathbone v. Tioga Nav. Co., 2 Watts & S. 74.

92. Everett v. U. S., 6 Port. (Ala.) 166, 30 Am. Dec. 584; Spear v. Ladd, 11 Mass. 94; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 338, 5 L. ed. 631; Mechanics' Bank v. Columbia Bank, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 326, 5 L. ed. 100; Morse Banks & Bank. (2d ed.) p. 78. See also Montgomery Branch State Bank v. Harrison, 2 Port. (Ala.) 540; Church v. Imperial Gas Light, etc., Co., 6 A. & E. 846, 7 L. J. Q. B. 118, 3 N. & P. 35, 1 W. W. & H. 137, 33 E. C. L. 443.

(III) Seal Not Required in Lease. As a lease passes in theory of the common law only a chattel interest in land, a seal is not required to give validity to a lease made by a corporation, since it would not be required in the case of an individual.[93] It seems, however, that if a lease made by a corporation is sealed as well as properly signed, the signature and seal carry with them prima facie evidence that the instrument is executed by the proper authority as in other cases.[94]

(IV) Seal Not Required in Agreement to Convey Land. Such unsealed agreement made by a corporation will be enforced in equity, although not under seal, just as in the case of an individual.[95]

(V) Corporation May Accept Deed by Parol. As in the case of an individual,[96] so in the case of a corporation, a deed of grant to a corporation may be accepted by parol.[97]

(VI) Whether Seal Required in Answers in Chancery Cases. Anciently a corporation could not answer in chancery except under its corporate seal;[98] and there is one modern decision so holding,[99] but, as corporations have the power to appoint attorneys without the use of their seal (except attorneys to execute sealed instruments for them), there is no propriety in the conclusion that an attorney retained by a corporation to defend a judicial proceeding instituted against it cannot answer for it in precisely the same mode, according to the course of the court, as he might for an individual; and such is believed to be the universal American practice.

g. Cannot Act Without Seal Where Natural Persons Cannot — (I) In General. Of course the relaxation of the use of the seal in which corporations have been thus indulged by the law does not exempt a corporation from the use of its seal in cases where a seal would be required if the instrument were executed by an individual in his own behalf instead of by a corporation.[1]

(II) Cannot Convey or Mortgage Real Property Without Seal. The manner by which real estate may be transferred by a corporation, either domestic or foreign, is a matter which it is within the power of the state in which such real estate is situated to regulate.[2] It is therefore competent for a state to abolish the use of seals in the conveyance of real estate situated within its limits, whether by individuals or by corporations. But except in those states or terri-

93. Crawford v. Longstreet, 43 N. J. L. 325.

Under the Pennsylvania act of May 25, 1887, an action will lie against a corporation on a lease signed by its secretary, but without the corporate seal. Marqueze v. Cresswell, 3 Pa. Co. Ct. 559.

94. West Side Auction House Co. v. Connecticut Mut. Ins. Co., 85 Ill. App. 497 [affirmed in 186 Ill. 156, 57 N. E. 839].

For stronger reasons a seal is not required to validate an agreement by a corporation to lease real estate, but such an unsealed instrument may be subsequently made good by ratification. Conant v. Bellows Falls Canal Co., 29 Vt. 263.

95. Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. (Va.) 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706; Legrand v. Hampden Sidney College, 5 Munf. (Va.) 324.

96. Swisshelm v. Swissvale Laundry Co., 95 Pa. St. 367; Smith's Appeal, 69 Pa. St. 474; Tripp v. Bishop, 56 Pa. St. 424.

97. Swisshelm v. Swissvale Laundry Co., 95 Pa. St. 367.

98. Rex v. Windham, Cowp. 377; Angell & A. Corp. § 665; Cooper Eq. Pl. 325; 1 Daniell Ch. Pr. 876, note 1; 3 Hoffman Ch. Pr. 239; Mitford Pl. 9; 1 Newland Ch. Pr. 131; Story Eq. Pl. 874.

99. Ransom v. Stonington Sav. Bank, 13 N. J. Eq. 212.

1. Sandford v. Tremlett, 42 Mo. 384; Crawford v. Longstreet, 43 N. J. L. 325; State v. Senft, 2 Hill (S. C.) 367; Winne v. Bampton, 3 Atk. 473, 26 Eng. Reprint 1072.

2. Johnson v. California Lustral Co., 127 Cal. 283, 59 Pac. 595; Granite Gold Min. Co. v. Maginness, 118 Cal. 131, 50 Pac. 269; Pekin Min., etc., Co. v. Kennedy, 81 Cal. 356, 22 Pac. 679; McShane v. Carter, 80 Cal. 310, 22 Pac. 178; Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Bradley, 164 U. S. 112, 17 S. Ct. 56, 41 L. ed. 369; Brine v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 96 U. S. 627, 25 L. ed. 858; Williams v. Gaylord, 102 Fed. 372, 42 C. C. A. 401. See also Brown v. New Jersey, 175 U. S. 172, 20 S. Ct. 77, 44 L. ed. 119; Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 175 U. S. 91, 20 S. Ct. 33, 44 L. ed. 84; Forsyth v. Hammond, 166 U. S. 506, 17 S. Ct. 665, 41 L. ed. 1095; Cutler v. Huston, 158 U. S. 423, 15 S. Ct. 868, 39 L. ed. 1040; Hooper v. California, 155 U. S. 648, 15 S. Ct. 207, 39 L. ed. 297; Etheridge v. Sperry, 136 U. S. 266, 11 S. Ct. 565, 35 L. ed. 171; Union Nat. Bank v. Kansas City Bank, 136 U. S. 223, 10 S. Ct. 1013, 34 L. ed. 341; Wilson v. Perrin, 62 Fed. 629, 11 C. C. A. 66 (per Lurton, J.).

tories where this has been done the rule of the common law remains that a deed conveying land, whether in fee or whether by mortgage, in order to be valid and effectual without the aid of equity must be executed by the use of the corporate seal.[3]

(III) Cannot Execute Formal Bonds Without Seal — (A) In General. Nor can a corporation ordinarily execute a formal bond but by means of its corporate seal countersigned by an officer entitled to affix the same,[4] as for instance a bond given by a private corporation as plaintiff in a suit by attachment.[5]

(B) Except in States Where Private Seals Are Not Required. But in a jurisdiction where a private seal is not required to an appeal-bond or recognizance given in a judicial proceeding, if the appellant is a corporation and the bond is executed by its authorized officers in its behalf, it will be valid without the affixing of the corporate seal.[6]

(IV) Unsealed Bonds, Deeds, Etc., Good in Equity. But even in cases where a seal is required when the instrument is that of a natural person, a court of equity will not treat the instrument as void when executed by a corporation without the use of its seal, but if necessary will rather compel the corporation to affix its seal.[7] In other words where the principles of equity subsist, an unsealed bond, if the omission of the seal was due to inadvertence, is good, and not bad.[8] So the failure to attach the corporate seal to a mortgage executed by a corporation is not fatal to its validity in equity.[9]

h. Propriety of Using Corporate Seal on Simple Contracts. While it is not necessary, it is not improper, to defer to the ancient rule of the common law by using the corporate seal as a means of evidencing its assent to a simple contract;[10] and we shall see hereafter[11] that according to modern authority the use of a seal by a corporation on an instrument otherwise negotiable does not render it non-negotiable;[12] and so the use of a seal where none is required, as in accepting a proposal, does not raise the contract to the dignity of a specialty or prevent assumpsit instead of covenant from being maintained thereon.[13]

i. Power of Corporate Officer Not Increased by Using Corporate Seal. But if no power exists on the part of an officer of a corporation to make a contract which he assumes to make for it, the contract cannot be vitalized, that is to say, this wanting power cannot be created and put into the contract, by the mere fact that in executing the instrument which is evidence of it the officer used the corporate seal.[14]

3. Illinois.— Danville Seminary v. Mott, 136 Ill. 289, 28 N. E. 54.

North Carolina.— Duke v. Markham, 105 N. C. 131, 10 S. E. 1017, 18 Am. St. Rep. 889, mortgage without seal signed by the president, the secretary, and two shareholders effectual.

Oregon.— Thayer v. Nehalem Mill Co., 31 Oreg. 437, 51 Pac. 202.

Texas.— Texas Consol. Compress, etc., Assoc. v. Dublin Compress, etc., Co., (Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 404.

United States.— In re St. Helen Mill Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,222, 3 Sawy. 88.

A statute abolishing the use of private seals in written contracts, except the seals of corporations, does not change the rule of the common law with respect to conveyances by corporations. Garrett v. Belmont Land Co., 94 Tenn. 459, 29 S. W. 726.

4. South Missouri Land Co. v. Jeffries, 40 Mo. App. 360.

5. Tanner, etc., Engine Co. v. Hall, 22 Fla. 391.

6. Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187, where an undertaking for the costs, etc., of an appeal was held valid chiefly on the ground of ratification.

7. Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 12 Kan. 482.

8. Solon v. Williamsburg Sav. Bank, 114 N. Y. 122, 21 N. E. 168, 23 N. Y. St. 138 [affirming 47 Hun (N. Y. 632]. See also Wiser v. Blachly, 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 607; Bernards Tp. v. Stebbins, 109 U. S. 341, 3 S. Ct. 252, 27 L. ed. 956.

9. Allis v. Jones, 45 Fed. 148.

10. Central Nat. Bank v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 5 S. C. 156, 22 Am. Rep. 12.

11. See infra, XII, E, 1.

12. Central Nat. Bank v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 5 S. C. 156, 22 Am. Rep. 12.

13. Levering v. Memphis, 7 Humphr. (Tenn.) 553. See also Dunn v. Auburn Electric Motor Co., 92 Me. 165, 42 Atl. 389.

14. Gibson v. Goldthwaite, 7 Ala. 281, 42 Am. Dec. 592; Luse v. Isthmus Transit R. Co., 6 Oreg. 125, 25 Am. Rep. 506. See also infra, XII, D, 3, c, (II), (D).

j. Effect of Alteration of Corporate Bond After Issue by Affixing Pretended Seal. The alteration by a stranger of a bond issued by a corporation by affixing to them wax impressions of seals, where the corporate seal has been omitted by mistake, will not impair their validity in the hands of a bona fide holder for value, in a suit brought against him to cancel them because of the alteration.[15]

k. Unsealed Corporate Obligations Validated by Ratification. Unsealed instruments emitted by corporations, to which the corporate seal should have been affixed, are often validated by subsequent adoption or recognition by the corporation, under the principles hereafter stated, without any formal vote or resolution.[16]

l. Statutory Requirements as to Use of Seal by Corporations Must Be Observed. This is on the principle that corporations derive all their powers from the law, and hence can act only in conformity with the mandate of the law.[17] But judges have sometimes escaped the inconvenience and injustice which have arisen from this severe rule by holding the statute to be directory merely.[18]

2. Manner of Executing Sealed Instruments by Corporations — a. What Is a Sealed Instrument — (I) In General. Lord Coke says "Sigillum est cera impressa; sine impressione, non est sigillum."[19] This proposition may be said to have little force at the present time, although there are reported cases in which it has been rigidly adhered to.[20] But we are not at the present day, in the language of Chancellor Halstead, "fast in the wax";[21] and there is now not the slightest doubt, either in England or in this country, that a device intended to be the seal, either of an individual or of a corporation, may be a perfectly good seal, although not impressed in wax or in wafer.[22]

(II) Impression Indented Into Bare Paper. Referring back to Lord Coke's definition of a seal, it will be seen that merely fastening wax upon a document did not constitute it a deed. The wax was only auxiliary. The impression thereon was the sine qua non of the formality. The impression upon the wax 15. Solon v. Williamsburg Sav. Bank, 114 N. Y. 122, 21 N. E. 168, 23 N. Y. St. 138 [affirming 47 Hun (N. Y.) 632].

16. See infra, XV. See also Springfield First Nat. Bank v. Fricke, 75 Mo. 178, 42 Am. Rep. 397; Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290; Kiley v. Forsee, 57 Mo. 390, 396 (where it is said: "Not only the appointment, but the authority of the agent of a corporation may be implied from the adoption or recognition of his acts by the corporation").

17. Alabama.—Logwood v. Planters', etc., Bank, Minor 23.

California.— Brewster v. Hartley, 37 Cal. 15, 99 Am. Dec. 237; Holland v. San Francisco, 7 Cal. 361.

Connecticut.— Stow v. Wyse, 7 Conn. 214, 18 Am. Dec. 99.

Illinois.— Kinzie v. Chicago, 3 Ill. 187, 33 Am. Dec. 443.

Kentucky.— Waller v. Commonwealth Bank, 3 J. J. Marsh. 201.

Massachusetts.— Spear v. Ladd, 11 Mass. 94; Essex Turnpike Corp. v. Collins, 8 Mass. 292. Compare Sanborn v. Fireman's Ins. Co., 16 Gray 448, 77 Am. Dec. 419.

Missouri.— Henning v. U. S. Ins. Co., 47 Mo. 425, 4 Am. Rep. 332.

New Jersey.—Osborne v. Tunis, 25 N. J. L. 633.

New York.— Barnes v. Ontario Bank, 19 N. Y. 152; Safford v. Wyckoff, 4 Hill 442; Life, etc., Ins. Co. v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 7 Wend. 31; Dawes v. North River Ins. Co., 7 Cow. 462; New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 2 Cow. 678; People v. Utica Ins. Co., 15 Johns. 358, 8 Am. Dec. 243.

Pennsylvania.—Kentucky Bank v. Schuylkill Bank, 1 Pars. Eq. Cas. 180.

Tennessee.— Talmadge v. North American Coal, etc., Co., 3 Head 337.

United States.— Head v. Providence Ins. Co., 2 Cranch 127, 2 L. ed. 229.

England.— Williams v. Chester, etc., R. Co., 5 Eng. L. & Eq. 497.

The old doctrine was that where the charter or governing statute prescribes the mode in which the officers or agents of a corporation shall exercise its power the mode so pointed out by the legislature must be strictly pursued to render the contracts obligatory upon the corporation. St. Andrews Bay Land Co. v. Mitchell, 4 Fla. 192, 54 Am. Dec. 340.

18. See supra, XII, B, 1, a.

19. 3 Inst. 169.

20. Perry v. Price, 1 Mo. 645; Douglas v. Oldham, 6 N. H. 150; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Haight, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 493; Rochester Bank v. Gray, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 277; Warren v. Lynch, 5 Johns. (N. Y.) 239; Beardsley v. Knight, 4 Vt. 471.

21. Corrigan v. Trenton Delaware Falls Co., 5 N. J. Eq. 52, 56.

22. Sugden Powers (1st Am. ed.) 236.

being therefore the essential circumstance, it obviously can make no difference in fact whether that impression appears at the end of the signature upon wax or indented into the bare paper.[23] It has, however, been denied that this constitutes a valid sealing.[24] The legality of this method of sealing by corporations is established by statute in Connecticut,[25] Georgia,[26] Massachusetts,[27] Minnesota,[28] New Hampshire,[29] New York,[30] Ohio,[31] Oregon,[32] and West Virginia.[33]

(III) What Devices Are Good as Corporate Seals. Without indicating in all cases the process by which the conclusion has been reached, it may be said that in many American jurisdictions the following devices in lieu of corporate seals, impressed in wax or wafer, have been held to be good as such: A scrawl made by a pen;[34] a small bit of paper attached by a wafer and set opposite each signature to the instrument, this being regarded as the seal of the corporation as well as of the individual signing, the court saying: "Twenty may sign at the same time with the same seal."[35]

23. California.— Connolly v. Goodwin, 5 Cal. 220.

Maine.— Woodman v. York, etc., R. Co., 50 Me. 549.

Massachusetts.— Hendee v. Pinkerton, 14 Allen 381.

New Hampshire.—Allen v. Sullivan R. Co., 32 N. H. 446; Carter v. Burley, 9 N. H. 558.

New Jersey.— Corrigan v. Trenton Delaware Falls Co., 5 N. J. Eq. 52.

New York.— Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9, 90, 17 Barb. 309.

United States.— Pillow v. Roberts, 13 How. 472, 14 L. ed. 228 [reversing 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,167, Hempst. 624]; Follett v. Rose, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,900, 3 McLean 332; Orr v. Lacy, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,589, 4 McLean 243.

England.— Reg. v. St. Paul, 7 Q. B. 232, 53 E. C. L. 232; In re Sandilands, L. R. 6 C. P. 411.

24. Mitchell v. Union L. Ins. Co., 45 Me. 104, 71 Am. Dec. 529; Hopewell Tp. v. Amwell Tp., 6 N. J. L. 169; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Haight, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 493.

25. Conn. Gen. Stat. (1875), p. 438, § 17.

26. Ga. Code (1873), § 5.

27. Mass. Gen. Stat. (1860), p. 51.

28. Minn. Stat. at L. p. 119.

29. N. H. Gen. Stat. (1867), p. 40, § 10.

30. 4 N. Y. Stat. at L. p. 633, c. 197; N. Y. Rev. Stat. (6th ed.) p. 668, § 90.

31. Ohio Rev. Stat. (1880), p. 1845, § 4.

32. Oreg. Gen. Laws (1872), p. 258, §§ 741, 742.

33. 2 W. Va. Rev. Stat. (1879), p. 741, c. 114, § 15.

In the case of seals of courts and public officers the same is permitted by statute in several states.

Arizona.— Comp. Laws (1877), p. 32, § 13.

Arkansas.— Dig. Stat. (1874), § 1148.

California.— Civ. Code, § 14.

Colorado.— Civ. Code, § 385.

Iowa.— Code (1873), p. 8, § 45.

Nevada.— Comp. Laws, § 965.

New York.— 2 Stat. at L. p. 285, § 10; p. 420, § 61.

Vermont.— Gen. Stat. (1860), p. 54, § 13.

Virginia.— Code (1873), p. 145.

34. Reynolds v. Glasgow Academy, 6 Dana (Ky.) 37. See also Johnston v. Crawley, 25 Ga. 316, 71 Am. Dec. 173. The substitution of the "scroll" or "scrawl" for the seal is permitted by statute in many states. See Conn. Gen. Stat. (1875), p. 438, § 17; Ga. Code (1873), § 5; Ill. Rev. Stat. (1877), p. 270, § 1; Mich. Comp. Laws (1871), p. 1348, § 39; p. 1708, § 80; Minn. Stat. at L. p. 641, § 31; Miss. Rev. Code (1871), p. 483, § 2227; Mo. Rev. Stat. (1879), p. 106, § 662; N. J. Rev. (1877), p. 387, § 52; p. 741, § 1; Ohio Rev. Stat. (1880), p. 184, § 4; Oreg. Gen. Laws (1872), p. 258, §§ 741, 742; Va. Code (1873), p. 195; p. 985, § 2; Wis. Rev. Stat. (1878), p. 636, § 2215. But in Connecticut, Michigan, Virginia, and Wisconsin, the seals of corporations are especially excepted in the foregoing statutes. In some states the use of private seals and scrolls as substitutes therefor is abolished by statute. See Ala. Code (1876), § 2194; 2 Davis Stat. Ind. (1876), p. 147, § 274; Kan. Comp. Laws (1879), p. 209, § 6; Ky. Gen. Stat. (1879), p. 249, § 2; Nebr. Gen. Stat. (1873), p. 100, § 1; Thompson & Steg. Stat. Tenn. (1871), § 1804; Tex. Rev. Stat. (1879), p. 644, art. 4487. See also Missouri Fire Clay Works v. Ellison, 30 Mo. App. 67.

35. California.— Gashwiler v. Willis, 33 Cal. 11, 91 Am. Dec. 607.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Johnson, 40 Ill. 35.

Maine.— Porter v. Androscoggin, etc., R. Co., 37 Me. 349.

Massachusetts.— Stebbins v. Merritt, 10 Cush. 27; Mill Dam Foundery v. Hovey, 21 Pick. 417.

New Hampshire.— Tenney v. East Warren Lumber Co., 43 N. H. 343.

New Jersey.— Ransom v. Stonington Sav. Bank, 13 N. J. Eq. 212.

New York.— Albany South Baptist Soc. v. Clapp, 18 Barb. 35.

Ohio.—Western Female Seminary v. Blair, 1 Disn. 370, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 677.

Pennsylvania.—Crossman v. Hilltown Turnpike Co., 3 Grant 225.

South Carolina.— St. Philips Church v. Zion Presb. Church, 23 S. C. 297.

(iv) What Device When Corporation Has No Seal. If the corporation has adopted no common seal, it seems that the trustees may, in directing the president to execute a sealed instrument, such as a mortgage, adopt a seal pro hac vice as the seal of the corporation for the time being and for the purpose of the particular instrument, and direct that it be affixed opposite his name;[36] and there are holdings to the effect that a corporation may adopt and make effectual as its seal the individual seals of its officers affixed to its deed when it has no seal of its own.[37] Statutes exist under the operation or construction of which a deed executed by a corporation without affixing its seal will be held good where it is not shown that the corporation had a seal when the instrument was executed;[38] and the requirement of such a statute that where the corporation has no seal to omit the words stating when the deed is sealed by the corporation, and to recite in place of such words that the corporation has no seal, will be regarded as directory, so that if both the seal and the recital are omitted the deed will still be good.[39]

(v) Seal Printed on Instrument by Printer. Although a seal printed upon a corporate deed or bond by the printer of the document is not in strictness of common law the corporate seal,[40] yet it will be regarded as such, especially when affixed by the printer by direction of the proper officer of the corporation after the instrument is printed and in order to prepare it to be signed and issued.[41]

(vi) When Device Presumed to Be Corporate Seal. When the instrument appears to be executed in behalf of the corporation by the proper officer or officers, the device which is annexed as the corporate seal, whatever it may be, will be prima facie presumed to be the common seal of the corporation, which presumption is, however, subject to be overcome by evidence to the contrary.[42]

b. Not Necessary to Recite That Parties Have Affixed Their Seals. In executing a sealed instrument by a corporation it is not necessary to recite that the parties have affixed their seals, nor will the instrument be vitiated because it merely recites that they have affixed their hands. It is sufficient that it should otherwise appear that the seal has been affixed.[43]

c. Sealing When Sufficient Without Signing. Following the well-known rule of the common law,[44] an instrument intended to be the deed of a corporation will be effectual as such although not signed with the corporate name, provided the corporate seal be attached;[45] but this rule has been held not to obtain under

Vermont.— Middlebury Bank v. Rutland, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 30 Vt. 158.

36. Albany South Baptist Soc. v. Clapp, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 35.

37. Taylor v. Heggie, 83 N. C. 244; Nicholas v. Putnam Mach. Co., 7 Northam. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 137.

38. Turner v. Kingston Lumber Co., 106 Tenn. 1, 58 S. W. 854, 59 S. W. 410.

39. Pullis v. Pullis Bros. Iron Co., 157 Mo. 565, 57 S. W. 1095.

40. Bates v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 10 Allen (Mass.) 251.

41. Royal Bank v. Grand Junction R., etc., Co., 100 Mass. 444, 97 Am. Dec. 115. That an action of assumpsit instead of covenant can be maintained upon a policy of life insurance containing merely a printed device in lieu of a seal see Mitchell v. Union L. Ins. Co., 45 Me. 104, 71 Am. Dec. 529. To the same effect see Woodman v. York, etc., R. Co., 50 Me. 549 [citing Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9].

42. Stebbins v. Merritt, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 27; Mill Dam Foundery v. Hovey, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 417, 428.

43. Mill Dam Foundery v. Hovey, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 417, 428 [citing Godard's Case, 2 Coke 5]. "It is not material with what seal the instrument is sealed, for the seal of a stranger is sufficient, and if a corporation seal, there is no need to say, 'Sigillum nostrum commune.'" Porter v. Androscoggin, etc., R. Co., 37 Me. 349, 350 [citing Comyns Dig. Fait. (A) 2].

44. Cherry v. Heming, 4 Exch. 631, 19 L. J. Exch. 64; Aveline v. Whisson, 12 L. J. C. P. 58, 4 M. & G. 801, 43 E. C. L. 414; 2 Bl. Comm. 306; Sheppard Touch-stone (Preston's ed.) 56 note.

45. Illinois.— Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631.

Maine.— Decker v. Freeman, 3 Me. 338.

Massachusetts.—Sherman v. Fitch, 98 Mass. 59; Haven v. Adams, 4 Allen 80; Hutchins v. Byrnes, 9 Gray 367.

New Hampshire.— Tenney v. East Warren Lumber Co., 43 N. H. 343.

New York.— Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 7 Lans. 240; St. Peter Episcopal Church v. Varian, 28 Barb. 644; Jackson v. Walsh, 3 Johns. 226; Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige 54.

England.—Cooch v. Goodman, 2 Q. B. N. S.

a statute by the terms of which it was enacted that deeds of land should be signed and sealed.[46]

d. Manner of Signing Corporate Deeds. The formal manner of signing the deed of a corporation is to sign the name of the corporation, by A B, its president, and C D, its secretary. But according to the good modern theory, if it appears in the body of the deed that the corporation is the grantor, it will not be regarded as the personal deed of the officers merely because they signed their names with their official additions, instead of signing the name of the corporation with the additions, "by A B, its president," and "by C D, its secretary";[47] although it is to be confessed that there is musty authority to the contrary.[48] It has often been held that where a deed is executed under a power, no particular form of words need be used, provided the act is done in the name of the principal; and accordingly that it is immaterial whether such a deed is signed "A B for C D," or "C D by A B."[49] A deed by a corporation is in proper form if expressed to be by the corporation, naming them, by their agent, naming him, and concluding: "In witness whereof, they," naming the company, "by their agent, have hereunto set their seal, and the said agent hath hereunto subscribed his name."[50]

e. Manner of Acknowledging Corporate Deeds. This inquiry is believed to be important only where the deed conveys land, in which case it depends upon the local statute law of the state, territory, or other jurisdiction in which the land is situated. Generally speaking a formal acknowledgment is required only for the purpose of admitting the deed to record in the office of the register or recorder of deeds, or in some other public office. Where the governing statute provides that any deed may be recorded, if it shall be acknowledged by the party who shall have executed it, the officer taking the acknowledgment, being satisfied that such person is the grantor mentioned in the deed, or if it be proved by the subscribing witnesses to it, that such parties signed, sealed, and delivered the same, the acknowledgment of the deed of a corporation aggregate may be made by the representative of the corporation who has authority to execute the deed in its behalf.[51] Where the governing statute requires the officer to acknowledge the 580, 42 E. C. L. 817. See also Wilks v. Back, 2 East 142, 6 Rev. Rep. 409.

46. Isham v. Bennington Iron Co., 19 Vt. 230. Compare McDaniels v. Flower Brook Mfg. Co., 22 Vt. 274.

47. Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290. Compare McClure v. Herring, 70 Mo. 18, 35 Am. Rep. 404.

48. See authorities collected in 4 Thompson Corp. §§ 5074, 5075, 5085.

49. Wilks v. Back, 2 East 142, 6 Rev. Rep. 409. The authority of this case has been recognized in American cases too numerous to quote. See for instance Decker v. Freeman, 3 Me. 338. An assignment of a mortgage of real estate from a corporation, concluding, "In witness whereof, the said Bristol County Savings Bank, by George Atwood, their treasurer, duly authorized for this purpose, have hereunto set their name and seal," signed, "George Atwood, Tr. Bristol County Savings Bank," and sealed with the corporate seal, is in form executed by the corporation. Hutchins v. Byrnes, 9 Gray (Mass.) 367. A deed in this form: "We, the East Warren Lumber Company, in consideration of $5000 to us paid, etc., do give, grant," etc.; "We, the East Warren Lumber Company, do hereby covenant," etc., "If the East Warren Lumber Company shall pay," etc.; and concluding: "In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals," etc.; "David C. French, President," etc., and seal, "Ephraim S. Calley, Treasurer," etc., and seal, is the deed of the corporation, if the agents who executed the same were authorized to execute it. Tenney v. East Warren Lumber Co., 43 N. H. 343.

50. Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430. In like manner the following was well executed as the deed of the corporation: "In testimony whereof said party of the first part have caused these presents to be signed by their president, and their common seal to be hereto affixed. Sam'l S. Lewis, President," and corporate seal. Haven v. Adams, 4 Allen (Mass.) 80.

When equity will reform a deed signed by the officers in their own names.— It has been held that if the officers of a corporation, having authority to execute a deed of trust upon its property, undertake to do so, but execute it in their own names for the corporation, instead of in the name of the corporation, equity will reform the deed so as to make it conform to the agreement of the parties. West v. Madison County Agricultural Board, 82 Ill. 205.

51. Hopper v. Lovejoy, 47 N. J. Eq. 573, 21 Atl. 298.

instrument to be the act of the corporation, and the instrument on its face recites that it is the act of the corporation, and the officer acknowledges that he executes it "for the purpose therein expressed," this is tantamount to an acknowledgment that it is the act of the corporation.[52] The most appropriate witness to prove to the commissioner the authenticity of the seal and the propriety of its being affixed to the particular instrument is the officer, generally the secretary of the corporation, who has been intrusted with its custody, and who has affixed it to the instrument; and it has been said that such an officer stands in the character of a subscribing witness to the execution of the deed by the corporation, and may be examined by the commissioner of deeds to prove that the seal affixed by him is the common seal of the corporation, whose deed the conveyance or instrument to which it is affixed purports to be.[53] It has also been held that proof by the officer who executed the deed for the corporation before the commissioner of deeds, in order to enable it to be recorded, that he affixed the seal by the authority of the corporation, is tantamount to proof that he affixed it by the authority of a previous resolution of the board of directors, as required by the governing statute.[54] Where the corporate deed is executed by the president of the corporation and countersigned by its secretary, it is said that the secretary is not the officer who executes the instrument, but is merely the attesting witness who proves its execution before the proper officer, to authorize it to be recorded, and to be given in evidence without further proof, under the provision of the governing statute.[55] Where there is no statutory provision specially relating to the acknowledgment of deeds by a corporation, the officer affixing the seal of the corporation is the party executing the deed, within the meaning of a general statute relating to the acknowledgment of deeds.[56] The acknowledgment will be upheld where the words employed are equivalent in meaning to the statutory words.[57] It is not necessary to recite, in the certificate of acknowledgment, as conveyancers often do out of abundant caution, that the seal hereto annexed is annexed by the proper authority; because as elsewhere seen[58] when the authenticity of the seal is established, it is presumed to have been annexed by the proper authority;[59] and if it is not annexed by the proper authority a recital to that effect does not make it so.[60]

52. Ballard v. Carmichael, 83 Tex. 355, 18 S. W. 734. In like manner, where, to an assignment for the benefit of creditors, which purported in its body to be executed by a banking corporation, there was appended a notary's certificate that A B, president, and C D, cashier, of the corporation, "acknowledged that they executed and delivered the same as their voluntary act and deed, for the uses and purposes therein contained," it was held that this was a sufficient certificate that the corporation acknowledged the instrument. Eppright v. Nickerson, 78 Mo. 482, Hough, C. J., and Henry, J., dissenting.

53. Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige (N. Y.) 54. That the officer who affixes the corporate seal is the proper officer to be examined by the commissioner and to make the statutory affidavit see Bowers v. Hechtman, 45 Minn. 238, 47 N. W. 792.

54. Johnson v. Bush, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 207.

55. Johnson v. Bush, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 207. Where a corporate deed was acknowledged by the treasurer of the corporation, the acknowledgment was certified in like manner as if made by the treasurer as an individual, and the acknowledgment did not state that the seal affixed to the instrument was that of the corporation, or that it was affixed by order of the corporation, it was held sufficient to authorize the deed to be admitted of record. Hoopes v. Auburn Water Works, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 568.

56. Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige (N. Y.) 54; Kelly v. Calhoun, 95 U. S. 710, 24 L. ed. 544.

57. Kelly v. Calhoun, 95 U. S. 710, 24 L. ed. 544.

58. See infra, XII, D, 3, c, (II), (A) et seq.

59. There is a note on the subject of acknowledgment of deeds by corporations, collecting English and American authorities, in 20 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 512. There is also a learned note on the subject of the execution of deeds by corporations, by Adelbert Hamilton, Esq., in 26 Centr. L. J. 445.

60. See supra, XII, D, 1, i.

Instances of informal acknowledgments of corporate deeds which have been held good. — Descombes v. Wood, 91 Mo. 196, 4 S. W. 82, 60 Am. Rep. 239; Eppright v. Nickerson, 78 Mo. 482; Kansas City v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 77 Mo. 180; Missouri Fire Clay Works v. Ellison, 30 Mo. App. 67; Carpenter v. Dexter, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 513, 19 L. ed. 426. That it is necessary to use the word "acknowledgment" or some word of an equivalent import see Cabell v. Grubbs, 48 Mo. 353. When not necessary to use the word "ac-

f. Delivery of Deed by or to Corporation. The principles governing this subject are the same as in the case of the deeds of individuals. A deed of a corporation does not take effect without delivery; but if the agent of the corporation is instructed to retain possession of the deed until certain conditions are complied with the deed will not be regarded as effectual until such compliance, even though the agent delivers the deed contrary to the instructions.[61] The delivery of an agreement by deed to an agent of the corporation who is duly authorized to negotiate it is a delivery to the corporation, and his acceptance thereof is the acceptance of the corporation.[62] The rule with respect to delivery of a deed in escrow[63] applies in like manner to corporations; so that where a lease was executed on behalf of a corporation as lessee, signed by some of its directors, and left with a third person to procure the signatures of the others, and then to be delivered to the town clerk, it did not take effect until so signed by the other directors.[64] There can of course be no delivery of a deed to a corporation which is not in existence when the attempted delivery is made; and the rule that the acceptance of a deed by the grantee will not be presumed from the beneficial character of the grant does not apply where the deed is made to a corporation in esse.[65]

g. Validity of Deed Signed by Directors or Trustees. If as is sometimes the case[66] the directors or trustees are the body which is incorporated, a deed signed by all, or by a quorum of them, might be regarded as well executed; and this has been held in the case of a mortgage signed by all the directors present (presumably a quorum) and sealed with the seal of the corporation and acknowledged by the signers.[67]

h. Effect of Deed of All Shareholders. The shareholders not being joint owners of the property of the corporation,[68] a deed of conveyance of corporate property executed by all the shareholders, reciting that they are the "proprietors and owners of all the shares" will not pass the legal title to the property,[69] although a court of equity may give effect to it.[70] The individuals composing knowledgment" see Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290. What surplusage will not vitiate the "acknowledgment" see Crowley v. Wallace, 12 Mo. 143. When substantial compliance that the governing statute is sufficient, as where the statute requires the officer taking the acknowledgment to certify that the person acknowledging the deed "was personally known to him" and he certifies that such person is "known to him" see Alexander v. Merry, 9 Mo. 514. For an example of an assignment of a mortgage held to have been executed in substantial compliance with the Minnesota statute see Bowers v. Hechtman, 45 Minn. 238, 47 N. W. 792. See further as to the acknowledgment of corporate deeds Stanton v. Button, 2 Conn. 527; Hartshorn v. Dawson, 79 Ill. 108, 111; Merritt v. Yates, 71 Ill. 636, 22 Am. Rep. 128; Calumet, etc., Canal, etc., Co. v. Russell, 68 Ill. 426; Heinrich v. Simpson, 66 Ill. 57; Lindley v. Smith, 46 Ill. 523; Tully v. Davis, 30 Ill. 103, 83 Am. Dec. 179. Consult a learned and elaborate note in 41 Am. Dec. 168. That an acknowledgment of a chattel mortgage taken before one who is a shareholder and director of the corporation is void, and that the record of an instrument so acknowledged does not constitute constructive notice, was held in Kothe v. Krag-Reynolds Co., 20 Ind. App. 293, 50 N. E. 594. For an example of an acknowledgment of a deed of a corporation made by its president which was held good see Banner v. Rooser, 96 Va. 238, 31 S. E. 67.

61. Derby Canal Co. v. Wilmot, 9 East 360, 9 Rev. Rep. 577.

62. Western R. Corp. v. Babcock, 6 Metc. (Mass.) 346.

63. Russell v. Freer, 56 N. Y. 67; People v. Bostwick, 32 N. Y. 445; Lovett v. Adams, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 380; Pawling v. U. S., 4 Cranch (U. S.) 219, 2 L. ed. 601.

64. Whitford v. Laidler, 94 N. Y. 145, 46 Am. Rep. 131.

65. Wall v. Mines, 130 Cal. 27, 62 Pac. 386.

66. See supra, I, A, 6.

67. Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75. See also State University v. Detroit Young Men's Soc., 12 Mich. 138, where a written instrument was similarly signed.

68. Spurlock v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 90 Mo. 199, 2 S. W. 219. See also supra, VI, F, 1, a et seq.

69. Hopkins v. Roseclare Lead Co., 72 Ill. 373; Baldwin v. Canfield, 26 Minn. 43, 1 N. W. 261; Isham v. Bennington Iron Co., 19 Vt. 230; Wheelock v. Moulton, 15 Vt. 519; Humphreys v. McKissock, 140 U. S. 304, 11 S. Ct. 779, 35 L. ed. 473.

70. Swift v. Smith, 65 Md. 428, 5 Atl. 534, 57 Am. Rep. 336.

the corporation may, however, covenant for themselves and their heirs that the corporation shall do certain acts, in which case they will be personally liable upon such covenant.[71]

i. Power of Attorney to Convey or Mortgage Land. Where a corporation under its corporate seal conferred upon an attorney in fact the power to deal with its property as he saw fit, and he executed a mortgage thereon, in his own name and with his own seal, it was held to be a good mortgage of the corporation.[72] A power of attorney of a corporation, authorizing an agent to convey land by deed in Georgia, signed by the directors and the secretary, and unaccompanied by the seal of the corporation or by proof that the directors and secretary were authorized by the charter to sign for the corporation, is insufficient to authorize the agent so to convey land.[73]

j. Manner of Executing Deed From Corporation to Its President. Where the governing statute authorizes any corporation to convey land by deed under the corporate seal and signed by the president, a deed of a corporation to its president, authorized by the board of directors and signed by the president, conveys a good title.[74]

k. Use of Typewriting in Executing Deeds by Corporations. A deed signed by the president and secretary of a corporation is not defectively executed because the name of the corporation is typewritten as well as the official titles of the officers, whose names only are signed in ink.[75]

l. Assignment of Choses in Action and of Written Instruments. The mode of executing an assignment of a chose in action by a corporation will depend upon the nature of the instrument which it is sought to assign. If it is an evidence of debt, which in case of an individual may be transferred by mere delivery, then a delivery by the managing officer of the corporation will be presumptively a delivery by the corporation.[76] If it is an instrument which in case of an individual may be assigned without the use of the seal, then an assignment may be executed in the name of the corporation without its seal, as for instance in the case of a lease[77] or a mortgage,[78] either of which may be assigned without seal. Under a resolution by the directors of a corporation authorizing "the proper officers" to execute an assignment on behalf of the corporation, the assignment is presumptively well executed by its president and secretary.[79]

3. Evidentiary Matters Connected With Corporate Seal — a. Seals of Private Corporations Not Noticed Judicially, but Must Be Proved. Courts do not take judicial notice of the seals of private corporations, nor do such seals prove them-

71. Tileston v. Newell, 13 Mass. 406.

72. First Nat. Bank v. Salem Capitol Flour-Mills Co., 39 Fed. 89.

73. Dodge v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 109 Ga. 394, 34 S. E. 672. Compare Chicago Tip, etc., Co. v. Chicago Nat. Bank, 74 Ill. App. 439 [affirmed in 176 Ill. 224, 52 N. E. 52].

74. Jones v. Hanna, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 550, 60 S. W. 279.

75. Reynolds v. Atlanta Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 703, 30 S. E. 942.

76. Blake v. Holley, 14 Ind. 383.

77. Sandford v. Tremlett, 42 Mo. 384.

78. Gillett v. Campbell, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 520.

79. Carroll v. Cone, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 220. See further as to the proper form of an assignment of a bond and mortgage by a corporation Hoyt v. Shelden, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 267. What will be prima facie evidence to the officer taking the acknowledgment of authority on the part of the officer of the corporation executing the assignment to affix the corporate seal see Murray v. Vanderbilt, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 140; Johnson v. Bush, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 207.

Examples of good assignments by corporations: Lay v. Austin, 25 Fla. 933, 7 So. 143 (assignment of mortgage and note); Hutchins v. Byrnes, 9 Gray (Mass.) 367 (assignment of mortgage); Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 94 Am. Dec. 316 (assignment of right of action under a contract). That an order running, "Please pay Leonard & Atwood my wages from month to month, as they become due, and what now may be due," drawn on the clerk of a corporation, and accepted by him for the corporation, is prima facie a mere authority to pay and not an assignment see Carrique v. Sidebottom, 3 Metc. (Mass.) 297. Case in which an instrument executed by a municipal corporation in the form of an assignment of a decree was held to operate only as a lease see Paff v. Kinney, 1 Bradf. Surr. (N. Y.) 1.

selves; but the fact that what purports to be the seal of a private corporation is its seal must be proved by the testimony of witnesses,[80] that is to say by someone familiar with the seal.[81]

b. Instrument Signed by Proper Officers, Presumption That What Purports to Be Corporate Seal Is Such — (I) In General. But this statement must be qualified by the statement that where the instrument is proved to be signed by the proper officers of the corporation proof of their signatures carries with it a presumption of the due execution of the instrument, which included a presumption of the authenticity of the seal.[82]

(II) Not Necessary to Produce Witness Who Saw Seal Affixed. It is not moreover required to prove the seal of a corporation in the same manner as the seal of an individual, that is, by producing a witness who saw the seal affixed to the identical instrument; but where a deed purports to be under the seal of a corporation it will be sufficient to show that the seal is the official seal of the corporate body.[83]

(III) Not Necessary to Set Out Resolution Adopting Device as Corporate Seal. It will be concluded moreover from what has already preceded, that in order to prove that the device annexed to a deed was the seal of a corporation purporting to execute the deed a resolution of the board of directors adopting such device as the seal of the corporation is not necessary; since a corporation may adopt the seal of another or even an ink impression.[84]

(IV) Effect of Proof That Signers Delivered Instrument as Their Deed. Proof that the individuals whose names are subscribed to the deed sealed and delivered the instrument as their deed neither proves the seal of the corporation nor their authority to execute the deed.[85]

c. What Seal Proves When Its Authenticity Is Established — (I) In General. When the authenticity of the seal is established, either by proof or by presumptive evidence as already indicated, it carries with it presumptive or prima facie proof of everything else which is necessary to the validity of the instrument. Roundly stated it carries with it prima facie evidence of the assent of the corporation to the deed.[86] It carries with it the presumption that the seal was right-

80. New Jersey.—Vaughn v. Hankinson, 35 N. J. L. 79; Osborne v. Tunis, 25 N. J. L. 633; Tours v. Vreelandt, 7 N. J. L. 352, 11 Am. Dec. 551.

New York.— Jackson v. Pratt, 10 Johns. 381; Mann v. Pentz, 2 Sandf. Ch. 257.

Pennsylvania.— Farmers', etc., Turnpike Co. v. McCullough, 25 Pa. St. 303; Crossman v. Hilltown Turnpike Co., 3 Grant 225; Chew v. Keck, 4 Rawle 163; Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. 313; Foster v. Shaw, 7 Serg. & R. 156.

South Carolina.— Charleston v. Moorhead, 2 Rich. 430.

England.— Moises v. Thornton, 3 Esp. 4, 8 T. R. 303.

81. Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 313; Charleston v. Moorhead, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 430; Fidelity Ins., etc., Co. v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 32 W. Va. 244, 9 S. E. 180.

82. Georgia.— Solomon's Lodge No. 1, A. F. M. v. Montmollin, 58 Ga. 547.

Illinois.— Phillips v. Coffee, 17 Ill. 154, 63 Am. Dec. 357; Wagg-Anderson Woolen Co. v. Lesher, 78 Ill. App. 678.

Kentucky.— Reynolds v. Glasgow Academy, 6 Dana 37.

Maryland.— Susquehanna Bridge, etc., Co. v. General Ins. Co., 3 Md. 305, 56 Am. Dec. 740.

Massachusetts.— Stebbins v. Merritt, 10 Cush. 27; Mill-Dam Foundery v. Hovey, 21 Pick. 417.

Michigan.— Benedict v. Denton, Walk. 336.

Missouri.— Chouquette v. Barada, 28 Mo. 491; St. Louis Public Schools v. Risley, 28 Mo. 415, 75 Am. Dec. 131.

Nevada.— Evans v. Lee, 11 Nev. 194.

New York.— Du Bois v. Sheppard, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 113, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 563.

North Carolina.—Benlow v. Cook, 115 N. C. 324, 20 S. E. 453, 44 Am. St. Rep. 454.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania Natural Gas Co. v. Cook, 123 Pa. St. 170, 16 Atl. 762.

South Carolina.—Josey v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 12 Rich. 134.

Tennessee.— Levering v. Memphis, 7 Humphr. 553.

United States.— Jacksonville, etc., R. etc., Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515.

England.— In re Barned's Banking Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 105, 37 L. J. Ch. 81, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 269, 16 Wkly. Rep. 193.

83. Foster v. Shaw, 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 156; Darnell v. Dickens, 4 Yerg. (Tenn.) 7.

84. Crossman v. Hilltown Turnpike Co., 3 Grant (Pa.) 225.

85. Osborne v. Tunis, 25 N. J. L. 633.

86. Reed v. Bradley, 17 Ill. 321.

fully affixed to the deed or the other instrument on which it appears.[87] In favor of innocent third parties without notice it cures any antecedent irregularities, such as the fact that the resolution of the directors authorizing the execution of the instrument was passed at a meeting at which less than a quorum was present.[88]

(II) Is Presumptive Evidence of Authority of Officers Who Signed, Sealed, and Acknowledged It—(A) In General. The seal, accompanied with the signature or signatures of the appropriate corporate officer or officers, becomes prima facie evidence that such officer or officers had due authority from the corporation to execute the instrument, such as casts the burden of proof upon any party challenging its validity.[89]

(B) This Presumption Not Conclusive. This presumption is not conclusive, but may be rebutted by parol evidence.[90]

87. Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Bank, 2 Colo. 226.

Connecticut.— Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94.

Florida.— Union Bank v. Call, 5 Fla. 409.

Georgia.— Solomon's Lodge No. 1, A. F. M. v. Montmollin, 58 Ga. 547.

Illinois.— Reed v. Bradley, 17 Ill. 321; Phillips v. Coffee, 17 Ill. 154, 63 Am. Dec. 357.

Louisiana.— Adams v. His Creditors, 14 La. 454.

Maryland.— Susquehanna Bridge, etc., Co. v. General Ins. Co., 3 Md. 305, 56 Am. Dec. 740.

Massachusetts.— Burrill v. Nahant Bank, 2 Metc. 163, 35 Am. Dec. 395; Mill-Dam Foundery v. Hovey, 21 Pick. 417; New England Marine Ins. Co. v. De Wolf, 8 Pick. 56.

Michigan.— Benedict v. Denton, 1 Walk. 336.

Minnesota.— Morris v. Keil, 20 Minn. 531.

Missouri.— Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316; Chouquette v. Barada, 28 Mo. 491; St. Louis Public Schools v. Risley, 28 Mo. 415, 75 Am. Dec. 131.

Nevada.— Evans v. Lee, 11 Nev. 194.

New Hampshire.— Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430.

New Jersey.— Manhattan Mfg., etc., Co. v. New Jersey Stock Yard, etc., Co., 23 N. J. Eq. 161; Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

New York.— Whitney v. Union Trust Co., 65 N. Y. 576; Canandarque Academy v. McKechnie, 19 Hun 62; Murray v. Vanderbilt, 39 Barb. 140, 149; Bowen v. New York City Irish Presb. Congregation, 6 Bosw. 245; Moore v. St. Thomas, 4 Abb. N. Cas. 51; Gillett v. Campbell, 1 Den. 520; Vergennes Bank v. Warren, 7 Hill 91; Jackson v. Campbell, 5 Wend. 572; Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige 54.

Pennsylvania.— Berks, etc., Turnpike Road v. Myers, 6 Serg. & R. 12, 9 Am. Dec. 402.

South Carolina.—Josey v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 12 Rich. 134.

Tennessee.—Levering v. Memphis, 7 Humphr. 553; Hopkins v. Gallatin Turnpike Co., 4 Humphr. 403; Union Bank v. U. S. Bank, 4 Humphr. 369; Darnell v. Dickens, 4 Yerg. 7.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552; Koehler v. Black River Falls Iron Co., 2 Black 715, 17 L. ed. 339.

England.— Scott v. Colburn, 26 Beav. 276, 5 Jur. N. S. 183, 28 L. J. Ch. 635, 7 Wkly. Rep. 114; Agar v. Athenæum L. Assur. Soc., 3 C. B. N. S. 725, 4 Jur. N. S. 211, 27 L. J. C. P. 95, 6 Wkly. Rep. 277, 91 E. C. L. 725; Royal British Bank v. Turquand, 5 E. & B. 248, 85 E. C. L. 248; Bateman v. Ashton-Under-Lyne, 3 H. & N. 323, 27 L. J. Exch. 458, 6 Wkly. Rep. 829; Australian Auxiliary Steam Clipper Co. v. Mounsey, 4 Jur. N. S. 1224, 4 Kay & J. 733, 27 L. J. Ch. 729, 6 Wkly. Rep. 734.

88. Gloucester County Bank v. Rudry Merthyr Steam, etc., Co., [1895] 1 Ch. 629, 64 L. J. Ch. 451, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 375, 2 Manson 223, 12 Reports 183.

89. California.—Crescent City Wharf, etc., Co. v. Simpson, 77 Cal. 286, 19 Pac. 426.

Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Bank, 2 Colo. 226.

Illinois.— Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Morganstern, 103 Ill. 149; Reed v. Bradley, 17 Ill. 321; West Side Auction House Co. v. Connecticut Mut. Ins. Co., 85 Ill. App. 497 [affirmed in 186 Ill. 156, 57 N. E. 839]; Wagg-Anderson Woolen Co. v. Lesher, 78 Ill. App. 678.

Iowa.— Morse v. Beale, 68 Iowa 463, 27 N. W. 461.

Massachusetts.— Burrill v. Nahant Bank, 2 Metc. 163, 35 Am. Dec. 395.

Missouri.— Chouquette v. Barada, 33 Mo. 249; Missouri Fire Clay Works v. Ellison, 30 Mo. App. 67.

New York.— Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige 54.

Tennessee.— Hopkins v. Gallatin Turnpike Co., 4 Humphr. 403.

West Virginia.— Boyce v. Montauk Gas Coal Co., 37 W. Va. 73, 16 S. E. 501.

United States.—Mickey v. Stratton, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,530, 5 Sawy. 475.

90. Nevada.— Sharon v. Minnock, 6 Nev. 377.

New Jersey.— Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

New York.— Johnson v. Bush, 3 Barb. Ch. 207; Lovett v. Steam Saw Mill Assoc., 6 Paige 54.

Pennsylvania.— In re Roman Catholic Soc., 6 Serg. & R. 498; Berks, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Myers, 6 Serg. & R. 12, 9 Am. Dec. 402.

United States.— Koehler v. Black River Falls, etc., Co., 2 Black 715, 17 L. ed. 339.

(c) Merely Shifts Burden of Proof. The effect of it is to shift the burden of overthrowing the deed upon the party objecting to it, and to require him to prove by clear and satisfactory evidence the want of authority to execute it.[91]

(d) Presence of Corporate Seal Not Estoppel Against Corporation. The fact of the seal being attached to what purports to be a contract of the corporation does not therefore estop the corporation from challenging the power of its officers to make the contract,[92] since they clearly cannot increase their powers by an unauthorized use of the seal.[93]

(e) Instrument Need Not Recite Authority to Execute It. It follows that an instrument executed under a seal of a corporation need not recite the authority to execute it, but that this may be proved by evidence aliunde.[94]

(f) What Evidence Will Overcome This Presumption. This presumption will not be overcome by evidence of the mere fact that there has been no vote of the directors authorizing the execution of the instrument; since there are other ways of expressing the corporate assent.[95] Quite opposed to this is a holding to the effect that where the only authority claimed for the executing officers was a resolution recorded in the minutes of a meeting of the board, proof that there was not a quorum present at the meeting rebuts the evidence of the valid execution.[96]

d. Authority of President to Execute Not Presumed in Absence of Corporate Seal. The authority of the president of the corporation to execute a mortgage to which the corporate seal is not attached will not be presumed, but must be proved aliunde.[97]

4. What Is Deemed Sufficient Authority to Affix Seal — a. Authority From Board of Directors. Where the management of the affairs of a corporation is intrusted by its charter to a board of directors, the corporate seal must be affixed by the authority of the board of directors in order that it may have force as such;[98] but it may be affixed by a less number of directors than is necessary to England.— D'Arcy v. Tamar, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 Exch. 158; Clarke v. Imperial Gas Light, etc., Co., 4 B. & Ad. 315, 2 L. J. K. B. 30, 1 N. & M. 206, 24 E. C. L. 143; Colchester v. Lawten, 1 Ves. & B. 226, 12 Rev. Rep. 216.

91. Georgia.— Solomon's Lodge, No. 1, A. F. M. v. Montmollin, 58 Ga. 547; Veasey v. Graham, 17 Ga. 99, 63 Am. Dec. 228. That the seal of a corporation affixed to a contract introduced in evidence, accompanied with proof of the signature of the proper officers thereto, raises a presumption sufficient to rebut the allegation of an answer in equity, denying that the contract was signed and sealed by the authority of the corporation, see Solomon's Lodge No. 1, A. F. M. v. Montmollin, 58 Ga. 547. So of a deed executed by a banking corporation by its president and cashier. Veasey v. Graham, 17 Ga. 99, 63 Am. Dec. 228.

Minnesota.— Morris v. Keil, 20 Minn. 531.

Missouri.— Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316; Chouquette v. Barada, 28 Mo. 491.

New Hampshire.— Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430.

New Jersey.— Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

New York.—Jourdan v. Long Island R. Co., 115 N. Y. 380, 26 N. Y. St. 138, 22 N. E. 153, instrument executed in the name of corporation by its president and secretary, and sealed with its corporate seal, presumptively valid.

West Virginia.— Boyce v. Montauk Gas Coal Co., 37 W. Va. 73, 16 S. E. 501.

United States.— Koehler v. Black River Falls, etc., Co., 2 Black 715, 17 L. ed. 339.

Consent of shareholders.— Thus where a deed has been thus executed, if the consent of the shareholders was necessary to the validity of the transfer, and such consent was not had, it devolves on the party attacking the deed to show that fact. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228.

92. Leavenworth v. Rankin, 2 Kan. 357.

93. Osborne v. Tunis, 25 N. J. L. 633; Jackson v. Campbell, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 572. See also supra, XII, D, 1, i.

94. Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94.

95. Fidelity Ins., etc., Co. v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 32 W. Va. 244, 9 S. E. 180.

96. Moore v. St. Thomas, 4 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 51.

97. American Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Smith, 122 Ala. 502, 27 So. 919. Nor will his authority be presumed from his attaching a common paper seal, but it must be the corporate seal. Raub v. Blairstown Creamery Assoc., 56 N. J. L. 262, 28 Atl. 384.

98. Osborne v. Tunis, 25 N. J. L. 633; Coryell v. New Hope Delaware Bridge Co., 9 N. J. Eq. 457; Van Hook v. Somerville Mfg. Co., 5 N. J. Eq. 137; Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728; Hoyt v. Thompson, 5 N. Y. 320; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 27; Jackson v. Campbell, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 572; constitute a legal board of directors, if it be done in pursuance of the direction of a legal board.[99]

b. Formal Power of Attorney Not Necessary — (i) Resolution Sufficient. A power of attorney is not necessary to authorize a corporate officer to make a deed on behalf of the corporation; a simple resolution of the board of directors will be sufficient.[1]

(ii) Authority and Assent of Corporation Inferred From Facts and Circumstances. The governing principle is that the assent of the corporation to acts done for and on its account may be inferred from facts and circumstances, as in the case of natural persons;[2] so that when an individual does an act as the agent of a corporation, the agency may be shown, either by a corporate act, or inferred from the same evidence which would justify the inference in the case of a natural person.[3]

c. Formal Vote of Directors Need Not Be Shown. Nor is it necessary that this authority be shown by a formal vote of the board or corporation.[4]

5. Conveyances to Corporations — a. Not Necessary to Use Word "Successors." In a conveyance of land to a corporation sole, the use of the word "successors" is necessary; otherwise the deed will carry a life-estate only, to the actual incum-

Com. v. St. Mary's Church Roman Catholic Soc., 6 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 507.

A deed not countersigned by the secretary, as required by the by-laws of the company, and executed by the vice-president instead of the president, as directed by the resolution, may nevertheless be a good deed. Smith v. Smith, 62 Ill. 493.

99. Van Hook v. Somerville Mfg. Co., 5 N. J. Eq. 137; Berks, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Myers, 6 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 12, 9 Am. Dec. 402.

1. Beckwith v. Windsor Mfg. Co., 14 Conn. 594; Jackson v. Brown, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 590; Hopkins v. Gallatin Turnpike Co., 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 403. Deed executed in pursuance of a vote of proprietors authorizing a committee to sell lands. Decker v. Freeman, 3 Me. 338. See also Jackson v. Walsh, 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 226. That two of a committee of three directors may seal a deed with the corporate seal in the absence of the third director see Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 7 Lans. (N. Y.) 240.

2. State Bank v. Comegys, 12 Ala. 772, 46 Am. Dec. 278; Montgomery R. Co. v. Hurst, 9 Ala. 513; Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Tipton, 5 Ala. 787, 39 Am. Dec. 344; Bates v. State Bank, 2 Ala. 451.

3. State Bank v. Comegys, 12 Ala. 772, 46 Am. Dec. 278; Augusta Bank v. Earl, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 519, 10 L. ed. 274; Rex v. Oxford Canal Nav. Co., 4 B. & C. 74, 6 D. & R. 86, 10 E. C. L. 487.

4. Hart v. Stone, 30 Conn. 94.

A parol vote not recorded will be sufficient. Clark v. Pratt, 47 Me. 55.

Board meeting need not have been duly convened.— It follows that a deed of a corporation, executed pursuant to the direction of a quorum of the directors, no objection being then or afterward taken by any member of the board, must be considered as a corporate act, whether the meeting was duly convened or not. Samuel v. Holladay, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,288, Woolw. 400, McCahon (Kan.) 214.

Intention to authorize inferred.— Circumstances from which the intention of the board of directors to authorize the secretary to execute a bond for the submission of a controversy to arbitration was inferred. Madison Ins. Co. v. Griffin, 3 Ind. 277.

Assignment of corporate property by president and secretary, without authority, invalid, and not cured by proof of execution before a commissioner. Murray v. Vanderbilt, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 140.

Declarations on a corporate contract unnecessarily sealed — allegations respecting the seal rejected as surplusage. State University v. Detroit Young Men's Soc., 12 Mich. 138.

Tracing title through a corporation necessary to produce act of incorporation or in some way to prove the existence of a body politic capable of taking and conveying real estate. Lumbard v. Aldrich, 6 N. H. 269.

Responsibility of a corporation in damages for the negligent use of its seal, when liability denied on the ground that such negligence was not the proximate cause of the plaintiff's loss. England v. Bank of England, 21 Q. B. D. 160, 52 J. P. 580, 57 L. J. Q. B. 418, 36 Wkly. Rep. 880.

When failure of purchaser of corporate bonds to inquire as to whether the seal and signatures were honestly and properly attached does not constitute such a want of care as will prevent him from acquiring a good title. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 703, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 15.

Deed held to pass no title.— That a deed by three of four executors, one of them a foreign corporation disqualified from doing business in the state, which does not therefore join with the other officers in executing the deed, passes no title see Pennsylvania L. Ins. Co. v. Bauerle, 143 Ill. 459, 33 N. E. 166.

bent, who is the first taker.[5] But in grants to corporations aggregate, the word "successors," although usually inserted, is not necessary to convey a fee simple; for, even if it were admitted that such a simple grant be strictly only an estate for life, yet as the corporation, unless of limited duration, never dies, such estate for life is perpetual.[6]

b. Conveyances to Trustees of Corporations and Associations. Where a conveyance is made to the trustees of a named corporation, without mentioning the names of the trustees, this is in law a conveyance to the corporation.[7] On the other hand where the conveyance is made to certain trustees by name, with the mere addition of their office or trust, as "the trustees of the Methodist Society," and to their heirs and assigns forever, this conveys a title, not to the corporation, but to the trustees, the words following the names of the trustees being regarded merely as a descriptio personarum.[8]

c. Deed to Corporation Not Duly Created. It is of course essential to the validity of a conveyance that there should be a grantee; and therefore a deed to a supposed corporation which has not been duly incorporated, and which consequently has no legal existence, is a nullity at law and does not divest the grantor of title.[9] Another statement of the reason of the conclusion is that a deed implies a contract, and that to any contract there must be competent parties.[10] When therefore the deed was to "the people of the County of Otsego" it conveyed nothing, because the people had no capacity to take by grant.[11] So it has been held that a grant to an imaginary corporation is a nullity.[12] But where a mortgage was executed to a building association, which at the date of the mortgage could not sue in its corporate name, and an act was subsequently passed, which the corporation accepted, enabling it so to sue, it was held that it might bring an action in its corporate name to foreclose the mortgage.[13] So in an action of debt on a bond made to the committee or trustees of a corporation, where it did not appear that any of the trustees were named in the bond, and the bond was solvendum to the corporation by its true name, it was held that the corporation might declare in its corporate name on the bond, and might allege that the bond was made to it by the description of the committee, etc.[14] The principle stated in this paragraph has no application to the case where the corporation to which the grant is made exists de facto, which in the absence of proof to the contrary will be presumed to have the capacity to take a grant of land.[15] It should not escape attention that there is another principle which if properly applied will destroy the effect of some of the decisions cited in this paragraph, which principle is that where a person makes a deed of grant to a body by the use of a name which implies that it is a corporation he will be estopped by his deed from challenging the fact that it is duly incorporated and capable of taking the land, especially after he has received the consideration for the same; but the question whether the corporation is duly organized and capable of taking such a grant will be left to be decided in a contest between the state and the corporation, to oust them of their franchises.[16] Thus while a banking corporation created by a terri-

5. Shaw, C. J., in Boston v. Sears, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 122, 126 [citing Coke Litt. 8*b*, 9*b*, 94*b*; 4 Cruise Dig. 442].

6. Union Canal Co. v. Young, 1 Whart. (Pa.) 410, 30 Am. Dec. 212.

7. Keith, etc., Coal Co. v. Bingham, 97 Mo. 196, 10 S. W. 32. Compare Hager's Town Turnpike Road v. Creeger, 5 Harr. & J. (Md.) 122, 9 Am. Dec. 495; North St. Louis Christian Church v. McGowan, 62 Mo. 279, 230.

8. Tower v. Hale, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 361. Compare German Land Assoc. v. Scholler, 10 Minn. 331, 338.

9. Harriman v. Southam, 16 Ind. 190; Douthitt v. Stinson, 63 Mo. 268; German Land Assoc. v. Scholler, 10 Minn. 331; Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

10. Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

11. Jackson v. Cory, 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 385.

12. Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

13. Stein v. Indianapolis Bldg. Loan Fund, etc., Assoc., 18 Ind. 237, 81 Am. Dec. 353.

14. New York African Soc. v. Varick, 13 Johns. (N. Y.) 38.

15. Myers v. Croft, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 291, 20 L. ed. 562.

16. Myers v. Croft, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 291, torial legislature could not legally exercise its powers until its charter had been approved by congress, yet a conveyance of land made to it, if the charter authorized it to hold land, could not be treated as a nullity by the grantor, who had received the consideration of the grant, no judgment of ouster having been rendered against the corporation at the instance of the government.[17]

d. Deed to Inchoate Corporations. There is judicial authority to the effect that a conveyance of land to an unincorporated company which goes into possession under the deed, vests title in such company after its incorporation, as against one not holding by a superior title.[18] So where a deed conveying land to a corporation was dated subsequently to the date of its charter but before its organization it was held a valid conveyance, on the ground that the acceptance of the deed would be presumed as soon as the corporation was competent to take it, and that the corporation could accept it as soon as it became organized under its charter.[19] So it has been held that a deed conveying lands to a corporation by name before its charter has been obtained, which deed is signed and acknowledged by the grantor but delivered in escrow to a third party, with direction to retain it until the corporation shall have obtained its charter and organized thereunder, and then to deliver it to the corporation, and which deed is, after the corporation has obtained its charter and organized thereunder, delivered by such third person to it, operates as a valid conveyance to the corporation of the land therein described, from the date of the delivery of the deed to it.[20] The governing principle is this, as a general rule, a deed delivered in escrow takes effect from the date of the second delivery; although it is conceded that this general rule does not always apply where justice requires a resort to a fiction. If therefore at the time of the final act from which the deed becomes effectual the grantee is capable of taking it becomes a good deed. All this in conformity with the oft-repeated maxim that it is the duty of the courts to uphold, rather than to destroy, deeds.[21] On the other hand we find a decision to the effect that a deed to designated persons "as incorporators" of a named "company," which had not in fact been incorporated, did not, on the grant of a charter to the company, ipso facto operate to pass to it the legal title to the property in the deed described.[22]

E. Negotiable Instruments — 1. Whether Affixing Corporate Seal Makes Such Instrument Specialty and Destroys Its Negotiability. There are old decisions to the effect that to affix the corporate seal to a contract, which otherwise would be a negotiable instrument of the corporation, has the same effect as it would have in the case of an individual, namely, that of changing it from a simple contract into a specialty and of destroying its negotiability.[23] The nonsense of this class of decisions is perceived when it is considered that at common law a corporation could speak only by its seal. If therefore the seal was affixed the instrument was made of a different effect from what the parties intended; and if the seal was not affixed the instrument was a nullity. A more sensible rule was to regard the affixing of a corporate seal to instruments which in the case of indi-

20 L. ed. 562; Smith v. Sheeley, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 358, 20 L. ed. 430.

17. Smith v. Sheeley, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 358, 20 L. ed. 430.

18. Clifton Heights Land Co. v. Randell, 82 Iowa 89, 47 N. W. 905.

19. Rotch's Wharf Co. v. Judd, 108 Mass. 224. Compare Wall v. Mines, 130 Cal. 27, 62 Pac. 386.

20. Spring Garden Bank v. Hurlings Lumber Co., 32 W. Va. 357, 9 S. E. 243, 3 L. R. A. 583.

21. Sherwood v. Whiting, 54 Conn. 330, 8 Atl. 80, 1 Am. St. Rep. 116; Shed v. Shed, 3 N. H. 432; African M. E. Church v. Conover, 27 N. J. Eq. 157; Flagg v. Eames, 40 Vt. 16, 94 Am. Dec. 363.

22. McCandless v. Inland Acid Co., 112 Ga. 291, 37 S. E. 419. Compare Frank v. Drenkhahn, 76 Mo. 508.

Manner of proving a covenant of warranty by a corporation see Willis v. Burke, 7 Tex. Civ. App. 239, 27 S. W. 217.

23. Conine v. Junction, etc., R. Co., 3 Houst. (Del.) 288, 89 Am. Dec. 230; Steele v. Oswego Cotton Mfg. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 265; Clark v. Farmers' Woolen Mfg. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 256; Hopkins v. Railroad Co., 3 Watts & S. (Pa.) 410; Frevall v. Fitch, 5 Whart. (Pa.) 325, 34 Am. Dec. 558. In War-viduals would be simple contracts merely as mere surplusage,[24] and to uphold the negotiable character of the instrument according to the real intent of the parties. This is especially so when we consider that at common law the affixing of the corporate seal did not necessarily indicate that the instrument was a specialty, but was a mere mode of expressing the assent of the corporation in every case.[25] The view that the presence of a seal destroys the negotiability of an instrument which would otherwise be negotiable is also disproved by numerous cases which hold that the bonds of a corporation, whether public or private, when they employ negotiable words, as when they are made payable to the bearer, to the holder, or to order, possess the ordinary incident of negotiable instruments, although they are issued under seal.[26]

2. Effect of Failure to Use Negotiable Words. The effect of failure to use negotiable words in a written obligation of a corporation is the same as in the case of an individual; it prevents the immunities of negotiable paper from attaching to it, as in case of a mere due-bill which fails to use the word "order" or "bearer."[27]

3. Effect of Order Drawn by Corporation on Its Own Treasurer or Other Fiscal Officer — a. In General. Such an instrument is generally regarded as having the effect of a promissory note of the corporation;[28] although some of the decisions ascribe to it the quality of a bill of exchange or hold that the holder of it may treat it as such.[29] Other courts hold that such an instrument is in fact a bill of exchange drawn by the maker upon himself, which in law is a promissory note.[30]

b. Whether Such Instrument Must Be Presented For Payment and Payment Refused Before Action Can Be Brought Thereon. The manifest intent of the parties to such an instrument is that it shall be presented to the fiscal officer of the corporation upon whom it is drawn, and payment refused, before the corporation shall be deemed to be in default, and before action can be brought thereon. But there is judicial authority to the effect that the drawing of the order is of itself equivalent to a presentment, and that consequently an action may be maintained thereon without a previous presentment or demand of payment upon the officer upon whom it is drawn,[31] thus putting the corporation in default where it has made no default and subjecting it to be disgraced where it has done no wrong.[32]

4. Authority to Execute Commercial Paper. This subject has been discussed in a former subdivision when treating of the powers of ministerial officers and agents of corporations.[33] The authority of a particular officer of a corporation, such as its treasurer, to execute promissory notes in its behalf, will generally be ren v. Lynch, 5 Johns. (N. Y.) 239, it was conceded by counsel on both sides and by the court. Kent, C. J. (afterward chancellor), presiding and delivering the opinion, that a sealed note is not negotiable. In Glyn v. Baker, 13 East 509, 12 Rev. Rep. 414, the court of king's bench seems to have hesitated about recognizing India bonds as negotiable, but parliament immediately interfered and declared them negotiable instruments.

24. Jones v. Horner, 60 Pa. St. 214.

25. Columbia Cent. Nat. Bank v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 5 S. C. 156, 22 Am. Rep. 12.

26. See infra, XVIII, A, 1, h, (I), (A).

That the effect of a paper seal attached without authority will not be to destroy the negotiability of what would otherwise be a promissory note, but that such a simulated seal will be rejected as "a piece of unnecessary ornament," see Mackay v. St. Mary's Church, 15 R. I. 121, 23 Atl. 108, 2 Am. St. Rep. 881, 886.

27. Sears v. Illinois Wesleyan University, 28 Ill. 183.

28. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 20 Ind. 6, 83 Am. Dec. 303; Floyd County v. Day, 19 Ind. 450; Marion, etc., R. Co. v. Hodge, 9 Ind. 163; Hasey v. White Pigeon Beet Sugar Co., 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 193; Fairchild v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 15 N. Y. 337, 69 Am. Dec. 606.

29. Kaskaskia Bridge Co. v. Shannon, 6 Ill. 15.

30. Marion, etc., R. Co. v. Dillon, 7 Ind. 404; Fairchild v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 15 N. Y. 337, 69 Am. Dec. 606.

31. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 20 Ind. 6; Hasey v. White Pigeon Beet Sugar Co., 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 193; Fairchild v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 15 N. Y. 337, 69 Am. Dec. 606.

32. One court has had the sense and justice to hold otherwise. Marion, etc., R. Co. v. Hodge, 9 Ind. 163; Marion, etc., R. Co. v. Dillon, 7 Ind. 404.

33. See supra, X.

sought for in its by-laws;[34] and if not found there may be inferred from the custom of the corporation, that is to say, from its uniform habit of acting.[35] And where the directors of a corporation have by a uniform course of conduct held their treasurer out to the public as the fiscal agent of the corporation, and as having the authority to bind it by the execution and indorsement of promissory notes, they will be estopped, as against one acting on the faith of his possessing such power, from denying it, unless the transaction is of a nature so unusual as to put him on inquiry.[36]

5. Rule of "Undisclosed Principal" Does Not Apply in Case of Commercial Paper. The rule which enables a party to a written contract to go behind the contract and to charge the undisclosed principal for whom the party acts does not apply either to bills of exchange or to negotiable promissory notes; but none but the parties named in the instrument, either by name or firm, can be made liable to an action upon it.[37]

6. Negotiable Instruments How Executed, Indorsed, or Accepted so as to Bind Corporation and Exonerate Officer or Agent — a. Effect of Adding Descriptive Terms — (1) In General. If therefore the agent of a corporation desire to execute a negotiable instrument in behalf of the corporate body, care must be exercised to make it binding upon the corporation in terms; otherwise parol evidence will not be admitted to add to its effect. It will not be sufficient for the signers of such an obligation to add to their names such descriptive terms as "directors," "trustees," "committee."[38] This is also held to be true as to the lia-

34. Foster v. Ohio-Colorado Reduction, etc., Co., 17 Fed. 130, 5 McCrary 329.

35. Foster v. Ohio-Colorado Reduction, etc., Co., 17 Fed. 130, 5 McCrary 329.

36. Page v. Fall River, etc., R. Co., 31 Fed. 257.

37. Parke, B., in Beckham v. Drake, 9 M. & W. 79, 96. See also Yates v. Nash, 8 C. B. N. S. 581, 6 Jur. N. S. 1343, 29 L. J. C. P. 306, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 430, 8 Wkly. Rep. 764, 98 E. C. L. 581; Ducarry v. Gill, 4 C. & P. 121, 19 E. C. L. 436; Lloyd v. Ashby, 2 C. & P. 138, 12 E. C. L. 493; Cowie v. Stirling, 6 E. & B. 333, 2 Jur. N. S. 663, 25 L. J. Q. B. 335, 4 Wkly. Rep. 543, 88 E. C. L. 333; Storm v. Stirling, 3 E. & B. 832, 17 Jur. 788, 23 L. J. Q. B. 298, 77 E. C. L. 832; Eastwood v. Bain, 3 H. & N. 738, 28 L. J. Exch. 74, 7 Wkly. Rep. 90; Daniell Neg. Instr. § 303.

38. Illinois.— Burlingame v. Brewster, 79 Ill. 515, 22 Am. Rep. 177; Powers v. Briggs, 79 Ill. 493, 22 Am. Rep. 175.

Indiana.— Hays v. Crutcher, 54 Ind. 260; Mears v. Graham, 8 Blackf. 144. Compare Pitman v. Kintner, 5 Blackf. 250, 33 Am. Dec. 461.

Iowa.— Cattron v. Manchester First Universalist Soc., 46 Iowa 106.

Kentucky.— Caphart v. Dodd, 3 Bush 584, 96 Am. Dec. 258; Trask v. Roberts, 1 B. Mon. 201; McBeam v. Morrison, 1 A. K. Marsh. 445.

Maine.— Sturdivant v. Hull, 59 Me. 172, 8 Am. Rep. 409; Chick v. Trevett, 20 Me. 462, 37 Am. Dec. 68; Fogg v. Virgin, 19 Me. 352, 36 Am. Dec. 757.

Massachusetts.— Morell v. Codding, 4 Allen 403; Haverhill Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Newhall, 1 Allen 130; Fiske v. Eldridge, 12 Gray 474; Jefts v. York, 4 Cush. 371, 50 Am. Dec. 791, 10 Cush. 392; Packard v. Nye, 2 Metc. 47; Simonds v. Heard, 23 Pick. 120, 34 Am. Dec. 41; Bradlee v. Boston Glass Manufactory, 16 Pick. 347. Contra, Mann v. Chandler, 9 Mass. 335 [overruled in Barlow v. Lee Cong. Soc., 8 Allen 460]; Foster v. Fuller, 6 Mass. 58, 4 Am. Dec. 87.

Minnesota.— Bingham v. Stewart, 13 Minn. 106.

New Hampshire.— Weare v. Gove, 44 N. H. 196; Savage v. Rix, 9 N. H. 263; Underhill v. Gibson, 2 N. H. 352, 9 Am. Dec. 82. Compare Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy, 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 206.

New York.— De Witt v. Walton, 9 N. Y. 571; Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664; Hills v. Bannister, 8 Cow. 31.

Ohio.— Collins v. Buckeye State Ins. Co., 17 Ohio St. 215, 93 Am. Dec. 612.

Texas.— Gregory v. Leigh, 33 Tex. 813.

Vermont.— Pomeroy v. Slade, 16 Vt. 220. Compare Roberts v. Button, 14 Vt. 195.

West Virginia.— Scott v. Baker, 3 W. Va. 285.

England.— Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 49 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754; Maclae v. Sutherland, 2 C. L. R. 1320, 3 E. & B. 1, 18 Jur. 942, 23 L. J. Q. B. 229, 2 Wkly. Rep. 161, 77 E. C. L. 1; Penkivil v. Connell, 5 Exch. 381, 19 L. J. Exch. 305; Healey v. Story, 3 Exch. 3, 18 L. J. Exch. 8; Bottomley v. Fisher, 1 H. & C. 211, 8 Jur. N. S. 895, 31 L. J. Exch. 417, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 688, 10 Wkly. Rep. 669; Price v. Taylor, 5 H. & N. 540, 6 Jur. N. S. 402, 24 J. P. 470, 29 L. J. Exch. 331, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 221, 8 Wkly. Rep. 419.

Compare McWhorter v. Lewis, 4 Ala. 198; Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290.

bility of corporate officers as indorsers,[39] drawers of bills of exchange,[40] and accepters of the same.[41] If the agent or agents introduce their names into the body of the note, they should state that they act as "directors," "trustees," etc., "for," "on account of," or "in behalf of the company."[42]

(II) Doctrine That This Mode of Signing Lets in Parol Evidence to Show Who Is Bound. In other cases it is held that the addition to the name signed of the official character of the person so signing is such an indication of

39. Illinois.— McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.

Indiana.— Vater v. Lewis, 36 Ind. 288, 10 Am. Rep. 29.

Maine. — Nichols v. Frothingham, 45 Me. 220, 71 Am. Dec. 539.

Massachusetts.— Towne v. Rice, 122 Mass. 67; Fiske v. Eldridge, 12 Gray 474.

New Hampshire.— Nicholas v. Oliver, 36 N. H. 218.

New York.— Contra, New York City Mar. Bank v. Clements, 31 N. Y. 33; Babcock v. Beman, 11 N. Y. 200; Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. 122; Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. 473; Scott v. Johnson, 5 Bosw. 213; Knight v. Lang, 2 Abb. Pr. 227; Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Utica Bank v. Magher, 18 Johns. 341.

Pennsylvania.— Compare Sharpe v. Bellis, 61 Pa. St. 69, 100 Am. Dec. 618.

Wisconsin. — Kennedy v. Knight, 21 Wis. 340, 94 Am. Dec. 543.

United States. — Chillicothe Branch Ohio State Bank v. Fox, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,683, 3 Blatchf. 431.

40. Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101; Mayhew v. Prince, 11 Mass. 54; Rand v. Hale, 3 W. Va. 495, 100 Am. Dec. 761. A fortiori this is the rule where the signatures of the makers are bald of any designation of agency whatever. See Bass v. O'Brien, 12 Gray (Mass.) 477; Bank of British North America v. Hooper, 5 Gray (Mass.) 567, 66 Am. Dec. 390; Leadbitter v. Farrow, 5 M. & S. 345, 17 Rev. Rep. 345. Contra to the statement in the text is Kean v. Davis, 21 N. J. L. 683, 47 Am. Dec. 182; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 27; Hicks v. Hinde, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 528.

41. Slawson v. Loring, 5 Allen (Mass.) 340, 81 Am. Dec. 750; Moss v. Livingston, 4 N. Y. 208; Tassey v. Church, 4 Watts & S. (Pa.) 346; Alexander v. Sizer, L. R. 4 Exch. 102, 38 L. J. Exch. 59, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38.

This liability, however, is only prima facie and may be rebutted by showing that the accepter acted as agent of and by authority of the corporation, and that plaintiff was aware of the fact at the time of taking the draft. Lazarus v. Shearer, 2 Ala. 718; Hascall v. Life Assoc. of America, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 151 [affirmed in 66 N. Y. 616]; Bruce v. Lord, 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 247. See in this connection Okell v. Charles, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 822 [cited in Evans Agency 177, 185]. Contra to the foregoing Shelton v. Darling, 2 Conn. 435; Amison v. Ewing, 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 366.

If the drawee be addressed in the bill, without anything therein implying that he is to act as an agent in accepting it, he will be personally bound by his acceptance, although he makes use of terms indicating that he accepts as an agent. Bult v. Morrell, 12 A. & E. 745, 10 L. J. Q. B. 52, 40 E. C. L. 369; Nicholls v. Diamond, 2 C. L. R. 305, 9 Exch. 154, 23 L. J. Exch. 1, 2 Wkly. Rep. 12, 24 Eng. L. & Eq. 403; Ducarry v. Gill, 4 C. & P. 121, 1 M. & M. 450, 19 E. C. L. 436; Thomas v. Bishop, 2 Str. 955; Mare v. Charles, 5 E. & B. 978, 2 Jur. N. S. 234, 25 L. J. Q. B. 119, 4 Wkly. Rep. 267, 85 E. C. L. 978.

On the other hand a bill addressed to a company by its corporate name and accepted by authorized officers of the company in its behalf binds the company and not the accepters personally. Halford v. Cameron's Coalbrook Steam Coal, etc., R. Co., 16 Q. B. 442, 15 Jur. 335, 20 L. J. Q. B. 160, 71 E. C. L. 442; Edwards v. Cameron's Steam Coal, etc., R. Co., 6 Exch. 269; Jenkins v. Morris, 16 M. & W. 877. Compare Penrose v. Martyr, E. B. & E. 499, 5 Jur. N. S. 362, 28 L. J. Q. B. 28, 96 E. C. L. 499.

But a bill addressed to the treasurer of a company individually and accepted by the company binds neither the company nor its officer. Walker v. Bank, 9 N. Y. 582.

42. Alabama.— Roney v. Winter, 37 Ala. 277.

California. — Blanchard v. Kaull, 44 Cal. 440; Haskell v. Cornish, 13 Cal. 45.

Indiana.— McHenry v. Duffield, 7 Blackf. 41.

Kentucky.— But see McCalla v. Rigg, 3 A. K. Marsh. 259.

Maine.— Andrews v. Estes, 11 Me. 267, 26 Am. Dec. 521.

Massachusetts.— Shoe, etc., Nat. Bank v. Dix, 123 Mass. 148, 25 Am. Rep. 49; Barlow v. Lee Cong. Soc., 8 Allen 460; Bradlee v. Boston Glass Manufactory, 16 Pick. 347.

Minnesota.— Sanborn v. Neal, 4 Minn. 126, 77 Am. Dec. 502.

New Hampshire.— Dow v. Moore, 47 N. H. 419.

Ohio.— Titus v. Kyle, 10 Ohio St. 444.

England.— Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 40 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754; Allen v. Sea, etc., Assur. Co., 9 C. B. 574, 14 Jur. 870 note, 19 L. J. C. P. 305, 67 E. C. L. 574; Forbes v. Marshall, 11 Exch. 166, 24 L. J. Exch. 305, 4 Wkly. Rep. 480; Healey v. Story, 3 Exch. 3, 18 L. J. Exch. 8; Lindus v. Melrose, 2 H. & N. 293, 3 H. & N. 177, 4 Jur. N. S. 488, 27 L. J. Exch. 326, 6 Wkly. Rep. 441; Aggs v. Nicholson, 1 H. & N. 165, 25 L. J. Exch. 348, 4 Wkly. Rep. 776; Bowen v. Morris, 2 Taunt. 374.

the representative character of such a person as will warrant a resort to parol evidence to prove extrinsic circumstances, such as to whom the consideration passed and the credit was given, the agent's authority, etc., by which the respective liability of the principal and agent may be determined.[43]

b. Effect of Direction to Place to Account of Some Company. The direction to place to the account of some company named in the body of the bill, coupled with the circumstance that the person signing the bill adds to his name some designation of agency will in general be sufficient to make the draft that of the corporation.[44]

c. Rule Where Name of Corporation Is Set Out in Body of Instrument as Party Promising to Pay. If in the body of the note the corporation is set out as the party promising to pay, although the note is signed by the agents without the name of the corporation in the signature, the intention is plain to bind the corporation instead of the individual signers.[45]

d. Rule Where Note Is Signed in Corporate Name With Name of Agent Following. And so if the note is signed in the corporate name with the name of the agent following it is the note of the corporation and not of the agent.[46]

e. Exception Where Agent Habitually Signs by His Own Name as "Agent." Although as a general rule where such an instrument is signed by a person with the addition of "agent," "trustee," etc., the descriptive word is rejected and the agent is bound,[47] yet it has been held that this is not the case where it is shown that the agent habitually signs for the corporation in that way,[48] a doctrine which necessarily lets in parol evidence to show who is bound.

f. Parol Evidence When Admissible to Explain Who Is Bound. The general rule is that parol evidence is not admissible to show that a party is bound who is not named as such on the face of the instrument.[49] But some courts admit an exception, even in the case of negotiable instruments, to the effect that where the terms of the instrument are so ambiguous, equivocal, uncertain, or unintelligible, that it cannot be definitely known whether the principal or agent was intended to be bound, parol evidence will be heard to solve the difficulty and to show the real intent of the parties.[50] But it should be shown that the payee of the note had knowledge, or at least the full means of knowledge, that the makers of the note were promising as agents, duly authorized, of the 43. Connecticut.— Johnson v. Smith, 21 Conn. 627; Hovey v. McGill, 2 Conn. 680.

Indiana.— Means v. Swormstedt, 32 Ind. 87, 2 Am. Rep. 330.

Maryland.— Wyman v. Gray, 7 Harr. & J. 409.

Missouri.— McClellan v. Reynolds, 49 Mo. 312; Smith v. Alexander, 31 Mo. 193.

New Hampshire.— Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

New York.— Hood v. Hallenbeck, 7 Hun 362.

The signers are only prima facie liable in such cases. Drake v. Flewellen, 33 Ala. 106; Haile v. Peirce, 32 Md. 327, 3 Am. Rep. 139; Fitch v. Lawton, 6 How. (Miss.) 371; Brockway v. Allen, 17 Wend. (N. Y.) 40.

44. California.— Sayre v. Nichols, 5 Cal. 487, 7 Cal. 535, 68 Am. Dec. 280.

Connecticut.— Witte v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 260.

Massachusetts.— Slawson v. Loring, 5 Allen 340, 81 Am. Dec. 750; Fuller v. Hooper, 3 Gray 334; Tripp v. Swanzey Paper Co., 13 Pick. 291.

New York.— Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298 [affirming 40 Barb. 179]; Thompson v. Tioga R. Co., 36 Barb. 79; Safford v. Wyckoff, 1 Hill 11, 4 Hill 442.

England.— Forbes v. Marshall, 11 Exch. 166, 24 L. J. Exch. 305, 4 Wkly. Rep. 480.

45. Hall v. Crandall, 29 Cal. 467, 89 Am. Dec. 64; Hall v. Auburn Turnpike Co., 27 Cal. 255, 87 Am. Dec. 75; Shaver v. Ocean Min. Co., 21 Cal. 45; Yowell v. Dodd, 3 Bush (Ky.) 581, 96 Am. Dec. 256; Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171; Whitney v. Stow, 111 Mass. 368; Shotwell v. McKown, 5 N. J. L. 828.

46. Bird v. Daggett, 97 Mass. 494; Draper v. Massachusetts Steam Heating Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 338.

47. See supra, XII, E, 6, a, (I).

48. Hovey v. Magill, 2 Conn. 680.

49. Byles Bills, 37.

50. Sayre v. Nichols, 7 Cal. 535, 68 Am. Dec. 280; Haile v. Peirce, 32 Md. 327, 3 Am. Rep. 139; Melledge v. Boston Iron Co., 5 Cush. (Mass.) 158, 51 Am. Dec. 59; Gerber v. Stuart, 1 Mont. 172.

corporation; for "it is well settled that a man, contracting with another, cannot shield himself as agent, unless he give notice at the time that he is so, or it be known in some other way to the person with whom he deals." [51]

g. When Corporation Estopped to Set Up Informality in Execution. Upon a principle hereafter considered,[52] if the corporation receives the benefit of the transaction with full knowledge, it becomes estopped from setting up that the instrument was not drawn in conformity with its by-laws.[53]

h. Forms Helped Out by Adding Seal of Corporation. There are modern judicial holdings to the effect that, although the instrument does not in its body purport to be the promissory note of a corporation, and although the addition of descriptive words to the name of the person signing it may, under former theories, be rejected as surplusage, yet where the seal of the corporation is added thereto, the seal may be noticed for the purpose of showing the real intent of the instrument, especially where parol evidence shows it to have been affixed by the proper officers of the corporation. The reason being that to impress the proper seal of the corporation upon an instrument is in a sense to sign the corporate name to the instrument.[54]

i. Execution by Agent "For," "on Account," "in Behalf of" Company, Etc. Some doubt has been expressed upon the question whether a signing in the form of words contained in the above head-line, as "for A B, by C D," is a signing which binds the principal or the agent. The better opinion is that such a signing imports exactly what it says: That the signer affixes his signature intending to bind not himself, but the person for whom he professes to sign.[55] If therefore a promissory note contain a stipulation that it is "for," "on account of," or "in behalf of" the company, or words to the like effect, it will be construed as the note of the company, unless it contain other language excluding this interpretation.[56] When therefore an agent of a corporation executes an instrument in his own name, expressing that it is for the company, this will be a good execution by the company.[57] And it is sufficient within this rule that the words "for the company," or "on behalf of the company," are appended to the signature.[58] But of 51. Brockway v. Allen, 17 Wend. (N. Y.) 40, 43. See also McIlhenny Co. v. Blum, 68 Tex. 197, 4 S. W. 367; Seaber v. Hawkes, 5 M. & P. 549.

52. See infra, XV, C, 2, e.

53. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tiernan, 37 Kan. 606, 15 Pac. 544.

54. Scanlan v. Keith, 102 Ill. 634, 40 Am. Rep. 624 (parol evidence also admissible to show the incorporation of the company and the character of its business, for the purpose of making it appear that it was the note of the corporation); Means v. Swormstedt, 32 Ind. 87, 2 Am. Rep. 330; Guthrie v. Imbrie, 12 Oreg. 182, 6 Pac. 664, 53 Am. Rep. 331. Contrary to these holdings is a case already referred to where the queen's bench division refused to give any effect to the seal of a company on a promissory note, although it seems perfectly plain that the instrument was intended and understood as binding the company only. Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 40 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754.

55. Rice v. Gove, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 158, 33 Am. Dec. 724; Ballou v. Talbot, 16 Mass. 461, 8 Am. Dec. 146; Emerson v. Providence Hat Mfg. Co., 12 Mass. 237, 7 Am. Dec. 66; Long v. Colburn, 11 Mass. 97, 6 Am. Dec. 160; Alexander v. Sizer, L. R. 4 Exch. 102, 38 L. J. Exch. 59, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38; Deslandes v. Gregory, 2 E. & E. 602, 6 Jur. N. S. 651, 30 L. J. Q. B. 36, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 634, 8 Wkly. Rep. 585, 105 E. C. L. 602. See also Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101, where the subject is discussed by Gray, J.

56. California.— Haskell v. Cornish, 13 Cal. 45.

Maine.— Andrews v. Estes, 11 Me. 267, 26 Am. Dec. 521.

Massachusetts.— Bradlee v. Boston Glass Manufactory, 16 Pick. 347.

New Hampshire.— Dow v. Moore, 47 N. H. 419.

England.— Healey v. Story, 3 Exch. 3, 18 L. J. Exch. 8.

The contrary, decided in McCalla v. Rigg, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 259, would seem to be without the support of other authority.

57. Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631 (per Sheldon, J.); Mussey v. Scott, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 215, 54 Am. Dec. 719; Wilks v. Back, 2 East 142, 6 Rev. Rep. 409.

58. Winship v. Smith, 61 Me. 118; Sheridan v. Carpenter, 61 Me. 83; Atkins v. Brown, 59 Me. 90; Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101; Draper v. Massachusetts Steam Heating Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 338; Ballou v. Talbot, 16 Mass. 461, 8 Am.

course the same words written in the body of the instrument will have the same effect as when appended to the signature.[59]

j. Notes Executed in Name of Corporation and Signed by Agent Officially. Notes in which the corporation is mentioned in the body of the instrument as the party promising to pay, which are signed by the agent officially, that is to say, for example, with the addition of his official designation after his signature, are generally held to be the obligation of the corporation, and not the personal obligation of the signer.[60]

k. Notes and Bills Made to Order of Treasurer, Cashier, Etc., Import Obligation Payable to Corporation Which May Maintain Action Thereon. A promissory note payable to a person described as the treasurer of a company which is named is a promise to pay to the company, and it may maintain an action thereon.[61] So a bill drawn in favor of a person described as "cashier" is drawn in favor of the bank of which he is cashier.[62]

l. Forms in Which Use of Words "Jointly and Severally" Are Held to Import Individual Liability. In many cases where the instrument is signed by more than one person the use of the words "jointly and severally," in the body of the instrument, is held to be decisive of the meaning of the instrument, and to import an individual liability on the part of the signers; although in some of the cases the form of language is such that but for the use of these words the instrument would import a liability on the part of the corporation merely.[63]

Dec. 146. Contra, Morell v. Codding, 4 Allen (Mass.) 403.

59. Chipman v. Foster, 119 Mass. 189; Lamson, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Russell, 112 Mass. 387; Simpson v. Garland, 72 Me. 40, 39 Am. Rep. 297; Nobleboro v. Clark, 68 Me. 87, 28 Am. Rep. 22.

Illustrations of the foregoing rule may be found in Simpson v. Garland, 72 Me. 40, 39 Am. Rep. 297; Nobleboro v. Clark, 68 Me. 87, 28 Am. Rep. 22 [the opinion of the majority of the court in this case is fortified by a remark of Crompton, J., in Lindus v. Melrose, 3 H. & N. 177, 178, 4 Jur. N. S. 488, 27 L. J. Exch. 326, 6 Wkly. Rep. 441]; Ballou v. Talbot, 16 Mass. 461, 8 Am. Dec. 146; Long v. Colburn, 11 Mass. 97, 6 Am. Dec. 160; Alexander v. Sizer, L. R. 4 Exch. 102, 38 L. J. Exch. 59, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38; Allen v. Sea, etc., Assur. Co., 9 C. B. 574, 14 Jur. 870 note, 19 L. J. C. P. 305, 67 E. C. L. 574; Lindus v. Melrose, 2 H. & N. 293; Aggs v. Nicholson, 1 H. & N. 165, 25 L. J. Exch. 348, 4 Wkly. Rep. 776. See also the liberal construction adopted in Okell v. Charles, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 822. Compare Hall v. Smith, 1 B. & C. 407, 2 D. & R. 584, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 142, and Ex p. Clark, 9 Jur. 931, 15 L. J. Bankr. 3, 14 M. & W. 469, 1 Phil. 562, 19 Eng. Ch. 562, and Bank of British North America v. Hooper, 5 Gray (Mass.) 567, 66 Am. Dec. 390. See to the contrary an idiotic decision where a note running "we, as trustees of the Summerfield M. E. Church, for and in behalf of said church, promise to pay," etc., which note was signed by five persons, adding the words after the signature of the list, "trustees Summerfield M. E. Church," was held not to bind the church and to bind the trustees only. Dennison v. Austin, 15 Wis. 334. See also Fredendall v. Taylor, 23 Wis. 538, 99 Am. Dec. 203, where the preceding case is cited.

60. Shaver v. Ocean Min. Co., 21 Cal. 45; Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171; Shotwell v. McKown, 5 N. J. L. 973. See also Yowell v. Dodd, 3 Bush (Ky.) 581, 96 Am. Dec. 256; Whitney v. Stow, 111 Mass. 368. Compare Hall v. Crandall, 29 Cal. 567, 89 Am. Dec. 64; Hall v. Auburn Turnpike Co., 27 Cal. 255, 87 Am. Dec. 75. For further discussion of plaintiff's remedy in cases like the foregoing see Lander v. Castro, 43 Cal. 497, where the principle of the decision is reaffirmed.

61. Vater v. Lewis, 36 Ind. 288, 10 Am. Rep. 29. Compare Meikel v. German Sav. Fund Soc., 16 Ind. 181; Jones v. Cincinnati Type Foundry Co., 14 Ind. 89.

62. Barney v. Newcomb, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 46; Baldwin v. Newbury Bank, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 234, 17 L. ed. 534.

63. Healey v. Story, 3 Exch. 3, 18 L. J. Exch. 8. See to the same effect Haskell v. Cornish, 13 Cal. 45; Bradlee v. Boston Glass Manufactory, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 347 (notwithstanding the words "promise to pay," etc., "for the Boston Glass Manufactory," plaintiff in action on the note against the company nonsuited); Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 40 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754; Maclae v. Sutherland, 2 C. L. R. 1320, 3 E. & B. 1, 37, 18 Jur. 942, 23 L. J. Q. B. 229, 2 Wkly. Rep. 161, 77 E. C. L. 1; Forbes v. Marshall, 11 Exch. 166, 24 L. J. Exch. 305, 4 Wkly. Rep. 480; Penkivil v. Connell, 5 Exch. 381, 19 L. J. Exch. 305 (although the note ran "for ourselves and other shareholders of the said Company, jointly and severally promise to pay . . for value received on account of the Company"); Bottomley v.

7. Acceptance by Corporations — a. Acceptance by Corporate Agent in His Own Name. The rule as already considered, relating to the execution of written contracts by corporations, whereby an agent who merely signs his own name with the addition of a word designating his agency binds himself personally without binding the corporation applies to acceptances.[64] This rule is adhered to in some jurisdictions for the sake of precision in the use of language and of securing that certainty in negotiable paper which is so necessary to commercial transactions.[65] But the propriety of a rule of law which is opposed to ordinary business habits, and which leads to constant injustice, may be questioned. The better opinion is that which lets in parol evidence to explain an acceptance which is ambiguous on Fisher, 1 H. & C. 211, 8 Jur. N. S. 895, 31 L. J. Exch. 417, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 688, 10 Wkly. Rep. 669; Lindus v. Melrose, 2 H. & N. 293, 3 H. & N. 177, 4 Jur. N. S. 488, 27 L. J. Exch. 326, 6 Wkly. Rep. 441; Aggs v. Nicholson, 1 H. & N. 165, 25 L. J. Exch. 348, 4 Wkly. Rep. 776. See also Trask v. Roberts, 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 201; and compare Rice v. Gove, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 158, 33 Am. Dec. 724; Weare v. Gove, 44 N. H. 196; Savage v. Rix, 9 N. H. 263.

For forms of notes held to import a liability on the part of the corporation see the following cases:

California.— Farmers', etc., Bank v. Colby, 64 Cal. 352, 28 Pac. 118.

Missouri.— Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290 (in form the promise of the trustees of a church and signed by the trustees, but held to express sufficiently the fact that it was signed by them as agents); McClellan v. Reynolds, 49 Mo. 312 (form of note which did not import the individual contract of a school director, and parol evidence properly admitted to show that he signed it in his official capacity); Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316 (note signed by Isaac H. Sturgeon, president of a railroad company, and countersigned by the secretary of the company held to be the act of the company, and competent to remove the doubt by parol evidence).

New Hampshire.— Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

New York.— Hodges v. Shuler, 22 N. Y. 114, instrument held to be the promissory note of a railroad corporation and one transferring it by indorsement liable as indorser.

Texas.— McIllhenny Co. v. Blum, 68 Tex. 197, 4 S. W. 367, conclusion helped out by parol evidence that the signer was the agent of the corporation and accustomed to sign its obligations in that way.

Form of check and draft importing corporate liability.— Carpenter v. Farnsworth, 106 Mass. 561, 562, 8 Am. Rep. 360.

Forms of promissory notes importing a personal liability of the signer.— Burlingame v. Brewster, 79 Ill. 515, 22 Am. Rep. 177 ("I promise to pay," signed by three persons with the addition, "as trustees of First Universalist Society," but descriptive words torn off by the payee, which released the signers); Powers v. Briggs, 79 Ill. 493, 22 Am. Rep. 175 ("We, the trustees of the Seventh Presbyterian Church, promise," etc., signed by four names with the addition of the word "trustees," and notwithstanding evidence that the defendants were trustees of said church, and that the note was given in part payment for a church organ); Sturdivant v. Hull, 59 Me. 172, 8 Am. Rep. 409 (I promise to pay, signed by a man with the addition of "Treas. St. Paul's Parish"); Collins v. Buckeye State Ins. Co., 17 Ohio St. 215, 93 Am. Dec. 612 (I promise to pay, signed by a person with the addition of "agent"); Titus v. Kyle, 10 Ohio St. 444 ("We or either of us, as directors, . . promise to pay"). See also the following cases:

Maine.— Sturdivant v. Hull, 59 Me. 172, 8 Am. Rep. 409; Chick v. Trevett, 20 Me. 462, 37 Am. Dec. 68; Fogg v. Virgin, 19 Me. 352, 36 Am. Dec. 757.

Massachusetts.— Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101; Morell v. Codding, 4 Allen 403.

Mississippi.— Leach v. Blow, 8 Sm. & M. 221.

New Hampshire.— Savage v. Rix, 9 N. H. 263.

New York.— De Witt v. Walton, 9 N. Y. 571; Moss v. Livingston, 4 N. Y. 208; Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664; Hills v. Bannister, 8 Cow. 31.

Compare Bradlee v. Boston Glass Manufactory, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 347; Leadbitter v. Farrow, 5 M. & S. 345, 17 Rev. Rep. 345.

64. Thus the drawee of a bill of exchange drawn by the Kanawha & Ohio Coal Company, was described as "John A. Robinson, Agent," and it was accepted by him as "John A. Robinson, Agent K. & O. C. Co." It was held that the acceptance was a personal obligation of John A. Robinson, and that in a suit upon the acceptance by an indorsee against him parol evidence was not admissible, in the absence of fraud, accident, or mistake, to show that the defendant intended to bind the drawer as his principal, and that this was known to the plaintiff when it acquired the paper. Robinson v. Kanawha Valley Bank, 44 Ohio St. 441, 8 N. E. 583, 58 Am. Rep. 829.

65. Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664; Thomas v. Bishop, 2 Str. 955.

its face.[66] This conclusion would seem to be unavoidably sound, in view of the rule of law that a bill of exchange may be accepted orally, unless there is a statute requiring its acceptance to be in writing;[67] for there can certainly be no great precision or certainty in an oral acceptance.

b. Acceptance by Bank Cashier. By a general custom peculiar to banks and to banking, which may be said to have the force of law, the cashier of a bank accepts paper drawn on it or certifies checks drawn against funds in its hands by merely using his own name, thus, C. H. Smith, Cashier.[68]

c. When Accepter of Commercial Paper Personally Bound. The question under this head is who is the real drawee, and in determining this question the rule is to hold the person on whom the bill is drawn, and who accepts it, to be bound, rejecting any description which he adds to his signature, indicating an agency. Thus, a draft drawn upon "E. T. Loring, Agent," and accepted by him in the same form, was held to bind the accepter personally, although the draft was headed, "Officer of Portage Lake Manufacturing Company," and below was printed, "E. T. Loring, Agent," in very conspicuous type.[69] The same was true in the case of a bill addressed to "John R. Livingston, Jr., President Rosendale M'ng Co.," and accepted in the same form.[70] So also of a draft accepted in this form: "Accepted, John P. Lord, Treasurer Neuvitas M. Co."[71]

d. When Accepter of Commercial Paper Not Personally Liable. But the authority of other cases in this country is directly contrary to the foregoing. Thus a bill addressed to "Noyes Darling, Agent of the Commission Company," and accepted in the form, "Noyes Darling, Agent, C. C.," has been held to be binding upon the company, although the agent received and applied the money to his own use without the knowledge or consent of his principal.[72]

66. Gallagher v. Black, 44 Me. 99; Shackelford v. Hooker, 54 Miss. 716; Lamon v. French, 25 Wis. 37.

67. Jarvis v. Wilson, 46 Conn. 90, 33 Am. Rep. 18; Dunavan v. Flynn, 118 Mass. 537; Spaulding v. Andrews, 48 Pa. St. 411. If a bill with a parol acceptance comes into the hands of a party who does not know of the acceptance at the time, he may nevertheless avail himself of it afterward, when it does come to his knowledge. Spaulding v. Andrews, 48 Pa. St. 411. Even the validity of a parol promise to accept an existing or non-existing bill of exchange has been maintained. Nelson v. Chicago First Nat. Bank, 48 Ill. 36, 95 Am. Dec. 510. But see Bank of Ireland v. Archer, 17 Jur. 379, 12 L. J. Exch. 353, 11 M. & W. 383. As to parol promises to accept a bill thereafter to be drawn see Flora First Nat. Bank v. Clark, 61 Md. 400, 48 Am. Rep. 114; Franklin Bank v. Lynch, 52 Md. 270, 36 Am. Rep. 375; Cook v. Baldwin, 120 Mass. 317, 21 Am. Rep. 517; Carnegie v. Morrison, 2 Metc. (Mass.) 381; Bissell v. Lewis, 4 Mich. 450; Coolidge v. Payson, 2 Wheat. (U. S.) 66, 4 L. ed. 185; Cassel v. Dows, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,502, 1 Blatchf. 335.

68. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 604, 19 L. ed. 1008. See also Farmers', etc., Bank v. Troy City Bank, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 457; Robinson v. Kanawha Valley Bank, 44 Ohio St. 441, 8 N. E. 583, 58 Am. St. Rep. 829. See also BANKS AND BANKING.

69. Slawson v. Loring, 5 Allen (Mass.) 340, 81 Am. Dec. 750. See also Tassey v. Church, 4 Watts & S. (Pa.) 346.

70. Moss v. Livingston, 4 N. Y. 208.

71. Bruce v. Lord, 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 247.

Liability only prima facie.— But this liability, according to the rule prevailing in similar cases in New York and some other states, is only prima facie. In an action upon such acceptance the accepter may discharge himself by showing that he accepted as agent, and by authority of the company, and that the plaintiff was aware of the fact at the time of taking the draft. This rule is to be commended. By this means the strictness of legal forms is maintained, while the hardship which would frequently result from the technical construction of the language used is tempered. See Lazarus v. Shearer, 2 Ala. 718. For further illustration see Walker v. State Bank, 9 N. Y. 582; Nicholls v. Diamond, 2 C. L. R. 305, 9 Exch. 154, 23 L. J. Exch. 1, 2 Wkly. Rep. 12, 24 Eng. L. & Eq. 403; Mare v. Charles, 5 E. & B. 978, 2 Jur. N. S. 234, 25 L. J. Q. B. 119, 4 Wkly. Rep. 267, 85 E. C. L. 978; Thomas v. Bishop, 2 Str. 955.

72. Shelton v. Darling, 2 Conn. 435. To the same effect see Amison v. Ewing, 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 366. In this case one order was addressed to "John O. Ewing," and two others to "John O. Ewing, Treasurer of the N. & N. W. Railroad Company." All three of the orders were accepted in the following form: "Accepted, payable on return of the March estimates, John O. Ewing, Treas.," and were held not binding upon Ewing personally.

e. Acceptance by President. Circumstances under which a draft drawn upon the president of a corporation personally, and accepted by him, using the words, "payable at First National Bank Milwaukee, Grant Carriage Company, E. W. Grant, President," estopped the corporation and estopped its receiver after its insolvency, are disclosed in the case cited in the margin.[73]

8. Indorsement by Corporations[74] — a. Indorsements by Cashiers of Banks. By a general custom of banking already referred to an indorsement is made by the cashier of a bank by merely signing his name with the addition of the word "cashier" or its abbreviation; and such an indorsement will bind the bank.[75] It will bind the bank in favor of a bona fide purchaser for value, although the indorsment may have been merely for an accommodation,[76] the rule being that such an indorsement made by a cashier is prima facie evidence of his authority, which dispenses with the necessity of going behind the face of the instrument to discover a precedent authorization.[77]

b. Indorsements to Bank Cashiers Are Indorsements to Bank. So the indorsement of a note to the cashier of a moneyed corporation, by adding the word "cashier" to his name in the indorsement, is a transfer to the corporation, if such be the purpose of the transaction.[78]

F. Parol Contracts by Corporations — 1. Statement of General Doctrine by Supreme Court of the United States. "Wherever a corporation is acting within the scope of the legitimate purpose of its institution, all parol contracts, made by its authorized agents, are express promises of the corporation; and all duties imposed on them by law, and all benefits conferred at their request, raise implied promises for the enforcement of which an action may well lie."[79]

2. Corporations Bound by Parol Engagements of Their Authorized Agents Whenever Individual Would Be so Bound. The meaning is that corporations are bound by the parol engagements of their authorized agents, acting within the scope of the powers of the corporation, whenever an individual would be bound by the engagement of his authorized agent. For instance a valid agreement by the purchaser of land to pay therefor a greater consideration than that expressed in the deed may in the case of an individual be made and proved by parol;[80] and so it may in case of a corporation making such a contract through its authorized agent, especially where the corporation takes possession of the land and afterward sells it.[81]

73. McLaren v. Milwaukee First Nat. Bank, 76 Wis. 259, 45 N. W. 223.

74. When corporation liable over to accommodation indorser.— See Borland v. Haven, 37 Fed. 394, 13 Sawy. 551.

75. Maine.— Cooper v. Curtis, 30 Me. 488.

Massachusetts.— Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. 63; Northampton Bank v. Pepoon, 11 Mass. 288.

New York.— Mechanics' Banking Assoc. v. New York, etc., White Lead Co., 35 N. Y. 505; State Bank v. Muskingum Branch Ohio State Bank, 29 N. Y. 619; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Butchers', etc., Bank, 14 N. Y. 623, 16 N. Y. 125, 69 Am. Dec. 678; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309, 19 N. Y. 312; Robb v. Ross County Bank, 41 Barb. 586; Watervliet Bank v. White, 1 Den. 608. See also Claflin v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 36 Barb. 540.

Pennsylvania.— Bissell v. Franklin First Nat. Bank, 69 Pa. St. 415.

Wisconsin.— Ballston Spa Bank v. Marine Bank, 16 Wis. 120; Rockwell v. Elkhorn Bank, 13 Wis. 653.

United States.— Chillicothe Branch Ohio State Bank v. Fox, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,683, 3 Blatchf. 431.

76. Houghton v. Elkhorn First Nat. Bank, 26 Wis. 663, 7 Am. Rep. 107, opinion by Cole, J.

77. Cooper v. Curtis, 30 Me. 488; Farrar v. Gilman, 19 Me. 440, 36 Am. Dec. 766; Burnham v. Webster, 19 Me. 232; Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 63.

78. Watervliet Bank v. White, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 608.

79. Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 299, 306, 3 L. ed. 351, per Story, J. See also Frankfort Bridge Co. v. Frankfort, 18 B. Mon. (Ky.) 41; Blanchard v. Maysville, etc., Turnpike Co., 1 Dana (Ky.) 86; Waller v. Commonwealth Bank, 3 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 201; Wyman v. Hallowell, etc., Bank, 14 Mass. 58, 7 Am. Dec. 194; Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Knapp, 9 Pet. (U. S.) 541, 9 L. ed. 222.

80. Belden v. Seymour, 8 Conn. 304, 21 Am. Dec. 661; De Forest v. Holum, 38 Wis. 516; Horner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Wis. 165; Hannan v. Oxley, 23 Wis. 519; Villers v. Beamont, 2 Dyer 146*a*; Washburn Real Prop. (3d ed.) 327.

81. Kickland v. Menasha Wooden-Ware Co., 68 Wis. 34, 31 N. W. 471, 60 Am. Rep. 831.

3. What Corporate Acts Provable by Parol Evidence — a. General Statement of Doctrine. The settled law is now believed to be that the acts of corporations are provable by parol in all cases where under like circumstances the acts of individuals would be so provable, unless a record of the particular transaction is required to be kept by the governing statute or by-laws. In such cases if there be no evidence on the records of the corporation, the act in question may be proved by the testimony of witnesses.[82]

b. Fact That Written Order Was Rescinded Provable by Parol. Thus parol evidence is admissible to prove that a written order entered among the proceedings of the board of directors of a bank was rescinded and annulled by a subsequent verbal order of which no minute in writing was made. The parol proof of such verbal order need not establish the fact that the order was rescinded by the board of directors, at a regular meeting of the board at the ordinary place of meeting, consisting of the president, and not less than the number of directors required by the charter for transacting the ordinary business of the bank; nor need such parol testimony show the day and year on which the order had been rescinded.[83]

c. Corporation When Bound by Verbal Order of Majority of Directors. The corporation will be bound by any verbal order or direction in which a majority of the directors concur in relation to any business deputed to them.[84]

d. This Doctrine Illustrated by Case of Parol Contracts of Insurance. A striking illustration of the doctrine under consideration is found in those decisions which hold that a corporation engaged in the business of insurance may make a valid contract of insurance by parol,[85] unless prohibited by its charter or other valid governing instrument.[86]

e. Written Appointment of Corporate Officers Not Necessary, but Appointment May Be Proved by Parol Evidence and by Circumstances — (i) In General. It is a part of this doctrine that an appointment of a ministerial officer of a corporation need not be proved by a writing, but may be shown by parol and evidence of circumstances; so that if a person acts notoriously as such an officer and is recognized as such by the directors, a regular appointment and 82. California.— Carey v. Philadelphia, etc., Petroleum Co., 33 Cal. 694; Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623.

Connecticut.— Goodwin v. U. S. Annuity, etc., Ins. Co., 24 Conn. 591. Compare Waterbury v. Clark, 4 Day 198.

Illinois.— Board of Education v. Greenbaum, 39 Ill. 609.

Indiana.— Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Richardson v. St. Joseph Iron Co., 5 Blackf. 146, 33 Am. Dec. 460.

Kentucky.— Covington v. Covington, etc., Bridge Co., 10 Bush 69.

Maryland.— Union Bank v. Ridgeley, 1 Harr. & G. 324.

Massachusetts.— Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. 63; Dedham Bank v. Chickering, 3 Pick. 335; Apthorp v. North, 14 Mass. 167.

Mississippi.— Abby v. Billups, 35 Miss. 618, 72 Am. Dec. 143; Petrie v. Wright, 6 Sm. & M. 647.

Missouri.— Southern Hotel Co. v. Newman, 30 Mo. 118.

New Hampshire.— Edgerly v. Emerson, 23 N. H. 555, 55 Am. Dec. 207.

New York.— Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449; Lyons Bank v. Demmon, Lalor 398; St. Mary's Church v. Cagger, 6 Barb. 576.

Pennsylvania.—Magill v. Kauffman, 4 Serg. & R. 317, 8 Am. Dec. 713.

Tennessee.—Smiley v. Chattanooga, 6 Heisk. 604.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552.

83. Whittington v. Farmers' Bank, 5 Harr. & J. (Md.) 489.

84. Stamford Bank v. Benedict, 15 Conn. 437; Cram v. Bangor House Proprietary, 12 Me. 354. But compare supra, IX, E, 1, a et seq.

85. Alabama.— Mobile Mar. Dock, etc., Ins. Co. v. McMillan, 31 Ala. 711.

Massachusetts.— Kennebec Co. v. Augusta Ins., etc., Co., 6 Gray 204.

Missouri.— Henning v. U. S. Insurance Co., 47 Mo. 425, 4 Am. Rep. 332.

New York.—First Baptist Church v. Brooklyn F. Ins. Co., 19 N. Y. 305.

United States.— Commercial Mut. Ins. Co. v. Union Mut. Ins. Co., 19 How. 318, 15 L. ed. 636.

86. Henning v. U. S. Insurance Co., 47 Mo. 425, 4 Am. Rep. 332. Contra, that there can be no valid parol contract of insurance see Platho v. Merchants', etc., Ins. Co., 38 Mo. 248; Cockerill v. Cincinnati Mut. Ins. Co., 16 Ohio 148; Smith v. Odlin, 4 Yeates (Pa.) 468.

qualification will be presumed, and his acts, done within the scope of his agency, will bind the corporation, although no written evidence of his appointment be adduced.[87]

(II) Approval of Bond of Corporate Officer May Be Shown by Parol. In the absence of contrary provisions in the charter, in the governing statute, or in the by-laws, the fact of the approval of the bond of a corporate officer may be shown by presumptive as well as by written evidence.[88]

(III) Both Appointment and Authorization Provable by Parol — (A) In General. Unless prohibited by its charter or by its governing statute a corporation may without any writing or record appoint agents and empower them to do all acts necessary or expedient to be done in the ordinary course of its business; and consequently such appointment and authorization may be proved by parol.[89]

(B) May Confer Authority by Parol to Draw Bills of Exchange. Thus unless so prohibited the directors of a corporation may confer authority upon their agent to draw and execute bills of exchange on behalf of the company, and

87. Alabama.— Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Kidd, 29 Ala. 221; Montgomery R. Co. v. Hurst, 9 Ala. 513; Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Tipton, 5 Ala. 787, 39 Am. Dec. 344; Wetumpka, etc., R. Co. v. Bingham, 5 Ala. 657; Bates v. State Bank, 2 Ala. 451.

California.— Allen v. Citizens' Steam Nav. Co., 22 Cal. 28.

Connecticut.— New Haven Sav. Bank v. Davis, 8 Conn. 191.

Delaware.— Wilson v. Rockland Mfg. Co., 2 Harr. 67.

Illinois.— Board of Education v. Greenbaum, 39 Ill. 609; Reed v. Bradley, 17 Ill. 321.

Indiana.— Richardson v. St. Joseph Iron Co., 5 Blackf. 146, 33 Am. Dec. 460.

Kentucky.— Covington v. Covington, etc., Bridge Co., 10 Bush 69; Lathrop v. Commercial Bank, 8 Dana 114, 33 Am. Dec. 481; Lee v. Flemingsburg, 7 Dana 28; Garrison v. Combs, 7 J. J. Marsh. 84, 22 Am. Dec. 120.

Louisiana.— Marlatt v. Levee Steam Cotton Press Co., 10 La. 583, 29 Am. Dec. 468.

Maine.— Brown v. Donnell, 49 Me. 421, 77 Am. Dec. 266; Trundy v. Farrar, 32 Me. 225; Lime Rock Bank v. Macomber, 29 Me. 564; Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428; Methodist Chapel Corp. v. Herrick, 25 Me. 354; Warren v. Ocean Ins. Co., 16 Me. 439, 33 Am. Dec. 674; Maine Stage Co. v. Longley, 14 Me. 444; Trott v. Warren, 11 Me. 227; Abbot v. Hermon Third School Dist., 7 Me. 118.

Maryland.— Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Bastian, 15 Md. 494; Kennedy v. Baltimore Ins. Co., 3 Harr. & J. 367, 6 Am. Dec. 499; Elysville Mfg. Co. v. Okisko Co., 1 Md. Ch. 392.

Massachusetts.— Topping v. Bickford, 4 Allen 120; Hutchins v. Byrnes, 9 Gray 367; Middlesex Husbandmen, etc., Soc. v. Davis, 3 Metc. 133; Amherst Bank v. Root, 2 Metc. 522; Dedham Bank v. Chickering, 3 Pick. 335; Monumoi Great-Beach v. Rogers, 1 Mass. 159.

Michigan.— Detroit v. Jackson, 1 Dougl. 106.

Missouri.— Williams v. Christian Female College, 29 Mo. 250, 77 Am. Dec. 569.

Nebraska.— Columbus Co. v. Hurford, 1 Nebr. 146.

New Hampshire.— Nicholas v. Oliver, 36 N. H. 218; Goodwin v. Union Screw Co., 34 N. H. 378.

New Jersey.— State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360.

New York.— Peterson v. New York, 17 N. Y. 449; Fister v. La Rue, 15 Barb. 323; Jackson v. New York Cent. R. Co., 2 Thomps. & C. 653; Lyons Bank v. Demmon, Lalor 398; Commercial Bank v. Kortright, 22 Wend. 348, 34 Am. Dec. 317; Clark v. Farmers' Woolen Mfg. Co., 15 Wend. 256.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 1 Grant 329; Wolf v. Goddard, 9 Watts 544; Barrington v. Washington Bank, 14 Serg. & R. 405; Kentucky Bank v. Schuylkill Bank, 1 Pars. Eq. Cas. 180.

South Carolina.— Planters' Bank v. Bivingsville Cotton Mfg. Co., 10 Rich. 95.

United States.— Eureka Clothes Wringing Mach. Co. v. Bailey Washing, etc., Co., 11 Wall. 488, 20 L. ed. 209; U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552; Owings v. Speed, 5 Wheat. 420, 5 L. ed. 124; Hooe v. Alexandria, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,666, 1 Cranch C. C. 90.

88. U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 64, 6 L. ed. 552. See also Dedham Bank v. Chickering, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 335; Apthorp v. North, 14 Mass. 167. Those interested in the history of the development of the law on this question will find an exhaustive examination of it in the court of appeals of Maryland, by Buchanan, C. J., in Union Bank v. Ridgley, 1 Harr. & G. (Md.) 324. That the omission of a corporate officer to qualify by taking the oath required by the act of incorporation will not affect the validity of his acts or release the sureties on his bond see Hastings v. Blue Hill Turnpike Corp., 9 Pick. (Mass.) 80; Elizabeth State Bank v. Chetwood, 8 N. J. L. 1. And see Panton Turnpike Co. v. Bishop, 11 Vt. 198. See further as to the acts of de facto officers of corporations supra, IX, B, 1 et seq.

89. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (I) et seq.

no action in writing on the part of the board is necessary to vest the agent with such authority.[90]

G. Implied Contracts of Corporations — 1. Corporation Subject to Same Implications as Natural Persons — a. In General — (i) Rule Stated. The modern doctrine is that corporations (which can act only through agents, in respect of transactions within their granted powers, and in the absence of express restriction in their charters or governing statutes and always excluding municipal or governmental corporations) incur the same liabilities and are subject to the same implications in consequence of the acts of their agents as arise in the case of natural persons; that the law will imply a duty or obligation on the part of a corporation, subject to the above conditions, whenever it would upon similar facts raise such an implication against an individual; and that, in the absence of formal corporate action, whether evidenced by a vote of the directors duly recorded or by an instrument in writing sealed or unsealed.[91]

(ii) Assumpsit Lies on Implied Contracts, Recovery Upon Quantum Meruit — (a) In General. It follows that at common law an action of assumpsit will lie against a corporation upon an implied contract and that a recovery may be had upon a quantum meruit as in case of an individual.[92]

(b) Assumpsit For Use and Occupation. Thus if a railroad corporation occupies land after its agent has been notified by the owner that rent will be charged it is liable in assumpsit for use and occupation.[93]

(c) Assumpsit For Value of Services — (1) In General. So a person who renders services to a corporation under an informal contract which could not be enforced so long as it remained executory may recover the reasonable value of his services upon a quantum meruit, upon the theory that the corporation having availed itself of the services is bound in conscience to pay to the party rendering them what they were worth to it.[94] So it has been held that where labor has been performed for a corporation with the knowledge of the directors and general managers, and without any dissent on their part, the corporation will be bound to pay a quantum meruit, in the absence of any express contract under which the labor was performed.[95]

90. Preston v. Missouri, etc., Lead Co., 51 Mo. 43. See also Stamford Bank v. Benedict, 15 Conn. 437; Topping v. Bickford, 4 Allen (Mass.) 120; Christian University v. Jordan, 29 Mo. 68.

91. Illinois.— New Athens v. Thomas, 82 Ill. 259; Board of Education v. Greenbaum, 39 Ill. 609.

Indiana.— Ross v. Madison, 1 Ind. 281, 48 Am. Dec. 361.

Iowa.— Merrick v. Burlington, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Iowa 74.

Maine.— Abbot v. Hermon Third School Dist., 7 Me. 118.

Maryland.— Kennedy v. Baltimore Ins. Co., 3 Harr. & J. 367, 6 Am. Dec. 499.

Massachusetts.— Smith v. Lowell First Cong. Meetinghouse, 8 Pick. 178; Canal Bridge v. Gordon, 1 Pick. 296, 11 Am. Dec. 170.

Minnesota.—Deane v. Hodge, 35 Minn. 146, 27 N. W. 917, 59 Am. Rep. 321; Rogers v. Hastings, etc., R. Co., 22 Minn. 25.

Mississippi.—Abby v. Billups, 35 Miss. 618, 72 Am. Dec. 143; Petrie v. Wright, 6 Sm. & M. 647.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452.

New Jersey.— Antiopeda Baptist Church v. Mulford, 8 N. J. L. 182.

New York.— Rider v. Union India Rubber Co., 5 Bosw. 85; Dunn v. St. Andrew's Church, 14 Johns. 118. Where by its charter a corporation was required to publish the accounts of its treasurer it was held liable for the expense of such publication. Tucker v. Rochester, 7 Wend. 254.

Pennsylvania.—McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant 36; Kentucky Bank v. Schuylkill Bank, 1 Pars. Eq. Cas. 180.

Texas.— San Antonio v. Lewis, 9 Tex. 69.

Vermont.— Hall v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 401; Gassett v. Andover, 21 Vt. 342; Sheldon v. Fairfax, 21 Vt. 102; Stone v. East Berkshire Cong. Soc., 14 Vt. 186.

United States.— Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 137 U. S. 98, 11 S. Ct. 36, 34 L. ed. 608.

See also supra, X, D, 1, b, (i) et seq.

92. Barcus v. Hannibal, etc., Plankroad Co., 26 Mo. 102.

93. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Thompson, 116 Ill. 159, 5 N. E. 117.

That the corporation must first be put in default before it will be liable on implied contract see Seagraves v. Alton, 13 Ill. 366.

94. Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623; Hall v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 401; Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 137 U. S. 98, 11 S. Ct. 36, 34 L. ed. 608.

95. Goodwin v. Union Screw Co., 34 N. H. 378.

(2) Action Supported by Circumstantial Evidence. In such a case the action for the quantum meruit will be supported by proof of circumstances from which a promise to pay might ordinarily be inferred in an action against a natural person.[96] In many cases the application of the principle is nothing more than the proof, by circumstantial evidence, of a contract on the part of a corporation; and the evidence must be such as fairly to raise the inference that the parties intended that the rendition of the services should not be gratuitous, but that the corporation should make payment for them; or at least that the circumstances were such that a reasonable man, in the same situation with the person who receives and is benefited by them, would and ought to understand that compensation was to be paid for them.[97]

(3) Or by Proof of Ratification. In many such cases the right of action to recover the value of services will be supported on the ground of ratification, and it will not therefore be necessary to show a precedent contract. "Having availed itself of the services and received the benefits, it is bound in conscience to pay, and will not be heard to say that the original agreement was not made by a person legally authorized to contract." [98]

b. Implied Contract to Repay Money Advanced to Pay Corporate Debts. Thus a mining corporation has been held liable to its foreman for moneys advanced to pay corporate debts, where, although there was no precedent request for him to make the advance, there was an acquiescence with full knowledge,[99] which on principles elsewhere explained would constitute a ratification.[1]

c. Contract Implied Where Statute Requires It to Be in Writing. So even where there is a statute providing that no contract shall be binding upon a corporation unless made in writing[2] this, according to one view, does not prevent a corporation from being held liable, as on an implied promise, where benefits or services have been given or rendered to it, on the oral request of its officers, and the company has accepted and had the benefit of them.[3]

d. Rule Validates Informal Contracts After They Have Been Executed. And in the same line of thought it has been reasoned that when a contract is executory a corporation cannot be held bound by it, unless the contract is made in pursuance of the provisions of its charter; but where the contract has been executed, and the corporation has enjoyed the benefit of the consideration, an implied assumpsit arises against it as well as an implied ratification of the authority of the agent who contracted.[4]

e. Rule Requires That Corporate Vote Shall Be Sometimes Presumed. The courts go further and in aid of justice, in cases where a corporate vote is strictly necessary to the validity of a contract, such a vote will often be presumed.[5]

2. When Contract to Pay For Services or Property Will Be Implied on Part of Corporation in Favor of Director or Officer. An obligation to pay for property or services may be implied on the part of a corporation in favor of a director or officer of the corporation, although it is conceded that the law will scrutinize

96. Barstow v. City R. Co., 42 Cal. 465.

97. Pew v. Gloucester First Nat. Bank, 130 Mass. 391 [quoted with approval in Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 137 U. S. 98, 11 S. Ct. 36, 34 L. ed. 608]. A vote of the directors that a committee be appointed to increase the stock subscriptions, with such compensation as the board shall deem proper, not to exceed one per cent, has been held to raise a promise by the corporation to pay a reasonable compensation, within the limit, for labor and money expended by that committee for the company's benefit. Hall v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 401.

98. Fister v. La Rue, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 323, 324 [quoted with approval in Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623]. See also infra, XV, C, 2, e.

99. Martin v. Victor Mill, etc., Co., 19 Nev. 180, 8 Pac. 161.

1. See infra, XV, C, 2, a et seq.

2. See supra, XII, B, 2, a et seq.

3. Foulke v. San Diego, etc., R. Co., 51 Cal. 365.

4. San Francisco Gas Co. v. San Francisco, 9 Cal. 453.

5. Kentucky Bank v. Schuylkill Bank, 1 Pars. Eq. Cas. (Pa.) 180 [quoted with approval in Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623]. See also U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 64, 6 L. ed. 552.

jealously a claim of this kind.[6] Thus it has been held that a promise on the part of a railway company may be implied to pay the reasonable value of services rendered by a director, as land commissioner and attorney, outside of his duties as director.[7] So it has been held that where a corporation avails itself of the use of letters-patent for an invention owned by one of its directors and officers, with his consent, he is not precluded from recovering compensation therefor, as upon an implied contract.[8]

3. CONTRACT CANNOT BE IMPLIED WHERE CORPORATION HAD NO POWER TO MAKE EXPRESS CONTRACT. A limitation of the foregoing doctrine is that as in the case of a natural person a contract on the part of a corporation cannot be implied where the corporation had no power to make an express contract to the same effect in a formal manner.[9]

4. CONTRACT CANNOT BE IMPLIED CONTRARY TO EXPRESS AGREEMENT. Another limitation of the doctrine is that as in case of natural persons no contract can be implied contrary to the express agreement of the parties.[10]

5. CONTRACT CANNOT BE IMPLIED IN FAVOR OF CORPORATION AGAINST STATE. Moreover it has been said that no contract can arise by implication between the state and a corporation.[11] But this was said with reference to the principles which should obtain in the construction of grants of franchises to corporations; and it was merely intended to mean that where the instrument embodying the grant is doubtful nothing is implied in favor of the corporation and against the public.[12]

H. Manner of Executing Written Instruments so as to Charge Corporation and Discharge Signers, and Vice Versa — 1. GENERALLY. In the interpretation of written obligations defectively executed by the officers and agents of corporations the courts have in many cases been greatly perplexed to determine, as a question of interpretation, whether the intention of the parties was to bind the corporation or to bind the signers personally; and in some cases, as we shall soon see, parol evidence has been let in to solve the difficulty. Every written instrument intended to bind a corporation ought to name the corporation as the obligor, in other words every contract of a corporation ought to be drawn in the name of the corporation, although there are some well-established exceptions to this rule, founded upon custom as in the case of indorsements by the cashiers of banks.[13]

2. GENERAL GROUNDS OF PERSONAL LIABILITY OF AGENT IN EXECUTING CONTRACTS FOR CORPORATION. These grounds do not differ from the grounds on which agents of individual principals are held personally liable upon contracts which are executed in behalf of their principal, although not so in form. Those grounds are: (1) That the agent has failed to disclose his principal at the time of making the contract, thereby inviting and receiving credit personally from the other contracting party.[14] (2) Where the contract is in writing, that its legal construction imports

6. Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 137 U. S. 98, 11 S. Ct. 36, 34 L. ed. 608. See supra, IX, Q, 5.

7. Rogers v. Hastings, etc., R. Co., 22 Minn. 25.

8. Deane v. Hodge, 35 Minn. 146, 27 N. W. 917, 59 Am. Rep. 321. See also Rider v. Union India Rubber Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 85. Compare McKeever v. U. S., 14 Ct. Cl. 396.

9. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 562; Hall v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 401.

10. Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

11. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

12. It will not escape attention that the fundamental theory of the case of Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518, 4 L. ed. 629, was that there was an implied contract on the part of the grantor not to revoke the grant of corporate franchises which he had made.

13. It will be recalled for example that the circulating notes of the Bank of England are the promises of its cashier in the first person, thus, "I, Frank May, cashier." On the other hand the treasury notes and other paper currency of the United States is in form as it should be, "the promise of the United States of America."

14. 2 Kent Comm. 631; Story Agency, §§ 266, 277; 4 Thompson Corp. § 5028; Wharton Agency, §§ 490, 496.

It is to be kept in mind that the doctrine of undisclosed principal does not apply to a personal liability on the part of the agent, although the other contracting party knows that it is not the contract of the agent but that of his principal, since otherwise parol evidence would be let in to vary the terms of a written contract not ambiguous on its face.[15] (3) Whenever a person undertakes to do an act as agent of another, if he does not possess any authority from the principal therefor, or if he exceeds the authority delegated to him, he will in some form of action be personally responsible to the person with whom he is dealing, for or on account of the principal. This liability is said to arise under three states of fact: (a) Where the agent has made a fraudulent representation; (b) where the agent has no authority and knows it, but nevertheless undertakes to act for the principal, although he intends no fraud; and (c) where, acting as agent under a bona fide belief that he has authority, while in point of fact he has no authority, he therefore acts under an innocent mistake.[16]

3. When Neither Corporation Nor Agent Bound. There is another class of cases where the intent of the parties to the instrument was to bind the corporation, and where all of the parties acted under the common mistake that the corporation would be bound by the instrument. Thus if a school director in his official character signs a promissory note for the purpose of raising money to build a school-house, under the impression, participated in by the payee of the note, that the law allows a subdistrict to borrow money for such purpose, whereas such is not the fact, the director who signs the note will not render himself personally liable, although the district is not liable.[17]

4. Manner of Executing Sealed Instruments so as to Bind Corporation and Exonerate Agent — a. Such Instruments Must Be Executed in Name of Corporation — (i) Rule Stated. It is a long-established rule of conveyancing that deeds executed by an attorney or agent must be executed in the name of the constituent.[18]

negotiable paper, in which case no person can be charged who is not named in the instrument. Beckham v. Drake, 9 M. & W. 79. Thus it has been held that a corporation may adopt, for the purpose of signing its commercial paper, the name of a commercial firm, so as to bind the corporation by a note so signed, as where the name signed was Horace Gray and Company, and the corporation held to be bound was the Boston Iron Company. Melledge v. Boston Iron Co., 5 Cush. (Mass.) 158, 51 Am. Dec. 59. See also Rowe v. Table Mountain Water Co., 10 Cal. 441; Medway Cotton Manufactory v. Adams, 10 Mass. 360; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 20; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 27.

15. Evans Agency 304; Story Agency, § 270; Wharton Agency, § 284 et seq.

16. For authority in general support of this doctrine see Evans Agency 302; Story Agency, § 264; Wharton Agency, § 524 et seq. See also 4 Thompson Corp. p. 3751, for an extended note on this subject.

The doctrine that the agent impliedly contracts as to the existence of his authority and that for a breach of his implied warranty he may be held liable is now the settled law of England (Godwin v. Francis, L. R. 5 C. P. 295, 39 L. J. C. P. 121, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 338; Spedding v. Nevell, L. R. 4 C. P. 212, 38 L. J. C. P. 133; Cherry v. Colonial Bank, L. R. 3 P. C. 24, 38 L. J. P. C. 49, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 356, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 235, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1031, 16 Eng. Reprint 714; Richardson v. Williamson, L. R. 6 Q. B. 276, 40 L. J. Q. B. 145; Collen v. Wright, 7 E. & B. 301, 3 Jur. N. S. 363, 26 L. J. Q. B. 147, 90 E. C. L. 301 [affirmed in 8 E. & B. 647, 4 Jur. N. S. 357, 27 L. J. Q. B. 215, 6 Wkly. Rep. 123, 92 E. C. L. 647]), and this principle has taken root in this country (Baltzen v. Nicolay, 53 N. Y. 467; Dung v. Parker, 52 N. Y. 494; White v. Madison, 26 N. Y. 117).

17. Humphrey v. Jones, 71 Mo. 62 [citing Smout v. Ilbery, 12 L. J. Exch. 357, 10 M. & W. 1].

18. Arkansas.—State v. Allis, 18 Ark. 269.

California.— Love v. Sierra Nevada Lake Water, etc., Co., 32 Cal. 639, 91 Am. Dec. 602; Morrison v. Bowman, 29 Cal. 337; Echols v. Cheney, 28 Cal. 157; Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., Co., 22 Cal. 150.

Connecticut.— New Haven Sav. Bank v. Davis, 8 Conn. 191.

Florida.— Mitchell v. St. Andrew's Bay Land Co., 4 Fla. 200.

Kentucky.—Parks v. S. & L. Turnpike Road Co., 4 J. J. Marsh. 456.

Maine.— Female Orphan Asylum v. Johnson, 43 Me. 180; Cram v. Bangor House Proprietary, 12 Me. 354; Stinchfield v. Little, 1 Me. 231, 10 Am. Dec. 65.

Massachusetts.— Huntington v. Knox, 7 Cush. 371; Brinley v. Mann, 2 Cush. 337, 48 Am. Dec. 669; Damon v. Granby, 2 Pick. 345; Elwell v. Shaw, 16 Mass. 42, 8 Am. Dec. 126; Fowler v. Shearer, 7 Mass. 14; Tippets v. Walker, 4 Mass. 595.

(II) Illustrations of Rule. A bond was executed by certain parties, who were described, after their signatures and seals, as "trustees of the Baptist Society of the town of Richfield." It was held that they were personally liable, and that the designation affixed to their names was mere descriptio personarum.[19] The proprietors of common and undivided lands, who, in New Hampshire were a corporation, voted that their clerk should give a certain person a deed of land in their name; but he executed it in his own name as clerk. It was held that the grantee acquired no title.[20] In Massachusetts an officer of a corporation attempted to make a deed for it by the use of the following frame of words: "Know all men by these presents, that the New England Silk Company, a corporation legally established, by Christopher Colt, jr., their treasurer, . . . do hereby give, grant, . . . &c. In witness whereof, I, the said Christopher Colt, jr., in behalf of said company, and as their treasurer, have hereunto set my hand and seal." This was held, by a perversion of interpretation, not to be the deed of the corporation.[21]

(III) Exceptions to Rule — (A) Instrument Executed by Agent Under His Seal Enforced as Simple Contract of Corporation. An exception to the above rule is that, although an action of covenant will not lie against the corporation upon an instrument sealed with the private seal of the corporate agent, nevertheless an agreement under the private seal of the agent has been regarded as a simple contract of the corporation, and if otherwise valid binding as such upon the corporation.[22]

(B) Sealed Instrument Executed by Agent in His Own Name Enforced in Equity Against Corporation. If the agent had authority to execute a sealed instrument in behalf of the corporation, but executed it in his own name, it may be enforced in equity against the corporation so as to give effect to the real intention of the parties.[23]

Missouri.— Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316.

Nebraska.— Zoller v. Ide, 1 Nebr. 439.

New Hampshire.— Coburn v. Ellenwood, 4 N. H. 99.

New York.— Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. 218; Stanton v. Camp, 4 Barb. 274; Townsend v. Hubbard, 4 Hill 351; Townsend v. Corning, 23 Wend. 435; Lincoln v. Crandell, 21 Wend. 101; Dubois v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 4 Wend. 285; Stone v. Wood, 7 Cow. 453, 17 Am. Dec. 529; Randall v. Van Vechten, 19 Johns. 60, 10 Am. Dec. 193; Taft v. Brewster, 9 Johns. 334, 6 Am. Dec. 280.

Ohio.— Hatch v. Barr, 1 Ohio 390.

Oregon.— Eagle Woolen Mills Co. v. Monteith, 2 Oreg. 277.

Pennsylvania.— Farmers', etc., Turnpike Co. v. McCullough, 25 Pa. St. 303.

Vermont.— Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452; Wheelock v. Moulton, 15 Vt. 519.

West Virginia.— Rauch v. Blennerhassett Oil Co., 8 W. Va. 36.

United States.—Metropolis Bank v. Guttschlick, 14 Pet. 19, 10 L. ed. 335; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

England.—In re International Contract Co., L. R. 6 Ch. 525; Hancock v. Hodgson, 4 Bing. 269, 5 L. J. C. P. O. S. 170, 12 Moore C. P. 504, 13 E. C. L. 499; Combes' Case, 9 Coke 75; Hall v. Bainbridge, 8 Dowl. P. C. 583, 9 L. J. C. P. 281, 1 M. & G. 42, 1 Scott N. R. 151, 39 E. C. L. 634; Appleton v. Binks, 5 East 148, 1 Smith K. B. 361, 7 Rev. Rep. 672; Wilks v. Back, 2 East 142, 6 Rev. Rep. 409; Frontin v. Small, 2 Ld. Raym. 1418, 1 Str. 705; Lowther v. Kelly, 8 Mod. 115; White v. Cuyler, 6 T. R. 176; McArdle v. Irish Iodine Co., 15 Ir. C. L. 146.

19. Taft v. Brewster, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 334, 6 Am. Dec. 280.

20. Coburn v. Ellenwood, 4 N. H. 99. See also Atkinson v. Bemis, 11 N. H. 44.

21. Brinley v. Mann, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 337, 338, 48 Am. Dec. 669.

22. Massachusetts.— Damon v. Granby, 2 Pick. 345. This principle and the authority of the last case cited upon this point have been denied. Fullam v. West Brookfield, 9 Allen 1.

Michigan.— State University v. Detroit Young Men's Soc., 12 Mich. 138.

New York.— Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. 218; Sherman v. New York Cent. R. Co., 22 Barb. 239; Randall v. Van Vechten, 19 Johns. 60, 10 Am. Dec. 193.

Vermont.— Warner v. Mower, 11 Vt. 385.

United States.— Eureka Clothes Wringing Mach. Co. v. Bailey Washing, etc., Co., 11 Wall. 488, 20 L. ed. 209; Metropolis Bank v. Guttschlick, 14 Pet. 19, 10 L. ed. 335; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

England.— See the observation of Tindal, C. J., in Hall v. Bainbridge, 8 Dowl. P. C. 583, 9 L. J. C. P. 281, 1 M. & G. 42, 1 Scott N. R. 151, 39 E. C. L. 634.

23. Love v. Sierra Nevada Lake Water, etc., Co., 32 Cal. 639, 91 Am. Dec. 602.

(IV) Sealed Instrument Executed by Agent in His Own Name Enforced Against Him Personally and Descriptive Words Regarded as Surplusage—(A) In General. Less strictness is required when the instrument is not under seal, it being sufficient in such case if the intent to bind the principal appear in any part of the instrument.[24] But if in executing a deed the agent describes himself therein as acting for, or in behalf, or as the attorney of, the principal, or as a committee to contract for, or as trustee, or as an officer of a corporation, etc., if the deed does not bind his principal, and he signs and seals with his own name and seal, the addition to his signature of his official designation will be regarded only as descriptive of his person, and he will be personally responsible upon the instrument as his own deed.[25]

(B) Forms Held to Be Not Deed of Corporation but of Agent Signing. An assignment of a lease which in the granting clause purports to be made by the treasurer of a designated corporation, who sets his hand and the corporate seal to the instrument, adding his official title instead of signing by the name of the corporation, is not valid as the act of the corporation.[26] A chattel mortgage purporting to convey corporate property, signed by the president of the corporation as such, with his private seal attached, and also signed by the treasurer and by a shareholder, the seal of the corporation being set opposite to the three names, reciting an indebtedness of the corporation to the mortgagee, "for which he holds my note," to secure the payment of which "I do convey to him," and "if I fail to pay the debt," providing for a sale of the property, and attested, "witness my hand and seal," is the personal conveyance of the president, and not of the corporation acting through him.[27] In the case of a bond by certain persons, "by the name and description of Jacob Brewster, Thaddeus Loomis, and Joseph Coats, trustees of the Baptist Society of the town of Richfield," who acknowledged themselves bound to plaintiff in the sum of —— dollars, to be paid, etc., conditioned that if defendants, as "trustees of the Baptist Society of the town of Richfield," etc., should pay, etc., and the bond was signed and sealed by such trustees respectively, they were held personally liable.[28] A deed recited that the "New England Silk Company, . . . by Christopher Colt, jr., their treasurer, . . . do hereby give, grant, sell, and convey," etc. The concluding clause was: "In witness whereof, I, the said Christopher Colt, jr., in behalf of said company, and as their treasurer, have hereunto set my hand and seal, this," etc. This was signed "Christopher Colt, jr., Treasurer of New England Silk Company." The certificate of acknowledgment stated that "Christopher Colt, jr., treasurer," etc., "acknowl-

24. Huntington v. Knox, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 371; Townsend v. Corning, 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 435.

25. California.—Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., Co., 22 Cal. 150.

Kansas.— Klopp v. Moore, 6 Kan. 27.

Massachusetts.— Fullam v. West Brookfield, 9 Allen 1; Seaver v. Coburn, 10 Cush. 324; Sumner v. Williams, 8 Mass. 162, 5 Am. Dec. 83; Tippets v. Walker, 4 Mass. 595.

New York.— Stone v. Wood, 7 Cow. 453, 17 Am. Dec. 529; White v. Skinner, 13 Johns. 307, 7 Am. Dec. 381; Taft v. Brewster, 9 Johns. 334, 6 Am. Dec. 280.

United States.— Duvall v. Craig, 2 Wheat. 45, 4 L. ed. 180.

England.—Appleton v. Binks, 5 East 148, 1 Smith K. B. 361, 7 Rev. Rep. 672.

26. Norris v. Dains, 52 Ohio St. 215, 39 N. E. 660, 49 Am. St. Rep. 716.

27. Clark v. Hodge, 116 N. C. 761, 21 S. E. 562.

28. Taft v. Brewster, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 334, 6 Am. Dec. 280. See also Stone v. Wood, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 453, 17 Am. Dec. 529. Similarly see Sumner v. Williams, 8 Mass. 162, 5 Am. Dec. 83.

Other forms may be collected from the following cases cited in 4 Thompson Corp. §§ 5085, 5086, to wit:

California.— Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., Co., 22 Cal. 150.

Connecticut.— Sterling v. Peet, 14 Conn. 245; Magill v. Hinsdale, 6 Conn. 464*a*, 16 Am. Dec. 70.

Kansas.— Klopp v. Moore, 6 Kan. 27.

Maine.— Stinchfield v. Little, 1 Me. 231, 10 Am. Dec. 65.

Maryland.— McDonough v. Templeman, 1 Harr. & J. 156, 2 Am. Dec. 510.

Massachusetts.— Fullam v. West Brookfield, 9 Allen 1.

New York.— White v. Skinner, 13 Johns. 307, 7 Am. Dec. 381.

Ohio.— Hatch v. Barr, 1 Ohio 390.

Pennsylvania.— Frazer v. Shelley, 6 Phila. 429.

edged the above instrument to be his free act and deed." In another deed this same person described himself in the concluding recital as "treasurer of the New England Silk Company, and duly authorized for that purpose," and in the certificate of acknowledgment it was stated that "in his said capacity" he acknowledged the instrument to be his free act and deed. Neither of these deeds was regarded as made by the "New England Silk Company." In the language of Metcalf, J., who passed upon them, the treasurer "should have executed the deeds in the name of the company. He should also have affixed to them the seal of the company, and have acknowledged them to be the deeds of the company." [29]

b. Disposition to Relax Formal and Rigid Common-Law Requirements so as to Effectuate Intent of Parties — (I) In General. In some modern decisions we may discover a disposition on the part of the courts to depart from the formal requirements of the common law, so as to effectuate what the judges know from the reading of the instrument to have been the intent of the parties.[30]

(II) When Body of Contract Will Control Signature and Seal. This liberal rule requires that the language employed in the body of the contract, showing it to be the contract of the corporation and not that of the signer, will control both the signature and the seal. If therefore the agent of the corporation enters into a contract in his own name under his individual seal, but states in the body of the contract that he contracts in behalf of the corporation, then under the more enlightened theory the language of the instrument and not the form of the signature will control, so as to give effect to the obvious intention of the parties, and the agent will not be personally liable.[31] Thus, where defendants, who had been duly appointed by a corporation as its building committee, and authorized to contract for a building to be erected for the purposes of its business, entered into a written contract with plaintiff for materials, under their respective hands and seals, describing themselves as "the building committee," and signing it with the same designation, it was held that the corporation was liable on the contract, notwithstanding the fact that the seals of defendants and not that of the corporation were affixed thereto; and there being evidence not only of the proper authorization but of subsequent ratification, it was held that the defendants were not personally liable on the contract.[32]

(III) Cases Where Neither Corporation Nor Agent Bound. Decisions are found which support the conclusion that it does not necessarily follow that because a deed is not binding upon the corporation it will therefore be binding upon the agent who executed it. It will not be binding upon the agent, unless, by a fair construction of the language employed, it can be regarded as the contract of the agent.[33]

(IV) Where Contract Is For Exclusive Benefit of Corporation. Cases are found which hold that when an agent, whether of a corporation or of an individual, duly authorized to make a contract for his principal, which does not require a seal, makes the contract in his own name and under his private seal, and in terms that purport his private obligation, he is not personally liable for the England.— Furnival v. Coombs, 7 Jur. 399, 12 L. J. C. P. 265, 5 M. & G. 736, 6 Scott N. R. 522, 44 E. C. L. 384.

29. Brinley v. Mann, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 337, 48 Am. Dec. 669.

30. Magill v. Hinsdale, 6 Conn. 464*a*, 16 Am. Dec. 70; Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290; McClure v. Herring, 70 Mo. 18, 35 Am. Rep. 404. See also Martin v. Almond, 25 Mo. 313.

31. McDonough v. Templeman, 1 Harr. & J. (Md.) 156, 2 Am. Dec. 510 [recognized as authority in Key v. Barnham, 6 Harr. & J. (Md.) 418]. To the contrary see supra XII, H, 4, a. (IV), (B).

32. Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 218.

For other inartificial forms where the deed was held to be that of the corporation and not that of the agent signing it see Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631; Whitford v. Laidler, 94 N. Y. 145, 46 Am. Rep. 131; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 1 Cranch (U. S.) 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

33. Connecticut.— Sterling v. Peet, 14 Conn. 245.

Illinois.— Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631.

breach thereof, if the contract be for the exclusive benefit of his principal.[34] This is admitted to be a distinct departure from the principles of the common law.[35] The principle upon which these decisions rest is that when an agent is duly authorized to make a contract for his principal which is not required to be sealed, but the agent nevertheless enters into a contract in his own name and under his private seal for the exclusive benefit of his principal, he is not personally responsible thereon, where such authority is known to the other contracting party, for the reason that the principal would have been liable upon a simple contract made under these circumstances by his agent, and the person contracting with the agent still has the remedy arising out of such a contract against the principal.[36]

c. Agent Not Bound Where He Does Not Personally Promise or Covenant, Provided Corporation Is Disclosed. In another class of informal instruments it has been held that the agent is not bound where the corporation is disclosed, and the instrument contains no expression of the personal undertaking of the agent to perform the contract of the corporation.[37]

d. Statutes Curing Informalities in Executing Sealed Instruments. The extreme technicality of the judges in adhering to common-law rules and disregarding the intention of the parties has induced legislatures in some instances to interpose by enacting statutes such as that of Maine which recited that "all deeds and contracts, executed by an authorized agent for an individual or corporation, either in the name of the principal by such agent, or in the name of such agent for the principal, shall be considered the deed or contract of the corporation."[38] It is plain that this statute was intended to obviate a class of decisions to the effect that, although the deed is, in the body of the instrument, stated to be the deed of the corporation, yet, although it is signed by the proper agents of the corporation, if it is sealed with their own private seals, it ceases for that reason to be the deed of the corporation.[39] Under the operation of this statute anything which the agent executing the deed for the corporation adopts as his seal in so executing it, or as the seal of the corporation for the purposes of the deed, will be deemed the appropriate seal.[40] Under a somewhat similar statute of Vermont a deed of land of a corporation conveyed by its president, sealed with the seal of the president, was a valid corporate deed.[41] A similar statute of Tennessee provides that an instrument in relation to real or personal property, executed by an agent, may be signed by such agent for his principal by simply writing his own name or his Massachusetts.— Ellis v. Pulsifer, 4 Allen 165; Abbey v. Chase, 6 Cush. 54 (opinion by Metcalf, J.).

New York.— St. Peter Episcopal Church v. Varian, 28 Barb. 644; Townsend v. Hubbard, 4 Hill 351; Townsend v. Corning, 23 Wend. 435.

Pennsylvania.— Hopkins v. Mehaffy, 11 Serg. & R. 126.

United States.— Thayer v. Wendell, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,873, 1 Gall. 37.

Compare Furnival v. Coombs, 7 Jur. 399, 12 L. J. C. P. 265, 5 M. & G. 736, 6 Scott N. R. 522, 44 E. C. L. 384.

34. McDonough v. Templeman, 1 Harr. & J. (Md.) 156, 2 Am. Dec. 510; Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 218; Dubois v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 285; Randall v. Van Vechten, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 60, 10 Am. Dec. 193.

35. Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 218. See also Fullam v. West Brookfield, 9 Allen (Mass.) 1.

36. Ford v. Williams, 13 N. Y. 577, 67 Am. Dec. 83; Worrall v. Munn, 5 N. Y. 229, 55 Am. Dec. 330; Lawrence v. Taylor, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 107. See also Evans v. Wells, 22 Wend. (N. Y.) 324; Osborne v. High Shoals Min., etc., Co., 50 N. C. 177.

37. Sherman v. Fitch, 98 Mass. 59; Ellis v. Pulsifer, 4 Allen (Mass.) 165; Lyon v. Williams, 5 Gray (Mass.) 557; Abbey v. Chase, 6 Cush. (Mass.) 54; Sherman v. New York Cent. R. Co., 22 Barb. (N. Y.) 239; Hopkins v. Mehaffy, 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 126. Compare Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631; Whitford v. Laidler, 94 N. Y. 145, 46 Am. Rep. 131; Haight v. Sahler, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 218; St. Peter Episcopal Church v. Varian, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 644; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

38. Me. Rev. Stat. c. 91, § 14.

39. The statute was evidently leveled at such decisions as Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., Co., 22 Cal. 150; Brindley v. Mann, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 337, 48 Am. Dec. 669; and Hatch v. Barr, 1 Ohio 390.

40. Porter v. Androscoggin, etc., R. Co., 37 Me. 349.

41. Warner v. Mower, 11 Vt. 385.

principal's name, when the instrument shows on its face that it is executed for the principal. With this statute in force a trust deed executed by a corporation recited that it conveyed the property, and that the surplus, in case of a sale, was to be paid to the company. It was held that it was not invalid as to attaching creditors of the corporation by reason of being signed by "B, President," since the intent to execute a corporate obligation was clearly shown.[42] With this statute in force a trust deed signed by A, President, and B, Secretary, but having a corporate seal attached thereto and which recites that the corporation caused its seal to be attached, and the deed to be signed by the president and secretary, was not the individual act of the officer signing it and was binding upon the corporation both at common law and under the statute which provided that an instrument executed by an agent in his own name shall be binding on the principal, where the instrument shows that it was intended to be executed in a representative capacity.[43]

e. What Form of Words Appropriate to Show That It Is Deed of Corporation. No particular form of words is necessary in order to render an instrument under seal, executed in behalf of the corporation, binding upon it, provided it appears upon the face of the instrument that it was intended to be executed by or on behalf of the corporation, and that the seal affixed to it is that of the corporation and not that of the agent merely. A proper form would seem to be to recite the corporation as the contracting party, by its agent, officer, etc., and to conclude the instrument, which would be signed by the name of the corporation, by the officer or agent with, "In testimony whereof, the common seal of said corporation is hereunto affixed," and then to affix the seal.[44]

f. Seal Must Appear to Be Seal of Corporation, and How. It is not necessary to state in the instrument that the seal used is that of the corporation, if the fact otherwise appear, either presumptively from the language of the deed or by evidence aliunde. The fact must appear, however, in some manner; and where the conveyance itself declares the seal to be that of the agent, there is no room for presumption or inquiry upon the subject.[45] The regular mode of assenting to and authenticating the acts of the body which uses a seal is to affix the seal, with the declaration that it is the seal of the body, and to verify the act by the signatures of the president and secretary.[46]

g. Effect of Sealing With Private Seals of Signers — (1) In General. In strictness a deed of conveyance by a corporation must be executed not only by using the corporate name in the body of the deed, but it must be sealed with the corporate seal. From this it follows that a deed describing the grantor as a corporation, but which is executed by the president thereof in his own name and under his own seal, describing him as president, will not pass title from the corporation;[47] and unless the seal of the corporation is affixed to the instrument it will not support a common-law action of covenant, although sealed with the private seal of the agent of the corporation executing it;[48] and it has been held, where the deed was thus executed, that, although the corporation may have authorized the committee to contract, and may therefore be liable in some form of action, yet covenant is not the proper remedy.[49]

42. Turner v. Kingston Lumber Co., 106 Tenn. 1, 58 S. W. 854.

43. In re New Memphis Gaslight Co.'s Cases, 105 Tenn. 268, 60 N. W. 206.

44. Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430.

For other forms which have been held effective see Northwestern Distilling Co. v. Brant, 69 Ill. 658, 18 Am. Rep. 631; Kinzie v. Chicago, 3 Ill. 187, 33 Am. Dec. 443; Sherman v. Fitch, 98 Mass. 59; Haven v. Adams, 4 Allen (Mass.) 80; Hutchins v. Byrnes, 9 Gray (Mass.) 367; Tenney v. East Warren Lumber Co., 43 N. H. 343; St. Peter Episcopal Church v. Varian, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 644.

45. Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., R. Co., 22 Cal. 150, 157 (per Cope, C. J.); Eagle Woolen Mills Co. v. Monteith, 2 Oreg. 277; In re St. Helen Mill Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,222, 3 Sawy. 88.

46. Kinzie v. Chicago, 3 Ill. 187, 33 Am. Dec. 443.

47. Richardson v. Scott River Water, etc., Co., 22 Cal. 150; Hatch v. Barr, 1 Ohio 390.

48. State v. Allis, 18 Ark. 269.

49. Mitchell v. St. Andrews Bay Land Co.,

(II) What if Corporation Has No Seal. If a corporation has no seal, and is authorized to contract both with and without a seal, the affixing of the private seal of the president to his signature is mere surplusage and harmless.[50]

h. Effect of Affixing Seal Several Times. If it sufficiently appears that the seal, or the scrawl which has been affixed in lieu of a seal, was intended to be the seal of the corporation, it will be immaterial that it has been affixed several times, for example once opposite the name of each signer.[51]

i. Corporate Deed Defectively Executed May Create Color of Title. A deed of a corporation purporting to convey land but which is defectively executed, as where it is sealed with the seal of the clerk of the corporation merely, may nevertheless constitute color of title, which will ripen into a good title by adverse possession under the operation of the statute of limitations.[52]

j. Sufficient if It Appears in Body of Instrument That Corporation Is Contracting Party. If it appears in the body of the instrument that the signer undertakes for another and not for himself, he will not be liable, although he may sign in such a form as would otherwise import an individual liability.[53] Thus if in the body of a sealed instrument the covenants are stated to be made by a corporation directly with plaintiff, without the agency of any one, and the person signing it is not named therein, but signs the instrument and seals it with his own seal, as president of the corporation, and on its behalf, an action cannot be sustained upon it against him individually.[54] So where the undertaking was: "We, two of the directors of the Ark Life Assurance Society by and on behalf of the said society, do hereby promise to pay," etc., and was signed, Charles Nicholson, H. Wood, it was held that the signing directors were not liable personally.[55] So where the instrument ran: "Three months after date, we jointly promise to pay . . . for value received in stock on account of the L. & B. Company," and was signed by the names of three directors of the company with the word "directors" affixed to their names, it was ruled that the directors were not personally liable.[56]

5. Manner of Executing Promissory Notes so as to Bind Corporation and Exonerate Agent Signing Them — a. The One Safe and Proper Way in Which to Execute Such Instruments. To obviate the confusing and often absurd and ridiculous interpretations which have often beset this subject, there is one safe and unequivocal form in which to execute a promissory note on behalf of a corporation so as to bind the corporation and exonerate the agent. That form is to express the name of the corporation in the body of the instrument as the promisor, and to sign the instrument by the name of the corporation with the addition of the name of the agent. Thus, omitting date and formal words, the following will be the essential words of a promissory note, binding the corporation and exonerating the agent: "The Bancroft-Whitney Company promises to pay to the order of John G. Gorman one thousand dollars ($1000). The Bancroft-Whitney Company, by J. Has Brouck, Secretary." [57]

b. Manner of Signing Such Instruments — (I) Proper Manner. In respect

4 Fla. 200. Compare Lay v. Austin, 25 Fla. 933, 7 So. 143. In one case a scrawl in lieu of a seal, attached to each of the names of the signers, was treated as the seal of the corporation, the repetition of it not being regarded as a matter of any importance. Reynolds v. Glasgow Academy, 6 Dana (Ky.) 37.

50. Deberry v. Holly Springs, 35 Miss. 385.

51. Reynolds v. Glasgow Academy, 6 Dana (Ky.) 37; Decker v. Freeman, 3 Me. 338 [distinguishing Stinchfield v. Little, 1 Me. 231, 10 Am. Dec. 65; Elwell v. Shaw, 16 Mass. 42, 8 Am. Dec. 126].

52. Thorndike v. Barrett, 3 Me. 380.

53. McDonough v. Templeman, 1 Harr. & J. (Md.) 156, 2 Am. Dec. 510; Hopkins v. Mehaffy, 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 126 [recognized in Abrams v. Musgrove, 12 Pa. St. 292, 295].

54. Hopkins v. Mehaffy, 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 126.

55. Aggs v. Nicholson, 1 H. & N. 165, 25 L. J. Exch. 348, 4 Wkly. Rep. 776.

56. Lindus v. Melrose, 3 H. & N. 177, 4 Jur. N. S. 488, 27 L. J. Exch. 326, 6 Wkly. Rep. 441, Crompton and Willes, JJ., dissenting. Compare Hills v. Bannister, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 31; Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 40 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754.

57. 4 Thompson Corp. § 5127.

of the manner of signing, it is to be observed that such an instrument will be properly signed when signed, "The A B Company, by C D, Attorney," or "The A B Company, by C D, Agent," or "The Empire Mills, by E. C. Hamilton, Treas." [58] And while, according to good precedents [59] as well as common sense, it will be equally well signed if signed thus: "C D, Agent for the A B Company," or "C D, for the A B Company," yet, as this form of execution has provoked judicial controversy,[60] it is better to sign, as before stated, the name of the principal, preceding that of the agent. Even where the corporation is not named in the body of the instrument, but the instrument runs in the words, "We promise to pay," etc., yet if it is properly signed as here indicated, that is, with the name of the corporation followed by the name of the agent with the connecting word "by" or "per" between the name of the corporation and that of the agent, it will be the note of the corporation, and will not be the joint note of the corporation and the agent.[61]

(II) When Signed so as to Be Obligation of Agent. But if the corporation is nowhere mentioned as the promisor, and if, according to the grammatical construction of the instrument, the promise is the promise of the signer, then the mere fact that he annexes to his name the word descriptive of the office which he holds in the corporation, as the word "Pres.," meaning president, will not exonerate him, but the added words will, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be regarded as descriptio personæ merely, as much as though he had added the word "Esq." [62]

(III) When Official Designation Added to Signature Rejected as Surplusage. The foregoing is in accordance with the weight of authority and with the more general doctrine, which is, that where the note does not contain upon its face an indication that it is the note of a principal or of a corporation, the addition to the name of the person signing it of the words "president," "secretary," "agent," "trustee," and the like, does not make it the note of the principal or corporation, but it remains the note of the individual signer. The general rule equally holds where the addition expresses the name of the principal or corporation.[63] In like manner the signer was held liable on the following promise:

58. Draper v. Massachusetts Steam Heating Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 338; Emerson v. Providence Hat Mfg. Co., 12 Mass. 237, 7 Am. Dec. 66; Long v. Colburn, 11 Mass. 97, 6 Am. Dec. 160; Walker v. State Bank, 9 N. Y. 582.

59. Daniel Neg. Instr. § 298.

60. Rice v. Gove, 22 Pick. 158, 33 Am. Dec. 724; Ballou v. Talbot, 16 Mass. 461, 8 Am. Dec. 146.

61. Reeve v. Glassboro First Nat. Bank, 54 N. J. L. 208, 23 Atl. 853, 33 Am. St. Rep. 675, 16 L. R. A. 143.

62. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Boutell, 45 Minn. 21, 47 N. W. 261. See also Colburn v. Monroe First Baptist Church, 60 Mich. 198, 26 N. W. 878.

63. The following authorities state and illustrate the rule:

Alabama.— Drake v. Flewellen, 33 Ala. 106.

California.— Chamberlain v. Pacific Wool-Growing Co., 54 Cal. 103. Compare Haskell v. Cornish, 13 Cal. 45.

Colorado.— Tannatt v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 1 Colo. 278, 9 Am. Rep. 156.

Connecticut.— Johnson v. Smith, 21 Conn. 627; Stamford Bank v. Ferris, 17 Conn. 259; Magill v. Hinsdale, 6 Conn. 464*a*, 16 Am. Dec. 70; Hovey v. Magill, 2 Conn. 680.

Illinois.— Cahokia v. Rautenberg, 88 Ill. 219; Burlingame v. Brewster, 79 Ill. 515, 22 Am. Rep. 177; Powers v. Briggs, 79 Ill. 493, 22 Am. Rep. 175; Chadsey v. McCreery, 27 Ill. 253.

Indiana.— Hays v. Crutcher, 54 Ind. 260; Mears v. Graham, 8 Blackf. 144. Contra, Pitman v. Kintner, 5 Blackf. 250, 33 Am. Dec. 461.

Iowa.— Thurston v. Mauro, 1 Greene 231. Contra, Baker v. Chambles, 4 Greene 428.

Kentucky.— Burbank v. Posey, 7 Bush 372; Caphart v. Dodd, 3 Bush 584, 96 Am. Dec. 258. Compare Yowell v. Dodd, 3 Bush 581, 96 Am. Dec. 256.

Maine.— Sturdivant v. Hull, 59 Me. 172, 8 Am. Rep. 409; Chick v. Trevett, 20 Me. 462, 37 Am. Dec. 68; Fogg v. Virgin, 19 Me. 352, 36 Am. Dec. 757.

Maryland.— Haile v. Peirce, 32 Md. 327, 3 Am. Rep. 139; Sumwalt v. Ridgely, 20 Md. 107; Wyman v. Gray, 7 Harr. & J. 409.

Massachusetts.— Towne v. Rice, 122 Mass. 67; Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101; Morell v. Codding, 4 Allen 403; Haverhill Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Newhall, 1 Allen 130; Fiske v. Eldridge, 12 Gray 474; Packard v. Nye, 2 Metc. 47; Simonds v. Heard, 23 Pick.

"I promise to pay James Morrison, . . . being on account of his wages at the Madison Hemp and Flax Spinning Company Manufactory in Madison county." This was signed, "For the Madison Hemp and Flax Spinning Company, W. Macbean, Prest." [64]

(IV) Rule Where Person Signing Promises "as Trustee." If persons promise "as trustees," and sign their names with the addition of such designation, this promise is held to be restrictive and not binding upon the signers personally.[65]

6. Manner of Drawing Bills of Exchange so as to Charge Corporation and Exonerate Agent — a. Rule Stated — (I) In General. The rule of construction which has so often made the agents of corporations, executing promissory notes in their behalf, personally liable thereon, has been frequently applied, with equal severity, in the case where a bill of exchange is drawn on behalf of a corporation by its agent. Unless he makes the bill say plainly, "I am the mere scribe," he becomes personally liable.[66] In other words, where the contract is made absolutely with the party executing the bill of exchange, it will be binding upon him personally.[67]

(II) Senseless Illustrations Where Agent Was Held Personally Liable, Although Bill Showed That Corporation Was Intended to Be Bound. Thus bills concluding as follows: "Place to the account of the Durham Bank, as advised;" [68] "Charge the same to the account of Proprietors of Pem-

120, 34 Am. Dec. 41; Forster v. Fuller, 6 Mass. 58, 4 Am. Dec. 87; Thacher v. Dinsmore, 5 Mass. 299, 4 Am. Dec. 61. Contra, Mann v. Chandler, 9 Mass. 335. A labored effort was made by the court in Fiske v. Eldridge, 12 Gray 474, to distinguish this last case from similar cases holding the contrary; but in Draper v. Massachusetts Steam Heating Co., 5 Allen 338, and afterward in Barlow v. Lee Cong. Soc., 8 Allen 460, its authority was repudiated.

Michigan.— Detroit v. Jackson, 1 Dougl. 106.

Minnesota.—Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Boutell, 45 Minn. 21, 47 N. W. 261; Pratt v. Beaupré, 13 Minn. 187; Bingham v. Stewart, 13 Minn. 106; Fowler v. Atkinson, 6 Minn. 578.

Mississippi.— Fitch v. Lawton, 6 How. 371.

Missouri.— McClellan v. Reynolds, 49 Mo. 312; Durfee v. Morris, 49 Mo. 55. Contra, Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290; Smith v. Alexander, 31 Mo. 193.

New Hampshire.— Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203; Savage v. Rix, 9 N. H. 263; Underhill v. Gibson, 2 N. H. 352, 9 Am. Dec. 82.

New York.— De Witt v. Walton, 9 N. Y. 571; Brockway v. Allen, 17 Wend. 40; Pentz v. Stanton, 10 Wend. 271, 25 Am. Dec. 558; Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664; Hills v. Bannister, 8 Cow. 31; Stone v. Wood, 7 Cow. 453, 17 Am. Dec. 529; Taft v. Brewster, 9 Johns. 334, 6 Am. Dec. 280.

Ohio.— Bank v. Cook, 38 Ohio St. 442; Collins v. Buckeye State Ins. Co., 17 Ohio St. 215, 93 Am. Dec. 612; Titus v. Kyle, 10 Ohio St. 444.

Texas.— Gregory v. Leigh, 33 Tex. 813.

Vermont.— Pomeroy v. Slade, 16 Vt. 220. Contra, Roberts v. Button, 14 Vt. 195.

West Virginia.— Scott v. Baker, 3 W. Va. 285.

England.— Dutton v. Marsh, L. R. 6 Q. B. 361, 40 L. J. Q. B. 175, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 470, 19 Wkly. Rep. 754; Price v. Taylor, 5 H. & N. 540, 6 Jur. N. S. 402, 24 J. P. 470, 29 L. J. Exch. 331, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 221, 8 Wkly. Rep. 419.

64. Macbean v. Morrison, 1 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 545. It is not perceived on what principle this decision can be supported. It is contrary to Carson v. Lucas, 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 213, and the person signing plainly did so in the capacity of agent. See also Roney v. Winter, 37 Ala. 277; Alexander v. Sizer, L. R. 4 Exch. 102, 38 L. J. Exch. 59, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38; Ex p. Clark, 9 Jur. 931, 5 L. J. Bankr. 3, 14 M. & W. 469, 1 Phil. 562, 19 Eng. Ch. 562.

65. Blanchard v. Kaull, 44 Cal. 440; Shoe, etc., Nat. Bank v. Dix, 123 Mass. 148, 25 Am. Rep. 49; Barlow v. Lee Cong. Soc., 8 Allen (Mass.) 460. Contra, an ill-considered case in Kentucky, McCalla v. Rigg, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 259. In one case it was so held, although the signature contained no official designation. Sanborn v. Neal, 4 Minn. 126, 77 Am. Dec. 502. Contra to this case see Titus v. Kyle, 10 Ohio St. 444.

66. Leadbitter v. Farrow, 5 M. & S. 345, 349, 17 Rev. Rep. 345, where it is said by Lord Ellenborough, C. J.: "Every person, it is to be presumed, who takes a bill of the drawer, expects that his responsibility is to be pledged to its being accepted. Giving full effect to the circumstance that the plaintiff knew the defendant to be agent, still the defendant is liable, like any other drawer who puts his name to a bill without denoting that he does it in the character of a procurator."

67. Mayhew v. Prince, 11 Mass. 54.

68. Leadbitter v. Farrow, 5 M. & S. 345, 349, 17 Rev. Rep. 345.

broke Iron Works;"[69] or "Charge the same to account of disbursements of barque Dublin,"[70] the signatures of the makers being their names only, bald of any designation of agency, were construed as the signers' personal obligations. Such is said to be the rule even where the agent signs a bill with additions indicating the capacity in which he acts, but not specifically that he does so on account of his principal; as where the bill concluded, "Charge the same to the account of," and was signed, "David Fairbanks & Co., Agts. Piscataqua F. & M. Ins. Co.," and was directed to the "Piscataqua F. & M. Ins. Co., So. Berwick, Me.," and had written across its face, "Accepted for the Treasurer, David Fairbanks, President."[71] This bill had been delivered by the insurance company above mentioned to the payee in satisfaction of the amount of a loss by fire, due on a policy of insurance effected by the payee in this company, which claim was assigned by the payee to plaintiffs, with full knowledge of all circumstances under which the bill was made. Fairbanks & Co. were sued as drawers of this bill. Parol evidence offered by them tending to show that it was not expected nor intended that they should be liable upon the bill, and that it was regarded by the parties as creating a debt against no one but the insurance company, was rejected. This was held to be correct.[72]

b. More Liberal Rule Exonerating Agent Drawing Bill, or Else Admitting Parol Evidence to Explain Intent of Parties. A more liberal rule prevails in other jurisdictions, and is finding increased favor in the courts, in conformity with which bills of exchange so drawn are interpreted in accordance with what the judges know from the face of the bill to have been the real intent of the parties, or else which lets in parol evidence to explain what that intent was, where the frame of language employed in the bill and in the signature leaves the question in substantial doubt. Such was the case where the action was against the defendant as drawer of two bills the form of which was: "Six months after date, please pay to the order of the Elizabethtown and Somerville Railroad Company, five hundred dollars, value received, and charge as ordered." This was signed, "John Kean, President Elizabethtown and Somerville R. R. Co.," and indorsed, "The Elizabethtown and Somerville Railroad Co., by John Kean, President." At the trial parol evidence was offered that the bills in question were intended to be the bills of the corporation of which the defendant was president. The rejection of this evidence and a judgment holding the drawer of the bills, John Kean, to be personally liable on them, were held erroneous.[73] So also in a case often cited defendant drew a draft upon his principal payable to plaintiff. The draft was in payment of a debt owed by the principal to plaintiff. The latter was aware of the authority of defendant to draw this draft, and in fact he signed it, "John Hinde, agent." It was held under these circumstances that the drawing of the draft by the defendant was restrictive, and that the addition of the word "agent" was equivalent to a declaration that he would not be held personally responsible on the draft.[74] In an earlier case in the same state[75] a bill of exchange signed in the same form was held not to be binding upon the principal as drawer, for the reason that the principal was not disclosed to the payee by the agent at the time of giving the draft.

c. Effect of Direction in Bill of Exchange to Charge to Account of Corporation — (i) GENERALLY BINDS CORPORATION. The direction to place to the 69. Bank of British North America v. Hopper, 5 Gray (Mass.) 567, 66 Am. Dec. 390.

70. Bass v. O'Brien, 12 Gray (Mass.) 477. See also Snow v. Goodrich, 14 Me. 235; Newhall v. Dunlap, 14 Me. 180, 31 Am. Dec. 45. Contra, Maher v. Overton, 9 La. 115.

71. Tucker Mfg. Co. v. Fairbanks, 98 Mass. 101.

72. Compare Dennis v. Table Mountain Water Co., 10 Cal. 369.

73. Kean v. Davis, 21 N. J. L. 683, 47 Am. Dec. 182 [reversing 20 N. J. L. 425].

74. Hicks v. Hinde, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 528. See also Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 27.

75. Pentz v. Stanton, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 271, 25 Am. Dec. 558.

account of some company named in the body of the bill, coupled with the circumstance that the person signing the bill adds to his name some designation of the capacity in which he acts, will in general be sufficient to make it the draft of the corporation.[76] Bills concluding as follows have been held to be such: "Place to account of Pompton Iron Works," and signed "W. Burtt, agent";[77] "charge the same to the Swanzey Paper Company," and signed "Joseph Hooper, agent";[78] "place to account of the Derby Fishing Company," and signed "Canfield Gillet, president."[79]

(II) Especially Where Name of Corporation Appears in Heading of Bill, Although Nowhere Else. Likewise it will be sufficient if the name of the company appears only in the heading of the bill as: "Office of Portage Lake Manufacturing Company," where the bill concluded, "charge the same to account of this company," and was signed, "I. R. Jackson, Agent";[80] "Adams & Co.'s Express and Banking House," where the bill concluded, "charge same to account of this office," and was signed, "C. P. Nichols, agent";[81] "Farmers' Bank of Seneca County," where the bill concluded, "charge this institution," and was signed, "J. J. Fenton, Cashier";[82] or "Office of the Tioga Navigation Company," the bill concluded, "charge to motive power and account," and was signed, "James R. Wilson, Pres't T. N. Co."[83]

7. Manner of Indorsing Commercial Paper by Corporations — a. Rule That Indorsement in Name of Agent Binds Agent and Words Indicating Agency Rejected as Surplusage. The severe and senseless rule already alluded to, which rejects as surplusage the addition of descriptive words to the signature of a written instrument executed by the agents of corporations and by other agents applies equally to indorsements; and in general what would be held to be merely descriptive language in the former case will be so regarded in the latter. Thus to restate a case before noticed the indorsement, "J S, trustee," is the personal indorsement of "J S," on a note payable to his order and made by him as "trustee of the Sullivan Railroad."[84] So an indorsement of "Lewis Rice, Receiver," on a note payable to "Lewis Rice, Receiver," binds such an indorser personally in an action by the indorsee.[85]

b. Contrary Rule Which Gives Effect to Such Words of Description. A juster and more sensible rule which in the interpretation of such instruments refuses to reject words of description which the parties manifestly intended to have their proper effect and which refuses to pervert the evident intent of the parties has been adopted by some of the courts. Such was the case where the action was upon a note payable "to the order of C. W. Smith, Treasurer of the I. M. B. Co.," which was indorsed, "C. W. Smith, Treasurer of the I. M. B. Co." It was admitted that the abbreviations were used to designate the Indianapolis Machine Brick Company. The courts held that this was the note of the Indianapolis Brick Machine Company.[86] The authority of this last case was reaffirmed in an action upon the following note: "Four months after date we promise to pay to the order of R. Beman, Treas., five hundred dollars, value received." (Signed)

76. Forbes v. Marshall, 11 Exch. 166, 24 L. J. Exch. 305, 4 Wkly. Rep. 480.

77. Fuller v. Hooper, 3 Gray (Mass.) 334, where the words "Pompton Iron Works," printed across the end of the bill, were held to be a material circumstance indicating whose draft it was.

78. Tripp v. Swanzey Paper Co., 13 Pick. (Mass.) 291.

79. Witte v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 260. See also Bulkley v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 252, 7 Am. Dec. 271.

80. Slawson v. Loring, 5 Allen (Mass.) 340, 81 Am. Dec. 750, opinion by Bigelow, C. J.

81. Sayre v. Nichols, 7 Cal. 535, 68 Am. Dec. 280, 5 Cal. 487.

82. Safford v. Wyckoff, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 11, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 442.

83. Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298 [affirming 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 179]. See also Thompson v. Tioga R. Co., 36 Barb. (N. Y.) 79.

84. Fiske v. Eldridge, 12 Gray (Mass.) 474.

85. Towne v. Rice, 122 Mass. 67. See Chadsey v. McCreery, 27 Ill. 253; Shaw v. Stone, 1 Cush. (Mass.) 228; Buffum v. Chadwick, 8 Mass. 103.

86. Vater v. Lewis, 36 Ind. 288, 10 Am. Rep. 29.

"Adam Smith & Co." This note was indorsed "R. Beman, Treasurer." Beman was treasurer of the "Union Manufacturing Company," and, on account of a debt of that company to the plaintiff and others, the note was indorsed to them by him as follows: "R. Beman, Treasurer." In a suit against the indorser, the court held that this was a qualified indorsement which operated as a transfer of the note, but involved no obligation whatever on the part of the person thus indorsing.[87]

e. Rule Where Corporation Is Designated as Payee and Note Is Indorsed by Proper Officer. It will be observed that in the cases just discussed the indorsers were also payees of the notes. There seems to be no doubt that when the corporation is designated as the payee, and the note is indorsed by its proper officer, and in such manner as to indicate his official capacity, such indorser will be regarded as acting in behalf of the corporation only.[88]

d. Bills of Exchange Drawn Payable to, and Indorsed by, Person Designated as "Cashier." It is also well settled that bills drawn payable to the order of a person named "cashier" are to be regarded as the property of the bank of which such person is the cashier, it being the ordinary course of business among bankers to draw bills in this manner;[89] and for the same reason an indorsement of the name of this officer, with the addition of "cashier" or some recognized abbreviation of that word, will be regarded as his official act, binding upon the bank and operating as a transfer of the bill or note.[90]

e. Commercial Paper of Other Than Banking Corporations Indorsed by Name of Agent Only. The necessity of celerity in the despatch of business has led to the frequent practice in other than banking corporations of indorsing the paper of the corporation by the signature of its agent with a word or words of addition designating the character in which he signs. If the note is in terms payable to the order of the corporation the agent will, by indorsing his own name merely, with an addition describing his office, pass the legal title thereto,[91] and will not incur the risk of personal liability as indorser;[92] and it makes no difference that the agent prefixed to his signature the words "without recourse."[93] In other cases of such indorsements the inquiry may arise whether the intent of the parties was merely to pass the title of the corporation to the paper or in addition thereto to pledge the personal credit of the indorsing officer or agent; and it seems that parol evidence will be admitted to determine this question.[94]

87. Babcock v. Beman, 11 N. Y. 200. See also New York City Mar. Bank v. Clements, 31 N. Y. 33; Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. (N. Y.) 122; Hicks v. Hinde, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 528; Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. (N. Y.) 473; Scott v. Johnson, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 213; Kennedy v. Knight, 21 Wis. 340, 94 Am. Dec. 543. Compare Knight v. Lang, 2 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 227.

88. Northampton Bank v. Pepoon, 11 Mass. 288; Elwell v. Dodge, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 336.

89. Haynes v. Beckman, 6 La. Ann. 224; Commercial Bank v. French, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 486, 32 Am. Dec. 280; Angelica First Nat. Bank v. Hall, 44 N. Y. 395, 4 Am. Rep. 698; State Bank v. Ohio State Bank, 29 N. Y. 619 [overruling 36 Barb. (N. Y.) 332]; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309, 19 N. Y. 312; Watervliet Bank v. White, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 608.

90. Cooper v. Curtis, 30 Me. 488; Burnham v. Webster, 19 Me. 232; Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 63; Potter v. Merchants' Bank, 28 N. Y. 641, 86 Am. Dec. 273; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 338, 5 L. ed. 631; Chillicothe Branch Ohio State Bank v. Fox, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,683, 3 Blatchf. 431; Wild v. Passamaquoddy Bank, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,646, 3 Mason 505.

91. McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321; Nicholas v. Oliver, 36 N. H. 218.

92. Babcock v. Beman, 11 N. Y. 200. See also State Bank v. Ohio State Bank, 29 N. Y. 619.

93. McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.

94. Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550. This case does not differ in principle from the case of a similar indorsement made by an agent of an individual, or by an agent of the government, in which cases the inquiry always is whether it was the real understanding and intention of the parties to the negotiation that the indorser should bind himself, or bind his principal. Macbeath v. Haldimand, 1 T. R. 172, 1 Rev. Rep. 177. Compare Sumner v. Williams, 8 Mass. 162, 5 Am. Dec. 83; Rice v. Stearns, 3 Mass. 225, 3 Am. Dec. 129; Rathbon v. Budlong, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 1.

8. Manner of Executing Other Simple Contracts so as to Bind Corporations and Discharge Agents Who Sign Them — a. Rule Relating to Execution of Promissory Notes Applied With Respect to Ordinary Written Obligations Not Under Seal. The principle already considered with regard to the execution of negotiable instruments[95] governs the execution of other written obligations of corporations except sealed instruments, the fact of the negotiability of the instrument cutting no figure so far as the manner of drawing it or signing it are concerned.

b. Corporation Not Bound if Not Mentioned in Any Way. If there is nothing upon the face of the written agreement to connect a corporation therewith, and that body has in no manner recognized or ratified the agreement, it will not be considered a party to it, although it is executed by an agent of the corporation.[96]

c. Officer Signing Is Liable Unless Corporation Is Mentioned. On the other hand, unless the contract is so executed as to indicate in some way, either in its body or its signature, that it is the contract of the corporation, then necessarily the officer who signs it renders himself personally liable thereon; otherwise it would be the contract of no one. And where an officer of a corporation in executing a contract describes himself by the title of his office, without indicating the corporation of which he is an officer, he renders himself personally liable thereon.[97] It has even been held that an officer of a corporation who executes an obligation which does not on its face show his representative capacity is personally bound thereby, although the obligation shows that it was executed as a compromise between such corporation and a third party.[98]

d. Officer Liable Unless Instrument in Form Distinctly Indicates That It Is Contract of Corporation. But in the view of many courts as we have seen[99] the officer will be personally liable where the strict letter of the language imports a personal liability, whether the name of the corporation was mentioned or not, unless the instrument is drawn so as to be in form the contract of the corporation.[1]

e. Officer Liable Where Instrument Runs in Name of Signer, and Is Signed With Addition Designating His Agency. Where the instrument runs in the name of the signer or in the first person, the mere addition to the signature of words indicating that he is the agent for a particular person, as "D. H. H., agent of the Churchman,"[2] or "T. R. T., agent for S. T.,"[3] does not according to many holdings exonerate the agent from personal liability.

f. View That Officer Not Liable Where He Indicates in Signature That It Is Contract of Corporation. On the other hand it has been held that if the signer indicates in his signature his office and the corporation of which he is an officer he is not personally liable, although the undertaking is drawn in such a form as to impute a personal liability on its face.[4] In such a case it will be sufficient if it

95. See supra, XII, H, 5.

96. Crescent City Bank v. Carpenter, 26 Ind. 108. See also Sawyer v. Winnegance Mill Co., 26 Me. 122.

97. Wing v. Glick, 56 Iowa 473, 9 N. W. 384, 41 Am. Rep. 118.

98. Willson v. Nicholson, 61 Ind. 241, 242. In this case the instrument was as follows: "I hereby agree to pay R. H. Craig & Co. three hundred dollars, in consideration of a full and final compromise and settlement this day signed between R. H. Craig & Co. and B. E. Smith & Co., and the I., C., & D. R. R. Co. Payment to be made as soon as work on the line of said road commences west of Crawfordsville. March 6th, 1869. S. C. Willson."

99. See supra, XII, E, 6, a, (I) et seq.

1. Powers v. Briggs, 79 Ill. 493, 22 Am. Rep. 175; Hays v. Crutcher, 54 Ind. 260; Sturdivant v. Hull, 59 Me. 172, 8 Am. Rep. 409; Haverhill Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Newhall, 1 Allen (Mass.) 130.

2. De Witt v. Walton, 9 N. Y. 571.

3. Tannatt v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 1 Colo. 278, 9 Am. Rep. 156. See also Garrison v. Combs, 7 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 84, 22 Am. Dec. 120; Offutt v. Ayres, 7 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 356.

Illustrations to this principle, if such it can be called, will be found in the following cases: Stobie v. Dills, 62 Ill. 432; Fullam v. West Brookfield, 9 Allen (Mass.) 1; Seaver v. Coburn, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 324; Brinley v. Mann, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 337, 48 Am. Dec. 669; Tippets v. Walker, 4 Mass. 595. See Parks v. S. & L. Turnpike Road Co., 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 456. Compare Hopkins v. Mehaffy, 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 126.

4. Lacy v. Dubuque Lumber Co., 43 Iowa 510; Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290; McClellan v. Reynolds, 49 Mo. 312; Musser v.

can be gathered from the whole instrument, both the body and the signature, that the party describes himself and acts as agent merely, and intends thereby to bind his principal and not himself.[5]

g. Contracts Running in Personal Pronoun of First Person, or in Name of Individual Signing Them. Contracts are sometimes drawn up in such haste that in one portion of the instrument it will appear that the obligation of the signer is personal, and in another will be found language indicating the contrary. In such cases the instrument must be looked at as a whole, and effect given to it according to the results of such survey. The following is an instance: "I will give Mr. Rufus Rogers, eight hundred dollars," etc. "Should we detain him longer than Sept. 1st at boom, we will allow him seven dollars per day for every day after Sept. 1st that he is detained at the boom." This was signed, "L. March, Agent of Fred Boom Co." This signature, and the use of the pronoun "we," were held to be inconsistent with the hypothesis that the company was not designed to be held responsible.[6]

h. Cases of Informal Execution Where Corporation Was Held Bound.[7] A railroad company was held liable upon a written agreement executed by plaintiffs and the engineer of the road, the latter being designated as the party of the second part, which provided for the digging of a well "for the use of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad."[8] In a suit brought by a bank to recover the amount of a note, a receipt signed by A, who was president of the bank, but who did not sign the receipt as such, for money to be deposited in the bank to the credit of B (a payment by whom was equivalent to a payment by defendant), was evidence, although not conclusive, that the money was to be applied upon the note.[9] A writing acknowledging satisfaction of a judgment in favor of a corporation, which shows upon its face that it was executed by its president in his official capacity, is binding upon the corporation, although not executed in the name or under the seal of the corporation.[10]

9. Admissibility of Parol Evidence to Show Which Party Is Bound — a. In General Not Admitted. The general rule is that parol evidence is not admissible to explain whether it was intended by the parties to the contract that the corporation or the contracting agent should be bound; and this rule is of special force where the evidence would affect the rights of subsequent bona fide purchasers for value; but the question is to depend upon the interpretation of the language of the written instrument without such intrinsic aid.[11]

b. Circumstances Under Which Parol Evidence Admitted — (i) In General. But according to a numerous class of holdings, where it is uncertain from the Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316; Smith v. Alexander, 31 Mo. 193; Ferris v. Thaw, 5 Mo. App. 279 [affirmed in 72 Mo. 446]; Dubois v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 285. See also Dwyer v. Rathbone, 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 418, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 505, 24 N. Y. St. 366; Boisgerard v. New York Banking Co., 2 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 23; Jenkins v. Morris, 16 M. & W. 877.

5. Smith v. Alexander, 31 Mo. 193.

6. Rogers v. March, 33 Me. 106. So held in Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74, 97 Am. Dec. 316, where the words "we," "us," and "our" occurred in a contract signed "Isaac H. Sturgeon, Prest. North Mo. R. R. Co." Compare Savage Mfg. Co. v. Worthington, 1 Gill (Md.) 284.

7. Cases of informal execution where the agent was held personally liable.— Guernsey v. Cook, 117 Mass. 548; Simonds v. Heard, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 120, 34 Am. Dec. 41. Compare Pratt v. Beaupré, 13 Minn. 187.

8. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Middleton, 20 Ill. 629.

9. Sterling v. Marietta, etc., Trading Co., 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 179.

10. Booth v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 50 N. Y. 396.

For other informal contracts held to be the obligations of the corporation see the following cases:

Maine.— Winship v. Smith, 61 Me. 118; Haynes v. Hunnewell, 42 Me. 276 (opinion by Tenney, J.).

Maryland.— Vincent v. Chapman, 10 Gill & J. 279.

New York.— Bellinger v. Bentley, 1 Hun 562, 4 Thomps. & C. 71; Many v. Beekman Iron Co., 9 Paige 188.

Pennsylvania.— Passmore v. Mott, 2 Binn. 201.

England.— Russel v. Reece, 2 C. & K. 669, 61 E. C. L. 669.

11. See supra, XII, H, 1 et seq.

face of the instrument whether it was intended to bind the principal or the agent, parol evidence is admissible to explain the latent ambiguity and to aid in the interpretation.[12]

(II) Rule Applicable to Negotiable Instruments. The rule which thus admits parol evidence to explain such an ambiguity on the face of the instrument is frequently applied in the case of negotiable instruments,[13] although there seems to be more difficulty in applying it in such cases after the instrument has passed into the hands of a bona fide taker for value.

(III) Rule Applicable to Sealed Instruments. The rule seems to be equally applicable to sealed instruments.[14]

(IV) Rule Restrained to Latent Ambiguities. But the principle extends only to what is called by writers upon evidence a latent ambiguity. If the contract plainly shows on its face that either the agent or the corporation was intended to be bound it is a violation of principle to admit parol evidence to contradict the terms of the instrument. This doctrine is frequently expressed by saying that parol evidence is not admissible to raise a latent ambiguity, the real meaning being that parol evidence is not admissible to raise an ambiguity where none exists. For instance parol evidence is not admissible to charge a corporation, on a negotiable promissory note signed by its president in his own name, where there is nothing on the face of the instrument to indicate the capacity in which he signs.[15]

(V) Necessary Also to Show Power and Authority to Execute Contract. It must also be borne in mind that in strictness at least it is necessary, in order to cast off the prima facie liability of the officer or agent who has executed the instrument, and to throw the liability upon the corporation, to prove something more than would be necessary in case of an agent of an individual seeking to exonerate himself and to charge his principal. Thus it has been held, in an action against an individual on notes which he has signed with the addition of the word "Pres." to his name, that defendant, in order to overcome his prima facie personal liability, must not only show that he executed the notes on behalf of the corporation of which he is president, and that plaintiff knew this, but also that the debt evidenced by them was one that the corporation had power to contract, and that it authorized him to contract it.[16]

(VI) Parol Evidence Admissible to Charge Undisclosed Principal. Another branch of this doctrine, applicable to simple contracts in writing other than negotiable instruments, but not applicable to negotiable or to sealed instru-

12. Franklin Ave. German Sav. Inst. v. Board of Education, 75 Mo. 408; Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290; Washington Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. St. Mary's Seminary, 52 Mo. 480; McClellan v. Reynolds, 49 Mo. 312; Musser v. Johnson, 42 Mo. 74; Shuetze v. Bailey, 40 Mo. 69; Smith v. Alexander, 31 Mo. 193; Turner v. Thomas, 10 Mo. App. 338.

13. Haile v. Peirce, 32 Md. 327, 3 Am. Rep. 139; Klostermann v. Loos, 58 Mo. 290; Hood v. Hallenbeck, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 362; Metcalf v. Williams, 104 U. S. 93, 26 L. ed. 665; Mechanics' Bank v. Columbia Bank, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 326, 5 L. ed. 100.

Parol evidence admissible to explain misnomer of corporation, under proper averments in the pleadings, in an action on a promissory note. State Bank v. Burke, 1 Coldw. (Tenn.) 623.

14. When therefore C, the president of a corporation, executed his personal bond to secure advances, not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, to be made to him on certain conditions therein mentioned, and also a mortgage by the corporation, wherein the counsel who prepared the same described the individual obligations of C as the liability to be secured, instead of the debt of the company, it was held that parol evidence was admissible to show that it was the debt of the corporation, and not that of C, which was intended to be secured by the mortgage. Jones v. Guaranty, etc., Co., 101 U. S. 622, 25 L. ed. 1030. So where the agent of the corporation signed his name to an obligation to pay money, with his private seal affixed, it was held that, although the instrument did not become the covenant of the corporation, yet it was evidence of a contract on proof of the agency. Osborne v. High Shoals Min., etc., Mfg. Co., 50 N. C. 177.

15. Sparks v. Dispatch Transfer Co., 104 Mo. 531, 15 S. W. 417, 24 Am. St. Rep. 351, 12 L. R. A. 714.

16. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Boutell, 45 Minn. 21, 47 N. W. 261.

Examples where parol evidence was admitted.— Haile v. Peirce, 32 Md. 327, 3 Am.

ments, is that where the contract in point of fact is executed by an agent on behalf of an undisclosed principal, the fact that it was so executed may be proved by parol evidence, so as to charge the undisclosed principal, but not for the purpose of releasing the agent.[17] This rule equally applies whether the unnamed principal is a natural person or a corporation.

(VII) Parol Evidence With Respect to Usage of Corporation With Reference to Which Contract Was Made. Where a party enters into a simple contract with a corporation in respect of its public duties, such as carrying him as a passenger, and the party so contracting knows of a regulation, practice, or interpretation of the corporation restricting such contract, such regulation, practice, or interpretation is deemed to enter into the contract and to form a part thereof; because it is in the minds of both parties when the contract is made. If therefore the corporation complies with the contract, in accordance with such known regulation, practice, or interpretation, it will not be liable for breach of contract, although its compliance may vary from the strict letter of the contract itself;[18] and the rule is the same where the terms of the contract are governed by a usage of the corporation, of however recent date, which has existed uniformly for a sufficient length of time to raise a presumption that the contract was made with reference to it, unless the attending circumstances or other facts overcome such presumption.[19] This rule necessarily lets in parol evidence to prove the usage of the circumstances attending the making of the contract.

(VIII) Parol Evidence to Explain Misnomer of Corporation in Written Contract— (A) In General. A misnomer of the corporation in any species of contract, sealed or unsealed, will not avoid the instrument, where the identity of the corporation intended to be bound can be made out from the instrument itself;[20] and it has been held that a misnomer of the corporation may be explained by parol evidence, under a proper averment in the pleadings, in an action by the corporation on the instrument.[21] No doubt the civil code of California expresses the rule of the common law, where it provides that "the misnomer of a corporation in any written instrument does not invalidate the instrument, if it can be reasonably ascertained from it what corporation is intended."[22]

(B) Rule Where Corporation Makes Contract and Then Changes Its Name. So if a corporation enters into a contract and afterward changes its name, the contract may be enforced against it under its new name;[23] and this neces-

Rep. 139; McCollin v. Gilpin, 5 Q. B. D. 390, 44 J. P. 650, 49 L. J. Q. B. 558, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 899, 28 Wkly. Rep. 813 [affirmed in 6 Q. B. D. 516, 45 J. P. 828, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 914, 29 Wkly. Rep. 408].

17. Briggs v. Partridge, 64 N. Y. 357, 21 Am. Rep. 617; Byles Bills 38. And see as confirming this doctrine Story Agency, § 160*a*; Wharton Agency, § 296; and the following cases:

Massachusetts.— Lerned v. Jones, 9 Allen 419; Eastern R. Co. v. Benedict, 5 Gray 561, 66 Am. Dec. 384; Huntington v. Knox, 7 Cush. 371.

New York.— Coleman v. Elmira First Nat. Bank, 53 N. Y. 388; Dykers v. Townsend, 24 N. Y. 57.

Pennsylvania.— Hubbert v. Borden, 6 Whart. 79.

United States.— Ford v. Williams, 21 How. 287, 16 L. ed. 36.

England.— Calder v. Dobell, L. R. 6 C. P. 486, 40 L. J. C. P. 224, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 129, 19 Wkly. Rep. 409, 978; Browning v. Provincial Ins. Co., L. R. 5 P. C. 263, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 853, 21 Wkly. Rep. 587; Trueman v. Loder, 11 A. & E. 589, 9 L. J. Q. B. 165, 3 P. & D. 567, 39 E. C. L. 319.

But parol evidence cannot be given by the person so executing the contract in his own name for another to discharge himself from liability when sued on it. Higgins v. Senior, 11 L. J. Exch. 199, 8 M. & W. 834.

18. Martindale v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 508. See Southwestern Freight, etc., Press Co. v. Stanard, 44 Mo. 71, 100 Am. Dec. 255; Wann v. Western Union Tel. Co., 37 Mo. 472, 90 Am. Dec. 395; Whitmore v. Coates, 14 Mo. 9.

19. Martindale v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 508. See also Smith v. Wright, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 43, 2 Am. Dec. 162.

20. Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427; Boisgerard v. New York Banking Co., 2 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 23; State Bank v. Burke, 1 Coldw. (Tenn.) 623.

21. State Bank v. Burke, 1 Coldw. (Tenn.) 623.

22. Cal. Civ. Code, § 557. See also Underhill v. Santa Barbara Land, etc., Co., 93 Cal. 300, 28 Pac. 1049.

23. Mt. Palatine Academy v. Kleinschnitz, sarily lets in parol or extrinsic evidence to explain the fact of the change of name.

10. Promise to President and Directors Is Promise to Corporation. A promise to the president and directors of a named corporation, without mentioning such president and directors by name, is a promise to the corporation, and a suit is properly brought on the promise, not in the name of the president and directors, but in the proper name of the corporation.[24]

11. Whether Grant, License, or Sale to Individuals Who Afterward Form Corporation Inures to Corporation. If an individual owning a patent right enters into a contract with a partnership firm, whereby he agrees that the firm shall have the use and benefit of his invention, that will confer no right thereto, upon a corporation subsequently organized by the partners, although the partners may become its sole shareholders.[25] Whether in such a case an assignment by all the individuals composing a partnership firm of all the property of the partnership to the corporation will carry with it the right to use the patented instrument must of course depend upon the nature of the license granted to the partnership. If it was a license of a nature involving a personal trust, and hence not assignable, it would not be passed over to the corporation without the consent of the licenser.[26] But if a right has been assigned to the members of a partnership, which right is in the nature of property and not a mere license or privilege personal to the members of the firm, and they afterward become incorporated and assign all the property of the firm to the corporation, obviously the right will pass with the assignment. Similarly if goods are sold to an individual who is doing business under a corporate name, and long afterward a corporation is created by the same name, by the same individual and others, the corporation will not be liable for the goods, in the absence of a ratification or adoption, even on the footing of having been a de facto corporation when the goods were purchased.[27]

12. Informal Instruments May Be Effectual to Convey Personalty, but Not Realty. There is room for the conclusion that an instrument informally executed so as not to operate as the deed of the corporation may nevertheless be effectual as its simple contract so as to convey its personalty, although not its realty, such as an assignment for creditors not sealed with the corporate seal, but only signed and sealed by the treasurer who had been authorized to execute it.[28]

XIII. NOTICE TO CORPORATIONS.

A. What Is Notice to Corporation — 1. General Statement of Doctrine. The general rule is that notice of a fact acquired by an agent while transacting the business of his principal, operates constructively as notice to his principal. As corporations from their nature can never act except through the instrumentality of agents, and can never be acted upon except through the instrumentality of their agents or their property, this principle applies with peculiar force to them.[29]

2. Corporation Can Have Only Constructive Notice. In other words a corpora-

28 Ill. 133; Ecker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 8 Mo. App. 223.

24. Newport Mechanics' Mfg. Co. v. Starbird, 10 N. H. 123, 34 Am. Dec. 145 (variance immaterial in an action brought in the name of the corporation); Bayley v. Onondaga County Mut. Ins. Co., 6 Hill (N. Y.) 476, 41 Am. Dec. 759 (mode of declaring, in a suit in the corporate name, on a bond given to its directors, their successors, or assigns); People v. Runkle, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 147; Milford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 36 Am. Dec. 78.

25. Locke v. Lane, 35 Fed. 289.

26. Such was the conclusion of Sage, J., in the case just cited, although the point does not seem to have been well considered.

27. Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. South Pub. Co., 17 N. Y. Suppl. 587, 44 N. Y. St. 119.

28. Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743.

29. Alabama.—Frenkel v. Hudson, 82 Ala. 158, 2 So. 758, 60 Am. Rep. 736; Reid v. Mobile Bank, 70 Ala. 199.

Connecticut.— Smith v. Board of Water Com'rs, 38 Conn. 208.

Kentucky.— Lyne v. Commonwealth Bank, 5 J. J. Marsh. 545.

Louisiana.—Pontchartrain R. Co. v. Heirne, 2 La. Ann. 129.

tion from its nature can in a strict sense have only constructive notice or knowledge of facts.[30]

3. Notice to Agent of Corporation When Acting Officially Is Notice to Corporation — a. Rule Stated. The most comprehensive rule with reference to this subject which can be stated is that notice communicated to, or knowledge acquired by, the officers or agents of corporations when acting in their official capacity or within the scope of their agency becomes notice to or knowledge of the corporation for all judicial purposes.[31]

b. Knowledge Must Reach Agent While Acting For Principal — (I) In General. Generally speaking notice will not be imputed to the principal unless the knowledge of the fact reaches the agent while acting for his principal, either generally or with reference to the transaction to which the notice relates.[32] So information communicated to an officer of a corporation on the street touching a matter affecting the rights of a corporation is not as matter of law notice to the corporation.[33] So knowledge which comes to a director personally, while not acting as director, is not imputable to the corporation, as where a director sees a newspaper notice of the dissolution of a partnership.[34]

(II) But Not Necessary in All Cases That Agent Should Be so Acting — (A) In General. But it does not seem to be necessary in all cases that the person desiring to affect the corporation with notice should lie in wait for one of its agents until he can catch him acting about the business of the corporation;[35] but notice to a corporation will always be well communicated when it is communicated to that officer who in most corporations is the official organ of communication between its directors and the outside world; and this officer may

Missouri.— Mechanics' Bank v. Schaumburg, 38 Mo. 228.

New York.—Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. 27.

30. As to what constructive notice is see Plumb v. Fluitt, 2 Anstr. 432, 3 Am. Rep. 605; Kennedy v. Green, 3 Myl. & K. 699, 10 Eng. Ch. 699.

31. Connecticut.— Bridgeport Bank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 30 Conn. 231.

New Hampshire.— Campbell v. Merchants', etc., Mut. F. Ins. Co., 37 N. H. 35, 72 Am. Dec. 324; Marsball v. Columbian Mut. F. Ins. Co., 27 N. H. 157.

New York.— "It is well settled," said Chancellor Walworth, "that notice to an agent of a party, whose duty it is, as such agent, to act upon the notice, or to communicate the information to his principal, in the proper discharge of his trust as such agent, is legal notice to the principal." Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige 127, 137. See also New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30; Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v. Sherman, 30 Barb. 553; McEwen v. Montgomery County Mut. Ins. Co., 5 Hill 101.

Pennsylvania.— Houseman v. Girard Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 Pa. St. 256; Danville Bridge Co. v. Pomroy, 15 Pa. St. 151; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Boggs v. Lancaster Bank, 7 Watts & S. 331.

Wisconsin.— Congar v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 24 Wis. 157, 1 Am. Rep. 164.

England.— Wing v. Harvey, 5 De G. M. & G. 265, 2 Eq. 533, 18 Jur. 394, 23 L. J. Ch. 511, 2 Wkly. Rep. 370, 27 Eng. L. & Eq. 140, 54 Eng. Ch. 210.

32. Colorado.— Armstrong v. Abbott, 11 Colo. 220, 17 Pac. 517, knowledge acquired by a director when acting as scrivener and acknowledging officer.

Connecticut.— Farrell Foundry v. Dart, 26 Conn. 376; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Payne, 25 Conn. 444, 68 Am. Dec. 362.

Illinois.— McCormick v. Wheeler, 36 Ill. 114, 85 Am. Dec. 388.

Kentucky.— Willis v. Vallette, 4 Metc. 186.

Louisiana.—Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525.

Maryland.— General Ins. Co. v. U. S. Insurance Co., 10 Md. 517, 69 Am. Dec. 174.

Missouri.— Ford v. French, 72 Mo. 250.

New York.— Howard Ins. Co. v. Halsey, 8 N. Y. 271, 59 Am. Dec. 478; La Farge F. Ins. Co. v. Bell, 22 Barb. 54; Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige 127.

Pennsylvania.— Houseman v. Girard Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 Pa. St. 256; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489.

Texas.—Texas Banking, etc., Co. v. Hutchins, 53 Tex. 61, 37 Am. Rep. 750, notice to the secretary of an insurance company on the street.

Wisconsin.— Congar v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 24 Wis. 157, 1 Am. Rep. 164, notice to a railway station agent in Iowa about the forwarding of goods from Chicago.

33. Texas Banking, etc., Co. v. Hutchins, 53 Tex. 61, 37 Am. Rep. 750.

34. National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 572.

35. Read the conclusive observations of Vories, J., on this question, in Hayward v. National Ins. Co., 52 Mo. 181, 14 Am. Rep. 400.

be either its president who is ex officio the chairman of its board of directors,[36] or its secretary, who is generally its officer for conducting its correspondence and keeping its records.[37] And cases are found which hold that although knowledge of a fact comes to an agent while not acting for his principal, yet if he subsequently acted for his principal in a matter wherein it became his duty to communicate the fact, then his knowledge would be imputed to his principal.[38] While the general doctrine that notice must come to an agent while acting for his principal is conceded, yet the exception to that doctrine now under consideration rests upon the ground that "the existence of knowledge in an agent, when acting for his principal, is notice to the principal, however that knowledge may have been acquired. The material fact therefore which binds the principal is the knowledge which the agent possesses when he comes to act, and the principal is bound in such case whether the knowledge is communicated or not, and without regard to the manner in which the agent acquires his knowledge."[39]

(B) Knowledge Acquired by Agent Short Time Before Agency Begun. One court has gone so far as to hold that, where the fact of the agency is established, knowledge acquired by the agent, not only during the continuance of his agency, but also that possessed by him so shortly prior to his appointment as necessarily to give rise to the inference that it remained fixed in his memory when the employment began, must be deemed the knowledge of his principal.[40]

(III) Knowledge Acquired by Corporate Agent When in Act of Defrauding Third Person. If an officer or agent acting within the general scope of his powers acquires knowledge of a particular fact while committing a fraud upon a third person in a matter pertaining to the business of the corporation, the corporation will be imputable with such knowledge,[41] although such knowledge may have been acquired by the officer or agent in his private capacity; and the corporation will be held to be a party to such unlawful act.[42]

36. Winchester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Md. 231 (provided the notice did not relate to a transaction which, to the knowledge of the person giving the notice, it was to the interest of the president to conceal); Barnes v. Trenton Gas Light Co., 27 N. J. Eq. 33 (provided he is acting exclusively for the corporation and not for himself); Briggs v. Spaulding, 141 U. S. 132, 11 S. Ct. 924, 35 L. ed. 662.

37. 4 Thompson Corp. § 4696.

38. See for instance Tagg v. Tennessee Nat. Bank, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 479; Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394. Contra, National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 572.

39. Tagg v. Tennessee Nat. Bank, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 479, 484. See also the following cases:

New Hampshire.— Patten v. Merchants', etc., Mut. F. Ins. Co., 40 N. H. 375; Hovey v. Blanchard, 13 N. H. 145.

New York.— Ingalls v. Morgan, 10 N. Y. 178; U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill 451; Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige 127.

Vermont.— Hart v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 33 Vt. 252; Smith v. South Royalton Bank, 32 Vt. 341, 76 Am. Dec. 179.

United States.— Harrington v. U. S., 11 Wall. 356, 20 L. ed. 167.

England.— Dressor v. Norwood, 17 C. B. N. S. 466, 10 Jur. N. S. 851, 34 L. J. C. P. 48, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 111, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1030, 112 E. C. L. 466; Mountford v. Scott, Turn. & R. 274, 12 Eng. Ch. 274 [affirming 3 Madd. 34, 18 Rev. Rep. 189]. Compare the earlier decisions of Lord Hardwicke in Warrick v. Warrick, 3 Atk. 291, 26 Eng. Reprint 970 [criticized by Bradley, J., in Harrington v. U. S., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 356, 20 L. ed. 167].

40. Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290 [citing Hayward v. National Ins. Co., 52 Mo. 181, 14 Am. Rep. 400 (as recognizing the principle); Ward Notice, § 687 (as laying down a much broader doctrine in respect of the effect of knowledge previously acquired by an agent)]. But see to the contrary infra, XIII, B, 1.

41. In re Carew, 31 Beav. 39.

42. New Milford First Nat. Bank v. New Milford, 36 Conn. 93; Mechanics' Bank v. Schaumburg, 38 Mo. 228; Holden v. New York, etc., Bank, 72 N. Y. 286; Fishkill Sav. Inst. v. Bostwick, 19 Hun (N. Y.) 354; Van Leuvan v. Kingston First Nat. Bank, 6 Lans. (N. Y.) 373; Reynolds v. Kenyon, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 585; Zeigler v. Allentown First Nat. Bank, 22 Alb. L. J. 314; Steckel v. Allentown First Nat. Bank, 22 Alb. L. J. 313; Barwick v. English Joint-Stock Bank, L. R. 2 Exch. 259, 36 L. J. Exch. 147, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 461, 15 Wkly. Rep. 877; Mackay v. New Brunswick Commercial Bank, L. R. 5 P. C. 394, 43 L. J. P. C. 31, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 22 Wkly. Rep. 473. See also Bridgeport Bank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 30 Conn. 231. Compare In re Oriental Commercial Bank, L. R. 5 Ch. 358, 39 L. J. Ch.

(IV) KNOWLEDGE POSSESSED BY CORPORATE AGENT WHEN ENGAGED IN CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD HIS OWN PRINCIPAL AND AN INNOCENT THIRD PARTY. Let us suppose that the teller of a bank is short in his accounts and knows that his cash is about to be counted, and thereupon enters into a fraudulent conspiracy whereby he certifies as good the check of a third party who has no funds in the bank, and then procures, through the intervention of such third party and the connivance of a teller of another bank, a quantity of bills from such other bank which he places with the cash in his hands as teller, and which is counted and approved by the superior officers of the bank without knowledge of the fraud, and the bank whose officer he is comes to a knowledge of the fraud before the falsely certified check has been paid and refuses to pay it. Here the other bank which has cashed the check and which has thus been defrauded out of its money may recover it from the former bank in an action for money had and received. In such a case if necessary to support the action the knowledge of the paying teller of the defendant bank will be deemed constructively the knowledge of the bank itself; and his knowledge of the fraudulent title under which he acquired and held such moneys will be the knowledge of the defendant; and it cannot hold the moneys against the true owner.[43]

4. NOTICE MUST BE TO AGENT WHOSE DUTY IT IS EITHER TO ACT ON INFORMATION OR TO COMMUNICATE IT TO CORPORATION. As between a principal and a third person, there can be no doubt that notice to an agent whose duty it is to act upon the information for his principal, or to communicate it to his principal, is notice to his principal; and that a third person cannot, upon any principle of justice, be affected by the fraud or negligence of the agent concealing the information from his principal.[44]

5. NOTICE TO CORPORATE OFFICER WHO IS ALSO AGENT OF PARTY GIVING NOTICE — a. When Such Notice Effected. It may sometimes happen that the same person may properly act as agent of both parties to a transaction in which case the notice to him will be notice to both parties;[45] and if one of the parties to the transaction is a corporation, the notice to the common agent will be notice to the corporation,[46] unless the notice which reaches him is in the nature of a confidential communication which he is not at liberty to disclose to the corporation;[47] or unless the common agent, while so acting, commits a fraud on one of the parties, in which case a knowledge of the fraud will not be imputed to the defrauded party, since it would be contrary to experience to presume that the defrauding agent would communicate it.[48]

b. A Question of Fact. Whether a corporation having dealings with another party through a common agent will be imputed with notice of all the knowledge acquired by such agent becomes largely a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of each particular case.[49]

588, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 422, 18 Wkly. Rep. 474.

43. Atlantic Bank v. Merchants' Bank, 10 Gray (Mass.) 532, Merrick and Bigelow, JJ., dissenting.

44. See the reasoning of the court in Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige (N. Y.) 127.

45. Le Neve v. Le Neve, 3 Atk. 646, 2 White & T. Lead. Cas. 26, 26 Eng. Reprint 1172; Brotherton v. Hatt, 2 Vern. 574. See also Mountford v. Scott, 3 Madd. 34, 18 Rev. Rep. 189; Toulmin v. Steere, 3 Meriv. 210, 17 Rev. Rep. 67. See an extended note on this subject in Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts (Pa.) 397, 36 Am. Dec. 186; Gale v. Lewis, 9 Q. B. 730, 16 L. J. Q. B. 119, 58 E. C. L. 730; Rolland v. Hart, L. R. 6 Ch. 678, 40 L. J. Ch. 701, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 191, 19 Wkly. Rep. 962.

46. Gale v. Lewis, 9 Q. B. 730, 16 L. J. Q. B. 119, 58 E. C. L. 730.

47. Gale v. Lewis, 9 Q. B. 730, 16 L. J. Q. B. 119, 58 E. C. L. 730; Crosse v. Smith, 1 M. & S. 545, 14 Rev. Rep. 529.

48. Kennedy v. Green, 3 Myl. & K. 699, 10 Eng. Ch. 699.

49. Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

Illustration.— Where the president of a bank, in contracting therewith as the representative of a firm of which he is a member, acts in favor of the bank, his knowledge of a material fact, e. g., of the firm's insolvency, must be considered that of the bank. Other-

6. Notice to One Agent Imputable to Corporation Through Another Agent — a. In General. It has been laid down that where a corporation has two agents of equal power and authority, notice to one is constructive notice to the other, and therefore notice to the corporation.[50]

b. Notice to Improper Agent, by Him Communicated to Proper Agent. Notice to an agent, whose knowledge would not affect the company under the foregoing principle, may become notice to the company, if such agent communicates it to the officer or agent whose duty it is to take action concerning it.[51]

7. Notice to Single Director — a. When Officially Engaged at Place of Business of Corporation — (I) In General. It is believed that the rule is that a notice communicated to a single director at the place of business of the corporation, and where he is not acting for himself or adversely to the corporation in the particular transaction, will be imputed to the corporation.[52]

(II) Existence of Knowledge in Single Director While Sitting in Board. It seems that the existence, in the breast of a single director while sitting in the board, of a matter of knowledge which he ought to communicate, and which he can properly communicate to his co-directors, is knowledge to the corporation as matter of law.[53]

(III) Notice to Corporation of Frauds Practised by Single Directors Against Third Persons — (A) In General. As a single director is not unless specially empowered an agent of the corporation, unless he is made such by the act of the shareholders or of the board, in conferring powers upon him outside of his office of director, his frauds, when assuming to act in behalf of the corporation, will not ordinarily be imputed to it, in the absence of circumstances of estoppel or ratification. Excluding such circumstances the essential question is whether the director took part in the proceedings of the board so as to render his fraud effectual or was present at the time the proceedings were had. But this question is irrelevant where the director is specially empowered to act for the corporation, or where, in conformity with a usage of the corporation, he is clothed with all the external indicia of authority. In all other cases the question remains material whether some director acted as a member of the board in a given transaction, possessing the knowledge which it is desired to impute to the corporation.[54]

(B) What if Bank Director Receives Note For Discount and Procures It to Be Discounted For Himself. There are no cases which show that a bank director, by virtue of his position merely, has authority to receive bills to be laid before the board of discount; therefore, when a person desiring to get a note discounted intrusts it to the care of a director to be laid before the board, he makes wise if he acts only for his own or the firm's benefit, regardless of the interests of the bank. Seixas v. Citizens' Bank, 38 La. Ann. 424.

50. Perry v. Simpson Waterproof Mfg. Co., 37 Conn. 520. Compare Ex p. Boulton, 1 De G. & J. 163, 3 Jur. N. S. 425, 26 L. J. Bankr. 45, 5 Wkly. Rep. 445, 58 Eng. Ch. 127, where there were two secretaries, one of whom, and the one who had the knowledge, acted in his own matter, and where the court concluded that the company was not affected with notice. And see Ex p. Bignold, 3 Deac. 151, 3 Mont. & A. 477.

51. Thus a presentment of claims to the special agent of a railroad company for injury to live stock is sufficient if he makes report (under Ala. Rev. Code, § 1402), although he be not the president, superintendent, or depot agent. South Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 53 Ala. 651.

52. U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 451. See also Boyd v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 17 Md. 195, 79 Am. Dec. 646. Compare the opposing observations of Mr. Justice Story (Story Agency, §§ 140*c*, 140*d*), and of Mr. Chancellor Johnson in U. S. Insurance Co. v. Shriver, 3 Md. Ch. 381 [affirmed in 10 Md. 517, 69 Am. Dec. 174].

That the knowledge of two directors, not communicated to the board, will not affect the corporation see Mercier v. Canonge, 8 La. Ann. 37; National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 572; Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394; Porter v. Rutland Bank, 19 Vt. 410; Morse Banks & Bank. (2d ed.) 131.

53. Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394. See also Clerks' Sav. Bank v. Thomas, 2 Mo. App. 367. Compare Jones v. Planters' Bank, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 455.

54. Support for the doctrine of the text such director his agent for transmission of the same to the board; and if the director violates this confidence and gets the note discounted for his own benefit, it is necessary to show either that the director offering the note for discount acted with the board upon the discount, or that some other member of the board having information of his fraudulent designs did so.[55]

(IV) When Single Director Is Deemed to Be Engaged in Business For Corporation. Whether a single director may be deemed to be engaged in business for the corporation when not sitting with his co-directors as a board, or in acting with an executive committee appointed by the board, or in acting for the corporation in virtue of some special delegation of agency or authority, so that notice to him will be notice to the corporation, may present questions difficult of solution.[56]

b. Notice to Single Director Not Officially Engaged — (I) In General. Notice communicated to or knowledge acquired by a single director, when not officially engaged for the corporation, is not notice to the corporation, unless it is proved as a fact that he has communicated the notice to the board, or to an executive officer of the corporation entitled to receive it, and whose knowledge of the fact would affect the corporation with constructive notice of it.[57]

(II) Newspaper Publication of Dissolution of Partnership Accidentally Reaching Bank Director. Upon a similar theory notice of the dissolution of a partnership published in a newspaper, and thus accidentally reaching a bank director, is not equivalent to notice to the bank,[58] although one court has taken a different view of this question.[59]

(III) Knowledge Possessed by Director Who Participated in Discounting Note. In conformity to this principle, the courts take a distinction between the knowledge of the illegality or want of consideration of a note, which may be had by a director who acts with the board of directors of a bank in discounting it, and such knowledge on the part of a director who is not present, and who does not act with the board when the discount is made. In the former case the knowledge of the director is the knowledge of the bank; in the latter case it is not.[60] may be collected from the following cases: Hightstown First Nat. Bank v. Christopher, 40 N. J. L. 435, 29 Am. Rep. 262; Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394.

55. Terrell v. Mobile Branch Bank, 12 Ala. 502; National Security Bank v. Cushman, 121 Mass. 490; Washington Bank v. Lewis, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 24; U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 451.

56. See a discussion of this question in 4 Thompson Corp. § 5222.

57. Connecticut.— Farrell Foundry v. Dart, 26 Conn. 376, knowledge acquired by a director of a defectively executed deed not communicated to the corporation is not notice of the fact to the corporation — a doubtful decision, because the director, in making the investigation, seems to have been acting as agent for the corporation.

Kentucky.— Lyne v. Commonwealth Bank, 5 J. J. Marsh. 545, knowledge of any fact by less than a majority of the board will not amount to notice of the fact to the corporation.

Louisiana.— Mercier v. Canonge, 8 La. Ann. 37, private knowledge of two directors of a "tacit mortgage" not notice to the bank unless disclosed to the board.

Maryland.— U. S. Insurance Co. v. Shriver, 3 Md. Ch. 381.

Massachusetts.— Sawyer v. Pawners' Bank, 6 Allen 207; Housatonic Bank v. Martin, 1 Metc. 294 (the fact that a bank director assisted in drawing a mortgage not notice of it to the bank).

Michigan.— Compare International Wrecking, etc., Co. v. McMorran, 73 Mich. 467, 41 N. W. 510.

Missouri.— Hyde v. Larkin, 35 Mo. App. 365.

New York.— Fulton Bank v. Benedict, 1 Hall 480; U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill 451; National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill 572.

Pennsylvania.— Custer v. Tompkins County Bank, 9 Pa. St. 27; Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts 397, 36 Am. Dec. 186.

Vermont.— Smith v. South Royalton Bank, 32 Vt. 341, 76 Am. Dec. 179.

United States. — Compare Lawrence v. Holmes, 45 Fed. 357.

58. National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 572.

59. Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394.

60. Connecticut.— Farrell Foundry v. Dart, 26 Conn. 376; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Payne, 25 Conn. 444, 68 Am. Dec. 362.

Massachusetts.— National Security Bank v. Cushman, 121 Mass. 490.

New Jersey.— Hightstown First Nat. Bank

(iv) Knowledge Possessed by Attorney, Who Was Also Trustee of Bank, of Existence of Unrecorded Deed. In the case indicated by this caption it was held that the bank was not chargeable with the knowledge of its trustee, unless the fact of the existence of the unrecorded deed was in his mind at the time, or unless he was acting for the bank in making the mortgage.[61]

(v) Knowledge Acquired by Director From Any Source and Stated by Him Before Board. But when the fact in controversy has been gleaned by a single director from any source, and is stated by him before the board, and made the subject of conversation during the transaction of a piece of business affected by the circumstance, "it is impossible to doubt that the bank is to be affected, because knowledge of the fact material to be known is a part of the res gestæ."[62]

(vi) When New Corporation Is Affected With Knowledge Possessed by Its Promoter With Respect to Title to Lands Which He Conveys to It. Where a director who had purchased lands from a corporation, united with others in forming a new corporation, he subscribing for almost all of the stock therein, and becoming one of its officers and directors, and on the next day, in pursuance of one entire plan, conveyed the same lands to the new company in payment of his subscription for such stock, it was held that the new company was affected with notice of the circumstances impairing the title of the party so conveying the lands to it, and could not claim to be a bona fide purchaser without notice.[63]

8. Facts Which Director Ought to Know Imputable to Corporation. The law will impute to a corporation facts which its directors ought to know, in the exercise of ordinary diligence in the discharge of their official duties, when the imputation of such knowledge to the corporation is necessary to protect the rights of third persons.[64] Upon this principle corporations are often charged with responsibility for the frauds of their ministerial officers.[65]

9. Notice to or Knowledge of Particular Officers of Corporations — a. Notice to President. Notice to the president of a corporation is almost invariably regarded as notice to the corporation, except where, at the time when the notice is communicated to him, he is totally disassociated from its business, as where he is absent on a journey.[66]

v. Christopher, 40 N. J. L. 435, 29 Am. Rep. 262.

New York.— Westfield Bank v. Cornen, 37 N. Y. 320, 93 Am. Dec. 573; National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill 572.

Ohio.— Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Disn. 285, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 625.

England.— See note to Le Neve v. Le Neve, 3 Atk. 646, 2 White & T. Lead. Cas. 26, 26 Eng. Reprint 1172.

61. Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319.

62. Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts (Pa.) 397, 403, 36 Am. Dec. 186, per Gibson, C. J. Compare Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319, where an exception to the above doctrine was suggested.

63. Hoffman Steam Coal Co. v. Cumberland Coal, etc., Co., 16 Md. 456, 77 Am. Dec. 311.

64. Martin v. Webb, 110 U. S. 7, 28 L. ed. 49.

65. Fishkill Sav. Inst. v. Fishkill Nat. Bank, 80 N. Y. 162, 36 Am. Rep. 595 [affirming 19 Hun (N. Y.) 354].

66. Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 248, 1 Colo. 531 [affirmed in 96 U. S. 640, 24 L. ed. 648].

Connecticut. — Smith v. Norwich Bd. of Water Com'rs, 38 Conn. 208.

Louisiana.— Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525.

New York.— Getman v. Oswego Second Nat. Bank, 23 Hun 498.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts 397, 36 Am. Dec. 186.

Vermont.— Porter v. Rutland Bank, 19 Vt. 410.

England.— In re Carew, 31 Beav. 39.

Compare the following decision believed to be untenable: Mathis v. Prindham, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 58, 20 S. W. 1015 (holding that notice given to the president pertaining to his individual matters is not knowledge to the corporation unless present in his mind in the transaction where it was sought to impute knowledge); Commonwealth Bank v. Craig, 6 Leigh (Va.) 399, 433 (treating the president as a special agent and ignoring the fact of his general superintendency).

See also supra, X, A, 1, b, (VII); X, A, 1, b, (XI).

b. Notice to Cashier of Bank. Matters peculiar to banking corporations are not treated in this article,[67] but it may be said that the cashier of a banking corporation sustains such a relation to it that notice imparted to him of any matter touching the business of the bank is notice to the directors, and consequently to the bank,[68] even where he is acting fraudulently as against a third person.[69]

c. Notice to Various Special Agents[70] — Treasurer. As the treasurer of a corporation is regarded as a special agent,[71] a notice to him in order to affect the corporation must relate to a matter within the scope of his special duties as treasurer. Upon this principle notice to him at the time a sum of money is paid to him as to the purpose for which it is paid will be binding on the corporation, especially where it appears that entries have been made in the books of the corporation in accordance with the terms of such notice.[72] For the same reason his knowledge that certain drafts of the corporation have been dishonored is imputable to the corporation.[73]

d. Notice to Mere Servant or Clerk. Notice to a mere servant or clerk will ordinarily not be notice to the corporation, unless he stands in such a relation to it or to the fact communicated that it is his duty to communicate it to his superiors. Thus a fact coming to the knowledge of an attorney of a banking corporation while taking the acknowledgment of a deed to the bank was not imputable to the bank, although it would have been otherwise if the attorney had been employed to obtain the title for the bank by a deed to be drawn by him for that purpose.[74] So knowledge possessed by a mere clerk in a bank of the residence of a party to negotiable paper protested by the bank has been held not imputable to the bank.[75]

67. See, generally, BANKS AND BANKING.

68. Alabama.— Huntsville Branch Bank v. Steele, 10 Ala. 915.

Georgia.— St. Marys Bank v. Mumford, 6 Ga. 44.

Louisiana.— Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525.

Massachusetts.— Fall River Union Bank v. Sturtevant, 12 Cush. 372.

Missouri.—Mechanics' Bank v. Schaumburg, 38 Mo. 228.

New Jersey.— Gaston v. American Exch. Bank, 29 N. J. Eq. 98; Trenton Banking Co. v. Woodruff, 2 N. J. Eq. 117.

New York.— New Hope, etc., Bridge Co. v. Phenix Bank, 3 N. Y. 156; Van Leuvan v. Kingston First Nat. Bank, 6 Lans. 373; Reynolds v. Kenyon, 43 Barb. 585; Gould v. Cayuga County Nat. Bank, 56 How. Pr. 505.

Pennsylvania.— Harrisburg Bank v. Tyler, 3 Watts & S. 373.

United States.— Tiffany v. Boatman's Sav. Inst., 18 Wall. 375, 21 L. ed. 868; Duncan v. Jaudon, 15 Wall. 165, 21 L. ed. 142. Compare U. S. v. Columbus City Bank, 21 How. 356, 16 L. ed. 130.

England.— Mackay v. New Brunswick Commercial Bank, L. R. 5 P. C. 394, 43 L. J. P. C. 31, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 22 Wkly. Rep. 473; Swift v. Jewsbury, L. R. 9 Q. B. 301, 43 L. J. Q. B. 56, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 31, 22 Wkly. Rep. 319 [reversing L. R. 8 Q. B. 244, 42 L. J. Q. B. 111, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 338, 21 Wkly. Rep. 562].

69. Fishkill Sav. Inst. v. Fishkill Nat. Bank, 80 N. Y. 162, 36 Am. Rep. 595. So the bank is affected with private knowledge possessed by the cashier when acting as a member of the discount committee; and in the absence of evidence speaking on the question his presence with such committee will be presumed. Bank of America v. McNeil, 10 Bush (Ky.) 54. It would seem from this that certain expressions of opinion in an early case in the same court are considered no longer the law. Lyne v. Commonwealth Bank, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 545.

70. That notice to the master of transportation of a railway company of the incompetency of an employee affects the corporation see Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Ruby, 38 Ind. 294, 10 Am. Rep. 111. That notice to the engineer of a bridge company of an alteration in the structure by the builders is notice to the company see Danville Bridge Co. v. Pomroy, 15 Pa. St. 151. That notice to a railway station agent of an assignment of a chose in action will not affect the company if his duties do not concern such matters see Lambreth v. Clarke, 10 Heisk. (Tenn.) 32. When notice to one of several agents of a bank of the residence of an indorser is not notice to the bank see Goodloe v. Godley, 13 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 233, 51 Am. Dec. 150.

71. 4 Thompson Corp. § 4715.

72. New England Car Spring Co. v. Union India Rubber Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,153, 4 Blatchf. 1.

73. Commercial Bank v. St. Croix Mfg. Co., 23 Me. 280.

74. Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319. In Tucker v. Tilton, 55 N. H. 223, it was held that notice of the existence of an unrecorded mortgage upon the property to an officer employed to make an attachment was notice to plaintiff.

75. Goodloe v. Godley, 13 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 233, 51 Am. Dec. 150.

10. Notice to Mere Shareholder. A shareholder, not being in his mere character of shareholder in privity with the corporation, but being a stranger to it, notice to him of a fact which he is not under a special duty of communicating to the corporation is not notice to the corporation.[76]

11. Notice to Corporations of Defects in Their Works Which They Are Bound to Repair. A corporation, private or municipal, which is bound under the principles of the law or under the terms of its charter or governing statute to keep the street, the public highway, or even its own works, in a reasonable state of repair, for the benefit or convenience of the public, is liable for failing to repair within a reasonable time after notice of the defect; and after a considerable time it becomes so liable, without the necessity of proving express notice, because, being under an affirmative duty of inspection and care, negligent ignorance is equivalent to actual knowledge.[77] As this is a branch of the law of negligence under which title it is treated, it will not be pursued here further than to say that express notice of such a defect communicated to the superintendent,[78] or even to the secretary and treasurer of a turnpike company, shown to have some part in the practicable management and superintendence of its road,[79] will be notice to the company.

12. Notice to Corporation Taking Negotiable Paper. This subject belongs more especially to the law of commercial paper[80] and will not be treated here further than to say that the leading doctrine is that notice or knowledge of facts which merely excite suspicion and which ought to put the purchaser on inquiry is not enough; but the test is good faith or bad faith,[81] in other words whether the taking of it was fraudulent as against the original maker.[82]

13. Circumstances Putting Corporation Upon Inquiry. The circumstances which will put a corporation upon inquiry as to the rights or equities of a third person must be the same as those which will put an individual upon inquiry; otherwise the public would be at an enormous disadvantage, not only in dealing with corporations themselves, but in having their rights destroyed where others who are the trustees of such rights deal with corporations.[83]

14. Notice to Corporation Whether Question of Law or Fact. Actual notice is notice in fact; constructive notice is notice in law. Actual notice is purely a fact, and is proved as a fact, and is found as a fact by the jury.[84] But constructive notice is generally a conclusion of law from a state of facts established or admitted.

76. Burt v. Batavia Paper Mfg. Co., 86 Ill. 66; Housatonic Bank v. Martin, 1 Metc. (Mass.) 294; Pearsall v. Western Union Tel. Co., 124 N. Y. 256, 26 N. E. 534, 35 N. Y. St. 307, 21 Am. St. Rep. 662 [affirming 44 Hun (N. Y.) 532, 9 N. Y. St. 132]; Custer v. Tompkins County Bank, 9 Pa. St. 27; Union Canal Co. v. Loyd, 4 Watts & S. (Pa.) 393; Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts (Pa.) 397, 36 Am. Dec. 186.

77. See supra, IX, M, 8.

Cases like the following illustrate the liability of private corporations for damages to third persons through suffering their works to become and remain unsafe: Rockwell v. Third Ave. R. Co., 64 Barb. (N. Y.) 438; Carpenter v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 4 Daly (N. Y.) 550, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 416; Fash v. Third Ave. R. Co., 1 Daly (N. Y.) 148; Lowrey v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 4 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 32.

78. Quincy Coal Co. v. Hood, 77 Ill. 68.

79. Eggleston v. Columbia Turnpike Road Co., 82 N. Y. 278.

80. See, generally, Commercial Paper, 7 Cyc. 495.

81. Edwards v. Thomas, 66 Mo. 468; Hamilton v. Marks, 63 Mo. 167; Mason v. Bank of Commerce, 16 Mo. App. 275; Hackensack Water Co. v. De Kay, 36 N. J. Eq. 548; Marshall County v. Schenck, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 772, 18 L. ed. 556; Gelpcke v. Dubuque, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 175, 17 L. ed. 520; Goodman v. Simonds, 20 How. (U. S.) 343, 15 L. ed. 934; Swift v. Tyson, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 1, 10 L. ed. 865; Goodman v. Harvey, 4 A. & E. 870, 6 L. J. K. B. 260, 6 N. & M. 372, 31 E. C. L. 381.

82. National Bank of Republic v. Young, 41 N. J. Eq. 531, 5 Atl. 488. See also Monument Nat. Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass. 57, 3 Am. Dec. 322; Bird v. Daggett, 97 Mass. 494; Mechanics' Banking Assoc. v. White Lead Co., 35 N. Y. 505.

83. See for example supra, VII, D, 13, f, (III); Peck v. Bank of America, 16 R. I. 710, 19 Atl. 369, 7 L. R. A. 826.

84. Muldrow v. Robinson, 58 Mo. 331; Vaughn v. Tracy, 22 Mo. 415; Beatie v. Butler, 21 Mo. 313, 64 Am. Dec. 234; Hill v. Tissier, 15 Mo. App. 299; Eyerman v. St. Louis Second Nat. Bank, 13 Mo. App. 289 [affirmed in 84 Mo. 408]; Masterson v. West-End Narrow-Gauge R. Co., 5 Mo. App. 64.

15. Evidence of Notice to Corporate Officer. Whether the officers of a corporation had notice of a particular fact must of course be proved as a fact, although it may be inferred from circumstances, and it is not always necessary to show it by direct proof.[85] There is no presumption of law that a notice contained in a newspaper, subscribed for by a corporation for the use of its officers, has come to the eyes of such officers; and such evidence will not authorize the submission of the question to a jury.[86] But the circumstances and the character of the information thus printed may be such as to create a strong presumption that the officers of the corporation will read it and acquire the information through it. Thus it has been reasoned that while the officers of a marine insurance company may not under all circumstances be presumed to be acquainted with all the intelligence contained in the newspapers taken at their office, yet the general presumption is that they will examine with some care the items of marine intelligence, especially with relation to vessels belonging to their own port.[87]

16. Other Holdings Relating to Notice to Corporations. It has been reasoned that a bank director is presumed to have knowledge of the securities of the bank, but that this presumption may be overcome by proof.[88] Where a corporation loaned money on a mortgage, on the faith of a record of a release of a prior mortgage, which in point of fact had not been paid, the fact that the agent of the corporation through whom the loan was effected acted without knowledge that the prior mortgage had not been paid was held to authorize a finding that the corporation had no such knowledge.[89] Notice to the officers of a corporation of the unauthorized acts of their predecessors in office is notice to the corporation; and if no dissent is expressed a ratification will be presumed, and the acts will become binding upon the corporation and its shareholders.[90]

B. What Is Not Notice to Corporation — 1. Notice Communicated to Agent Before Agency Begun. On the question whether notice imputed to a person who afterward becomes agent of another will be imputed to that other the authorities differ.[91] One court has said that notice to an agent twenty-four hours before the relation has commenced is no more notice to his principal than a notice twenty-four hours after the agency has ceased would be.[92] Another court has taken the view that the safer and better rule would be to hold that the knowledge of the agent acquired prior to his employment as agent will be imputable to his principal under such limitations and conditions as these: "The knowledge must be present to the mind of the agent when acting for the principal, so fully in his mind that it could not have been at the time forgotten by him; the knowledge or notice must be of a matter so material to the transaction as to make it the agent's duty to communicate the fact to his principal; and the agent must himself have no personal interest in the matter which would lead him to conceal his knowledge from his principal, but must be at liberty to communicate it." And the court admitted that "additional modification might be required in some cases."[93]

2. Whether Corporation Continues to Be Affected With Knowledge of Fact Communicated to It by Its Agent After Agent Has Been Superseded by Another Agent. As corporations can be affected with knowledge only through their

85. Toll Bridge Co. v. Betsworth, 30 Conn. 380.

86. Vernon v. Manhattan Co., 17 Wend. (N. Y.) 524 [affirmed in 22 Wend. (N. Y.) 183]; Pittsburgh Bank v. Whitehead, 10 Watts (Pa.) 397, 36 Am. Dec. 186.

87. Green v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 10 Pick. (Mass.) 402. See further State Bank v. Humphreys, 1 McCord (S. C.) 388; Martin v. Walton, 1 McCord (S. C.) 16.

88. Proctor v. Baldwin, 82 Ind. 370.

89. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Talbot, 113 Ind. 373, 14 N. E. 586, 3 Am. St. Rep. 655.

90. Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290. Notice to company, under English law, of an equitable mortgage of its shares, by a deposit of the certificates, so as to cut off its equities. Ex p. Boulton, 1 De G. & J. 163, 3 Jur. N. S. 425, 26 L. J. Bankr. 45, 5 Wkly. Rep. 445, 58 Eng. Ch. 127.

91. See Wharton Agency, § 178 et seq., for authorities.

92. Houseman v. Girard Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 Pa. St. 256.

93. Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 228, 39 Am. Rep. 319, opinion by Peters, J.

agents, this question may be answered in the affirmative; and so it has been answered with respect to notice communicated to the board of directors, the view being that the knowledge thus imputed to the corporation continues after the election of a subsequent board;[94] but one court has held the contrary with respect to notice communicated to a corporation, through its ministerial agent, of the meaning of certain arbitrary shipping marks, holding that such knowledge is not imputed to his successors and through them to the company.[95]

3. Knowledge Acquired by Corporate Officers or Agents in Their Own Private Affairs — a. In General. The knowledge acquired by the officers or agents of a corporation, while not acting for the corporation, but while acting for themselves, is not imputable to the corporation.[96]

b. Unless Knowledge Previously Acquired Was Present in His Mind at Time of Transaction. Under a principle already stated[97] this rule would not apply in a case where the knowledge previously acquired by the corporate officer in his own private affair was present in his mind at the time of the transaction conducted by him for the corporation, and in respect of which it is sought to charge the corporation.[98]

4. Knowledge Acquired by Officer or Agent While Acting For Himself and Adversely to Corporation — a. In General. Such knowledge is not imputable to the corporation, for the reason that the officer or agent is interested in concealing it from his principal; and consequently the law will not presume that he has communicated it.[99]

b. Rule Applies Where Officer Is Acting For Himself in Transaction With Corporation. If a corporate officer or agent acts avowedly for himself in a transaction with the corporation, he is regarded as a stranger to the corporation, dealing as if he had no official relation with it.[1] When therefore an officer, director, or agent of a corporation deals with the corporation for himself in his private capacity, any uncommunicated knowledge which he may have in respect of the 94. Mechanics' Bank v. Seton, 1 Pet. (U. S.) 299, 309, 7 L. ed. 152.

95. Great Western R. Co. v. Wheeler, 20 Mich. 419.

96. Kansas.— Wickersham v. Chicago Zinc Co., 18 Kan. 481, 26 Am. Rep. 784.

Maine.— Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319.

Massachusetts.— Innerarity v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 139 Mass. 332, 1 N. E. 282, 52 Am. Rep. 710.

Missouri.— Johnston v. Shortridge, 93 Mo. 227, 6 S. W. 64; Manhattan Brass Co. v. Webster Glass, etc., Co., 37 Mo. App. 145; State Sav. Assoc. v. Nixon-Jones Printing Co., 25 Mo. App. 642.

Texas.— Mathis v. Pridham, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 58, 20 S. W. 1015.

A good illustration of the doctrine will be found in Platt v. Birmingham Axle Co., 41 Conn. 255.

That a court of justice ought not to tolerate any mixing up or confusing of personal and official relations in determining this question see Mihills Mfg. Co. v. Camp, 49 Wis. 130, 5 N. W. 1.

97. See supra, XIII, A, 3, b, (II), (A) et seq.

98. Mathis v. Pridham, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 58, 20 S. W. 1015.

99. Somerville, J., in Frenkel v. Hudson, 82 Ala. 158, 2 So. 758, 60 Am. Rep. 736. See also the following cases:

Alabama.— Terrell v. Mobile Branch Bank, 12 Ala. 502; Lucas v. Darien Bank, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 280.

Kansas.— Wickersham v. Chicago Zinc Co., 18 Kan. 481, 26 Am. Rep. 784.

Maryland.— Winchester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Md. 231.

Massachusetts.— Innerarity v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 139 Mass. 332, 1 N. E. 282, 52 Am. Rep. 710, bank director pledged to his bank for his own personal loan a cargo which had been shipped to him by a customer for sale — bank not imputable with notice of the facts.

New York.— Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige 127.

1. Illinois.— Merrick v. Peru Coal Co., 61 Ill. 472.

Massachusetts.— Ward v. Salem St. R. Co., 108 Mass. 332; Hayward v. Pilgrim Soc., 21 Pick. 270.

Michigan.— Gallery v. National Exch. Bank, 41 Mich. 169, 2 N. W. 193, 32 Am. Rep. 149.

Minnesota.— Rhodes v. Webb, 24 Minn. 292.

New Jersey.— Stratton v. Allen, 16 N. J. Eq. 229.

Pennsylvania.— Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

South Carolina.— Georgia Cent. R., etc., Co. v. Claghorn, 1 Speers Eq. 545.

Vermont.— Rogers v. Danby Universalist Soc., 19 Vt. 187.

United States.— Twin-Lick Oil Co. v. Marbury, 91 U. S. 587, 23 L. ed. 328.

transaction will not be imputed to the latter by reason of his possession of it.[2] If therefore it is desired to charge the corporation with a knowledge of such facts affirmative evidence must be given that the officer has made a disclosure thereof to other and disinterested officers of the corporation, whose knowledge may properly be said to be that of the corporation; or at least that he made such disclosures as ought to have put them on inquiry.[3]

5. Notice of Facts Which Officer or Agent Is Interested In Concealing From Corporation. Knowledge of the corporate officer or agent will not be imputed to the corporation, where the fact is one which the officer or agent is interested in concealing from it,[4] except in cases where a contrary rule is necessary to save the rights of innocent third persons.[5]

6. When Corporation Affected With Notice of Private Dealings Between Officers and Third Persons. A corporation will be affected with constructive notice of private dealings had between its officer and a third person where the officer is its organ of connection with the outside world and is the proper officer to receive and communicate notice of the particular fact to it; since it would be idle for the other party, for the purpose of affecting the corporation with notice of the fact, to communicate it a second time to the officer or agent.[6]

2. Alabama.— Frenkel v. Hudson, 82 Ala. 158, 2 So. 758, 60 Am. Rep. 736.

Kansas.— Wickersham v. Chicago Zinc Co., 18 Kan. 481, 26 Am. Rep. 784.

Louisiana.— Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525.

Maryland.— Winchester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Md. 231.

Massachusetts.— Commercial Bank v. Cunningham, 24 Pick. 270, 35 Am. Dec. 322.

New Jersey.— Hightstown First Nat. Bank v. Christopher, 40 N. J. L. 435, 29 Am. Rep. 262; Barnes v. Trenton Gas Light Co., 27 N. J. Eq. 33.

New York.— Westfield Bank v. Cornen, 37 N. Y. 320, 93 Am. Dec. 573; La Farge F. Ins. Co. v. Bell, 22 Barb. 54; Seneca County Bank v. Neass, 5 Den. 329; North River Bank v. Aymar, 3 Hill 262; U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill 451.

Ohio.— Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Disn. 285, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 625.

Pennsylvania.— Custer v. Tompkins County Bank, 9 Pa. St. 27.

3. Alabama.— Terrell v. Mobile Branch Bank, 12 Ala. 502; Lucas v. Darien Bank, 2 Stew. 280.

Connecticut.—Farmers', etc., Bank v. Payne, 25 Conn. 444, 68 Am. Dec. 362.

Iowa.— Davenport First Nat. Bank v. Gifford, 47 Iowa 575, where the president and the cashier of a bank acted together in a private matter without disclosing it to the other directors, and it was held that their knowledge was not imputable to the bank.

Louisiana.— Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525.

Maryland.— Winchester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Md. 231.

Massachusetts.— Commercial Bank v. Cunningham, 24 Pick. 270, 35 Am. Dec. 322.

New Jersey.— Hightstown First Nat. Bank v. Christopher, 40 N. J. L. 435, 29 Am. Rep. 262.

New York.— Westfield Bank v. Cornen, 37 N. Y. 320, 93 Am. Dec. 573; Atlantic State Bank v. Savery, 18 Hun 36.

England.— Powles v. Page, 3 C. P. 16, 10 Jur. 526, 15 L. J. C. P. 217, 54 E. C. L. 16.

What conduct will amount to "acting as a member of the board" seems to be uncertain upon the adjudged cases. In two cases it was held that a director being present at the board, but taking no part in the proceedings, must be considered as not acting. Terrell v. Mobile Branch Bank, 12 Ala. 502; Louisiana State Bank v. Senecal, 13 La. 525. To the contrary, however, see U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 451; Union Bank v. Campbell, 4 Humphr. (Tenn.) 394.

4. Commercial Bank v. Cunningham, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 270, 35 Am. Dec. 322; Washington Bank v. Lewis, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 24. See also National Security Bank v. Cushman, 121 Mass. 490; Frost v. Belmont, 6 Allen (Mass.) 152.

5. So stated by Devens, J., in Innerarity v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 139 Mass. 332, 1 N. E. 282, 52 Am. Rep. 710 [citing Loring v. Brodie, 134 Mass. 453; Atlantic Nat. Bank v. Harris, 118 Mass. 147; In re Marseilles Extension R. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 161, 41 L. J. Ch. 345, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 858, 20 Wklv. Rep. 254; In re Oriental Commercial Bank, L. R. 5 Ch. 358, 39 L. J. Ch. 588, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 422, 18 Wkly. Rep. 474; Cave v. Cave, 15 Ch. D. 639, 49 L. J. Ch. 505, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 730, 28 Wkly. Rep. 793; Kennedy v. Green, 3 Myl. & K. 699, 10 Eng. Ch. 699]. See also Washington Bank v. Lewis, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 24; U. S. Bank v. Davis, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 451 [recognized in North River Bank v. Aymar, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 262].

6. Factors', etc., Ins. Co. v. Marine Dry Dock, etc., Co., 31 La. Ann. 149 (and the obiter dicta of Spencer, J., on page 151, the case turning on another ground); Scripture v. Francestown Soapstone Co., 50 N. H. 571; Van Leuvan v. Kingston First Nat. Bank, 6 Lans. (N. Y.) 373; Reynolds v. Kenyon, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 585. Compare Miller v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 312. To the contrary is Bridgeport Bank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 30 Conn. 231 (the language of

7. Where Person Receiving Notice Is Director in Two Corporations. We have seen that one who is a director in two corporations will not be permitted to represent both of them in transactions in which their interests are conflicting.[7] Where a common director of two corporations is thus improperly acting, a notice to him of the affairs of one of the corporations will not be imputable to the other,[8] for the reason that it will not be his duty to disclose it, but the contrary.[9]

8. Rule Where Corporate Officer Agrees Not to Communicate Notice. If through fraud or collusion there is a specific agreement between the corporate officer and the other party to the transaction that no notice of the matter shall be given to the corporation, there is no principle upon which notice can be implied,[10] unless it be necessary to save the rights of innocent third parties.

XIV. ESTOPPELS WITH RESPECT TO CORPORATIONS.

A. Estoppels In Pais Operate Against Corporations Same as Against Individuals. Subject to exceptions in the case of municipal or governmental corporations,[11] which are held to a strict exercise of their powers, the general rule is that corporations quite as much as individuals are held to a careful adherence to truth in their dealings with mankind, and cannot by representations or by silence involve others in onerous engagements and then defeat the just expectations which their conduct has superinduced.[12] A round statement of this doctrine is that estoppels in pais operate against corporations in like manner as against natural persons.[13]

B. Operation and Effect of Such Estoppels — 1. Prevent Denial of Validity of Corporate Organization — a. In General. The principle of estoppel prevents the corporation, its officers, and its shareholders, from denying the corporate existence or the validity of the corporate organization under conditions already considered.[14]

Ellsworth, J., is especially noteworthy, at pages 271, 272); Ex p. Waithman, 4 Deac. & C. 412, 2 Mont. & A. 364; Ex p. Stewart, 4 De G. J. & S. 543, 11 Jur. N. S. 25, 34 L. J. Ch. 6, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 554, 13 Wkly. Rep. 356, 69 Eng. Ch. 417; Ex p. Harrison, 3 Mont. & A. 506.

For an illustration of this rule where it was held that a company was charged with knowledge of a trust upon which shares in the company had been purchased see Ex p. Burbridge, 1 Deac. 131, 38 E. C. L. 577 [reversing 4 Deac. & C. 87, 2 Mont. & A. 349].

7. See supra, IX, J, 1, a et seq.

8. In re Marseilles Extension R. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 161, 41 L. J. Ch. 345, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 858, 20 Wkly. Rep. 254. Compare Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 4 Paige (N. Y.) 127.

9. In re Marseilles Extension R. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 161, 41 L. J. Ch. 345, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 858, 20 Wkly. Rep. 254. See also In re Contract Corp., L. R. 8 Eq. 14, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 964.

10. Ex p. Nutting, 5 Jur. 829, 2 Mont. D. & D. 302. See also Sturgis First Nat. Bank v. Reed, 36 Mich. 263.

11. See, however, the following cases:

Connecticut.— Savings Soc. v. New London, 29 Conn. 174.

Illinois.— Maher v. Chicago, 38 Ill. 266; Keithsburg v. Frick, 34 Ill. 405.

Ohio.— State v. Union Tp., 8 Ohio St. 394.

Wisconsin.— Kneeland v. Gilman, 24 Wis. 39.

United States.— Pendleton County v. Amy, 13 Wall. 297, 20 L. ed. 579; Moran v. Miami County, 2 Black 722, 17 L. ed. 342.

That such estoppels extend to foreign as well as to domestic corporations see Watts-Campbell Co. v. Yuengling, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 302, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 869, 21 N. Y. St. 186.

12. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663; Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381, 16 L. ed. 488.

13. Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Tipton, 5 Ala. 787, 39 Am. Dec. 344; Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663; St. Louis v. St. Louis Gaslight Co., 70 Mo. 69; Currier v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 53 N. H. 538; Hale v. Union Mut. F. Ins. Co., 32 N. H. 295, 64 Am. Dec. 370.

For an apt illustration see Gowen Marble Co. v. Tarrant, 73 Ill. 608.

14. Connecticut.— West Winsted Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Ford, 27 Conn. 282, 71 Am. Dec. 66.

Illinois.— U. S. Express Co. v. Bedbury, 34 Ill. 459.

Indiana.— Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26.

Massachusetts.— Howard Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. McIntyre, 3 Allen 571.

Ohio.— Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ohio St. 516.

See also supra, I, N, 1, a et seq.; VI, P, 6, a, (I), (D) et seq.

Agreement held not to create estoppel.— That a traffic agreement between two street railway companies, by which one is restrained

b. Prevent De Facto Corporation From Repudiating Its Contracts After Dissolving and Reorganizing. The same principle prevents a de facto corporation from repudiating its contracts after dissolving, upon discovering that it is not properly organized, and legally organizing under a different name.[15] In such a case the dissolution of the de facto corporation does not prevent the creditors from following it and holding it liable for the payment of its debts, where there is a statute, such as has been elsewhere considered,[16] allowing a certain time after dissolution to a corporation for winding up its affairs.[17]

2. Validate Contracts Entered Into by Corporations Without Authority of Shareholders. If the directors of a corporation enter into a contract with another person or corporation, which they have no power to make without the consent of their shareholders, but afterward the other contracting party deliberately and publicly offers the corporation the privilege of rescinding such contract, which privilege is refused, such corporation is thereby estopped from afterward setting up a want of power in the directors to make the contract.[18]

3. Validate Acts of Corporations on Ground of Acquiescence by Shareholders. As more fully explained later[19] the same principle validates the voidable acts of corporations, on the theory of a ratification by the acquiescence of all the shareholders; so that after a long delay in which time other rights have supervened or expectations have been founded, upon the faith of an existing state of facts, the shareholders will be precluded from maintaining actions in equity to undo what has been done by the directors or officers without their authority.[20]

4. Prevent Corporation From Denying That Shares Had Been Fully Paid Up, Where Share Certificate Recites That They Have Been Fully Paid — a. In General. If a corporation issues and puts on the market shares which have not been fully paid up, but recites in the certificates that they have been fully paid up, the corporation, and its creditors through it, will be estopped from thereafter asserting, as against innocent purchasers of such shares, that they have not been paid for in full.[21]

b. Shareholders in Like Manner Estopped. Generally speaking when an act done by the directors is in excess of their authority, yet has been done with the bona fide intent of benefiting the corporation, and a shareholder knowing thereof does not dissent within a reasonable time, his assent to the act will be presumed and he will be estopped from gainsaying it.[22]

5. Prevent Corporation From Setting Up Want of Power in Its Officers to Make Contract. One of the most frequent applications of the principle of equitable estoppel against corporations is that which arises where the corporation, when rights are asserted against it by virtue of its own contract, sets up a want of power in its officers to make the contract.[23] One of the most frequent illustrafrom competing with the other, does not estop the latter to question the corporate existence of the former, such question not arising out of the contract, see Wilmington City R. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., (Del. Ch. 1900) 46 Atl. 12.

15. Empire Mfg. Co. v. Stuart, 46 Mich. 482, 9 N. W. 527.

16. See infra, XXI, G, 8, a et seq.

17. Empire Mfg. Co. v. Stuart, 46 Mich. 482, 9 N. W. 527.

18. St. Louis v. St. Louis Gaslight Co., 70 Mo. 69.

19. See infra, XV, C, 2, a et seq.

20. Green v. Abietine Medical Co., 96 Cal. 322, 31 Pac. 100; Browning v. Mullins, 13 S. W. 427, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 41; Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381, 16 L. ed. 488. See also supra, XI, B, 15, a et seq.

21. Walburn v. Chenault, 43 Kan. 352, 23 Pac. 657; St. Croix Lumber Co. v. Mittlestadt, 43 Minn. 91. Compare Sayre v. Citizens' Gas-Light, etc., Co., 69 Cal. 207, 7 Pac. 437, 10 Pac. 408. See also supra, VI, M, 3, a.

22. Goff v. Hawkeye Pump, etc., Co., 62 Iowa 691, 18 N. W. 307; Manhattan Hardware Co. v. Roland, 128 Pa. St. 119, 18 Atl. 429; Manhattan Hardware Co. v. Phalen, 128 Pa. St. 110, 18 Atl. 428; Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370.

23. The leading American case in illustration of this doctrine is Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381, 16 L. ed. 488.

The extent to which a corporation is estopped to set up the defense of ultra vires is reserved for future treatment in connection with the general doctrine of ultra vires. See infra, XVII, F, 2, b, (I) et seq.

tions of this principle is presented where a corporation allows an officer, habitually and in the face of the public, to perform for it and in its name certain acts, in which case it will be estopped, as against a member of the public who innocently parts with value on the faith of the officer having the righful power to do such an act, from denying that such is the fact.[24]

6. Prevent Corporation From Repudiating Acts of Its Officers or Agents Within Apparent Scope of Their Powers. The same principle prevents a corporation from repudiating the acts of its officers within the general scope of their powers, in the absence of fraud on the part of the person seeking to charge the corporation, or of collusion between him or his privies, and the officers of the corporation making the contract.[25]

7. Validate Acts of De Facto Officers. The principle of estoppel operates to validate the acts of de facto corporate officers, who might have been ousted from their offices under proper proceedings instituted for that purpose.[26]

8. Work Release of Shareholders Whose Rights Have Been Repudiated by Corporation. It has been held that after a banking association has repudiated for years all the arrangements made with one who subscribed for shares, and denied him the rights of a shareholder, the associates cannot be permitted to come in by their receiver, who represents them, and claim defendant as shareholder or partner. They are concluded by their acts.[27]

9. Prevent Corporation From Denying Integrity of Its Own Records as Against Innocent Third Persons. As against innocent third persons a corporation is bound as a guarantor of the integrity of its own records; and if its officers alter upon its record the language of a resolution adopted by its directors, whereby innocent third persons are induced to part with their money, the corporation will be estopped from proving against such third persons what the resolution really was.[28] But the corporation is not bound in such a case as to third persons who have not acted upon or seen or known of the existence of the fraudulent interpolation.[29]

10. Prevent It From Denying Validity of Provisions of Its Charter. The same principle estops a corporation from denying the validity of provisions in its charter which may operate unfavorably to it. It accepts its charter as a whole and takes the burden as well as the benefits. A corporation which proceeds to expropriate land under the powers conferred by its charter is estopped from challenging the constitutionality of a provision therein, relating to the mode of assessing the damages.[30] Nor can the corporation object to the onerous provision of the charter and claim that it shall be exscinded, however incongruous or absurd the result may be.[31]

11. Prevent It From Repudiating Unauthorized Contract, After Accepting Benefits Thereunder — a. In General. As will be more fully explained when treating of ratification by corporations,[32] if an officer of a corporation or other

24. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (I) et seq.

For illustration of the text see a case where the treasurer of a corporation habitually executed and indorsed promissory notes for it, and finally indorsed a note for the accommodation of a third party, on the faith of which plaintiff parted with value, relying upon the former acts of the treasurer for evidence of his authority, and it was held that the corporation was estopped to deny such authority. Allenton Second Nat. Bank v. Potter. etc., Mfg. Co., 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 216, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 644, 18 N. Y. St. 954.

25. Seeley v. San José Independent Mill, etc., Co., 59 Cal. 22. Circumstances under which a manufacturing corporation was estopped from disputing the agency of a person assuming to order goods for it see Electric Supply Co. v. Jersey City Electric Light Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 659, 4 N. Y. St. 516.

26. Lovett v. German Reformed Church, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 67. See also supra, IX, B, 1 et seq.

27. Burrows v. Smith, 10 N. Y. 550.

28. Holden v. Phelps, 141 Mass. 456, 5 N. E. 815; Com. v. Reading Sav. Bank, 137 Mass. 431; Holden v. Whiting, 29 Fed. 881; Whiting v. Wellington, 10 Fed. 810.

29. Holden v. Hoyt, 134 Mass. 181.

30. People v. Murray, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 468.

31. Darge v. Horican Iron Mfg. Co., 22 Wis. 417. For an analogy in the case of private persons see Burrows v. Bashford, 22 Wis. 103.

32. See infra, XV, C, 2, e.

person assuming to have power to bind the corporation by a given contract enters into the contract for the corporation, and the corporation receives the fruits of the contract and retains them after acquiring knowledge of the circumstances attending the making of the contract, it will thereby become estopped from afterward rescinding or undoing the contract.[33]

b. Prevent Corporation From Pleading Ultra Vires. Speaking generally, and voicing the weight of judicial authority, the corporation is in like manner estopped by retaining with knowledge the fruits of the contract from pleading ultra vires as a defense to an action thereon, that is, from setting up a defense to an action to compel the performance of the contract on its part that it was without power to enter into it.[34]

c. Prevent Corporation From Repudiating Engagements of Its Promoters. As already seen[35] the same principle — the fact of receiving and retaining the benefits of a contract with knowledge — prevents a corporation from repudiating the engagements of its promoters. Thus a manufacturing corporation is estopped from denying its liability for work done, under a contract made with its acting president, after the certificate of its incorporation has been signed by its members, but before it has been recorded as required by the governing statute, so as to constitute the coadventurers a de jure corporation.[36]

12. No Record of Corporate Assent Necessary. The mere suggestion that the estoppels under consideration belong to the class which are designated estoppels in pais, leads to the suggestion that it is quite immaterial to the operation of this rule of estoppel that any formal expression of assent to the unauthorized act is found in the records of the corporation.[37]

13. Operate in Various Other Ways. The principle of estoppel operates in various other ways, as indicated by the references in the margin.[38]

C. Waiver of Rights by Corporation. From the premise that a corporation may become estopped by the acts or omissions in pais of its officers and shareholders, the conclusion follows that it may waive its rights and may become estopped from denying that it has waived them. Perhaps the most frequent illustration of this is furnished by the class of decisions which hold insurance companies estopped from insisting upon conditions in their policies, where by a 33. Illinois.— Wetherbee v. Fitch, 117 Ill. 67, 7 N. E. 513.

Missouri.— Brown v. Wright, 25 Mo. App. 54.

Vermont.—Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

Wisconsin.— Kneeland v. Gilman, 24 Wis. 39.

United States.— New England Car-Spring Co. v. Union India Rubber Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,153, 4 Blatchf. 1.

34. Sherman Center Town Co. v. Morris, 43 Kan. 282, 23 Pac. 569, 19 Am. St. Rep. 134; Goldbeck v. Kensington Nat. Bank, 147 Pa. St. 267, 23 Atl. 565. See also infra, XV, C, 2, e.

That the knowledge of the body of shareholders is for the purposes of this principle the knowledge of the corporation see infra, XV, B, 7, a, (1).

35. See supra, I, Q, 4.

36. Baltimore Grape Sugar, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Small, 40 Md. 395.

37. Kneeland v. Gilman, 24 Wis. 39.

38. Estops a corporation holding shares of another corporation as pledgee and having consequently the power of control over it, from undoing the dishonest acts of its president whom it allows to remain in control. Des Moines Gas Co. v. West, 50 Iowa 16. Prevents a railroad company from asserting its exclusive franchise against another company which built its road while the former company stood by and looked on. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663; Erie R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 283. Prevents a canal company from diverting its water from a mill, to be there used in generating steam, after it has stood by and seen the diverting pipes laid. Rochdale Canal Co. v. King, 16 Beav. 630, 17 Jur. 1001, 22 L. J. Ch. 604. This case has often been cited as an example of an equitable estoppel against a corporation. See for instance Erie R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 283. Prevents a quo warranto proceeding against one whom the relator has induced to act as a corporate officer. Reg. v. Greene, 2 Q. B. 460, 2 G. & D. 24, 6 Jur. 777, 42 E. C. L. 760. Acceptance of tolls prevents a turnpike company from denying its obligation to keep its road in repair. Com. v. Worcester Turnpike Corp., 3 Pick. (Mass.) 327; Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 31 L. J. Q. B. 283, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 699, 10 Wkly. Rep. 741, 101 E. C. L. 916.

course of conduct they have lead the insured to believe that they have waived the same,[39] a subject which lies outside the scope of this article, the cases being cited merely to illustrate a general doctrine.

D. When Corporation Estopped by Acts of Its Officers in Procuring New Legislation. This subject, already considered,[40] which in the days of special charters and of special acts amending the same was fruitful of litigation has ceased to be important in view of the fact that corporations are now for the most part organized under general enabling acts, which provide for their amendment by voluntary corporate action.

XV. RATIFICATION BY CORPORATIONS.

A. Power to Ratify — 1. Corporation May Ratify Act Which It Might Have Done in First Instance — a. Rule Stated. A corporation, like a natural person, may ratify, affirm, and validate any contract made or act done in its behalf which it was capable of making or doing in the first instance.[41]

39. California.— Kruger v. Western F. & M. Ins. Co., 72 Cal. 91, 13 Pac. 156, 1 Am. St. Rep. 42.

Connecticut.— Sheldon v. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co., 25 Conn. 207, 65 Am. Dec. 565.

Iowa.— Viele v. Germania Ins. Co., 26 Iowa 9, 96 Am. Dec. 83.

Louisiana.— Pino v. Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 214, 92 Am. Dec. 529.

Massachusetts.— White v. Connecticut F. Ins. Co., 120 Mass. 330; Mulrey v. Shawmut Mut. F. Ins. Co., 4 Allen 116, 81 Am. Dec. 689.

New Hampshire.— Union Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Keyser, 32 N. H. 313, 64 Am. Dec. 375.

New York.— Richmond v. Niagara F. Ins. Co., 79 N. Y. 230; Goodwin v. Massachusetts Mut. L. Ins. Co., 73 N. Y. 480; Walsh v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 73 N. Y. 5; Van Schoick v. Niagara F. Ins. Co., 68 N. Y. 434; Merserau v. Phœnix Mut. L. Ins. Co., 66 N. Y. 274; Church v. La Fayette F. Ins. Co., 66 N. Y. 222; McNeilly v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 66 N. Y. 23; Bodine v. New York City Exch. F. Ins. Co., 51 N. Y. 117, 10 Am. Rep. 566; Boehen v. Williamsburgh City Ins. Co., 35 N. Y. 131, 90 Am. Dec. 787; Wood v. Poughkeepsie Mut. Ins. Co., 32 N. Y. 619; Sheldon v. Atlantic F. & M. Ins. Co., 26 N. Y. 460, 84 Am. Dec. 213; Carroll v. Charter Oak Ins. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. 316, 10 Abb. Pr. N. S. 166; Hotchkiss v. Germania F. Ins. Co., 5 Hun 90; Shear v. Phœnix Mut. L. Ins. Co., 4 Hun 800; Dean v. Ætna L. Ins. Co., 2 Hun 358, 4 Thomps. & C. 497; O'Reilly v. Guardian Mut. L. Ins. Co., 1 Hun 460, 3 Thomps. & C. 487; Whitwell v. Putnam F. Ins. Co., 6 Lans. 166; Dohn v. Farmers' Joint-Stock Ins. Co., 5 Lans. 275; Owen v. Farmers' Joint Stock Ins. Co., 57 Barb. 518; Post v. Ætna Ins. Co., 43 Barb. 351; Prall v. Mutual Protection L. Assur. Soc., 5 Daly 298.

Wisconsin.— Miner v. Phœnix Ins. Co., 27 Wis. 693, 9 Am. Rep. 479.

United States.— Brooklyn L. Ins. Co. v. Miller, 12 Wall. 285, 20 L. ed. 398; New England Car-Spring Co. v. Union Indian Rubber Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,153, 4 Blatchf. 1.

On this principle an insurance company is estopped from showing a breach of warranty by proof of errors material to the risk in the survey and application, when the survey and application have been made by the agent of the insurer with a full knowledge of the facts. Combs v. Hannibal Sav., etc., Ins. Co., 43 Mo. 148, 97 Am. Dec. 383; Rowley v. Empire Ins. Co., 36 N. Y. 550; Plumb v. Cattaraugus County Mut. Ins. Co., 18 N. Y. 392, 72 Am. Dec. 526. See also Franklin v. Atlantic F. Ins. Co., 42 Mo. 456; Horwitz v. Equitable Mut. Ins. Co., 40 Mo. 557, 93 Am. Dec. 321.

When waiver by local agent of foreign insurance company is binding on the company see Viele v. Germania Ins. Co., 26 Iowa 9, 96 Am. Dec. 83.

40. See supra, I, K, 6, a et seq.

41. Alabama.— Everett v. U. S., 6 Port. 166, 30 Am. Dec. 584.

Connecticut.— Chase's Appeal, 57 Conn. 236, 18 Atl. 96.

Mississippi.— Planters' Bank v. Sharp, 4 Sm. & M. 75, 43 Am. Dec. 470.

New Hampshire.— Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

New York.— Seymour v. Spring Forest Cemetery Assoc., 19 N. Y. Suppl. 94, 45 N. Y. St. 520.

North Carolina.— Taylor v. Albemarle Steam Nav. Co., 105 N. C. 484, 10 S. E. 897; Greenleaf v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 N. C. 33.

Utah.— North Point Consol. Irr. Co. v. Utah, etc., Canal Co., 16 Utah 246, 67 Am. St. Rep. 607, 52 Pac. 168, 40 L. R. A. 851.

Virginia.— West Salem Land Co. v. Montgomery Land Co., 89 Va. 192, 15 S. E. 524.

United States.— Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

England.— Church v. Imperial Gas Light, etc., Co., 6 A. & E. 846, 7 L. J. Q. B. 118, 3 N. & P. 35, 1 W. W. & H. 137, 33 E. C. L. 443; East London Water Works Co. v. Bailey, 4 Bing. 283, 5 L. J. C. P. O. S. 175, 12 Moore C. P. 533, 13 E. C. L. 505; Stafford v. Till, 4 Bing. 75, 12 Moore C. P. 260, 13 E. C. L. 407.

b. Corporation Cannot Ratify Contract Which It Had No Power to Make. On the other hand a corporation cannot ratify a contract which it could not have made in the first instance.[42] While the authorities are not in harmony with respect to this question, the general rule is believed to be that a corporate act or contract cannot be validated by ratification, either (1) where the act or contract was wholly in excess of the powers of the corporation, express or implied[43] or (2) where it was prohibited by positive law.[44]

c. Corporate Officers or Agents Cannot Ratify Contract Which They Had No Power to Make. If the officers of a corporation have no power to bind the corporation, by making or authorizing a particular contract, the corporation does not ratify the contract by the mere failure of the officers to repudiate a claim arising out of it and presented against the corporation.[45]

d. When De Facto Officers May Ratify. De facto directors may of course ratify the unauthorized act of ministerial officers of a corporation, so as to save the rights of innocent third persons.[46]

e. Power to Ratify Unauthorized Submission to Arbitration. If an agent of a corporation, without authority, submits to arbitration a disputed claim against the corporation, the corporation may ratify the act of the agent so as to make it binding, after the award is made, although the award is favorable to the corporation, and although the circumstances are such that it might have disaffirmed it.[47]

42. Thompson v. West, 59 Nebr. 677, 82 N. W. 13, 49 L. R. A. 337; Tullock v. Webster Co., 46 Nebr. 211, 64 N. W. 705; Gutta-Percha, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Ogalalla, 40 Nebr. 775, 59 N. W. 513, 42 Am. St. Rep. 696.

43. California.— McCracken v. San Francisco, 16 Cal. 591.

Michigan.— Taymouth Tp. v. Koehler, 35 Mich. 22; Hotchin v. Kent, 8 Mich. 526.

New Hampshire.— Downing v. Mt. Washington, etc., Co., 40 N. H. 230.

New York.— Smith v. Newburgh, 77 N. Y. 130 (municipal corporation); Brady v. New York, 20 N. Y. 312 (municipal corporation); A. C. Nellis Co. v. Nellis, 62 Hun 63, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 545, 41 N. Y. St. 599.

Vermont.— Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

United States.— Central Trans. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Lewis v. Shreveport, 108 U. S. 282, 2 S. Ct. 634, 27 L. ed. 728 (municipal corporation); Marsh v. Fulton County, 10 Wall. 676, 19 L. ed. 1040 (municipal corporation).

See also infra, XVII, F, 1, a.

44. Illustrations.— Thus where there is a statute (in this case N. C. Code, § 683) requiring that corporate contracts involving a liability exceeding one hundred dollars must be in writing and under the corporate seal or signed by some officer authorized thereto, a verbal contract within the statutory description is not validated by a subsequent ratification on the part of an officer who might have originally entered into it in writing. Curtis v. Piedmont Lumber, etc., Co., 109 N. C. 401, 13 S. E. 944. But see infra, XV, D, 3, b; and compare supra, XII, B, 2, a et seq. So where there is a statute (in this case N. Y. Laws (1848), c. 40, § 14) forbidding a loan to a shareholder of the funds of the corporation, such a loan made by the treasurer cannot be ratified by the trustees; and the fact that they foreclose and sell securities hypothecated as security for loans will not estop the company from treating the shareholder's acts as a conversion, and recovering any balance not realized on the sale of the securities. A. C. Nellis Co. v. Nellis, 62 Hun (N. Y.) 63, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 545, 41 N. Y. St. 599. The by-laws of a railway company authorized bondholders to vote at shareholders' meetings, and a provision of the bonds undertook to give the bondholders such a right. These provisions were void under the constitution and statute law of the state which required directors to be elected at annual meetings of the shareholders, by a majority in value of the stock, upon a cumulative system of voting and not otherwise. It was held that the illegal provision in the bonds could not be cured by a subsequent ratification by the corporation. Durkee v. People, 155 Ill. 354, 40 N. E. 626, 46 Am. St. Rep. 340 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 396].

45. Hotchin v. Kent, 8 Mich. 526; Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

So the members of an official board acting severally cannot ratify an unauthorized contract made by themselves, because they could not, so acting, have authorized it in the first instance. Taymouth v. Koehler, 35 Mich. 22. See also supra, IX, E, 1, a et seq.

46. Anglo-Californian Bank v. Mahoney Min. Co., 1 Fed. Cas. No. 392, 5 Sawy. 255.

47. Hall v. Norwalk F. Ins. Co., 57 Conn. 105, 17 Atl. 356. If the submission is invalid by reason of not having been made by the agent under seal, yet if the principal attends before the arbitrators and submits his case to them, this will estop him from im-

2. Ratification of Contracts Made by Promoters Prior to Organization of Corporation — a. In General. This subject has been considered in a former subdivision,[48] and we have had occasion to note a divergence of judicial opinion upon the question, some of the courts holding, on a principle of justice or species of estoppel, that a corporation is bound to pay the expenses incurred by its promoters in effecting its organization, on the theory of having received the benefit of those expenditures,[49] provided it was intended when the services were rendered that the future corporation should pay for them;[50] while other courts hold that the corporation is not so bound, unless it has affirmatively ratified and adopted the contract of the promoters,[51] or at least unless it has accepted the benefits accruing therefrom, having the power to reject them.[52] Where the latter view is taken the corporation may, after its organization, make such engagements its own contracts, by adopting them in the same manner as it might adopt original contracts made without its authority by persons assuming to act in its behalf.[53] In one theory this is not in strictness a ratification, such as relates back to the date of the making of the original contract by the promoters, but it is said to create a new contract from the date of the act of adoption;[54] but according to another theory the adoption of such a contract makes it in all respects what it would have been if the requisite power had existed when it was entered into.[55] It has been held that for the purposes of such a ratification formal action of its board of directors is necessary only where it would be necessary to a similar original contract.[56]

b. When Actions Maintainable Against Corporation on Contracts so Ratified. And it seems to be settled in some American jurisdictions that where the projectors of a corporation, prior to its coming into existence, enter into contracts in its behalf, and the corporation, after coming into existence, takes the benefit of such contracts without performing on its part what the projectors undertook that it should perform, an action will lie against it to compel such performance.[57] peaching the award on the ground of a want of original authority to make the submission. White v. Fox, 29 Conn. 570.

48. See supra, I, Q, 1 et seq. See also Dubuque Female College v. Dubuque Dist. Tp., 13 Iowa 555.

49. See supra, I, Q, 4. To this effect see Grand River Bridge Co. v. Rollins, 13 Colo. 4, 21 Pac. 897; Harrison v. Vermont Manganese Co., 1 Misc. (N. Y.) 402, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 894, 49 N. Y. St. 873; Grier v. Hazard, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 583, 38 N. Y. St. 462.

50. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Perry, 37 Ark. 164, 44 Ark. 383. That no recovery can be had from a corporation upon a contract made before its organization, by one claiming to act as its attorney, but not ratified by it after its organization upon full knowledge of the facts, see Oaks v. Cattaraugus Water Co., 21 N. Y. Suppl. 851, 50 N. Y. St. 922.

51. See supra, I, Q, 1.

52. Buffington v. Bardon, 80 Wis. 635, 50 N. W. 776.

53. Alabama.— Davis v. Montgomery Furnace, etc., Co., (1890) 8 So. 496.

Connecticut.— Stanton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 272, 22 Atl. 300, 21 Am. St. Rep. 110.

Minnesota.— McArthur v. Times Printing Co., 48 Minn. 319, 51 N. W. 216, 31 Am. St. Rep. 653; Battelle v. Northwestern Cement, etc., Pavement Co., 37 Minn. 89, 33 N. W. 327. Compare Porter v. Winona, etc., Grain Co., 78 Minn. 210, 80 N. W. 965.

Missouri.— Joy v. Manion, 28 Mo. App. 55.

New York.— It has been held that where a promoter of a corporation contracts for the employment of another by the prospective corporation, and is elected to the presidency of the new corporation on its creation, and such other enters on his duties under such agreement, without dissent by the president, such acquiescence constitutes a ratification by the corporation of the contract. Mesinger v. Mesinger Bicycle Saddle Co., 44 N. Y. App. Div. 26, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 431.

Tennessee.— Pittsburgh, etc., Copper Min. Co. v. Quintrell, 91 Tenn. 693, 20 S. W. 248.

England.— Compare North Sydney Invest. Co. v. Higgins, [1899] A. C. 263, 68 L. J. P. C. 42, 47 Wkly. Rep. 481, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 303, 6 Manson 321; In re Johannesburg Hotel Co., [1891] 1 Ch. 119, 60 L. J. Ch. 391, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 61, 2 Meg. 409, 39 Wkly. Rep. 260.

54. McArthur v. Times Printing Co., 48 Minn. 319, 51 N. W. 216, 31 Am. St. Rep. 653.

55. Stanton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 272, 22 Atl. 300, 21 Am. St. Rep. 110.

56. Battelle v. Northwestern Cement, etc., Pavement Co., 37 Minn. 89, 33 N. W. 327.

57. Recognized in Bell's Gap R. Co. v. Christy, 79 Pa. St. 54, 21 Am. Rep. 39. So held in Paxton Cattle Co. v. Arapahoe First Nat. Bank, 21 Nebr. 621, 33 N. W. 271, 59 Am. Rep. 852; Low v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 45 N. H. 370. But it has been held that the fact that at a meeting of the directors of a corporation the president called their at-

c. Evidence of Ratification of Contracts of Promoters. As to what will be evidence of a ratification of the precedent contracts of its promoters in its behalf, the cases seem to present no special distinctions from other cases of ratification.[58]

3. Ratification of Contracts Made With Predecessor Corporation. Where a railroad corporation is sold out under a mortgage, and a new corporation is organized to purchase and control it, it is the frequent practice for the new corporation to adopt and carry out the unexecuted contracts of its predecessor, although it is not of course bound in law so to do.[59]

4. Adoption by Corporation of Contracts Made by Precedent Partnership. Such an adoption, it has been held, must be evidenced by a writing, since it is a promise to pay the debt of another, and hence within the statute of frauds.[60]

5. Ratification Must Be in Whole and Not in Part. It is a general principle which applies without regard to the mode of ratification that a voidable engagement cannot be ratified in part so far as it is beneficial to the corporation, and repudiated so far as it is deleterious.[61]

B. Body That Can Ratify — 1. Any Body or Agency That Could Have Acted in First Instance. Speaking generally it may be said that a ratification may be made, whether by formal action or by passive acquiescence, by any corporate agency or body that might have authorized the act in the first instance.

2. Ratification by Managing Agent. An unauthorized contract of a corporation, made within its general powers by a subordinate agent, may be ratified by the managing agent.[62]

3. Ratification by Vice-President. If the president makes a contract without authority, and the vice-president has authority in the premises, he may ratify the unauthorized contract made by the president.[63]

4. Ratification by Railway Superintendent. If a railway station agent, without express authority, engages a surgeon to attend an employee for an injury sustained in the service of the company,[64] and the superintendent of the company knows of the engagement and does not object to it, but tells the surgeon that he will be paid, this will warrant a finding that the company has ratified the employment.[65]

5. Ratification by Attorney. A corporation may by its attorney, in an action against it upon a bond, ratify the execution of the bond by its officers, and no formal vote of ratification is necessary.[66]

6. Ratification by Board of Directors or Trustees — a. In General. The directors or trustees of a business corporation wield its entire power in mere tention to a claim for services rendered in securing subscriptions to the capital stock, and that the members of the board assented to the validity of the claim, and did not object to it, did not constitute a ratification of a promise by a single promoter to pay for such services. Tift v. Quaker City Nat. Bank, 141 Pa. St. 550, 21 Atl. 660.

58. For an example see Bommer v. American Spiral Spring Butt Hinge Mfg. Co., 81 N. Y. 468.

Evidence which was held to show an adoption by a corporation of a contract under which services were rendered, prior to its organization, on the works afterward acquired by it, see Frankfort, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Churchill, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 427, 17 Am. Dec. 159 (ratification of promises made to subscribers to capital stock as to location of road); Pittsburgh, etc., Copper Min. Co. v. Quintrell, 91 Tenn. 693, 20 S. W. 248.

59. Upon the question what will be evidence of such a ratification sufficient to take the issue to a jury see Walker v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 80, 1 S. E. 366. What facts amounted to a ratification by a land company of a scheme devised by its shareholders as members of a precedent company to enable such company to deal in lands. Hull v. Glover, 126 Ill. 122, 18 N. E. 198.

60. Georgia Co. v. Castleberry, 43 Ga. 187. Somewhat to the same effect see Dingeldein v. Third Ave. R. Co., 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 79.

61. See for example Wayne International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Moats, 149 Ind. 123, 48 N. E. 793. See also infra, XV, C, 2, e.

62. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Belgart, 84 Ala. 519, 4 So. 400.

63. Smith v. Martin Anti-Fire Car Heater Co., 19 N. Y. Suppl. 285, 47 N. Y. St. 26.

64. As to which see supra, X, C, 6, a et seq.

65. Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Mahoney, 82 Ill. 73, 25 Am. Rep. 299. See further Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Prince, 50 Ill. 26; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Rodrigues, 47 Ill. 188, 95 Am. Dec. 484.

66. Simmons v. Shaw, 172 Mass. 516, 52 N. E. 1087.

matters of business. They may hence, when sitting together as a board,[67] by a solemn act, such as a resolution or a vote passed and entered upon their records, ratify any contract which they had power to make.[68]

b. Of Contract Made by President. Where the president of a corporation executes in its behalf, and within the scope of its charter, a contract which requires the concurrence of the board of directors, and the board, knowing that he has done so, does not dissent within a reasonable time, it will be presumed to have ratified the act.[69]

c. When Outside State. If the act is not a constituent act, but is a mere business act, with respect to which the directors act as agents of the corporation, the act of ratification may be done outside the state, as in the case of ratifying a mortgage on corporate property.[70]

d. May Ratify Any Act Which They Could Have Done Originally. The directors may of course ratify any act which they might have done originally.[71]

e. Must Take Place on Full Knowledge. A ratification by the board of directors must take place with full knowledge on the part of the board; knowledge on the part of the officers who are concerned in the transaction, although members of the board, or on the part of single directors, not communicated to the board, will not, on grounds elsewhere considered, be such a knowledge as will make it a good ratification.[72]

f. What Corporate Body Cannot Ratify. A meeting of directors, held without notice to one of them, at which meeting a quorum of qualified directors was not present, cannot ratify the unauthorized act of one of the officers of the corporation, such as a general assignment of the assets made by the vice-president and acting manager, without knowledge of, or authority from, the board.[73]

7. Ratification by Shareholders — a. Informal or Unauthorized Acts May Be Cured by Such Ratification — (I) In General. Informal or irregular action of the board of directors or of the agents of a corporation, which was within the corporate power, may be cured by the ratification of the shareholders.[74]

(II) What Acts May Be so Ratified — (A) In General. Speaking generally the shareholders can ratify any act of any other body or agency of the corporation which the shareholders might have authorized in the first instance.

(B) Constituent Acts. They may therefore ratify constituent acts done by the directors outside the scope of their powers, by which is meant acts which

67. But not when acting severally, as where it is attempted to ratify in this way an assignment for creditors, void, because executed without authority by a minority of the directors. Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show Printing Co., 144 Mo. 331, 45 S. W. 1145. It is scarcely necessary to add that a ratification cannot be effected by the action of a minority of the board, for example two of them when not sitting as a board. East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 Ohio Cir. Ct. 205, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 493.

68. Porter v. Lassen County Land, etc., Co., 127 Cal. 261, 59 Pac. 563 (mortgage made by the board without a statutory quorum may be subsequently ratified by the full board); Sells v. Rosedale Grocery, etc., Co., 72 Miss. 590, 17 So. 236 (ratification by board of a conveyance not executed by proper officers); New York Security, etc., Co. v. Saratoga Gas, etc., Co., 88 Hun (N. Y.) 569, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 890, 69 N. Y. St. 54 (ratification by resolution of act of secretary).

69. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Indianapolis Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 120 U. S. 256, 7 S. Ct. 542, 30 L. ed. 639. Similarly see Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 137 U. S. 98, 11 S. Ct. 36, 34 L. ed. 608.

70. Reichwald v. Commercial Hotel Co., 106 Ill. 439.

71. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tiernan, 37 Kan. 606, 607, 15 Pac. 544, carry out a common agreement to pay salaries to officers. See also supra, XV, A, 1, a.

As to the ratification by directors of void contracts for services see Schurr v. New York, etc., Invest. Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 454, 45 N. Y. St. 645.

72. Pacific Rolling Mill v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. 852, 7 Sawy. 61.

73. Cupit v. Park City Bank, 20 Utah 292, 58 Pac. 839.

74. Morisette v. Howard, 62 Kan. 463, 63 Pac. 756. See also St. Croix Lumber Co. v. Mittlestadt, 43 Minn. 91, 44 N. W. 1079.

change or otherwise affect the fundamental basis of the organization of the corporation itself, and which do not pertain to its ordinary business.[75]

(c) Acts Done by Board of Directors Not Lawfully Constituted. The shareholders may also ratify and cure acts done by their board of directors not properly constituted, as where the board consists of less[76] or more[77] than the statutory or charter number.

(d) Acts Done by Officers Who Are Such De Facto but Not De Jure. The principle which upholds the acts of de facto officers of corporations so as to save the rights of the innocent public rests largely upon the theory of a ratification of the fact of their holding the offices into which they have intruded, made by the acquiescence of the elective body, that is to say the body which might have elected them in the first instance, the shareholders.[78]

(e) Irregular or Unauthorized Transfers, Assignments, or Encumbrances of Corporate Property. The most usual case in which the assent and acquiescence of the shareholders have been held to amount to a ratification of an act done by the directors or by inferior agents has been the case where the property of the corporation has been transferred, assigned, or encumbered.[79]

(f) Contracts Between Corporation and Its Directors, Which Corporation Is Entitled to Avoid—(1) In General. Contracts between the corporation and its own directors which under a principle already considered[80] the corporation is entitled to avoid may be ratified; and this does not necessarily require any independent and substantive act of ratification, but the contract may become finally established as a valid contract by the acquiescence of the other directors and the body of the shareholders, and the right to avoid it may be thereby waived.[81]

(2) Ratification by Shareholders Who Are Interested in Contract. Where a proposition comes before a meeting of the shareholders to ratify a purchase of property from themselves, which they as directors have assumed to make, the shareholders will not be disqualified from voting upon it, from the fact that they may have a personal interest in the matter apart from their interest as members of the corporation;[82] although, if they vote for the purpose of subserving their own separate interests to the prejudice of a minority of the shareholders, the latter may have redress in equity, under principles already considered.[83]

b. Ratification by Formal Action at Shareholders' Meetings. Ratifications frequently take place by formal action at shareholders' meetings.[84]

c. Ratification by Express Assent, Although Not Formally Evidenced. It has been held that a ratification by a corporation of an unauthorized act of its officers

75. See supra, I, J, 7, b; I, K, 6, a; IX, C, 7.

76. Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 44 Hun (N. Y.) 130 [affirmed in 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318].

77. Hax v. R. T. Davis Mill Co., 39 Mo. App. 453.

78. Hax v. R. T. Davis Mill Co., 39 Mo. App. 453.

79. Stokes v. Detrick, 75 Md. 256, 23 Atl. 846 (order of directors selling and conveying all the property of the corporation); The Lyceum v. Ellis, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 867, 30 N. Y. St. 242; Ft. Worth Pub. Co. v. Hitson, 80 Tex. 216, 14 S. W. 843, 16 S. W. 551 (transfer and delivery of personal property by the manager); Wood v. Corry Water Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168 (ratification of a mortgage executed without the constitutional notice to the shareholders, all of the shareholders assembling and voting for it). See also Hull v. Glover, 126 Ill. 122, 18 N. E. 198; Wells v. Gates, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 554.

80. See supra, IX, I, 1 et seq.

81. Kelley v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 496, 6 N. E. 745; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Credit Mobilier, 135 Mass. 367; Welch v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 122 N. Y. 177, 25 N. E. 269, 33 N. Y. St. 452; Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 103; Ashhurst's Appeal, 60 Pa. St. 290; Omaha Hotel Co. v. Wade, 97 U. S. 13, 24 L. ed. 917; West Virginia Twin-Lick Oil Co. v. Marbury, 91 U. S. 587, 23 L. ed. 328.

82. Bjorngaard v. Goodhue County Bank, 49 Minn. 483, 52 N. W. 48. See also 4 Thompson Corp. § 4461.

83. See supra, XI, B, 1, a et seq.

84. Bassett v. Fairchild, 132 Cal. 637, 64 Pac. 1082, 61 Pac. 791, immaterial that one shareholder was interested, if a majority of in executing a deed of trust of its property, for the benefit of its creditors, may be ratified by the express sanction of all the shareholders and directors, although no formal resolution to that effect is passed.[85]

d. Ratification by Execution of Instrument of Ratification by All Shareholders. An auction sale of property of a corporation has been held to be validated by a ratification made in this mode.[86]

e. Ratification by Acquiescence, Laches, or Supineness of Shareholders. The most usual form in which ratifications by shareholders take place is presented where they lie by and fail to take action to undo the unauthorized or unlawful act until it is too late to put the other party to the transaction in statu quo, and especially where the corporation has received and retains the benefit of the transaction.[87] And even where the act complained of is ultra vires the company, the shareholders collectively, or a minority of them, may lose by their supineness the right to have the aid of a court of equity in undoing the act, under the operation of the equitable doctrine of laches.[88] Where a voidable act may be ratified by the shareholders, by taking a course of conduct with reference to it, upon full knowledge of the facts, it is immaterial that they proceed in ignorance of the legal effect of such facts.[89]

f. Corporate Action Taken With Proviso That It Be Ratified by Shareholders. It sometimes happens that power is conferred by the directors of a corporation upon a committee of their own number to do a certain act, for example to make a sale of certain of its assets, but subject to a ratification by the shareholders. Here, the agency being special, the other party to the transaction must take notice of the extent of it at his peril, especially where he knows that it is based upon an authorization which is in writing. Here, unless there is a ratification by the shareholders, the transaction will not, in the absence of circumstances of estoppel, be binding on the corporation, and this, although the option in pursuance of which the sale took place said nothing about the necessity of such a ratification.[90]

g. When Need Not Be By Unanimous Consent of Shareholders. A ratification by shareholders does not require their unanimous consent where the act might have been authorized by a majority of them in the first instance, for example a transaction between the corporation on the one hand and certain promoters and directors on the other hand, whereby the latter gain a personal benefit.[91]

h. Effect of Ratification by Shareholders. The effect of a ratification by the shareholders is substantially the same as the effect of any other ratification. It cures the want of precedent authority and is tantamount to a precedent authorization.[92]

C. Manner of Ratifying and Evidence of Ratification — 1. Written Instruments — Doctrine That Written Instrument Defectively Executed Can Be Ratified Only by Instrument of Equal Dignity. This doctrine, laid down by Story[93] and followed by Freeman,[94] that a written instrument defectively executed can be ratified only by an instrument of equal dignity, applies to corporations in so far as it applies to natural persons. It does not mean that a writing defectively executed must be ratified by a writing well executed or not at all; or that a contract required to be under seal must be ratified by a sealed instrument or not at all; it disinterested shareholders voted for the resolution of ratification.

85. Miller v. Matthews, 87 Md. 464, 40 Atl. 176.

86. Robinson Mineral Spring Co. v. De Bautte, 50 La. Ann. 1281, 23 So. 865.

87. This species of ratification is reserved for separate treatment. See infra, XV, C, 2, e.

88. Burgess v. St. Louis County R. Co., 99 Mo. 496, 12 S. W. 1050.

89. Kelley v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 496, 6 N. E. 745. That a corporation may be estopped by the consent of its sole shareholder see Parsons v. Hayes, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 419.

90. Kelsey v. New England St. R. Co., 60 N. J. Eq. 230, 46 Atl. 1059.

91. Urner v. Sollenberger, 89 Md. 316, 43 Atl. 810.

92. Miller v. Matthews, 87 Md. 464, 40 Atl. 176.

93. Story Agency, §§ 49, 242.

94. 27 Am. Dec. 344.

does not exclude ratifications of engagements which have been thus entered into, by acts or neglects in pais, such as acquiescence or accepting the benefits with knowledge.[95] But it means that whenever it is attempted to ratify an obligation entered into by a corporation by an instrument defectively executed, the ratifying instrument must be one of equal dignity. Thus if it is attempted to ratify an obligation entered into by an instrument necessarily under seal, defective because the corporate seal was omitted, the ratifying instrument must be under seal.[96]

2. Ratification by Acts and Neglects In Pais — a. By Acquiescence After Knowledge. Acquiescence for a considerable time by a corporation, through its efficient agencies and the body of its shareholders, in a state of facts, after knowledge or after such a length of time and such a condition of circumstances that knowledge is to be inferred, will operate as a ratification[97] in pursuance of the well-settled principle in the law of agency that a principal may ratify the unauthorized act of his agent by acquiescence or even by silence, after being fully informed of the facts and circumstances attending the unauthorized act.[98] This

95. For instance where an appeal-bond, given in a judicial proceeding, was defectively executed by the corporation appellant, by reason of the failure to affix its seal, and yet the corporation through its counsel prosecuted the appeal for two years, this was held a ratification of the defective execution of the bond. Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187. It should not escape attention that the court reasoned that a precedent resolution of the directors would dispense with the necessity of affixing the seal, and that a subsequent ratification would have the same effect.

96. Briggs v. Partridge, 64 N. Y. 357, 21 Am. Rep. 617; Worrall v. Munn, 5 N. Y. 229, 55 Am. Dec. 330; Lawrence v. Taylor, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 107; Evans v. Wells, 22 Wend. (N. Y.) 324; Hanford v. McNair, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 54.

97. Iowa.— Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239.

Kansas.— Sherman Center Town Co. v. Swigart, 43 Kan. 292, 23 Pac. 569, 19 Am. St. Rep. 137.

Maine.— Perkins v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 47 Me. 573, 74 Am. Dec. 507.

Missouri.— Kitchen v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. 224; Tyrell v. Cairo, etc., R. Co., 7 Mo. App. 294.

Nebraska.— Hastings German Nat. Bank v. Hastings First Nat. Bank, 59 Nebr. 7, 80 N. W. 48.

New York.— Holmes v. Willard, 125 N. Y. 75, 25 N. E. 1083, 34 N. Y. St. 455, 11 L. R. A. 170.

Pennsylvania.— Moller v. Keystone Fibre Co., 187 Pa. St. 553, 41 Atl. 478; Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370.

England.— Evans v. Smallcombe, L. R. 3 H. L. 249, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 207; Gregory v. Patchett, 33 Beav. 595.

What amounts to an acquiescence on the part of the directors of an insurance company in the pledge of the stock of the company to secure a promissory note, such as will amount to a ratification. Bezou v. Pike, 23 La. Ann. 788. Passive acquiescence of corporate trustees in a declaration or statement, how far binding on corporation. Williams v. Christian Female College, 29 Mo. 250, 77 Am. Dec. 569. The act of the trustees of a Masonic lodge in indorsing a note payable to its order is ratified by the failure of the lodge, after learning of the transaction, to repudiate their act, tender back the consideration, and demand the return of the note. Mayer v. Old, 57 Mo. App. 639. The rule of the text applies to shareholders as well as to corporations; so that one who purchases shares in a corporation after a mismanagement of its affairs by its officers has been long known and has been acquiesced by it cannot complain of such mismanagement. Erny v. G. W. Schmidt Co., 197 Pa. St. 475, 47 Atl. 877.

98. Alabama.— Lee v. Fontaine, 10 Ala. 755, 44 Am. Dec. 505.

Georgia.— Owsley v. Woolhopter, 14 Ga. 124.

Illinois.— Louisville R. Co. v. Carson, 151 Ill. 444, 38 N. E. 140.

Indiana.— Haggerty v. Juday, 58 Ind. 154.

Kansas.—Lewis v. Bourbon County Com'rs, 12 Kan. 186.

Louisiana.— Pitts v. Shubert, 11 La. 286, 30 Am. Dec. 718; Guimbillot v. Abat, 6 Rob. 284; Lartigue v. Peet, 5 Rob. 91; Bonneau v. Poydras, 2 Rob. 1.

Maryland.— Maddux v. Bevan, 39 Md. 485.

Massachusetts.— Amory v. Hamilton, 17 Mass. 103.

New York.— Hazard v. Spears, 2 Abb. Dec. 353, 4 Keyes 469.

Pennsylvania.— Hall v. Vanness, 49 Pa. St. 457; Loudon Sav. Fund Soc. v. Hagerstown Sav. Bank, 36 Pa. St. 498, 78 Am. Dec. 390; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Cowell, 28 Pa. St. 329, 70 Am. Dec. 128; Massey v. Insurance Co., 3 Phila. 200, 15 Leg. Int. 317.

Texas.— Reese v. Medlock, 27 Tex. 120, 84 Am. Dec. 611.

West Virginia.— Curry v. Hale, 15 W. Va. 867.

United States.— Courcier v. Ritter, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,282, 4 Wash. 549.

rule applies where the principal is a corporation, provided the unauthorized act of the agent is within the powers of the corporation.[99]

b. By Failing to Disavow Promptly After Knowledge. An intensified expression of the doctrine of the preceding paragraph is to say that where an agent has done an act not authorized by his principal, if the principal would disaffirm he must act at once upon obtaining knowledge of the unauthorized act.[1]

c. By Failing to Dissent Within Reasonable Time — (I) In General. The meaning of the preceding paragraph is that the corporation must dissent with reasonable promptness, or within a reasonable time, or as soon as it may be reasonably done after acquiring knowledge of the unauthorized act.[2]

(II) Whether Reasonableness of Time Is Question of Fact or Law. What will be a reasonable time within the meaning of this rule will be generally

99. Kentucky.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Woolley, 12 Bush 451, unauthorized employment of an attorney ratified by the continued silence of a single director to whom notice of the fact had been communicated.

Missouri.— Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187; Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290 (failing to dissent for more than six years).

New Hampshire.— Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

New York.— Sheldon Hat Blocking Mach. Co. v. Eickemeyer Hat Blocking Mach. Co., 90 N. Y. 607, 64 How. Pr. 467; Story v. Furman, 25 N. Y. 214; Hoyt v. Thompson, 19 N. Y. 207; Cunningham v. Massena Springs, etc., R. Co., 63 Hun 439, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 600, 44 N. Y. St. 723; Lee v. Pittsburgh Coal, etc., Co., 56 How. Pr. 373.

Pennsylvania.— Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

United States.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157 (unauthorized contract of president ratified by failing to dissent within a reasonable time); Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Kittel, 52 Fed. 63, 2 C. C. A. 615.

1. Illinois.— McGeoch v. Hooker, 11 Ill. App. 649; Meister v. Cleveland Dryer Co., 11 Ill. App. 227 (and cases cited); Johnston v. Berry, 3 Ill. App. 256 (and cases cited).

Louisiana.— Kehlor v. Wemble, 26 La. Ann. 713; Pitts v. Shubert, 11 La. 286, 30 Am. Dec. 718 (citing civil-law authorities).

Massachusetts.— Foster v. Rockwell, 104 Mass. 167.

Mississippi.— Crane v. Bedwell, 25 Miss. 507.

Missouri.— Springfield First Nat. Bank v. Fricke, 75 Mo. 178, 42 Am. Rep. 397; Christian v. Jordan, 29 Mo. 68.

New York.— Story v. Furman, 25 N. Y. 214.

Pennsylvania.— Kelsey v. Crawford County Nat. Bank, 69 Pa. St. 426; Pennsylvania Bank v. Reed, 1 Watts & S. 101; Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75; Bredin v. Dubarry, 14 Serg. & R. 27.

Tennessee.— Hart v. Dixon, 5 Lea 336; Fort v. Coker, 11 Heisk. 579; Williams v. Storm, 6 Coldw. 203.

United States.— Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Kittel, 52 Fed. 63, 2 C. C. A. 615, unauthorized mortgage executed by president ratified by failing to disavow promptly, where there were other circumstances of laches.

2. Alabama.— Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Jay, 65 Ala. 113.

Illinois.— Williams v. Merritt, 23 Ill. 623; Follansbe v. Kilbreth, 17 Ill. 522, 65 Am. Dec. 691; McGeoch v. Hooker, 11 Ill. App. 649; McDermid v. Cotton, 2 Ill. App. 297. And see Miller v. Excelsior Stone Co., 1 Ill. App. 273.

Louisiana.— Raymond v. Palmer, 41 La. Ann. 425, 6 So. 692, 17 Am. St. Rep. 398, unauthorized act of president ratified by the failure of the directors to dissent for two months.

Massachusetts.— Brigham v. Peters, 1 Gray 139; Pratt v. Putnam, 13 Mass. 361.

Mississippi.— Meyer v. Morgan, 51 Miss. 21, 24 Am. Rep. 617.

New Hampshire.— Wright v. Boynton, 37 N. H. 9, 72 Am. Dec. 319.

New York.—Vianna v. Barclay, 3 Cow. 281; Cairnes v. Bleecker, 12 Johns. 300.

Tennessee.—Walker v. Walker, 7 Baxt. 260.

Wisconsin.— Saveland v. Green, 40 Wis. 431.

United States.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Indianapolis Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 120 U. S. 256, 7 S. Ct. 542, 30 L. ed. 639; Colorado Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 96 U. S. 640, 24 L. ed. 648; West Virginia Twin-Lick Oil Co. v. Marbury, 91 U. S. 587, 23 L. ed. 328; Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Harwood v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 17 Wall. 78, 21 L. ed. 588; Badger v. Badger, 2 Wall. 87, 17 L. ed. 836; Law v. Cross, 1 Black 533, 17 L. ed. 185; Abbe v. Rood, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 6, 6 McLean 106; Norris v. Cook, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,305, 1 Curt. 464.

England.— Prince v. Clark, 1 B. & C. 186, 2 D. & R. 266, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 69, 25 Rev. Rep. 352; Wentworth v. Lloyd, 32 Beav. 467; Vigers v. Pike, 8 Cl. & F. 562, 8 Eng. Reprint 220.

What delay has been held unreasonable under particular circumstances. Mallory v. Mallory Wheeler Co., 61 Conn. 131, 23 Atl. 708 (seven months); Silsby v. Strong, 38 Oreg. 36, 62 Pac. 633 (trustees took possession of the property and held it for over thirteen months without any expression of dissent); Indianapolis Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 120 U. S. 256, 7 S. Ct. 542, 30 L. ed. 639 (six months).

a question of fact for a jury in a case at law, or for the chancellor in a case in equity, to be determined in view of all the circumstances of the case.[3] But in many cases where the facts are established or undisputed the act of ratification may appear to be of such an unequivocal character that the question may be decided as a mere question of law, as where the principal accepts the fruits of the misconduct of the agent with full knowledge,[4] under a principle hereafter stated.[5] But where the facts on which the conclusion of law depends are equivocal or doubtful, they must of course be decided by a jury in a case at law.[6]

d. Doctrine That Silence After Knowledge Is Merely Presumptive Evidence of Ratification. There is a middle doctrine that silence after knowledge is not per se ratification, but is merely presumptive evidence of a ratification.[7]

e. Ratification by Receiving and Retaining Benefit of Voidable Transaction After Knowledge. A leading principle in the law relating to this subject is that where a contract is made by one assuming to act in behalf of a corporation, and for a purpose authorized by its charter, and the corporation, after knowledge of the facts attending the transaction is brought home to its proper officers, receives and retains the benefit of it without objection, it thereby ratifies the unauthorized act and estops itself from repudiating it. The reason is that it must exercise its option of affirming or disaffirming in whole and not in part; that it cannot disaffirm so much of the unauthorized act as is onerous, while retaining so much of it as is beneficial; that it cannot keep the advantage, while repudiating the burden; that it cannot disaffirm the contract, while keeping the consideration.[8]

3. Fisher v. Stevens, 16 Ill. 397; McDermid v. Cotton, 2 Ill. App. 297; Middleton v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 62 Mo. 579; Iron Mountain Bank v. Murdock, 62 Mo. 70. Compare German Bank v. Dunn, 62 Mo. 79; Commercial, etc., Bank v. Jones, 18 Tex. 811.

4. Bryant v. Moore, 26 Me. 84, 45 Am. Dec. 96; Crooker v. Appleton, 25 Me. 131.

5. See infra, XV, C, 2, e.

6. Pennsylvania, etc., Steam Nav. R. Co. v. Dandridge, 8 Gill & J. (Md.) 248, 29 Am. Dec. 543; Hortons v. Townes, 6 Leigh (Va.) 47.

7. Delafield v. State, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 159, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 192.

8. California.— Foulke v. San Diego, etc., R. Co., 51 Cal. 365; Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623; Roseborough v. Shasta River Canal Co., 22 Cal. 556; Allen v. Citizens' Steam Nav. Co., 22 Cal. 28; Fraylor v. Sonora Min. Co., 17 Cal. 594; Argenti v. San Francisco, 16 Cal. 255; San Francisco Gas Co. v. San Francisco, 9 Cal. 453.

Connecticut.— Union Hardware Co. v. Plume, etc., Mfg. Co., 58 Conn. 219, 20 Atl. 455.

Georgia.— Merchants' Bank v. Central Bank, 1 Ga. 418, 44 Am. Dec. 665.

Illinois.— West Side Auction House Co. v. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co., 76 Ill. App. 635.

Iowa.— Merchants' Union Barb Wire Co. v. Rice, 70 Iowa 14, 29 N. W. 784; Humphrey v. Patrons' Mercantile Assoc., 50 Iowa 607.

Kentucky.— Frankfort, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Churchill, 6 T. B. Mon. 427, 17 Am. Dec. 159.

Massachusetts.— Episcopal Charitable Soc. v. Dedham Episcopal Church, 1 Pick. 372.

Mississippi.— Planters' Bank v. Sharp, 4 Sm. & M. 75, 43 Am. Dec. 470.

Missouri.—Trenton First Nat. Bank v. Badger Lumber Co., 60 Mo. App. 255; Brown v. Wright, 25 Mo. App. 54. The case of Vogel v. St. Louis Museum, etc., Gallery, 8 Mo. App. 587, of which an abstract only is given in the official report, seems to proceed in violation of the principle stated in the foregoing paragraph.

Nebraska.— Alexander v. Culberston Irr., etc., Co., 61 Nebr. 333, 85 N. W. 283 (error to withdraw evidence of such a ratification from the jury); Stough v. Ponca Mill Co., 54 Nebr. 500, 74 N. W. 868.

New Hampshire.—Low v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 45 N. H. 370; Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

New Jersey.— Pomeroy v. New York Smelting, etc., Co., (Ch. 1901) 48 Atl. 395; Blake v. Domestic Mfg. Co., (Ch. 1897) 38 Atl. 241.

New York.— Jourdan v. Long Island R. Co., 115 N. Y. 380, 22 N. E. 153, 26 N. Y. St. 138; Fister v. La Rue, 15 Barb. 323; Simis v. Davidson, 54 N. Y. Super. Ct. 235; Smith v. Martin Anti-Fire Car Heater, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 285, 45 N. Y. St. 26; Schurr v. New York, etc., Co., 16 N. Y. Suppl. 210, 41 N. Y. St. 90; Moss v. Rossie Lead Min. Co., 5 Hill 137; Utica Ins. Co. v. Bloodgood, 4 Wend. 652; Utica Ins. Co. v. Kip, 8 Cow. 20; Randall v. Van Vechten, 19 Johns. 60, 10 Am. Dec. 193.

Ohio.— Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 Ohio St. 336.

Pennsylvania.— Hughes v. Waynesburg First Nat. Bank, 110 Pa. St. 428, 1 Atl. 417; Goldbeck v. Kensington Nat. Bank, 48 Leg. Int. 76 [affirmed in 147 Pa. St. 267, 23 Atl. 565].

South Dakota.— Dedrick v. Ormsby Land, etc., Co., 12 S. D. 59, 80 N. W. 153, applica-

f. Ratification Can Take Place Only With Full Knowledge — (I) In General. The general rule in respect of the ratification or confirmation of voidable acts is that a ratification or confirmation by the party having the power to disaffirm, in order to bind him, must take place with full knowledge of the circumstances.[9] If therefore he assent while in ignorance of the attending facts he may disaffirm when informed of such facts.[10]

(II) This Means Knowledge of Facts, Not of Law. Hence if the body capable of disaffirming acquiesces after full knowledge of the material facts, its ratification will bind the corporation, although it may have proceeded in ignorance of the legal effect of such facts.[11]

(III) Knowledge of Board of Directors When Necessary — (A) In General. Where it would be necessary to have the concurrent official action of the board of directors in order to a precedent authority to do the particular act, that knowledge which is essential to a ratification must obviously be the knowledge of the board of directors.[12]

(B) How Far Knowledge of Directors Presumed — (1) In General. For the purpose of conserving the rights of innocent third parties, the knowledge of the directors of those affairs of the corporation, which, in the proper exercise of their official functions it is their duty to know, is often conclusively presumed,[13] tion of a statute in affirmation of the common-law rule.

Texas.— Texas Western R. Co. v. Gentry, 69 Tex. 625, 8 S. W. 98.

Virginia.— Owens v. Boyd Land Co., 95 Va. 560, 28 S. E. 950, corporation which accepts part of the contract price of its capital stock which the subscriber is induced to take on false representations made without authority by an agent of the corporation cannot repudiate the agency.

Wisconsin.— Moody, etc., Co. v. Port Washington M. E. Church, 99 Wis. 49, 74 N. W. 572; Witter v. Grand Rapids Flouring Mill Co., 78 Wis. 543, 47 N. W. 729.

United States.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Colorado Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 96 U. S. 640, 24 L. ed. 648; Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. 381, 16 L. ed. 488; Merchants' Bank v. Columbia Bank, 5 Wheat. 326, 5 L. ed. 100; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351; G. V. B. Mining Co. v. Hailey First Nat. Bank, 95 Fed. 23, 36 C. C. A. 633 [affirming 89 Fed. 439]; Prentiss Tool, etc., Co. v. Godchaux, 66 Fed. 234, 13 C. C. A. 420; Bensiek v. Thomas, 66 Fed. 104, 13 C. C. A. 457 (cannot repudiate the transaction without restoring the benefit); Hitchcock v. Barrett, 50 Fed. 653.

9. California.— Billings v. Morrow, 7 Cal. 171, 68 Am. Dec. 235.

Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 565.

Georgia.— Hardeman v. Ford, 12 Ga. 205.

Iowa.— Thompson v. Des Moines Driving Park, 112 Iowa 628, 84 N. W. 678.

Kansas.— Getty v. C. R. Barnes Milling Co., 40 Kan. 281, 19 Pac. 617. Also consult the able discussion of this subject by Brewer, J., in Ft. Scott First Nat. Bank v. Drake, 29 Kan. 311, 44 Am. Rep. 646.

Maryland.— Busby v. North American L. Ins. Co., 40 Md. 572, 17 Am. Rep. 634; Adams Express Co. v. Trego, 35 Md. 47; Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v. Sherman, 20 Md. 117; Pennsylvania, etc., Steam Nav. Co. v. Dandridge, 8 Gill & J. 248, 29 Am. Dec. 543.

Massachusetts.— Murray v. Nelson Lumber Co., 143 Mass. 250, 9 N. E. 634.

Michigan.— Hotchin v. Kent, 8 Mich. 526.

Minnesota.— Allen v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 49 Minn. 544, 52 N. W. 144, 32 Am. St. Rep. 574.

Missouri.— Hyde v. Larkin, 35 Mo. App. 365.

New York.— Caldwell v. Mutual Reserve Fund L. Assoc., 53 N. Y. App. Div. 245, 65 N. Y. St. 826; Ives v. Smith, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 645, 19 N. Y. St. 645.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Gazzam, 32 Pa. St. 340.

Vermont.— Lyndon Mill Co. v. Lyndon Literary, etc., Inst., 63 Vt. 581, 22 Atl. 575, 25 Am. St. Rep. 783.

United States.— Wheeler v. Northwestern Sleigh Co., 39 Fed. 347; Pacific Rolling-Mill Co. v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. 852, 7 Sawy. 61.

10. Adams Express Co. v. Trego, 35 Md. 47; Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v. Sherman, 20 Md. 117; Combs v. Scott, 12 Allen (Mass.) 493.

11. Kelley v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 496, 6 N. E. 745.

12. Ft. Scott First Nat. Bank v. Drake, 29 Kan. 311, 44 Am. Rep. 646.

13. Kansas.— German Sav. Bank v. Wulfekuhler, 19 Kan. 60.

Massachusetts.— Arlington v. Peirce, 122 Mass. 270.

Nebraska.— Rich v. Lincoln State Nat. Bank, 7 Nebr. 201, 29 Am. Rep. 382; Merchants' Bank v. Rudolf, 5 Nebr. 527.

New York.— Dunn v. St. Andrew's Church, 14 Johns. 118.

United States.— U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. 64, 6 L. ed. 552.

the rule being one of public policy.[14] Other decisions regard the presumption of such knowledge as a presumption of fact, a mere mode of proving knowledge by evidence of facts from which knowledge may properly be inferred, such as the lapse of a considerable time with full means of knowledge.[15] This theory makes it a question of fact for a jury and prevents the judge from instructing them that knowledge is presumed as matter of law.[16]

(2) THIS PRESUMPTION WHEN DENIED WITH RESPECT TO MINISTERIAL OFFICERS. This presumption of knowledge on the part of the corporation, derived from a knowledge of its ministerial officers, does not apply so as to charge the corporation with knowledge of fraudulent or unauthorized acts of such an officer, for example the cashier of a bank, done for his own benefit, where the directors have no actual knowledge of the transactions.[17]

(c) Knowledge of Single Director or Trustee. For this purpose the knowledge of a single director or trustee will not be sufficient, but the fact or facts must come to the notice of, or be possessed by, the directors when sitting as a board.[18]

(d) Knowledge of President, Although Director or Trustee. The knowledge of the president, although always a director or trustee, with respect to his own unauthorized act, is not imputed to the corporation, otherwise the act itself would carry with it a ratification, because his knowledge would be the knowledge of the board.[19]

3. RATIFICATION OF ACTS OF INTERMEDDLING STRANGERS. It is said that the presumption of a ratification by acquiescence is much stronger when an agency actually exists than where the act is done by an intermeddling stranger.[20] There is some authority for the proposition that a person or corporation for whom an intermeddler has assumed to do acts will not as a general rule be put in the position of having ratified them unless the ratification assumes the form of express or affirmative action.[21] But it may be doubted whether there is any serious distinction between the two cases; since where an intermeddler assumes to be the agent of a corporation it is obviously competent for the corporation to sanction that assumption by acquiescence after knowledge, so as to estop itself in favor of innocent third persons to deny the relation of agency; and as we have already seen this principle of estoppel is one of the recognized modes of proving agency.[22] In either case the doctrine of ratification applies only in the case where one person has assumed to act for another, and then a subsequent ratification is equivalent to an original authorization.[23]

4. RATIFICATION PRESUMED ON SLIGHT EVIDENCE WHERE ACT IS BENEFICIAL. A presumption of ratification will arise on very slight evidence, where the act is plainly for the benefit of the principal.[24]

14. Brewer, J., in Ft. Scott First Nat. Bank v. Drake, 29 Kan. 311, 44 Am. Rep. 646.

15. Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187.

16. Murray v. Nelson Lumber Co., 143 Mass. 250, 9 N. E. 634. And for a case closely similar see Hyde v. Larkin, 35 Mo. App. 365.

17. Ft. Scott First Nat. Bank v. Drake, 29 Kan. 311, 44 Am. Rep. 646.

18. Constant v. St. Albans' Church, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 305, 312. See Rowan v. Hyatt, 45 N. Y. 138; Westfield Bank v. Cornen, 37 N. Y. 320, 93 Am. Dec. 573; Smith v. Tracy, 36 N. Y. 79; Murray v. Bininger, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 336, 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 107, 33 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 425; National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 572. See also supra, XIII, A, 7, b, (I) et seq.

19. Murray v. Nelson Lumber Co., 143 Mass. 250, 9 N. E. 634; Hyde v. Larkin, 35 Mo. App. 365. See also supra, XIII, A, 9, a.

20. Hallett, C. J., in Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 248. See also Breed v. Central City First Nat. Bank, 4 Colo. 481; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Cowell, 28 Pa. St. 329, 70 Am. Dec. 128; Saveland v. Green, 40 Wis. 431; Ladd v. Hildebrant, 27 Wis. 135, 9 Am. Rep. 445.

21. Searing v. Butler, 69 Ill. 575; Ward v. Williams, 26 Ill. 447, 79 Am. Dec. 385.

22. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (I) et seq.

23. Hamlin v. Sears, 82 N. Y. 327.

24. Washington Sav. Bank v. Butchers', etc., Bank, 107 Mo. 133, 17 S. W. 644, 28 Am. St. Rep. 405; Pierce City Nat. Bank v. Hughlett, 84 Mo. App. 268; Fleming v. Marine Ins. Co., 4 Whart. (Pa.) 59, 33 Am. Dec. 33.

5. So Where There Has Been Merely Deviation or Informality in Mode of Executing Power. The rule is the same where the agent of a corporation had power to do a particular act, but in doing it fell into a deviation or informality involving possibly an excess or misuse of his authority, as where the treasurer of a corporation having power to execute promissory notes for it affixes the corporate seal to them, in which case slight evidence of a ratification will be sufficient;[25] it being the duty of the corporation to disaffirm it at once on acquiring knowledge of the fact.[26]

6. What Acts Will Be Ratification Where Transaction Is Formally Reported — a. In General. If an unauthorized contract or transaction, made by an officer of a corporation, is formally reported by him to the directors, and they take no action thereon but allow the matter to stand and the execution of the contract to proceed as though there had been a precedent authority to make it, this will be tantamount to a ratification by the company, provided the act was within the power of the directors and of the corporation.[27] And if, after such a formal report is made, the corporation receives and appropriates the benefit of the transaction, this will be a ratification, although the minutes showing the making of the report are not signed so as to constitute in strictness a corporate record.[28] If the act is reported to the body having the power to affirm or disaffirm it, and the report is formally approved by each member, as shown by its minutes, it will be regarded as a formal act of ratification by the corporation.[29]

b. Formal Ratification Not Necessary in Case of Loss of Instrument. A contract is not rescinded by the loss of an instrument by which it is evidenced; and hence where a resolution of the board of directors of a corporation authorized the execution of a deed of trust, which was lost in the mail before delivery, it was held that a ratification of a duplicate deed was unnecessary.[30]

7. Ratification by Part Payment. Part payment under a voidable contract made by an officer of a corporation having the power to audit and settle claims against it will in general afford evidence of a ratification, provided such officer acts with full knowledge of the transaction.[31]

8. Ratification of Voidable Contract by Settling Accounts Thereunder. On the same principle a voidable contract, such as a lease of a railway bridge, is ratified by the periodical settlement of accounts for tolls or rents thereunder.[32]

9. Evidence Tending to Show Ratification. Ratifications may be inferred, in the case of a sale of corporate assets, from the fact that the corporation subsequently dealt with the purchaser as the owner of the property;[33] in the case of a lease by an officer of a corporation assuming to act in its behalf, by authorizing the payment of a year's rent in advance;[34] in the case of an unauthorized lease,

25. St. James' Parish v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 500, 6 N. E. 749.

26. Harrod v. McDaniels, 126 Mass. 413; Foster v. Rockwell, 104 Mass. 167; Brigham v. Peters, 1 Gray (Mass.) 139.

27. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 159.

28. West Salem Land Co. v. Montgomery Land Co., 89 Va. 192, 15 S. E. 524.

29. Hayward v. Pilgrim Soc., 21 Pick. (Mass.) 270. See also St. James' Parish v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 500, 6 N. E. 749; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Dixon, 114 N. Y. 80, 21 N. E. 110, 22 N. Y. St. 684.

30. Bassett v. Monte Cristo Gold, etc., Min. Co., 15 Nev. 293.

31. West v. Averill Grocery Co., 109 Iowa 488, 80 N. W. 555 (ratification of an arbitration by making a partial payment of the award); St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tiernan, 37 Kan. 606, 15 Pac. 544; Poche v. New Orleans Home Invest. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1287, 27 So. 797 (ratification of a sale of corporate property by the board of directors, by agreeing, after full knowledge, to receive payment of interest on a note representing part of the purchase-price, and to extend the note); Prentiss Tool, etc., Co. v. Godchaux, 66 Fed. 234, 13 C. C. A. 420 (pledge of corporate property is ratified by partial payments made upon the debt under authority from the corporation).

32. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 159.

33. Hastings German Nat. Bank v. Hastings First Nat. Bank, 59 Nebr. 7, 80 N. W. 48.

34. Independent Brewing Assoc. v. Powers, 80 Ill. App. 471.

invalid for the want of a vote of the shareholders, by evidence of a formal ratification by the board of directors;[35] in the case of an unauthorized contract made by the president of a corporation, by evidence showing that he told the directors of the contract while they were not sitting as a board and that they took no action to interfere with its execution;[36] in the case of a disputed promissory note made by the secretary and business manager of a corporation, by evidence that he was in the habit of issuing notes in the name of the corporation and with the knowledge of the president and some of the directors;[37] by the admission of the president of the corporation, not that he ratified the act, but that the company had ratified it;[38] and under the facts of the cases cited in the marginal note.[39]

10. Facts Not Amounting to Ratification. The following facts have been held not sufficient to show a ratification: The fact that two directors were present in an unofficial capacity at an interview between a contractor and one who was the agent of the corporation for a particular purpose, where the question was whether this was a ratification of an arrangement made between the agent and the contractor in excess of his powers;[40] an action of contract by a corporation against a third person to whom its treasurer has loaned its funds in breach of his trust, this not ratifying the act of the treasurer in such a manner as to discharge him from liability to the corporation;[41] payments of commissions made to an employee and charged to his account, or the fact that the general agent of the corporation did not disclaim its liability for the commissions in an interview, the contract not having been brought to his attention or to that of any officer or director until about

35. Mt. Washington Hotel Co. v. Marsh, 63 N. H. 230.

36. Henry v. Colorado Land, etc., Co., 10 Colo. App. 14, 51 Pac. 90.

37. Topeka Capital Co. v. March, 10 Kan. App. 40, 61 Pac. 876.

38. Merrick v. Burlington, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Iowa 74.

39. Seeley v. San José Independent Mill, etc., Co., 59 Cal. 22 (ratification of a note given for a loan to a director); Shaver v. Hardin, 82 Iowa 378, 48 N. W. 68 (ratification of an unauthorized mortgage made subject to a prior mortgage); Lannan v. Smith, 7 Gray (Mass.) 150; Burrill v. Nahant Bank, 2 Metc. (Mass.) 163, 35 Am. Dec. 395 (ratification of a mortgage made by a committee of the directors).

Ratification of a settlement by paying interest on the notes given thereunder, and accepting reports in which they were referred to as outstanding obligations. Kelley v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 141 Mass. 496, 6 N. E. 745.

Corporate vote interpreted as a ratification of the votes passed at previous meetings. Howard Ins. Co. v. Hope Mut. Ins. Co., 22 Conn. 394, showing further when a subsequent vote is not admissible in evidence to rebut the presumption that the last vote was a ratification of a previous one.

That the holder of a corporate note may prove that the cash system established by its constitution and by-laws had been abandoned. Dow v. Moore, 47 N. H. 419.

Unauthorized charter amendment validated by subsequent elections of the number of trustees therein provided for. Jackson v. Walsh, 75 Md. 304, 23 Atl. 778.

That it is not necessary to plead a ratification in order to introduce evidence of it was held in Collins v. Life Assoc. of America, 3 Mo. App. 586.

40. Barcus v. Hannibal, etc., Plankroad Co., 26 Mo. 102.

41. Goodyear Dental Vulcanite Co. v. Caduc, 144 Mass. 85, 10 N. E. 483. Circumstances where a renting by two directors, of a committee of three, had not been ratified, the corporation never having occupied the premises. Corn Exch. Bank v. Cumberland Coal Co., 1 Bosw. (N. Y.) 436. That a contract made by a minority of a committee appointed for that purpose, and not assented to by a majority, nor by the corporation, does not bind the latter see Trott v. Warren, 11 Me. 227. See also Beatty v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 109, 3 Am. Dec. 401. That a corporation is not rendered liable for a debt of one of its incorporators for goods sold to him under a name identical with its corporate name, by the receipt, acknowledgment, and retention by its officers without objection of a statement of account for such goods. Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. South Pub. Co., 17 N. Y. Suppl. 587, 44 N. Y. St. 119. It has been held that the fact that the cashier of a bank suggested to its teller to have a post-dated check protested, which the teller had agreed without authority would be paid by the bank on the day of its date, will not amount to a ratification by the bank of the teller's promise, when at the time there was no available deposit from which to pay it and the cashier in fact declined to pay it, especially when the suggestion of protest was due to a desire to save the holder's recourse against his indorser. Averell v. Second Nat. Bank, 19 D. C. 246, 19 Wash. L. Rep. 86. Other facts viewed as not amounting to a ratification. Tracey v. Guthrie County Agricultural Soc., 47 Iowa 27.

a year after it was made;[42] the fact that a majority of the shares of the corporation were controlled by the directors who assumed to purchase for the corporation property in which they were personally interested, without disclosing their interest, this not being equivalent to a ratification of the purchase.[43]

D. Effect of Ratification — 1. Equivalent to Antecedent Authority. When a ratification has taken place in any of the recognized modes it relates back and is equivalent to an antecedent authority.[44]

2. Estops Corporation — a. In General. It estops the corporation from afterward repudiating the contract which it has thus ratified.[45] It is upon this ground of estoppel that corporations which have received the benefit of an authorized transaction are not allowed, while retaining the benefit, to repudiate the transaction.[46]

b. Prevents Subsequent Rescission Where Other Party Cannot Be Put In Statu Quo. In the absence of fraud, where a corporation has adopted an unauthorized contract, and thereafter such a time has elapsed as to render it impossible to restore the parties to their former position, the right to rescind the contract will be lost.[47]

3. Validates Defective Execution of Corporate Powers — a. In General. It is often said that a ratification validates the defective or informal exercise of corporate power.[48] One of the meanings of this proposition is that where the directors of a corporation have defectively exercised a power conferred upon them their act may become valid by subsequent acts of acquiescence and recognition, which will bind the company, its officers and shareholders, as effectively as though the instrument in question had been executed with a rigid observance of all the required formalities.[49]

b. Validates Contracts Not Made in Writing as Required by Statute. A ratification — generally by accepting and retaining the benefits of the transaction — validates executed contracts not made in writing as required by the applicatory statute, the rule of such a statute being operative only while the contract is wholly executory.[50] Such a statute does not apply in those cases where the law implies a contract from the duty of paying for benefits rendered to the corporation and received and appropriated by it; but the action is brought, not upon the express oral contract, but upon the implied promise raised by the intendment of the law.[51]

42. Deffenbaugh v. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co., 120 Mich. 242, 79 N. W. 197.

43. Stanley v. Luse, 36 Oreg. 25, 58 Pac. 75.

44. Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187.

45. Flynn v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 490, 19 N. W. 312; St. Croix Lumber Co. v. Mittlestadt, 43 Minn. 91, 44 N. W. 1079 (ratification by all the shareholders).

46. Jourdan v. Long Island R. Co., 115 N. Y. 380, 22 N. E. 153, 26 N. Y. St. 138. See also supra, XV, C, 2, e.

For further illustrations see Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 33 N. Y. St. 318, 25 N. E. 303; Seymour v. Spring Forest Cemetery Assoc., 19 N. Y. Suppl. 94, 25 N. Y. St. 520; Universal Beer Keg Co. v. Brown, 9 N. Y. St. 91.

47. Lagunas Nitrate Co. v. Lagunas Syndicate, [1899] 2 Ch. 392, 68 L. J. Ch. 699, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 334, 48 Wkly. Rep. 74.

48. Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290 (resolution of directors authorized a deed of trust to secure corporate bonds, conveying four hundred thousand acres — deed, as executed, conveyed four hundred and five thousand acres — defect cured by acquiescence after lapse of time); Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75 (mortgage authorized at a special meeting convened without notice).

49. Massachusetts.— Peabody v. Flint, 6 Allen 52.

Missouri.— Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290.

New York.— Hoyt v. Thompson, 19 N. Y. 207, 5 N. Y. 320 [reversing 3 Sandf. 416].

Pennsylvania.— Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

Vermont.— Woodbridge v. Addison, 6 Vt. 204.

Virginia.— Enders v. Public Works, 1 Gratt. 364.

Wisconsin.— Walworth County Bank v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 16 Wis. 629.

50. Foulke v. San Diego, etc., R. Co., 51 Cal. 365; Pixley v. Western Pac. R. Co., 33 Cal. 183, 91 Am. Dec. 623; Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 Ohio St. 336.

51. Foulke v. San Diego, etc., R. Co., 51 Cal. 365.

c. Validates Instruments Executed Without Corporate Seal. A ratification will extend to the curing of instruments which ought to be under seal, but which are defectively executed by a corporation without the use of its seal;[52] although there is one early and misconceived decision to the contrary.[53]

d. Validates Defective Acknowledgment of Deed. It seems that the informal acknowledgment of a deed may be validated by a subsequent acquiescence on the part of the directors and shareholders, in like manner as the want of a precedent authority to execute the deed.[54]

4. Supplies Want of Precedent Power — a. In General. A ratification also supplies the want of a precedent power, for example the want of a power regularly conferred by a resolution of the board of directors.[55]

b. Validates Failure to Confer Precedent Power in Regular Manner. When the courts say that a ratification will validate the informal execution of a corporate power they generally refer to the failure of the body of shareholders or the board of directors to confer the power in a regular, formal, and proper manner, as for instance to the act of appointing an agent to commence suits at a meeting not regularly warned;[56] or the failure of the directors to secure the formal assent of the shareholders to the execution of a mortgage, where such assent is required;[57] or where the president of a railroad company assumes to

52. Campbell v. Pope, 96 Mo. 468, 10 S. W. 187.

53. Perry v. Price, 1 Mo. 664, 14 Am. Dec. 316.

English doctrine on this subject.—Sir Nathaniel Lindley in his work on Partnership (since changed to "Company Law") expresses the English doctrine thus: "A distinction was at one time supposed to exist between executed and executory contracts; but except where the equitable doctrines of part performance are applicable, a corporation is no more bound by a contract, not under its seal, of which it has had the benefit, than it is by a similar contract which has not been acted upon by either party." 1 Lindley Partn. (4th ed.) 353 [citing Paine v. Guardians of Poor, 8 Q. B. 326, 10 Jur. 308, 15 L. J. M. C. 89, 55 E. C. L. 326; Kidderminster v. Hardwick, L. R. 9 Exch. 13, 43 L. J. Exch. 9, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 612, 22 Wkly. Rep. 160; Arnold v. Poole, 2 Dowl. N. S. 574, 7 Jur. 653, 12 L. J. C. P. 97, 4 M. & G. 860, 5 Scott N. R. 741, 43 E. C. L. 444; Homersham v. Wolverhampton Waterworks Co., 6 Exch. 137, 20 L. J. Exch. 193, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 790; Diggle v. London, etc., R. Co., 5 Exch. 442, 14 Jur. 937, 19 L. J. Exch. 308, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 590; Cope v. Thames Haven Dock, etc., Co., 3 Exch. 841, 18 L. J. Exch. 345, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 83; Lamprell v. Guardians of Poor, 3 Exch. 283, 18 L. J. Exch. 282; Ranger v. Great Western R. Co., 5 H. L. Cas. 72; Ludlow v. Charlton, 9 C. & P. 242, 4 Jur. 657, 10 L. J. Exch. 75, 6 M. & W. 815, 38 E. C. L. 151]. Courts of equity even have afforded no relief in such cases. Crampton v. Varna Ry. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 562, 41 L. J. Ch. 817, 20 Wkly. Rep. 713; Ambrose v. Dunmow Union, 9 Beav. 508; Gooday v. Colchester, etc., R. Co., 15 Eng. L. & Eq. 596; Jackson v. North Wales R. Co., 1 Hall & T. 75, 13 Jur. 69, 18 L. J. Ch. 91, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 112; Nixon v. Taff Vale R. Co., 7 Hare 136, 27 Eng. Ch. 136; Midland Great Western R. Co. v. Johnson, 6 H. L. Cas. 798, 4 Jur. N. S. 643, 6 Wkly. Rep. 510; Kirk v. Bromley Union, 12 Jur. 85, 17 L. J. Ch. 127, 2 Phil. 640, 22 Eng. Ch. 640; Leominster Canal Co. v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 3 Jur. N. S. 930, 3 Kay & J. 654, 26 L. J. Ch. 764, 5 Wkly. Rep. 868. Compare with this last clause Williams v. St. George's Harbour Co., 2 De G. & J. 547, 4 Jur. N. S. 1066, 27 L. J. Ch. 691, 6 Wkly. Rep. 609, 59 Eng. Ch. 431; Stanley v. Chester, etc., R. Co., 1 R. & Can. Cas. 58, 9 Sim. 264, 16 Eng. Ch. 264. Plainly this doctrine does not express the American law as laid down in Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 299, 3 L. ed. 351, and in numerous cases approving that decision. The English cases on this subject will not therefore be further pursued.

54. Chouteau v. Allen, 70 Mo. 290, where, however, the acknowledgment was a statutory acknowledgment, and it did not appear that the deed was not executed in such a manner as to be a good deed at common law.

55. Colorado.— McCormick v. Bittinger, 13 Colo. App. 170, 57 Pac. 736, ratification of an unauthorized transfer of negotiable paper by its secretary.

New Jersey.— Flaherty v. Atlantic Lumber Co., 58 N. J. Eq. 467, 44 Atl. 186.

New York.— Hoyt v. Thompson, 19 N. Y. 207.

Pennsylvania.—Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

Vermont.— Woodbridge v. Addison, 6 Vt. 204.

Virginia.— Enders v. Board of Public Works, 1 Gratt. 364.

Wisconsin.— Walworth County Bank v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 16 Wis. 629.

56. Woodbridge v. Addison, 6 Vt. 204.

57. Enders v. Board of Public Works, 1 Gratt. (Va.) 364.

transfer property of the company in payment of its debt without a precedent authority conferred by the board of directors.[58]

c. But Does Not Create Presumption of Want of Antecedent Authority. A subsequent formal ratification by the directors of an act done by an officer of the corporation does not have the effect of creating the presumption that the act was originally done without authority.[59]

5. Does Not Affect Intervening Rights of Third Persons. A ratification does not affect the rights of innocent third persons which intervene between the date of the unauthorized act and the date of the ratification.[60] Thus a ratification by an insolvent corporation of an unauthorized assignment does not affect the right of a creditor who had before such ratification commenced garnishment proceedings against the assignee.[61] So where there is a statute providing that the deed of a corporation to be good must be countersigned by the secretary as well as signed by the president, the ratification of such a deed, before it had been countersigned by the secretary, will not affect the lien of an intervening judgment recovered against the corporation by its creditors.[62]

6. Successive Ratifications Furnish Evidence of General Authority to Make Similar Contracts. Another principle is that successive ratifications by a corporation of a series of unauthorized acts performed by its agent become evidence on which innocent third persons may confidently act in dealing with the corporation through the agent, and on which they may confidently assume that the corporation has authorized him to perform acts of the kind thus ratified, this being one of the customary modes of proving agency.[63]

XVI. Franchises, Privileges, and Exemptions.

A. Nature of Franchises in General — 1. What Is a Franchise — a. In General. The legal idea of a franchise seems to be a power or privilege conferred by the state upon an individual, upon a collection of individuals, or upon an incorporated body, not possessed by the inhabitants of the state as of common right.[64]

b. Distinction Between Franchises and Licenses Granted by Municipal Corporations. In some of the decisions distinctions are attempted between a franchise granted by the legislature of the state and licenses granted by municipal corporations, the theory being that a municipal corporation cannot grant a fran-

58. Walworth County Bank v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 16 Wis. 629. For a further illustration see Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Owen, 121 Ala. 505, 25 So. 612.

59. Wagg-Anderson Woolen Co. v. Lesher, 78 Ill. App. 678.

60. Galloway v. Hamilton, 68 Wis. 651; Cook v. Tullis, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 332, 21 L. ed. 933. See also Taylor v. Robinson, 14 Cal. 396.

61. Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show-Printing Co., 144 Mo. 303, 45 S. W. 1115.

62. Galloway v. Hamilton, 68 Wis. 651, 32 N. W. 636.

63. McDonald v. Chisholm, 131 Ill. 273, 23 N. E. 596 [affirming 30 Ill. App. 176]; Sparks v. Despatch Transfer Co., 104 Mo. 531, 15 S. W. 417, 24 Am. St. Rep. 351; Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318; Merrill v. Consumers' Coal Co., 114 N. Y. 216, 21 N. E. 155, 23 N. Y. St. 114. To the contrary that a special authority given to an agent to make a contract outside of his ordinary powers can confer upon him no power to subsequently make another such contract unless again specially authorized so to do see Stanley v. Sheffield Land, etc., Co., 83 Ala. 260, 5 So. 34.

64. Franchises have been defined to be "branches of the royal prerogative, subsisting in the hands of the subject by grant from the King." Cruise Dig. 278. This is substantially the definition of Blackstone. 2 Bl. Comm. 37. It has been observed that under our American systems of government and laws this definition is not strictly correct; since our franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon a valuable consideration, for purposes of public benefit as well as of individual advantage. State v. Real Estate Bank, 5 Ark. 595, 599, 41 Am. Dec. 109, 112, per Lacy, J. A franchise is defined by Bouvier as certain "privileges conferred by grant from government, and vested in individuals." 1 Bouvier L. Dict. There is a note on the subject of franchises, including a discussion of what are deemed to be such, in 1 L. R. A. 133.

For other definitions see Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492; State v. Western Irrigating Canal Co., 40 Kan. 96, 19 Pac. 349, 10 Am. St. Rep.

chise, but can grant only a license.[65] The distinction is believed to be untenable, since in either case the grant proceeds from the legislature, in the first case directly, in the second case mediately through the municipal corporation; and in both cases the grant is equally a privilege not possessed by the inhabitants as of common right, and is equally protected under the constitution of the United States and of the state.[66]

c. Distinction Between Franchise and Mere Personal Privilege. Another distinction exists between a franchise vested in a corporation, or in its members as corporators, and a mere personal privilege annexed by statute or charter to membership in a corporation, such as the privilege of being exempt from jury duty. Such an exemption is regarded by some courts as a mere personal privilege,[67] but by others as a franchise granted to the corporation.[68]

d. Whether Vests in Corporation or in Individuals Who Compose It. The franchise of being a corporation vests in the individuals who compose the corporation;[69] but where they are termed secondary franchises, that is to say, those franchises which are vendible, they may and often do vest in the corporation as an artificial body.[70]

2. Whether Existence of Franchise Can Be Challenged Collaterally — a. Where Corporation Affirmatively Asserts Franchise or Privilege. If a corporation in any action asserts a right against another corporation or person, based upon an assumed franchise or power, the corporation or person against whom the right is so asserted may as a defense deny the existence of such franchise or power.[71]

b. Where Individuals Assert Rights Against Corporation. But on the other hand when a party other than the state seeks to establish rights against a corporation, and it defends the action on the ground of its being possessed of certain franchises with which the action is incompatible, it is sufficient that it appears that it is in fact in possession of the franchises claimed. Whether or not it is rightfully in possession of them is a question which can be determined only in a proceeding in which some person or corporation who claims a better title is a party.[72]

166; Gantt, J., in Abbott v. Omaha Smelting, etc., Co., 4 Nebr. 416, 420; Augusta Bank v. Earle, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 519, 10 L. ed. 274; 3 Kent Comm. 458; 2 Morawetz Priv. Corp. § 923; 4 Thompson Corp. § 5335.

65. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver City R. Co., 2 Colo. 673.

66. That the state may file a petition in quo warranto against a street railway company to set the question whether its franchise, granted by a city, is exercised in contravention of law see State v. East Cleveland R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 318.

67. Neely v. State, 4 Lea (Tenn.) 316.

68. Johnson v. State, 88 Ala. 176, 7 So. 253; Zimmer v. State, 30 Ark. 677.

That such an exemption accorded to members of a quasi-public corporation may become a vested right which cannot be taken away by subsequent legislation see Ex p. Goodin, 67 Mo. 637 [overruling In re Powell, 5 Mo. App. 220]. Compare Ex p. Rust, 43 Ga. 209; Bloom v. State, 20 Ga. 443; Ex p. House, 36 Tex. 83.

That it is a personal privilege and is subject to legislative revocation or control see In re Scranton, 74 Ill. 161, exemption from jury duty to a member of the fire department accorded by the charter of Chicago, limited to members in active service. See also Bragg v. People, 78 Ill. 328; Beamish v. State, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 530. That a statute exempting members of an incorporated fire-insurance company from serving on juries is not unconstitutional see McGunnegle v. State, 6 Mo. 367.

Other cases upholding such exemptions in consideration of the rendition of public services are as follows:

Illinois.— Dunne v. People, 94 Ill. 120, 34 Am. Rep. 213.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Walton, 17 Pick. 403, members of the legislature.

Nevada.— State v. Cohn, 9 Nev. 179.

North Carolina.— State v. Whitford, 34 N. C. 99; State v. Williams, 18 N. C. 172 (postmasters).

Pennsylvania.— Piper's Case, 2 Browne 59.

Texas.— Ex p. House, 36 Tex. 83.

69. Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492.

70. It has been said that such a franchise is not a corporate franchise strictly so-called, or in any sense, except that of being property of the corporation. State v. Portage City Water Co., 107 Wis. 441, 83 N. W. 697.

71. Zanesville v. Zanesville Gas-Light Co., 47 Ohio St. 1, 23 N. E. 55.

72. Weaverville, etc., Wagon Road R. Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 64 Cal. 69, 28 Pac. 496. See also supra, I, P, 1 et seq.

3. Whether Corporate Franchise Is Divisible. It is plain that a primary franchise, that is to say the franchise of being a corporation, cannot be divided, except by the power which granted it — the state; but it is not true as was said in one case[73] that both primary and secondary franchises inhere together in such a manner as to be indivisible; since, as we shall see, a secondary franchise may be alienated, while the primary franchise of being a corporation remains; and a corporation may alien some of its secondary franchises while retaining others.[74]

4. Whether Corporation Organized Under General Laws Can Receive Additional Franchises Through Special Laws. Under constitutional provisions permitting the formation of corporations under general laws, but prohibiting their creation by special acts of legislation, the obviously sound doctrine is that a corporation formed under a general law cannot receive additional franchises by a special act.[75]

5. Forfeiture and Revocation of Franchise — a. Can Be Forfeited Only by Sovereign Power — (I) In General. A franchise can be forfeited only by the sovereign power by which it was conferred.[76]

(II) Exception Where Franchise Is Granted on Condition of Being Exercised Within Stated Time. To this principle an exception exists, according to one view, in the case where a franchise is granted upon the condition that the grant shall be void unless the franchise is exercised in a stated manner and within a stated time, in which case, unless it is exercised within the time prescribed in the grant, it is ipso facto forfeited, and the fact of such forfeiture may be determined in a collateral proceeding.[77]

b. Under General Power to Alter, Revoke, or Repeal. The reservation of such a power necessarily implies that it may be exerted at the pleasure of the legislature.[78] A police regulation imposed upon corporations, such as one requiring the payment of wages weekly, may be regarded as an exercise of the general reservation of power of amendment or repeal of acts of incorporation.[79] So of a statute making a railway company liable for fire caused by its locomotives or the acts of its servants on its right of way, where the company has accepted an amendment to its original charter, which subjects it to the laws in force, which laws make the charter subject to amendment, alteration, or repeal.[80] On the other hand it has been held that a constitutional reservation to the legislature of the power to alter, revoke, or annul charters when deemed injurious to the citizens of the state, but in such manner that "no injustice shall be done to the incorporators," does not extend to the exercise of the police power in regulating the transaction of a corporate business.[81] Where there is a general reservation in the constitution of the state of such a power, it reads itself into every subsequent corporate charter, and it is not necessary that it should be expressly included therein.[82] Such a reservation, whether contained in the charter, in the constitu-

A long and undisputed possession will be evidence of rightful possession, even in a quo warranto proceeding. State v. Gordon, 87 Ind. 171.

73. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

74. See infra, XVI, C, 1 et seq.

75. San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 48 Cal. 493 [overruling California State Tel. Co. v. Alta Tel. Co., 22 Cal. 398]; Low v. Marysville, 5 Cal. 214; Ex p. Pritz, 9 Iowa 30; Ames v. Lake Superior, etc., R. Co., 21 Minn. 241; State v. Cincinnati, 20 Ohio St. 18; Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21.

76. Elizabethtown Gas-Light Co. v. Green, 46 N. J. Eq. 118, 18 Atl. 844.

77. Oakland R. Co. v. Oakland, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 365, 13 Am. Rep. 181. Contra, see New York, etc., Bridge Co. v. Smith, 148 N. Y. 540, 42 N. E. 1088 [affirming 90 Hun (N. Y.) 312, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 920, 70 N. Y. St. 586].

78. Hamilton Gaslight, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 146 U. S. 258, 13 S. Ct. 90, 36 L. ed. 963.

79. State v. Brown, etc., Mfg. Co., 18 R. I. 16, 25 Atl. 246, 17 L. R. A. 856.

80. McCandless v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 103, 16 S. E. 429, 18 L. R. A. 440.

81. Platte, etc., Canal, etc., Co. v. Dowell, 17 Colo. 376, 30 Pac. 68.

82. Jackson v. Walsh, 75 Md. 304, 23 Atl. 778.

tion of the state, or in a general statute, is not repugnant to the grant of the franchise, but is a constitutional limitation of the powers granted.[83]

c. Forfeiture of Franchise Does Not Work Escheat of Property. The forfeiture of a franchise of a corporation does not work an escheat of its property.[84] Thus if the legislature prohibits a corporation from owning land, but fixes no penalty for a violation of the prohibition, and if the corporation in violation of it assumes to purchase land the land is not thereby subject to confiscation or escheat by the state, although the franchises of the offending corporation may be forfeited therefor.[85]

d. Waiver by State of Right to Forfeit Franchise. The state may of course waive the right to have the franchise of a corporation forfeited.[86]

6. Acquisition of New Franchise. Unless the charter of a corporation is in terms restrictive there is no rule of construction which will prevent the corporation from acquiring, in any lawful mode, new franchises, as by amending its articles of incorporation, provided the new franchises are not incompatible with those originally granted. For example a corporation organized to supply gaslight to a certain city, in pursuance of the terms of a certain ordinance of the city, may acquire the new franchise of supplying the city with gas.[87]

7. Duration of Franchises — a. In General. A corporation may receive a grant of a franchise for a term of years extending beyond the life of the corporation.[88]

b. Lapse of Franchise by Non-User. It has been held that where a news-gathering corporation had taken to itself in its articles of incorporation the power to conduct a telegraph and telephone business, and also the right of eminent domain, but has never exercised this power or this right for a long period of time, the right has lapsed by non-user.[89]

B. Construction of Grants of Franchises — 1. Grants of Franchises Strictly Construed — a. In General. Grants of franchises, being against common right, are strictly construed in favor of the grantor and against the grantee, so that nothing passes by implication, where the meaning is doubtful or where the implication is not necessary.[90]

b. But Construed According to Plain Meaning of Plain Words. But it does not follow from this that such a grant is to be construed so strictly as to wrest the meaning of words from their common and well-understood significance; but such a grant, like every other instrument, public or private, is to be construed 83. State v. Brown, etc., Mfg. Co., 18 R. I. 16, 25 Atl. 246, 17 L. R. A. 856. A constitutional provision repealing a corporate charter is self-enforcing and terminates the existence of the corporation. Putnam v. Ruch, 54 Fed. 216. Circumstanees under which the repeal by a constitutional provision of an exclusive right conferred by a charter does not extinguish the corporation or entirely repeal its charter. Putnam v. Ruch, 54 Fed. 216. The right of amendment or repeal reserved to the state in a general law is operative except so far as there is a contract or agreement divesting the state of the power to alter or repeal. Com. v. Covington, etc., Bridge Co., 21 S. W. 1042, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 836. In the exercise of such a power the legislature may withdraw one or more of the privileges granted to a corporation, without revoking its entire charter. Wilmington v. Addicks, (Del. 1900) 47 Atl. 366. That such a reservation does not extend to special legislation applicable only to a single city or corporation see Central Trust Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 80 Fed. 218. That the mere collecting of tolls, in conformity with reduced rates fixed by a statute, does not show an assent by a turnpike company to the exercise by the legislature, at will, of the power to alter or repeal its charter see Covington, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Sandford, 164 U. S. 578, 17 S. Ct. 198, 41 L. ed. 560.

84. See infra, XXI, G, 6, a.

85. Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 132 Pa. St. 591, 19 Atl. 291, 25 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 404, 7 L. R. A. 634.

86. State v. Morris, 73 Tex. 435, 11 S. W. 392.

87. Keith v. Johnson, 109 Ky. 421, 59 S. W. 487, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 947.

88. Keith v. Johnson, 109 Ky. 421, 59 S. W. 487, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 947.

89. State v. Associated Press, 159 Mo. 410, 60 S. W. 91, 81 Am. St. Rep. 368, 51 L. R. A. 151.

90. California.— Bartram v. Central Turnpike Co., 25 Cal. 283.

Connecticut.— Talcott Mountain Turnpike Co. v. Marshall, 11 Conn. 185. The same doctrine applies in the ease of a grant by the public to an individual. Hollister v. Union Co., 9 Conn. 436, 25 Am. Dec. 36.

according to the plain meaning of the words, where they are free from ambiguity and doubt.[91]

c. Not Construed as Extending to Foreign Corporations. A statute granting powers and privileges to corporations must, in the absence of plain indications to the contrary, be held to apply only to corporations created by the state, and over which it possesses the power of visitation and control.[92]

2. Proviso Not Construed so as to Defeat Grant. When matters in a proviso in a grant of corporate franchises are made or intended to be essential conditions of the enjoyment of the charter, the privileges granted must be enjoyed subject to those conditions or not at all.[93]

3. Grants of Franchises Not Construed as Exclusive — a. In General. After the legislature of a state has by the grant of a charter vested in a corporation or in the individuals who compose a corporation certain privileges, it cannot by a subsequent statute divest the corporation or the corporators of those privileges, unless the power to do so has been reserved in some recognized way; yet a subsequent grant of the same or of similar franchises to another corporation does not impair the obligation of the contract involved in the precedent grant.[94]

b. Grant of Franchise of Toll-Bridge Not Impaired by Grant of Franchise For Railway Bridge. Thus the exclusive privilege of maintaining a toll-bridge for ordinary passage over a stream between defined limits is not impaired by the subsequent grant of the right to erect a railway bridge over the same stream in the immediate vicinity of the toll-bridge.[95]

Indiana.— Indianapolis Cable St. R. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 127 Ind. 369, 24 N. E. 1054, 26 N. E. 893, 8 L. R. A. 539.

Maine.— Rockland Water Co. v. Camden, etc., Water Co., 80 Me. 544, 15 Atl. 785, 1 L. R. A. 338.

Nebraska.— Lincoln St. R. Co. v. Lincoln, 61 Nebr. 109, 84 N. W. 802.

New York.— New York v. Manhattan R. Co., 143 N. Y. 1, 37 N. E. 494, 60 N. Y. St. 352 [reversing 25 N. Y. Suppl. 860, 56 N. Y. St. 58].

Texas.— East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

United States.— Covington, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Sandford, 164 U. S. 578, 17 S. Ct. 198, 41 L. ed. 560 (if susceptible of two meanings, construed in the way which works the least harm to the state); Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837.

Illustration of strict construction — Plank-road company not allowed to appropriate whole of highway.— Under this rule of strict construction, it has been held that authority conferred upon a plank-road company by the legislature to construct a plank-road between two designated points does not imply the right to appropriate to that purpose the whole of a public highway, without express words of permission. Pike County Justices Inferior Ct. v. Griffin, etc., Plank-Road Co., 9 Ga. 475.

91. Birmingham, etc., R. Co. v. Birmingham St. R. Co., 79 Ala. 465, 58 Am. Rep. 615; Riker v. Leo, 133 N. Y. 519, 30 N. E. 598, 44 N. Y. St. 63 [affirming 15 N. Y. Suppl. 966, 39 N. Y. St. 984]; Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jones, 34 Fed. 579.

92. In re Prime, 136 N. Y. 347, 32 N. E. 1091, 49 N. Y. St. 658, 18 L. R. A. 713.

93. West Branch Boom Co. v. Pennsylvania Joint Lumber, etc., Co., 121 Pa. St. 143, 15 Atl. 509, 22 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 303, 6 Am. St. Rep. 766; Whitaker v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 87 Pa. St. 34 (grant of franchise to construct a dam so as to leave the channel "as safe and as convenient for the descent of rafts as it now is"); Monongahela Bridge Co. v. Kirk, 46 Pa. St. 112, 84 Am. Dec. 527 (grant to a bridge company of authority to erect a bridge over a navigable river, so as not to "injure, stop, or interrupt the navigation," etc.); Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 365, 67 Am. Dec. 471 (grant to a railroad company of the privilege of occupying a public street, so as not to impede public travel); Dugan v. Bridge Co., 27 Pa. St. 303, 67 Am. Dec. 464.

94. Enfield Toll Bridge Co. v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 17 Conn. 454, 44 Am. Dec. 556; Enfield Toll Bridge Co. v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 17 Conn. 40, 42 Am. Dec. 716; Indianapolis Cable St. R. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 127 Ind. 369, 24 N. E. 1056, 26 N. E. 893, 8 L. R. A. 539; Crawfordsville, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Smith, 89 Ind. 290; White River Turnpike Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 21 Vt. 590; Charles River Bridge v. Warren Bridge, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 420, 9 L. ed. 773, 938.

95. Massachusetts.— Inland Fisheries Com'rs v. Holyoke Water Power Co., 104 Mass. 446, 6 Am. Rep. 247.

Nevada.— Lake v. Virginia, etc., R. Co., 7 Nev. 294.

New Jersey.— Passaic, etc., River Bridges v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 13 N. J. Eq. 81 [affirmed in 1 Wall. (U. S.) 116, 17 L. ed. 571].

New York.— Mohawk Bridge Co. v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 6 Paige 554; Thompson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Sandf. Ch. 625.

C. Vendibility of Corporate Franchises — 1. Franchise of Being Corporation Not Alienable. Keeping in mind the distinction between primary and secondary franchises, it may be said at the outset that the primary franchise of a corporation, or more strictly speaking of its corporators, that is to say, the franchise of being a corporation, is not alienable without the consent of the state.[96] But a mortgage deed which professes and manifests an intent to convey the franchise of being a corporation will not be for that reason entirely void, but will be operative to convey the property, and perhaps also the secondary franchises, being void only so far as it undertakes to convey the corporate capacity of the mortgagor.[97]

2. Franchises of Corporations Having Public Duties to Perform Not Alienable — a. In General. The franchises of corporations having public duties to perform, such as railway companies, canal companies, turnpike companies, gaslight companies, and the like, cannot be alienated or seized under judicial process by creditors, without the consent of the legislature, because this would disable them from discharging the public duties which they have assumed, and in consideration of which their franchises have been granted to them.[98]

North Carolina.— McRee v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 47 N. C. 186.

Compare Enfield Toll Bridge Co. v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 17 Conn. 454, 44 Am. Dec. 556, where the contrary seems to have been the theory of the court.

96. Illinois.— Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492; Hays v. Ottawa, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. 422.

Kentucky.— Bardstown, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. 199, 81 Am. Dec. 541.

Maine.— Kennebec, etc., R. Co. v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 59 Me. 9; Shepley v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 Me. 395.

Maryland.—State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1.

Massachusetts.— Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700; East Boston Freight R. Co. v. Hubbard, 10 Allen 459 note; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672.

Mississippi.— Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

Nebraska.— Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127; Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

Ohio.— Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 63 Pa. St. 126; Stewart's Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 413; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. 94.

United States.— Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. 441, 16 L. ed. 184.

The rule has been expressed by saying that a corporation cannot "sell or convey its corporate name, or its right to maintain and defend judicial proceedings, or to make and use a common seal." State v. Western Irrigating Canal Co., 40 Kan. 96, 99, 19 Pac. 349, 10 Am. St. Rep. 166.

Illustration.— In the case of a railway mortgage it conveys only secondary franchises (Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484) and conveys no corporate capacity whatever (Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21). Purchasers at sale by assignee in bankruptcy of railway franchises do not acquire the faculty of being a corporation. Metz v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 61, 17 Am. Rep. 201, semble. Compare Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506.

97. Butler v. Rahm, 46 Md. 541. See also Pullan v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,461, 4 Biss. 35. In Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 294, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492, the petition of the assignee of a banking corporation for leave to sell "all the rights, privileges, powers and immunities which were granted by the said act incorporating said bank" was refused, on the ground that it was tantamount to a request for an order to sell the franchise of being a corporation, which was not vendible.

98. Illinois.— Hays v. Ottawa, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. 422.

Indiana.— Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.

Kentucky.— Anderson v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 86 Ky. 44, 5 S. W. 49, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 303, 9 Am. St. Rep. 263.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672; Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490.

Nebraska.— Chollette v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 26 Nebr. 159, 41 N. W. 1106, 4 L. R. A. 135.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127; Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

Pennsylvania.— Susquehanna Canal Co. v. Bonham, 9 Watts & S. 27, 42 Am. Dec. 315; Ammant v. New Alexandria, etc., Turnpike Road, 13 Serg. & R. 210, 15 Am. Dec. 593.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Eckford, 71 Tex. 274, 8 S. W. 679; International, etc., R. Co. v. Kuehn, 70 Tex. 582, 8 S. W. 484; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

Virginia.—Acker v. Alexandria, etc., R. Co., 84 Va. 648, 5 S. E. 688; Naglee v. Alexandria, etc., R. Co., 83 Va. 707, 3 S. E. 369, 5 Am. St. Rep. 308.

United States.— Gibbs v. Consolidated Gas Co., 130 U. S. 396, 9 S. Ct. 553, 32 L. ed. 979 (corporation cannot put itself in a position where it will be compelled to make the

b. Franchise of Constructing and Operating Railway Not Alienable — (I) In General. The prevailing doctrine therefore is that the secondary franchises of a railway company, that is to say, the franchise of constructing and the franchise of operating its railway, are not alienable in any form, whether by sale, lease, or mortgage, without the express consent of the legislature.[99]

(II) But Railway Company Remains Liable For Torts of Successor Company. If therefore a railroad company aliens its railroad, its properties, and franchises by lease, mortgage, or in any other way, to another corporation, and substitutes that other corporation in its own place, and devolves upon it the performance of its own public duties, without statutory authority so to do, it will remain liable for the torts of the successor company, committed against third persons while so operating its road.[1]

(III) Remains Liable to Perform Its Contracts — (A) In General. A railway corporation is not released from the obligations of a contract binding upon itself, its successors, and assigns, by going into liquidation and turning over all its property and franchises to another company, which also assumes all its obligations, where the avowed purpose of both corporations and the effect of the transactions between them is merely to reorganize under a new corporate name.[2]

(B) But Successor Corporation Also Liable. But the successor railway company will also be liable to perform the contracts of its predecessor. Thus a successor to the property and the franchises of a railway company is bound by a contract entered into by it on behalf of itself and its successors and assigns for the public accommodation subservient to its private interests); Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. 31, 15 L. ed. 27; Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 Fed. 745, 1 McCrary 188, 541.

England.— Macgregor v. Dover, etc., R. Co., 18 Q. B. 618, 17 Jur. 21, 22 L. J. Q. B. 69, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 227, 83 E. C. L. 618; East Anglian R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 11 C. B. 775, 16 Jur. 249, 21 L. J. C. P. 23, 73 E. C. L. 775; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 40 Eng. Ch. 550.

Exception in the case of ferry franchises. — An exception to the doctrine of the text exists in the case of the franchise of owning and operating a public ferry, which was always assignable at common law. See in confirmation of this Peter v. Kendal, 6 B. & C. 703, 5 L. J. K. B. O. S. 282, 30 Rev. Rep. 504, 13 E. C. L. 316.

99. Massachusetts.— Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672; Worcester v. Western R. Corp., 4 Metc. 564.

Mississippi.— Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

New Hampshire.— Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

United States.— Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 25 L. ed. 55; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 22 Fed. 245, 10 Sawy. 464, 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 472]; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. 31, 15 L. ed. 27.

England.— Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co. v. Northwestern R. Co., 6 H. L. Cas. 113, 3 Jur. N. S. 775, 26 L. J. Ch. 482.

Unless there is an enabling statute otherwise providing the franchise conferred upon a corporation of building a railroad cannot therefore be sold before the railroad has been built (Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458), especially to a private person, so as to enable him to build a railroad for his own private purposes (Stewart's Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 413). And so a statute which empowers a company to lease its railroad will not authorize it to transfer the franchise of completing it before it has been built. Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 94.

Isolated cases holding railway franchises alienable.— In a few isolated cases it has been held that the franchise of operating a railroad, being in the nature of property, is alienable at common law without the special or expressed consent of the legislature. Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452; Middlebury Bank v. Edgerton, 30 Vt. 182; Hall v. Sullivan R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,948, 1 Brunn. Col. Cas. 613.

1. Anderson v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 86 Ky. 44, 5 S. W. 49, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 303, 9 Am. St. Rep. 263; Chollette v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 26 Nebr. 159, 41 N. W. 1106, 4 L. R. A. 135; International, etc., R. Co. v. Eckford, 71 Tex. 274, 8 S. W. 679; International, etc., R. Co. v. Kuehn, 70 Tex. 582, 8 S. W. 484; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834; Acker v. Alexandria, etc., R. Co., 84 Va. 648, 5 S. E. 688; Naglee v. Alexandria, etc., R. Co., 83 Va. 707, 3 S. E. 369, 5 Am. St. Rep. 308.

2. Canal, etc., R. Co. v. St. Charles St. R. Co., 44 La. Ann. 1069, 11 So. 702. So in case of a coke company which purchases and takes possession of the plant of another company, agreeing to assume its contracts. McKeefrey v. Connellsville Coke, etc., Co., 56 Fed. 212, 5 C. C. A. 482.

use of the tracks, depots, and terminal facilities of another railway company, where it has been furnished with the use of such tracks and facilities in accordance with the terms of such contract.[3]

(IV) But Railway Company May Alienate Its Personal Property Not Necessary For Performance of Its Public Duties. But a railway company may alienate its personal property, such as its locomotives and cars, or at least so much thereof as may not be necessary for the performance of its public duties.[4]

(V) Power of Railway Company to Transfer Its Franchise to Operate Line of Telegraph. Where a railroad company is authorized to construct, in connection with its railroad, a telegraph line, to manage and control the same, and to fix the rates of charges thereon, a contract by which, without the consent of the legislature, it undertakes to divest itself of this public duty by transferring the privilege to another company, is ultra vires and void.[5]

c. Gaslight Company Cannot so Alienate Its Franchises. A gaslight company which possesses and exercises the right to lay its pipes in the public streets cannot sell, lease, or assign its corporate rights and privileges to another gas company, without the consent of the legislature.[6]

d. No Power to Lease Property and Franchises Dedicated to Public Duties — (I) In General. As leases are frequently made for great lengths of time, even for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, so that they are tantamount to a total alienation, it is a reasonable conclusion that any rule of decision which disables a corporation from alienating a franchise will equally disable it from parting with it for a term of years by a deed of lease.[7]

(II) Railway Company Cannot Lease Its Property and Franchises Without Legislative Authorization. While there is a conflict of decision on the question, it seems to be settled by the best judicial authority in England and America that a railway company cannot, without legislative authority, by a lease or any other contract or arrangement, turn over to another company its road and the right to use its franchises in respect of the same, and thereby exempt itself from the responsibility of the conduct and management of the road, and from the performance of its public duties in connection therewith.[8]

3. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 150 Ill. 480, 37 N. E. 924 [affirming 47 Ill. App. 414].

4. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whipple, 22 Ill. 105 (case of an unauthorized railway lease); Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

5. Central Branch Union Pac. R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 3 Fed. 417, 1 McCrary 551; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Fed. 1, 1 McCrary 581; Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 Fed. 745, 1 McCrary 188, 541. Compare Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kansas Pac. R. Co., 4 Fed. 284; Western Union Tel. Co. v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. 430, 1 McCrary 565; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Fed. 423, 1 McCrary 558.

6. Brunswick Gas Light Co. v. United Gas Fuel, etc., Co., 85 Me. 532, 27 Atl. 525, 35 Am. St. Rep. 385. For a transaction by which a so-called heat, light, and power corporation made an assignment of its franchises to another corporation, which was held to be valid and effectual, see Kalamazoo v. Kalamazoo Heat, etc., Co., 124 Mich. 74, 82 N. W. 811 [reversing 122 Mich. 489, 81 N. W. 426], where the question related merely to the sufficiency of the record.

7. Middlesex R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 115 Mass. 347; Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455 [reversing 22 N. J. Eq. 130]; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

8. Illinois.— Archer v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 102 Ill. 493; Ottawa, etc., R. Co. v. Black, 79 Ill. 262.

New York.— Troy R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. 581, semble.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., *81 Pa. St. 104.

West Virginia.— Ricketts v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 433, 10 S. E. 801, 25 Am. St. Rep. 901, 7 L. R. A. 354.

United States.— Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 22 Fed. 245, 10 Sawy. 464, 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 472]; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

England.— Johnson v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. M. & G. 914, 17 Jur. 1015, 22 L. J. Ch. 921, 52 Eng. Ch. 710; South York-

(III) Such Leases May Be Abandoned at Any Time Before Fully Executed. As leases of this kind are void on the ground of being against public policy it is not only right, but it is the duty of both parties to them, to abandon them upon becoming aware of their illegality, and the unexpired portion of them will not stand good for the protection of rights acquired under them; nor can damages be recovered for a non-performance of the contract.[9]

3. Transferring Corporate Franchises to Foreign Corporation. A corporation cannot, without the unanimous consent of its shareholders, sell all its property to a foreign corporation organized through its procurement, having a majority of non-resident trustees, such corporation being organized for the purpose of stepping into the shoes of the vendor company, of taking over all its assets, and of carrying on its business;[10] and it cannot do this by the device of transferring all its shares to the foreign corporation, taking the shares of the latter in payment, where the law of the domicile of the vendor corporation forbids the purchase of shares of any other corporation, notwithstanding the transaction may be valid in the state of the residence of the vendee corporation.[11]

4. Legislature May Authorize Alienation of Franchises — a. In General. The legislature which creates a corporation and confers upon it its franchises may of course authorize it to alien those franchises.[12]

b. May Ratify Such an Act. As the legislature may authorize such acts, so it may ratify and confirm them when done without precedent authority.[13] shire R., etc., Co. v. Great Northern R., etc., Co., 3 De G. M. & G. 576, 22 L. J. Ch. 761, 1 Wkly. Rep. 203, 52 Eng. Ch. 448; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 41 Eng. Ch. 306; Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co. v. Northwestern R. Co., 6 H. L. Cas. 113, 3 Jur. N. S. 775, 26 L. J. Ch. 482; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 40 Eng. Ch. 550 (holding that dissenting shareholders might file a bill on behalf of themselves and the other shareholders, against the company and its directors, to have it declared void). That such an arrangement is not enforceable by injunction see Johnson v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. M. & G. 914, 17 Jur. 1015, 22 L. J. Ch. 921, 52 Eng. Ch. 710. Somewhat to the same effect see South Yorkshire R., etc., Co. v. Great Northern R. Co., 3 De G. M. & G. 576, 22 L. J. Ch. 761, 1 Wkly. Rep. 203, 52 Eng. Ch. 448.

9. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 22 Fed. 245, 10 Sawy. 464, 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 472]; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

10. People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 48 N. Y. St. 166, 17 L. R. A. 737 [rehearing denied in 136 N. Y. 639, 48 N. Y. St. 846, 32 N. E. 611].

11. Ambler v. Archer, 1 App. Cas. (D. C.) 94.

12. Iowa.— Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

Massachusetts.— East Boston Freight R. Co. v. Eastern R. Co., 13 Allen 422.

North Carolina.— State v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 72 N. C. 634.

Ohio.— State v. Sherman, 22 Ohio St. 411.

United States.— Willamette Woolen Mfg. Co. v. British Columbia Bank, 119 U. S. 191.

What words in a statute have been held to authorize the alienation of franchises. Bardstown, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. (Ky.) 199, 81 Am. Dec. 541, statute authorizing a railway mortgage, and using the words "railroad with all its rights and privileges." For language in a statute which did not authorize the pledge of the franchise of being a corporation, but which did authorize the pledge of the franchise of maintaining and operating a railway, see Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518. Somewhat to the same effect see Trask v. Maguire, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 391, 21 L. ed. 938. That a franchise granted to an individual and his assignee is alienable see California State Tel. Co. v. Alta Tel. Co., 22 Cal. 398. To the contrary see Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700, where the statute employed the words "lessees and assigns." For words which were construed to restrain the leasing or selling of a railroad to some other incorporated company, withholding the power to sell its franchises or certain portions of its property detached from its franchises as separate subjects of sale, see Upson County R. Co. v. Sharman, 37 Ga. 644. For language of a statute which was held to give the judicial courts the power to order a sale both of the property and the franchises see Randolph v. Larned, 27 N. J. Eq. 557.

13. Shaw v. Norfolk County R. Co., 5 Gray (Mass.) 162; Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127. That an act restricting the charges of a railway company passed after an unauthorized lease will not be such a ratification see Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

c. Legislative Power to Sell Includes Power to Mortgage. A corporation which is authorized to sell its franchises is authorized to mortgage them, since a mortgage is but a sale with a power of defeasance.[14]

5. Judicial Sale of Corporate Franchises — a. Corporate Franchises Not Vendible Under Execution. The franchises of a corporation, whether primary or secondary, cannot be levied upon and sold upon execution, unless there is a provision in the charter or governing statute which enables it to be done.[15]

b. What Franchises of Railway Company Pass by Judicial Sale. In defining what are the franchises of a railway company acquired by a purchaser at a marshal's sale, the supreme court of the United States have said: "The franchises of a railroad corporation are rights or privileges which are essential to the operations of the corporation, and without which its road and works would be of little value; such as the franchise to run cars, to take tolls, to appropriate earth and gravel for the bed of its road, or water for its engines, and the like. They are positive rights or privileges, without the possession of which the road of the company could not be successfully worked."[16] This description has been held to include the right of appropriating strips of land necessary to the construction of depots, cattle-pens, coal-bins, sheds, and the like, without which the railway could not be successfully operated.[17]

c. What Special Immunities Do Not Pass to Purchasing Company Organized Under Existing Laws. An immunity from legislative interference with reference to fixing its tolls does not so pass.[18]

6. Whether Portion of Franchise of Railway Corporation Can Be Alienated. As to whether a railway franchise can be split up so as to enable the corporation to alien a portion of its privileges see the authorities collected in the note.[19]

7. Whether Corporate Franchise Can Be Transferred to Individual. Plainly a franchise possessed by a corporation cannot be transferred to an individual, unless it is such a franchise as an individual might hold and exercise. A franchise which is in its nature personal to the grantee already possessed of it, such as an exemption from taxation, cannot be sold to an individual;[20] nor can a franchise to operate a railroad, since this would have the effect of turning a franchise granted for a public benefit into a mere means of private emolument;[21] nor can a navigation company grant to an individual the privilege of taking water from its dams for private purposes.[22] But of course the legislature may authorize the sale of the franchise of a corporation to a natural person, and such a statute will not be unconstitutional.[23]

8. Power of Corporation to Purchase Exclusive Franchise From Individual. It has been held that where the legislature has by a valid grant conferred upon

14. Willamette Woolen Mfg. Co. v. British Columbia Bank, 119 U. S. 191, 7 S. Ct. 187, 30 L. ed. 384. See also infra, XVIII, B, 1, c.

15. Louisiana.— New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Delamore, 34 La. Ann. 1225; State v. Morgan, 28 La. Ann. 482.

Mississippi.— Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

Missouri.— Stewart v. Jones, 40 Mo. 140.

Tennessee.—Baxter v. Nashville, etc., Turnpike Co., 10 Lea 488.

Texas.— Palestine v. Barnes, 50 Tex. 538.

Compare State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Of course the legislature can change this rule as was done in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania act of April 7, 1870. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 70 Pa. St. 355.

16. Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

17. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Steamship Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265.

18. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 86 Va. 1004, 11 S. E. 1062.

19. That it cannot be split up so as to carry an exemption from taxation see State v. Morgan, 28 La. Ann. 482 [affirmed in 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860]. That the splitting up of a street railway franchise is a matter which concerns the public alone see Oakland R. Co. v. Oakland, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 365, 13 Am. Rep. 181.

20. State v. Morgan, 28 La. Ann. 482 [affirmed on other grounds in 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860].

21. Stewart's Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 413.

22. Jessup v. Loucks, 55 Pa. St. 350.

23. Clow v. Van Loan, 4 Hun (N. Y.) 184, 6 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 458.

private persons an exclusive franchise, a corporation may purchase from such persons such franchise, the state making no objection.[24]

9. Sale of Vendible Franchises of Corporation Does Not Work Dissolution. While as already seen [25] a corporation cannot sell its primary franchise, that is, its franchise of being a corporation, yet, as it can exist as a corporation without owning any property, a sale of all its property and franchises will operate to pass those franchises which are vendible, and will not have the effect of working a dissolution of the corporation.[26]

10. Transfer of Franchises of Corporation by Its Members Transferring All Their Shares. Even the primary franchise of a corporation, the right to exist as a corporation, may be transferred to a new set of adventurers by the very simple act of its shareholders transferring all their shares to the new sharetakers or to a trustee for them. This transaction is not regarded as a transfer of its franchises by the corporation, but it remains, in the theory or fiction of law, the same person as before, although its membership has totally changed.[27]

11. After Unlawful Assignment, Franchises Annulled Only by State. It seems that franchises illegally assigned by one corporation to another can be annulled only in an action by the state against the corporation to which they have been assigned.[28]

12. Property Necessary to Possession and Enjoyment of Inalienable Franchises Is Not Alienable. No corporation can, without the distinct permission of the state, alien any property necessary to the possession and enjoyment of its inalienable franchises, that is to say, such property as is necessary, either (1) to the exercise of its franchise to be a corporation,[29] or (2) to the discharge of the public duties in consideration of which its franchises have been granted.[30]

13. All Other Corporate Property Alienable. But the power to sell and dispose of all of its property not necessary to the exercise of its inalienable franchises necessarily exists as an incident of the mere right of ownership, since the possession of property is not necessary to the existence of a corporation.[31]

24. California State Tel. Co. v. Alta Tel. Co., 22 Cal. 398.

25. See supra, XVI, C, 1.

26. Bruffett v. Great Western R. Co., 25 Ill. 353 (sale of the rolling-stock and personal property of a railway company); Troy R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 581 (sale by a railway company of its entire road). For a statute which was held not to revoke the charter of a railway corporation or vest in a company purchasing its property under a mortgage the title to a judgment not covered by the mortgage see Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Downward, (Del. 1888) 14 Atl. 720.

27. State v. Butler, 86 Tenn. 614, 8 S. W. 586.

28. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 15 Hun (N. Y.) 126.

29. Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700.

30. Such as the right or power of eminent domain. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518. Compare Reg. v. South Wales R. Co., 14 Q. B. 902, 14 Jur. 828, 19 L. J. Q. B. 272, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 489, 68 E. C. L. 902.

31. Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 30; State v. Western Irrigating Canal Co., 40 Kan. 96, 19 Pac. 349, 10 Am. St. Rep. 166; Willamette Woolen Mfg. Co. v. British Columbia Bank, 119 U. S. 191, 7 S. Ct. 187, 30 L. ed. 384. Neither can the mere insolvency of a corporation extinguish its corporate existence, for the reason above stated, that the possession of property is not necessary to the existence of a corporation. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292. As to the effect of selling all the assets of a corporation see notes 99 Am. Dec. 333, and 75 Am. Dec. 548. Upon the proposition that a railway company may, under the general power of disposing of its property for the purposes of its incorporation, conferred by its charter or by other statute, alienate its personal property, such as its locomotives and cars, there seems to be no substantial difference of opinion. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518. The power of a railroad corporation to alienate its property by its voluntary conveyance, and the right of creditors to subject it to their debts, rest upon the same analogies; therefore the rolling-stock of a railroad is subject to attachment and execution. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Gilmore, 37 N. H. 410, 72 Am. Dec. 336.

Rights of way, works, etc., of irrigating company alienable.— Martin v. Zellerbach, 38 Cal. 300, 99 Am. Dec. 365; State v. Western Irrigating Canal Co., 40 Kan. 96, 19 Pac. 349, 10 Am. St. Rep. 166.

XVII. CORPORATE POWERS AND DOCTRINE OF ULTRA VIRES.

A. Corporate Powers in General — 1. No Powers Except Those Expressly Granted or Necessarily Implied — a. In General. Judicial decisions abound in general statements of doctrine to the effect that corporations possess only such powers as are expressly granted, or such as are necessary to carry into effect the powers expressly granted.[32]

b. Or Incidental to Its Existence — (I) In General. "A corporation," said a great jurist in a great case, "being the mere creature of law, possesses only those properties which the charter of its creation confers upon it, either expressly or as incidental to its very existence."[33]

(II) What Is Meant by Incidental Power. An incidental power is one that is directly and immediately appropriate to the execution of the specific power granted, and not one that has a slight or remote relation to it.[34] An incidental

32. Alabama.— Chewacla Lime Works v. Dismuke, 87 Ala. 344, 6 So. 122, 5 L. R. A. 100; Montgomery v. Montgomery, etc., Plank-Road Co., 31 Ala. 76; State v. Mobile, 5 Port. 279, 30 Am. Dec. 564; State v. Stebbins, 1 Stew. 299.

California.— Vandall v. South San Francisco Dock Co., 40 Cal. 83; Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills Co., 6 Cal. 1; Smith v. Morse, 2 Cal. 524.

Connecticut.— Fuller v. Plainfield Academic School, 6 Conn. 532.

Georgia.— First M. E. Church v. Atlanta, 76 Ga. 181; Winter v. Muscogee R. Co., 11 Ga. 438.

Illinois.— Petersburg v. Metzker, 21 Ill. 205; Jacksonville v. McConnel, 12 Ill. 138; Kinzie v. Chicago, 3 Ill. 187, 33 Am. Dec. 443; Betts v. Menard, 1 Ill. 395.

Louisiana.— State v. Newman, 51 La. Ann. 833, 25 So. 408, 72 Am. St. Rep. 476; New Orleans, etc., Steamship Co. v. Ocean Dry Dock Co., 28 La. Ann. 173, 26 Am. Rep. 90; Louisiana State Bank v. New Orleans Nav. Co., 3 La. Ann. 294.

Maryland.— Lazear v. National Union Bank, 52 Md. 78, 36 Am. Rep. 355; Weckler v. Hagerstown First Nat. Bank, 42 Md. 581, 20 Am. Rep. 95; Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 21 Md. 50.

Michigan.— Atty.-Gen. v. Oakland County Bank, Walk. 90.

Missouri.— State v. Lincoln Trust Co., 144 Mo. 562, 46 S. W. 593; Matthews v. Skinker, 62 Mo. 329, 21 Am. Rep. 425.

Nebraska.— State v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 24 Nebr. 143, 38 N. W. 43, 8 Am. St. Rep. 164.

Nevada.— Whitman Gold, etc., Min. Co. v. Baker, 3 Nev. 386.

New Hampshire.— Downing v. Mt. Washington Road Co., 40 N. H. 230.

New Jersey.— Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97; National Trust Co. v. Miller, 33 N. J. Eq. 155.

New York.— People v. Utica Ins. Co., 15 Johns. 358, 8 Am. Dec. 243; Beatty v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Johns. 109, 3 Am. Dec. 401.

Ohio.— White's Bank v. Toledo F. & M. Ins. Co., 12 Ohio St. 601; Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 Ohio St. 59.

Oregon.— Beers v. Dalles City, 16 Oreg. 334, 18 Pac. 835.

Pennsylvania.—Stormfeltz v. Manor Turnpike Co., 13 Pa. St. 555; McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant 36.

Tennessee.— Greeneville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 8 Baxt. 332.

Wisconsin.— Janesville Bridge Co. v. Stoughton, 1 Pinn. 667.

United States.— Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837; Huntington v. District of Columbia Nat. Sav. Bank, 96 U. S. 388, 24 L. ed. 777; Minturn v. Larue, 23 How. 435, 16 L. ed. 574; Perrine v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 9 How. 172, 13 L. ed. 92; Mills v. St. Clair County, 8 How. 569, 12 L. ed. 1201; Tombigbee R. Co. v. Kneeland, 4 How. 16, 11 L. ed. 855; Runyan v. Coster, 14 Pet. 122, 10 L. ed. 382; Augusta Bank v. Earle, 13 Pet. 519, 10 L. ed. 274; Charles River Bridge v. Warren Bridge, 11 Pet. 420, 9 L. ed. 773, 938; Beaty v. Knowler, 4 Pet. 152, 7 L. ed. 813 [affirming 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,896, 1 McLean 41]; Goszler v. Georgetown, 6 Wheat. 593, 5 L. ed. 339; Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. 518, 4 L. ed. 629; Head v. Providence Ins. Co., 2 Cranch 127, 2 L. ed. 229; Columbus City Bank v. Beach, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,736, 1 Blatchf. 425; Farnum v. Blackstone Canal Corp., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,675, 1 Sumn. 46; Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1517.

There is a collection of American decisions on the doctrine that the powers of corporations are restrained to those conferred by statute, in 5 L. R. A. 100 note.

33. Marshall, C. J., in Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518, 636, 4 L. ed. 629. See also Gould v. Fuller, 79 Minn. 414, 82 N. W. 673, same rule under articles of incorporation, which are analogous to a charter.

34. Hood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 1; People v. Chicago Gas Trust Co., 130 Ill. 268, 22 N. E. 798, 17 Am. St. Rep.

power exists only for the purpose of enabling a corporation to carry out the powers expressly granted to it, that is to say the powers necessary to accomplish the purpose of its existence, and can in no case avail to enlarge the express powers, and thereby warrant it to devote its efforts and capital to other purposes than such as its charter expressly authorizes, or to engage in collateral enterprises, not directly, but only remotely connected with its specific corporate purposes.[35]

(III) What Is Meant by Implied Power. The implied powers of a corporation are not limited to such as are indispensably necessary to carry into effect those expressly granted, but comprise all that are necessary, in the sense of being appropriate, convenient, and suitable for such purposes, including the right of a reasonable choice of means to be employed.[36] They must result from the charter by necessary implication, regard being had to the object and purpose of the corporation; and if there is any uncertainty or doubt as to the terms of the charter it must be resolved in favor of the public.[37]

(IV) In Executing Express Powers May Use Any Means Reasonably Adapted to Ends. If the means employed are reasonably adapted to the ends for which the corporation was created, they come within its implied or incidental powers, although they may not be specifically designated by the act of incorporation.[38] The meaning is that, except where expressly restricted by charter or statute,[39] corporations take, by implication, the right to use all reasonable modes of executing their express powers which a natural person might adopt in the exercise of similar powers.[40] "They must have a choice of means adapted to ends, and are not to be confined to any one mode of operation."[41]

(V) Mode of Exercising Express Powers May Be Varied by Custom— (A) In General. Directory provisions of charters, or those provisions which prescribe the formalities of exercising the powers of the corporation, may be varied by custom, and a customary, although not a statutory, exercise of their powers will be deemed good for the purpose of upholding the rights of third parties who have dealt with them in good faith.[42] For instance, although as a general rule the directors of a corporation can exercise their powers only when sitting as a board,[43] yet if they adopt the practice of giving separate assent to the execution of contracts in their name by their agents it will be of the same force as if done by vote at a regular meeting of the board.[44]

(B) But Custom or Usage Cannot Vary Express Contracts. But the custom or practice of a corporation cannot be set up in its favor to vary the terms of an express contract into which it has entered,[45] although a custom of a corporation may be set up to show a waiver by it of a condition in a contract.[46]

e. What Powers Possessed by Necessary Implication. Every corporation has by necessary implication the power to do whatever is necessary to carry into effect the purposes of its creation, unless the doing of the particular thing is prohibited

319, 8 L. R. A. 497; State v. Newman, 51 La. Ann. 833, 25 So. 408, 72 Am. St. Rep. 476.

35. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664.

36. Central Ohio Natural Gas, etc., Co. v. Capital Dairy Co., 60 Ohio St. 96, 53 N. E. 711.

37. State v. Lincoln Trust Co., 144 Mo. 562, 46 S. W. 593.

38. Halsey v. Rapid Transit R. Co., 47 N. J. Eq. 380, 20 Atl. 859; Madison, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Watertown, etc., Plank Road Co., 5 Wis. 173.

39. See supra, XII, B, 1, a.

40. New England F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 25 Ind. 536. See also supra, XII, D, 1, b, (I) et seq.; XII, F, 1.

41. Bridgeport v. Housatonuc R. Co., 15 Conn. 475, 502, per Church, J.

42. Thus corporations authorized by their charters to contract in a prescribed mode may nevertheless by practice render themselves liable on instruments executed in a different mode. Witte v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 260; Bulkley v. Derby Fishing Co., 2 Conn. 252, 7 Am. Dec. 271.

43. See supra, IX, E, 1, a et seq.

44. Middlebury Bank v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 159.

45. New Hampshire Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Rand, 24 N. H. 428; Partridge v. Life Ins. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,786, 1 Dill. 139 [affirmed in 15 Wall. (U. S.) 573, 21 L. ed. 229].

46. Tennant v. Travellers' Ins. Co., 31 Fed. 322.

by law or by its charter.[47] The meaning is that whatever may fairly be regarded as incidental to, and consequential upon, those things which are authorized by the charter of a corporation will not be held by judicial construction to be ultra vires, unless expressly prohibited.[48] The doctrine is not that an express power conferred upon a corporation to accomplish certain objects carries with it by implication all the power which might possibly under given circumstances be called into exercise to effectuate those objects. The meaning rather is that it carries with it by implication a grant of the right to use all such powers as a natural person might properly and lawfully use to accomplish the same results under similar circumstances. Such a grant does not for instance carry with it an implied power to do an act impairing the vested rights of others.[49]

d. Possess Implied Powers to Do Whatever Is Necessary to Effectuate Express Powers — (I) In General. Where an express power is granted to do a particular act, this carries with it by implication the right to do any act which may be found reasonably necessary to give effect to the power expressly granted.[50]

(II) Examples of These Powers. On this principle every corporation, private or municipal, without regard to the ends for which it is created, possesses, in the absence of language expressly restrictive, certain powers which have been found necessary to its very existence and self-preservation, among which are the power to make by-laws or other rules for its internal management;[51] the power to make and use a common seal by which to express its assent to its contracts;[52] and the power to sue and be sued[53] in the ordinary courts of justice, for the vindication of its rights and for the vindication of the rights of others against it. These three powers are often referred to as incident to every corporation,[54] and they are often described as the common-law powers of corporations. Upon this subject it has been observed that "the common law gives to all corporations the powers belonging to corporations of their class, unless there is something in the nature of the corporation, or in the terms of its charter or act of incorporation, inconsistent with the exercise of such powers, or there is some general statute restricting their powers. The power to make contracts, to contract obligations as natural persons may do, is laid down in all the elementary books, as one of the ordinary incidents of all corporations not specially restricted."[55]

47. Le Couteulx v. Buffalo, 33 N. Y. 333; Leavitt v. Blatchford, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 9; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. St. 33, 75 Am. Dec. 574; McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant (Pa.) 36; Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. (Pa.) 223.

48. Ellerman v. Chicago Junction R., etc., Stockyards Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 217, 23 Atl. 287.

49. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N. J. Eq. 352.

50. Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 248.

Connecticut.— New Haven v. Sargent, 38 Conn. 50, 9 Am. Rep. 360; Hope Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Weed, 28 Conn. 51; Bridgeport v. Housatonuc, etc., R. Co., 15 Conn. 475; Stratford v. Sanford, 9 Conn. 275.

Illinois.— St. Clair County Turnpike Co. v. People, 82 Ill. 174; Chandler v. Northern Cross R. Co., 18 Ill. 190; Belleville, etc., R. Co. v. Gregory, 15 Ill. 20, 58 Am. Dec. 589; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rucker, 14 Ill. 353; Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273.

Indiana.— New England F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 25 Ind. 536; Protzman v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 467, 68 Am. Dec. 650.

Kentucky.— Bardstown, etc., Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. 199, 81 Am. Dec. 541.

Louisiana.— Knight v. Carrollton R. Co., 9 La. Ann. 284; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Second Municipality, 1 La. Ann. 128.

Maine.— Plummer v. Penobscot Lumbering Assoc., 67 Me. 363.

Maryland.— Wellersburg, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Young, 12 Md. 476; Tide Water Canal Co. v. Archer, 9 Gill & J. 479.

Missouri.— Kitchen v. Cape Girardeau, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. 514; St. Louis v. Russell, 9 Mo. 507.

New Jersey.— Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728; Atty.-Gen. v. Stevens, 1 N. J. Eq. 369, 22 Am. Dec. 526.

United States.— Blanchard's Gun-Stock Turning Factory v. Warner, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,521, 1 Blatchf. 258, 1 Fish Pat. Rep. 184.

51. See supra, V, B, 1.

52. See supra, XII, D, 1, a.

53. That the power to sue and be sued is necessarily implied see Grant County v. Lake County, 17 Oreg. 453, 21 Pac. 447. See also infra, XXII, A, 1, a et seq.

54. Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

55. Smith v. Nashua, etc., R. Co., 27 N. H. 86, 94, 59 Am. Dec. 364.

e. Subject to Same Inferences and Intendments as Natural Persons. A corporation, when acting within the general scope and purview of its granted powers, is subject to the same intendments and implications in respect of the mode of their exercise as would arise from similar acts or conduct of natural persons.[56]

f. Subject to Same Restraints as Natural Persons. Corporations stand under the same restraints as individuals, except where otherwise provided in their charters, in the use of their property, in the exercise of their powers, and in the transaction of their business, to the end of avoiding injury to others; and to this end they are subject to the same control under the police powers of the state, whether exercised directly through its legislature, or by delegation through the legislature of a municipal corporation.[57]

2. Can Do No Acts Not Authorized by Charter or Governing Statute. "A corporation can make no contracts, and do no acts either within or without the State which created it, except such as are authorized by its charter";[58] and in strictness those acts must moreover be done through the instrumentality of officers or agents in such a manner as the charter or governing statute authorizes.[59] Assuming, then, that the charter or governing statute of a particular corporation is, under the constitution of the United States and that of the particular state, within the powers of the legislature, it constitutes the index to the objects for which the corporation was created and to the powers with which it has been endowed.[60]

3. Held to Reasonable Exercise of Their Powers. The power of the judicial courts to nullify the operation of the by-laws, rules, and regulations of corporations, including the ordinances of municipal corporations, when unreasonable,[61] is founded upon the principle "that corporations have none of the elements of sovereignty, that they cannot go beyond the powers granted them, and that they must exercise such granted powers in a reasonable manner"; and upon the further principle that "the court must judge in each case whether the exercise of the power be reasonable."[62]

4. Limits of Power to Make and Take Contracts. In respect of the power of corporations to make and take contracts, two propositions may be stated: (1) That they have, by mere implication of law and without any affirmative Instances of powers implied under this rule. — New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Second Municipality, 1 La. Ann. 128 [reaffirmed in Knight v. Carrollton R. Co., 9 La. Ann. 284, power to lay a railroad on a street includes power to make a turnout]; Kitchen v. Cape Girardeau, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. 514 (implied power to employ agents to effect general purpose); Smith v. Nashua, etc., R. Co., 27 N. H. 86, 94, 59 Am. Dec. 364 (power to become common carrier of goods includes power to become responsible as bailee after end of transit); Atty.-Gen. v. Stevens, 1 N. J. Eq. 369, 22 Am. Dec. 526 (power to build railroad includes power to bridge navigable stream). And see the following cases:

Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 248.

Connecticut.— New Haven v. Sargent, 38 Conn. 50, 9 Am. Rep. 360; Hope Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Weed, 28 Conn. 51.

Illinois.— Chandler v. Northern Cross R. Co., 18 Ill. 190; Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273.

Indiana.— Protzman v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 467, 68 Am. Dec. 650.

Kentucky.—Bardstown, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. 199, 81 Am. Dec. 541.

56. Tennessee River Transp. Co. v. Kavanaugh, 93 Ala. 324, 9 So. 395; Bates v. State Bank, 2 Ala. 451.

57. Richmond, etc., R. Co., v. Richmond, 26 Gratt. (Va.) 83. See also Farmers', etc., Bank v. Harrison, 57 Mo. 503. Thus the right to lay a railway through a city does not by implication prohibit a municipal corporation from restraining the use of engines thereon propelled by steam. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 26 Gratt. (Va.) 83.

58. Talmadge v. North American Coal, etc., Co., 3 Head (Tenn.) 337; Tombigbee R. Co. v. Kneeland, 4 How. (U. S.) 16, 11 L. ed. 855; Runyan v. Coster, 14 Pet. (U. S.) 122, 10 L. ed. 382; Augusta Bank v. Earle, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 519, 587, 10 L. ed. 274.

59. Talmadge v. North American Coal, etc., Co., 3 Head (Tenn.) 337. See also supra, XII, B, 1, a et seq.

60. Aurora v. West, 9 Ind. 74.

For a leading exception to the doctrine of the text with respect to ultra vires acts which are fraudulent or tortious see infra, XIX, A, 6, a et seq.

61. See supra, V, C, 11, a et seq.

62. St. Louis v. Weber, 44 Mo. 547, 550.

expression to that effect in their charters or governing statutes, and of course in the absence of express prohibitions, the same power to make and take contracts, within the scope of the purposes of their creation, which natural persons have;[63] and (2) that this power on the other hand is restricted to the purposes for which the corporation has been created and cannot be lawfully exercised by it for other purposes.[64]

5. Powers of De Facto Corporations. If a corporation exists de facto, within the meaning of principles already considered,[65] then the law will ascribe to it all the powers which it would have possessed if it had been regularly organized; and this will include all these powers which are ascribed by implication of law to corporations generally; such as the power to make and take contracts, to acquire and transmit property, to sue and be sued, etc. It can make any contracts, including mortgages of after-acquired property, which the law authorizes corporations to make.[66] For instance a conveyance by or to a corporation defectively organized but existing and exercising its franchises without interference by the state will pass a good title, as least as against everyone save the state.[67] So it is not necessary to do more than to prove that a plaintiff suing as a corporation is such de facto to enable it to maintain an action against any one other than the state who has contracted with the corporation or who has done it a wrong.[68]

B. Financial Powers — 1. Implied Financial Powers — a. General Principles Stated. In deciding whether a corporation can make a particular contract, it is said that we are to consider in the first place, whether its charter or some statute binding upon it forbids or permits it to make such a contract; and, if the charter and statutory law are silent on the subject, in the second place, whether the power to make such a contract may not be implied on the part of the corporation as directly or incidentally necessary to enable it to fulfil the purpose of its existence, or whether the contract is entirely foreign to that purpose.[69]

63. California.— Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills Co., 6 Cal. 1.

Michigan.— Cicotte v. St. Anne Catholic, etc., Church, 60 Mich. 552, 27 N. W. 682.

Missouri.— Liebke v. Knapp, 79 Mo. 22, 49 Am. Rep. 212; Baile v. St. Joseph F., etc., Ins. Co., 73 Mo. 371.

New York.— Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

Ohio.— Reynolds v. Stark County, 5 Ohio 204.

Oregon.— Portland Lumbering, etc., Co. v. East Portland, 18 Oreg. 21, 22 Pac. 536, 6 L. R. A. 290.

Pennsylvania.—Hand v. Clearfield Coal Co., 143 Pa. St. 408, 22 Atl. 709, 29 Wkly. Notes Cas. 9.

64. Alabama.— Morris v. Hall, 41 Ala. 510; Montgomery v. Montgomery, etc., Plank-Road Co., 31 Ala. 76; Smith v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 Ala. 558.

California.— Union Water Co. v. Murphy's Flat Fluming Co., 22 Cal. 620.

Connecticut.— Converse v. Norwich, etc., Transp. Co., 33 Conn. 166; Naugatuck R. Co. v. Waterbury Button Co., 24 Conn. 468; Hood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 1, 23 Conn. 609; Fuller v. Naugatuck R. Co., 21 Conn. 557; New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 5 Conn. 560, 13 Am. Dec. 100.

Missouri.— Detweiler v. Breckenkamp, 83 Mo. 45.

New York.— People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 70 N. Y. 569; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

United States.— Shields v. Ohio, 95 U. S. 319, 24 L. ed. 357; U. S. v. Louisville, etc., Canal Co., 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,633, 1 Flipp. 260, 4 Dill. 601. See also Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351.

65. See supra, I, O, 1, a et seq.

66. McTighe v. Macon Constr. Co., 94 Ga. 306, 21 S. E. 701, 47 Am. St. Rep. 143, 32 L. R. A. 208.

67. Finch v. Ullman, 105 Mo. 255, 16 S. W. 863, 24 Am. St. Rep. 383; Doyle v. San Diego Land, etc., Co., 46 Fed. 709.

68. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church, 137 U. S. 568, 11 S. Ct. 185, 34 L. ed. 784. See to the contrary under the law of Louisiana Hincks v. Converse, 37 La. Ann. 484; Workingmen's Accommodation Bank v. Converse, 29 La. Ann. 369. Compare Vredenburg v. Behan, 33 La. Ann. 627; African M. E. Church v. New Orleans, 15 La. Ann. 441.

For further illustrations of the principle see Larned v. Beal, 65 N. H. 184, 23 Atl. 149; Lippincott v. Shaw Carriage Co., 25 Fed. 577.

Status of unconstitutional corporations under early Michigan "Wild Cat" decisions, which are deemed untenable. Hurlbut v. Britain, 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 191; Smith v. Barstow, 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 155. See also supra, I, O, 2, d.

69. Hart v. Missouri State Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 21 Mo. 91, 92, per Scott, J.

b. Implied Power to Borrow Money — (I) In General. Every corporation, except those organized for public or governmental purposes, which may require the use of money for carrying out the purposes of its organization has an implied or incidental power to borrow money for such purposes, as much as an individual has, although no such power is expressly granted in its charter;[70] and to give the customary evidences of debt therefor,[71] and to add to this the customary security.[72]

70. Colorado.— Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 2 Colo. 248.

Illinois.— Ward v. Johnson, 95 Ill. 215.

Indiana.— Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412.

New York.— Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. 146; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. 20; Beers v. Phœnix Glass Co., 14 Barb. 358; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

Tennessee.— Moss v. Harpeth Academy, 7 Heisk. 283.

71. See infra, XVII, C, 1, a; XVIII, A, 1, a, (I) et seq.

72. See infra, XVIII, B, 1, a.

Distinction between English and American doctrine on this subject.— The reader is cautioned that there is a vital distinction between the English and the American doctrine on the subject of the power of a corporation to borrow money. The English decisions approach the subject with the presumption that unless the power is conferred by the legislature it does not exist. Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 36 Ch. D. 674, 56 L. J. Ch. 899, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401. Whereas as just seen the American cases approach it with the presumption that it does exist. In England it depends largely upon the powers which the coadventurers have taken to themselves in their articles of association, and the powers which the shareholders have conferred upon the directors, this being a matter with respect to which a majority of the shareholders can bind the minority. Bryon v. Metropolitan Saloon Omnibus Co., 3 De G. & J. 123, 60 Eng. Ch. 96. The strictness with which corporations are confined in that country to the exercise of the powers expressly granted is illustrated by an English case where a company was formed to improve a river and the lands adjoining, and for this purpose was empowered to borrow twenty-five thousand pounds on a mortgage. The directors borrowed eighty-five thousand pounds, sixty thousand pounds of which they applied in paying off a previous mortgage. In an action to recover the eighty-five thousand pounds and interest it was held that plaintiff was entitled to recover only twenty-five thousand pounds, and so much more as had been applied in payment of debts and liabilities of the company properly incurred. Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 10 App. Cas. 354, 49 J. P. 773, 54 L. J. Q. B. 577, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62 [affirming 36 Ch. D. 675 note (affirmed in 19 Q. B. D. 155, 56 L. J. Q. B. 589, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 320, 35 Wkly. Rep. 822)]. See further Landowners' West of England Land Drainage, etc., Co. v. Ashford, 16 Ch. D. 411, 50 L. J. Ch. 276, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 20, borrowing powers under the forty-second section of the English Companies Clauses Act considered by Frye, J. Whether building associations in England possess the power to borrow see Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 189, 190 [quoted with citations of cases in 4 Thompson Corp. § 5699]. As to the distinction in English law between the power of the corporation and that of the directors to borrow see Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 190 [citing In re International L. Assur. Soc. L. R. 10 Eq. 312, 39 L. J. Ch. 667, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 350, 18 Wkly. Rep. 970; Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 36 Ch. D. 674, 56 L. J. Ch. 899, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401; In re Hamilton's Windsor Ironworks, 12 Ch. D. 707, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 569, 27 Wkly. Rep. 445; Maclae v. Sutherland, 2 C. L. R. 1320, 3 E. & B. 1, 18 Jur. 942, 23 L. J. Q. B. 229, 2 Wkly. Rep. 161, 77 E. C. L. 1; Bryon v. Metropolitan Saloon Omnibus Co., 3 De G. & J. 123, 60 Eng. Ch. 96; Royal British Bank v. Turquand, 5 E. & B. 248, 1 Jur. N. S. 1086, 24 L. J. Q. B. 327, 85 E. C. L. 248 [affirmed in 6 E. & B. 327, 2 Jur. N. S. 663, 25 L. J. Q. B. 317, 88 E. C. L. 327]; In re Joint-Stock Co.'s Winding-up Acts, 18 Jur. 885; Australasia Bank v. Australia Bank, 12 Jur. 189, 6 Moore P. C. 152, 13 Eng. Reprint 642; Australian Auxiliary Steam Clipper Co. v. Mounsey, 4 Jur. N. S. 1224, 4 Kay & J. 733, 27 L. J. Ch. 729, 6 Wkly. Rep. 734]. This distinction is not pursued here, because it is deemed inapplicable under American law, where borrowing powers are regarded as pertaining to mere details of business, when not restrained or prohibited by constitution, statute, or charter, and where the directors consequently wield all those powers. The same may be said of borrowing powers conferred by special delegation from the shareholders, as to which see Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 190, 191. The English decisions on this subject are not examined here, because under American conceptions borrowing powers are implied and do not proceed from power specially delegated by the sharehholders. The same may be said of the consequences under English law of a corporation borrowing without power. Those consequences are very severe. The lender cannot in general recover the money so borrowed (In re Companies Acts, 21 Q. B. D. 301; Chapleo v. Brunswick Permanent Bldg. Soc., 6 Q. B. D. 696, 50 L. J. Q. B. 372, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 449, 29 Wkly. Rep. 529; Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc. v. Cunliffe, 29 Ch. D. 902, 54 L. J. Ch. 1091, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 741; English Channel Steamship Co. v. Rolt, 17 Ch. D. 715, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 135 [doctrine conceded]; Re Pooley Hall Colliery Co., 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 690, 18 Wkly. Rep. 201) unless he can show that it has been applied to the legitimate purposes of the company (In re National Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 5 Ch. 309, 34 J. P.

(II) Scope and Extent of Power. The rule broadly is, that where authority is given to a corporation to engage in a particular business, or to carry out a particular purpose, pecuniary or ideal, and there are no special restraints in its charter, it takes the power as a natural person enjoys it, with all its incidents and accessories; and that it may consequently borrow money to attain its legitimate objects, precisely as an individual may, and may bind itself for the payment of the same by any form of obligation not forbidden.[73]

(III) Possess This Power as an Incidental, and Not as a Principal, Power, Unless Expressly Granted. But corporations possess this power as an incidental and not as a principal power. They may not, unless expressly authorized to do so by their charters, emit bonds, notes, or bills of credit intended to circulate as money, and take in exchange therefor notes, mortgages, or other securities. The issuing of paper credits as a principal business is ultra vires, unless the power has been expressly granted, and courts will not aid them in 341, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 284, 18 Wkly. Rep. 388; In re Cork, etc., R. Co., L. R. 4 Ch. 748, 39 L. J. Ch. 277, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 18 Wkly. Rep. 26; Matter of Joint-Stock Co.'s Winding-up Act, 4 De G. M. & G. 19, 18 Jur. 710, 53 Eng. Ch. 16; Re Magdalena Steam Nav. Co., Johns. 690, 6 Jur. N. S. 975, 29 L. J. Ch. 667, 8 Wkly. Rep. 329). Partial applications of this principle were made in Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 10 App. Cas. 354, 49 J. P. 773, 54 L. J. Q. B. 577, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62 [affirmed in 19 Q. B. D. 155, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 320, 35 Wkly. Rep. 822 (affirming 36 Ch. D. 674, 56 L. J. Ch. 899, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401, 38 Ch. D. 534, 57 L. J. Ch. 946, 59 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485)]; Cunliffe v. Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., 9 App. Cas. 857, 54 L. J. Ch. 376, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 225, 33 Wkly. Rep. 309 [affirming 22 Ch. D. 61, 52 L. J. Ch. 92, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 31 Wkly. Rep. 98, 29 Ch. D. 902, 54 L. J. Ch. 1091, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 741]; and in In re London, etc., Assur. Co., 9 Wkly. Rep. 366, 10 Wkly. Rep. 662. Sir Nathaniel Lindley concludes a review of these cases with the following statement of doctrine, which clearly does not express the American law: "The mere fact that the company has had the use of the money is not enough to create an obligation to repay it: so to hold would render nugatory all prohibition against borrowing. Accordingly where the managers of a building society borrowed money for the society, but in excess of their powers, and the money so borrowed was advanced to members on the security of their shares, it was held that the lenders had no claim against the society, either as creditors at law or by reason of the application of the money." Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 238 [citing to the illustration In re National Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 5 Ch. 309, 34 J. P. 341, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 284, 18 Wkly. Rep. 388]. See further as to the consequences under English law of a corporation borrowing without power 4 Thompson Corp. § 5702, citing still other cases. Under that law, if the directors of a corporation borrow money of a stranger, not having the power so to do, and apply it to the purposes of the company, and afterward repay it to the stranger, they, the directors, may have indemnity against the company and against its shareholders. Hoare's Case, 30 Beav. 225, 2 Johns. & H. 229; Troup's Case, 29 Beav. 353; In re Norwich Yarn Co., 22 Beav. 143, 2 Jur. N. S. 940, 25 L. J. Ch. 601, 4 Wkly. Rep. 619; In re National Patent Steam Fuel Co., 1 Dr. & Sm. 55; British Provident Soc. v. Norton, 9 Jur. N. S. 1308, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 598, 2 New Rep. 147, 12 Wkly. Rep. 142; Lowndes v. Garnett, etc., Gold Min. Co. of America, 3 New Rep. 601. Sir Nathaniel Lindley comments unfavorably on these decisions. Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 383. They led up to a meritorious class of holdings, made in some cases and denied in others, to the effect that, where the creditor advanced the money directly to the company, yet he might prove up a claim for reimbursement, to the extent to which the money advanced by him had been employed in the legitimate business of the company. Under English law, although the borrower cannot recover from the company, as a debt, money loaned by him to it in excess of its powers, yet he may be subrogated to any securities which the company may have obtained by means of the money loaned, as where it has used it to take up a mortgage. Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 19 Q. B. D. 155, 56 L. J. Q. B. 589, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 320, 35 Wkly. Rep. 822 [affirming 10 App. Cas. 354, 49 J. P. 773, 54 L. J. Q. B. 577, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62 (affirming 36 Ch. D. 675 note, 38 Ch. D. 534, 57 L. J. Ch. 946, 59 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485)]. See also Cunliffe v. Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., 9 App. Cas. 857, 54 L. J. Ch. 376, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 225, 33 Wkly. Rep. 309 [affirming 22 Ch. D. 61, 52 L. J. Ch. 92, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 31 Wkly. Rep. 98, 29 Ch. D. 902, 54 L. J. Ch. 1091, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 741].

73. Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412; Smith v. Law, 21 N. Y. 296; Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9; In re Hercules Mut. L. Assur. Soc., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,402, 6 Ben. 35. That a corporation must act according to this, even in borrowing money, was laid down in the unique opinion of Bleckley, J., in Harriman v. First Bryan Baptist Church, 63 Ga. 186, 36 Am. Rep. 117, where the power to raise money by a steamboat excursion was denied to a relig-executing contracts originating in this way, although they will not deny to the public a remedy on such obligations.[74]

(IV) To What Corporations This Power Ascribed. This power has been ascribed to manufacturing,[75] railway,[76] banking,[77] insurance,[78] and even to eleemosynary corporations.[79] For instance it has been held that a corporation, organized for the manufacture of copper and brass goods, may borrow money to buy at low prices, raw material, in excess of its immediate needs;[80] that a railroad company may borrow money for carrying out the purposes of its creation, although its charter provides that its funds shall be raised by share subscriptions;[81] and that a fire-insurance company, whether organized on the stock[82] or mutual[83] plan, may borrow money to pay its losses. So it is held that a corporation possessing general banking powers, but whose charter says nothing about borrowing money, nevertheless possesses this power, without more specific authority therefor.[84]

(V) Construction of Charters Conferring and Excluding This Power. Under a body of statutes authorizing any mining company "to enter into any obligations or contracts, essential to the transaction of its ordinary affairs, or for the purposes for which it was created," and clothing its directors with authority to exercise its corporate powers in the conduct and control of its business and property, it has been held that they may borrow money for its purposes and authorize certain of its officers to negotiate loans, to execute notes, and to sign checks drawn against its bank-account, and that such authority may be otherwise shown than by the official record of its proceedings.[85] On the other hand, where the charter of a turnpike company empowered it to lay a tax upon property-owners along its road to aid in its completion, it was held that it was not thereby authorized to borrow money to hasten the work and to charge the taxpayers with interest thereon.[86]

(VI) Construction of Constitutional and Statutory Provisions Limiting Power of Corporations With Respect to Creation of Debts. Constitutional and statutory provisions placing a limitation upon the amount of indebtedness which corporations may incur have been enacted in many states.[87] Such a constitutional provision does not prohibit a corporation from borrowing ious corporation, one of the excursionists having been "threatened with a most profane form of immersion."

74. Smith v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 Ala. 558.

75. Oxford Iron Co. v. Spradley, 46 Ala. 98; National Shoe, etc., Bank's Appeal, 55 Conn. 469, 12 Atl. 646; Burr v. McDonald, 3 Gratt. (Va.) 215.

76. Union Bank v. Jacobs, 6 Humphr. (Tenn.) 515.

77. Donnell v. Lewis County Sav. Bank, 80 Mo. 165; Ringling v. Kohn, 6 Mo. App. 333; Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9 [affirming on this point 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 309]; Maclae v. Sutherland, 2 C. L. R. 1320, 3 E. & B. 1, 18 Jur. 942, 23 L. J. Q. B. 229, 2 Wkly. Rep. 161, 77 E. C. L. 1; Royal British Bank v. Turquand, 5 E. & B. 248, 1 Jur. N. S. 1086, 24 L. J. Q. B. 327, 85 E. C. L. 248 [affirmed in 6 E. & B. 327, 2 Jur. N. S. 663, 25 L. J. Q. B. 317, 88 E. C. L. 327]; In re Joint Stock Co.'s Winding-up Acts, 18 Jur. 885; Australasia Bank v. Australia Bank, 12 Jur. 189, 6 Moore P. C. 152, 13 Eng. Reprint 642.

78. Furniss v. Gilchrist, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 53; Orr v. Mercer County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 114 Pa. St. 387, 6 Atl. 696.

79. Moss v. Harpeth Academy, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 283.

80. National Shoe, etc., Bank's Appeal, 55 Conn. 469, 12 Atl. 646.

81. Union Bank v. Jacobs, 6 Humphr. (Tenn.) 515.

82. Furniss v. Gilchrist, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 53.

83. Orr v. Mercer County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 114 Pa. St. 387, 6 Atl. 696.

84. Donnell v. Lewis County Sav. Bank, 80 Mo. 165; Ringling v. Kohn, 6 Mo. App. 333; Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9 [affirming on this point 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 309].

85. Mahoney Min. Co. v. Anglo-Californian Bank, 104 U. S. 192, 26 L. ed. 707.

86. Lewis, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Thomas, (Ky. 1887) 3 S. W. 907. For a restricted view of this subject, which can scarcely commend itself to American courts, resulting in the conclusion that the assent of every individual member of the corporation will not make valid a loan beyond the sum which the company is empowered by its governing statute to borrow, there being no positive prohibition, see Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 36 Ch. D. 674, 56 L. J. Ch. 899, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401.

87. These have been considered when dealing with the liabilities of shareholders to creditors of corporation (see supra, VIII), and will be further considered when dealing money from one party to pay an existing and overdue indebtedness to another party, because this does not increase its indebtedness.[88] But an indebtedness created for the purpose of purchasing real estate, of erecting buildings for the prosecution of the business of the corporation, and not intended to discharge existing obligations, or to secure their payment, and not arising in the ordinary operations of the corporation, by the employment of labor and purchase of materials, is an increase of indebtedness within the meaning of such a prohibition.[89] Under a statute authorizing corporations to borrow money not exceeding their authorized capital stock, a loan to a corporation in excess of its authorized stock is not invalid up to that amount.[90]

(VII) Rights of Creditors Where Debts Are Created in Excess of Statutory Limit. By the American law, where there is a statute imposing a limit upon corporations in respect of the amount of debts which they can incur, a creditor who does not know that the limit has been exceeded, and who has no reasonable ground to believe that such is the fact, may enforce the obligation of the contract against the corporation.[91] The American courts have adopted this rule under the stress of justice, seeking to found it sometimes on the view that the statute is directory merely,[92] or that the corporation is estopped from setting up such a defense after having enjoyed the benefit of the contract, especially where the money thus borrowed has been used in conducting the legitimate business of the corporation, with the knowledge and consent of all the shareholders.[93]

(VIII) Power of Officers to Borrow For Company. With respect to the directors, the power is presumed, since it is a mere business power, and they with corporate bonds (see infra, XVIII, A, 1, c).

88. Powell v. Blair, 7 Pa. Co. Ct. 492 [affirmed in 133 Pa. St. 550, 19 Atl. 559], the prohibition was against the increase of indebtedness without the consent of a majority of the shareholders.

89. Nicholas v. Putnam Mach. Co., 7 Northam. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 137.

90. Moon Bros. Carriage Co. v. Waxahachie Grain, etc., Co., 13 Tex. Civ. App. 103, 35 S. W. 337 [writ of error denied in 89 Tex. 511, 35 S. W. 1047]. That the directors of a corporation are not prohibited from creating an original bonded indebtedness by a statute prohibiting them from increasing a bonded indebtedness and requiring a meeting of the shareholders to accomplish that purpose was held in Smith v. Ferries, etc., R. Co., (Cal. 1897) 51 Pac. 710. Further as to the construction of such statutes and charters see Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 280; Com. v. Lehigh Ave. R. Co., 6 Pa. Co. Ct. 557. That non-negotiable notes secured by mortgages, given for advances of money and materials for the improvement of corporate property, are not a fictitious indebtedness or a bonded indebtedness, within the meaning of a constitutional provision, and a statute prohibiting the directors of corporations from creating debts larger than the prescribed capital stock, etc., see Underhill v. Santa Barbara Land, etc., Co., 93 Cal. 300, 28 Pac. 1049. It seems that a constitutional restriction, followed and enforced by a statute, as to the manner of incurring corporate debts, by requiring the consent of a majority in value of the shares, does not apply to corporations operating under existing charters. Lewis v. Jeffries, 86 Pa. St. 340.

91. Iowa.— Humphrey v. Patrons' Mercantile Assoc., 50 Iowa 607.

Kansas.— Sherman Center Town Co. v. Morris, 43 Kan. 282, 23 Pac. 569, 19 Am. St. Rep. 134.

Minnesota.— Kraniger v. People's Bldg. Soc., 60 Minn. 94, 61 N. W. 904.

New Hampshire.— Ossipee Hosiery, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Canney, 54 N. H. 295.

United States.— Allis v. Jones, 45 Fed. 148; Wood v. Corry Water Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168. Contra, Weber v. Spokane Nat. Bank, 50 Fed. 735.

Doctrine of ultra vires not applied.—Where a creditor of a corporation had no knowledge that the corporation had exceeded the limit beyond which it was forbidden by statute to contract debts, and could not by inquiry have ascertained that fact, it was held that the doctrine of ultra vires would not be applied to him. Ossipee Hosiery, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Canney, 54 N. H. 295.

92. Sherman Center Town Co. v. Morris, 43 Kan. 282, 23 Pac. 569, 19 Am. St. Rep. 134.

93. Allis v. Jones, 45 Fed. 148.

Rule as to strictly public corporations.— This rule does not apply with respect to strictly public corporations (Daviess County v. Dickinson, 117 U. S. 657, 6 S. Ct. 897, 29 L. ed. 1026; Litchfield v. Ballou, 114 U. S. 190, 5 S. Ct. 820, 29 L. ed. 132; Crampton v. Zabriskie, 101 U. S. 601, 25 L. ed. 1070), but even here the money thus advanced may be recovered back in an action for money had and received (Louisiana City v. Wood, 102 U. S. 294, 26 L. ed. 153).

That shares issued and turned over to other corporations in consideration of transfers by them of property of various kinds is "subwield all the powers of the corporation for the purpose of conducting its business.[94] But in the case of other ministerial officers, the power ought to be proved; although in such cases it is not necessary that it should be proved by the production of an official record, but it may be proved by circumstances.[95] As already seen this power has been judicially ascribed to the president,[96] and to other managing agents of corporations; and it has been ascribed to the cashier of a bank.[97]

(IX) When Not Necessary to Show That Corporation Received Benefit of Money Loaned to It. Manifestly where the company has the power to borrow, and where, as in ordinary cases under American law, the directors wield the borrowing powers of the company, if in the absence of collusion or fraud affecting the lender they borrow money for the purposes of the corporation, it is not necessary for him, in order to maintain his legal or equitable remedies against the corporation, its shareholders, or sureties, to show that the money so borrowed was actually appropriated to its use,[98] and this on a principle already stated that one who in good faith advances money to a trustee is not concerned with his subsequent disposition of it as a part of the trust fund.[99]

2. Power of Corporations to Lend Out Their Funds — a. In General. Except in the case of those corporations which possess banking powers, it may be assumed that the power of corporations to lend their funds, except their surplus and unemployed funds, will not be implied; but if it is possessed at all, it must be found in their charters or governing statutes. The power to lend out its surplus funds has been ascribed to a railroad company,[1] to an insurance company,[2] to a mutual benefit society,[3] and to a manufacturing company.[4]

b. Power to Lend Financial Aid to Customer. It also seems a reasonable conclusion that a trading, mining, or manufacturing corporation may extend financial aid to a customer whenever the exigencies of its own business make such a course expedient, a rule, the necessity of which business men will readily understand.[5]

c. Charters Under Which Power to Lend Out Their Funds Is Denied. In the state of New York at an early period, when it was the policy of the state to make a monopoly of the business of banking, the power of other than banking corporations to lend out their money by discounting or purchasing commercial paper was denied, and such transactions were held void in the sense that they could not form scribed capital stock" within the meaning of a statute see Smith v. Ferries, etc., R. Co., (Cal. 1897) 51 Pac. 710.

94. See supra, IX, C, 1 et seq.

95. Mahoney Min. Co. v. Anglo-Californian Bank, 104 U. S. 192, 26 L. ed. 707.

96. See supra, X, A, 1, b, (II), (B).

97. Ringling v. Kohn, 6 Mo. App. 333. The court referred to New Haven City Bank v. Perkins, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 420, where the same point was ruled on analogous facts, and also to Barnes v. Ontario Bank, 19 N. Y. 152, where such power in the cashier of a bank was conceded.

98. Borland v. Haven, 37 Fed. 394, 13 Sawy. 551.

99. 4 Thompson Corp. § 4930.

Loan to president treated as loan to company.— For circumstances under which advances to the president of a corporation were treated as advances to the corporation see Poole v. West Point Butter, etc., Assoc., 30 Fed. 513.

1. North Carolina R. Co. v. Moore, 70 N. C. 6.

2. Such was the intimation of Brown, C. J., in McFarlan v. Triton Ins. Co., 4 Den. (N. Y.) 392.

3. Western Boatmen's Benev. Assoc. v. Kribben, 48 Mo. 37.

4. Dock v. Schlichter Jute Cordage Co., 167 Pa. St. 370, 31 Atl. 656. So also under an act incorporating a company for the purpose of granting annuities, insuring lives, and loaning money on bond and mortgage, which latter power was to cease, by a provision of the act, at the expiration of fifteen years, it was held that the company had power to lend money on bond and mortgage after fifteen years had expired, inasmuch as the continuing of the two first powers made it necessary for them to invest their funds in order to carry on their business. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Clowes, 4 Edw. (N. Y.) 575. A corporation organized for the purpose of establishing and operating a theater has power to borrow money and loan it to a lessee of the theater, for the purpose of keeping the theater running. Thoma v. East End Opera House Co., 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. 230.

5. Holmes v. Willard, 125 N. Y. 75, 25 N. E. 1083, 34 N. Y. St. 455, 11 L. R. A. 170 [af-

the basis of an action.[6] These cases proceed upon the principle that a contract made with a corporation for the loan of money as well as the security taken on the loan is void if the power to lend money be not expressly given or necessarily incident to the power given to the corporation by its charter.[7] At a later period in Alabama the same conclusion was reached with respect to a grand lodge of Masons,[8] and also with respect to a corporation chartered by the name of the "State Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry of Alabama";[9] and no doubt other decisions could be found of the same nature.

d. Power to Lend on Particular Securities. A charter empowering a bank to "deal in bullion, gold and silver coin, promissory notes, mortgages, bills of exchange, public stock, or any collateral security" did not prohibit it from acquiring a promissory note otherwise than as collateral security.[10] According to old doctrine an insurance company which is clothed with power to lend money on bottomry, respondentia, mortgages, real estate, or chattels generally, but is prohibited from exercising banking powers, or from engaging in trade, or other business, except that of insuring property, has no power to lend its money by discounting notes. A note so discounted by it is void, and it cannot recover upon it.[11]

e. Doctrine That Corporation Cannot Recover on Security Taken For Illegal Loan. It was a strictly logical consequence of the doctrine that a corporation cannot lend out its funds unless thereto authorized by charter or statute to hold that there could be no recovery upon the security thus illegally taken for the loan. And it was equally logical to hold that there could be no recovery, in an action on such a security, on a common count for money had and received; since this would equally be to give effect to the illegal contract.[12]

f. But Can Recover Money Back in Action For Money Had and Received. But the stress of justice drove the courts into the subtlety that, while the security taken for the illegal loan was void and could not afford a foundation for an action, yet the corporation might nevertheless recover back the money so illegally advanced to the borrower, in an action for money had and received; and that this might be done under the common count in an action on the security.[13] Even in case of loans which are prohibited by statute, the modern doctrine is that the corporation may recover the money back unless the governing statute says that it firming 5 N. Y. Suppl. 610]. See also Platt v. Birmingham Axle Co., 41 Conn. 255, not ultra vires under particular circumstances to make a single temporary loan to its secretary.

6. New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Bennett, 5 Conn. 574, 13 Am. Dec. 109; New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 5 Conn. 560, 13 Am. Dec. 100; Life & F. Ins. Co. v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 31; North River Ins. Co. v. Lawrence, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 482; New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 2 Cow. (N. Y.) 678.

7. Beach v. Fulton Bank, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 573.

8. Grand Lodge v. Waddill, 36 Ala. 313.

9. Chambers v. Falkner, 65 Ala. 448.

10. State Bank v. Criswell, 15 Ark. 230.

11. New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Bennett, 5 Conn. 574, 13 Am. Dec. 109; New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 5 Conn. 560, 13 Am. Dec. 100. Power of a joint-stock insurance corporation in Pennsylvania to invest its capital in such funds as it may deem most judicious, and consequently, under the authority of a statute, in the bonds of a solvent street railway company. In re Accident Ins. Co.'s Investments, 4 Pa. Dist. 227, 16 Pa. Co. Ct. 312. Power of a Pennsylvania corporation to ratify a contract whereby the corporation transfers bonds and stock to an officer in consideration of his agreement to purchase property for it. Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Kase, (Pa. 1898) 39 Atl. 301, 41 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 411.

12. Grand Lodge v. Waddill, 36 Ala. 313. To the same effect see Beach v. Fulton Bank, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 573. That a corporation cannot maintain an action on the security see Columbia Bridge Co. v. Kline, Brightly (Pa.) 320.

13. The doctrine seems to have had its foundation in Robinson v. Bland, 2 Burr. 1077. See also U. S. Trust Co. v. Brady, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 119; Utica Ins. Co. v. Kip, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 20. Compare Albert v. Baltimore, 2 Md. 159. For a decision to the effect that a loan for which a note is taken, payable on demand, is not a loan on personal security within the meaning of a statutory prohibition, the note not being a security, but a mere evidence of indebtedness, see U. S. Trust Co. v. Brady, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 119.

shall not.[14] In reaching this result the courts have quoted a pertinent dictum of Lord Mansfield: "It is very material that the statute itself, by the distinction it makes, has marked the criminal; for the penalties are all on one side."[15] Other courts reach the same result on a principle hereafter discussed that where an ultra vires contract has been fully executed on one side the other contracting party is estopped from setting up the want of power to make it.[16]

g. Power to Assign Securities Given For Loans. A corporation which has the power to lend its money and take securities therefor has therefore by necessary implication the power to assign and transfer those securities. For instance if a corporation has power to enter into contracts for the loan of its money and to take real-estate security therefor, it follows that it has power to sell and assign such securities.[17] On this principle it has been held that where a bank is authorized by its charter to have, possess, etc., lands, goods, etc., of what kind so ever, it cannot be restrained by a subsequently enacted statute from transferring its notes, bills receivable, etc., by indorsement or otherwise, but that such a statute impairs the obligation of the contract embodied in its charter, within the meaning of the constitution of the United States.[18]

h. Statutory Power to Raise Money by Means of Lottery, When Exhausted. A statutory power to manage a lottery for the purpose of raising any sum not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, for a specified public purpose, is completely exhausted when the one hundred thousand dollars have been raised; and this is so whether the grant is in the hands of the original grantees or of purchasers from them.[19]

3. Power to Lay Taxes. In the history of corporations it will be found that corporations other than municipal have been created with the power to lay taxes. A corporation possessing such an extraordinary power will on the clearest grounds be limited in the exercise of it to the specific objects intended by the legislature to be accomplished in granting it.[20]

4. Power to Hold Shares in Other Corporations — a. In General. One corporation cannot, unless authorized thereto by its governing statute, make a valid subscription to the stock of another corporation, or otherwise become a shareholder,[21] unless for the purpose of receiving payment of or security for a debt

14. Lester v. Howard Bank, 33 Md. 558, 3 Am. Rep. 211 [distinguishing Albert v. Baltimore, 2 Md. 159]; Bowditch v. New England Mut. L. Ins. Co., 141 Mass. 292, 4 N. E. 798, 55 Am. Rep. 474; Davis Sewing-Mach. Co. v. Best, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 638; Germantown Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dhein, 43 Wis. 420, 28 Am. Rep. 549 (circumstances under which an insurance company may maintain an action on the security given for a loan made in excess of its charter powers).

15. Browning v. Morris, Cowp. 790, 793. See also Harris v. Runnels, 12 How. (U. S.) 79, 13 L. ed. 901; Williams v. Hedley, 8 East 378; Jaques v. Golightly, 2 W. Bl. 1073 (in which cases distinctions are taken between prohibited contracts which are wholly void and those which for certain reasons are enforceable). That an improper condition imposed by one of the projectors of a corporation, prior to its organization, upon a loan to be made to it after its organization, will not invalidate the transaction, unless the company in its corporate capacity has adopted and ratified it, see Central Park F. Ins. Co. v. Callaghan, 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 448.

16. See infra, XVII, F, 2, c, (I), (A) et seq.

17. Detweiler v. Breckenkamp, 83 Mo. 45.

18. Planters' Bank v. Sharp, 6 How. (U. S.) 301, 12 L. ed. 447.

19. Com. v. Frankfort, 13 Bush (Ky.) 185.

20. Beaty v. Knowler, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 152, 7 L. ed. 813 [affirming 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,896, 1 McLean 41].

21. See supra, VI, G, 2, a et seq. See also the following cases:

Alabama.— Woods v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 5 R. & Corp. L. J. 372.

New Jersey.— New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475.

New York.— Berry v. Yates, 24 Barb. 199.

Ohio.— Valley R. Co. v. Lake Erie Iron Co., 46 Ohio St. 44, 18 N. E. 486, 1 L. R. A. 412.

Tennessee.— McMillen Marble Co. v. Harvey, 92 Tenn. 115, 20 S. W. 427, 36 Am. St. Rep. 71, 18 L. R. A. 252.

United States.— Sumner v. Marcy, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,609, 3 Woodb. & M. 105.

Illustrations.— Thus an insurance company has no authority to subscribe to the stock of a mutual insurance company and agree to give its notes in advance for premiums on insurances subsequently to be effected. Berry v. Yates, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 199. Manufacturing corporation in New York not authorized by statute to acquire the stock of a rival concern which has ceased to do business, for the owing to it;[22] and even then it seems that while it may receive dividends it will not be allowed to exercise the power of controlling the corporation whose shares it has acquired, by voting them as a shareholder, but that its attempt so to vote may be enjoined by the other shareholders.[23] Moreover if a corporation purchases the shares of stock of another corporation on a credit, and gives its promissory note therefor, it will not be allowed to defend an action upon the note on the ground that it had no power so to acquire the shares,[24] on principles elsewhere considered.[25] And the holder of such a judgment, when recovered, has the same remedy against the shareholders of the corporation thus unlawfully purchasing the shares of another corporation, which he would have on any other valid judgment.[26] The reasons which operate to exclude an implied power in one corporation to become the owner of shares in another are stronger in the case of an unlimited company, or in the case where the shares are not fully paid up; since in either case, if the company whose shares are thus purchased becomes insolvent, the company which becomes a shareholder therein will be liable to be put on the list of its contributories, as it is called in England, that is to say, in the case of an unlimited company where the shares are not paid up, to contribute its ratable share; or in the case of a limited company, where the shares are not paid up, to contribute its ratable share to the extent of their par value toward liquidating the debts of the company. This it has been clearly and strongly pointed out[27] has the effect of making one company a partner in another company. It is too plain for any argument that unless an express power to that end has been conferred, the directors of one corporation or company cannot involve their shareholders or the trust funds in their hands in the liability created by entering into a partnership with another corporation or company.[28]

b. Such Purchases Void When Resorted to For Purpose of Enabling One Corporation to Control Another — (i) In General. Such purchases are the subject of special disfavor where one corporation purchases the shares of another corporation engaged in a similar business, for the express purpose of absorbing and controlling it, with a view of defeating competition; and the more so where the purchasing corporation is a foreign, and the absorbed corporation a domestic, one.[29]

(ii) Void Under Federal Anti-Trust Law. A scheme by which a third corporation is formed to acquire and hold the shares of two competing railway corporations is void under the act of congress known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.[30]

c. Legislature May Authorize Such Purchases. The legislature may authorize one corporation to subscribe to the capital stock of another, and such a statute is not unconstitutional.[31] purpose of preventing reorganization and obtaining its patronage. De la Vergne Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. German Sav. Inst., 175 U. S. 40, 20 S. Ct. 20, 44 L. ed. 65. Want of power in a corporation organized for "the purpose of manufacturing," etc., to become a negotiator or broker of bonds on commission. Peck-Williams Heating, etc., Co. v. Board of Education, 6 Okla. 279, 50 Pac. 236.

22. A statute prohibiting a corporation organized under it from using any of its funds in the purchase of any stock in any other corporation does not limit its power to take such stock in payment of a debt. Holmes, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Holmes, etc., Metal Co., 127 N. Y. 252, 27 N. E. 831, 24 Am. St. Rep. 448, 38 N. Y. St. 155. It has been held that a statute forbidding one corporation to subscribe for or purchase stock or securities of another corporation, except in payment of a bona fide debt, does not apply to a case where one corporation, which has made advances to another on the security of its mortgage bonds, which it is unable to redeem, makes further advances secured by its bonds and stocks. Taylor County Ct. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 35 Fed. 161.

24. Milbank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 64 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 20. See also supra, IV, F, 10, b.

24. Holmes, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Holmes, etc., Metal Co., 53 Hun (N. Y.) 52, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 937, 25 N. Y. St. 538.

25. See infra, XVII, C, 2.

26. Sumner v. Marcy, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,609, 3 Woodb. & M. 105.

27. In re European Soc. Arbitration Acts, 8 Ch. D. 679, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 136, 27 Wkly. Rep. 88.

28. See supra, VI, G, 2, a.

29. McMillen Marble Co. v. Harvey, 92 Tenn. 115, 20 S. W. 427, 36 Am. St. Rep. 71, 18 L. R. A. 252.

30. Minnesota v. Northern Securities Co., 123 Fed. 692.

31. White v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 559.

5. Power of Corporation to Own Its Own Shares. In the absence of a statute denying the right, a corporation may purchase and dispose of its own stock, provided the transaction is made in good faith and without causing injury to its creditors.[32]

6. Usury by Corporations. A charter authorizing a particular corporation to issue mortgage bonds bearing interest at a rate not to exceed ten per cent per annum contravenes a constitutional provision requiring the legislature to fix the rate of interest, which shall be uniform throughout the state.[33] It is not usury for an insurance company in making a loan to require the borrower to insure the mortgaged premises with the company, and to pay a premium for the insurance in addition to the legal rate of interest.[34] A legislative charter which grants to an incorporated company the power to contract, without limit, for commissions, in addition to lawful interest, does not enable the corporation to take usury under the name of commissions.[35]

7. Power to Become Surety For, or Lend Credit To, Another Person or Corporation — a. In General. With the exception of those corporations, such as trust and guaranty companies, which are organized for the express purpose of becoming sureties for other persons or corporations, and with other exceptions elsewhere stated,[36] it may be laid down as a general rule that no corporation has the power, by any form of contract or indorsement, to become a guarantor or surety or otherwise to lend its credit to another person or corporation.[37]

b. To What Corporations This Power Denied. This power has been denied to banking,[38] to insurance,[39] to railroad,[40] to plank-road,[41] and to other transportation companies,[42] to manufacturing companies,[43] and to building and loan associations.[44]

32. Shoemaker v. Washburn Lumber Co., 97 Wis. 585, 73 N. W. 333.

33. McKinney v. Memphis Overton Hotel Co., 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 104.

34. New York F. Ins. Co. v. Donaldson, 3 Edw. (N. Y.) 199 [following Utica Ins. Co. v. Cadwell, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 296].

35. Johnson v. Griffin Banking, etc., Co., 55 Ga. 691.

36. See infra, XVII, B, 7, c.

37. Alabama.— Smith v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 Ala. 558.

Illinois.— Rogers v. Jewell Belting Co., 184 Ill. 574, 56 N. E. 1017 [reversing 84 Ill. App. 249, holding that where a corporation is without power to become a surety on the notes of another corporation the fact that such contract of suretyship is based upon an independent consideration does not render the corporation liable thereon].

Indiana.— Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

Iowa.— Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70 Iowa 541, 30 N. W. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 449.

Massachusetts.— Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221.

New York.— Berry v. Yates, 24 Barb. 199; Filon v. Miller Brewing Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 57, 38 N. Y. St. 602.

Pennsylvania.—Culver v. Reno Real Estate Co., 91 Pa. St. 367.

Tennessee.— Elevator Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 85 Tenn. 703, 5 S. W. 52, 4 Am. St. Rep. 798.

Wisconsin.— Madison, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Watertown, etc., Plank Road Co., 7 Wis. 59, holding that the guarantor corporation cannot enforce a mortgage on the faith of which the guaranty was given.

England.— Crewer, etc., United Min. Co. v. Willyams, 14 Wkly. Rep. 1003 [recognized in Haddon v. Ayers, 5 Jur. N. S. 408].

Canada.— Johansen v. Chaplin, 6 Montreal Q. B. 111.

See also infra, XVII, C, 4, a, (I) et seq.

38. Johansen v. Chaplin, 6 Montreal Q. B. 111.

39. Smith v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 Ala. 558; Berry v. Yates, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 199.

40. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104; Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221; Memphis Grain, etc., Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 85 Tenn. 703, 5 S. W. 52, 4 Am. St. Rep. 798.

41. Madison, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Watertown, etc., Plank Road Co., 7 Wis. 59.

42. Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70 Iowa 541, 30 N. W. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 449.

43. Best Brewing Co. v. Klassen, 185 Ill. 37, 57 N. E. 20, 76 Am. St. Rep. 26, 50 L. R. A. 765 [reversing 85 Ill. App. 464] (brewing company cannot go on the appeal-bond of a customer in order to enable him to continue in business and make further purchases from the company); Filon v. Miller Brewing Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 57, 38 N. Y. St. 602; Humboldt Min. Co. v. American Mfg., etc., Co., 62 Fed. 356, 10 C. C. A. 415 (corporation organized for manufacturing iron work for mining plants has no power to guarantee the performance of a contract by a customer for the erection of the mining plant, in order to get his business).

44. Kentucky Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lawrence, 49 S. W. 1059, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1700, holding that such a corporation cannot without statutory authority assume the debts or obligations of another corporation, ex-

So too the power to become surety for another has been denied in the case of merchandizing companies.[45]

c. Exceptions to Rule Which Denies This Power. Exceptions have been admitted on various grounds to the rule which denies this power. In California a corporation may for a valuable consideration guarantee or assume the debt of another corporation and bind itself to pay the bonds of such other corporation, although such bonds were not regularly or legally issued.[46] A guaranty by a corporation of the bonds of another corporation which could be lawfully made only upon the petition of a majority of the shareholders of the guarantor corporation, which consent was not obtained, has been held to be enforceable by bona fide holders of the bonds, but invalid as to other holders.[47] A statute requiring the articles of association of a corporation to state the purposes for which it is formed, and providing that it shall not be lawful for it to divert its operations or to appropriate its funds to any other purpose, was held to have been enacted for the protection of the public, and the conclusion was that it did not appear upon the contracts of the corporation so as to prevent it from foreclosing a mortgage given to indemnify it for guaranteeing the payment of notes of another corporation after paying such notes.[48] A manufacturing corporation in New York can, with the consent of its shareholders, execute accommodation paper, where the rights of its creditors do not intervene, and in such a case the paper may be enforced against the corporation.[49] A corporation engaged in brewing may support a customer who purchases its beer by guaranteeing the keeping of the covenants of a lease of the premises occupied by the customer, especially where the fixtures are mortgaged to the brewing company.[50] A manufacturing corporation may, as a proper incident of its business, extend financial aid to a manufacturer by advancing him money to enable him to furnish the goods.[51] Whenever a corporation has the power to take and dispose of the securities of another corporation, of whatsoever kind, it may, for the purpose of giving them a marketable quality, guarantee their payment.[52] Corporations created for the purpose of becoming sureties on the bonds of executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, etc., may become sole sureties in such a bond, for example, in a bond given by a trustee in a deed of trust for the benefit of creditors, provided their charter contains the requisite cept to the extent of the assets received from the latter corporation.

45. Kelley v. O'Brien Varnish Co., 90 Ill. App. 287, denying power to become surety on an appeal-bond for its debtor, although by so doing it delays other creditors and collects its own claim.

46. Smith v. Ferries, etc., R. Co., (Cal. 1897) 51 Pac. 710.

47. Louisville Trust Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 174 U. S. 552, 19 S. Ct. 817, 43 L. ed. 1081 [affirming in part and reversing in part 75 Fed. 433, 22 C. C. A. 378 (reversing 69 Fed. 431)].

48. Butterworth v. Kritzer Milling Co., 115 Mich. 1, 72 N. W. 990.

49. Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318 [affirming 44 Hun (N. Y.) 130].

50. Aaronson v. David Mayer Brewing Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 655, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 387; Fuld v. Burr Brewing Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 456, 45 N. Y. St. 649 [distinguishing Schurr v. New York, etc., Invest. Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 454, 45 N. Y. St. 645]. See to the contrary Best Brewing Co. v. Klassen, 185 Ill. 37, 57 N. E. 20, 76 Am. St. Rep. 26, 50 L. R. A. 765 [reversing 85 Ill. App. 464]; Filon v. Miller Brewing Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 57, 38 N. Y. St. 602.

51. Holmes v. Willard, 125 N. Y. 75, 25 N. E. 1083, 34 N. Y. St. 455, 11 L. R. A. 170. Contra, Best Brewing Co. v. Klassen, 185 Ill. 37, 57 N. E. 20, 76 Am. St. Rep. 26, 50 L. R. A. 765 [reversing 85 Ill. App. 464]; Humboldt Min. Co. v. American Mfg., etc., Co., 62 Fed. 356, 10 C. C. A. 415.

52. California.— Low v. California Pac. Co., 52 Cal. 53, 28 Am. Rep. 629.

Indiana.— Madison, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich Sav. Soc., 24 Ind. 457.

Massachusetts.— Broadway Nat. Bank v. Small, 176 Mass. 294, 57 N. E. 603, guarantees of payment of bonds taken by a loan and trust company in the ordinary course of its business made in connection with their sale not ultra vires.

New Jersey.— Ellerman v. Chicago Junction R., etc., Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 217, 23 Atl. 287.

New York.— Arnot v. Erie R. Co., 5 Hun 608.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 7 Wall. 392, 19 L. ed. 117; Marbury v. Kentucky Union Land Co., 62 Fed. 335, 10 C. C. A. 393; Rogers Locomotive, etc., Works authority; and for the purpose of determining this the court will take judicial notice of such a charter.[53] But such a company cannot escape the general rule of law that a corporation cannot guarantee the liability of others, except in so far as it becomes a guarantor in the ordinary course of its business, or unless it receives the proceeds of the paper which it guarantees.[54] A railroad company which has power to acquire, by grant or license, land on which to construct its road, may guarantee the payment of a note executed by one who has purchased the land for the company.[55]

d. Power to Assume Debts of Precedent Partnership or Individual. Where a a partnership is incorporated, and the corporation takes over the assets and the business of the partnership, the corporation has power to assume the debts of the partnership;[56] and the rule is the same where a corporation takes over the business of an individual.[57]

C. Powers Relating to Commercial Paper Other Than Bonds — 1. Implied Power to Issue Negotiable Paper — a. In General. Contrary to the English doctrine[58] it is the settled doctrine of the American courts, to which very few exceptions are admitted,[59] that every private corporation has, unless restrained by its charter or by positive law, the implied power of issuing negotiable paper in payment or settlement of any debts which it may incur in the course of its legitimate business, or in respect of any matter or thing which it is authorized by its charter or governing statute to do, and which is not foreign to the purposes of its creation.[60] The reason is that the power to make and take contracts carries with

v. Southern R. Assoc., 34 Fed. 278; Opdyke v. Pacific R. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,546, 3 Dill. 55.

53. Miller v. Matthews, 87 Md. 464, 40 Atl. 176.

54. Ward v. Joslin, 105 Fed. 224, 44 C. C. A. 456. When such a company, having gone on the bond of an administratrix, may take an assignment from her of a claim against one to whom money has been overpaid under an erroneous decree. Matter of Lawyers' Surety Co. v. Reinach, 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 150, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 205 [affirming 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 242, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 162].

55. Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Carmichael, 184 Ill. 348, 56 N. E. 372 [affirming 82 Ill. App. 344]. That a joint-stock bank in England, with powers stated, may guarantee the payment of interest on debentures of a corporation, see In re West of England Bank, 14 Ch. D. 317, 49 L. J. Ch. 400, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 619, 28 Wkly. Rep. 809. See also the observations of Lord Campbell, C. J., in Kirk v. Bell, 16 Q. B. 290, 71 E. C. L. 290. Charter provision under which a land company has power to guarantee the bonds of a railroad company, nearly all of whose stock is owned by the land company. Marbury v. Kentucky Union Land Co., 62 Fed. 335, 10 C. C. A. 393.

56. Waterman's Appeal, 26 Conn. 96.

57. Dominion Type Founding Co. v. Gazette Pub. Co., 32 N. Brunsw. 692. See also the following cases:

California.— Hall v. Auburn Turnpike Co., 27 Cal. 255, 87 Am. Dec. 75.

Iowa.— Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70 Iowa 541, 30 N. W. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 449.

Massachusetts.— Davis v. Smith American Organ Co., 131 Mass. 238.

Pennsylvania.— Culver v. Reno Real Estate Co., 91 Pa. St. 367.

Wisconsin.— Madison, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Watertown, etc., Plank Road, 7 Wis. 59.

58. See infra, XVII, C, 1, d.

59. These exceptions will be noted hereafter. See infra, XVII, C, 4, a, (I) et seq.; XVII, C, 6, a et seq.

60. Alabama.— Talladega Ins. Co. v. Peacock, 67 Ala. 253; Oxford Iron Co. v. Spradley, 46 Ala. 98.

California.— Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills, 6 Cal. 1; Magee v. Mokelumne Hill Canal, etc., Co., 5 Cal. 258.

Georgia.— Butts v. Cuthbertson, 6 Ga. 166.

Illinois.— Millard v. St. Francis Xavier Female Academy, 8 Ill. App. 341.

Indiana.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Caldwell, 98 Ind. 245; Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203; Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104; Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359.

Kentucky.— Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171.

Louisiana.— Donnelly v. St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, 26 La. Ann. 738; Brode v. Fireman's Ins. Co., 8 Rob. 244.

Maine.— Came v. Brigham, 39 Me. 35.

Massachusetts.— Fay v. Noble, 12 Cush. 1.

Minnesota.— Auerbach v. Le Sueur Mill Co., 28 Minn. 291, 9 N. W. 799, 41 Am. Rep. 285; Sullivan v. Murphy, 23 Minn. 6.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127; Harvey v. Chase, 38 N. H. 272.

New Jersey.— Montague v. Millstone Tp. Church School Dist. No. 3, 34 N. J. L. 218; Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221; Savage v. Ball, 17 N. J. Eq. 142.

New York.— Mechanics' Banking Assoc. v. New York, etc., White Lead Co., 35 N. Y. 505; Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9; Ketchum v. Buffalo, 14 N. Y. 356; Moss v. Averell, it the power to contract debts, and that the power to contract debts carries with it the power to give the usual evidences of, or security for, such debts.[61] This power is implied from the power to borrow money,[62] even though the power to borrow is not expressly granted, but is itself implied;[63] it is implied from the power to purchase property[64] and from the power of making contracts generally.[65]

b. What This Power Includes. This includes the power to make negotiable promissory notes, payable at a future day or on demand;[66] to draw bills of 10 N. Y. 449; Hascall v. Life Assoc. of America, 5 Hun 151; Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 41 Barb. 9; Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 40 Barb. 179 [affirmed in 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298]; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. 146; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. 20; Conro v. Port Henry Iron Co., 12 Barb. 27; McCullough v. Moss, 5 Den. 567; Moss v. Rossie Lead Min. Co., 5 Hill 137; Safford v. Wyckoff, 4 Hill 442; Kelley v. Brooklyn, 4 Hill 263; Moss v. Oakley, 2 Hill 265; Clark v. Farmers' Woolen Mfg. Co., 15 Wend. 256; Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. 94, 12 Am. Dec. 664; Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Munn v. Commission Co., 15 Johns. 44, 8 Am. Dec. 219; Atty.-Gen. v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 9 Paige 470; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

Pennsylvania.—McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant 36; Ridgway v. Farmers' Bank, 12 Serg. & R. 256, 14 Am. Dec. 681.

Rhode Island.— Clarke v. School Dist. No. 7, 3 R. I. 199.

Tennessee.— Union Bank v. Jacobs, 6 Humphr. 515.

Virginia.— Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Snead, 19 Gratt. 354, 100 Am. Dec. 670.

Wisconsin.—Rockwell v. Elkhorn Bank, 13 Wis. 653.

United States.— Tensas Parish Police Jury v. Britton, 15 Wall. 566, 21 L. ed. 251.

61. Howard Oil, etc., Co. v. Hughes, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 311. "The very power to contract necessarily involves the cognate power to create debt; and a corporation, without such power would be a body without life, utterly effete and worthless." Gordon, J., in Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370, 391. "The power to execute and issue bonds, contracts, or other certificates of indebtedness belongs to all corporations, public as well as private, and is inseparable from their existence." Strong, J., in Com. v. Pittsburgh, 41 Pa. St. 278, 284. See also Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370.

62. Hamilton v. New Castle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171; Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 137; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 146; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 20; Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 431, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 374.

63. Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 20.

64. Ketchum v. Buffalo, 14 N. Y. 356; Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449.

65. Rockwell v. Elkhorn Bank, 13 Wis. 653. See also Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370; Com. v. Pittsburgh, 41 Pa. St. 278.

66. Alabama.— Talladega Ins. Co. v. Peacock, 67 Ala. 253.

California.— Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills, 6 Cal. 1; Magee v. Molekumne Hill Canal, etc., Co., 5 Cal. 258.

Georgia.— Butts v. Cuthbertson, 6 Ga. 166.

Illinois.— Millard v. St. Francis Xavier Female Academy, 8 Ill. App. 341.

Louisiana.— Brode v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 8 Rob. 244.

Maine.— Came v. Brigham, 39 Me. 35.

Michigan.— Odd Fellows v. Sturgis First Nat. Bank, 42 Mich. 461, 4 N. W. 158.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127.

New Jersey.— Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221.

New York.— Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. 146; McCullough v. Moss, 5 Den. 567; Kelley v. Brooklyn, 4 Hill 263; Moss v. Oakley, 2 Hill 265; Mott v. Hicks, 1 Cow. 513, 13 Am. Dec. 550; Atty.-Gen. v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 9 Paige 470.

Rhode Island.— Clarke v. School Dist. No. 7, 3 R. I. 199.

Municipal corporations — School-districts.— This power has even been ascribed to municipal corporations (Halstead v. New York, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 218; Kelley v. Brooklyn, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 263), and in one case to a school-district (Clarke v. School Dist. No. 7, 3 R. I. 199) as a power incidental to corporations.

That the fact that a corporation is insolvent does not render a note given or a judgment confessed by it for a bona fide debt fraudulent and void see Savage v. Ball, 17 N. J. Eq. 142.

"A corporation, created to construct a railroad has power to borrow money, as one of the implied means necessary and proper to carry into effect its specific powers; and to give its promissory notes for the repayment of it." Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127, 135; Harvey v. Chase, 38 N. H. 272; Union Bank v. Jacobs, 6 Humphr. (Tenn.) 515. "This power is not restricted by the provision of the charter, limiting the capital stock of the corporation to 20,000 shares; and prescribing that no assessment shall be laid on any share of a greater amount than $100 on each share; and that if a greater amount of money shall be necessary, it shall be raised by creating new shares." Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127, 135.

A corporation, authorized to employ its stock solely in advancing money upon goods and selling upon commission, may lawfully accept bills drawn on account of future consignments or deposits of goods, and is bound by its agent's acceptance of such bills. Munn v. Commission Co., 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 44, 8 Am. Dec. 219.

exchange;[67] to accept drafts or bills;[68] to draw checks upon funds kept with a banker;[69] or in case of a railroad company to issue negotiable bonds.[70]

c. To What Corporations This Power Has Been Ascribed. This power has been ascribed to manufacturing corporations,[71] to milling companies,[72] to mining companies,[73] to railway companies,[74] and to insurance companies.[75]

d. No Such Implied Power Under English Law. The law of England undoubtedly is that corporations have not the implied power to issue negotiable paper, but that where such power is claimed to exist, it must be produced in the statute or other governing instrument of the corporation. As the law of England is on this question essentially different from that of America, the English decisions will not be examined here, but the reader is referred to a collection of them in a recent work.[76]

2. Distinction Between Want of Power to Issue Negotiable Instruments and Irregularities in Exercise of Power. There is a fundamental distinction between defenses arising from the total want of power in a corporation to issue negotiable instruments and those arising from irregularities in the exercise of the power. In respect of the former defense the rule is that persons dealing with a corporation must be presumed to know the extent of its corporate powers, and to take notice of any restrictions in its charter; and that where the duties and powers of the officers of a corporation are prescribed by statute or by charter, all persons dealing with such officers must take notice of any limitation imposed upon their authority by such statute or charter.[77] It follows that a defense by a corporation, in an action wherein it is sought to charge it with liability on a negotiable instrument which it has undertaken to issue, will be good against all persons, including bona fide holders for value, if there is an entire want of power on the part of the corporation to issue the security in question, unless the corporation is precluded from

67. Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221.

68. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104; Hascall v. Life Assoc. of America, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 151. Thus under a charter power to contract with connecting roads for their use, etc., a railroad company is authorized to accept bills drawn by a connecting road as a consideration for a change of gauge of that road. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104. So where a corporation, authorized to make loans on certain securities, has received and approved the same, although for its own convenience the payment of the money is postponed until a future day, it may bind itself by accepting a draft for the amount of the loan drawn by the borrower payable on such future day. Hascall v. Life Assoc. of America, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 151.

69. The ordinary mode in which business partnerships and corporations of all descriptions pay debts of a considerable amount is by transferring credits at their bank by means of checks drawn by them on such bank in favor of their own creditor. So far as the writer is aware the power to draw checks has never been denied to any corporation. Dr. Brice states that "this power has never been contested in any of the questions as to the liabilities of corporations upon negotiable instruments, or even upon checks [citing Serrell v. Derbyshire, etc., R. Co., 10 C. B. 910, 70 E. C. L. 910, 9 C. B. 811, 19 L. J. C. P. 371, 67 E. C. L. 811], while it is admitted in every case as to the banking accounts of corporations" [citing Waterlow v. Sharp, L. R. 8 Eq. 501, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 902].

70. Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 431, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 374.

71. Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Commercial Bank v. Newport Mfg. Co., 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 13, 35 Am. Dec. 171; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 146; Mead v. Keeler, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 20.

72. Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills, 6 Cal. 1; Auerbach v. Le Sueur Mill Co., 28 Minn. 291, 9 N. W. 799, 41 Am. Rep. 285.

73. Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449.

74. Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221; Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298 [affirming 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 179]; Union Bank v. Jacobs, 6 Humphr. (Tenn.) 515. Appended to the report of this last case is an opinion given as counsel, in the year 1842, by the venerable ex-Chancellor Kent, in opposition to the existence of the power, and contrary to the decision of the court, which was rendered in 1845.

75. Barker v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 94, 20 Am. Dec. 664. Contra, Bacon v. Mississippi Ins. Co., 31 Miss. 116.

76. 4 Thompson Corp. § 5735.

77. Brady v. New York, 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 173 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 312]; Merritt v. Lambert, Hoffm. (N. Y.) 166; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Perry, 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 339; Hayes v. State Bank, Mart. & Y. (Tenn.) 179; Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 441, 16 L. ed. 184; Green's Brice's setting up the defense by the principle of estoppel elsewhere treated of.[78] Where on the other hand the paper is issued by the corporation in violation of an express restraining law, and yet the instrument is in such a form that it may or may not be within the prohibition of the law according to the purposes for which it was issued, then it seems that unless the taker of it has notice that the paper was issued against the prohibition of the statute it will be good in his hands against the corporation or of its receiver after its insolvency.[79]

3. Extent to Which Ultra Vires Commercial Paper Is Good in Hands of Innocent Purchasers For Value — a. In General. While judicial holdings on this question are not entirely uniform, yet it is believed that sound principle and the weight of judicial authority justify the statement of the propositions contained in the two following paragraphs.

b. Where There Is Entire Want of Power, Instrument Is Not Made Good by Being Transferred to Bona Fide Purchaser. Where there is an entire want of power in a corporation to issue negotiable paper of the kind under consideration, under any circumstances, such paper will be void in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value; since what is absolutely void ab initio cannot acquire validity by being transferred to a third person, any more than a forged instrument can acquire validity in that way.[80] In such a case the note would be exactly like the note of an infant or of any other person incapable of contracting.

c. Where There Is General Power Erroneously Exercised in Particular Instance. But where the corporation, although possessing general power to issue negotiable paper of the kind under consideration, had no power to issue it in the particular instance, by reason of some fact or circumstance not apparent on the face of the instrument itself, but which must be proved (if at all) by parol, then for the sake of protecting the negotiable quality of commercial paper the courts will uphold its validity in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value, by treating the want of power to issue it as a matter affecting the consideration merely, such as might, in the case of such an instrument issued by an individual, be inquired into in an action between the original parties to it, but not in an action by an innocent purchaser for value.[81]

Ultra Vires (2d ed.) 272, note a. See also Root v. Godard, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,037, 3 McLean 102: Root v. Wallace, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,039, 4 McLean 8.

78. See infra, XVII, F, 2, b, (I) et seq.

79. Atty.-Gen. v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 470.

80. Elliott Nat. Bank v. Western, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 676, 677. In this case a statute of Georgia (Ga. Code, § 971) authorized the superintendent of a railroad, which was the property of that state, to make all "contracts necessary for the general working and business of said road, not exceeding three thousand dollars — and over that amount subject to the approval of the Governor in writing." It was held that notes executed by him in excess of three thousand dollars were void even in the hands of one who had purchased them innocently for value and in the usual course of trade, and that the fact that other notes had been executed and paid by him in excess of three thousand dollars did not make any difference. See also Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104 [denied in Madison, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich Sav. Fund Soc., 24 Ind. 457]; Elliott Nat. Bank v. Western, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 676.

81. Auerbach v. Le Sueur Mill Co., 28 Minn. 291, 9 N. W. 799, 41 Am. Rep. 285. See further McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321; Madison, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich Sav. Soc., 24 Ind. 457; Monument Nat. Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass. 57, 3 Am. Rep. 322; Mechanics' Banking Assoc. v. New York, etc., White Lead Co., 35 N. Y. 505; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Butchers', etc., Bank, 16 N. Y. 125, 129, 69 Am. Dec. 678; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309 (per Denio, J.); Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. (N. Y.) 473; Holbrook v. Bassett, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147; Safford v. Wyckoff, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 442; Stoney v. American L. Ins. Co., 11 Paige (N. Y.) 635. So it has been well held that a private corporation, empowered to issue negotiable paper, is bound by its notes in the hands of an innocent holder for value, although in executing it the corporation exceeded the amount of indebtedness which it was authorized to incur. Auerbach v. Le Sueur, 28 Minn. 291, 9 N. W. 799, 41 Am. Rep. 285. So although a corporation has no power to issue negotiable paper in payment of the private debts of its officers, yet where a bank had frequently discounted commercial paper drawn by the agents of a corporation, who were authorized to draw for the business of the company, and in the usual course of business discounted

4. Power With Respect to Accommodation Paper — a. No Power to Make, Indorse, or Accept For Accommodation — (I) In General. Judicial authority is nearly unanimous to the effect that a corporation has no power to make, to indorse, to accept, or otherwise to become liable upon commercial paper for the mere accommodation of another person or corporation.[82]

(II) Even For Consideration Paid Therefor. A business corporation cannot, in the absence of express power in its charter or governing statute so to do, bind itself by indorsing negotiable paper for the accommodation of third persons or corporations, even for a consideration paid therefor.[83]

(III) Officers of Corporations Have No Such Power. The officers of a corporation have no power to execute or to authorize the execution of a note for the accommodation of a third party, for a matter which has no relation to the business of the corporation and in which the corporation has no interest.[84]

b. May Indorse to Assist Customers. But according to one disputed and unsettled view this rule does not restrain a manufacturing corporation from exercising this power in order to assist one who is a large customer in the purchase of its goods.[85]

c. Such Paper Good in Hands of Innocent Purchaser For Value Before Maturity. But such paper is good in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value before maturity;[86] and this, although there is a statute making it unlawful for a a similar draft in good faith and without knowledge that it had been fraudulently issued by the agents for private purposes, it was held that the bank could recover from the company. Exchange Bank v. Monteath, 26 N. Y. 505. Another case more or less illustrative of the text is Sheridan Electric Light Co. v. Chatham Nat. Bank, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 575, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 529, 24 N. Y. St. 622. What sufficient to put intended purchaser on inquiry. Wilson v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 14 Daly (N. Y.) 171, 6 N. Y. St. 234. What not sufficient to justify him in concluding in favor of the existence of the power. Elliott Nat. Bank v. Western, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 676. How, under statute of New York, where the notes of the corporation amount in the aggregate to more than one thousand dollars. Ogden v. Raymond, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 396, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 42, 26 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 599; Houghton v. McAuliff, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 409, 26 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 270; Smith v. Hall, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 319.

82. Blake v. Domestic Mfg. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1897) 38 Atl. 241 (no recovery in favor of one who knew of the nature of the paper, or who took it with such a suspicion with regard to its character as to make his conduct fraudulent); National Bank of Republic v. Young, 41 N. J. Eq. 531, 7 Atl. 488; National Park Bank v. German-American Mut. Warehouse, etc., Co., 116 N. Y. 281, 22 N. E. 567, 26 N. Y. St. 675, 5 L. R. A. 673; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309, 19 N. Y. 312; Bridgeport City Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 421, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 51; Central Park v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 23; Morford v. Farmers' Bank, 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 568; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 275, 10 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 47; Cuyahoga Steam Furnace Co. v. Lewis, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 17, 1 Clev. L. Rec. 16; South Texas Nat. Bank v. Lagrange Oil-Mill Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. 328 (no recovery where the taker had notice of the nature of the paper); Park Hotel Co. v. St. Louis Fourth Nat. Bank, 86 Fed. 742, 30 C. C. A. 409 (bank discounting such a note with notice that it is an accommodation note cannot recover against the corporation). That a by-law authorizing officers of a corporation "to accept bills of exchange in the prosecution of its business" does not empower them to make an accommodation acceptance see Farmers', etc., Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 275, 10 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 47. That authority given to a corporation by its charter, "in the prosecution of its business, to accept and indorse bills and notes," does not empower it to accept accommodation paper see Farmers', etc., Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 275, 10 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 47.

83. National Park Bank v. German-American Mut. Warehouse, etc., Co., 116 N. Y. 281, 22 N. E. 367, 26 N. Y. St. 675, 5 L. R. A. 673. That an accommodation indorsement cannot be made the basis of a proceeding to charge the trustees of a corporation with a liability on the ground of failing to file an annual report, this not creating a debt of the corporation, see National Park Bank v. Remsen, 43 Fed. 226.

84. Hall v. Auburn Turnpike Co., 27 Cal. 255, 87 Am. Dec. 75.

85. See supra, XVII, B, 7, c.

86. Indiana.—Madison, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich Sav. Soc., 24 Ind. 457 [modifying Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104].

Massachusetts.— Monument Nat. Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass. 57, 3 Am. Rep. 322.

Missouri.— Lafayette Sav. Bank v. St. Louis Stoneware Co., 2 Mo. App. 299.

corporation to appropriate its funds to any purpose not stated in its articles of incorporation, unless the statute in terms makes such paper void.[87]

5. Presumption of Validity of Commercial Paper Issued or Received by Corporations. In the United States the courts indulge in a general presumption in favor of the validity of commercial paper issued,[88] assigned,[89] or received [90] by corporations,[91] unless issued, assigned, or received in violation of positive law, or for purposes wholly foreign to those for which the corporation was created.[92] This presumption applies both with respect to the power of the corporation to issue, assign, or receive the paper, and to the power of the officers of the corporation through whom it acted in the given case.[93]

6. Distinction Between Ultra Vires and Prohibited Commercial Paper — a. In General. With respect to the doctrine of ultra vires a well-grounded distinction exists between acts which are beyond the power conferred by statute upon the corporation in express terms, and acts which are prohibited by the express language of a statute.[94] With respect to the former class of cases, the question presented to the intending customer of the corporation is often a nice question of interpretation, and the officers of the corporation presumptively have a better opportunity of understanding the limits of the power of the corporation than the customer has. The law will not therefore allow the corporation to take the benefits of the contract and escape its burdens. But with respect to contracts which are prohibited by the terms of positive statutes the rule is different. Applying the rule to commercial paper issued by corporations in contravention of statutory prohibitions, the rule is that such paper is absolutely void in the hands of any person who may receive it; and this rule applies to the holders of such paper who reside outside of the state in which the corporation has its origin and domicile, and whose laws prohibit the issuing of the particular paper.[95] Neither can the indorsee of such a note recover upon it in an action against his indorser. The note being void, it will not be admitted in evidence in such an action, although the holder of it might sue an indorser and recover of him the consideration paid for it.[96] So if a bank draws a draft in violation of express law, and a holder of it transfers it to his creditor in payment of a debt, and the bank becomes insolvent, such transferee cannot maintain an action upon it against the transferrer.[97] Under a statute of Massachusetts, prohibiting banking corporations within that state from receiving or negotiating the bills or notes of foreign incorporated banks, except the bills of the bank of the United States, it was held that a promissory note, payable in the prohibited bills to a banking corporation in

New Jersey.— National Bank of Republic v. Young, 41 N. J. Eq. 531, 7 Atl. 488.

New York.— Mechanics' Banking Assoc. v. New York, etc., White Lead Co., 35 N. Y. 505; Genessee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309, 19 N. Y. 312; Bridgeport City Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 30 Barb. 421, 19 How. Pr. 51; Morford v. Farmers' Bank, 26 Barb. 568; Central Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 26 Barb. 23.

United States.— Ex p. Estabrook, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,534, 2 Lowell 547.

87. Farmers' Nat. Bank v. Sutton Mfg. Co., 52 Fed. 191, 17 L. R. A. 595. That one who discounts an accommodation bill of exchange before acceptance by the proper officer of the corporation is not a bona fide holder within the protection of this principle see Farmers', etc., Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 275.

88. Mitchell v. Rome R. Co., 17 Ga. 574.

89. McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Am. Dec. 321; Blake v. Holley, 14 Ind. 383.

90. Roussin v. St. Louis Perpetual Ins. Co., 15 Mo. 244.

91. Hart v. Missouri State Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 21 Mo. 91.

92. Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221.

93. Oxford Iron Co. v. Spradley, 46 Ala. 98; Blake v. Holley, 14 Ind. 383; Hamilton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 9 Ind. 359; Sparks v. State Bank, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 469.

Cases denying this presumption.—The English cases as already seen (see supra, XVII, C, 1, d) and here and there a sporadic American case, such as Bacon v. Mississippi Ins. Co., 31 Miss. 116; McCullough v. Moss. 5 Den. (N. Y.) 567.

94. Whitney Arms Co. v. Barlow, 63 N. Y. 62, 20 Am. Rep. 504.

95. Root v. Godard, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,037, 3 McLean 102.

96. Root v. Wallace, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,039, 4 McLean 8.

97. Davis v. River Raisin Bank, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,626, 4 McLean 387.

Massachusetts, was void, and that no action could be maintained upon it even after the statute had been repealed.[98]

b. Rule Where Statute Provides Other Penalties and Sanctions. But if the prohibitory statute has provided other penalties and sanctions, then the courts will not necessarily hold the security void, especially when to do so will defeat the very purpose of the statute. If for instance the statute prohibits a director from becoming indebted to the corporation beyond a certain amount, and he nevertheless does become indebted to it beyond that amount, and gives his promissory note to the corporation in settlement of the debt, it would defeat the very purpose of the statute to hold that the transaction being prohibited there can be no recovery on the note.[99]

c. Such Statutes Do Not Prevent Recovery Upon Quantum Meruit. Nor will such a statute be so construed as to prohibit a recovery upon a quantum meruit for services rendered by innocent third persons to the corporation, in furtherance of its attempt to issue securities prohibited by the statute,[1] the refined distinction being that while the debt is valid the security is void.[2]

7. Distinction Between Power to Contract Debts and Power to Give Instrument by Which It Is Evidenced. The preceding paragraphs suggest a distinction between the power to contract a debt and the power to emit the particular instrument by which the debt is evidenced. Thus where a company's deed of settlement prohibited the directors from accepting bills on behalf of the company, but they nevertheless accepted bills in settlement of certain work for which they were authorized to contract and to incur indebtedness on the part of the company, and gave a mortgage of the company's property to secure the debt evidenced by such bills, it was held that the company could not, in a suit to foreclose the mortgage, set up the want of power in the directors to accept the bills. The mortgage was treated as having been given to secure a debt which was valid, and not to secure the bills of exchange, which were invalid.[3]

8. Issuing Notes or Scrip Intended to Circulate as Money. Judicial wisdom and acumen have settled on the conclusion that if an individual issues notes or scrip intended to circulate as money, in violation of the statute law, he may be compelled to redeem it,[4] but that it is otherwise if such scrip is issued by a corporation.[5] In the latter case, if the corporation issuing the unlawful scrip becomes insolvent, it cannot be proved as a claim against its estate.[6] But a general statute prohibiting corporations from issuing notes intended to circulate as money does not prohibit them from issuing ordinary commercial paper, for the purpose of carrying on their legitimate business and effectuating the objects of their creation.[7]

98. Springfield Bank v. Merrick, 14 Mass. 322.

99. Pemigewassett Bank v. Rogers, 18 N. H. 255.

1. Underwood v. Newport Lyceum, 5 B. Mon. (Ky.) 129, 41 Am. Dec. 260; Weed v. Snow, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,347, 3 McLean 265.

Other untenable or obsolete decisions construing early statutory restraints upon banks in dealing in commercial paper.—U. S. v. Fay, 9 Port. (Ala.) 465; Levert v. Planters', etc., Bank, 8 Port. (Ala.) 104; Bates v. Planters', etc., Bank, 8 Port. (Ala.) 99.

2. Vanatta v. State Bank, 9 Ohio St. 27. See also Hart v. Missouri State Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 21 Mo. 91. That the liability of a party to a promissory note, made to a corporation, is not affected by any alterations in the charter of such corporation made after such party has ceased to be a shareholder see Mitchell v. Rome R. Co., 17 Ga. 574.

3. Scott v. Colburn, 26 Beav. 276, 5 Jur. 183, 28 L. J. Ch. 635, 7 Wkly. Rep. 114.

4. James v. Rogers, 23 Ind. 451; Lester v. Howard Bank, 33 Md. 558, 3 Am. Rep. 211; Browning v. Morris, Cowp. 790; Smith v. Bromley, Dougl. (3d ed.) 696 note; Williams v. Hedley, 8 East 378; Stokes v. Twitchen, 2 Moore C. P. 538, 8 Taunt. 492, 20 Rev. Rep. 527, 4 E. C. L. 245; Jaques v. Golightly, 2 W. Bl. 1073.

5. Brown v. Killian, 11 Ind. 449.

6. Atty.-Gen. v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 470. See further as to such scrip Wray v. Tuskegee Ins. Co., 34 Ala. 58; Harris v. Runnels, 12 How. (U. S.) 79, 13 L. ed. 901.

7. Smith v. Eureka Flour Mills, 6 Cal. 1. Upon the question what charter powers do not extend to authorizing the issue of circulating notes see People v. River Raisin, etc., R. Co., 12 Mich. 389, 86 Am. Dec. 64.

9. Authority of Officers of Corporations to Execute Commercial Paper — a. In General. The directors sitting as a board have of course such power, provided the issuing of the paper is within the power of the corporation itself, under its charter or governing statute.[8] Prima facie a majority of the shareholders have power to authorize the directors to make a promissory note for the corporation, and their action in ordering an assessment to raise funds for its payment is evidence of, and equivalent to, a precedent authorization.[9] There are holdings which seem to carry with them the general conclusion that neither the treasurer,[10] the secretary,[11] nor the manager[12] has prima facie such power; and whether the president has will generally depend upon which of the two opposing theories[13] is taken as to the implied or ex officio powers of this officer.[14]

b. How Such Authority Proved. In conformity with what has preceded[15] it must be concluded that in order to prove such authority it is not necessary to produce the record of a corporate vote or resolution, or of any other formal action, or an express authorization in the by-laws,[16] but that the possession of the power may be proved by circumstances, such as evidence of habitual action showing a custom[17] or evidence of a subsequent ratification.[18]

10. Power of Corporation to Take Negotiable Securities — a. In General. The power of a corporation to receive ordinary evidences of debt which are received by individuals according to the course of business, including negotiable paper, may be regarded as one of the implied or inherent powers of all corporations.[19]

8. Schimpf v. Lehigh Valley Mut. Ins. Co., 86 Pa. St. 373.

9. Forbes v. San Rafael Turnpike Co., 50 Cal. 340. Compare supra, XV, B, 7, a, (1) et seq.

10. Atkinson v. St. Croix Mfg. Co., 24 Me. 171. That in an action against a manufacturing corporation on a note alleged to have been indorsed by it, when the company denies the indorsement, it can show that although made by its treasurer it was never authorized by its directors see Wahlig v. Standard Pump Mfg. Co., 5 N. Y. Suppl. 420, 25 N. Y. St. 864.

11. Neale v. Turton, 4 Bing. 149, 13 E. C. L. 442.

12. Middlesex County Bank v. Hirsch Bros. Veneer Mfg. Co., 4 N. Y. Suppl. 385, 24 N. Y. St. 297.

13. As to which see supra, X, A, 1, b, (1) et seq.

14. Presumption that the president of a corporation giving a note and issuing a mortgage to secure it had authority to execute the assignments. Kennedy v. Knight, 21 Wis. 340, 94 Am. Dec. 543. Circumstances under which the president of an insurance company could not take a transfer of notes belonging to the company and recover upon them against the company. Marsh v. Brett, 16 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 95. It has been held that a vote of the directors, authorizing its agent to raise money for its own use, on the credit of the corporation, and to give therefor "the company note," authorizes him to draw a bill of exchange in the name of the company, the dishonor of which will not subject them to damages. Tripp v. Swanzey Paper Co., 13 Pick. (Mass.) 291. That a misrecital in the note that it was given in pursuance of a vote of the society instead of a vote of the trustees was immaterial see Hayward v. Pilgrim Soc., 21 Pick. (Mass.) 270.

15. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (1) et seq.

16. Hannibal First Nat. Bank v. North Missouri Coal, etc., Co., 86 Mo. 125. But there is an old decision to the effect that a manufacturing corporation is not bound by the note given by its agent for a debt contracted by its members before they were incorporated, unless he has express authority by vote. White v. Westport Cotton Mfg. Co., 1 Pick. (Mass.) 215, 11 Am. Dec. 168.

17. Hannibal First Nat. Bank v. North Missouri Coal, etc., Co., 86 Mo. 125; Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298 (evidence that on various occasions the same officer had executed such paper for the corporation).

18. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (1) et seq.

19. Georgia.— Mitchell v. Rome R. Co., 17 Ga. 574.

Illinois.— Goodrich v. Reynolds, 31 Ill. 390, 83 Am. Dec. 240.

Indiana.— Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203.

Missouri.— State Bank v. Price, 1 Mo. 54.

Ohio.— Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 50 Ohio St. 59; White's Bank v. Toledo F. & M. Ins. Co., 12 Ohio St. 601.

Wisconsin.— Wayland University v. Boorman, 56 Wis. 657, 14 N. W. 819; Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709.

United States.— Alexander v. Horner, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 169, 1 McCrary 634.

A state being a corporation may become the payee of a promissory note and may sue to recover thereon in the courts of another state. Indiana v. Woram, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378.

b. May Take Notes in Settlement of Share Subscriptions. Thus corporations may take promissory notes in settlement of subscriptions to their shares,[20] although according to one view not in payment of the deposit which the statute requires to be made in cash.[21]

c. Other Illustrations of This Power. So an insurance company which has power under its charter to invest its funds in personal securities may purchase a bill of exchange, for that is a personal security.[22] So also a prohibition in a charter against dealing in commercial paper will not exclude the power of receiving and transferring notes given to the corporation for the sale of its lands.[23]

d. Doctrine That Corporation May Recover Funds so Expended on Common Count. But it is a more or less doubtful conclusion that where a corporation employs its funds without authority in its charter or governing statute in purchasing bills of exchange it may recover back the money so expended upon the common counts as so much money had and received by the defendants to its use.[24]

e. Power to Purchase and Discount Bills in Other States and Places. If a corporation is endowed with the general power to deal in bills of exchange without regard to place, it may purchase or discount such bills in another state, unless restrained from so doing by the laws of such other state.[25]

11. Distinction Between Power to Purchase and Power to Discount Commercial Paper. This refined and childish distinction has reference to the consideration that a banking corporation may have, under its charter or governing statute, the power to discount commercial paper, but not the power to purchase it, the two transactions being in substance and sense the same thing.[26]

12. Power of Corporations to Assign and Transfer Commercial Paper — a. In General. The jus disponendi being an ordinary incident of the beneficial ownership of property, it follows, and is well settled, that where a corporation has the power to take negotiable paper in the course of its business it has the corresponding power to negotiate and transfer it by indorsement in the customary way.[27]

20. See supra, VI, M, 1, j, (I) et seq.; Goodrich v. Reynolds, 31 Ill. 490, 83 Am. Dec. 240. See also Mitchell v. Rome R. Co., 17 Ga. 574; Frye v. Tucker, 24 Ill. 180; Alexander v. Rollins, 14 Mo. App. 109 [affirmed in 84 Mo. 657, holding that a bona fide transferee of such a note before maturity will take it free from equities]; Pine River Bank v. Hodsdon, 46 N. H. 114 (holding that the subscriber cannot set up his own wrong in defense of an action on the note).

21. See supra, VI, H, 13, b, (II), (A).

22. Gee v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 13 Ala. 579. And see White's Bank v. Toledo F. & M. Ins. Co., 12 Ohio St. 601.

23. Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452. That a mutual insurance company prohibited from exercising banking privileges may take notes in the regular course of its business, which are presumed to be valid until the contrary is shown, see Hart v. Missouri State Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 21 Mo. 91. That the liability of a party to a promissory note, made to a corporation, is not affected by any alterations in the charter of such corporation made after such party has ceased to be a shareholder see Mitchell v. Rome R. Co., 17 Ga. 574.

24. Waddill v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 35 Ala. 323. The difficulty is that the contract is executed. See infra, XVII, F, 2, c, (I), (A). As to the power of insurance companies to invest their funds in commercial paper see White's Bank v. Toledo F. & M. Ins. Co., 12 Ohio St. 601; Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 Ohio St. 59. Invalidity of a promissory note given to an educational corporation, in pursuance of a promise to make a donation thereto at a future date. Simpson Centenary College v. Bryan, 50 Iowa 293.

25. Montgomery Branch State Bank v. Knox, 1 Ala. 148 (holding that a bank receiving a bill of exchange for collection drawn on another place, which omits to present it for payment, is liable to make good the loss); Tombigbee R. Co. v. Kneeland, 4 How. (U. S.) 16, 11 L. ed. 855; Augusta Bank v. Earle, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 519, 10 L. ed. 274; Columbus City Bank v. Beach, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,736, 1 Blatchf. 425.

26. For a considerable discussion of this distinction see 4 Thompson Corp. § 5751; Rochester First Nat. Bank v. Pierson, 24 Minn. 140, 31 Am. Rep. 341; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Baldwin, 23 Minn. 198, 23 Am. Rep. 683; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 338, 5 L. ed. 631. Contra, as to such a note payable on demand, and negotiated to an innocent purchaser thirteen months after its date, the lapse of time letting in proof of equities. Atlantic De Laine Co. v. Tredick, 5 R. I. 171.

27. Alabama.— Savage v. Walshe, 26 Ala. 619.

Illinois.— Morris v. Cheney, 51 Ill. 451; Goodrich v. Reynolds, 31 Ill. 490, 83 Am. Dec. 240; Frye v. Tucker, 24 Ill. 180; McIntyre

b. Authority of Corporate Officers to Indorse and Transfer. Assuming now that the general officer or attorney of a corporation is clothed with power "to do all acts and things, for and in behalf of the company that he may deem proper to further and protect its interests" an authority to indorse and transfer its negotiable securities will be implied.[28] A uniform practice on the part of the president of an insurance company extending over a period of several months prior to the transfer of a note has been held evidence to go to a jury on the question of his authority to indorse and transfer the note.[29] The agent of a corporation having authority to raise money and create a liability on behalf of the corporation therefor, may, in indorsing its promissory note, waive demand and notice, and this too after the note has been negotiated; and it has been held that he may waive demand and notice for the purpose of procuring delay of payment of the note, and that in this way he may bind the corporation, although in procuring the delay he may also be acting as agent of the maker.[30]

c. Assignments and Indorsements, How Made so as to Bind Corporation. The custom of the business of banking permits assignments and indorsements of commercial paper by a bank to be made by the cashier by the use of his own name,

v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321 (charter provision from which this power implied; innocent transferee protected, although corporation may not have had power to take the note in the particular instance, where it had a general power).

Indiana.— Blake v. Holley, 14 Ind. 383; Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203.

Maine.— Came v. Brigham, 39 Me. 35.

Missouri.— Buckley v. Briggs, 30 Mo. 452 (although prohibited by its charter from dealing in commercial paper); Alexander v. Rollins, 14 Mo. App. 109 [affirmed in 84 Mo. 657, such a transfer creates no presumption of fraud].

New Jersey.— Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221.

New York.— Farmers' Bank v. Maxwell, 32 N. Y. 579; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 19 N. Y. 312, 13 N. Y. 309; Marvine v. Hymers, 12 N. Y. 223 (power of a bank to transfer a note, although it is past due); Ogden v. Raymond, 3 Abb. Dec. 396, 1 Keyes 42, 26 How. Pr. 599 [affirming 5 Bosw. 16]; Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. 122; Partridge v. Badger, 25 Barb. 146; Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. 473; Scott v. Johnson, 5 Bosw. 213; Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. 147; Ogden v. Andre, 4 Bosw. 583 [affirmed in 3 Abb. Dec. 396, 1 Keyes 42].

United States.— Mississippi Planters' Bank v. Sharp, 6 How. 301, 12 L. ed. 447.

This rule is not affected by a statute which only authorizes the assignment of such notes as are payable to some "person" or "persons," since these words embrace corporations. McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.

Charter provision under which a mutual insurance company was held to have power to transfer notes as collateral security for its debts. Brookman v. Metcalf, 32 N. Y. 591 [affirming 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 213]; Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147. See also Nelson v. Wellington, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 178; Brooklyn Cent. Bank v. Lang, 1 Bosw. (N. Y.) 202. Charter provision under which a railroad corporation is held to have the power to sell a note and mortgage which have been executed to it or to pledge the same as security for its bonds. Uncas Nat. Bank v. Rith, 23 Wis. 339.

Corporation having power to borrow, may borrow a bill or note and indorse and transfer it. Lucas v. Pitney, 27 N. J. L. 221; Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147; Furniss v. Gilchrist, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 53.

Insurance companies.— Power of a mutual insurance company to negotiate a note given to it by one of its members. Farmers' Bank v. Maxwell, 32 N. Y. 579. A promissory note given to an insurance company for advance premiums under a special provision in its charter has been held to be a valid security in the hands of a third party purchasing it for value, and not subject to any equities subsisting between the makers and the insurance company. Great Western Ins. Co. v. Thayer, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 459, 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 633. And where notes are delivered to special trustees of an insurance company, under an agreement by which they are to be used for the benefit of the company, a transfer of the notes, made by the trustees to third persons in exchange for their notes, which are discounted and the proceeds used by the company, is within the power of the corporation and conveys a good title to the notes. Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147. That such a note is not subject to equities in the hands of a purchaser for value before maturity see Great Western Ins. Co. v. Thayer, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 459, 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 633. Compare Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147.

Statutory authority to a bank upon the surrender of its charter "to sell and convey" its property empowers it to transfer its negotiable paper by indorsement. Cooper v. Curtis, 30 Me. 488.

28. Lawrence v. Gebhard, 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 575.

29. New York City Mar. Bank v. Clements, 31 N. Y. 33.

30. Whitney v. South Paris Mfg. Co., 39 Me. 316.

with the addition of the name of his office, or of an abbreviation of that name, as "Cash."[31] Custom and usage have in some cases rendered a similar mode of indorsing by other officers admissible, as for example "A B, President."[32] But on principles already considered[33] the only safe way, except in the case of indorsements by banks, is to sign the name of the corporation by the officer executing the power, or to sign the name of the officer executing the power "for the corporation." The following indorsements are consequently prima facie good and binding on the corporation: "Pay to the order of A. J. A. Marine Bank, by J. S. H., Pres't."[34] "Sterling and Rock Island Railroad, per M. S. Henry, President."[35]

d. Consequences of Assignments of Commercial Paper by Corporations. The cases do not disclose anything under this head which makes such consequences different from what they would be in the case of a natural person. An indorsement by a corporation formally made by its proper officer, accompanied by delivery, transfers the legal title of the paper to the transferee and enables him to maintain an action thereon in his own name.[36] He takes it discharged of equities, and any subsequent arrangements between the transferrer and the maker respecting its payment will not affect his rights in any way.[37] The law presumes that the paper was transferred in the usual course of business, and this presumption becomes conclusive where the assignee stands in the position of a bona fide purchaser for value and before maturity; so that defendant cannot thereafter impeach the paper on the ground that it was not taken by the corporation and assigned in the ordinary course of its business, until it is first shown that plaintiff is not such a bona fide purchaser.[38]

e. Liabilities Incurred by Corporation as Indorser. These are not different from those incurred by a natural person who indorses commercial paper;[39] but, with the exception that where the paper is indorsed for accommodation, and the taker of it knows that such is the fact, the corporation will incur no liability. On a principle already considered,[40] indorsements by corporations, like those by individuals, are, however, presumed to be for value, and not for accommodation, until the contrary appears. Nor is it enough that there be facts sufficient to raise suspicion, to excite surmise, or to impute negligence to the taker of such paper, but nothing else than fraud can defeat his title.[41] Nor does the fact that the name of a corporation which has no power to indorse for accommodation appears as indorser upon a negotiable instrument of which it is not the payee tend to show that such an indorsement was made for the accommodation of others; nor is it even a circumstance putting an intending purchaser of the paper upon inquiry; but in a suit upon the instrument the burden of showing that it was taken with notice that the corporation had no authority to indorse it lies on the defendants.[42] A corporation which has indorsed, through its agent, a promissory note, is bound to pay the amount legally due thereon, although its agent, in negotiating it, may

31. See supra, XII, H, 7, d.
32. Elwell v. Dodge, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 336; Scott v. Johnson, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 213. See also Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. (N. Y.) 122. So of an indorsement, "Indorsed, A. B. President." Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. (N. Y.) 473.
33. See supra, XII, H, 7, a et seq.
34. Aiken v. Marine Bank, 16 Wis. 679.
35. Goodrich v. Reynolds, 31 Ill. 490, 83 Am. Dec. 240.
36. Savage v. Walshe, 26 Ala. 619.
37. Farmers' Bank v. Maxwell, 32 N. Y. 579.
38. McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.
39. Whitney v. South Paris Mfg. Co., 39 Me. 316; Central Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 23.
40. See supra, XVII, C, 4, a, (I) et seq.
41. Goodman v. Simonds, 20 How. (U. S.) 343, 15 L. ed. 934. See to the principle generally Hamilton v. Marks, 63 Mo. 167; Lafayette Sav. Bank v. St. Louis Stoneware Co., 2 Mo. App. 299; Franklin's Sav. Inst. v. Heinsman, 1 Mo. App. 336.
42. Lafayette Sav. Bank v. St. Louis Stoneware Co., 2 Mo. App. 299. Upon the question whether a note was indorsed by a railroad company for accommodation or for value see Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298.

have agreed to pay an illegal rate of interest to procure delay in its payment.[43] Although a note may have been indorsed by a corporation for a purpose apparently beyond the scope of its business, yet if the indorsement was really made in the course of its business and for its benefit the corporation will be bound thereby.[44]

f. Liabilities of Indorsers of Ultra Vires Corporate Paper. It has been held that where a corporation emits negotiable paper without having power to do so, one who indorses the same is not liable thereon as an indorser of negotiable paper, as where a corporation created for the purpose of lending money on pledges undertook to issue promissory notes and to receive money in exchange therefor.[45] But while an indorser of negotiable paper made by a corporation may be allowed to set up by way of defense when sued upon his contract of indorsement that the corporation was prohibited by law from issuing the paper, yet he cannot set up that the instrument was not made in the form prescribed by the statute. The reason is that by indorsing the instrument he becomes a warrantor that it has been executed in proper form, the indorser always warranting the existence and legality of the contract which he undertakes to assign.[46]

13. Draft Drawn by One Officer of Corporation Upon Another. A draft drawn by one officer of a corporation upon another, we will say by its secretary upon its treasurer, in the settlement of a debt, is in the nature of a promissory note and need not be presented for acceptance, nor need any notice of its non-acceptance be given as a condition precedent to a right of action thereon,[47] although the holder may at his election treat it as a bill of exchange and go through the customary circumlocution.[48]

D. Powers Relating to Ownership and Transfer of Property — 1. Power to Take and Hold Land and Transmit Title Thereto — a. In General — (1) This Power at Common Law. At common law corporations have the power, without any special license thereto in their charters or governing statutes, to take and hold as much land as may be reasonably necessary or convenient for the purposes of their creation.[49]

43. Whitney v. South Paris Mfg. Co., 39 Me. 316.

44. Central Bank v. Empire Stone Dressing Co., 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 23.

45. Southern Loan Co. v. Morris, 2 Pa. St. 175, 44 Am. Dec. 188.

46. Kilgore v. Bulkley, 14 Conn. 362. That an indorser will not be allowed to exonerate himself by proving that he was led to indorse by misrepresentations made by the president and cashier of the bank in which the note was to be discounted, etc., see U. S. Bank v. Dunn, 6 Pet. (U. S.) 51, 8 L. ed. 316 [followed in Metropolis Bank v. Jones, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 12, 8 L. ed. 850].

47. Dennis v. Table Mountain Water R. Co., 10 Cal. 369; Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 20 Ind. 6, 83 Am. Dec. 303. See also supra, XII, E, 3, a et seq.

48. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 20 Ind. 6, 83 Am. Dec. 303.

49. California.— Natoma Water, etc., Co. v. Clarkin, 14 Cal. 544.

Illinois.— Brown v. Hogg, 14 Ill. 219.

Indiana.— Hayward v. Davidson, 41 Ind. 212.

Kentucky.— Lathrop v. Commercial Bank, 8 Dana 114, 33 Am. Dec. 481.

Massachusetts.— Sutton First Parish v. Cole, 3 Pick. 232.

Michigan.— Thompson v. Waters, 25 Mich. 214, 12 Am. Rep. 243.

Missouri.—Callaway Min., etc., Co. v. Clark, 32 Mo. 305; St. Louis Stoneware Co. v. Partridge, 8 Mo. App. 580.

New York.— Sherwood v. American Bible Soc., 4 Abb. Dec. 227, 1 Keyes 561; Robie v. Sedgwick, 35 Barb. 319; Champlain, etc., R. Co. v. Valentine, 19 Barb. 484; McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. 437, 18 Am. Dec. 516; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

North Carolina.— It has been said in North Carolina "that the common law right to take an estate in fee, incident to a corporation at common law, is unlimited, except by its charter and by statute." Ashe, J., in Mallett v. Simpson, 94 N. C. 37, 41, 55 Am. Rep. 594.

Ohio.— Reynolds v. Stark County Com'rs, 5 Ohio 204.

Pennsylvania.—Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. 313.

Vermont.— Page v. Heineberg, 40 Vt. 81, 94 Am. Dec. 378.

Virginia.— Rivanna Nav. Co. v. Dawsons, 3 Gratt. 19, 46 Am. Dec. 183; Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706.

United States.—Blanchard's Gun-Stock Turning Factory v. Warner, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,521, 1 Blatchf. 258.

And see 1 Bl. Comm. 478; 2 Kent Comm. 227, 281; 1 Washburn Real Prop. (4th ed.) 75.

(II) Effect of Statutes of Mortmain. In England by a series of statutes called the statutes of mortmain, beginning with Magna Charta, 9 Henry III, and ending with 9 George II, corporations, both ecclesiastical and lay, were rendered incapable of taking and holding lands without a license from the crown.[50] These statutes have never been reënacted in this country, and do not seem to be regarded as in force in any state of the American Union[51] with the exception of Pennsylvania. In Pennsylvania the operation of the statutes of mortmain is said to be not to restrain a corporation from acquiring lands in pursuance of its common-law power, but to prevent it from retaining lands which it has acquired without a license, and to vest the right thereto in the state.[52]

(III) Cannot Take and Hold Land For Purposes Foreign to Their Creation. Irrespective of the operation of statutory restrictions it is a settled principle of American jurisprudence that a corporation cannot take and hold land except in so far as reasonably necessary to carry out the objects of its creation.[53]

(IV) Constitutional and Statutory Restrictions Upon Power to Take and Hold Land. There are, in American constitutions and statutes, express restrictions upon the power to take and hold land, some of them being merely affirmations of the common law, like the following: "No corporation shall engage in any business other than that expressly authorized in its charter, nor shall it take or hold any real estate except such as may be necessary and proper for its legitimate business."[54]

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1765.

50. 2 Kent Comm. 282; 1 Washburn Real Prop. (4th ed.) 76.

51. Lathrop v. Commercial Bank, 8 Dana (Ky.) 114, 33 Am. Dec. 481; Moore v. Moore, 4 Dana (Ky.) 354, 29 Am. Dec. 417; Mallett v. Simpson, 94 N. C. 37, 55 Am. Rep. 595; Rivanna Nav. Co. v. Dawsons, 3 Gratt. (Va.) 19, 46 Am. Dec. 183.

52. Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 313.

53. Connecticut.— Occum Co. v. A. & W. Sprague Mfg. Co., 34 Conn. 529.

Illinois.— Chicago First M. E. Church v. Dixon, 178 Ill. 260, 52 N. E. 887 [reversing 77 Ill. App. 166], holding that it is the public policy of the state of Illinois that corporations shall not hold land for purposes not directly appropriate to their specific chartered purposes.

Kentucky.— To the same effect see Cynthiana, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Hutchinson, 60 S. W. 378, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1233.

Massachusetts.— Sutton First Parish v. Cole, 3 Pick. 232.

New Jersey.— State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

Ohio.— Overmyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26.

Virginia.— Rivanna Nav. Co. v. Dawsons, 3 Gratt. 19, 46 Am. Dec. 183.

Illustration.— Therefore a corporation cannot take, either by condemnation or by grant, land for the use of a freight-belt railroad which it has no power to construct or operate. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 119 Ala. 105, 24 So. 114.

That a corporation cannot take a lease of land for the purpose of making a malicious use of it see Occum Co. v. A. & W. Sprague Mfg. Co., 34 Conn. 529.

54. S. D. Const. art. 17, § 7. See also Gilbert v. Hole, 2 S. D. 164, 49 N. W. 1.

For a statutory restriction which did not prevent a corporation from taking and holding a banking-house and the lot on which it was situated and also from mortgaging the same see Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728. Nearly to the same effect is Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. (Va.) 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706.

For a clause in a charter which operated to prohibit a corporation from buying, selling, or becoming a speculator in lands see State Bank v. Niles, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 401, 41 Am. Dec. 575.

Instances of constitutional and statutory restrictions upon religious corporations with respect to taking and holding lands may be discovered in the following cases, their doctrine not being set out, because religious societies are not within the scope of this article. Hamsher v. Hamsher, 132 Ill. 273, 23 N. E. 1123, 8 L. R. A. 556; Baltimore Catholic Cathedral Church v. Manning, 72 Md. 116, 19 Atl. 599; Catholic Church v. Tobbein, 82 Mo. 418; U. S. v. Church of Jesus Christ, 150 U. S. 145, 14 S. Ct. 44, 37 L. ed. 1033; Church of Jesus Christ v. U. S., 136 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 792, 34 L. ed. 481; Gilmer v. Stone, 120 U. S. 586, 7 S. Ct. 689, 30 L. ed. 734. See, generally, Religious Societies.

Construction of various statutes with respect to this power.— That a statute enacting that every corporation as such shall have power to hold, purchase, and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, confers upon the directors while acting as trustees for the purpose of winding-up the power to sell at private sale see Freeman v. Sea View Hotel Co., 57 N. J. Eq. 68, 40 Atl. 218. That a charter conferring upon a hotel company the power to lease, purchase, and hold real estate, and to maintain a hotel thereon, and to transact all such business as may be incident to the mortgaging of the premises, or otherwise controlling or disposing of the same, authorizes the directors to convey land owned by the company at any time that in their judgment it may be best for the company so to do see Freeman v. Sea View Hotel Co., 57 N. J. Eq. 68, 40 Atl. 218. That a memorandum of association of an English company, which among other things recites as the objects of the association the selling of any part of its assets, and its amalgamation with any companies or firms carrying on a business of like nature, authorizes a contract for the sale of all the assets of the corporation to another corporation carrying on a similar business except the stock held by the former see Wall v. London, etc., Corp. [1898] 2 Ch. 469, 67 L. J. Ch. 596, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 249. That the title to land acquired from a corporation by a voluntary adjustment of boundary lines is not invalid because not authorized by a vote of three fifths of the capital stock of such corporation as required by a statute in the case of an "alienation" of land see Pittsburgh, etc., Iron Co. v. Lake Superior Iron Co., 118 Mich. 109, 76 N. W. 395. That, under a statute giving to all private corporations the power to acquire real estate in payment of debts, the fact that a lumber and grain company is not expressly authorized so to do does not render its acts in that respect ultra vires and void, so as to make its agent, whose representative capacity is disclosed, acting in good faith and without fraud, liable individually to one injured by his taking title to certain property in its behalf see Ray v. Foster, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 53 S. W. 54. That a statute providing that a certain society shall be capable of taking by gift real and personal property, holding and conveying the same for all its purposes, provided the annual income of its realty in the state shall not exceed a specified sum is a mere enabling act and does not reincorporate such society as a domestic corporation see In re Prime, 136 N. Y. 347, 32 N. E. 1091, 49 N. Y. St. 658, 18 L. R. A. 713 [affirming 64 Hun (N. Y.) 50, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 45 N. Y. St. 832].

(v) Construction of Enabling Statutes. It is a sound rule that a corporation having the power to construct a certain road[55] or certain works for the purposes of its business[56] may purchase a road already built or works already constructed. Statutes authorizing corporations to acquire property have sometimes been held in subordination to the provisions of general laws; and hence a statute authorizing a corporation to take by purchase was construed as not abrogating in its favor the general statute of wills prohibiting such corporations to take by devise.[57] But if the word "purchase" had been large enough to include "devise" the rule would have been different, upon the principle of statutory interpretation that generalia specialibus non derogant.[58] Where the charter of a lumber company authorized it to purchase timber lands or any other lands that might be necessary and convenient for the purpose of transacting its business, it was held that the fact that a part of a tract of land purchased by it was cleared and used for farming purposes did not show that its purchase was ultra vires.[59] A corporation authorized to hold a given amount of real and personal property "in fee simple or otherwise," to employ its annual income, among other purposes, "to promote inventions and improvements in the mechanic arts, by granting premiums for said inventions and improvements," may purchase land and erect a permanent building thereon in which to hold its meetings and to give public exhibitions.[60] A statute vesting in a corporation "all such property as hath heretofore, or may hereafter accrue to the State," in a certain district, which, by another act regulating escheats, "hath escheated to the State," has been held to entitle it to property escheated to the state after the passage of the act.[61]

55. State v. Hannibal, etc., Gravel Road Co., 37 Mo. App. 496.

56. Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 9 L. R. A. 527 [reversing 52 Hun (N. Y.) 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409].

57. McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 437, 18 Am. Dec. 516.

58. That it does include "devise" when used according to the terminology of the common law see infra, XVII, D, 1, c. (v), (E).

59. Kentucky Lumber Co. v. Green, 87 Ky. 257, 8 S. W. 439, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 139.

60. Richardson v. Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Assoc., 131 Mass. 174.

61. Brown v. Chesterville Academy Soc., 3 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 362. As to power of a corporation created for educational purposes and also for church purposes to acquire land for collegiate purposes and to transmit the same independently of any rights of the church see Liggett v. Ladd, 17 Oreg. 89, 21 Pac. 133. That a manufacturing corporation, under Massachusetts law, created to manufacture gun-stocks, has power to purchase a patent "for turning irregular forms appropriate to be used in making gunstocks" see Blanchard's Gun-Stock Turning Factory v. Warner, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,521, 1 Blatchf. 258.

(vi) Whether Exclusion of Power to Hold Excludes Power to Take. It is reasoned in some cases that a limitation of the power to hold property is necessarily a limitation of its power to take such property.[62] But this is not necessarily so. The operation of the English statutes of mortmain was such that the corporation held until the next lord of the fee entered, or in default of mesne lords the king. By analogy to the rule under these statutes the rule in America would be that the corporation holds until the state intervenes.[63]

(vii) Power to Hold Property in Trust. A corporation may be created with legal capacity to hold land upon a trust in the same manner and to the same extent as a private individual may.[64]

b. Power of Various Corporations to Take and Hold Land — (i) Banking Corporations. Presumptions are indulged in favor of the title of a bank to lands fairly acquired, where it has power to acquire land in "satisfaction of its debts."[65] The principle, hereafter considered,[66] which precludes a corporation, incapable of taking title to land by direct conveyance or devise to it, from taking and holding such title by means of a trustee, does not extend so far as to prevent a banking corporation from having a mortgage made to its officers in their own names, upon their promise to enforce the security for the benefit of the bank;[67] and it has been held that a purchase of lands by a bank cashier, for the benefit of his bank is not necessarily invalid because the bank by its charter is disabled from purchasing lands.[68] And in general the right of such a corporation so to acquire and hold land is one against which the sovereign alone can object.[69]

(ii) Real Estate Corporations. A corporation which has been created with power to do a general real estate business has power to enter into a contract, under the terms of which it agrees to take possession of certain real estate, to offer it for sale, to collect rents with respect to it, and at the expiration of a stated period to purchase the interest of a lien-holder.[70] Where a real estate corporation has acquired land subject to the lien of an attachment, in exchange for its capital stock, it may procure the release of the attachment by giving its note secured by a mortgage upon the land.[71]

(iii) Various Other Corporations Not Treated In Extenso in This Article. With respect to the power of various other corporations not specially treated in this article to take and hold land some of the cases are merely cited in the marginal note.[72]

62. In re McGraw, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387 [affirming 45 Hun (N. Y.) 354]; Wood v. Hammond, 16 R. I. 98, 17 Atl. 324, 18 Atl. 198.

63. Shewalter v. Pirner, 55 Mo. 218; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466; Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 313; Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709.

64. White v. Rice, 112 Mich. 403, 70 N. W. 1024.

65. Chautauque County Bank v. Risley, 19 N. Y. 369, 75 Am. Dec. 347.

66. See infra, XVII, D, 1, d, (II).

67. Apperson v. Exchange Bank, 10 S. W. 801, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 943.

68. White v. Lester, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 585, 1 Keyes 316, 34 How. Pr. 136.

69. Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. (Va.) 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706; Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188. Compare Colorado Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 96 U. S. 640, 24 L. ed. 648.

70. Neosho Valley Invest. Co. v. Huston, (Kan. 1900) 59 Pac. 643 [affirming 10 Kan. App. 499, 63 Pac. 92].

71. Leonard, etc., Real Estate, etc., Co. v. Bank of America, 86 Fed. 502, 30 C. C. A. 221.

72. Educational corporations.— Massachusetts.— Phillips Academy v. King, 12 Mass. 546, may hold land in the absence of statutory restraints.

Michigan.— State University v. Detroit Young Men's Soc., 12 Mich. 138, regents of University of Michigan may hold land.

Minnesota.— State University v. Hart, 7 Minn. 61, regents of University of Minnesota.

New York.— In re McGraw, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387 [followed in Cornell University v. Fiske, 136 U. S. 152, 10 S. Ct. 775, 34 L. ed. 427], devise to Cornell University in excess of its capacity to take.

Oregon.— Liggett v. Ladd, 23 Oreg. 26, 31 Pac. 81, power of Corvallis College to take and convey to the regents of the State Agricultural College.

Tennessee.— State v. Nashville University, 4 Humphr. 157, Nashville University.

Religious corporations.—May take and hold land as trustee for pious uses unless restrained by charter or statute. Phillips

c. Modes by Which Corporations May Acquire Land — (i) Whether Corporation Can Acquire Land Except by Deed. By the ancient common law, a corporation could not take title to land except by deed.[73] But the modern law is that a corporation can acquire title to land in any manner in which a natural person can, and in some modes in which a natural person cannot, as by a parol dedication for public purposes;[74] by adverse possession under the statute of limitations, although it did not authorize a disseizin and occupation by deed,[75] and this, although the existence of the corporation itself is proved merely by prescription; by prescription in the case of an easement, as for instance a right of way;[76] by the exercise of the power of eminent domain, of which we see instances every day in the case of the condemnation of land for railroads and other public utilities; by devise;[77] and by a legislative enactment sanctioned by the holders of land, by which their title is transferred to a corporation composed of themselves created by an act of the legislature.[78]

(ii) Power to Take Land For Purpose of Saving Debt. It seems clear that a corporation may take land for the purpose of saving a debt, and hold it until it can dispose of it at a reasonable price and on reasonable terms.[79] This power is, however, guarded and limited by statutes or by charter provisions in many instances. These in general relate to the terms and conditions on which land may be so acquired, the amount which may be so acquired, the length of time during which it may be held, and the terms under which it must be sold.[80] Under such a provision in the charter of a bank the bank had the power to purchase a judgment which was a prior lien upon lands which had been mortgaged to it to secure the payment of an existing debt, if the object was to protect itself and to secure the payment of its own claim; and in such a case it might purchase the lands of the debtor on an execution founded on such judgment.[81] Numerous other statutes of the same kind have received judicial interpretation.[82]

(iii) Power to Acquire Land by Purchase at Judicial Sale. A corporation has the same right to buy any property at execution sale, under judgments in which it is plaintiff, which any other plaintiff has; and even where statutory limitations have been placed upon the time during which the corporation may hold land so purchased, yet the lapse of this length of time does not disable it from selling such lands and passing a good title to such purchaser where the state has not intervened.[83] And where a corporation has a general power to purchase real estate, but is restrained by a proviso to purchases for corporate Academy v. King, 12 Mass. 546. But cannot take or hold land for purposes foreign to their creation. Jackson v. Hartwell, 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 422.

Turnpike companies.— Cannot acquire title to swamp land not necessary for its right of way. Coleman v. San Rafael Turnpike Road Co., 49 Cal. 517. Has a mere easement, the fee remaining in the former owner. People v. Lawrence, 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 589. Contra, that it can convey a fee-simple title to another. People v. Mauran, 5 Den. (N. Y.) 389. Does not take upon any condition of reverter. Heath v. Barmore, 50 N. Y. 302.

Canal corporations.— May purchase from a proprietor, under circumstances justifying it, an excess of land over what is necessary "for the mere thread of its canal." Spear v. Crawford, 14 Wend. (N. Y.) 20, 28 Am. Dec. 513.

Titles of British eleemosynary corporations not affected by the revolution.— Society for Propagation, etc. v. New Haven, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 464, 5 L. ed. 662.

73. Predyman v. Wodry, Cro. Jac. 109.

74. Hunter v. Sandy Hill, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 407.

75. Rehoboth Second Precinct v. Rehoboth Catholic Cong. Church, etc., 23 Pick. (Mass.) 139 note. For an earlier and obsolete conception of this subject see Weston v. Hunt, 2 Mass. 500.

76. Slackman v. West, Cro. Jac. 673. See also 2 Beach Pub. Corp. § 1458, and cases cited.

77. In re McGraw, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387.

78. Ladies' Benev. Soc. No. 2 v. Edgefield Benev. Soc. No. 2, 2 Tenn. Ch. 77.

79. 5 Thompson Corp. § 5779.

80. See Brown v. Hogg, 14 Ill. 219, where such a provision is quoted and construed.

81. Brown v. Hogg, 14 Ill. 219.

82. Home Ins. Co. v. Head, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 405; Merritt v. Lambert, 1 Hoffm. (N. Y.) 166.

83. Home Ins. Co. v. Head, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 405. Compare Merritt v. Lambert, 1 Hoffm. (N. Y.) 166.

uses only, and it purchases land at a sheriff's sale, the presumption is that the purchase is within the power conferred, and the party that denies it must show the contrary.[84]

(IV) Power to Take Land by Mortgage. Speaking generally every corporation which has the power to become a creditor has the power to take a mortgage on land to secure its debt, except so far as the power may be excluded by the express language of charter or statute.[85]

(V) Power to Take Land by Devise—(A) In General. The power of corporations to take land by devise, to the extent and for the purposes prescribed by charter or governing statute, is unquestioned.[86]

(B) Operation of Statutes of Wills Upon This Power. The English statutes of wills,[87] authorizing devises of land to any person or persons, expressly excepted bodies politic and corporate. The same exception was incorporated into the New York statute of wills, without variation, from the English statutes just cited. Under the operation of that statute devises of land to corporations have been uniformly held void in that state, unless the charter expressly empowered the corporation to take by devise, which provision of course brought the corporation within an exception to the prohibition in the statute of wills.[88] It is believed that this provision has not been generally reënacted in the statutes of wills of the different American states.[89]

(C) Devises to Foreign Corporations—(1) Validity Depends Upon Lex Rei Sitæ. The validity of a devise of land to a foreign corporation depends upon the condition of the law of the state or country within which the land is situated.[90] Hence, although the law of the situs of the corporation may authorize it to take land, yet it will not have the power to take land in a foreign state if the law of that state does not confer the power.[91]

(2) Rule Where Statute Law of State Creating Corporation Disables It From Taking Land by Devise. It has been held that if the statute of wills of the state creating the corporation disables it from taking land by devise, this disability will follow it into other states; so that by reason of the disability imposed by the general statute law of the state of its domicile it will not be able so to acquire land in another state.[92] Where the disability is created by the general statute law of the state of the domicile of the corporation then the sound view is that it is a question of the policy of that state, as declared by its legislature, relating to the devolution of title to land within its own limits, and that it has no extraterritorial operation. It is only where the disability is created by the charter

84. Ex p. Peru Iron Co., 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 540.

85. Thus we have seen (see supra, VI, M, 2, i, (I) et seq.) a class of holdings to the effect that railroad corporations have without any express power thereto in their charters the power to take mortgages of land from subscribers to their shares to secure the payment of their subscriptions. Andrews v. Hart, 17 Wis. 297; Cornell v. Hichens, 11 Wis. 353; Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709; Clark v. Farrington, 11 Wis. 306.

86. In re McGraw, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387.

87. 32 Hen. VIII, c. 1; 34 Hen. VIII, c. 5.

88. Holmes v. Mead, 52 N. Y. 332; White v. Howard, 46 N. Y. 144; Bascom v. Albertson, 34 N. Y. 584; Downing v. Marshall, 23 N. Y. 366, 80 Am. Dec. 290; Atty.-Gen. v. New York City Reformed Protestant Dutch Church, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 303; McCaughal v. Ryan, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 376; King v. Rundle, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 139; McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 437, 18 Am. Dec. 516; Van Kleeck v. Reformed Dutch Church, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 600; Kuypers v. Reformed Dutch Church, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 570; Auburn Theological Seminary v. Childs, 4 Paige (N. Y.) 419.

89. There was no such provision in the Virginia statute of wills in force in 1846 (Rivanna Nav. Co. v. Dawsons, 3 Gratt. (Va.) 19, 46 Am. Dec. 183), or in the Kentucky statute, which seems to have been like that of Virginia (Moore v. Moore, 4 Dana (Ky.) 354, 29 Am. Dec. 417).

90. Draper v. Harvard College, 57 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 269 (holding that a devise of land, situated in New York, to the city of St. Louis, in Missouri, was void. But the supreme court of Missouri held that the city had the capacity to take the devise, so that it passed title to land situated in Missouri. Chambers v. St. Louis, 29 Mo. 543.

91. White v. Howard, 46 N. Y. 144.

92. Starkweather v. American Bible Soc., 72 Ill. 50, 22 Am. Rep. 133.

of the corporation itself, or by the general statute under which the corporation is organized, so that there is an entire want of power in the artificial person so to acquire title to land, that the disability will follow it into another state. In such case the disability attends it everywhere, on the principle that a corporation cannot exercise in a foreign state, except by an express provision of the legislation of that state, larger powers than have been granted to it by the sovereign which has created it.[93]

(3) Statutes Limiting Amount of Land Which Person Can Devise to Corporation Have No Extraterritorial Operation. In like manner a statute limiting the amount of land which a person can devise to a corporation has no extraterritorial operation. Therefore a statute of New York providing that "no person having a husband, wife, child, or parent, shall by his will bequeath to any charitable corporation more than one half of his estate after the payment of his debts, such bequest, to be valid to the extent of one half, and no more," did not prevent a bequest from being made by a testator domiciled in Connecticut to a charitable corporation domiciled in New York.[94]

(4) This Power in Foreign Corporations, When Presumed. In the absence of any express statutory expression on the subject, it will not be presumed that it is against the public policy of a state that one of its citizens, owning real estate there situated, should convey it to a foreign corporation for benevolent purposes, where the state permits her own corporations, organized for like purposes, to take real estate by purchase, gift, devise, or in any other manner.[95]

(D) Devises to United States. The United States is a political corporation,[96] possessing defined and limited corporate powers, with capacity to contract and be contracted with, and to sue in its corporate name;[97] but it cannot take by a devise land situated in a state whose statute of wills as in New York prohibits devises of lands to corporations;[98] but otherwise where as in Massachusetts there is no such prohibitory statute.[99]

(E) Whether Power to Take by Purchase Includes Power to Take by Devise. The word "purchase," when used in connection with real property, has long been construed as embracing all modes of acquiring such property except by descent. It therefore includes the acquisition of land by devise.[1] Hence, although the statute of wills may except corporations generally from the power to take lands

93. American Bible Soc. v. Marshall, 15 Ohio St. 537; American, etc., Christian Union v. Yount, 101 U. S. 352, 25 L. ed. 888.

94. Crum v. Bliss, 47 Conn. 592.

95. American, etc., Christian Union v. Yount, 101 U. S. 352, 25 L. ed. 888 [distinguishing Starkweather v. American Bible Soc., 72 Ill. 50, 22 Am. Rep. 133; Carroll v. East St. Louis, 67 Ill. 568, 16 Am. Rep. 632].

96. Ableman v. Booth, 21 How. (U. S.) 506, 16 L. ed. 169; U. S. v. Maurice, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,747, 2 Brock. 96 (per Marshall, C. J.).

97. Cohens v. Virginia, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 264, 5 L. ed. 257. See preface to Beach Pub. Corp., from which I have adopted this statement. See also Dickson v. U. S., 125 Mass. 311, 28 Am. Rep. 230; U. S. v. Hodson, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 395, 19 L. ed. 937; Neilson v. Lagow, 12 How. (U. S.) 98, 13 L. ed. 909; U. S. v. Linn, 15 Pet. (U. S.) 290, 10 L. ed. 742; U. S. v. Bradley, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 343, 9 L. ed. 448; U. S. v. Tingey, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 115, 8 L. ed. 66.

98. In re Fox, 52 N. Y. 530, 11 Am. Rep. 751 [affirmed in 94 U. S. 315, 24 L. ed. 192].

99. Dickson v. U. S., 125 Mass. 311, 28 Am. Rep. 230. In this case the devise to the United States was: "Wishing to contribute my mite towards suppressing the rebellion and restoring the Union, I give and devise the rest and residue of my estate to the United States of America." The devise being absolute, it was held to be good, notwithstanding that the rebellion had been suppressed and the Union restored before the death of the testator. The opinion in this case, by Mr. Justice Gray, also recalls the fact that the Smithsonian Institution at Washington was created by the bequest of an Englishman named Smithson, established by a decree of Lord Langdale as master of the rolls, and accepted by act of congress. U. S. v. Drummond [cited in Whicker v. Hume, 7 H. L. Cas. 124, 155, 4 Jur. N. S. 933, 28 L. J. Ch. 396].

1. McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 437, 18 Am. Dec. 516; Radcliffe v. Roper, 10 Mod. 89 [reversed in 10 Mod. 230]; Ratcliffe's Case, 1 Str. 267. See also Atty.-Gen. v. Bowyer, 3 Ves. Jr. 714, 4 Rev. Rep. 132, where it is intimated that a corporation authorized by license to hold real estate may take lands by devise.

by devise, yet if the charter of a particular corporation empowers it to purchase, hold, and convey any estate, real or personal, this will enable it to take land by devise;[2] and so it may where its charter empowers it "to hold, purchase, and convey real estate."[3]

(F) Devises to Corporations Where Their Statutory Limit Has Been Reached. According to one view, if the amount of land which a corporation may hold is prescribed by its governing statute, and if it has already acquired lands to such an extent that a further devise to it will exceed that limit, then in so far as the devise is in excess of that limit it is void and the title vests in the heirs. In such a case the principle that the state alone can question the right of the corporation to hold the lands does not in the opinion of some of the courts apply, but the heirs of the testator can raise the question. Nor in such a case is the construction put upon the language of the statutes of mortmain applicable, making a distinction between the power to take and the power to hold; but such a statute, in the absence of some plain expression showing the contrary intent, is construed as prohibiting a taking where the prescribed limit has been reached.[4] But other courts have taken the view that here as in other cases[5] the question of the capacity of the corporation to take is one which can be raised by the state alone.[6]

(G) Devise Good up to Statutory Limit. Under the former view the devise is void only as to the excess; it is good up to the statuory limit, although there may be difficulty in determining that limit.[7]

(H) Operation of Statutes Curing Incapacity of Corporations to Take by Devise or Bequest. Although the supposed corporation which is to be the recipient of the devise or bequest may not have the capacity to take at the time when the devise or bequest is created, yet this will be immaterial, provided it becomes legally qualified to take before the happening of the event upon which the devise or bequest is to become vested.[8] Thus, although a bequest to an unincorporated religious body may be void, by reason of its incapacity to take under a will,[9] yet if it becomes incorporated at the time when the devise is to vest and take effect, that will be sufficient.[10] And whichever way the question is viewed, a devise is contingent upon the existence of a devisee capable of taking at the time when the devise is to vest. Thus a devise to a church society, which is to take effect at the death of the testator's wife, of land to be used as a parsonage, which is to revert to the heirs at law when it shall cease to be so used, is contingent upon the existence of a devisee capable of taking at the termination of the life-estate of the wife; but if the society is then incorporated it will take, although not incorporated at the death of the testator.[11]

(I) Change of Rule by Legislature Does Not Operate Upon Previous Devises But an act of the legislature passed subsequently to the death of the testator

2. McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 437, 18 Am. Dec. 516.

3. American Bible Soc. v. Marshall, 15 Ohio St. 537.

4. Cromie v. Louisville Orphans' Home Soc., 3 Bush (Ky.) 365; McGraw's Estate, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387 [affirming 45 Hun (N. Y.) 354]; Chamberlain v. Chamberlain, 43 N. Y. 424; Wood v. Hammond, 16 R. I. 98, 17 Atl. 324, 18 Atl. 198; Cornell University v. Fiske, 136 U. S. 152, 10 S. Ct. 775, 34 L. ed. 427. Compare American, etc., Christian Union v. Yount, 101 U. S. 352, 25 L. ed. 888. Note that the Rhode Island case was changed by a statute which, however, could not operate retroactively. R. I. Pub. Laws (1889), c. 76, p. 65.

5. See infra, XVII, D, 1, g, (I), (A) et seq.

6. De Camp v. Dobbins, 29 N. J. Eq. 36.

7. McGraw's Estate, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387 [affirming 45 Hun (N. Y.) 354]; Wood v. Hammond, 16 R. I. 98, 17 Atl. 324, 18 Atl. 198.

8. Plymouth Soc. v. Hepburn, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 161, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 817, 32 N. Y. St. 943.

9. Wilmoth v. Wilmoth, 34 W. Va. 426, 12 S. E. 731.

10. Lougheed v. Dykeman's Baptist Church, etc., 58 Hun (N. Y.) 364, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 207, 35 N. Y. St. 270.

11. Lougheed v. Dykeman's Baptist Church, etc., 58 Hun (N. Y.) 364, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 207, 35 N. Y. St. 270.

enlarging the power of the corporation to take will not affect the rights of the heirs, because the title vests in them instantly on the death of the testator, and it is not competent for the legislature to divest it.[12]

(J) Devise to Corporation Where There Are Two Corporations of Same Name. Where there are different corporations of the same or of a similar name, and a devise is made to one of them, naming it in such a way as not to distinguish it from the others, then the will presents a case of latent ambiguity, where parol evidence is admissible to explain the real meaning of the testator.[13]

(K) Power to Take "Subscriptions" or "Contributions" Does Not Include Power to Take by Devise. It has been held in Maryland that the power conferred upon a corporation by an act of the legislature to take and hold "subscriptions or contributions, in money or otherwise," when construed, as it must be, with reference to the restriction imposed upon religious corporations by section 38 of the bill of rights does not include the power to take by devise.[14]

(L) Doctrine of Equitable Conversion Where Corporation Is Not Capable of Taking Land by Devise. If then the corporation is not capable of taking land, but nevertheless a devise of land is made directly to it, the devise will be void and the land will revert to the heirs of the grantor, under the theory of his having died intestate as to it; or will pass under other theories to other devisees under other provisions of the will. But this is not so where the will directs the executors to convert the land into money, and to hand the money over to the corporation. Here, if the corporation is capable of taking personalty, the devise will be good; for when carried out according to its terms it does not operate to vest land in the corporation, but merely operates as a bequest of money to it.[15] This in accordance with the doctrine of equitable conversion, by which, in construing and applying a will, a court of equity will treat land as money or money as land, when it is plain from all the terms of the will that the testator intended land to be converted into money or money into land for the purposes of the will, the general rule being that an equitable conversion is not to be presumed beyond the purposes of the will as plainly expressed therein, or further than is necessary to gratify the several legacies and bequests; and that when these fail or lapse there is a resulting trust in favor of the heir, unless there is a clear and manifest expression in the will to the contrary.[16] In every case involving this doctrine the paramount question is what the testator really meant, whether he meant to give to the produce of the real estate the quality of personalty to all intents, or only so far as respected the particular purposes of the will.[17]

d. Statutory Limits Upon Amount of Land Which May Be Taken Other Than by Devise — (I) In General. But in respect of land acquired by a corporation other than by devise, the rule seems to be that the right of the corporation to hold

12. McGraw's Estate, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387.

13. Connecticut.— Brewster v. McCall, 15 Conn. 274.

Kentucky.— Breckenridge v. Duncan, 2 A. K. Marsh. 50, 12 Am. Dec. 359.

Massachusetts.— Hinckley v. Thatcher, 139 Mass. 477, 1 N. E. 840, 52 Am. Rep. 719.

New Hampshire.—Tilton v. American Bible Soc., 60 N. H. 377, 49 Am. Rep. 321.

New Jersey.— That the misnomer of the legatee will not defeat the gift see De Camp v. Dobbins, 29 N. J. Eq. 36.

Wisconsin.— Morgan v. Burrows, 45 Wis. 211, 30 Am. Rep. 717.

United States.— Gilmer v. Stone, 120 U. S. 586, 7 S. Ct. 689, 30 L. ed. 734. See to this principle in the law of wills Patch v. White, 117 U. S. 210, 6 S. Ct. 617, 29 L. ed. 860; Wilkins v. Allen, 18 How. 385, 15 L. ed. 396.

14. Brown v. Tompkins, 49 Md. 423. Compare Baltimore Catholic Cathedral Church v. Manning, 72 Md. 116, 19 Atl. 599.

15. Sherwood v. American Bible Soc., 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 227.

16. Orrick v. Boehm, 49 Md. 72.

17. Cox's note to Cruse v. Barley, 3 P. Wms. 19, 22, 24 Eng. Reprint 952 [quoted in Orrick v. Boehm, 49 Md. 72, 105]. The rule has been said to be that "the heir-at-law must be effectually displaced, not by inference or implication, but there must be a clear, substantive and undeniable intent on the part of the testator to exclude him." Amphlett v. Parke, 2 Russ. & M. 221, 11 Eng. Ch. 221 [cited in Orrick v. Boehm, 49 Md. 72, 105]. See as to this doctrine of equitable conversion Given v. Hilton, 95 U. S. 591, 24 L. ed. 458; Singleton v. Tomlinson, 3 App.

lands in excess of the statutory limit can be questioned only by the state.[18] Hence a trespasser will not be allowed to trespass upon any portion of such land.[19]

(II) Evasion of Such Statutes by Taking Land in Name of Another as Trustee. The evasion of the statutes of wills by the device of conveying lands to feoffees to the use of the feoffors in the will, and other refinements which disgraced the jurisprudence of our ancestors, resulting in distinctions between interests in lands and interests collateral to land, which involved direct violation of the policy and purpose of the statute law,[20] are not tolerated in modern jurisprudence. But if the legislature has limited the amount of land which a corporation may hold, or the purposes for which it may hold it, the courts will not allow the statute to be evaded by the corporation resorting to the device of thrusting a trustee between itself and the law.[21]

e. What Estate in Lands Corporation May Take — (I) Fee Simple or Determinable Fee. In some cases a distinction is taken between the estate which a corporation may take for the purposes of alienation, and the estate which it may take for the purposes of enjoyment, holding that it may take a fee-simple estate for the purposes of alienation, but can take only a determinable fee for the purposes of enjoyment.[22] There seems never to have been any doubt upon the former of these propositions, that is, upon the proposition that a corporation may take a grant of land and convey it in fee, so that the title of its grantee will not be affected by its subsequent dissolution.[23] But the second proposition, namely, that a corporation can take only a determinable fee for the purposes of enjoyment is founded upon the premise that upon its dissolution its land reverts to the original grantor or his heirs.[24] But it is elsewhere pointed out that this is no longer the law, at least in respect of private joint-stock corporations, but that the law is that, upon the dissolution of such a corporation, all of its estate, whether consisting of lands or goods, passes into administration, for the benefit of its creditors first, and its shareholders afterward.[25] It is therefore conceived that this doctrine of a corporation being incapable of taking an estate in fee simple for the purposes of enjoyment is an exploded refinement of the common law.

(II) Statutes and Charters Under Which Corporation Takes Fee Simple. Where there is a statute relating to conveyances providing that every grant shall pass all the estate or interest of the grantor, unless the intent to pass a less estate or interest shall appear by express terms or be necessarily implied in the terms of the grant,[26] a conveyance to a corporation and its successors will pass an estate in fee, although the corporation may be created for a limited period,[27] and it would have the same effect if no words of succession were used.[28] When Cas. 404, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 653, 26 Wkly. Rep. 722.

18. Hamsher v. Hamsher, 132 Ill. 273, 23 N. E. 1123, 8 L. R. A. 556.

19. Whitman Gold, etc., Min. Co. v. Baker, 3 Nev. 386.

20. See Clere's Case, 6 Coke 18; Coke Litt. 272; 1 Saunders Uses 72. See also the opinion of Chancellor Jones in McCartee v. Orphan Asylum Soc., 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 437, as condensed in 18 Am. Dec. 516.

21. Coleman v. San Rafael Turnpike Road Co., 49 Cal. 517; Church of Jesus Christ v. U. S., 136 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 792, 34 L. ed. 481; Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513; Cox v. Gould, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,301, 4 Blatchf. 341.

22. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 460 [affirmed in 12 N. Y. 121]; Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107.

23. People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255; People v. Mauran, 5 Den. (N. Y.) 389.

24. Blackstone's definition of the title which a corporation takes by grant is "an estate for life which may endure forever, or which reverts to the donor only when the life of the donee is terminated." 1 Bl. Comm. 484.

25. Heath v. Barmore, 50 N. Y. 302. See also infra, XXI, G, 6, a.

26. For example 1 N. Y. Rev. Stat. p. 748, § 1.

27. People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255; Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 [affirming 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 460]. Compare Webb v. Moler, 8 Ohio 548.

28. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 [affirming 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 460, per Parker, J.].

therefore a corporation is empowered by its charter to acquire land it may acquire an estate in fee, although its own existence is limited to a term of years.[29] So a railroad corporation which has the power under its charter to acquire by purchase such real estate as may be necessary for the construction of its road may acquire title in fee to the same by a deed purporting to convey the fee, and when the land is no longer needed for this purpose it may sell it and convey the fee.[30] So a plank-road company authorized to acquire land for the building and operation of its road may acquire title to the same in fee simple absolute, and no condition of reverter, in case of its ceasing to use the land for the purposes intended, will be implied.[31]

(III) Power to Take Land as Joint Tenant or Tenant in Common. A corporation cannot take an estate in joint tenancy, either jointly with another corporation, or with a natural person;[32] but it can take and hold as a tenant in common with another corporation or with a natural person.[33]

(IV) Power to Take Land by Statutory Investiture — (A) In General. A devolution of land upon a corporation may take place by a mere legislative enactment, sanctioned of course by the owners of the land and by the corporation.[34] The books present cases where corporations have been created by the legislature and property vested in them by the statute, without any formal conveyance. This was held to have taken place where the provincial legislature of Georgia passed an act declaring that the rector of a certain church was thereby created a body politic and corporate, and that he should be in the actual possession of the church, with its cemetery and appurtenances, to hold and to enjoy the same to him and his successors, etc. This was held to be a statutory investiture in the corporation thus created, of title, not only to the church, but also to the cemetery; and a subsequent statute perpetuated the same title, in substantially the same corporation, under a different name.[35] In some of these cases the question will depend upon a consideration of the body which is incorporated, whether the trustees or the beneficiaries or proprietors.[36]

(B) Legislative Intent so to Devolve Title Must Be Clear. But if the legislature, in an act of incorporation, intends that the property of the coadventurers who are incorporated shall be vested in the corporation without a deed of conveyance, it will of course say so in direct language. Thus an act incorporating tenants

29. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121; Rives v. Dudley, 56 N. C. 126, 67 Am. Dec. 231.

30. Yates v. Van de Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526.

31. Heath v. Barmore, 50 N. Y. 302.

Applications of above doctrine in case of railroads.— See Old Colony R. Corp. v. Evans, 6 Gray (Mass.) 25, 66 Am. Dec. 394 (specific performance of a contract by which a railroad company purchased land for the excavation of gravel to be hauled over its road to a distant place and sold); Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107 (holding that a railroad corporation may take by purchase and hold in fee simple, such land as may be necessary for its purposes). Compare Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221; Waldo v. Chicago St., etc., R. Co., 14 Wis. 575 (railroad corporation has no power to hold land situated at a distance from its road for the purpose of speculation). To a similar effect see Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243.

32. Telfair v. Howe, 3 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 235, 55 Am. Dec. 637; Coke Litt. 296.

33. De Witt v. San Francisco, 2 Cal. 289; Estell v. South University, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 476; Windham's Case, 5 Coke 7; Willion v. Berkley, Plowd. 223; Bennet v. Holbech, 2 Saund. 316; 1 Washburn Real Prop. (4th ed.) 643. Compare New York, etc., Canal Co. v. Fulton Bank, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 412.

34. Ladies' Benev. Soc. No. 2 v. Edgefield Benev. Soc. No. 2, 2 Tenn. Ch. 77.

35. Christ Church v. Savannah, 82 Ga. 656, 9 S. E. 537.

36. See supra, I, A, 6.

Illustration.— Where the proprietors of certain lands were incorporated, and the trustees were endowed with a power of superintendence and management, it was held that the act of incorporation did not give the trustees title or possession, power to make contracts of agistment binding the corporation, or power to sell grass or herbage; and consequently that one who had agreed with the trustees for the pasturage of his horse, which died through their negligence, had no action against the corporation. Appley v. Montauk, 38 Barb. (N. Y.) 275. But while the trustees were not the corporation, the conclusion of the court is obviously a non sequitur; for they were its managing agents, and it was responsible for their contracts and neglects.

in common to enable them to carry on more conveniently a common purpose does not of itself vest in the corporation a title to the land previously owned by the individuals, and used by them for the same purpose.[37] A statute incorporating the tenants in common of a wharf, their heirs and assigns, upon their own petition, for the purpose of enabling them the better to manage and improve the wharf, did not therefore transfer the title in the wharf to the corporation.[38] So the organization of a voluntary loan association, under a statute,[39] does not transfer the property of the associates to the corporation without a formal conveyance, because the statute does not say so.[40] And in general a clause in a charter declaring that the corporators are constituted a body corporate for a specified purpose does not give them any rights of property with respect to such purpose. It only confers corporate existence, and limits the purpose for which such existence is given. If lands are necessary for carrying the purpose into effect, they must be acquired under some other authority, grant, or conveyance.[41]

f. Limitation of Power of Corporations to Take and Hold Land as Determined by Purposes of Their Existence. Where the question is raised in the proper proceeding, it will be held that a corporation can take and hold only so much land as is necessary for the purposes recited in its charter or in its articles of incorporation. Thus a manufacturing corporation cannot hold vacant and unoccupied land, unless it is or will be necessary for its use in the conduct of its business,[42] or will be necessary for its use in its business in the near future.[43] A narrow view of this subject has resulted in the holding that a manufacturing corporation cannot acquire and hold land for the purpose of building a town composed of houses constructed to be occupied as dwellings by its employees, and that vacant lots kept for the purpose of constructing thereon future dwellings for this purpose cannot be held by it in the exercise of its implied powers.[44] But the ownership of an office building near the business center of a city by a manufacturing corporation does not exceed its implied powers merely because the building is larger than is needed for its present use, and because a part of it is therefore rented out, if it is made to appear that it is probable that the whole building will be needed for the business of the corporation in the near future.[45]

g. Power of Corporation to Hold Land Not Questioned Collaterally, but Only by State — (i) Rule Stated — (a) In General. The limitations imposed by the principles of the common and the statute law upon the power of corporations to hold land, as elsewhere explained in this article, are greatly modified by a principle of extensive application now to be considered, which is that although a corporation may be disabled or forbidden from holding land at all, or from holding land except for particular purposes, or from holding land beyond a prescribed 37. Leffingwell v. Elliott, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 455, 19 Am. Dec. 343.

38. Holland v. Cruft, 3 Gray (Mass.) 162.

39. Mass Stat. (1854), c. 454.

40. Manahan v. Varnum, 11 Gray (Mass.) 405.

41. Keyport, etc., Steamboat Co. v. Farmers' Transp. Co., 18 N. J. Eq. 13.

42. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664. But it was held in this case that a palace-car company which has built shops for the manufacture of cars requiring five thousand employees, at a place remote from any city or village, may buy adjoining lands and build dwellings for the employees, provide such buildings with water, light, heat, and drainage; build schoolhouses and churches, halls, a library and theater, and hold and set apart lands for parks and pleasure-grounds for the use of its employees and their families, if it does so in good faith, with an honest belief, based on reasonable grounds, that it is required for the successful prosecution of its business.

43. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664.

44. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664.

45. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664.

Evidence held not sufficient to show that certain lots purchased by a railroad corporation were not necessary for the construction of its road. Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Carmichael, 184 Ill. 348, 56 N. E. 372 [affirming 82 Ill. App. 344].

Where a private corporation, for the purpose of paying its debts and closing its affairs, accepts land in part payment of its stock of merchandise, such transaction will not condemn or defeat the sale. Morisette v. Howard, 62 Kan. 463, 63 Pac. 756.

limit, yet if it does hold land in the face of such disabilities or prohibitions, its title will be good except as against the state alone, and that it will be deemed to have a good title until its title is invalidated in a direct proceeding instituted by the state for that purpose.[46]

(B) As Where Statute Law Prohibits Foreign Corporations From Acquiring Land Beyond Prescribed Amount. Thus under a statute of Georgia[47] providing that the state of Georgia will not consent to foreign corporations owning five thousand or more acres of land in that state, unless they shall become incorporated under the laws thereof, it is held that the state alone can question the right of foreign corporations to hold land in contravention of the statute.[48]

(II) Rule Prevents Title of Corporation From Being Assailed by Its Grantor. If a corporation is authorized to purchase land for certain purposes, and for no other, a deed of land executed to it, by one having capacity to convey, will vest title in it, which title can be assailed, on the ground that the purchase is ultra vires, only by the state or by a shareholder, but not by the grantor.[49]

46. Arizona.— Tidwell v. Chricahua Cattle Co., (1898) 53 Pac. 192.

California. — Natoma Water, etc., Co. v. Clarkin, 14 Cal. 544.

Colorado.— Water Supply, etc., Co. v. Tenney, 24 Colo. 344, 51 Pac. 505, right of a corporation, under its articles, to hold real property cannot be attacked by another corporation in an action between the two.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Keegan, 185 Ill. 70, 56 N. E. 1088 (question cannot be raised by one having adverse possession, but only by the state); Cooney v. A. Booth Packing Co., 169 Ill. 370, 48 N. E. 406; Alexander v. Tolleston Club, 110 Ill. 65; Hough v. Cook County Land Co., 73 Ill. 23, 24 Am. Rep. 230; Henderson v. Virden Coal Co., 78 Ill. App. 437 (holding that a lessor, his heirs, or devisees cannot assail a lease to a corporation upon the ground that it already held more real estate than it was authorized by its charter to hold, as that is an objection which can be raised only by the state); Lauder v. Peoria Agricultural Soc., 71 Ill. App. 475.

Indiana.— Hayward v. Davidson, 41 Ind. 212.

Kentucky. — Miller v. Flemingsburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 109 Ky. 475, 59 S. W. 512, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1039.

Maine.— Farrington v. Putnam, 90 Me. 405, 37 Atl. 652, 38 L. R. A. 399.

Maryland. — Hagerstown Mfg. Min., etc., Co. v. Keedy, 91 Md. 430, 46 Atl. 965 (trustee in a deed of trust executed by a beneficial association, in the absence of fraud, cannot raise the question that the purchase was ultra vires, since that is a matter between the corporation and the state, and can be tried only in a direct proceeding by the state to annul the charter); In re Stickney, 85 Md. 79, 36 Atl. 654, 60 Am. St. Rep. 308, 35 L. R. A. 693.

Missouri.— Ragan v. McElroy, 98 Mo. 349, 11 S. W. 735; Shewalter v. Pirner, 55 Mo. 218; Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243; Chambers v. St. Louis, 29 Mo. 543; McIndoe v. St. Louis, 10 Mo. 575.

Nebraska.— Watts v. Gantt, 42 Nebr. 869, 61 N. W. 104 (right of a corporation to hold real estate, or to purchase or hold a lien thereon, can be questioned only by the state); Missouri Valley Land Co. v. Bushnell, 11 Nebr. 192, 8 N. W. 389.

Nevada.— Whitman Gold, etc., Min. Co. v. Baker, 3 Nev. 386.

New Jersey.— De Camp v. Dobbins, 29 N. J. Eq. 36.

New York.— Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466; People v. Mauran, 5 Den. 389; Silver Lake Bank v. North, 4 Johns. Ch. 370; Bogardus v. Trinity Church, 4 Sandf. Ch. 633.

North Carolina.— Mallett v. Simpson, 94 N. C. 37, 55 Am. Rep. 595.

Pennsylvania.— Goundie v. Northampton Water Co., 7 Pa. St. 233; Baird v. Washington Bank, 11 Serg. & R. 411; Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. 313.

Tennessee.— Barrow v. Nashville, etc., Turnpike Co., 9 Humphr. 304.

Texas.— Russell v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 68 Tex. 646, 5 S. W. 686; Ray v. Foster, (Civ. App. 1899) 53 S. W. 54.

Virginia.— Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706.

Wisconsin.— Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709.

United States.— Fritts v. Palmer, 132 U. S. 282, 10 S. Ct. 93, 33 L. ed. 317; Genesee Nat. Bank v. Whitney, 103 U. S. 99, 26 L. ed. 443; St. Louis Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188; Runyan v. Coster, 14 Pet. 122, 10 L. ed. 382; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Orton, 32 Fed. 457, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,188*a*, 6 Sawy. 157.

The report of a legislative committee that the property of a corporation is properly taxed does not amount to a concession on the part of the state that the corporation had a right to acquire the title to the property. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664.

47. Ga. Act Feb. 28, 1877.

48. American Mortg. Co. v. Tennille, 87 Ga. 28, 13 S. E. 158, 12 L. R. A. 529.

For an exception to the rule in the case of devises to corporations see supra, XVII, D, 1, c, (V), (B).

49. Hough v. Cook County Land Co., 73 Ill. 23, 24 Am. Rep. 230.

(III) Rule Enables Corporations to Recover Against Trespassers. The foregoing rule enables a corporation, which has received a grant of land, to maintain an action against a trespasser to recover possession of it; and the trespasser will not be heard to question the title of the corporation on the ground that it has no authority to take the lands.[50]

(IV) Rule Enables Corporation to Pass Good Title to Its Grantee. The rule also operates in such a way that although the state might in a direct proceeding for that purpose have overthrown the title of the corporation and escheated the property to its own use, yet, not having done so, the corporation may in the mean time convey an indefeasible title to another, of whatever estate in the lands had been conveyed to or acquired by it.[51]

(V) Rule Prevents Private Persons From Questioning Validity of Conveyance by or to Corporation. The rule also operates to prevent third persons having no interest in land conveyed by one corporation to another from disputing the validity of the conveyance.[52] Thus a stranger to the original title to land deeded to a corporation cannot take advantage of the fact that the deed was not executed with the consent of the holders of two thirds of the capital stock of the corporation, as required by statute, if the shareholders have made no objection.[53]

(VI) Rule Applies Where Corporation May, Under Certain Circumstances, Acquire and Hold Land. Under the operation of this principle, where property which a corporation, under certain circumstances, is authorized by its charter to acquire, is purchased in a mode or for a purpose not authorized, the title of the corporation to the property cannot be defeated by a party who is a stranger to the agreement by which the property was acquired, and who is not injured by the transfer.[54] The doctrine on this subject may therefore be summed up in the proposition that the power of a corporation to acquire and hold title to land cannot be questioned by any party except the state, where it has the power to hold land under any circumstances or for any purpose;[55] and we have seen that it has at common law the implied power to hold land for the purposes of its creation.[56]

(VII) Rule Does Not Apply Where Corporation Is Seeking to Acquire Land Which It Has No Power to Acquire and Hold. This principle has no application where the corporation is seeking the aid of a court of justice to enable it to acquire lands which it has no power to acquire and hold. Here the principle is that a court of justice will not aid a corporation to do that which is impliedly forbidden by its charter or by the law.[57]

h. Presumption in Favor of Power of Corporation to Take and Hold Land. There is a general presumption in favor of the power of a corporation to take and hold land, until the contrary is made to appear;[58] so that if a corporation is authorized under some circumstances to hold and convey real estate, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the real estate which 50. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Orton, 32 Fed. 457, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,188*a*, 6 Sawy. 157.

51. Shewalter v. Pirner, 55 Mo. 218; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466; Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709.

52. Beels v. North Nebraska Fair, etc., Assoc., 54 Nebr. 226, 74 N. W. 581; Benton v. Elizabeth, 61 N. J. L. 411, 39 Atl. 683, 906 [affirmed in 61 N. J. L. 693, 40 Atl. 1132].

53. Boston, etc., Copper, etc., Min. Co. v. Montana Ore-Purchasing Co., 89 Fed. 529 [disapproving Pekin Min., etc., Co. v. Kennedy, 81 Cal. 356, 22 Pac. 679; McShane v. Carter, 80 Cal. 310, 22 Pac. 178].

54. Ehrman v. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co., 35 Ohio St. 324.

55. Hamsher v. Hamsher, 132 Ill. 273, 23 N. E. 1123, 8 L. R. A. 556; Alexander v. Tolleston Club, 110 Ill. 65; Hayward v. Davidson, 41 Ind. 212; Gilbert v. Hole, 2 S. D. 164, 49 N. W. 1.

56. As to which see supra, XVII, D, 1, a, (I).

57. Pacific R. Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212, 100 Am. Dec. 369 (specific performance of an agreement to convey land to a railroad company refused because the company had no power under its charter to take and hold land); Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513.

58. Diamond Coal Co. v. Cook, (Cal. 1900) 61 Pac. 578.

it undertook to convey was held and conveyed under those circumstances and in pursuance of its powers.[59]

i. In Case of Grants of Land to Corporations Before Being Organized, Acceptance Presumed — (i) In General. A deed of conveyance of land to an intended corporation, before its organization, will take effect upon the event of its organization; for its acceptance of the deed, when it becomes capable of accepting, will be presumed;[60] whereas, onerous contracts made by promoters will not bind the future corporation, in the absence of an affirmative ratification.[61] Thus a deed of land to a corporation, dated after its charter, but before its organization, and recorded after its organization, although before the institution of the suit, is admissible as evidence of title in the corporation, in an action by it for a trespass upon the land.[62] So after letters-patent, another expression for a charter, have been issued by the governor, as required by the law of Pennsylvania, to a corporation, a deed of conveyance to the company will vest the estate in it, although the corporation has not been organized by the election of its officers. The assent of the corporation to the grant will be presumed.[63]

(ii) Circumstances Under Which Vendor Becomes Trustee of Title For Purchaser. So where a purchase is made by several persons representing a voluntary association of Christians, for the common benefit of all the persons composing the association, and the purchase-money is paid, and possession of the land given, equity raises a promise by the vendor to make a title, either to the persons making the payment, or to the corporation, if one be created. In such case the vendor, as to the title, becomes a trustee for the purchasers; and, they being the mere agents of the voluntary association, the moment the association is incorporated it has a right to a conveyance from the vendor.[64]

j. Conveyances to Non-Existent and De Facto Corporations — (i) In General. As already seen[65] there must be two parties to every contract, and to every deed of conveyance, a grantor and a grantee. A deed to a person having no existence is generally inoperative and passes no present title from the grantor.[66] If a man grant his estate to an imaginary person, who exists only in his own mind, no title passes. But the mere fact that a corporation has been irregularly organized will not render invalid the title to land which has been derived from it in good faith.[67] In applying this principle it will often be difficult to distinguish between a non-existent or imaginary and a de facto corporation;[68] but the distinction is said to be that if there is a law authorizing the organization of the supposed corporation, then whether it has been properly organized is a question of fact, and a party contracting with it is estopped from disputing the fact that it has been properly organized. But where there is no law authorizing it to be organized, or if the statute authorizing it is unconstitutional and void, then a contract with it will not estop the party making it from disputing its existence.[69] If therefore the owner of land conveys the same to a de facto railroad corporation in settlement of his subscription to its capital stock, and it conveys the land for value to an innocent purchaser, the original grantor cannot maintain ejectment for it against 59. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466. See also State University v. Detroit Young Men's Soc., 12 Mich. 138, opinion by Christiancy, J.

60. Rotch's Wharf Co. v. Judd, 108 Mass. 224.

Facts from which the acceptance of a charter will be presumed see U. S. Bank v. Dandridge, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 64, 6 L. ed. 552; and supra, I, J, 7, b.

61. See supra, I, Q, 2.

62. Rotch's Wharf Co. v. Judd, 108 Mass. 224.

63. Rathbone v. Tioga Nav. Co., 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 74.

64. African M. E. Church v. Conover, 27 N. J. Eq. 157.

65. See supra, XII, D, 5, c.

66. Harriman v. Southam, 16 Ind. 190; African M. E. Church v. Conover, 27 N. J. Eq. 157; Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

67. Snyder v. Studebaker, 19 Ind. 462, 81 Am. Dec. 415; Brown v. Phillipps, 16 Iowa 210.

68. See supra, I, O, 1, a et seq.

69. Snyder v. Studebaker, 19 Ind. 462, 81 Am. Dec. 415 [overruling Harriman v. Southam, 16 Ind. 190; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Evansville, 15 Ind. 395].

such innocent purchaser, by setting up that the corporation was in fact non-existent.[70] Nor can he maintain a bill in equity to set aside such conveyance and have the title revested in him.[71]

(II) Rescission and Cancellation of Conveyances of Land to Corporation Not Empowered to Take and Hold — (A) In General. An attempt to rescind a conveyance or an agreement to convey land to a corporation, on the ground that it has no capacity to take and hold land, or on the ground that it is non-existent as a corporation, will generally be met by the principle of estoppel, whichever party seeks the rescission. Thus if the corporation is the vendor, the vendee cannot set up its want of capacity to take and hold land as a defense to an action to recover the purchase-price; because, on a principle already seen,[72] the question of the capacity of the corporation is merely a question between it and the state.[73] But there are cases proceeding in seeming violation of this principle.

(B) Cases Where Such Rescissions and Cancellations Have Been Permitted. Thus where a man has given a bond to convey certain salt marsh lands to a turnpike company, not needed by it in constructing or operating its road, his subsequent grantee of the same lands was allowed to maintain a suit to cancel the bond as a cloud upon his title, although his deed mentioned the bond, and the conveyance was made to him subject to it.[74] So where a corporation advanced money on a purchase of real estate at a sale on execution and then, perceiving that by its charter it could not hold land, relinquished the purchase to a third person, who agreed to take the bid and repay the money, it was held that the corporation could recover from such person the amount advanced.[75]

(C) No Rescission on Ground That Land Is Being Used For Unauthorized Purpose. It is no ground for the rescission of a contract for the sale of land to a corporation, upon a bill in equity by the vendor, that the corporation has used the land for different purposes from those for which it was authorized to use real estate by its charter,[76] this misuser being likewise a question with which the state alone is concerned. So where a corporation brings a suit in equity for the purpose of restraining one who has conveyed land to it from violating the contract he will not be heard to set up the defense that the purchase was ultra vires, as where the land had been conveyed to a railroad company for the purpose of being used as an excursion ground.[77] When therefore land was conveyed to a corporation with the declared purpose of establishing a gate and toll-house thereon, and the vendor sold it for that purpose alone, and the corporation afterward abandoned that purpose and rented the land to a blacksmith, in the absence of any condition in the deed restricting the purpose for which the grantee might use the land, it was held that a court of chancery would not rescind the conveyance.[78]

(D) No Rescission on Ground That Grantee Corporation Is Non-Existent. So one who has conveyed land to a corporation will not, especially after the corporation has conveyed it to a second purchaser for value, be allowed to recover possession of the land on the ground that the corporation was non-existent, provided it was a corporation de facto, that is such a corporation as might have been properly organized under some existing law.[79] Nor in such a case can the vendor

70. Snyder v. Studebaker, 19 Ind. 462, 81 Am. Dec. 415.

71. Brown v. Phillipps, 16 Iowa 210.

72. See supra, XVII, D, 1, g, (I), (A).

73. Missouri Valley Land Co. v. Bushnell, 11 Nebr. 192, 8 N. W. 389. But see Russell v. Topping, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,163, 5 McLean 194.

74. Coleman v. San Rafael Turnpike Road Co., 49 Cal. 517.

75. Crutcher v. Nashville Bridge Co., 8 Humphr. (Tenn.) 403.

76. Hamilton v. Annapolis, etc., R. Co., 1 Md. Ch. 107; Barrow v. Nashville, etc., Turnpike Co., 9 Humphr. (Tenn.) 304 (opinion by Green, J.).

77. Shelby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 143 Ill. 385, 32 N. E. 438 [affirming 42 Ill. App. 339]. But compare supra, XVII, D, 1, j, (II), (C).

78. Barrow v. Nashville, etc., Turnpike Co., 9 Humphr. (Tenn.) 304.

79. Snyder v. Studebaker, 19 Ind. 462, 81 Am. Dec. 415.

maintain a suit in equity to cancel the conveyance and revest the title in himself, there being no equity in such a bill.[80]

(E) This Estoppel Works Also Against Corporation. The estoppel works against the corporation, as well as for it. It will not for example be permitted to repudiate a purchase, as not falling within the scope of its charter, where the mass of the property so purchased does fall within the general scope of the charter, and the only objection is that some articles, apparently unnecessary, are included.[81]

k. Power of Alienation or Disposition — (I) In General. As the jus disponendi is an incident of ownership, whenever a corporation has the power to own land it has the power to dispose of it in like manner as a natural person might do.[82] The law goes further. Although as against the state the corporation may not have the power to hold land to which it has acquired a fee-simple title, and although it may hold it subject to the constant risk of intervention by the state, yet, until the state intervenes to escheat it, the corporation may transfer it to another and pass a good title to him. It may grant to another corporation the right to use such land for any purpose within the powers of the grantee, although such purpose was not within the powers of the grantor.[83] Although a corporation may not have the power to hold particular land for the reason that it is not required for the purposes of the corporation, yet it may sell such land and pass a good title to the purchaser.[84]

(II) Power to Sell and Dispose of All Its Property. A strictly private corporation, owing no peculiar duties to the public, has the same dominion over and power to dispose of its property that an individual has; and when the exigencies of its business render it necessary it may, if done in good faith and with the assent of its shareholders, discontinue business and dispose of its entire assets and property, with a view to paying its debts and closing up the affairs of the corporation.[85] A private manufacturing corporation has the right temporarily to lease or rent its plant, when the purpose of such action is not an abandonment of its franchise, for the purpose of raising a fund so as to enable it afterward to conduct its business profitably and to continue the business for which it was created, although the leasing of its property is not within the powers enumerated

80. Brown v. Phillipps, 16 Iowa 210.

81. Moss v. Averell, 10 N. Y. 449.

82. That there is no difference between a corporate and individual debtor with respect to the power of disposition of property, except so far as the corporation is restrained by its charter or by the general rules of law, see Childs v. N. B. Carlstein Co., 76 Fed. 86.

83. Benton v. Elizabeth, 61 N. J. L. 411, 39 Atl. 683, 906 [affirming 41 N. J. L. 693, 40 Atl. 1132].

84. Freeman v. Sea View Hotel Co., 57 N. J. Eq. 68, 40 Atl. 218, hotel company may sell land originally purchased for its hotel site and purchase other property, where a change of condition makes such a course advisable.

Charter provision construed to authorize the general manager of a corporation to sell land purchased at trustee's sale for the corporation, the title to which is taken in the name of an individual. Reddell v. J. B. Watkins Land Mortg. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 608.

Construction of a statute prohibiting the sale of mine works, real estate, or the franchises of mining corporations without the consent of the holders of three fifths of the capital stock, with the conclusion that it does not prohibit the sale of lands or standing not used for mining purposes. Baggaley v. Pittsburg, etc., Iron Co., 90 Fed. 636, 33 C. C. A. 202.

85. Morisette v. Howard, 62 Kan. 463, 63 Pac. 756. To the same effect see the following cases:

California.— Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 300.

Iowa.— Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263.

Louisiana.—Leathers v. Janney, 41 La. Ann. 1120, 6 So. 884, 6 L. R. A. 661.

Massachusetts. — Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490; Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743.

New Jersey.— Sewell v. East Cape May Beach Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 717, 25 Atl. 929.

Pennsylvania.— Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685.

Rhode Island.—Phillips v. Providence Steam Engine Co., 21 R. I. 302, 43 Atl. 598, 45 L. R. A. 560.

England.— Wilson v. Miers, 10 C. B. N. S. 348, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 780, 100 E. C. L. 348.

in its charter.[86] A statute empowering corporations to purchase, hold, sell, mortgage, and convey real and personal property renders valid a voluntary transfer by an insolvent corporation of all its property in payment of outstanding valid mortgage liens, when such transfer is made in good faith.[87] But it has been held that neither the directors nor a majority of the shareholders of a corporation have power at common law to sell or otherwise transfer all its property while the corporation is a going, prosperous concern, able to achieve the objects of its creation as against the dissent of any shareholder.[88] Moreover a transfer by a corporation of its entire assets and property of every description, to another company, in consideration of shares of stock in the latter, not made with the intention of winding up its affairs and dividing the stock among its own shareholders, or as a temporary arrangement, but as a permanent investment, is ultra vires and may be set aside in an action by a dissenting shareholder.[89] A power conferred by statute upon the trustees of mining corporations to "sell, lease, mortgage, or otherwise dispose of" certain mining property does not extend so far as to render valid an exchange of all the property of a mining company for the capital stock of a foreign corporation.[90]

l. Power of Foreign Corporations to Take and Hold Land. This is governed entirely by the law of the state or country within which the land is situated. A statute of Illinois prohibiting foreign corporations from purchasing or holding land except as therein provided, and prohibiting any corporation from accepting any trust except upon the deposit of a certain sum with the auditor of public accounts, has been construed as not prohibiting a foreign corporation from taking a mortgage of land to secure a debt.[91] Where there is a statute requiring foreign corporations, as a condition precedent to doing business in the domestic state, to file their certificates of incorporation, charter, etc., such a corporation may take under a trust deed executed before, but not delivered until after, compliance with such a statute.[92]

m. Estoppels With Respect to Corporate Acquisition and Ownership of Land. The rule obtains here as elsewhere[93] that a corporation acquiring land cannot keep the benefit and plead ultra vires when it is sought to charge it with the burden. A corporation which has obtained the full benefit of an unauthorized purchase of land by its president cannot, while retaining the land, defeat the vendor's right of recovery, on the ground that the particular mode under which the contract was made was ultra vires.[94] So a corporation which acquired property from one in whose hands it was charged with a lien for the payment of a claim for services rendered while the property was in the possession of a receiver cannot question the legality of the claim, where its grantor was a party to the action in which the lien was adjudicated.[95]

2. Power to Take, Hold, and Transfer Personal Property — a. In General. A corporation may acquire and hold any species of personal property the use of

86. Plant v. Macon Oil, etc., Co., 103 Ga. 666, 30 S. E. 567.

87. Klosterman v. Mason County Cent. R. Co., 8 Wash. 281, 36 Pac. 136.

88. Forrester v. Butte, etc., Copper, etc., Min. Co., 21 Mont. 544, 55 Pac. 229 [rehearing denied in 21 Mont. 565, 55 Pac. 353 (citing People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 48 N. Y. St. 166, 17 L. R. A. 737; Abbot v. American Hard Rubber Co., 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 578, and distinguishing Tredwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490)].

89. Byrne v. Schuyler Electric Mfg. Co., 65 Conn. 336, 31 Atl. 833, 28 L. R. A. 304.

90. Forrester v. Butte, etc., Copper, etc., Min. Co., 21 Mont. 544, 55 Pac. 229 [rehearing denied in 21 Mont. 565, 55 Pac. 353]. Circumstances under which an action may be maintained in the name of a corporation to cancel a deed of all its property on the ground that it was procured through fraud. Texas Consol. Compress, etc., Assoc. v. Dublin Compress, etc., Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 404.

91. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Fed. 412.

92. Miller v. Williams, 27 Colo. 34, 59 Pac. 740.

93. See supra, XV, C, 2, e.

94. Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Carmichael, 82 Ill. App. 344 [affirmed in 184 Ill. 348, 56 N. E. 372].

95. Shelburn Coal Min. Co. v. Delashmutt, 21 Ind. App. 257, 53 N. E. 102.

which is appropriate to its functions and a reasonable means of carrying out the purposes of its existence. It may acquire a claim for damages to property of a partnership where the whole property of the partnership is transferred to the corporation, which is organized to receive and operate it.[96] A manufacturing corporation may become the owner of a bond, although the power to do so is not specifically granted in its charter or act of incorporation, or necessarily resulting from its proper business; and a defensive pleading which challenges this power has been held bad on demurrer.[97] A corporation authorized by its charter "to receive deposits on trust" may receive money on deposit and give certificates therefor; and this power is not affected by a proviso prohibiting the corporation from issuing bills, bonds, notes, or other securities to circulate in the community as money.[98] A statute of wills,[99] prohibiting devises of land to corporations, leaves them free to acquire personal property in any manner consistent with their charters or with law.[1]

b. May Make Isolated Purchases of Goods, Although Prohibited to Do so as an Employment. A statute providing that "no corporation shall engage in mercantile or agricultural business, nor in commission, brokerage, stock jobbing, exchange or banking business of any kind" is not construed as invalidating an isolated contract for the purchase of goods. It refers only to the buying and selling of articles of merchandise as an employment, and implies operations conducted with a view of realizing the profits which come from skilful purchase, barter, speculation, and sale.[2]

E. Power to Do Various Acts — 1. To Appoint Agents. As a corporation can act only through the agency of others, its power to appoint agents is necessarily implied from the fact of its existence,[3] and hence where a person sues for his salary as the agent of the corporation he need not allege and prove the power of the corporation to appoint agents.[4]

2. To Act as Agent For Another — a. In General. A corporation may of course act as agent for another to the extent permitted by its charter, governing statute, or articles of incorporation.[5]

b. Acting For Undisclosed Principal in Cotton Speculations. If a saving-bank corporation, without being thereto authorized, assumes to act for an undisclosed principal, in buying and selling futures in cotton, and suffers a loss, and is sued to make good its contracts, it may set up the defense of ultra vires, there being no rule of law or of public policy which will prevent it from pleading that it had no power to embark its funds in such an immoral transaction.[6]

3. To Be Attorney in Fact. A corporation may execute a deed as an attorney in fact for another.[7]

4. To Act as Trustee. The power of a corporation to act as trustee for any purpose within the scope of its charter or governing statute,[8] or where it has itself

96. Central Ohio Natural Gas, etc., Co. v. Capital City Dairy Co., 60 Ohio St. 96, 53 N. E. 711.

97. Bennington Iron Co. v. Rutherford, 18 N. J. L. 467.

98. Talladega Ins. Co. v. Landers, 43 Ala. 115.

99. See supra, XVII, D, 1, c, (v), (B).

1. Sherwood v. American Bible Soc., 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 227.

2. Graham v. Hendricks, 22 La. Ann. 523.

An analogous rule of interpretation exists in respect of statutes prohibiting foreign corporations from doing or carrying on business within the domestic state, without complying with certain prescribed conditions. See, generally, Foreign Corporations.

3. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clarkson, 7 Ind. 595.

4. Kitchen v. Cape Girardeau, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. 514.

Evidence supporting a finding of an employment, by the vice-president of a railroad company, of agents to take care of its lands. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. James, 24 Wis. 388.

5. Frostburg Mut. Bldg. Assoc. v. Lowdermilk, 50 Md. 175.

6. Jemison v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 122 N. Y. 135, 25 N. E. 264, 33 N. Y. St. 335, 19 Am. Rep. 482, 9 L. R. A. 708.

7. Killingsworth v. Portland Trust Co., 18 Oreg. 351, 23 Pac. 66, 17 Am. St. Rep. 737, 7 L. R. A. 638.

8. Sheldon v. Chappell, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 59, 13 N. Y. St. 35.

an interest in the trust fund or property,[9] is entirely free from doubt; although of course it cannot act as a trustee where it has no interest, and where the purposes of the trust are entirely foreign to its institution.[10] Upon this subject it has been said in a learned opinion by Sharkey, P. J.: "Before the statute of uses,[11] there was a limitation or restriction as to those who could stand seized to uses; but since the passage of that statute, trusts have been adopted to supply the place of uses, and the former inability to stand seized to a use, no longer prevails. The general rule now is, that all persons capable of confidence, and of holding real or personal property, may hold as trustees. Corporations may now hold as trustees, although they could not be seized to a use before the statute."[12] The principle that a corporation cannot be a trustee for a purpose wholly foreign to the objects of its own institution is illustrated by a case where a devise had been made to a corporation which was chartered "to establish an institution in the town of Newmarket for the instruction of youth," and the will directed the corporation to hold the principal of the funds, and pay over the income for the support of missionaries.[13] Although a corporation as a general rule cannot be a trustee in a matter in which it has no interest, yet, where property is devised to a corporation partly for its own use and partly in trust for others, the power to take the property for its own use carries with it the power to execute the trust in favor of others.[14] The power of a corporation to take as trustee under a devise or bequest in a will does not according to one view depend upon the fact of its being incorporated so as to be capable of taking at the time of the death of the testator; but where the bequest is made to an unincorporated society by name it will be sufficient that it becomes incorporated after the death of the testator;[15] although some courts hold that a bequest to an unincorporated society is valid.[16]

5. To Be Beneficiary in a Trust. A corporation may be and often is the beneficiary in a trust, of which an instance is found in the case where a corporation lends money and takes as security a note or bond secured by a deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage, which consists in the conveyance of real or personal property to a trust, with a power of sale, upon a prescribed notice, in the case of default in the payment of principal or interest. An instrument creating a trust made to "A B, treasurer" of a corporation named, inures to the benefit of the corporation, although it has been held with senseless technicality for the life of the treasurer only.[17]

6. To Act as Executor or Administrator — a. In General — (1) Ancient Rule — (A) Rule Stated. The idea of the old law was that a corporation could not act as executor or administrator, because it could not take the oath of office,[18] because it could not be a feoffee in trust for others, and because it was a body created for a special purpose, which did not include such a purpose.[19] The diffi-

9. Sheldon v. Chappell, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 59, 13 N. Y. St. 35; In re Howe, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 214.

10. South Newmarket Methodist Seminary v. Peaslee, 15 N. H. 317; In re Howe, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 214.

11. 27 Hen. VIII, c. 10.

12. Sinking Fund Com'rs v. Walker, 6 How. (Miss.) 143, 185, 38 Am. Dec. 433. A great array of cases might be cited, where bequests to corporations, which have been made for charitable purposes, have been sustained. Burbank v. Whitney, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 146, 35 Am. Dec. 312; Wade v. American Colonization Soc., 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 663, 45 Am. Dec. 324.

13. South Newmarket Methodist Seminary v. Peaslee, 15 N. H. 317.

14. In re Howe, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 214. See also Sheldon v. Chappell, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 59, 13 N. Y. St. 35.

15. Wade v. American Colonization Soc., 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 663, 45 Am. Dec. 324.

16. Bartlett v. Nye, 4 Metc. (Mass.) 378; Burbank v. Whitney, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 146, 35 Am. Dec. 312; Jackson v. Hartwell, 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 422.

17. Andover First Baptist Soc. v. Hazen, 100 Mass. 322.

18. Bacon Abr. tit. Executors and Administrators 2; 1 Bl. Comm. 477; Comyns Dig. Adm. b. 2; Wentworth Ex. c. 1, p. 39; Williams Ex. 268.

19. Georgetown College v. Browne, 34 Md. 450; Bacon Abr. tit. Executors and Administrators 2. See also In re Thompson, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 334. The English doctrine that a corporation can act as executor or adminisculty with respect of taking the oath of office was avoided by allowing the corporation to appoint one of its members as a syndic to take the oath; but it has been said that this practice is inadmissible in this country.[20] The question was, however, left undecided.

(B) Corporation Sole May so Act. A corporation sole was competent to act as executor or administrator, if otherwise empowered thereto, since it could take the oath of office.[21]

(II) Modern Corporations May so Act if Thereto Empowered. "There is," says Wales, J., "no inherent disability or disqualification belonging to a corporation as such which excludes it from acting as an administrator; and it may accept the office if not prohibited by its charter, or forbidden by statute, whenever from the objects of its incorporation and the nature of its business it may become necessary and proper, and it is able to comply with the conditions prescribed by law as to giving bond, etc."[22] In fact trust companies are incorporated in several states with the faculty of acting as executor or administrator of the estates of decedents.[23]

b. Whether Foreign Corporation May so Act. A foreign corporation, authorized by the law of its creation to act as executor of the estate of a deceased person, may perform the functions of a foreign executor in like manner as it could do if it were a natural person, unless there is something in the statute law of the domestic state or country which renders the exercise of such functions inadmissible. In Delaware it has been found that there is nothing either in the statute law of the state or in its public policy which deprives a corporation created in another state for the purpose of acting as executor or administrator from exercising such functions in that state.[24]

7. To Act as Committee of Lunatic. A corporation which, under a provision of its governing statute, has the power "to execute trusts of every description," is presumed to have capacity to act as the committee of a lunatic, in the absence of any specific restriction in its charter.[25]

8. To Act as Assignee For Creditors. A corporation may act as assignee for the creditors of an insolvent debtor, in like manner as it may execute any other trust, if thereto authorized by its charter and governing statute.[26]

9. Cannot Enter Into Partnership — a. General Rule. Provisions are made by statutes, it may be assumed, in all the states, for the consolidation or amalgamation of corporations, providing schemes by which two or more corporations may unite or consolidate their funds into a single incorporated enterprise.[27] Outside trator has been frequently recognized in this country. In re Kirkpatrick, 22 N. J. Eq. 463.

20. Porter v. Trall, 30 N. J. Eq. 106.

21. Toller Ex. 30; Will. Ex. 269; and authorities.

22. Fidelity Ins., etc., Deposit Co. v. Niven, 5 Houst. (Del.) 416, 430, 1 Am. St. Rep. 150.

23. 14 Del. Laws 714. So stated in Porter v. Trall, 30 N. J. Eq. 106, as to a corporation in Philadelphia and in Camden Safe Deposit, etc., Co. v. Ingham, 40 N. J. Eq. 3, as to one in New Jersey. See Schouler Ex. § 32; 1 Woerner Adm. 509. It has also been held that a partnership firm may be nominated as executors, and that letters testamentary will be granted to the individual members of the firm. Re Fernie, 6 Notes Cas. 657 [cited in 1 Woerner Adm. 510]. That a person (and a fortiori a corporation) will not be allowed to act as executor, although nominated to be such in the will, unless capable of taking the office, is shown by Berry v. Hamilton, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 191, 54 Am. Dec. 515. And see a learned note to this case, 54 Am. Dec. 518 et seq., on the question who may act as executor or administrator. A decision of the court of appeals of Kentucky, not officially reported, is to the effect that a provision in the charter of a corporation, authorizing it to act as executor, administrator, etc., that the capital stock shall be taken and considered as security required by law for the faithful performance of its duties, and that other security shall not be required upon its appointment as administrator, except when required by the court of parties in interest, is not unconstitutional. Coleman v. Parrott, 13 S. W. 525, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 947.

24. Fidelity Ins., etc., Deposit Co. v. Nivens, 5 Houst. (Del.) 416, 1 Am. St. Rep. 150.

25. Equitable Trust Co. v. Garis, 190 Pa. St. 544, 42 Atl. 1022, 44 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 41, 70 Am. St. Rep. 644.

26. Roane Iron Co. v. Wisconsin Trust Co., 99 Wis. 273, 74 N. W. 818, 67 Am. St. Rep. 856.

27. See supra, III, A, 1 et seq.

of such provisions the general rule is that although corporations may make joint contracts, by which they will be jointly or severally liable with other parties,[28] yet they cannot consolidate their funds with each other so as to form a partnership,[29] amalgamate into a new corporation without the consent of the legislature,[30] or enter into a partnership with a private individual unless the legislature has enabled them so to do.[31]

b. View That Corporation Can Enter Into Partnership With Individuals to Effectuate Object of Its Creation — (I) View Stated. On the other hand we find decisions to the effect that corporations may enter into a copartnership with natural persons for the purpose of carrying on the business for which the corporation was created.[32]

(II) Recovery on Instruments Made to Them in Their Partnership Name. Where two corporations, or a corporation and a natural person, have assumed to enter into a partnership, and have done business jointly, they may recover upon obligations made to them in their partnership name, irrespective of their rights and duties as between themselves, or of the power of the corporation to enter into a partnership.[33]

10. Cannot Take an Oath. A corporation aggregate cannot take an oath,[34] although a corporation sole can.[35]

11. May Incur Expenses on Account of Injured Employees. An implied power will be ascribed to any corporation employing labor, to incur expense on account of injuries received by its employees in the line of their employment, in the absence of any express statutory grant of such power.[36] A more difficult question arises as to the power of particular officers or agents of corporations to charge them with such expenses; and this has been already considered.[37]

12. May Establish Fund For Benefit of Sick and Wounded Employees. Railroad companies have the implied power, as incidental to their power to employ labor and to render compensation therefor, to establish by levying assessments upon the wages of their employees in pursuance of contracts made with them, a fund for the relief of such employees when sick or wounded, and to assume the management of the funds so raised; to erect and maintain therewith hospitals wherein to treat such sick and wounded employees; and to make additional contributions thereto out of their corporation funds.[38]

28. Chicago Mar. Bank v. Ogden, 29 Ill. 248.

29. Chicago Mar. Bank v. Ogden, 29 Ill. 248; New York, etc., Canal Co. v. Fulton Bank, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 412; Mallory v. Hanaur Oil Works, 86 Tenn. 598, 8 S. W. 396.

30. Charlton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 5 Jur. N. S. 1096, 7 Wkly. Rep. 731. See also supra, III, A, 1.

31. Alabama.— Central R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 76 Ala. 572, 52 Am. Rep. 353.

Georgia.— Gunn v. Central R. Co., 74 Ga. 509.

Illinois.— Bishop v. American Preservers' Co., 157 Ill. 284, 41 N. E. 765, 48 Am. St. Rep. 317.

Massachusetts.—Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221; Whittenton Mills v. Upton, 10 Gray 582, 71 Am. Dec. 681.

Ohio.— Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Standard Wagon Co., 9 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 380, 6 Ohio N. P. 264.

Texas.— Sabine Tram Co. v. Bancroft, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 170, 40 S. W. 837.

United States.— California Nat. Bank v. Kennedy, 167 U. S. 362, 17 S. Ct. 831, 42 L. ed. 198; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 441, 16 L. ed. 184.

England.— East Anglian R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 11 C. B. 775, 16 Jur. 249, 21 L. J. C. P. 23, 73 E. C. L. 775.

32. Catskill Bank v. Gray, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 471; Allen v. Woonsocket Co., 11 R. I. 288.

33. French v. Donohue, 29 Minn. 111, 12 N. W. 354.

34. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Oaks, 37 Ala. 694.

35. See supra, XVII, E, 6, a (I), (B).

36. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Rodrigues, 47 Ill. 188, 95 Am. Dec. 484.

37. See supra, X, C, 6, a et seq.

38. Illinois.— Eckman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 169 Ill. 312, 48 N. E. 496, 38 L. R. A. 750.

Indiana.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Moore,

13. No Power to Contract For Payment of Pension. It has been held that the trustees of a mutual life-insurance company have no power to contract to pay a retiring president of the company a salary for life in consideration of past services rendered by him.[39]

14. Cannot Pay Bonus to Its President For His Influence in Securing Consolidation. An agreement by one insurance company that another, which it had absorbed by purchasing a controlling interest in its stock, shall pay to its president, on his retirement, a certain sum for his influence in securing the consolidation, is invalid, and he cannot recover the amount from the purchaser on refusal of payment.[40]

15. May Compromise Disputed Claims. A corporation undoubtedly has, by mere implication of law, and without any statutory expression to that effect, the same power of compromising claims preferred against it which an individual has;[41] and we have already seen that bona fide compromises between a corporation and its shareholders, in respect of the amounts due upon their shares, will be upheld even as against creditors.[42]

16. No Power to Create Forfeitures — a. In General. A corporation cannot exercise the power of creating forfeitures unless that power has been expressly granted, and then the power can be exercised only by due process of law.[43]

b. No Power to Forfeit Shares For Non-Payment of Additional Assessments. In the absence of an enabling statute no corporation has the power to make an additional assessment upon the shares of its capital stock, after they have been paid for in full, and to forfeit the shares for the non-payment of the same.[44]

17. Power to Establish Transportation Lines. A charter conferring upon a corporation the power to make and keep in repair a road to the top of Mount Washington, to take tolls of passengers and for carriages, to build and own toll-houses, and to take land for the road, did not authorize the corporation to establish stage and transportation lines, or to buy carriages and horses for such a purpose. Nor did an additional act empowering it to erect and maintain, lease, and dispose of any buildings found convenient for the accommodation of its business, and of the horses, carriages, and travelers passing over its road, authorize the purchase of carriages and horses for the purpose of transportation.[45]

18. Power to Make Extraterritorial Contracts. A corporation chartered in one state for the purpose of manufacturing certain articles of commerce, "and

152 Ind. 345, 53 N. E. 290, 44 L. R. A. 638; Lease v. Pennsylvania Co., 10 Ind. App. 47, 37 N. E. 423. Contra, Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 152 Ind. 1, 49 N. E. 582, 71 Am. St. Rep. 301.

Iowa.— Donald v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 Iowa 284, 61 N. W. 971, 33 L. R. A. 492.

Maryland.— Fuller v. Baltimore, etc., Employés' Relief Assoc., 67 Md. 433, 10 Atl. 237.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 44 Nebr. 44, 62 N. W. 314.

New Jersey.— Beck v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 63 N. J. L. 232, 43 Atl. 908, 76 Am. St. Rep. 211.

Ohio.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 55 Ohio St. 497, 45 N. E. 641, 35 L. R. A. 507.

Pennsylvania.— Ringle v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 164 Pa. St. 529, 30 Atl. 492, 44 Am. St. Rep. 628; Johnson v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 163 Pa. St. 127, 29 Atl. 854.

United States.— Vickers v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Fed. 139; Otis v. Pennsylvania Co., 71 Fed. 136; Maryland v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 36 Fed. 655; Owens v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 35 Fed. 715, 1 L. R. A. 75. Contra, Miller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Fed. 305.

39. Beers v. New York L. Ins. Co., 66 Hun (N. Y.) 75, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 788, 49 N. Y. St. 182.

40. Wood v. Manchester F. Assur. Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 522, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 427, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 1150.

41. Ellerman v. Chicago Junction R., etc., Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 217, 23 Atl. 287; In re Norwich Provident Ins. Soc., 8 Ch. D. 334, 47 L. J. Ch. 601, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 267, 26 Wkly. Rep. 441.

42. See supra, VI, L, 20. See also in re Accidental Death Ins. Co., 7 Ch. D. 568, 47 L. J. Ch. 396, 26 Wkly. Rep. 473.

43. Cotter v. Doty, 5 Ohio 393.

As to by-laws creating forfeitures see supra, V, D, 1, b, (I) et seq.

44. Gresham v. Island City Sav. Bank, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 52, 21 S. W. 556.

As to the forfeiture of shares for non-payment of assessments see supra, VI, O, 1, a, (I) et seq.

45. Downing v. Mt. Washington Road Co., 40 N. H. 230.

disposing of and dealing in the same," may lawfully make contracts for the sale of them, in any other state whose local laws do not prohibit such contracts.[46]

19. Power to Drive or Handle Logs in a Stream. A corporation created to improve the navigation of a river has no incidental power to drive or handle logs therein.[47]

20. Power to Procure Custom-House Certificates. A corporation created for the purpose of manufacturing boxes and other appliances for handling and packing fruit has power to procure custom-house certificates on shipping an order of boxes to a foreign country, in order that they may be reshipped without the payment of custom duties.[48]

21. Power to Maintain School of Instruction. A corporation organized to make and sell instruments designed for practice and instruction in piano-playing has the power to maintain a school for such instruction for the purpose of advertising an invention for teaching the piano owned by the corporation.[49]

22. Cannot Purchase Shares in Other Corporations. As a general rule a corporation cannot, without express statutory authority, subscribe for the shares of another corporation, either directly or indirectly through third persons,[50] especially where this is done in order to enable the subscribing corporation to control the other.[51]

23. Power to Buy Competing Business. It is not against the public policy of New Jersey for a corporation, empowered to engage in and to carry on a manufacturing business of a given kind, to buy the business of its competitors, although such purchase may tend to and may actually produce a temporary monopoly of such manufacture.[52]

24. Power to Furnish Wines and Liquors to Persons Traveling on Its Vehicles. A so-called palace-car company, having power under its charter to "manufacture and use railway cars, with all convenient supplies for persons traveling therein," may lawfully supply wines and liquors to persons so traveling.[53]

25. Cannot Condemn Lands in Order to Resell Them. A corporation authorized to make certain "street works" within the limits of a deviation shown on its deposited plans, and to take for such purpose the land shown on such plans in connection therewith, and which it "may require for the purposes thereof," is not authorized to take land shown on the plans, but not actually needed for street works, in order to sell it at a profit.[54]

26. Power to Offer Rewards For Apprehension of Criminals. A manufacturing and trade corporation has the power to offer and pay a reward for procuring the conviction of persons who have committed a crime affecting the rights of such corporation.[55]

46. Hall v. Tanner, etc., Engine Co., 91 Ala. 363, 8 So. 348.

47. Northwestern Imp., etc., Co. v. O'Brien, 75 Minn. 335, 77 N. W. 898. See also Bangor Boom Corp. v. Whiting, 29 Me. 123.

48. Pierpont Mfg. Co. v. Goodman Produce Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 60 S. W. 347.

49. Virgil v. Virgil Practice Clavier Co., 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 200, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 335.

50. Martin v. Ohio Stove Co., 78 Ill. App. 105.

51. Martin v. Ohio Stove Co., 78 Ill. App. 105; De la Vergne Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. German Sav. Inst., 175 U. S. 40, 20 S. Ct. 20, 44 L. ed. 65.

52. Trenton Potteries Co. v. Oliphant, 58 N. J. Eq. 507, 43 Atl. 723, 46 L. R. A. 255 [affirming in part and reversing in part 56 N. J. Eq. 680, 39 Atl. 923]. As to the right of a corporation to buy the business of its competitors see People v. Chicago Gas Trust Co., 130 Ill. 268, 22 N. E. 798, 17 Am. St. Rep. 319, 8 L. R. A. 497; State v. Nebraska Distilling Co., 29 Nebr. 700, 46 N. W. 155; Wall v. London, etc., Corp. [1898] 2 Ch. 469, 67 L. J. Ch. 596, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 249. Validity of a department store contract by which the owner of the store agrees not to sell, or allow to be sold, in the store articles of the manufacture of the department store from which it rents the apartment. Standard Fashion Co. v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 44 N. Y. App. Div. 121, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 739.

53. People v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 27 Chic. Leg. N. 349 [affirmed in 175 Ill. 125, 51 N. E. 664].

54. Donaldson v. South Shields Corp., 68 L. J. Ch. 162, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 685 [affirming 68 L. J. Ch. 102].

55. Norwood, etc., Co. v. Anderson, 71 Miss. 641, 16 So. 262.

27. Power to Take Assignment of Judgment. Although the business for which a corporation is created is specified to be the manufacture of lumber and the erection of buildings it may take an assignment of a judgment and sue thereon.[56]

28. Power to Enter Into Monopolistic Combination. A charter or governing statute which authorizes a corporation to engage in a general distillery business in the state and elsewhere, and to own the property necessary for that purpose, gives it no power to enter upon a scheme of getting into its hands all the distillery business of the country and establishing a virtual monopoly of the business.[57]

29. Banking Corporation Cannot Engage in Manufacturing. A corporation organized exclusively for the purpose of banking cannot engage in manufacturing.[58]

F. The Doctrine of Ultra Vires — 1. Nature and Extent of This Doctrine — a. General Statement of Doctrine. Perhaps the most general statement which can be made of the doctrine of ultra vires is to say that a contract of a corporation which is unauthorized by, or in violation of, its charter or other governing statute, or entirely outside of the scope of the purposes of its creation,[59] is void, in the sense of being no contract at all, because of a total want of power to enter into it;[60] that such a contract will not be enforced by any species of action in a court of justice;[61] that being void ab initio it cannot be made good by ratification,[62] or by any succession of renewals;[63] and that no performance on either side can give validity to the unlawful contract or form the foundation of any right of action upon it.[64]

b. Statement of Early and Rigid Doctrine. Ignoring considerations of natural justice and the principle of estoppel the early courts rigidly applied the principle that where the corporation is moving affirmatively to enforce its unlawful or prohibited contracts courts of justice will withhold their aid, as where a banking corporation sues to enforce a contract reserving a prohibited rate of interest,[65] or 56. Capital Lumbering Co. v. Learned, 36 Oreg. 544, 59 Pac. 454.

57. Distilling, etc., Co. v. People, 156 Ill. 448, 41 N. E. 188, 47 Am. St. Rep. 200.

58. Bletz v. Commonwealth Bank, 55 S. W. 697, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1554.

Whether incur debts with authorization of all shareholders giving their assent separately. — The shareholders of a corporation acting individually gave their authorization in writing to one who was a large shareholder and chairman of the executive committee of the directors, to improve the grounds of the corporation at his own expense upon the condition of his being reimbursed of his outlays by the corporation. It was held that the corporation was not liable to reimburse him for outlays thus incurred by him in the absence of proof of an acquiescence or ratification. Nicholstone City Co. v. Smalley, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 210, 51 S. W. 527.

Liability of corporations for acts of their dummy corporations. — It has been held that a railroad company, having power to conduct a telegraph business, and having a system of telegraph, will be charged in equity with the payment of a judgment for breach of contract, obtained against a telegraph company which it has caused to be incorporated with a small capital, of which it is the sole shareholder, and which it has held out as authorized to contract with regard to its whole telegraph system, where it sells the whole system to a rival telegraph company and leaves the company so organized without assets. Interstate Tel. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., Tel. Co., 51 Fed. 49.

59. National Home Bldg., etc., Co. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 54 N. E. 619, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245 [reversing 79 Ill. App. 303]; Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221.

60. Rock River Bank v. Sherwood, 10 Wis. 230, 78 Am. Dec. 669; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car. Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

61. Memphis Grain, etc., Elevator Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 85 Tenn. 703, 5 S. W. 52, 4 Am. St. Rep. 798.

62. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

63. Orr v. Lacey, 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 230.

64. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. See also as to the doctrine and its reasons In re National Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 5 Ch. 309, 34 J. P. 341, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 284, 18 Wkly. Rep. 388; In re Cork, etc., R. Co., L. R. 4 Ch. 748, 39 L. J. Ch. 277, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 18 Wkly. Rep. 26.

65. Chillicothe Bank v. Swayne, 8 Ohio 257, 32 Am. Dec. 707. See also Hitchcock v. U. S. Bank, 7 Ala. 386; Evansville, etc., Straight Line R. Co. v. Evansville, 15 Ind. 395; Union Bank v. Bell, 14 Ohio St. 200; Russell v. Failor, 1 Ohio St. 327, 59 Am. Dec. 631; Preble County Branch State Bank v.

where a corporation which is expressly prohibited from exercising banking powers sues to recover upon a promissory note which it has discounted.[66] On the other hand they applied it with equal rigor in the destruction of the rights of persons contracting with corporations, holding them conclusively bound to know — what the judges themselves did not in many cases know — the limitations of the power of the corporation, by holding that where the corporation had made an obligation in favor of an individual in excess of its granted powers, he could not maintain an action against the corporation and recover thereon, as where a corporation had executed its promissory note for a purpose not warranted by its charter.[67]

c. Statements of Reasons on Which Doctrine of Ultra Vires Rests. Among the many attempted statements of the reasons upon which the doctrine of ultra vires rests we find the following in an opinion of the supreme court of the United States, by Mr. Justice Gray: "The reasons why a corporation is not liable upon a contract ultra vires, that is to say, beyond the powers conferred upon it by the Legislature, and varying from the objects of its creation as declared in the law of its organization, are: 1st. The interest of the public, that the corporation shall not transcend the powers granted. 2d. The interest of the stockholders, that the capital shall not be subjected to the risk of enterprises not contemplated by the charter, and therefore not authorized by the stockholders in subscribing for the stock. 3d. The obligation of everyone, entering into a contract with a corporation, to take notice of the legal limits of its powers."[68] Somewhat differently Mr. Chief Justice Cooley stated two reasons for the doctrine as follows: (1) The state has not by law consented that its corporations, of the kind or class to which the one in question belongs, shall be at liberty to make contracts such as the one in question, but for reasons of sound public policy has withheld from them the power to do so. (2) Nor have the corporators of the corporation consented that their interests may be put in jeopardy by such contracts.[69]

d. Ultra Vires Contracts Deemed Unlawful. It is said that the word "unlawful" as applied to corporations is not used exclusively in the sense of malum in se or malum prohibitum, but that it is also used to designate powers which corporations are not authorized to exercise, contracts which they are not authorized to make, or acts which they are not authorized to do, or in other words such acts, powers, and contracts as are ultra vires.[70]

Russell, 1 Ohio St. 313; Wooster Bank v. Stevens, 1 Ohio St. 233, 59 Am. Dec. 619.

Other courts have refused to go to the length of holding that the reserving of usurious interest by a bank renders the contract wholly void.

Mississippi.— Commercial Bank v. Nolan, 7 How. 508.

Missouri.— Farmers', etc., Bank v. Harrison, 57 Mo. 503.

Ohio.— Columbus First Nat. Bank v. Garlinghouse, 22 Ohio St. 492, 10 Am. Rep. 751.

Wisconsin.— Rock River Bank v. Sherwood, 10 Wis. 230, 78 Am. Dec. 669.

United States.—McLean v. Lafayette Bank, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,888, 3 McLean 587.

66. New York Firemen Ins. Co. v. Ely, 5 Conn. 560, 13 Am. Dec. 100; New York State L. & T. Co. v. Helmer, 77 N. Y. 64; U. S. Bank v. Waggener, 9 Pet. (U. S.) 378, 9 L. ed. 163; Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 338, 5 L. ed. 631.

67. McCullough v. Moss, 5 Den. (N. Y.) 567 [reversing 5 Hill (N. Y.) 137]. See also Pennsylvania, etc., Steam Nav. Co. v. Dandridge, 8 Gill & J. (Md.) 248, 29 Am. Dec. 543.

The unjust results to which this rigid application of the doctrine has sometimes led may be discovered in Chewacla Lime Works v. Dismukes, 87 Ala. 344, 6 So. 122, 5 L. R. A. 100.

68. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157 [citing Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 441, 16 L. ed. 184]. Another statement, less comprehensive, by the same eminent judge of the same doctrine will be found in Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700.

69. Day v. Spiral Spring Buggy Co., 57 Mich. 146, 23 N. W. 628, 58 Am. Rep. 352. See also the statement by Rothrock, J., in Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70 Iowa 541, 30 N. W. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 449, where many of the qualifying elements found in modern decisions are introduced. The subject-matter may be pursued by examining the following, among many other cases: Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672; Whittenton Mills v. Upton, 10 Gray (Mass.) 582, 71 Am. Dec. 681; Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381, 16 L. ed. 488; Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 441, 16 L. ed. 184.

70. People v. Chicago Gas Trust Co., 130 Ill. 268, 22 N. E. 798, 17 Am. St. Rep. 319,

e. Persons Dealing With Corporations Bound to Take Notice of Their Powers —(I) In General. The so-called doctrine of ultra vires is based upon the proposition that every person dealing with a corporation is bound at his peril to take notice of the limits of its powers, as imposed by its charter or governing statute, whether those limitations are expressed in public acts of the legislature or in private statutes, having many amendments scattered through many volumes.[71]

(II) And of Their Agents' Powers. A correlative proposition, but one which rests upon a totally different principle, is that persons dealing with corporations through their agents, as they must if they deal with them at all, are bound at their peril to take notice that the agent is duly empowered in the premises and are chargeable with knowledge of his authority or want of authority to bind the corporation.[72] It follows that a person seeking to charge a corporation upon a contract sustains the burden of showing that the officer or agent of the corporation through whom the contract was made was authorized to make it.[73]

f. Distinction Between Contracts Wholly Outside of Power of Corporation, and Contracts Outside of Power in Given Particular or Through Some Undisclosed Circumstance. Many of the decisions take a distinction between cases where a contract entered into by a corporation is entirely and obviously outside of its granted powers, and cases where the contract, while within the general scope of its granted powers, is ultra vires because of some particular circumstance which may not be known to the other contracting party.[74] In the former case the contract is void in the sense that no recovery can be had upon it;[75] in the latter case the contract is enforceable if otherwise the ends of justice require it.[76] Under the 8 L. R. A. 497; State v. Nebraska Distilling Co., 29 Nebr. 700, 46 N. W. 155.

71. Illinois.— National Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 54 N. E. 619, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245 [reversing 79 Ill. App. 303]; Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 87 Ill. App. 51 (holding that whereas building and loan associations have no power to receive deposits as bankers, persons depositing their money with them cannot recover it back); Durkee v. People, 53 Ill. App. 396 [affirmed in 155 Ill. 354, 40 N. E. 626, 46 Am. St. Rep. 340].

Maine.— Franklin Co. v. Lewiston Inst., 68 Me. 43, 28 Am. Rep. 9; Andrews v. Union Mut. F. Ins. Co., 37 Me. 256.

Massachusetts.— Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221.

New York.— Wilson v. Kings County El. R. Co., 114 N. Y. 487, 21 N. E. 1015, 24 N. Y. St. 81; Merritt v. Lambert, Hoffm. 166.

Tennessee.— Memphis Grain, etc., Elevator Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 85 Tenn. 703, 5 S. W. 52, 4 Am. St. Rep. 798.

Virginia.— Whitehurst v. Whitehurst, 83 Va. 153, 1 S. E. 101; Bocock v. Alleghany Coal, etc., Co., 82 Va. 913, 1 S. E. 325, 3 Am. St. Rep. 128; Haden v. Farmers', etc., F. Assoc., 80 Va. 683; Bockover v. Life Assoc. of America, 77 Va. 85.

United States.— Life Assoc. of America v. Rundle, 103 U. S. 222, 26 L. ed. 337; Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. 441, 16 L. ed. 184.

72. Middletown First Nat. Bank v. Council Bluffs City Water-works Co., 56 Hun (N. Y.) 412, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 859, 32 N. Y. St. 85; De Bost v. Albert Palmer Co., 35 Hun (N. Y.) 386; Bohm v. Loewer's Gambrinus Brewery Co., 16 Daly (N. Y.) 80, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 514, 30 N. Y. St. 424.

73. Wilson v. Kings County El. R. Co., 114 N. Y. 487, 21 N. E. 1015; Woodruff v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 39, 14 N. E. 832; Alexander v. Cauldwell, 83 N. Y. 480; Adriance v. Roome, 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 399.

74. For a very clear discussion of this distinction by Sawyer, C. J., see Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 578, 587, 588, 99 Am. Dec. 300.

75. Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 300; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. Shaw, 37 Wis. 655, 19 Am. Rep. 781; Madison, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Watertown, etc., Plank Road Co., 7 Wis. 59.

76. Iowa.— Humphrey v. Patrons' Mercantile Assoc., 50 Iowa 607, where the articles prohibited a corporation from becoming indebted beyond a certain amount, but the person dealing with it did not know that its limit of lawful indebtedness had been exceeded — recovery. Contra, Weber v. Spokane Nat. Bank, 50 Fed. 735.

Mississippi.— Littlewort v. Davis, 50 Miss. 403 (corporation had power to loan out its moneys on a prescribed security, but loaned them on a different and better security); Haynes v. Covington, 13 Sm. & M. 408; Commercial Bank v. Nolan, 7 How. 508 (bank loaned its money out at rates in excess of that allowed by its charter, but not in excess of the general usury law of the state — contract not void for illegality, although all interest forfeited).

Missouri.— Farmers', etc., Bank v. Harrison, 57 Mo. 503 (money loaned on usurious interest, principal sum recoverable); Hart v.

operation of this principle a corporation making a contract which is within its charter powers for one purpose cannot avoid liability thereon on the ground that it was made for another and unauthorized purpose, unless it shows that the other party to the contract had knowledge of such fact.[77]

g. Distinction Between Acts Ultra Vires the Corporation and Acts Ultra Vires the Agents of the Corporation. Another sound distinction exists between acts which are wholly outside the power of the corporation and acts which, while within the power of the corporation, are not within the scope of the powers or duties of the particular agent of the corporation who attempts to perform them. The latter class of acts are not ultra vires in the sense in which the term is commonly used, since it applies only to acts which are outside the powers of the corporation in the sense that they cannot be ratified.[78] Thus if a deed is executed in the name of a corporation by its proper officers under its corporate seal, this carries with it a presumption that the officers were thereto duly authorized by a resolution of the board of directors where such authority is required by its governing instrument, and strangers will be protected in taking such a deed if they act in good faith.[79]

h. Distinction Between Want of Power and Want of Necessary Formality in Executing Power. There is an obvious distinction between an act done wholly without power to do it, and an act done with power to do it, but without the formality prescribed for the execution of the power. In the former case the act if ultra vires the directors will be void without ratification; if ultra vires the company itself it will generally be wholly void. But in the latter case, persons dealing with the company are not bound to do more than to ascertain that the power to do the proposed act exists. Having ascertained this they have a right to presume that the persons who offer to do the act are proceeding to do it with the requisite formality, unless they are apprised to the contrary.[80]

i. Right of Subrogation With Respect to Ultra Vires Debts. Upon a principle which has been applied in the case of infants[81] and married women[82] it has been Missouri State Mut. F. & M. Ins. Co., 21 Mo. 91.

New York.—Alward v. Holmes, 10 Abb. N. Cas. 96, rule applied to protect the title acquired by a foreign bank for value at a foreclosure sale.

Wisconsin.—Germantown Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dhein, 43 Wis. 420, 28 Am. Rep. 549 (governing statute allowed insurance company to loan its surplus money for one year upon a bond and mortgage, and it made a loan for two years upon a note and mortgage — action to foreclose the mortgage maintainable); Rock River Bank v. Sherwood, 10 Wis. 230, 78 Am. Dec. 669 (money loaned on usurious interest, principal sum recoverable).

United States.— Fleckner v. U. S. Bank, 8 Wheat. 338, 5 L. ed. 631, where a bank having a general power to discount, discounted notes at usury, notes actionable.

Much to the same effect see Little v. Obrien, 9 Mass. 423; Silver Lake Bank v. North, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 370; Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. (Va.) 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706.

77. Colorado Springs Co. v. American Pub. Co., 97 Fed. 843, 38 C. C. A. 433.

78. Kelley v. O'Brien Varnish Co., 90 Ill. App. 287.

79. Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 300, able opinion of Sawyer, C. J.

80. Royal British Bank v. Turquand, 6 E. & B. 327, 2 Jur. N. S. 663, 25 L. J. Q. B. 317, 88 E. C. L. 327 [affirming 5 E. & B. 248, 1 Jur. N. S. 1086, 24 L. J. Q. B. 327, 85 E. C. L. 248]. See also Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 300 (where this doctrine is ably enforced by Sawyer, C. J.); City Fire Ins. Co. v. Carrugi, 41 Ga. 660, 671 (per McKay, J.); Ogden v. Raymond, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 396, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 42, 26 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 599 [affirming 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 16]; Merchants' Bank v. McColl, 6 Bosw. (N. Y.) 473; Brookman v. Metcalf, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 429; Scott v. Johnson, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 213; Holbrook v. Basset, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 147; Ogden v. Andre, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 583 [affirmed in 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 396, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 42].

To illustrate this, if the deed of settlement of an English company confers upon the directors power to borrow money when so authorized by a joint resolution of the company, a banker advancing money upon an instrument executed by two of the directors of the company, under the company's seal, need look no further than to see that there was a power to borrow; he is not bound to inquire whether a joint resolution to borrow in the particular case was or was not passed. Royal British Bank v. Turquand, 6 E. & B. 327, 2 Jur. N. S. 663, 25 L. J. Q. B. 317, 88 E. C. L. 327 [affirming 5 E. & B. 248, 1 Jur. N. S. 1086, 24 L. J. Q. B. 327, 85 E. C. L. 248].

81. Marlow v. Pitfield, 1 P. Wms. 558, 24 Eng. Reprint 516.

82. Harris v. Lee, 1 P. Wms. 482, 24 Eng. Reprint 482.

held that, although directors or the acting managers of a corporation have no power to borrow money, even for necessaries, so as to bind the shareholders for the repayment of the same,[83] yet if they do borrow money for the necessary carrying on of the company, and repay the same, and the company is afterward wound up, they will be entitled to be reimbursed, just as other trustees are entitled to indemnity from their cestuis que trustent for expenses bona fide incurred. On like grounds if shareholders under the same circumstances advance money to the directors for the carrying on of the company, and it is afterward wound up, they will be entitled to offset such advances against their liability for calls.[84] So if a railway company borrows money in contravention of a statute imposing a penalty for so doing, and uses the money in the payment of existing valid debts, the person advancing the money is not to lose it, but is entitled to stand in the place of the creditor to whom it was paid; and it is further held that in so far as the company has had the benefit of the money so borrowed for its legitimate purposes, the person making the advances is entitled to be repaid.[85]

j. Ultra Vires Contracts Between Two Corporations. A contract between two corporations, in order to bind either of them, must be within the corporate powers of both.[86]

k. Ultra Vires Contracts Void in Part and Valid in Part. A contract made by a corporation may be valid in so far as it is within the power of the corporation, and void in so far as it transcends that power, or is prohibited in positive terms by its charter.[87] On this principle it is frequently held that where a banking or other corporation has by its charter power to lend money at a lawful rate of interest, a note in which usurious interest is reserved will not be void in toto, but will be void only as to the usury, that is to say, only in so far as it is unlawful.[88]

l. Exercise of Power Which Has Been Exhausted. If the power conferred by a charter has been exhausted, then in respect of any further exercise of it the case stands as though it had never been granted. For instance a power is conferred upon a railroad corporation, by an act of the legislature to issue bonds, secured by a mortgage, to raise money to complete its road and put it in operation. When it has done this, and through the exercise of the power has completed its road and put it in operation, it cannot under this power issue any further mortgage bonds; and if there is a general law authorizing railroad companies to issue such bonds, any further issue of them will be ascribed to the general law and not to the special statute.[89]

m. Money Paid on Ultra Vires Contract May Be Recovered Back — (i) In General. A party who is not in pari delicto may recover from a corporation money which he has paid to it on a contract which is beyond the power of the corporation, or which is prohibited by its governing statute, in a common-law action for money had and received, or in an action of that nature under the code, provided he himself has not received from the corporation the consideration for the payment.[90] Such a contract does not become lawful by being carried into 83. Ricketts v. Bennett, 4 C. B. 686, 11 Jur. 1062, 17 L. J. C. P. 17, 56 E. C. L. 686; Burmester v. Norris, 6 Exch. 796, 21 L. J. Exch. 43; Hawtayne v. Bourne, 5 Jur. 118, 10 L. J. Exch. 244, 7 M. & W. 595.

84. Matter of Joint-Stock Co.'s Winding-up Act, 4 De G. M. & G. 19, 18 Jur. 710, 53 Eng. Ch. 16.

85. In re Cork, etc., R. Co., L. R. 4 Ch. 748, 39 L. J. Ch. 277, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 18 Wkly. Rep. 26. See also In re National Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 5 Ch. 309, 34 J. P. 341, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 284, 18 Wkly. Rep. 388. Compare Chambers v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 5 B. & S. 588, 10 Jur. N. S. 700, 33 L. J. Q. B. 268, 117 E. C. L. 588.

86. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

87. Grand Gulf Bank v. Archer, 8 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 151; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Harrison, 57 Mo. 503.

88. Farmers', etc., Bank v. Harrison, 57 Mo. 503; Rock River Bank v. Sherwood, 10 Wis. 230, 78 Am. Dec. 669.

89. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Frazier, 139 U. S. 288, 11 S. Ct. 517, 35 L. ed. 196.

90. Morville v. American Tract Soc., 123 Mass. 129, 25 Am. Rep. 40; Dill v. Wareham, execution; but while it will not be disturbed so far as it has been executed it may be disaffirmed by either party, each restoring what he has received under it which has not been earned under it; and if he fails to make such restoration the other party may recover it in an action on a quantum meruit.[91]

(II) Although Illegality Is Known to Both Parties. On the other hand there is judicial authority to the effect that where an ultra vires contract, involving no element of criminality, is entered into with a corporation, known to be such by both parties, and the corporation has received benefits under it, it is liable to pay for the benefits received, not exceeding the agreed price in the contract, although the other party and not the corporation has refused complete execution of the contract.[92]

n. Contracts Prohibited by By-Laws of Corporation — (I) Strangers Not Bound to Take Notice of Provisions of By-Laws. The general rule is that the by-laws of a corporation are in the nature of private regulations for the government of its officers and agents in the transaction of its business, and that parties dealing with the corporation who are not members of it are not affected with notice of the terms of the by-laws, unless knowledge of the same is brought home to them.[93] Thus if it is within the apparent scope of the powers of an agent of a corporation to do certain acts or to make certain contracts an innocent third party dealing with him will not be affected by one of its by-laws, of which he has no knowledge or notice, restraining his powers in respect of such act or contract.[94] For instance where an insurance company has an agent who takes surveys of property for the purpose of applications for insurance thereon, such agent remains what he is in point of fact, the agent of the company, although the company has a by-law declaring him the agent of the assured.[95] But where there is no question of agency founded upon a holding out by the corporation, and no estoppel growing out of its permitting the agent to exercise certain powers in its behalf, but where on the contrary the question arises what powers have actually been conferred upon it, then the by-laws may be material evidence of such powers, just as any other private instrument creating an agency or instructing an agent might be; and in such a case it may well be held that the corporation is not bound, in the absence of a holding-out or other proof of agency, where its by-laws show that the agent was without authority in the premises.[96]

(II) Contrary Doctrine That Strangers Are Bound to Notice Constitution, By-Laws, and Ways of Doing Business. There are decisions which carry the obligation of third persons to take notice of the by-laws of private corporations to an extent which seems clearly untenable, imposing the obligation upon every person dealing with a corporation to take notice of its constitution, by-laws, and ways of doing business.[97]

o. Ultra Vires Torts — (I) In General. The doctrine of ultra vires has no application to torts committed by corporations; otherwise a corporation could never be held liable for a tort, since no corporation is clothed by the legislature

7 Metc. (Mass.) 438; White v. Franklin Bank, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 181; Utica Ins. Co. v. Bloodgood, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 652; Utica Ins. Co. v. Cadwell, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 296; Utica Ins. Co. v. Scott, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 1; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Louisiana City v. Wood, 102 U. S. 294, 26 L. ed. 153.

91. Anthony v. Household Sewing Mach. Co., 16 R. I. 571, 18 Atl. 176, 5 L. R. A. 575 (corporation borrowed money on its promise to issue preferred shares, but it had no power to issue them; money recoverable back, although before the trial the corporation received from the legislature such authority); Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 389, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157 (per Gray, J.).

92. Day v. Spiral Springs Buggy Co., 57 Mich. 146, 23 N. W. 628, 58 Am. Rep. 352.

93. See supra, V, A, 5.

94. Walker v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 80, 1 S. E. 366. See also Sherman v. Commercial Printing Co., 29 Mo. App. 31.

95. Masters v. Madison County Mut. Ins. Co., 11 Barb. (N. Y.) 624.

96. Bocock v. Alleghany Coal, etc., Co., 82 Va. 913, 1 S. E. 325, 3 Am. St. Rep. 128.

97. Bocock v. Alleghany Coal, etc., Co., 82 Va. 813, 1 S. E. 325, 3 Am. St. Rep. 128; Haden v. Farmers', etc., F. Assoc., 80 Va. 683; with the power to commit wrongs. Moreover the distinction between ultra vires contracts and ultra vires torts is vital. In the case of an ultra vires contract, the person contracting with the corporation has, in the absence of fraud or duress, entered into the contract voluntarily, and is therefore to some extent the author of the injury which he brings upon himself; but in every case of an ultra vires tort the injured person is the involuntary victim of the wrong.[98] The universal doctrine therefore is that a corporation cannot evade liability for a tortious act committed in violation of its charter or governing statute, for its pecuniary gain, by setting up the defense of ultra vires.[99] The doctrine rests upon the further principle that the duty to abstain from injuring others is one which rests upon all persons natural or artificial.[1]

(II) Torts Committed in Execution of Ultra Vires Business. It has been held that the defense of ultra vires cannot be successfully interposed by the corporation, where the action brought against it is an action ex delicto, to recover damages for a tort committed by it in the performance of an act not authorized by its charter, as where a railway and banking company, having no authority to run a steamboat, nevertheless engages in such business, and while so engaged an injury happens to a passenger on the boat;[2] or where two railway companies have illegally united their lines, and thus running together have entered into a contract for the carriage of a passenger, and he has been hurt while being so carried.[3] This principle has been applied in a case where the plaintiff was injured by the negligent management of a street horse-car in the use of a steam railway company, so as to avoid the defense that the corporation had no franchise to operate a street railway;[4] and also in a case where a company, chartered to operate a railway between two points, ran a sleigh to carry passengers beyond one of its terminal points.[5]

p. Contracts by Which Corporations Abnegate Their Public Duties — (I) In General. Contracts by which a corporation created for the performance of public duties, for example the building and operating of a railway, abnegate those duties by devolving them upon others, whether in the form of leases, mortgages, sales, or any other form of devolution, are ultra vires and void, unless made with the consent of the legislature.[6]

Bockover v. Life Assoc. of America, 77 Va. 85; Life Assoc. of America v. Rundle, 103 U. S. 222, 26 L. ed. 337. Compare Martin v. Nashville Bldg. Assoc., 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 418.

98. Reasoning of Miller, J., in Salt Lake City v. Hollister, 118 U. S. 256, 263, 6 S. Ct. 1055, 30 L. ed. 176.

99. Zinc Carbonate Co. v. Shullsburg First Nat. Bank, 103 Wis. 125, 79 N. W. 229, 74 Am. St. Rep. 845. And see infra, XIX, A, 6, a et seq.

A building and loan association which enters into an ultra vires agreement knowing that it cannot perform its part, and thereby induces the other party to part with his money in the purchase of stock, is guilty of a tort for which it is liable. Williamson v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 54 S. C. 582, 32 S. E. 765, 71 Am. St. Rep. 822.

1. Central R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 76 Ala. 572, 52 Am. Rep. 353; Bissell v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 22 N. Y. 258.

2. Central R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 76 Ala. 572, 52 Am. Rep. 353.

3. Bissell v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 22 N. Y. 258.

4. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Haring, 47 N. J. L. 137, 54 Am. Rep. 123.

5. Buffett v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 40 N. Y. 168.

Out of line with these holdings and with sound principle is a decision to the effect that an agricultural society which employs hackmen to convey persons to and from its fair grounds is not liable to a passenger injured through the negligence of a hackman so employed, because it is beyond its power to enter upon such business. Bathe v. Decatur County Agricultural Soc., 73 Iowa 11, 34 N. W. 484, 5 Am. St. Rep. 651.

6. Chicago Gaslight, etc., Co. v. People's Gaslight, etc., Co., 121 Ill. 530, 13 N. E. 169, 2 Am. St. Rep. 124; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837; Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83; Pickard v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 34, 6 S. Ct. 635, 29 L. ed. 785; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 715, 25 L. ed. 950; New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 21

(II) Continuing Duty to Disaffirm Such Contracts. In such a case a continuing duty rests upon both parties to the contract to disaffirm it at the earliest moment, upon doing justice to the other party, which duty is not diminished by the lapse of years;[7] and while the courts will not aid either party to undo it, so far as it has been executed between them,[8] yet they will do nothing to aid in its enforcement; and neither party will be allowed to sustain an action against the other upon it, so far as it remains unexecuted. Thus if it consists of an unlawful lease, it may be disaffirmed by the lessee after the lapse of sixteen years, and the lessor cannot maintain an action of covenant against the lessee to recover instalments of rent accruing after the disaffirmance.[9]

(III) Equity Will Not Aid in Enforcement of Such Contracts. Equity will not aid either party in the enforcement of such a contract.[10]

(IV) Equity Will Not Aid Either Party in Canceling Such Contracts. Nor will a court of equity aid either party by setting aside and canceling the unlawful contract; but in pursuance of the maxim, In pari delicto potior est conditio defendantis, will leave them where they have placed themselves subject to the right of either party to defend, in a court of law, any action brought to compel him further to execute the contract on his part, on the ground of its illegality.[11]

(V) Corporations May Release to Others Mere Privileges Conferred For Their Own Benefit. But in so far as the charter confers upon the corporation a mere privilege to be exercised for its own benefit this it may of course release to another; and whether the charter is to be regarded as conferring a privilege or imposing a public duty is of course a question of interpretation.[12]

q. Right to Disaffirm Ultra Vires Contracts After Part Performance — (I) In General. There are decisions which uphold the right of the corporation to disaffirm an ultra vires contract after it has been partly executed,[13] but other courts find an estoppel in a part performance by the other party to the contract.[14] The decisions under this head cannot be reconciled; but an examination of them will lead to the conclusion that those which support a continuing duty of rescission were cases where corporations had attempted to cast off their public duties by devolving them upon other corporations, in which case the continued execution of the agreement is regarded as a continuing violation of law carrying with it a continuing duty of rescission, which duty is not diminished by lapse of time.[15]

(II) Contracts Abnegating Performance of Public Duties. The principle then is applicable with special force in the case of contracts whereby a corporation seeks to devolve upon another corporation, without the consent of

L. ed. 627; York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. (U. S.) 30, 15 L. ed. 27.

7. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

8. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83.

9. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

10. Chicago Gaslight, etc., Co. v. People's Gaslight, etc., Co., 121 Ill. 530, 13 N. E. 169, 2 Am. St. Rep. 124.

11. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748.

12. Chicago Gaslight, etc., Co. v. People's Gaslight, etc., Co., 121 Ill. 530, 13 N. E. 169, 2 Am. St. Rep. 124.

13. Bowman Dairy Co. v. Mooney, 41 Mo. App. 665; Mallory v. Hanaur Oil-Works, 86 Tenn. 598, 8 S. W. 396; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

14. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Georgia R. Co., 63 Ga. 103.

15. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. And see Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55, where the subject is exhaustively considered by Gray, J.

the legislature, its public duties, in which case the courts will not allow the contract to gain strength and acquire validity by lapse of time.[16]

(III) Contracts or Arrangements Which Are Otherwise Opposed to Public Policy. The rule applies with equal force to any contract or arrangement between corporations which are for other reasons opposed to a sound public policy. Thus where several such corporations unite their funds and properties under an arrangement called a "trust," the object of which is to prevent competition, and to monopolize and engross an article of commerce, then the scheme is denounced by a sound public policy, and a court of justice will uphold any member of such a partnership in withdrawing from it at any time.[17]

(IV) Contracts Which Otherwise Involve Continuing Violation of Law. From these decisions we may safely collect the principle that there is always a right of rescission where a continuing performance involves a continuing violation of law. This principle has indeed been extended by some courts to cases where no question of public policy can be supposed to have been involved, but where the question was merely the right of a private corporation to withdraw, upon restoring the consideration to the other party, from a contract entered into in excess of its powers.[18]

r. Right of Disaffirmance Predicated Upon Doing Justice to Other Party — (I) In General. It cannot be stated with absolute assurance that the right of disaffirmance of an ultra vires contract is always predicated upon doing exact justice to the other party, by restoring to him what he has lost or would lose through a disaffirmance. This must be true where public rights are involved, and where a disaffirmance is upheld and even required for that reason.

(II) Railroad Company Disaffirming License Granted to Telegraph Company and Seizing Its Line by Force. It has been held that if a railroad company, having a franchise to operate a line of telegraph, has assumed to sell such franchise to a telegraph company, and has received a large consideration therefor, if it attempts to disaffirm the contract and to seize the telegraph line by mere force, equity will restrain it by an injunction until an accounting and settlement can be had between it and the telegraph company.[19] So where a court of the United States, sitting in equity, set aside as ultra vires a railway construction contract, it did so on the principle of compelling the corporation to account for what it had received in partial performance, not on the basis of a bare reimbursement, but of a fair compensation, such as any other railroad contractor would receive under a similar contract, if it were within the power of the corporation, to which it was held that interest should be added.[20]

16. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 22 Fed. 245, 10 Sawy. 464, 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 472].

17. Mallory v. Hanaur Oil-Works, 86 Tenn. 598, 8 S. W. 396. To the contrary see St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748.

18. Harriman v. First Bryan Baptist Church, 63 Ga. 186, 36 Am. Rep. 117 (upholding the right of a steamboat company to withdraw from a contract agreeing to furnish a steamboat for a church excursion); Bowman Dairy Co. v. Mooney, 41 Mo. App. 665 (denying relief to a dairy company against its servant hired to run its oyster wagon, who had quit its service and gone into the oyster business on his own account, the dairy company having no power to sell oysters). In support of the text see also Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513.

19. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 Fed. 745, 1 McCrary 188, 541.

20. New Castle Northern R. Co. v. Simpson, 23 Fed. 214. That the proper remedy of either party to an ultra vires contract is to disaffirm and to sue to recover as a quantum meruit what he has lost by the partial performance of it see the dictum of Gray, J., in Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 389, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157. For an analogy in the case of void municipal bonds, holding that a party who has parted with his money by investing the bonds may after their repudiation maintain an action against the corporation to compel restitution see Brown v. Atchison, 39 Kan. 37, 17 Pac. 465, 7 Am. St. Rep. 515; Louisiana City v. Wood, 102 U. S. 294, 26 L. ed. 153; Marsh v. Fulton County, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 676, 19 L. ed. 1040. That equity would reach the same result by treating the corporation as trustee of the person who has thus parted with his money to it see Chapman

(III) Right of Other Party to Recover What He Has Lost After Disaffirmance. If the contract of a corporation is ultra vires, but not immoral or otherwise malum in se, and either party disaffirms it on the ground that it is ultra vires, and refuses further execution of it, then, while the other party cannot sue to recover damages or compensation in respect of the unexecuted portion of the contract,[21] yet the law will afford him remedies for procuring from the other party a restoration of what he has lost under it. The governing principle is that where money has been paid or property transferred to a corporation under a contract which is not malum in se, but which is merely malum prohibitum, the party receiving may be made to refund, to the party from whom it has received, the value of that which it has actually received;[22] and to this end he may maintain against the corporation the equitable common-law action for money had and received,[23] or a suit in equity to compel an accounting and restitution of what the corporation has received through the transaction;[24] and he may be protected by an injunction until there has been such an accounting and restitution.[25]

(IV) Ultra Vires Contract Not Allowed to Stand as Security For Damages For Refusal of Further Performance. But while the ultra vires contract will, in so far as it has been fully executed, thus stand as the security for or foundation of rights acquired by the transaction, yet it will not be allowed to stand as the foundation for damages accruing from the refusal of further performance by the party who elects to rescind. Thus where a lease of a railroad has been made for the term of twenty years, without authority of the legislature, and the lessor has elected to rescind and resume possession at the end of five years, and the accounts for that period were adjusted and paid, a covenant in the lease to pay the value of the unexpired term is void, and an action of covenant cannot be maintained thereon by the lessee against the lessor.[26]

s. Presumption That Corporations Act Within Their Powers — (I) In General. A general presumption of right-acting attends corporations, the effect of which is to place the burden of proving that a contract made or an act done by a corporation was ultra vires upon him who alleges that fact as the foundation of his action or defense.[27]

(II) How This Presumption Operates. Aside from casting the burden of proof upon the party setting up the want of power this presumption operates in several ways. If the powers possessed by the particular corporation do not appear at all, and are not judicially noticed by the court, then it operates within certain limits to carry with it the general presumption that the act or contract which is challenged was within its powers.[28] If it has the power to do a given act, or

v. Douglas County, 107 U. S. 348, 2 S. Ct. 62, 27 L. ed. 378; Parkersburg v. Brown, 106 U. S. 487, 1 S. Ct. 442, 27 L. ed. 238.

21. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. See also infra, XVII, F, 1, r, (IV).

22. Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221; Morville v. American Tract Soc., 123 Mass. 129, 25 Am. Rep. 40; White v. Franklin Bank, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 181; Parkersburg v. Brown, 106 U. S. 487, 1 S. Ct. 442, 27 L. ed. 238.

23. Paul v. Kenosha, 22 Wis. 266, 94 Am. Dec. 598; Louisiana City v. Wood, 102 U. S. 294, 26 L. ed. 153; Manville v. Belden Min. Co., 17 Fed. 425, 5 McCrary 391. See also supra, XVII, F, 1, m, (I) et seq.

24. Moore v. Swanton Tanning Co., 60 Vt. 459, 15 Atl. 114; New Castle Northern R. Co. v. Simpson, 23 Fed. 214.

25. See supra, XVII, F, 1, r, (I).

26. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

27. Dana v. St. Paul Bank, 4 Minn. 385; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Sussex R. Co., 20 N. J. Eq. 542; Rider Life Raft Co. v. Roach, 97 N. Y. 378; De Groff v. American Linen Thread Co., 21 N. Y. 124; Chautauque County Bank v. Risley, 19 N. Y. 369, 75 Am. Dec. 347; Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466; Kappel v. Chaari Zedek Congregation, 19 Hun (N. Y.) 364. If for instance a contract made in the name of a corporation by its president is one which the corporation has the power to make, or to ratify after it has been made, and an action is brought under a statute to charge the trustees of the corporation on the ground that the indebtedness was in excess of the capital stock of the corporation, and the defendants place their defense upon the ground that the creation of the debt was not authorized or ratified by the corporation, the burden is upon them to show that fact. Patterson v. Robinson, 116 N. Y. 193, 22 N. E. 372.

28. Dana v. St. Paul Bank, 4 Minn. 385.

to make a contract of a given nature under prescribed conditions, then the principle operates to create the presumption that those conditions existed in the particular instance.[29] It also operates as a principle of favorable interpretation in respect of corporate contracts; so that where the words employed in such a contract admit of a double construction, they are to be construed consistently with the provisions of its charter.[30] If the corporation itself seeks to avoid its contract on the ground that it was ultra vires, this presumption puts upon it the burden of showing that its articles of incorporation did not authorize the contract.[31]

(III) Defense of Ultra Vires Not Available Under General Denial. The defense of ultra vires is special and is not available under a general denial, but must be specially pleaded and proved.[32]

2. Theories Under Which Application of This Doctrine Is Denied — a. Plea of Ultra Vires Not Allowed When It Will Not Advance Justice but Will Accomplish Legal Wrong. Except in cases where the rights of the public are involved[33] the plea of ultra vires, whether interposed for or against a corporation, will not be allowed to prevail when it will not advance justice, but will accomplish a legal wrong.[34]

b. Either Party Estopped to Set up Defense of Ultra Vires After Having Received and Retained Fruits of Contract — (I) In General. The courts reach a just result, in cases where the question is not one of public policy, and where there has been no violation of law, and in many cases where there has been, by holding that the corporation itself on the one hand, and the party contracting with it on the other hand, are estopped by their own contract or conduct from setting up, as a defense to an action to enforce the contract, that it was beyond the power of the corporation to make it; and it is a general principle of law that no party will be permitted to set up this defense while retaining the fruits or the benefits of the contract.[35]

(II) Corporation So Estopped. The great mass of judicial authority seems to be to the effect that where a private corporation has entered into a contract in

29. Thus if a corporation has power to hold and convey real estate for some purposes the court will presume, until the contrary is shown, that real estate conveyed by it was taken, held, and conveyed by virtue of the powers granted to it. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Curtis, 7 N. Y. 466. So where a banking corporation, having by its charter power to acquire real estate "in satisfaction of debts," took from the holder of a sheriff's certificate of sale, after it had become absolute, an assignment of all his right, and then received the sheriff's deed, and the assignment was expressed to be "for value received," it was held, in the absence of proof of any other consideration, that it would be presumed that the corporation had taken the assignment "in satisfaction of debts," and that it could hold the real estate by virtue of the sheriff's deed. Chautauque County Bank v. Risley, 19 N. Y. 369, 75 Am. Dec. 347.

30. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Sussex R. Co., 20 N. J. Eq. 542.

31. West v. Averill Grocery Co., 109 Iowa 488, 80 N. W. 555.

32. Citizens' State Bank v. Pence, 59 Nebr. 579, 81 N. W. 623.

33. 5 Thompson Corp. § 6015.

34. Idaho.—Burke Land, etc., Co. v. Wells, (1900) 60 Pac. 87.

Illinois.— McCarthy v. Lavasche, 89 Ill. 270, 31 Am. Rep. 83; Bradley v. Ballard, 55 Ill. 413, 8 Am. Rep. 656.

Michigan.— Carson City Sav. Bank v. Carson City Elevator Co., 90 Mich. 550, 51 N. W. 641, 30 Am. St. Rep. 454; Eureka Iron, etc., Works v. Bresnahan, 60 Mich. 332, 27 N. W. 524; Day v. Spiral Springs Buggy Co., 57 Mich. 146, 23 N. W. 628, 58 Am. Rep. 352.

New York.— Whitney Arms Co. v. Barlow, 63 N. Y. 62, 20 Am. Rep. 504; Steam Nav. Co. v. Weed, 17 Barb. 378.

Wisconsin.— Lewis v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 99 Wis. 203, 73 N. W. 793, 39 L. R. A. 559.

United States.— Colorado Union Gold Min. Co. v. Rocky Mountain Nat. Bank, 96 U. S. 640, 24 L. ed. 648.

35. Lurton v. Jacksonville Loan, etc., Assoc., 87 Ill. App. 395 [affirmed in 187 Ill. 141, 58 N. E. 218, the other party to the contract estopped by reason of having received the benefit]; Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689; Clarke v. Olson, 9 N. D. 364, 83 N. W. 519 (everybody estopped to plead that the act of depositing securities with a foreign state to acquire a license to do business therein was ultra vires); Union Bank, etc., Co. v. Wright, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1900) 58 S. W. 755 (rule excess of its granted powers, and has received the fruits or benefits of the contract, and an action is brought against it to enforce the obligation on its part, it is estopped from setting up the defense that it had no power to make it.[36] prevents the maker of a note to a corporation acting as administrator of a decedent's estate from denying the capacity of the corporation so to act). See also supra, XV, C, 2, e.

36. California.— Smith v. Ferries, etc., R. Co., (1897) 51 Pac. 710 (corporation cannot, while retaining a valuable consideration from another corporation, upon which is based an assumption by the former of a debt by the latter, deny the validity of the debt); Main v. Casserly, 67 Cal. 127, 7 Pac. 426.

Colorado.— Colorado Loan, etc., Co. v. Grand Valley Canal Co., 3 Colo. App. 63, 32 Pac. 178.

Connecticut.— Union Hardware Co. v. Plume, etc., Mfg. Co., 58 Conn. 219, 20 Atl. 455.

Illinois.— People v. Suburban R. Co., 178 Ill. 594, 53 N. E. 349, 49 L. R. A. 650 (ultra vires undertakings of quasi-public corporations enforced against them while they retain and enjoy the benefits of the concessions granted on the condition that such undertakings should be performed); Darst v. Gale, 83 Ill. 136; West v. Madison County Agricultural Bd., 82 Ill. 205; Bradley v. Ballard, 55 Ill. 413, 8 Am. Rep. 656; Brewer, etc., Brewing Co. v. Boddie, 80 Ill. App. 353 (corporation estopped from pleading ultra vires so as to avoid its agreement to pay rent under a lease, where it has occupied the premises, the contract not being prohibited by law); People's Gaslight, etc., Co. v. Chicago Gaslight, etc., Co., 20 Ill. App. 473; Millard v. St. Francis Xavier Female Academy, 8 Ill. App. 341.

Indiana.— Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Flanagan, 113 Ind. 488, 14 N. E. 370, 3 Am. St. Rep. 674; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; State Bd. of Agriculture v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 47 Ind. 407, 17 Am. Rep. 702; Flint, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Kerr-Murray Mfg. Co., 24 Ind. App. 350, 56 N. E. 858 (holds a corporation to liability on a guaranty of the payment of a debt of its customer who was indebted to the corporation); G. F. Wittmer Lumber Co. v. Rice, 23 Ind. App. 586, 55 N. E. 868 (lumber company becoming surety on a contractor's bond in order to get the contract of supplying the building materials estopped from pleading that its act was ultra vires); Bedford Belt R. Co. v. McDonald, 17 Ind. App. 492, 46 N. E. 1022, 60 Am. St. Rep. 172.

Indian Territory.— Ranney-Alton Mercantile Co. v. Mineral Belt Constr. Co., (1899) 48 S. W. 1028.

Iowa.— Beach v. Wakefield, 107 Iowa 567, 76 N. W. 688 [modified in 107 Iowa 591, 78 N. W. 197, railroad corporation receiving the benefit of a loan cannot escape liability because the loan was in excess of its statutory limit]; Humphrey v. Patrons' Mercantile Assoc., 50 Iowa 607.

Kansas.— Blue Rapids Opera House Co. v. Mercantile Bldg., etc., Assoc., 59 Kan. 778, 53 Pac. 761, corporation having received the benefits of a loan contract performed by the other party, estopped to plead ultra vires to defeat an action upon it.

Michigan.— Butterworth v. Kritzer Milling Co., 115 Mich. 1, 72 N. W. 990 (corporation which gives a real-estate mortgage to indemnify another corporation for guaranteeing the payment of notes of the former corporation cannot set up as a defense in an action to foreclose the mortgage that the contract of guaranty was ultra vires); Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063; Carson City Sav. Bank v. Carson City Elevator Co., 90 Mich. 550, 51 N. W. 641, 30 Am. St. Rep. 454.

Mississippi.— Natchez v. Mallery, 54 Miss. 499.

New Hampshire.— International Trust Co. v. Davis, etc., Mfg. Co., 70 N. H. 118, 46 Atl. 1054 (both corporation and its creditors estopped from setting up the defense of ultra vires against an issue of bonds after the company has received and while it retains the proceeds thereof); Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689; Connecticut River Sav. Bank v. Fiske, 60 N. H. 363.

New Jersey.— Chapman v. Iron Clad Rheostat Co., 62 N. J. L. 497, 41 Atl. 690 (plea of ultra vires is inadmissible where one has fully performed on his part a contract made with a corporation, and cannot be restored to his former status or honestly dealt with otherwise than by a specific performance on the part of the corporation); Camden, etc., R. Co. v. May's Landing, etc., R. Co., 48 N. J. L. 530, 7 Atl. 523.

New York.— Seymour v. Spring Forest Cemetery Assoc., 144 N. Y. 333, 39 N. E. 365, 63 N. Y. St. 672, 26 L. R. A. 859; Great Western Turnpike Co. v. Shafer, 57 N. Y. App. Div. 331, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 5 (corporation bound by agreement of its agent to release a farmer from the payment of toll, in consideration of his closing a certain road, after having observed the contract for years); Peck v. Doran, etc., Co., 57 Hun 343, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 401, 32 N. Y. St. 405; Verona v. Peckham, 66 Barb. 103; Madison Ave. Baptist Church v. Baptist Church, 3 Rob. 570, 1 Abb. Pr. N. S. 214, 30 How. Pr. 455; Quantmeyer v. J. H. Mohlman Co., 29 Misc. 746, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 220 [affirming 59 N. Y. Suppl. 1113, receiving benefits under an agreement estops the corporation from denying the authority of its agent to make it]; Homestead Bank v. Wood, 1 Misc. 145, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 640, 48 N. Y. St. 775 (corporation estopped to the extent to which the

(III) Either Party so Estopped Where Other Party Has Acted to His Disadvantage. The rule has been carried further, and has been rested upon the principle which supports the consideration of contracts, and operates to estop either party where the other, on the faith of entering into the engagement, has acted to his or its disadvantage. The principle is that the rule requiring the observance of good faith and fair dealing is just as applicable to corporations as to individuals, and that neither can involve others in onerous engagements, and with the consideration of the contract in their possession disavow their acts to the damage and discomfiture of others, unless it clearly appears that there was an absolute want of capacity to make the contract.[37]

(IV) Illustrations of Estoppel Against Corporations on Ground of Having Received Benefit of Ultra Vires Contracts. The simplest illustration of this doctrine will be found in cases where the corporation has acquired money[38] or property[39] by means of a contract in excess of its powers, and then, when the other party to the contract seeks to enforce against the corporation the obligation which it has assumed therein, pleads that it had no power to enter into the contract, and at the same time keeps the money or the property. Thus if a corporation has executed a promissory note for a consideration which it has received and retained it is bound to pay the note, although it may have been executed in furtherance of a contract which was ultra vires.[40] So a corporation cannot avoid its obligation to pay money which has been loaned to it and used by it, under the plea that in borrowing the money it exceeded its statutory power to contract debts, or that its officers by whom the loan was negotiated were not properly authorized in the premises.[41] Neither can it avoid its obligation on the ground that it was given for property which the corporation was not empowered by its charter to take.[42] It cannot, where it has purchased property contrary to other party has performed the agreement on his part); Schurr v. New York, etc., Invest. Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 454, 45 N. Y. St. 645; Indiana v. Woram, 6 Hill 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378.

Oregon.— Tyler v. Tualatin Academy, 14 Oreg. 485, 13 Pac. 329.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Shaw, (1888) 14 Atl. 323; Wright v. Pipe Line Co., 101 Pa. St. 204, 47 Am. Rep. 701; Oil Creek, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Transp. Co., 83 Pa. St. 160; Bucks County R. Co. v. Guarantors' Finance Co., 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 101 (estoppel after part performance by the other party).

South Carolina.— Williamson v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 54 S. C. 582, 32 S. E. 765, 71 Am. St. Rep. 822, private corporation cannot plead ultra vires where the contract has been performed by the other party, or while retaining the benefit of the contract.

Texas.— Steger v. Davis, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 23, 27 S. W. 1068, hotel corporation and its shareholders estopped to repudiate the purchase of property as ultra vires, although hotel subsequently built elsewhere.

Washington.— Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 22 Wash. 172, 60 Pac. 141, question of ultra vires of a corporation in selling its property will not be considered where it has received the consideration for its property, and its vendee mortgaged it, and the mortgage has been foreclosed.

Wisconsin.— Bullen v. Milwaukee Trading Co., 109 Wis. 41, 85 N. W. 115, a clear statement of the rule.

United States.— Bowman v. Foster, etc., Hardware Co., 94 Fed. 592 (prevents corporation from repudiating its subscription to a building and loan association); Marbury v. Kentucky Union Land Co., 62 Fed. 335, 10 C. C. A. 393 (sufficient to satisfy the rule that the shareholders deemed the contract beneficial to the corporation); Wood v. Corry Water Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Dow, 19 Fed. 388.

37. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Flanagan, 113 Ind. 488, 14 N. E. 370, 3 Am. St. Rep. 674 (opinion by Mitchell, C. J.); State Bd. of Agriculture v. Citizens St. R. Co., 47 Ind. 407, 17 Am. Rep. 702.

38. Millard v. St. Francis Xavier Female Academy, 8 Ill. App. 341.

39. Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063; Indiana v. Woram, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Dow, 19 Fed. 388 [affirmed in 120 U. S. 287, 7 S. Ct. 482, 30 L. ed. 595].

40. Main v. Casserly, 67 Cal. 127, 7 Pac. 426; Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063.

41. Connecticut River Sav. Bank v. Fiske, 60 N. H. 363.

42. Indiana v. Woram, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378. In this remarkable case the state of Indiana exchanged its credit with a whaling company (not a teachers' institute) to the extent of sixty thousand dollars, backed up by the undertakings of certain individuals. The whaling company got the bonds of the state and of course failed, and the individuals, a prohibition or without an authorization in its charter, retain both the property and its price; it cannot retain the property and refuse to pay the price, or set up the defense of ultra vires when sued for the same.[43] So where it has purchased land and received a deed therefor, which reserves a vendor's lien for the purchase-money, and has taken possession thereunder, it will not be heard to defend a proceeding to enforce the lien, on the ground that it had not corporate power to contract for payment in money, but only in corporate warrants, unless it offers to surrender the land.[44]

(v) Borrower Cannot Keep Money and Plead Ultra Vires. The principle to which the stress of justice drove the earlier courts was, that where the corporation is prohibited from lending money on a particular security, it may, notwithstanding the prohibition, recover the money loaned, although the security may be void.[45] That is to say, if an action is brought upon the instrument alone there can be no recovery. If the declaration counts on the instrument, and contains also the common counts for money had and received, the count upon the instrument will be bad on demurrer, but a recovery will be had on the common counts.[46] If, ignoring the void security, an action is brought for the money loaned, which we suppose at common law would be an action of assumpsit for money had and received, the plaintiff will recover. But this doctrine was predicated of acts where the corporation, although prohibited from taking the particular security, yet had a general power to lend money, and consequently power to make such a loan as the loan in question without taking the security. If the corporation had no power whatever to lend money, not only the security when sued by the state upon the undertakings made by the whaling company and themselves, defended on the ground that the whaling company had no power to acquire the property of the state, having been chartered only for the purpose of catching whales and making spermaceti candles. This defense was overruled and the state of Indiana had judgment.

43. Wright v. Pipe Line Co., 101 Pa. St. 204, 47 Am. Rep. 701.

44. Natchez v. Mallery, 54 Miss. 499.

Further illustrations of this estoppel.— This estoppel prevents the corporation from setting up the defense that the contract is void by reason of not having been entered into with the requisite formality. Thus if an educational corporation is sued for services rendered by plaintiff as a military instructor therein, it cannot defend the action on the ground that it had never passed an ordinance authorizing the employment of such an instructor. Tyler v. Tualatin Academy, 14 Oreg. 485, 13 Pac. 329. See also Schurr v. New York, etc., Invest. Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 454, 45 N. Y. St. 645. So a railroad company which under a contract has used the road-bed, rolling-stock, and equipments of another cannot set up, as a defense to a bill in equity by the latter for an accounting and a return of the property, that the contract was ultra vires. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689. So although it may be ultra vires for a railroad company to maintain and operate a telegraph line, yet this will be no defense to an action by its contractor for compensation under a contract for building the line. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Shaw, (Pa. 1888) 14 Atl. 323. So although a corporation cannot enlarge its powers beyond those granted in the applicatory enabling statute by merely taking to itself larger powers in its articles of association, yet if it does this, and in the exercise of such powers incurs obligations, it will be no defense against an action that the business in which it was engaged was not authorized by its governing statute. Carson City Sav. Bank v. Carson City Elevator Co., 90 Mich. 550, 51 N. W. 641, 30 Am. St. Rep. 454. Nor can a corporation escape the obligation of a contract which is within the scope of its amended articles of incorporation by setting up its own failure to record those articles. Humphrey v. Patrons' Mercantile Assoc., 50 Iowa 607. And generally a corporation will be estopped from defending against an action to recover on a contract which it has entered into on the ground that in making the contract it has not conformed to the statutory limitations and requirements, where it has received the fruits or benefits of the contract. Colorado Loan, etc., Co. v. Grand Valley Canal Co., 3 Colo. App. 63, 32 Pac. 178; Wood v. Corry Water Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168. For a curious turn of the doctrine of ultra vires in an elaborately considered but doubtful case see In re McGraw, 111 N. Y. 66, 19 N. E. 233, 19 N. Y. St. 392, 2 L. R. A. 387.

45. Philadelphia Loan Co. v. Towner, 13 Conn. 249; Utica Ins. Co. v. Kip, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 20; Utica Ins. Co. v. Scott, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 1.

46. Philadelphia Loan Co. v. Towner, 13 Conn. 249; Utica Ins. Co. v. Kip, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 20.

but the contract itself was void, and no recovery could be had upon either.[47] If therefore according to this doctrine an insurance company usurps the business of banking and discounts notes, as did the Utica Insurance Company,[48] it will not be able to maintain an action upon the notes; but if as an insurance company it has a general power to lend money, it may maintain an action for the money loaned.[49] With reference to this subject, a distinction has been taken between cases where the making of the loan and the taking of the illegal security form one entire transaction, and cases where a valid loan is made within the powers of the corporation, and afterward an illegal security is taken for it. Here, although no recovery can be had on the security, yet a recovery can be had on common counts for the money lent.[50] Such were the distinctions in the American courts fifty years ago; but ignoring these subtleties and taking the direct road to justice the doctrine now is that the corporation thus making the loan in good faith may recover upon or enforce the security, and that the borrower will be estopped by his act of receiving the loan and keeping the money from setting up that the corporation had no power to make it.[51]

(VI) This Estoppel Extends to Privies of Either Party. This like other estoppels extends to the privies of the corporation; so that where the corporation has received the benefit of an ultra vires contract and has thereby precluded itself from avoiding it, it cannot be avoided by one succeeding to its rights with notice. For instance the purchaser of the real estate of a private corporation at a judicial sale, who is neither a shareholder nor a creditor, cannot question the power of the corporation to make a prior deed of trust upon the property and have the deed of trust set aside in his favor, when he purchases with notice of it, and when the owner of the indebtedness thereby secured has been guilty of no fraud.[52] So the principle already referred to[53] which prevents either party to a contract which is beyond the power of the corporate party from disaffirming it without restoring what he has received under it operates not only against the corporation, but against its shareholders; so that when they sue in its right to set aside and cancel an ultra vires mortgage of its property made for money lent to it, they must, in order to succeed, offer to return the money.[54] So where the president of a corporation together with other officers bought for the corporation shares of stock of another corporation, and his own corporation brought an action against him for the unlawful conversion of it, it was held that he could not be heard to set up in defense of his unlawful action that his own corporation had no power to acquire the shares of another corporation.[55]

(VII) Other Party Estopped When He Has Received Benefit. Modern decisions make the estoppel reciprocal, and hold that where the corporation is plaintiff in the action and is seeking to enforce a contract into which it had no power to enter, if the defendant has received the benefit of the contract, he will not be allowed to defend on the ground that it was ultra vires; at least until he restore the benefits which he received thereunder.[56] The simplest illustration of this is to suppose that a corporation has exceeded its powers in lending its money upon a promissory note, but nevertheless seeks to get its money back by bringing an action upon the note. Here the maker of the note will not be heard to defend

47. Life, etc., Ins. Co. v. Mechanic F. Ins. Co., 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 31; Beach v. Fulton Bank, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 573.

48. People v. Utica Ins. Co., 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 358, 8 Am. Dec. 243.

49. Utica Ins. Co. v. Kip, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 20; Utica Ins. Co. v. Scott, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 1; Parker v. Rochester, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 329.

50. Philadelphia Loan Co. v. Towner, 13 Conn. 249.

51. See supra, XVII, F, 2, b, (VII).

52. Darst v. Gale, 83 Ill. 136.

53. See supra, XVII, F, 1, r, (I).

54. Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412.

55. St. Louis Stoneware Co. v. Partridge, 8 Mo. App. 217.

56. California.—Argenti v. San Francisco, 16 Cal. 255.

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; Pancoast v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 79 Ind. 172; Pollock v. Lafayette Bldg. Assoc., 71 Ind. 357.

on the ground that the corporation had no power to lend him the money.[57] In like manner, where the charter of a corporation restricts its power to invest its surplus funds to a certain class of securities, one who has obtained a loan from it upon another security will not be heard to set up the defense, when the corporation proceeds to enforce the loan, that it had no power to make it.[58]

(VIII) RULE WHERE CORPORATION HAS ACTED TO ITS DISADVANTAGE. As in the case where the corporation has made the promise and the other party has acted to his disadvantage on the faith of it,[59] so where the promise is made by another to a corporation, and it has acted to its disadvantage on the faith of it, an estoppel in pais will arise against the promisor, which will prevent him from setting up the defense of ultra vires when the corporation sues to enforce his promise. Thus where certain residents of a county bound themselves to raise enough money to purchase a right of way for a railway company, and the company constructed its road on the faith of the promise, it was held that the promisors when sued thereon could not plead that the corporation had no power to enter into such a contract.[60]

(IX) WHETHER BRINGING OF ACTION BY CORPORATION IS RATIFICATION CURING WANT OF FORMAL VOTE. Where the invalidity of a contract of loan consists in an informality, as the want of a vote at a trustees' meeting, the mere bringing of the action by the corporation to recover the money lent is a ratification of the act of its officers in making the loan, and the borrower will not be heard to object that the loan was made to him without a formal vote.[61]

(X) CONTRARY DOCTRINE THAT CORPORATION IS NOT ESTOPPED BY RECEIVING BENEFITS OF CONTRACT. There is a class of cases, happily limited in number, which holds that where a corporation has made a contract in excess of its granted powers, and has received or enjoyed the consideration or the benefits or fruits of it, this fact does not estop it from defending on the ground of ultra vires an action to enforce the obligation which it assumed by the contract on its part.[62] Some courts attempt to draw a line by holding that while a corporation cannot be estopped from setting up the defense of ultra vires against a corporate act which is absolutely void,[63] yet this rule does not apply to contracts which are voidable merely.[64] The theory of these decisions is that the rule estopping the corporation from raising the question of ultra vires where it has received the benefit of the contract does not apply where the contract is ultra vires in

New York.— Steam Nav. Co. v. Weed, 17 Barb. 378; Whitney Arms Co. v. Barlow, 38 N. Y. Super. Ct. 554 [affirmed in 63 N. Y. 62, 20 Am. Rep. 504].

Wisconsin.— Germantown Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dhein, 43 Wis. 420, 28 Am. Rep. 549.

United States.— New York Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Wilcox, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,980, 8 Biss. 203. See as strongly illustrating the principle Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188.

57. Poock v. Lafayette Bldg. Assoc., 71 Ind. 357. The early and discarded doctrine was that there could be no recovery upon the security. See supra, XVII, B, 2, c.

58. New York Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Wilcox, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,980, 8 Biss. 203. Similarly see Pancoast v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 79 Ind. 172.

59. State Bd. of Agriculture v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 47 Ind. 407, 17 Am. Rep. 702. See also supra, XVII, F, 2, b, (III).

60. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239.

61. Germantown Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dhein, 43 Wis. 420, 28 Am. Rep. 549.

62. Chewacla Lime Works v. Dismukes, 87 Ala. 344, 6 So. 122, 5 L. R. A. 100; Sherwood v. Alvis, 83 Ala. 115, 3 So. 307, 3 Am. St. Rep. 695; Best Brewing Co. v. Klassen, 185 Ill. 37, 57 N. E. 20, 76 Am. St. Rep. 26, 50 L. R. A. 765 [reversing 85 Ill. App. 464] (holding that the signing of an appeal-bond by a trading corporation as surety, and the enjoyment of the benefits arising therefrom, will not estop the corporation from making the defense of ultra vires, if such act is not within the scope of its charter); Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Jones Mfg. Co., 91 Ill. App. 547 (when a contract is beyond the chartered power conferred on a corporation by existing laws, neither the corporation nor the other party to the contract can be estopped, by assenting to it or acting on it, to show that it was prohibited by such laws); Kelley v. O'Brien Varnish Co., 90 Ill. App. 287; Albert v. Baltimore Sav. Bank, 1 Md. Ch. 407.

63. National Home Bldg., etc., Co. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 54 N. E. 619, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245 [reversing 79 Ill. App. 303].

64. Sioux City Terminal R., etc., Co. v. Trust Co. of North America, 173 U. S. 99, 19 S. Ct. 341, 43 L. ed. 628 [affirming 82 Fed. 124, 27 C. C. A. 73 (affirming 69 Fed. 441)].

the sense that it is void; for example without the scope of the powers of the corporation.

c. Rule Where Contract Has Been Executed on One or Both Sides in Whole or in Part — (I) Where Contract Has Been Fully Executed on Both Sides — (A) In General. In conformity with a settled principle of law, where a contract with a corporation, the making of which is beyond its granted powers, has been fully executed by both parties, neither of them can assert its invalidity as a ground of relief against it.[65]

(B) Doctrine That Individual Is Not Estopped in Such Cases. Under the old and rigid doctrine which excluded the operation of the principle of estoppel, the right to cheat was mutual; so that where a person had made a contract with a corporation which was ultra vires, and had received the benefit of it, neither he nor those claiming under him were estopped from setting up the invalidity of the contract as a defense to an action to enforce it.[66]

(C) No Estoppel Where Other Contracting Party Knows That Contract Is Ultra Vires. It being a fundamental ground of estoppel in pais that the person seeking to assert the estoppel must have been misled to his injury,[67] it follows that there is no estoppel of the kind under consideration where the other contracting party knows that the contract is ultra vires, but that in such a case the parties are equally in the wrong and the rule in pari delicto obtains.[68]

(II) Where Contract Has Been Fully Executed On Either Side — (A) In General. There is authority for the proposition that where the contract has been fully executed on either side, and the party so executing it on his part is suing to recover the agreed consideration for executing it, the other party will be estopped from setting up the defense that the corporation had no power to enter into it; and for the purposes of this rule it is immaterial whether the plaintiff or the defendant is the corporation. On this subject it has been said that parties may "be estopped, in some cases, from disputing the validity of a corporate contract when it has been fully performed on one side, and when nothing short of enforcement will do justice."[69] In view of what has preceded this proposition cannot be stated with entire confidence, and great care is required in its application.

(B) Provided Plaintiff Does Not Require Aid of Illegal Contract to Make Out His Case. In such a case it has been said that if the contract has been so executed that plaintiff does not require the aid of the illegal contract to make out his case, he is entitled to recover, and the defendant cannot set up the illegality of the original transaction, and hence his own turpitude, in order to defeat the plaintiff's right.[70]

65. Long v. Georgia Pac. R. Co., 91 Ala. 519, 8 So. 706, 24 Am. St. Rep. 931. "The executed dealings of corporations must be allowed to stand for and against both the parties, when the plainest rules of good faith so require." Comstock, C. J., in Parish v. Wheeler, 22 N. Y. 494, 508 [quoted with approval by Cooley, C. J., in Day v. Spiral Springs Buggy Co., 57 Mich. 146, 23 N. W. 628, 58 Am. Rep. 352]. In like manner it was said by Gibson, C. J.: "True it is, that an illegal contract will not be executed; but when it has been executed by the parties themselves, and the illegal object of it has been accomplished, the money or thing which was the price of it may be a legal consideration between the parties, for a promise, express or implied; and the court will not unravel the transaction to discover its origin." Lestapies v. Ingraham, 5 Pa. St. 71, 81. See also Hipple v. Rice, 28 Pa. St. 406.

Other illustrations of the doctrine. Mitchell v. Beckman, 64 Cal. 117, 24 Pac. 110; Holmes, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Holmes, etc., Metal Co., 127 N. Y. 252, 27 N. E. 831, 38 N. Y. St. 155, 24 Am. St. Rep. 448.

66. Chambers v. Falkner, 65 Ala. 448.

67. Observe that a very able and scholarly lawyer and thinker, John S. Ewart, Esq., K. C., of Winnipeg, has discarded the word estoppel and employed the phrase "assisted misrepresentation." See his recent work on this subject.

68. Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70 Iowa 541, 30 N. W. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 449.

69. Cooley, C. J., in Day v. Spiral Springs Buggy Co., 57 Mich. 146, 151, 23 N. W. 628, 58 Am. Rep. 352.

70. In Swan v. Scott, 11 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 155, 164, it was said by Duncan, J.: "The test, whether a demand connected with an illegal transaction, is capable of being enforced

(c) Rule Where Contract Has Been Fully Executed by Party Contracting With Corporation. Where a party has made a contract with a corporation and has fully performed what he agreed to do on his part, and is suing the corporation for the compensation which it agreed to pay or to render as the consideration of the contract, then the corporation will be estopped from setting up the defense that it had no power to enter into the contract, or that it was prohibited by statute from so doing. Here the fact that plaintiff has performed the obligation of the contract on his part necessarily implies that the corporation has received the benefits or fruits of it; and the case is therefore one governed by the principle already stated,[71] that the corporation will not be allowed to receive the fruits of a contract, and then, when sued for performance on its part, while keeping the fruits, set up the defense that it had no power to make the contract.[72] The most frequent application of this doctrine is that where a corporation has entered into a contract which has been fully executed by the other contracting party, so that nothing remains for the corporation to do but to pay the consideration money, it will not be allowed to set up that the contract was ultra vires.[73]

(d) Rule Where Contract Has Been Fully Executed by Corporation. Where the ultra vires contract has been fully executed by the corporation, and the other party has been placed in possession of the fruits of it, such other party will not be heard to set up, as a defense to an action by the corporation for the agreed consideration of the contract, that the contract was ultra vires.[74] Thus one who purchases from a corporation cannot, in an action for the purchase-price, where the contract has been performed by the corporation, object that the corporation was prohibited by law from trading in the specific article sold.[75]

d. Estoppel in Favor of Bona Fide Holders of Commercial Paper. One of the rules with respect to this subject is that if the corporation has power to make a note for any purpose, it cannot, as against a bona fide holder, set up that it had at law, is, whether the plaintiff requires the aid of the illegal transaction to establish his case."

71. See supra, XVII, F, 2, b, (II).

72. California.— Argenti v. San Francisco, 16 Cal. 255.

Colorado.— Denver F. Ins. Co. v. McClelland, 9 Colo. 11, 9 Pac. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 134.

Indiana.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Flanagan, 113 Ind. 488, 14 N. E. 370, 3 Am. St. Rep. 674; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; State Bd. of Agriculture v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 47 Ind. 407, 17 Am. Rep. 702.

Kansas.— Sherman Center Town Co. v. Morris, 43 Kan. 282, 23 Pac. 569, 19 Am. St. Rep. 134.

Michigan.— Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063.

New Jersey.— Camden, etc., R. Co. v. May's Landing, etc., R. Co., 48 N. J. L. 530, 7 Atl. 523.

New York.— Cunningham v. Massena Springs, etc., R. Co., 63 Hun 439, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 606, 44 N. Y. St. 723; Schurr v. New York, etc., Invest. Co., 16 N. Y. Suppl. 210, 41 N. Y. St. 90; Palmer v. Cypress Hill Cemetery, 14 N. Y. St. 591.

Pennsylvania.— Manhattan Hardware Co. v. Phalen, 128 Pa. St. 110, 18 Atl. 428; Reed's Appeal, 122 Pa. St. 565, 16 Atl. 100.

United States.— Wood v. Corry Water-Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168.

73. Wright v. Pipe Line Co., 101 Pa. St. 204, 47 Am. Rep. 701; Oil Creek, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Transp. Co., 83 Pa. St. 160.

Illustrations of the foregoing.— An insurance company is authorized by its charter to insure against losses by fire only, but it nevertheless issues to the plaintiff a policy in which it insures against a loss by hail, and the plaintiff pays the premium thereon, and a loss takes place by hail. Here the company will be liable to pay the indemnity, although the premium was settled partly in cash and partly in a promissory note. Denver F. Ins. Co. v. McClelland, 9 Colo. 11, 11 Pac. 771, 59 Am. Rep. 134. So where a corporation is prohibited by its charter from purchasing the stock of another corporation, but nevertheless does make such a purchase and gives its note for the stock and the stock is delivered to it, it cannot, when sued on the note by a bona fide purchaser (and it is supposed by a party to the original transaction), defend on the ground that it did not have power to purchase its own stock. Wright v. Pipe Line Co., 101 Pa. St. 204, 47 Am. Rep. 701, reasoning that plaintiffs did not need the aid of any illegal transaction to make out their case.

74. Whitney Arms Co. v. Barlow, 63 N. Y. 62, 20 Am. Rep. 504; Matter of Joint-Stock Co.'s Winding-up Act, 4 De G. M. & G. 19, 18 Jur. 710, 53 Eng. Ch. 16; London Fishmongers v. Robertson, 5 M. & G. 131, 6 Scott N. R. 56, 44 E. C. L. 78.

75. Chester Glass Co. v. Dewey, 16 Mass. 94, 8 Am. Dec. 128.

Illustrations of this principle.—Accordingly if a corporation has been organized for the purpose of manufacturing arms, but nevertheless enters into a contract with another cor-no power to make the particular note in question.[76] So a person who in good faith lends money to a corporation and takes a transfer of its subscription notes as collateral security, without notice of any fraud affecting the origin of such notes, or that they were transferred without any previous resolution of the board of directors of such company, is entitled to recover upon them, although they may have been acquired from the maker by fraud, and although there may have been no such resolution authorizing the transfer.[77]

e. Doctrine That Violations of Charter or Want of Power Cannot Be Set up Collaterally, But Only by State — (I) Statement of Doctrine. A most important doctrine connected with this subject, and one which rises above the mere principle of estoppel, is that whether a corporation has acted without authority conferred on it by the legislature or has acted in contravention to an act of the legislature, cannot be set up collaterally by individuals who deal with it, or by third persons, but can be set up only by the state in a direct proceeding to forfeit its charter, to oust it of some particular franchise, or to subject it to punishment; or where the question is otherwise litigated between the state and the corporation.[78]

(II) When State Will Interfere on Ground That Corporation Is Acting Ultra Vires. Where no public question, public right, or public interest is involved, the state will not interfere on the ground that a corporation is acting in excess of its granted powers. But it is said that to justify a forfeiture of the franchises in a proceeding instituted by the state the ultra vires acts must be so substantial and continued as to derange or destroy the business of the poration to manufacture and deliver to it a quantity of railroad locks, to be paid for within a stated period after delivery, and does so manufacture and deliver the locks, it can enforce the contract against the purchasing corporation; and if the purchasing corporation is insolvent, and the circumstances are such that the selling corporation could charge the directors if the contract were intra vires, it can charge them as it is; for they cannot set up a defense to escape their personal liability which it would be inequitable to allow their corporation to set up. Whitney Arms Co. v. Barlow, 63 N. Y. 62, 20 Am. Rep. 504. So, although a corporation cannot, according to most holdings, enter into a partnership with a natural person or with another corporation (see supra, XVII, E, 9), yet where it has done so, it may maintain an action for an accounting from the other partner, and he will be estopped to set up that the partnership arrangement was ultra vires. Standard Oil Co. v. Scofield, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 372.

76. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. West Depere Agricultural Works, 63 Wis. 45, 22 N. W. 831.

77. Ogden v. Andre, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 583 [affirmed in 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 396, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 42, 26 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 599].

78. Florida.— Southern L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Lanier, 5 Fla. 110, 58 Am. Dec. 448.

Illinois.— Bushnell v. Consolidated Ice Mach. Co., 138 Ill. 67, 27 N. E. 596.

Massachusetts.— Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 164 Mass. 223, 41 N. E. 268, 49 Am. St. Rep. 454; Prescott Nat. Bank v. Butler, 157 Mass. 548, 32 N. E. 909; Davis v. Old Colony R. Co., 131 Mass. 258, 41 Am. Rep. 221.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Thresher Mfg. Co., 40 Minn. 213, 41 N. W. 1020, 8 L. R. A. 510; Baker v. Northwestern Guaranty Loan Co., 36 Minn. 185, 30 N. W. 464.

Missouri.— St. Louis Drug Co. v. Robinson, 81 Mo. 18 [affirming 10 Mo. App. 588]; Hovelman v. Kansas City Horse R. Co., 79 Mo. 623; Wherry v. Hale, 77 Mo. 20; Franklin Ave. German Sav. Inst. v. Board of Education, 75 Mo. 408; Thornton v. National Exch. Bank, 71 Mo. 221; State Bank v. Merchants' Bank, 10 Mo. 123; St. Louis Stoneware Co. v. Partridge, 8 Mo. App. 217 (the court nevertheless denied the doctrine that the question whether a corporation has exceeded its powers can be litigated only between the state and the corporation).

Pennsylvania.— Wright v. Pipe Line Co., 101 Pa. St. 204, 47 Am. Rep. 701; Grant v. Henry Clay Coal Co., 80 Pa. St. 208; Bly v. Titusville Second Nat. Bank, 79 Pa. St. 453 (where plaintiff needs no aid from the unlawful transaction to make out his case).

South Carolina.— State Bank v. Hammond, 1 Rich. 281.

Wisconsin.— Zinc Carbonate Co. v. Shullsburg First Nat. Bank, 103 Wis. 125, 79 N. W. 229, 74 Am. St. Rep. 845.

United States.— Fritts v. Palmer, 132 U. S. 282, 10 S. Ct. 93, 33 L. ed. 317; Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188 [reversing Matthews v. Skinker, 62 Mo. 329, 21 Am. Rep. 425]; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McCarthy, 96 U. S. 258, 24 L. ed. 693; Bensiek v. Thomas, 66 Fed. 104, 13 C. C. A. 457; Wood v. Corry Water-Works Co., 44 Fed. 146, 12 L. R. A. 168.

The doctrine that the state alone can challenge ultra vires acts of corporations is enunciated with more or less distinctness in the corporation to such an extent that it no longer fulfils the ends for which it was created. In short if the unauthorized acts affect merely the shareholders and creditors, and they have adequate legal or equitable remedies, the state will not interfere.[79]

(III) Expressions and Applications of Principle That Question of Ultra Vires Can Be Invoked Only by State. Upon this subject no consistent doctrine can be reached or stated with confidence. It is perceived that the doctrine flatly contradicts the so-called doctrine of ultra vires in all its original conceptions. It was said in the leading case announcing the doctrine that "a private person cannot, directly or indirectly, usurp the functions of the government."[80] What was held was that one who had borrowed money from a national bank upon the security of a mortgage could not, when the bank proceeded to enforce the security, set up the want of power in the bank to lend upon such security.[81] The supreme court of Missouri, after an attentive consideration of the question, endeavored to generalize the doctrine of the leading case and to state it in broad terms by saying that "the question of ultra vires can only be raised in a direct proceeding, by the state against the corporation, and not in a collateral proceeding by another, except when the charter of the corporation, not only specifies, and, therefore, limits it to the business in which it may engage, or by express terms, or by a fair implication from its term, invalidates transactions outside of its legitimate corporate business."[82]

(IV) Doctrine Uproots Distinction Between Discounting and Purchasing Commercial Paper. It is to be observed that the doctrine of the case of National Bank v. Matthews uproots a line of untenable decisions which take a distinction between discounting and purchasing commercial paper by a bank,[83] by preventing an obligor upon such paper from questioning the manner in which the bank acquired it, when it brings an action upon it.[84]

(V) Application of This Principle With Respect to Power of Foreign Corporations to Hold Land. A leading application of this principle is that, although a foreign corporation may not have power to hold land in the domestic state, yet the question cannot be raised in a collateral proceeding, as for example in an action for coal sold by a foreign corporation to a defendant, which coal had been dug by the corporation under a mining lease.[85] So where a foreign corporation had purchased land and taken a conveyance of it in direct violation of the following cases: Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243; Chambers v. St. Louis, 29 Mo. 543; McIndoe v. St. Louis, 10 Mo. 575; Silver Lake Bank v. North, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 370; Goundie v. Northampton Water Co., 7 Pa. St. 233; Leazure v. Hillegas, 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 313; Runyan v. Coster, 14 Pet. (U. S.) 122, 10 L. ed. 382.

79. State v. Minnesota Thresher Mfg. Co., 40 Minn. 213, 41 N. W. 1020, 3 L. R. A. 510.

80. Prescott Nat. Bank v. Butler, 157 Mass. 548, 32 N. E. 909; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Hanson, 33 Minn. 40, 21 N. W. 845, 53 Am. Rep. 5; Genesee Nat. Exch. Bank v. Whitney, 103 U. S. 99, 26 L. ed. 443; Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188 [reversing 62 Mo. 329, 21 Am. Rep. 425, and followed in Thornton v. National Exch. Bank, 71 Mo. 221].

81. Union Nat. Bank v. Matthews, 98 U. S. 621, 25 L. ed. 188.

82. St. Louis Drug Co. v. Robinson, 81 Mo. 18, 26 [affirming 10 Mo. App. 588]. The following cases were referred to by the court as supporting the doctrine, and they do support it more or less directly: Union Nat. Bank v. Hunt, 76 Mo. 439; St. Joseph F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Hauck, 71 Mo. 465; Thornton v. National Exch. Bank, 71 Mo. 221; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228; Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243; Pacific R. Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212, 100 Am. Dec. 369; Chambers v. St. Louis, 29 Mo. 543; McIndoe v. St. Louis, 10 Mo. 575.

83. Such as Lazear v. National Union Bank, 52 Md. 78, 36 Am. Rep. 355; Rochester First Nat. Bank v. Pierson, 24 Minn. 140, 31 Am. Rep. 341; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Baldwin, 23 Minn. 198, 23 Am. Rep. 683; Niagara County Bank v. Baker, 15 Ohio St. 68. Other courts, it is to be observed, have had the sense to repudiate this distinction. Pape v. Topeka Capitol Bank, 20 Kan. 440, 27 Am. Rep. 183; Atlas Nat. Bank v. Savery, 127 Mass. 75; National Pemberton Bank v. Porter, 125 Mass. 333, 28 Am. Rep. 235; Smith v. Pittsburg Exch. Bank, 26 Ohio St. 141. For a transaction held to be a discounting see Prescott Nat. Bank v. Butler, 157 Mass. 548, 32 N. E. 909.

84. Prescott Nat. Bank v. Butler, 157 Mass. 548, 32 N. E. 909.

85. Grant v. Henry Clay Coal Co., 80 Pa. St. 208.

laws of the state in which the land was situated, it was held that it took title as against its grantor and his subsequent grantee, and that the validity of the conveyance to it could be questioned by the state alone.[86]

(VI) Further Applications and Misapplications of This Principle. Applying this principle, it has been held that, in a suit in equity to set aside a conveyance of real estate made in trust for the receiver of a national bank, on the ground that it was made without consideration and with intent to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors, plaintiff cannot challenge the conveyance, on the ground of its being unauthorized or inhibited by the National Banking Act.[87]

(VII) When Third Persons May and May Not Appeal to Principle of Ultra Vires. Where the ultra vires act of a corporation is injurious to a third person, even to a shareholder, provided there be no estoppel against him, he may appeal to the courts for an appropriate mode of redress just as any other person injured by the unlawful act of another may. If he is a creditor of the corporation, he may have the appropriate relief against a contract made by it in excess of its powers, whereby its funds are dissipated and diverted from the payment of his debt.[88] On the other hand in general it may be said that one whose rights are not injuriously affected by reason of the fact that a corporation is acting in excess of its powers, or beyond the warrant of law, has no standing in court to complain of the same.[89]

(VIII) When Shareholders May and May Not. Unless estopped by their own conduct,[90] shareholders may, when they have exhausted their means of redress within the corporation, under a principle already stated,[91] appeal to the courts for appropriate redress against ultra vires acts of the corporation.[92]

86. Fritts v. Palmer, 132 U. S. 282, 10 S. Ct. 93, 33 L. ed. 317. Still further applications of the principle may be culled from the following cases: Southern L., etc., Co. v. Lanier, 5 Fla. 110, 58 Am. Dec. 448; Bushnell v. Consolidated Ice Mach. Co., 138 Ill. 67, 27 N. E. 596 (prevented the success of a bill in equity to have a corporation irregularly organized declared a partnership); Baker v. Northwestern Guaranty Loan Co., 36 Minn. 185, 30 N. W. 464; State Bank v. Hammond, 1 Rich. (S. C.) 281.

87. Wherry v. Hale, 77 Mo. 20.

Other applications and misapplications of the principle may be collected from the following, among many other cases: Hovelman v. Kansas City Horse R. Co., 79 Mo. 632 (no injunction against a street railroad at the suit of a private party from constructing a railway upon city streets — a violation of the principle that a private person may have an injunction against an ultra vires act of a corporation involving special injuries to him); Franklin Ave. German Sav. Inst. v. Board of Education, 75 Mo. 408 (prevents defendant in a private action by a corporation from showing that the corporation had not legal capacity to sue); St. Louis Drug Co. v. Robinson, 10 Mo. App. 588 [affirmed in 81 Mo. 18, party for whose benefit an indorsement has been made, cannot invoke the doctrine of ultra vires against the enforcement of a chattel mortgage given to secure the corporation against liability on the note].

88. Washington Mill Co. v. Sprague Lumber Co., 19 Wash. 165, 52 Pac. 1067. See also Webster v. Home Mach. Co., 54 Conn. 394, 8 Atl. 482. When a mortgage made by a mining company which has joined with a railroad company to raise money to enlarge the facilities of transporting the product of the mining company will not be treated as void in favor of subsequent creditors of the mortgagor who becomes such with notice of the mortgage. Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 87 Fed. 815.

89. Belcher Sugar Refining Co. v. St. Louis Grain Elevator Co., 101 Mo. 192, 13 S. W. 822, 8 L. R. A. 801; Starin v. Edson, 112 N. Y. 206, 19 N. E. 670, 20 N. Y. St. 898 [reversing 42 Hun (N. Y.) 549]; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Ellerman, 105 U. S. 166, 26 L. ed. 1015; Georgetown v. Alexandria Canal Co., 12 Pet. (U. S.) 91, 9 L. ed. 1012; Pudsey Coal Gas Co. v. Bradford, L. R. 15 Eq. 167, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 11, 21 Wkly. Rep. 286; Liverpool v. Chorley Water Works Co., 2 De G. M. & G. 852, 51 Eng. Ch. 666; Stockport Dist. Waterworks Co. v. Manchester, 9 Jur. N. S. 266, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 545, 11 Wkly. Rep. 156. See also State v. Passaic, 42 N. J. L. 524; State v. Fuller, 34 N. J. L. 227; Erie v. Crooke, 10 N. Y. 60; Belden v. Meeker, 2 Lans. (N. Y.) 470; State v. Senft, 2 Hill (S. C.) 367.

90. Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239.

91. Belcher Sugar Refining Co. v. St. Louis Grain Elevator Co., 101 Mo. 192, 13 S. W. 822, 8 L. R. A. 801; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Ellerman, 105 U. S. 166, 26 L. ed. 1015, in both of which cases this right is conceded to a shareholder while denied to a stranger.

92. That a shareholder cannot, in a suit in equity which he is permitted to prosecute in behalf of the corporation, question its right to exercise all the powers which it has

f. Persons Advancing Money to Corporation Not Bound to See to Its Proper Application. On a principle already considered,[93] if a contract made by a corporation is within the general scope of its powers, but if the real purpose of its officers in making the contract is unlawful, as where it has a general power to borrow money, but borrows it in the particular case for unlawful purposes, then if the party contracting with the corporation has no knowledge of the unlawful purpose he will not be affected thereby, and the defense of ultra vires will not be available to the corporation, or to those claiming through it, when he brings an action to enforce the contract.[94] Thus one who purchases property of a corporation is not bound to follow the price into its treasury, and to see to its proper distribution among its shareholders, there being no fraudulent connivance on his part with its officers to wrong its shareholders.[95] It has even been held that if a corporation has power to borrow money and to execute mortgages to secure the loan, the fact that its purpose in borrowing the money is to use it in a transaction which is ultra vires will be no defense to the enforcement of the mortgage, although the lender knew that such was its purpose, provided he had no further complicity in the unlawful transaction than that arising from such mere knowledge.[96]

g. Other Cases in Which Courts Have Refused to Admit Defense of Ultra Vires. A mining corporation, being unsuccessful and under expense, transferred its properties for stock in a new corporation, and in so doing incurred expenses, to pay which it borrowed money from one of its shareholders. It afterward levied an assessment upon its shares to raise money to repay the money thus borrowed. It was held that a delinquent shareholder, whose shares had been sold under the assessment, could not, in an action to set aside the assessment, set up that the assessment was rendered necessary by the purchase of shares in the other corporation, which was ultra vires.[97]

XVIII. CORPORATE BONDS AND MORTGAGES.

A. Corporate Bonds — 1. In General — a. Power to Issue Bonds — (I) In General. As already seen[98] the power to borrow money for the purpose of carrying into effect the objects of its creation is ascribed to every corporation where not expressly prohibited; and this carries with it by necessary implication the power to issue the usual evidences of indebtedness in order to procure such loan, among which evidences of indebtedness are negotiable interest-bearing bonds.

(II) From What Express Power Power to Issue Bonds Has Been Implied. The power to issue bonds has been implied from the power to mortgage its property;[99] in a railway company, from the power to borrow money;[1] and in taken to itself in its certificate of incorporation, but that such a question can be raised by the state only, see Willoughby v. Chicago Junction R., etc., Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 656, 25 Atl. 277. That a contract by a corporation to buy off the competition of a rival company cannot be assailed by a shareholder as ultra vires, but is within the discretionary power of the directors, see Leslie v. Lorillard, 110 N. Y. 519, 18 N. E. 363, 18 N. Y. St. 522, 1 L. R. A. 456.

93. See supra, XVII, F, 1, f.

94. See Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239; and the reasoning of Comstock, C. J., in Bissell v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 22 N. Y. 258, 273 [quoted in Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerbach, 37 Cal. 543, 579, 99 Am. Dec. 300].

95. Leathers v. Janney, 41 La. Ann. 1120, 6 So. 884, 6 L. R. A. 661.

96. Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412. For another illustration of the doctrine see Lippincott v. Shaw Carriage Co., 25 Fed. 577.

97. Taylor v. North Star Gold Min. Co., 79 Cal. 285, 21 Pac. 753.

98. See supra, XVII, B, 1, b.

That a corporation may, in order to carry out the legitimate objects of its creation, deal precisely as an individual may, except in so far as it is restrained by its charter or governing statute, see Braud v. Donaldsonville, 28 La. Ann. 558; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672; Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490; Craven v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 289; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. St. 33, 75 Am. Dec. 574; McMasters v. Reed, 1 Grant (Pa.) 36; Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. (Pa.) 223.

99. Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 139 Pa. St. 13, 21 Atl. 211.

1. Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 431, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 374.

a cemetery association, from the power "to hold, purchase, and convey such real estate as the offices of the corporation may require," this carrying with it the power to issue bonds and deliver them in payment for lands used as a cemetery and for the improvements thereon.[2]

(III) No Power to Issue Bonds Never Maturing. A corporation cannot increase its capital stock and change the relative rights of its existing shareholders, by issuing this species of share in the professed exercise of its power to borrow, and such an issue will be enjoined.[3]

(IV) Power to Issue Debentures Creating Floating Charge Upon Undertaking. This power is much used in England under provisions of general statutes which extend to all railway companies having power to raise money by mortgage or bond, although their special acts may contain no express provision on the subject of the issue of debenture shares.[4]

(V) Power of Reorganized Corporations to Issue Bonds. A corporation which has become the purchaser at foreclosure sale of the property of a previously existing corporation may issue its bonds for the purpose of paying for the franchises and property which it has purchased, under a statute providing that the purchasers of such property who procure it clear of encumbrance, or "any company organized by their consent," may issue stock or bonds in the proportion which they may deem advisable.[5]

(VI) Power to Lend Its Credit by Issuing Bonds. It may be concluded, by analogy to the power to issue accommodation paper,[6] that a corporation has no power to lend its credit to third persons by issuing its bonds; and it has been held that a corporation has no power to issue its own bond in exchange for the mortgage bond of a natural person, and that having done so it cannot maintain a bill in equity to foreclose the mortgage securing such bond.[7]

(VII) Power to Issue Bonds With Respect to Question of Interest and Usury. Authority in the charter of a railroad company to borrow money at interest, and to give bonds or notes therefor, payable at such times and places as may be agreed upon, includes authority to contract for the payment of interest semiannually.[8] An authority in such a charter to borrow money upon such terms as may be agreed upon between the parties includes an authority to pay interest beyond the rate fixed by the statutes of the state.[9] So where the charter of a corporation authorizes it to borrow money on such terms as its directors may determine and to issue bonds a loan to it is not usurious because the bonds are sold for less than their face value.[10] The effect of a clause on the face of a negotiable bond which a corporation has the power to issue, providing for the payment by the corporation of interest in excess of the rate allowed by law, is, in the absence of special applicatory statutes, to be determined by the law with respect to usurious contracts in the particular jurisdiction. If by the law of the state the

2. Seymour v. Spring Forest Cemetery Assoc., 19 N. Y. Suppl. 94, 45 N. Y. St. 520. For a similar conclusion with respect to a merchants' exchange company see Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 280.

3. Taylor v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 386.

4. In re Mersey R. Co., [1895] 2 Ch. 287, 64 L. J. Ch. 625, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 12 Reports 345. See also Government Stock Invest., etc., Co. v. Manila R. Co., [1895] 2 Ch. 551, 64 L. J. Ch. 740; In re Colonial Trusts Corp., 15 Ch. D. 465. An English company is not debarred from issuing the remaining debentures of a series by the fact that the earlier debenture-holders have called in the principal and issued a writ to enforce their security, if they have not, at the date of the further issue, obtained the appointment of a receiver. In re Hubbard, 68 L. J. Ch. 54, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 665, 5 Manson 360. Compare Anderson v. Bullock County Bank, 122 Ala. 275, 25 So. 523; Wakefield Water Co. v. New England Trust Co., 175 Mass. 478, 56 N. E. 703.

5. Thayer v. Wathem, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 382, 44 S. W. 906.

6. See supra, XVII, C, 4.

7. Smith v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 Ala. 558.

8. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

9. Morrison v. Eaton, etc., R. Co., 14 Ind. 110.

10. Traders' Nat. Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 3 S. E. 363, opinion by Smith, C. J.

holder of an obligation tainted with usury is entitled to recover the principal sum and lawful interest, rejecting the usurious excess,[11] the same rule of recovery will be applied in an action upon a negotiable corporate bond.[12]

b. Questions Relating to Payment For Bonds — (I) No Power to Give Away Its Bonds. It is a sound conclusion, although somewhat shaken by one or two unfortunate decisions,[13] that a corporation can neither give away its bonds as a bonus to its shareholders, nor give away its stock as a bonus to its bondholders, but that such donations are diversions of its assets, in breach of the trust under which its directors and officers hold those assets, both as against creditors and shareholders.[14] But it has been held that a bonus in shares given to purchasers of the bonds of a corporation, simply as an inducement to them to purchase the bonds, will not entitle dissenting shareholders to have a deduction of the par value of the bonus shares made from the bonds, provided the giving of the bonus shares was in good faith.[15]

(II) Power to Issue Its Bonds at Discount. In the absence of restraining constitutional provisions or statutes, private corporations have the same power to sell their bonds at less than their par value which natural persons would have.[16]

(III) Power to Issue Its Bonds For Property in Kind. A corporation which has power to issue bonds to raise money for the construction of its works may issue them in payment for works already constructed, which are suitable for its purposes, and which it has power to purchase and hold.[17]

(IV) Constitutional and Statutory Provisions Against Issuing Stock or Bonds Except For Money, Labor, Property, Etc. — (A) In General. Constitutional prohibitions exist in many of the states against the issuing by corporations of stock or bonds, except for money, labor, or property actually received and applied to the purposes for which the corporation was created, and providing that all fictitious indebtedness of corporations shall be void.[18] Such constitutional provisions are not construed as being intended to interfere with the usual and customary methods of raising funds by corporations, by the issue of stocks or bonds for accomplishing legitimate corporate purposes.[19] They do not for example require that the money, property, or labor received in exchange for the bonds shall be of the equal market value of the bonds, provided the transaction is a real one based upon a present consideration, and having reference to legitimate corporate purposes, and is not a mere device to evade the law and to accomplish what it forbids.[20] In short such provisions merely operate to require that there

11. As in Pennsylvania. Turner v. Calvert, 12 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 46; Wycoff v. Longhead, 2 Dall. 92, 1 L. ed. 303.

12. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. St. 33, 75 Am. Dec. 574.

13. See supra, VI, M, 1, b, (VII), (B); VI, M, 1, i.

14. Central Trust Co. v. New York City, etc., R. Co., 18 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 381.

15. Dickerman v. Northern Trust Co., 176 U. S. 181, 20 S. Ct. 311, 44 L. ed. 423.

16. Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 9 L. R. A. 527 [reversing 52 Hun (N. Y.) 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409]; Traders' Nat. Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 3 S. E. 363; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

17. Gamble v. Queens County Water Co., 123 N. Y. 91, 25 N. E. 201, 33 N. Y. St. 88, 9 L. R. A. 527 [reversing 52 Hun (N. Y.) 166, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 124, 23 N. Y. St. 409]; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

18. See supra, XVIII, A, 1, a, (I).

19. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 103 Ill. 187 [approved in Memphis, etc., R. v. Dow, 120 U. S. 287, 7 S. Ct. 482, 30 L. ed. 595].

20. Memphis, etc., R. v. Dow, 120 U. S. 287, 7 S. Ct. 482, 30 L. ed. 595. Similarly see Elyton Land Co. v. Birmingham Warehouse, etc., Co., 92 Ala. 407, 9 So. 129, 25 Am. St. Rep. 65, 12 L. R. A. 307; Brown v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 53 Fed. 889. See also Ala. Code, §§ 1560–1663.

For example the mere fact that property bought for seventeen thousand dollars at sheriff's sale, on execution against a corporation, was resold to the reorganized corporation for thirty-eight thousand dollars is not proof of fraudulent overvaluation, so as to affect the validity, as against the receiver of the latter corporation, of its bonds given on account of the transaction. Pomeroy v. New York Smelting, etc., Co., (N. J. Ch. 1901) 48 Atl. 395.

For an agreement construed as not being in violation of a statute prohibiting the sale of railroad bonds to directors of the corporation, either directly or indirectly, for less than shall be a real debt founded upon real transactions having reference to the legitimate purposes of the corporation and not to fictitious debts, tricks, or devices intended to impose obligations on the corporation which it ought not to assume.[21]

(B) Statutes Limiting Deviation to Stated Per Centum — (1) IN GENERAL. The danger of abuse in applying the foregoing principles of construction have led the legislature of one state to limit the deviation which is permitted between real and actual value to twenty-five per centum of the par value.[22] This statute restrains a corporation from hypothecating its bonds as a security for loans, in other words from issuing them as collateral security, without stipulating that they shall be accounted for at not less than seventy-five cents on the dollar of their par value, and all bonds otherwise issued are void.[23]

(2) POWER TO PLEDGE BONDS FOR CORPORATE DEBTS WITHOUT REFERENCE TO VALUE. In the absence of such a statutory limit as that existing in Wisconsin just referred to[24] the conclusion was that a corporation might pledge its own mortgage bonds as collateral security for a debt without any such restriction as to the value at which they should be accounted for to the company in case of a sale to foreclose the pledge, and that such a pledge, if made without fraud, but with the bona fide purpose of securing the payment of corporate debts, could not properly be regarded as a fictitious increase of the indebtedness of the corporation, or as an issuing of its bonds except for money, labor done, or money or property actually received, within the meaning of the constitutional inhibition, although the amount of the bonds thus pledged might exceed the amount of the indebtedness to be secured.[25] In short it seems to be established that a corporation which has the power to issue bonds secured by a mortgage may execute such bonds and a mortgage to secure them, and then transfer the bonds and the mortgage, as collateral security for an indebtedness of a less value than the sum for which the bonds are issued, and which is secured by the mortgage.[26]

(C) What Indebtedness Is Not "Fictitious" Within Meaning of Such Prohibitions. It has been held that an indebtedness of a corporation is not "fictitious," within the meaning of such a provision, where it consists of notes and mortgages issued by the corporation in consideration of money advanced to and paid for the corporation, and of property sold and delivered to it by the mortgagee, although but a part of the consideration for each note executed by the corporation had been received by it at the date of the execution of the note, if the full consideration was afterward received by it and there was no fraud on the part of the mortgagee.[27]

(D) Prohibition Against Fictitious Bonded Indebtednees — Non-Negotiable Promissory Notes. A constitutional prohibition against the issue of "fictitious"

their par value, see Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497, 36 C. C. A. 155 [rehearing denied in 96 Fed. 784, 37 C. C. A. 587, modifying 82 Fed. 642, 86 Fed. 929]. Circumstances under which the court refused to condemn a transaction as being a violation of a statute forbidding the issuing of bonds except for money or property actually received for the use and lawful purposes of the corporation, at the suit of a subsequent creditor, where the bonds had been issued in exchange for notes given by the corporation and indorsed by the firm to the business of which the corporation had succeeded, and the accounts were complicated, and the objecting creditor failed to designate the bonds the issuing of which should be condemned as being within the prohibition of the statute, see Re Snyder, 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 1, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 993.

21. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375.

22. Wis. Rev. Stat. § 1753.

23. Pfister v. Milwaukee Electric R. Co., 83 Wis. 86, 53 N. W. 27.

24. See supra, XVIII, A, 1, b, (IV), (B), (1).

25. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375. Thus the giving by a corporation of its mortgage bonds amounting to the face value of one hundred and five thousand dollars, as collateral security for a debt of eighty-five thousand dollars due from the corporation, was not a fictitious issue or disposition of the bonds, within the meaning of such a constitutional provision. Dexter v. McClellan, 116 Ala. 37, 22 So. 461.

26. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375; Lehman v. Tallassee Mfg. Co., 64 Ala. 567; Duncomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. 190.

27. Underhill v. Santa Barbara Land, etc., Co., 93 Cal. 300, 28 Pac. 1049, opinion by Vanclief, Commissioner.

bonded indebtedness has been held not to prohibit the issue of non-negotiable promissory notes secured by a mortgage of the corporate property,[28] although this plainly opens the door to evasions of the constitutional provision by the mere device of putting the obligation in the form of a non-negotiable note.

(E) Conclusion Where Constitution or Statute Declares Prohibited Issue of Bonds to Be Void. Some of these statutes declare that all bonds otherwise issued shall be void. Where the statute contains such a declaration the courts have nothing to do, in the absence of circumstances of estoppel, except to enforce the mandate of the statute and to hold that bonds issued in contravention of its terms are void.[29]

c. Prohibitions Against Creating Bonded Indebtedness Beyond Prescribed Limits. Many constitutional and statutory prohibitions against the creating by corporations of bonded indebtedness beyond prescribed limits have been established.[30] With respect to such provisions the following holdings have been made: That such a statute does not apply to a mortgage given by a corporation upon its own property;[31] that such a prohibition will not render a mortgage void with respect to a subsequent creditor who becomes such with notice that the mortgage is made to secure a loan excessive in amount;[32] and that after the assets of a corporation had greatly depreciated and the bookkeeper had made an entry on the books charging the loss to the capital stock, but there had been no amendment of the articles reducing the capital, and no calling in or surrender of shares, a debt, contracted by the company, which amounted to more than one half of the available assets, but not to more than one half of the amount of the shares paid up and actually issued to the shareholders, was not within the statutory prohibition, but was a valid debt of the corporation.[33]

d. Prohibition Against Borrowing Money at More Than Prescribed Rate of Interest. Where the governing statute of a corporation contains an express limitation of the rate of interest at which it may borrow money and forbids it to borrow at a greater rate, a bond and mortgage executed by it to a building and loan association are ultra vires, void, and unenforceable where the agreed interest, together with premiums and exactions, exceeds the rate prescribed by the statute.[34]

e. Prohibition Against Increasing Bonded Indebtedness Without Consent of Shareholders. Constitutional and statutory provisions exist, varying in their terms, prohibiting the increase of the bonded indebtedness of corporations without the consent of their shareholders. These provisions, having been established for the protection of the shareholders, may be waived by them.[35] Such a prohibition is not infringed by the execution of a mortgage to secure the payment of money, in a transaction which does not increase the corporate indebtedness, but merely changes the form of an existing corporate indebtedness.[36]

f. Bond May Be Valid Although Mortgage Void. A bond issued by a corporation may be valid, although the mortgage by which it is attempted to secure it is void; and notwithstanding the invalidity of the mortgage an action may be maintained upon the bond.[37]

28. Underhill v. Santa Barbara Land, etc., Co., 93 Cal. 300, 28 Pac. 1049.

29. Pfister v. Milwaukee Electric R. Co., 83 Wis. 86, 53 N. W. 27; National Foundry, etc., Works v. Oconto Water Co., 52 Fed. 29.

30. These provisions have already been referred to when dealing with the subject with special reference to the issuing of shares. See supra, VI.

31. Beach v. Wakefield, 107 Iowa 567, 76 N. W. 688, 78 N. W. 197.

32. Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 87 Fed. 815.

33. Cunningham v. German Ins. Bank, 101 Fed. 977, 41 C. C. A. 609.

34. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Casa Grande Livery Stable Co., 119 Ala. 175, 24 So. 886.

35. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375; Riesterer v. Horton Land, etc., Co., 160 Mo. 141, 61 S. W. 238 (holding that the shareholders may waive a provision prescribing the number of days' notice of a meeting called to increase its bonded indebtedness, by express agreement, or by attending a meeting held without such notice).

36. Powell v. Blair, 133 Pa. St. 550, 19 Atl. 559; Ahl v. Rhoads, 84 Pa. St. 319.

37. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. St. 33, 75 Am. Dec. 574.

g. Bonds Which Are Mortgages by Force of Statute. A statute of Florida authorizing a railroad company to issue "first-mortgage bonds" has been held to authorize it to issue a bond which should operate as a first mortgage upon its properties, without the additional formality of executing a mortgage.[38]

h. Negotiability of Corporate Bonds — (i) In General — (a) Corporate Bonds Negotiable Although Under Seal. These instruments are a modern financial invention. They are as is well known issued by the United States government,[39] by the governments of the several states,[40] by the governments of the territories,[41] as well as by municipal corporations, and railway, canal, steamboat, mining, manufacturing, and other incorporated companies. Such bonds, whether the coupons are attached or detached, are, when they employ negotiable words, as when they are made payable to the bearer, the holder, or to order, almost universally held to be negotiable instruments, possessing the ordinary incidents of such instruments, although they may be issued under seal.[42] This is true of cor-

38. State v. Florida Cent. R. Co., 15 Fla. 690.

39. The United States 5-20 bonds were negotiable, and title thereto passed by delivery. One who took them in good faith for value acquired a good title to them. If one deposited them for safe-keeping with a banking institution, and the cashier of the institution pledged them in violation of his duty, the pledgee, acting in good faith, acquired a good title to them; and a recovery of them from him, effected through the fraud and bad faith of the cashier, did not divest the title out of the pledgee and revest it in the depositor. Ringling v. Kohn, 4 Mo. App. 59.

40. Walker v. State, 12 S. C. 200; 1 Daniel Neg. Instr. §§ 440, 446.

41. Brunswick First Nat. Bank v. Yankton County, 101 U. S. 130, 25 L. ed. 1046, per Waite, C. J.

42. Alabama.— Reid v. Mobile Bank, 70 Ala. 199; State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127; Blackman v. Lehman, 63 Ala. 547, 35 Am. Rep. 57.

Connecticut.— Savings Soc. v. New London, 29 Conn. 174.

Illinois.— Johnson v. Stark County, 24 Ill. 75.

Indiana.— Junction R. Co. v. Cleneay, 13 Ind. 161.

Iowa.— Clapp v. Cedar County, 5 Iowa 15, 68 Am. Dec. 678.

Louisiana.— Planters' Consol. Assoc. v. Avegno, 28 La. Ann. 552.

Maryland.— Virginia v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 32 Md. 501.

Massachusetts.— Haven v. Grand Junction R., etc., Co., 109 Mass. 88; Spooner v. Holmes, 102 Mass. 503, 3 Am. Rep. 491; Chapin v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 8 Gray 575.

Mississippi.— Craig v. Vicksburg, 31 Miss. 216.

Missouri.— Barrett v. Schuyler County Ct., 44 Mo. 197; Lafayette Sav. Bank v. St. Louis Stoneware Co., 4 Mo. App. 276; Ringling v. Kohn, 4 Mo. App. 59, 63.

New Jersey.— Winfield v. Hudson, 28 N. J. L. 255; Elizabeth v. Force, 29 N. J. Eq. 587; Vreeland v. Van Horn, 17 N. J. Eq. 137; Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Lewis, 12 N. J. Eq. 323; Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Fisher, 9 N. J. Eq. 667, 64 Am. Dec. 423.

New York.— McClelland v. Norfolk St. R. Co., 110 N. Y. 469, 18 N. E. 237, 18 N. Y. St. 344, 6 Am. St. Rep. 397, 1 L. R. A. 299; Dinsmore v. Duncan, 57 N. Y. 573, 15 Am. Rep. 534; Seybel v. National Currency Bank, 54 N. Y. 288, 13 Am. Rep. 583; Brainerd v. New York, etc., R. Co., 25 N. Y. 496; Hodges v. Shuler, 22 N. Y. 114; Rome Bank v. Rome, 19 N. Y. 20, 75 Am. Dec. 272; Evertson v. Newport Nat. Bank, 4 Hun 695 [affirmed in 66 N. Y. 14, 23 Am. Rep. 9]; Wickes v. Adirondack Co., 2 Hun 112; Blake v. Livingston Co., 61 Barb. 149; Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 41 Barb. 9; Hubbard v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Barb. 286.

North Carolina.— Weith v. Wilmington, 68 N. C. 24.

Pennsylvania.— Beaver County v. Armstrong, 44 Pa. St. 63; Carr v. Le Fevre, 27 Pa. St. 413; Connor v. Fifth Nat. Bank, 14 Pittsb. L. J. N. S. 370. But see Diamond v. Lawrence County, 37 Pa. St. 353, 78 Am. Dec. 429.

Rhode Island.— National Exch. Bank v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 8 R. I. 375, 91 Am. Dec. 237, 5 Am. Rep. 582.

South Carolina.— Langston v. South Carolina R. Co., 2 S. C. 248.

Texas.— San Antonio v. Lane, 32 Tex. 405.

Vermont.— North Bennington First Nat. Bank v. Mount Tabor, 52 Vt. 87, 36 Am. Rep. 734.

Virginia.— Arents v. Com., 18 Gratt. 750.

Wisconsin.— Mills v. Jefferson, 20 Wis. 50; Clark v. Janesville, 10 Wis. 136.

United States.— Marion County v. Clark, 94 U. S. 278, 24 L. ed. 59; Clark v. Iowa City, 20 Wall. 583, 22 L. ed. 427; Aurora v. West, 7 Wall. 82, 19 L. ed. 42; Marshall County v. Schenck, 5 Wall. 772, 18 L. ed. 556; Thompson v. Lee County, 3 Wall. 327, 18 L. ed. 177; Murray v. Lardner, 2 Wall. 110, 17 L. ed. 857; Meyer v. Muscatine, 1 Wall. 384, 17 L. ed. 564; Gelpcke v. Dubuque, 1 Wall. 175, 17 L. ed. 520; Mercer County v. Hacket, 1 Wall. 83, 17 L. ed. 548; Moran v. Miami County, 2 Black 772, 17 L. ed. 342; Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. 381, 16 L. ed. 488; White v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 21 How. 575, 16 L. ed. 221; Knox County v. Aspinwall, 21 How. 539, 16 L. ed.

porate bonds which have been indorsed by the state.[43] It is especially true where the law of the state under whose laws they are issued has abolished the use of private seals.[44]

(B) Non-Payment of Interest Does Not Render Bonds Non-Negotiable. The non-payment of an instalment of interest, when due, does not affect the negotiability of corporate bonds, or of the subsequent coupons, until the maturity of the bonds themselves, or of the coupons; and a purchaser for value, without notice of their invalidity as between antecedent parties, will take them discharged from all infirmities.[45]

(C) Bonds Issued in Blank, Holder May Fill Up Blank. Again if the bonds of a corporation are issued to a payee not named, or in other words are payable in blank, and have in this condition passed from hand to hand it is competent for the holder to fill the blank, so as to make the bond payable to him or to his order, and he can then maintain suit upon it in his own name.[46]

(II) Doctrine That Negotiable Quality of Bonds Extends to Mortgage—(A) Statement of Doctrine. Although a mortgage may be given to secure a debt evidenced by a promissory note or other negotiable security, yet the mortgage itself is not a negotiable security, unless there is a statute making it so, and it is doubtful whether any such statutes have been enacted. A mortgage cannot, in the absence of a statute authorizing it, be assigned at law. It can be assigned in equity, but only in equity; and a court of equity, in giving effect to an assignment of it, will be careful not to sacrifice the superior equities of others. An assignment of a note, bond, or other evidence of debt which is secured by a mortgage, carries with it in equity an assignment of the mortgage; and if the security is negotiable, a bona fide purchaser of that will take it free from any equities, that is to say, free from any defenses which might have been set up by the maker or those claiming under him; but he will take the mortgage subject to such equities or defenses.[47]

(B) Exceptions to Foregoing Rule. An exception to this principle is said to be that a court of equity will protect the assignee of the mortgage against the latent equities of third persons.[48] Another exception is said to be that if the intending assignee applies to the mortgagor, and the mortgagor consents to the assignment, this will estop him from setting up any equities against the assignee.[49]

i. Rights of Bona Fide Purchasers For Value—(I) Good in Hands of Bona Fide Purchaser, Although Voidable in Hands of Original Taker. Corporate bonds payable to the bearer, being negotiable securities, are good in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, notwithstanding the circumstances under which they have been issued may be such as to render them voidable in the hands of the original taker.[50]

(II) This Doctrine Applicable Where Bonds Are Issued in Pledge. The foregoing doctrine is applicable to cases where bonds are issued in pledge by a corporation as security for its debts.[51]

208; Durant v. Iowa County, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,186, Woolw. 72; Memphis v. Brown, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,415, 1 Flipp. 188.

43. Reid v. Mobile Bank, 70 Ala. 199.

44. Clapp v. Cedar County, 5 Iowa 15, 68 Am. Dec. 678.

45. Cromwell v. Sac County, 96 U. S. 51, 24 L. ed. 681. To the same effect see National Bank of North America v. Kirby, 108 Mass. 497; Boss v. Hewitt, 15 Wis. 260; Indiana, etc., Cent. R. Co. v. Sprague, 103 U. S. 756, 26 L. ed. 554.

46. Chapin v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 8 Gray (Mass.) 575; White v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 575, 16 L. ed. 221.

47. Melendy v. Keen, 89 Ill. 395; Olds v. Cummings, 31 Ill. 188; Westfall v. Jones, 23 Barb. (N. Y.) 9; Murray v. Lylburn, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 441; Mott v. Clark, 9 Pa. St. 399, 49 Am. Dec. 566.

48. Murray v. Lylburn, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 441; Pryor v. Wood, 31 Pa. St. 142; Mott v. Clark, 9 Pa. St. 399, 49 Am. Dec. 566. Compare Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 103 Ill. 187; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Loewenthal, 93 Ill. 433.

49. Melendy v. Keen, 89 Ill. 395; Matthews v. Wallwyn, 4 Ves. Jr. 118.

50. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 103 Ill. 187; Gibson v. Lenhart, 101 Pa. St. 522.

51. New Memphis Gaslight Co. Cases, 105 Tenn. 268, 60 S. W. 206.

(III) Consequences of This Doctrine. Every transfer of such bonds before maturity to a new holder for value, and without notice of any equities or infirmities attaching to them, will give the latter a good title to them as against the former holder. Moreover the transferee of such a bond is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be a bona fide holder for value. Where there is evidence tending to rebut this presumption, the question whether the holder is a bona fide purchaser for value is a question of fact for a jury.[52]

(IV) Defense of Ultra Vires Unavailing Against Such Bona Fide Purchaser — (A) In General. This principle applies to the subject under consideration so as to validate bonds issued by private corporations in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, although the bonds were issued in violation of a restriction in the charter.[53]

(B) Illustration of Foregoing in Case of Excessive Bond Issue. Thus where a corporation was empowered to issue mortgage bonds to the amount of two thirds of its capital paid in, and it issued such bonds to an amount less than two thirds of its authorized capital, but to an amount much more than its capital then paid in, it was held that the bonds were enforceable in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value.[54]

(C) Application of Principle Where Restriction Is For Benefit of Shareholders. The principle is of especial application where the statutory restriction is for the benefit of the shareholders, which they may therefore waive. When therefore bonds are issued in violation of such a restriction, but nevertheless the shareholders stand by and allow the bonds of the corporation to be issued and sold, and see the corporation avail itself of the benefits arising therefrom, they are concluded from setting up the defense of ultra vires against bona fide purchasers for value.[55]

(D) Illustration of Doctrine in Case of Fraudulent Overissue of Bonds. Where negotiable railroad bonds, indorsed by the state, are regular on their face, and recite in the indorsement a compliance by the company with the conditions of the statute under which they are issued, an innocent purchaser for value takes them unaffected by any fraud or mistake in their overissue; nor will the fact that unpaid interest coupons are attached to them charge him with notice of any defect in them.[56]

(V) When Purchaser Bound to Take Notice of Governing Statute. Where the negotiable bonds of a corporation are issued or indorsed under authority conferred by a statute, and the statute is referred to on the face of the bonds, every purchaser of such bonds is thereby put upon inquiry as to the terms of the statute, and is bound at his peril to take notice of them.[57]

(VI) Circumstances Putting Intending Purchasers Upon Inquiry — (A) Bound to Take Notice of What Appears on Face of Bonds — (1) In General. Intending purchasers are bound to take notice of whatever appears

52. Gibson v. Lenhart, 101 Pa. St. 522.

53. Ellsworth v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 98 N. Y. 553 [affirming 33 Hun (N. Y.) 7].

For an application of this principle to municipal bonds see Washington, etc., Co. v. Cazenove, 83 Va. 744, 3 S. E. 433.

54. Hackensack Water Co. v. De Kay, 36 N. J. Eq. 548.

55. Tyrell v. Cairo, etc., R. Co., 7 Mo. App. 294, where the defense was that the bonds were issued by the directors without the consent or authorization of the shareholders.

56. State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

For other applications of this principle in the case of fraudulent overissues of railroad bonds indorsed by the state see Gilman v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 566 [reaffirmed in Morton v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., etc., Assoc., 79 Ala. 590]; State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

Circumstances under which bona fide purchasers of such bonds were subrogated to the rights of the state under the deed of trust. Clews v. Brunswick First Mortgage Bondholders, 54 Ga. 315.

57. Morton v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., etc., Assoc., 79 Ala. 590; Gilman v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 566; McClure v. Oxford Tp., 94 U. S. 429, 24 L. ed. 129.

Circumstances under which an intending purchaser of bonds was not chargeable with notice of any outstanding indebtedness, the same not being referred to in the governing statute, see Spence v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 79 Ala. 576.

upon the face of the bonds themselves;[58] and if on the face of the bonds reference is made to the statute under which they are issued, this reference will charge an intending purchaser with notice of the terms of the statute as fully as if it has been set out in full on the face of the bonds.[59]

(2) WHAT IF RECITALS LULL INQUIRY. But if on the other hand the recitals of the bonds and the mortgage are such as to lull inquiry he is not bound to look further. Here, as in the case of the intending purchaser of corporate shares, he is not bound to suspect fraud or to make inquiries where everything appears to be fair, honest, and conformable to law.[60]

(B) Put Upon Inquiry by Reference in Bonds to Mortgage. If such bonds on their face contain a reference to the mortgage, such reference will affect intending purchasers with the terms of the mortgage, so that it will have to be read, in determining their rights, together with the bond, as one contract.[61] If in such case the mortgage provides that the whole debt shall become due ninety days after a refusal, on demand, to pay a semiannual instalment of interest, then an intending purchaser of the bonds, knowing that such a demand and refusal has taken place, cannot claim the status of an innocent purchaser.[62]

(C) Whether Put Upon Inquiry by Presence of Past-Due Coupons. It seems that an intending purchaser of the bonds is not put upon inquiry with respect to them by the mere fact of the presence upon them, undetached, of past-due coupons,[63] although this may be a material fact which together with other facts may make up an aggregate of suspicious circumstances sufficient to put him on inquiry.[64]

(D) Other Circumstances Putting Intending Purchasers Upon Inquiry. Intending purchasers are put upon inquiry, in the case of stolen bonds which have never been issued, by the absence of the indorsement of the president of the corporation and by the circumstance of their being offered and sold at a very small consideration;[65] and in the case of railroad mortgage bonds, by the circumstances of their being put upon the market by the trustee named in the mortgage, and sold at a very small per centum of their face value.[66]

(E) Status of Purchaser of Bond Which Has Stipulation Fraudulently Detached From It. It has been held that an instrument in the form of an ordinary corporate bond, with interest coupons attached, is a promissory note, notwithstanding it contains the added stipulation that upon its surrender the holder will be entitled to shares of capital stock of the company;[67] and that if such an additional stipulation is detached from such a bond at the time when it is negotiated by one holder to a new purchaser, the circumstance will not be evidence of such bad faith as will deprive the new purchaser of the status of an innocent

58. Stanton v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,297, 2 Woods 523.

To what extent put upon inquiry by the numbers of the bonds see State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127; Stanton v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,297, 2 Woods 523.

59. See supra, XVIII, A, 1, i, (V).

60. Stanton v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,297, 2 Woods 523.

61. McClelland v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 110 N. Y. 469, 18 N. E. 237, 18 N. Y. St. 344, 6 Am. St. Rep. 397, 1 L. R. A. 299.

62. Morton v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., etc., Assoc., 79 Ala. 590.

There is a holding which seems opposed to the principle that where the bond refers to the terms and condition of the mortgage the purchaser of the bond is bound to look into those terms and conditions and is affected by them. That holding is to the effect that a bond with that recital does not affect the purchaser with notice of a condition in the mortgage that the bondholder shall have no recourse to the private liability of the shareholder. Raymond v. Spring Grove R. Co., 10 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 416, 21 Cinc. L. Bul. 103. The decision is believed to be unsound.

63. State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

64. Morton v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., etc., Assoc., 79 Ala. 590; Illinois, etc., Cent. R. Co. v. Sprague, 103 U. S. 756, 26 L. ed. 554; Cromwell v. Sac County, 96 U. S. 51, 24 L. ed. 681.

65. Parsons v. Jackson, 99 U. S. 434, 25 L. ed. 457.

66. Riggs v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 16 Fed. 804.

67. Hodges v. Shuler, 22 N. Y. 114.

purchaser, although the absent stipulation is referred to in the body of the bond at the time when he takes it.[68]

(F) Distinction Between Redeemability and Payability With Respect to Question Whether Bonds Are Past Due. The fact that a bond which by its terms or by the terms of its governing statute is redeemable within a prescribed period by the corporation or by the state issuing it is not redeemed within such period does not dishonor it so as to make it subject to equities in the hands of one who purchases it.[69]

(VII) Who Is Bona Fide Holder. In order to take a purchaser of negotiable corporate bonds out of the category of bona fide holders, it is necessary that there should be something more than facts or circumstances raising a mere suspicion in the mind of a cautious person with respect to the validity of the paper, and something more than even gross negligence on his part in taking it. There must be something which is tantamount to bad faith, guilty knowledge, or wilful ignorance, and the burden of this rests upon the party seeking to impeach the paper.[70] It is therefore no defense to an action on such a bond that the books of the company do not show value received for the same, or that a former president of the company did not make a return of the proceeds of the same to the company.[71]

(VIII) Purchaser Not Bound to See to Application of Purchase-Money—(A) In General. Provided the corporation have the power to issue the bonds, the purchaser is not charged with the duty of seeing that it makes a lawful or proper application of the purchase-money; but he may rightfully presume that its agents will do their duty in this respect, and that it has sufficiently provided for its own safety in the matter; so that all that he has to do is to pay his money and take his bond.[72]

(B) Otherwise Where Purchaser Has Notice of Unauthorized Purpose—(1) In General. But where the purchaser has notice that the agent is disposing of the bonds to him for an unauthorized purpose, he takes them at his peril and shoulders the risk of the corporation ratifying the unauthorized act.[73]

(2) Circumstances Under Which Rule Does Not Deprive Lender of Remedy. This principle does not extend so far as to deprive the lender of his remedy against the corporation, where the money is borrowed to the knowledge of the lender, for the purpose of carrying out a transaction which, although not prohibited by statute, is ultra vires the corporation. Here the corporation cannot be allowed to get the benefit of the loan and then escape the payment of it by setting up the defense that it borrowed the money for the purpose of carrying

68. Welch v. Sage, 47 N. Y. 143, 7 Am. Rep. 423. Compare Hotchkiss v. National Shoe, etc., Bank, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 354, 22 L. ed. 645 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,719, 10 Blatchf. 384], where certain railroad bonds which had a stipulation attached to them making them exchangeable for "scrip preferred stock" were stolen, and the stipulation was detached from them before negotiation.

69. Morgan v. U. S., 113 U. S. 476, 5 S. Ct. 588, 28 L. ed. 1044 [overruling it seems Texas v. White, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 700, 19 L. ed. 227 (reaffirmed in Huntington v. Texas, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 402, 21 L. ed. 316)]; Washington First Nat. Bank v. Texas, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 72, 22 L. ed. 295.

70. Hotchkiss v. National Shoe, etc., Bank, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 354, 22 L. ed. 645; Murray v. Lardner, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 110, 17 L. ed. 857; Swift v. Tyson, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 1, 10 L. ed. 865. See also Pittsburgh Bank v. Neal, 22 How. (U. S.) 96, 16 L. ed. 323; Goodman v. Simonds, 20 How. (U. S.) 343, 15 L. ed. 934.

71. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. St. 33, 75 Am. Dec. 574. See also the following cases:

Illinois.— Chicago v. Cameron, 120 Ill. 447, 11 N. E. 899; Bradley v. Ballard, 55 Ill. 413, 8 Am. Rep. 656.

Iowa.— Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239.

New York.— Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318 [affirming 44 Hun 130].

Pennsylvania.— Justice v. Stroup, 4 Phila. 348, 18 Leg. Int. 109.

United States.— Borland v. Haven, 37 Fed. 394, 13 Sawy. 551.

And see supra, XVII, B, 1, b, (IX); XVII, F, 2, f.

72. See supra, XVII, F, 2, f.

73. Chicago v. Cameron, 120 Ill. 447, 11 N. E. 899; Chew v. Henrietta Min., etc., Co., 2 Fed. 5, 1 McCrary 222.

out a transaction in which it had no power to engage and that the lender knew that such was its purpose.[74]

(IX) WHO IS PURCHASER FOR VALUE. Laying out of view the effect of constitutional or statutory restraints as to the value at which corporations can issue their bonds, the true view seems to be that the purchaser of them occupies, in respect of the question of the value at which he may lawfully purchase them, the same position as that occupied by the purchaser of any other species of commercial paper. He will be protected as a bona fide purchaser where he purchased for any value, subject to the principle that an offer of sale at a grossly inadequate value is always a circumstance putting an intending purchaser upon inquiry.[75]

(X) INTERPRETATION OF BONDS AND MORTGAGE WITH REFERENCE TO DATE OF MATURITY. In case of a discrepancy between the recitals in the bonds and those in the mortgage as to the date at which the debt, evidenced by the bonds and secured by the mortgage, matures, the bonds will govern, because the bonds are the instruments which constitute the evidence of the debt and the mortgage is a mere security.[76]

j. Questions Relating to Payment of Bonds — (I) WHETHER TRANSACTION IS PAYMENT OR PURCHASE. There are holdings to the effect that here as in other cases the question whether the corporation or its legal representative, in taking up its bonds, intends to pay them, or merely to take them up as an investment so as to be able to reissue them, is a question of fact and intent. Where the intent of the corporation or its representative concurs with that of the bondholders, and the mere object of the transaction is to surrender all the bonds and to substitute new ones under the same mortgage, then of course there is no payment, but a mere substitution, and the lien continues.[77] But where the intent of the bondholders does not concur with that of the corporation or its representative, but it becomes a mere question of the intent of the corporation, then there is more difficulty. Nevertheless one court has held, where the receivers of a corporation purchased its outstanding bonds with its money and entered them on the books of the corporation as investments, and for years reported them as outstanding, and then reissued them for value, that the bonds had not been paid, but that the holders of the reissued bonds were entitled to the benefits of the original lien, and to share pari passu with other bondholders secured thereby.[78]

(II) DEMAND OF PAYMENT, WHERE MADE. Although the bonds of a corporation are on their face made payable at the office of the corporation in a particular way, yet if when they fall due the corporation has no office at that place, a demand elsewhere may be sufficient.[79]

k. Suits in Equity For Surrender and Cancellation of Bonds Unlawfully or Fraudulently Issued. Where the directors of a corporation, in breach of their trust, organize themselves into a construction company to build a railroad, which the corporation was created to build, and through this agency contract with themselves to build the road, and in order to pay themselves for so doing put a fraudu-

74. Wright v. Hughes, 119 Ind. 324, 21 N. E. 907, 12 Am. St. Rep. 412.

That an injunction will be granted to restrain the sale of corporate property under a mortgage given to secure bonds which the president of the corporation took and converted to his own use, under the alleged authority of a resolution which he procured the directors to pass without the assent of the shareholders, distributing the bonds pro rata among the shareholders, where the issue and distribution were never ratified by the shareholders and no consideration passed to the corporation, see Virginia Tide-Water Coal Co. v. Mercantile Trust Co., 12 N. Y. Suppl. 529, 35 N. Y. St. 141.

75. Gilman v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 566. See also Gould v. Segee, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 260; Phelan v. Moss, 67 Pa. St. 59, 5 Am. Rep. 402 (both cited in the preceding case to this doctrine); Kennicott v. Wayne County, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,711, 6 Biss. 138 (bonds issued by the corporation in payment for goods).

76. Illinois, etc., Cent. R. Co. v. Sprague, 103 U. S. 756, 26 L. ed. 554.

77. Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 13 S. C. 228.

78. Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 304, Simpson, J., dissenting.

79. Alexander v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 67 N. C. 198.

lent mortgage upon the properties of the railroad company and issue bonds thereunder, the corporation cannot maintain a bill in equity to set aside and cancel the mortgage as a cloud upon its title, as against innocent third persons.[80] And where the corporation has pledged its bonds in violation of a statute,[81] no action in equity can be maintained for the surrender and cancellation of them by the corporation, or by a shareholder in right of the corporation, without first tendering the amount due to the pledgee, this being merely an application of the maxim that he who seeks equity must do equity.[82] It has been held that a mortgage given by a corporation for money borrowed and applied in the payment of real estate purchased by the corporation will not be canceled at the instance of the corporation or its members, on the ground that the corporation also issued to the lender certain shares of stock, together with certain notes of its officers, as collateral security; since the lender had the right to all the collateral security he could get, and it came with an exceeding ill grace for the company or any of its members to seek to invalidate such security in his hands without first repaying to him his money.[83]

l. Bonds Convertible Into Stock. The obligation of selling the unissued shares of the corporation only at their par value in money or money's worth cannot be evaded by the device of issuing bonds convertible into stock.[84] If the potential capital of the corporation has been filled up, clearly it would be beyond the power of the corporation to execute the contract in such bonds, by exchanging them for share certificates at the request of the bondholders.[85] But here as in other cases the contract may be valid in part, although void in part; and the fact that the bonds may not be convertible into stock, and that so much of the contract is consequently illegal, does not prevent them from standing as a security, or furnish a defense to an action to foreclose the mortgage upon the property of the company given to secure them.[86]

m. Sinking-Fund Arrangements. Where a sinking fund is provided as an additional security to the bondholder under the terms of a statute, the statute is of course a part of the contract and is to be looked to to determine the rights of the parties.[87] A court of equity has the power, on a proper application and with the proper parties before it, to direct a trustee, who is required by the instrument of trust to invest the trust funds in a certain way, to vary the investment and invest them in other securities.[88] But the power is exercised very sparingly and only on a principle of necessity, and not even then according to some views where all the beneficiaries in the trust are sui juris without their unanimous consent.[89]

80. Lewis v. Meier, 14 Fed. 311, 4 McCrary 286.

81. In this case the statute of Wisconsin prohibiting the issuing or pledging of bonds by corporations for less than seventy-five per cent of their par value. See supra, XVIII, A, 1, b, (IV), (B), (1).

82. Hinckley v. Pfister, 83 Wis. 64, 53 N. W. 21 [citing Mumford v. American L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 N. Y. 463].

83. Powell v. Blair, 133 Pa. St. 550, 19 Atl. 559.

84. See Sturges v. Stetson, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,568, 3 Phila. (Pa.) 304, 15 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 404, 1 Biss. 246.

85. See supra, VII, A, 2, b, (I).

86. Wood v. Whelen, 93 Ill. 153.

With respect to the question whether the bondholder presented his bonds in time to enable him to demand such a conversion, and whether, in case the corporation had transferred its shares so as to disable itself from making the conversion, the bondholder was entitled to specific shares, or merely to indemnity by way of damages, see Chaffee v. Middlesex R. Co., 146 Mass. 224, 16 N. E. 34. See also Targart v. Northern, etc., Cent. R. Co., 29 Md. 557, where the rights of a bondholder whose bonds were convertible into stock were determined on a particular state of facts.

Exchanging one kind of corporate security for another, and circumstances which will not permit the corporation to withdraw the power granted to a trust company to make the exchange, see Wakefield Water Co. v. New England Trust Co., 175 Mass. 478, 56 N. E. 703. Right of holders of mortgage bonds on land grant of railroad to exchange bonds for land see Wood v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 28 Fed. 910.

87. See for instance Wilds v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 64 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 418.

88. See the learned note of Mr. Stewart in 36 N. J. Eq. 406, and cases there cited.

89. Fidelity Ins. Trust, etc., Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 405.

n. Status of Bonds Executed by Two Corporations Jointly. Neither of two corporations organized under the general laws of Texas, the charter of one of which provides for the purchase, subdivision, and sale of lands in cities, and the other for the construction and maintenance of street railways, can bind itself by bonds issued to promote the success of the other, although such success tends to increase its own business. Each of the parties to such a transaction, the street railway company and the land company, thus issuing bonds jointly to raise money needed in their business, becomes liable thereon for the amount used in its own business, but not for the amount used by the other corporation.[90]

2. Remedies of Bondholders[91] — a. Remedies Available to Individual Bondholders. An individual bondholder has a right: (1) To an action at law against Further note on the subject of corporate bonds.— Lien of new bonds exchanged for old ones see Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 13 S. C. 228; Hand v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 12 S. C. 314 [explaining 5 S. C. 182; State v. Spartanburg, etc., R. Co., 8 S. C. 129]. Compare Hand v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 17 S. C. 219, where the previous decision is further explained. The same case on former appeals is reported in 6 S. C. 307, 8 S. C. 207, and 10 S. C. 406. Rights in respect of lost or destroyed bonds see Rogers v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 6 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 253. Effect of the consolidation of two or more corporations upon their bonded indebtedness see Spence v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 79 Ala. 576; People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. 48, 10 N. E. 657; Polhemus v. Fitchburg R. Co., 123 N. Y. 502, 26 N. E. 31, 34 N. Y. St. 420; Stevens v. Union Trust Co., 57 Hun (N. Y.) 498, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 268, 33 N. Y. St. 130; Young v. The Steamboat Key City, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 653, 20 L. ed. 896 (case of a lien on a vessel). Status of bonds guaranteed or indorsed by the state see Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ark. 632, 642; Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 13 S. C. 228; Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 109, 8 S. Ct. 762, 31 L. ed. 615 [affirming 18 Fed. 344, 5 McCrary 597, and overruling 15 Fed. 6, 18]; Ketchum v. St. Louis, 101 U. S. 306, 25 L. ed. 999. Right of holders of state-indorsed bonds to be subrogated to the lien of the state see Forest v. Liddington, 68 Ala. 1. The rights of bondholders under more or less similar conditions of fact to be subrogated to the lien of the state was declared in Hand v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 12 S. C. 314; and in Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 109, 8 S. Ct. 762, 31 L. ed. 615 [affirming 18 Fed. 344, 5 McCrary 597, and overruling 15 Fed. 6]. And see Rice's Appeal, 79 Pa. St. 168, where the principle is stated. Circumstances under which fraudulent state-indorsed bonds sold in a foreign country were valid, the purchasers being bona fide purchasers for value, see Florida Cent. R. Co. v. Schutte, 103 U. S. 118, 26 L. ed. 327. Compare State v. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co., 16 Fla. 708; State v. Florida Cent. R. Co., 15 Fla. 690. For a heterogeny of holdings with respect to state-indorsed bonds of the state of Arkansas see State v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 31 Ark. 701; Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 18 Fed. 344, 5 McCrary 597; Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. 6, 22. And see dissenting opinion of Caldwell, J., in 21 Fed. 370; and Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 109, 8 S. Ct. 762, 31 L. ed. 615 [affirming 18 Fed. 344, and distinguishing Ketchum v. St. Louis, 101 U. S. 306, 29 L. ed. 999]. Subscriptions to railway bonds on condition that a certain number of the bonds shall be subscribed for, not binding until the number has been so subscribed, see Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Ennor, 116 Ill. 55, 4 N. E. 762. The same rule applies in the case of subscriptions to stock. See supra, VI, H, 14, a et seq. Non-liability to creditors of subscribers to the bonds of a corporation for the amount unpaid on their agreement. Pettibone v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 148 Mass. 411, 19 N. E. 337, 1 L. R. A. 787.

90. Northside R. Co. v. Worthington, 88 Tex. 562, 30 S. W. 1055, 53 Am. St. Rep. 778 [reversing 27 S. W. 746].

91. Other holdings relating to rights and remedies of holders of corporate bonds.— Measure of damages recoverable from a corporation for failure to deliver corporate bonds in pursuance of its contract see Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Ennor, 123 Ill. 505, 14 N. E. 673. Compare Rice's Appeal, 79 Pa. St. 168; Fidelity Ins. Trust, etc., Co. v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 33 W. Va. 761, 11 S. E. 58. A bank which loans money secured by a deposit of corporate bonds, under an agreement that it should occupy the place of the bondholders so that the notes given for the sum borrowed until paid should take precedence over the bonds, does not hold them as trustee for the borrower, who, upon foreclosure sale of the entire property of the corporation and its purchase by a committee of reorganization representing the lender and other bondholders, cannot compel the bank to transfer to him the property without tender or payment of the amount due it. Brown v. Anderson, 104 Ga. 30, 30 S. E. 412. That the validity of bonds issued by corporation A which had been assumed by corporation B in consideration of the transfer of property belonging to corporation A will not be investigated in an action to which corporation A is not a party see Smith v. Ferries, etc., R. Co., (Cal. 1897) 51 Pac. 710. That the courts of New Jersey have no jurisdiction of an action by a purchaser of bonds in New Jersey from an agent of a foreign corporation issuing the bonds, against a foreign trust company for a wrong-

the corporation to recover on the unpaid coupons, or on the bonds, provided they have become due under the terms of the contract by reason of the non-payment of the coupons; since "if there is an agreement to pay interest, and it is not paid, there is a breach of the bond for which the holder can maintain an action";[92] (2) to demand that the trustees in the mortgage shall proceed to take possession under the powers therein conferred, or shall bring an appropriate action to foreclose the mortgage; and (3) in case the trustees refuse to do so, and in some of the state jurisdictions without any demand upon, or refusal of, the trustees so to proceed, the bondholder may himself proceed in equity to have the mortgage foreclosed, bringing the action not only for himself, but for all other bondholders standing on a common footing with him.[93]

b. Such Remedies Not Concluded by Non-Action of Majority. While the principle is no doubt gaining ground that a majority of the bondholders are to rule, yet the non-action of the majority will not conclude the rights of an individual bondholder unless it is so stipulated in the mortgage or in the governing statute; but he may file a bill in equity for the enforcement of the security by foreclosure of the mortgage and the sale of the mortgaged property.[94] But separate remedies are not open to the individual bondholder unless this be a just construction of the entire contract.[95]

ful certification of the bonds, see Polhemus v. Holland Trust Co., 61 N. J. Eq. 654, 47 Atl. 417 [reversing 45 Atl. 534]. Condition of fact under which a new and reorganized corporation had no right to demand the sale of securities which had been deposited with a trustee, the new company undertaking to exchange therefor new debentures of its own, with the conclusion that as against the holder of outstanding debentures secured by such deposit such a sale was fraudulent and voidable see Anthony v. Campbell, 112 Fed. 212, 50 C. C. A. 195. Conditions recited in a debenture bond under which the holder could not sue upon the covenant for payment until he had given six months' notice to the trustees requiring them to take the necessary steps for the protection of the debentureholders and until they had neglected for six months so to act see Rogers v. British, etc., Colliery Supply Assoc., 68 L. J. Q. B. 14, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 494, 6 Manson 305.

92. Marlor v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. 867, 868, per Wallace, J. A stipulation in a railroad mortgage that in case of default in the payment of interest for sixty days, the trustees, on written request of one third in interest of the bondholders, must take possession, operate, and "sell" the road, etc., is a cumulative remedy, and not exclusive of the remedies given by law. Dow v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 20 Fed. 260 [affirmed in 124 U. S. 652, 8 S. Ct. 673, 31 L. ed. 565]. See Langston v. South Carolina R. Co., 2 S. C. 248, which was an action on railroad bonds and attached coupons. Another federal court has held, in conformity with the doctrine of the above text, that dissenting bondholders may sue in assumpsit for the amount of their unpaid coupons, although the majority in interest have consented to waive the rights secured by the mortgage. Manning v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 29 Fed. 838. In Pennsylvania, and probably in all other American jurisdictions, the holder of bonds issued by a corporation, payable to bearer, may maintain an action on them in his own name, possession being prima facie evidence of ownership. Carr v. Le Fevre, 27 Pa. St. 413. The Pennsylvania court has more recently held that an action will lie by one bondholder against a corporation for interest due on a bond, although the principal is not yet due, and notwithstanding the fact that the mortgage securing the bond provides that upon default in payment of interest the trustees to whom the mortgage was executed shall, at the request of the holders of a certain amount of bonds, proceed by scire facias to collect interest and principal for the benefit of all bondholders equally. Montgomery County Agricultural Soc. v. Francis, 103 Pa. St. 378. But in the view of the same court he cannot have execution out of the mortgaged property. See infra, XVIII, A, 2, c. So where a railroad mortgage provided that in the event of a failure of net earnings sufficient to pay interest on the bonds secured by it the company can at its option issue certain scrip in lieu thereof, a bondholder is not bound to accept scrip unless the condition supervenes which authorizes the company to issue it, and the burden is on them to prove that it has supervened, and he is not bound to prove the contrary in the first instance; but his right of action is prima facie perfect upon the proof of the non-payment of interest on the presentation of his bond at the same time and place where the interest is made payable. Marlor v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. 867.

93. 5 Thompson Corp. § 6210.

94. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fosdick, 106 U. S. 47, 27 L. ed. 47. The conclusion of the court is scarcely weakened by the fact that three of the justices dissented, but merely on a construction of the terms of the mortgage.

95. McClelland v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 110 N. Y. 469, 18 N. E. 237, 18 N. Y. St. 344, 6 Am. St. Rep. 397, 1 L. R. A. 299.

c. Separate Bondholder Cannot Levy Execution Upon Mortgaged Property. Although a separate bondholder may sue the corporation at law and recover a judgment for what is due to him with respect to his security, yet he cannot levy his execution upon the property which has been conveyed in trust for all the bondholders, but he must proceed against the trustee not merely for himself individually, but for all the bondholders standing with him as a class.[96]

d. When Separate Bondholder May Sue For Interest but Not For Principal. A mortgage securing corporate bonds underwent construction before the court of appeals of New York, with the conclusion that an individual bondholder might sue and recover upon past-due coupons, but could not sue and recover with respect to the bonds, because the remedy upon the bonds was prescribed by the mortgage and was vested in a majority of the bondholders and was in its nature exclusive.[97]

e. Doctrine That Bondholders Are Represented in Litigation by Trustees in Mortgage — (I) Statement of Doctrine. It is coming to be the doctrine of the courts of the United States, although not of the courts of all the states, that the bondholders in a corporate mortgage are represented for the purposes of any litigation affecting their rights by the trustees in the mortgage, so that a decree in a proceeding to which the trustees were parties will bind the bondholders, although they were not made parties.[98] It is suggested that this rule can have no just application except under mortgages which confer upon the trustees the power to represent the bondholders so as to bind them in litigations, the reason being that the trustees in a corporate mortgage cannot be trustees of any larger powers than have been committed to them by the terms of the instrument.

(II) This Not Doctrine of All State Courts. It is to be kept in mind that the foregoing doctrine is not the doctrine of all the state courts, but that one authoritative state court has held that the bondholders are necessary parties to a suit in equity to cancel the mortgage and the bond secured by it, and that service of process on the trustees in the mortgage is not sufficient to conclude the bondholders.[99]

f. Cross Bill Between Several Bondholders Asserting Antagonistic Interests. Where a judgment creditor of an insolvent railroad corporation brought a suit in equity, seeking among other things to impeach the validity of a mortgage and of the bonds secured by the mortgage, it was held that a cross bill between the several bondholders who asserted antagonistic interests under the mortgage was proper and necessary.[1]

g. Remedy of Debenture-Holders Under English Law Where Debenture Becomes Immediately Payable in Consequence of Winding-Up. Under English law a debenture of a limited company in the usual form of a floating security, charging all the property of the company, both present and future, including its

96. Com. v. Susquehanna, etc., R. Co., 122 Pa. St. 306, 321, 15 Atl. 448, 7 L. R. A. 225. Closely allied to this case in principle and treatment is the case of Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Woelpper, 64 Pa. St. 366, 3 Am. Rep. 596. Much to the same effect see Guaranty Trust Co. v. Troy Steel Co., 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 484, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 915, the reason being that by suing on the coupons the bondholder affirms the validity of the mortgage and becomes estopped to proceed in contravention of its terms.

97. Batchelder v. Council Grove Water Co., 131 N. Y. 42, 29 N. E. 801, 42 N. Y. St. 614, Finch and Gray, JJ., dissenting.

98. Thus to state the strongest possible case illustrating the principle it has been held that a decree in equity canceling bonds of one railroad corporation and a mortgage given by another railroad corporation upon its property to secure the payment of the same, upon a bill filed by the latter company against the former and also against the surviving trustee under the mortgage, binds all the bondholders, unless obtained by fraud. Beals v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 133 U. S. 290, 10 S. Ct. 314, 33 L. ed. 608. See also Richter v. Jerome, 123 U. S. 233, 8 S. Ct. 106, 31 L. ed. 132; Shaw v. Little Rock, etc., R., 100 U. S. 605, 25 L. ed. 757; Kerrison v. Stewart, 93 U. S. 155, 23 L. ed. 843.

99. Harrisburg, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, (Pa. 1888) 15 Atl. 459, 1 L. R. A. 230.

1. Morton v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., etc., Assoc., 79 Ala. 590, opinion by Somerville, J.

uncalled capital, confers upon the registered holder, in the event of the debenture becoming immediately payable in consequence of a winding-up, the ordinary mortgagee's remedy by foreclosure against the uncalled capital, as well as the other property comprised in the security.[2] Under that law the working out of a foreclosure decree in the absence of the debenture-holders is not construed to be a dealing by the company with its property in the ordinary course of its business.[3]

B. Corporate Mortgages — 1. Power of Corporations to Mortgage Their Property and Franchises — a. Implied Power of Corporations to Mortgage. The power to borrow money carries with it by necessary implication the power to give the usual security for the loan. It is therefore a settled doctrine that every corporation, saving always those whose property is dedicated to the performance of public duties, has, in the absence of any prohibition in its charter or governing statute, the power to borrow money for the purpose of carrying out the rightful objects of its creation, and may mortgage its real and personal property to secure the loan.[4]

2. Sadler v. Worley, [1894] 2 Ch. 170, 63 L. J. Ch. 551, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 494, 8 Reports 194, 42 Wkly. Rep. 476.

3. Wallace v. Evershed, [1899] 1 Ch. 891, 68 L. J. Ch. 415, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 523, 6 Manson 351.

4. Alabama.— Mobile Electric Lighting Co. v. Rust, 117 Ala. 680, 23 So. 751, holding that a railroad has implied power to borrow money and execute bond and mortgage as security for loan.

Illinois.— West v. Madison County Agricultural Board, 82 Ill. 205; Aurora Agricultural Soc. v. Paddock, 80 Ill. 263; Badger v. Batavia Paper Mfg. Co., 70 Ill. 302.

Iowa.— Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239.

Kansas.— State v. Topeka Water Co., 61 Kan. 547, 60 Pac. 337, where it was held that a water-supply company had power to mortgage its property and franchises, including the right to occupy public streets with its pipes, etc.

Kentucky.— Farmers' Bank v. Ohio River Line Steamboat Co., 108 Ky. 447, 56 S. W. 719, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 132 (assumption by steamboat corporation of a debt which the seller of the boats had contracted in the construction of the boats, and the execution of a mortgage to secure the debt, were within the powers of the corporation); Bell, etc., Co. v. Kentucky Glass Works Co., 106 Ky. 7, 48 S. W. 440, 50 S. W. 2, 1092, 51 S. W. 180, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1089, 1684, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 133, 156 (holding that the power to contract debts necessarily implies the power to mortgage its property to secure the debts); Bardstown, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. 199, 81 Am. Dec. 541.

Maryland.— Susquehanna Bridge, etc., Co. v. General Ins. Co., 3 Md. 305, 56 Am. Dec. 740.

Michigan.— Eureka Iron, etc., Works v. Bresnahan, 60 Mich. 332, 27 N. W. 524; Detroit v. Mutual Gas Co., 43 Mich. 594.

Mississippi.— Wood v. Meyer, (1890) 7 So. 359.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127.

New Jersey.— Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

New York.— New York Security, etc., Co. v. Saratoga Gas, etc., Co., 88 Hun (N. Y.) 569, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 890, 69 N. Y. St. 54 (gaslight companies in New York possess power under various enabling statutes); Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. 122; Jackson v. Brown, 5 Wend. 590; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. 280.

Ohio.— Burt v. Rattle, 31 Ohio St. 116.

Pennsylvania.— Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370; Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

Tennessee.— Hunt v. Memphis Gaslight Co., 95 Tenn. 136, 31 S. W. 1006.

Texas.— Threadgill v. Pumphrey, 87 Tex. 573, 30 S. W. 356 [affirming 9 Tex. Civ. App. 184, 28 S. W. 450], holding that gaslight companies in Texas may mortgage their properties, franchises, and easements.

Wisconsin.— Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. West Depere Agricultural Works, 63 Wis. 45, 22 N. W. 831.

United States.— Cleveland Sav., etc., Co. v. Bear Valley Irr. Co., 112 Fed. 693, where a corporation borrowing money from another corporation, retaining it, and executing a mortgage of its property to secure the loan, was not permitted to deny its power to mortgage.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1775.

This power under English law.— In the English law the power to mortgage their property is generally conceded to companies, where such power is not restrained by their charters, deeds of settlement, or other governing instruments; and the validity of the mortgage will generally depend upon the validity of the debt which it was intended to secure. In re Patent File Co., L. R. 6 Ch. 83, 40 L. J. Ch. 190, 19 Wkly. Rep. 193; Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 202.

Prohibitory statute does not extend to mortgages for purchase-money.— A statute prohibiting corporations organized under it from mortgaging its property or giving any lien thereon has been construed as not intended to prevent corporations from giving a mortgage or lien upon property which they may purchase to secure the unpaid purchase-

b. To What Corporations This Power Has Been Ascribed. This power has been ascribed to an agricultural society, in the absence of a prohibition, so as to enable it to mortgage its fair grounds, to raise money to advance the objects of its incorporation;[5] to a company formed for the purpose of erecting a public exchange building;[6] to a banking corporation, having power by its charter to purchase, hold, and convey such real estate as is requisite for the prosecution of its business, etc.;[7] to a trading corporation;[8] to a gaslight corporation;[9] to steamship companies in England;[10] and to manufacturing companies in the same country.[11] A corporation organized to supply heat to buildings in a city, by means of pipes laid in the public streets is an ordinary manufacturing corporation, and not a quasi-public corporation, for the purpose of determining whether it has the power to mortgage its property; and being such it may make a mortgage of its property without special authority.[12]

c. From What Other Powers Power to Mortgage Has Been Implied. The power of a corporation to mortgage its property is necessarily implied in the power to contract debts, since in making a mortgage to secure a debt which it has contracted, it merely appropriates its property to the payment of its debt, which the law would do in invitum in case the debt were not secured and should go unpaid. As a mortgage is merely a conditional sale, or a sale with a right of defeasance, and consequently, viewed in either light, something less than and included in an absolute sale, it must follow that the general power conferred upon a corporation to sell or otherwise alien its property includes by necessary implication the power to mortgage it for any lawful purpose.[13] The power of a corporation to mortgage its land, on a proper occasion and for a proper purpose, has been in like manner implied from a granted power to dispose of its land by deed or lease.[14] So the power of a corporation to pledge its securities for the payment of its debts has been held to be included in the power to sell such securities for that purpose.[15] In short the power of a corporation to mortgage its real estate has been held to be incidental to the power of acquiring and holding real estate money. McMurray v. St. Louis Mfg. Co., 33 Mo. 377.

5. Aurora Agricultural, etc., Soc. v. Paddock, 80 Ill. 263; Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Iowa 239; Preston v. Loughran, 58 Hun (N. Y.) 210, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 313, 34 N. Y. St. 391 (under a statute).

6. Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 280.

7. Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728; Jackson v. Brown, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 590.

8. Wood v. Meyer, (Miss. 1890) 7 So. 359; Deffell v. White, L. R. 2 C. P. 144, 12 Jur. N. S. 902, 36 L. J. C. P. 25, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 211, 15 Wkly. Rep. 68; Shears v. Jacob, L. R. 1 C. P. 513, Harr. & R. 492, 12 Jur. N. S. 785, 35 L. J. C. P. 241, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 286, 14 Wkly. Rep. 609.

9. Detroit v. Mutual Gaslight Co., 43 Mich. 594, 5 N. W. 1039.

10. Australian Auxiliary Steam Clipper Co. v. Mounsey, 4 Jur. N. S. 1224, 4 Kay & J. 733, 27 L. J. Ch. 729, 6 Wkly. Rep. 734.

11. In re Patent File Co., L. R. 6 Ch. 83, 40 L. J. Ch. 190, 19 Wkly. Rep. 193; In re General Provident Assur. Co., L. R. 14 Eq. 507, 41 L. J. Ch. 823, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 433, 20 Wkly. Rep. 939.

12. Evans v. Boston Heating Co., 157 Mass. 37, 31 N. E. 698.

13. Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728; Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75; Willamette Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Bank of British Columbia, 119 U. S. 191, 7 S. Ct. 187, 30 L. ed. 384. "A mortgage," it has been well observed, "is a conveyance or deed. It is an alienation of the estate." Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728. A power to sell includes a power to mortgage, even under the statute of uses, which is strictly construed; and a fortiori, it ought to include it under a statutory grant, which is to be beneficially construed in furtherance of the object of the grant. Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75. A corporation authorized to acquire, purchase, dispose of, and convey real and personal property, to negotiate its paper, and to borrow credits, has power to mortgage its property to secure such loans. Taylor v. West Alabama Agricultural, etc., Assoc., 68 Ala. 229. To much the same effect see Booth v. Robinson, 55 Md. 419; McAllister v. Plant, 54 Miss. 106. The power to mortgage has been held to be granted by such words as the following: "To purchase and hold" certain property, and to "sell and dispose of it at their pleasure." Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

14. Watts' Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 370.

15. Leo v. Union Pac. R. Co., 17 Fed. 273.

and of making contracts;[16] and a grant of "all powers incident and useful to corporations" has been held broad enough to include a power to make a chattel mortgage.[17] A comprehensive statement of the foregoing is that "the power of a corporation to sell and convey its property, and to borrow money, and make contracts, implies the power to mortgage its property, real or personal, to secure the payment of its debts."[18] But while the power to sell necessarily carries with it the power to mortgage, it does not follow that the want of a power to sell is an inhibition on the power to mortgage; and it has been held that it is not.[19] Nor does the power to mortgage include the power to mortgage for purposes not within the general powers of the corporation, or not connected with the object for which it was created, although, on principles elsewhere considered, where there is a general power, the equities of the mortgage will not be defeated by the fact that the power was exercised for an improper or unauthorized purpose in the particular instance.[20] From the principle of the American law that the power of corporations to mortgage their properties is presumed, it has been held, even in respect of railway companies, but in decisions which do not seem to have been well considered, because such power is not presumed in the case of railway companies,[21] that a special power to mortgage will not be construed as taking away or abridging any general power which the company may possess.[22] A general power to mortgage the whole of any property of a corporation necessarily carries with it the power to mortgage a part of such property, provided the property is of such nature as to be divisible without detriment to the public interests. It has accordingly been held that the power, granted to a railroad company, to mortgage its road, enables it to mortgage any part of it.[23] So a general power to mortgage its property enables a plank-road company to mortgage its franchise of taking tolls on a part of its road, provided the road is capable of being divided, so that separate tolls may be taken on that part.[24]

16. Aurora Agricultural Soc. v. Paddock, 80 Ill. 263.

17. Badger v. Batavia Paper Mfg. Co., 70 Ill. 302.

18. Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127, 135 [citing Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484; Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430; Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203; Jackson v. Brown, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 590; Haxtun v. Bishop, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 13; De Ruyter v. St. Peter's Church, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 119, 3 N. Y. 238, 242; Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75].

19. Krider v. Western College, 31 Iowa 547; Middletown Sav. Bank v. Dubuque, 15 Iowa 394. So an inhibition on the power to sell has been held not an inhibition on the power to lease. Dubuque v. Miller, 11 Iowa 583.

20. See supra, XVII, F, 1, f.

That corporations organized under Ill. Act Feb. 18, 1857, had power to mortgage their property see Joy v. Jackson, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Mich. 155; Gaytes v. Lewis, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,288, 2 Biss. 136.

21. See supra, XVI, C, 2, a; infra, XVIII, B, 1, f.

22. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Talman, 15 Ala. 472; Allen v. Montgomery R. Co., 11 Ala. 437.

23. Pullan v. Cincinnati, etc., Air-Line R. Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,461, 4 Biss. 35.

24. Joy v. Jackson, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Mich. 155.

Enabling acts relating to mortgages by corporations were construed in the following cases, with the conclusions stated: That the corporation was authorized to loan money on bond and mortgage for either of three purposes; and that the burden of proof was not on the corporation, in a suit to enforce such bonds and mortgages, to show that they arose from some of its lawful pursuits. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Perry, 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 339. That a water-power company had power to mortgage its franchises, including the right to the use of the water. Willamette Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Bank of British Columbia, 119 U. S. 191, 7 S. Ct. 187, 30 L. ed. 384. That the purchase by a railroad company, incorporated in Tennessee, of a majority of the stock of another, a Kentucky corporation, for the purpose of gaining the control and practical ownership of the latter's railroad with its franchises, and the issue of its bonds for the construction and equipment of the road, was in the direction, among the purposes, and within the powers granted and authorized by such general laws. Wehrbane v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 4 N. Y. St. 541. That so much of the Tennessee act of March 24, 1877, amending the statute in relation to the consolidation of railways, as limited the power of such companies to execute mortgages or liens affecting particular classes of their creditors, is not repealed by the Tennessee act of March 15, 1881, empowering such companies to execute mortgages, etc. Frazier v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 88 Tenn. 138, 12 S. W. 537.

d. Statutory Power to Mortgage Liberally Construed. Contrary to the general rule by which grants of power to corporations are construed strictly,[25] statutory grants of power to corporations to mortgage their property and franchises for the purpose of effectuating the objects of their creation are generally construed liberally so as to advance the legislative purpose, the reason being that such grants are in no sense opposed to common right.[26]

e. Power to Mortgage All the Corporate Property. Corporations undoubtedly possess, without any express grant, the power to mortgage all their corporate property just as a natural person may,[27] although it has been said that the fact that a corporation pledges, mortgages, or conveys in trust all its property is a badge of fraud.[28] But it does not appear why this should be so. It is plain, however, that such a conveyance is subject to be impeached in equity at the suit of a creditor, just as a similar conveyance of a natural person might be.[29]

f. Railway Companies Possess No Implied Power to Mortgage Their Property and Franchises. As the property of railway companies is devoted to the discharge of public duties, it is generally held that such companies have no power to mortgage, lease, or otherwise alien their property and franchises such as are necessary to the performance of those duties, unless the legislature has expressly granted it, and that an attempt to exercise such power will not exonerate them from responsibility for the performance of those duties.[30] Such a company cannot therefore make a general mortgage covering its franchise, its railroad, and all its other property, without the authority of the legislature.[31] This doctrine has been held to apply to a horse railroad company as well as to a steam railroad company.[32] It also follows from this that a purchaser of railway property, at a sale to foreclose a mortgage thereon, does not stand in the position of an innocent

That a turnpike company may mortgage its road to secure the contractor for constructing it. Greensburgh, etc., Turnpike Co. v. McCormick, 45 Ind. 239. That the Florida Central Railroad Company had power to execute a bond which was to be a mortgage by virtue of the statute, and without the execution of an additional mortgage to secure it, and as to the effect of such bond when executed. State v. Florida Cent. R. Co., 15 Fla. 690. That the Union Pacific Railroad Company is not required to pay interest on the bonds issued by the company to the government until the principal becomes due. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 91 U. S. 72, 24 L. ed. 224. That a supplement to a charter does not limit the power to the completion of the road as authorized at the time of its passage, but extends to the necessary acquisition of rolling-stock and the building or acquiring of branches subsequently authorized. Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 139 Pa. St. 13, 21 Atl. 211.

Rights of holders of bonds issued by railroad companies in Florida see State v. Anderson, 91 U. S. 667, 23 L. ed. 290.

25. Hood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 23 Conn. 609; McSpedon v. New York, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 601, 20 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 395. See also supra, XVI, B, 1.

26. Central Gold Min. Co. v. Platt, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 263.

27. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Talman, 15 Ala. 472, 488; Allen v. Montgomery R. Co., 11 Ala. 437; Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

Power to mortgage all the property except its franchise to be a corporation is denied in England under a deed of settlement, which confers power to borrow money "on the security of the funds and property of the association." Such a mortgage, in the opinion of Knight Bruce, L. J., was a plain breach of trust on the part of the directors, because it was inconsistent with the continuance of the society. Re British Provident L., etc., Assur. Soc., 33 L. J. Ch. 535.

28. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Talman, 15 Ala. 472.

29. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Talman, 15 Ala. 472; Allen v. Montgomery R. Co., 11 Ala. 437.

30. See supra, XVI, C, 2, a et seq.; Frazier v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 88 Tenn. 138, 12 S. W. 537; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. On the contrary that such companies have the general power to mortgage their property and secondary franchises for the purpose of equipping their roads see Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452; Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484.

31. Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672.

32. Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700. It has been ruled in Alabama that the general powers of a railroad corporation extend to the creation of a lien on all its property, without reference to the mode of creating the debt. This being so a provision in the charter of such a corporation authorizing it to mortgage its property for a particular purpose, such as "to borrow money to carry into effect the objects of the charter" did not restrict its power to mort-purchaser without notice, but that he must inquire at his peril whether the company had power to make the mortgage; otherwise he will take the property subject to obligations subsisting against it, which the mortgage if valid might have displaced.[33]

g. Corporations May Mortgage Their Property to Secure Preëxisting Debts. An express power, conferred upon a corporation by statute, of securing its debts by a mortgage of any or all of its real estate, empowers it to execute a mortgage to secure a preëxisting indebtedness; and the fact that the notes representing the indebtedness were executed subsequently to the mortgage is of no consequence, provided the debt, although in another form, existed before.[34]

h. Power to Mortgage Franchises — (I) Cannot Mortgage Primary Franchises Without Consent of Legislature. The courts are united upon the proposition that a corporation has no power, independently of the express grant of the legislature, to mortgage or otherwise alien its franchise of being a corporation.[35] It follows that those who purchase at a judicial or other sale the property and franchises of a corporation do not thereby become a corporation. The purchase may vest in them all that is bought, as property, but they cannot prosecute the enterprise, as being a corporation, until they have been duly incorporated. Nor are they entitled to the restriction upon individual liability of members or shareholders accorded to the shareholders of the old corporation. If they issue bonds before becoming incorporated, they are liable thereon as ordinary obligors are; and the fact that they use the name of the old corporation in issuing such bonds makes no difference.[36]

(II) Can Mortgage Secondary Franchises Not Necessary For Performance of Public Duties — (A) In General. But as already seen the secondary franchises of a corporation are assignable, except such franchises as are necessary to the performance of public obligations, and those are assignable only with the express consent of the legislature.[37]

(B) Such as Franchise of Receiving Tolls. The franchise of receiving tolls is a secondary franchise, which is in its nature assignable, at least with the consent of the legislature; and it has been held that authority in the governing statute of a plank-road company "to mortgage the road or other property" carries with it the right to mortgage the franchise of receiving tolls, although not to gage it for another purpose, within the general scope of the objects for which the company was created. Allen v. Montgomery R. Co., 11 Ala. 437.

33. Frazier v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 88 Tenn. 138, 12 S. W. 537.

Rolling-stock.— In England a railway company may transfer all its rolling-stock to a creditor by way of security (Blackmore v. Yates, L. R. 2 Exch. 225, 36 L. J. Exch. 121, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 288, 15 Wkly. Rep. 750), but this is plainly not the American law (see supra, XVI, C, 12).

Statutes have frequently been enacted in the United States conferring upon railway and other corporations formed for public objects the power to mortgage their franchises. See for example Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700, and statutes there cited.

34. Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318 [affirming 44 Hun (N. Y.) 130, 8 N. Y. St. 265].

35. Illinois.— Hays v. Ottawa, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. 422.

Kentucky.— Bardstown, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalfe, 4 Metc. 199, 206, 81 Am. Dec. 541.

Maryland.—State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1.

Massachusetts.— Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700; East Boston Freight R. Co. v. Hubbard, 10 Allen 459 note; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672.

Mississippi.— Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

Nebraska.— Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458, 465.

New Hampshire.— Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127.

Ohio.— Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372. 75 Am. Dec. 518.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 63 Pa. St. 126; Stewart's Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 413; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. 94.

Vermont.— Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484.

See also supra, XVI, C, 1.

36. Chaffe v. Ludeling, 27 La. Ann. 607.

37. See supra, XVI, C, 1.

mortgage any franchise essentially corporate in its nature, and such as cannot be enjoyed by a natural person.[38]

i. Power to Mortgage After-Acquired Property — (I) When This Power Exists. Whenever a corporation has power to mortgage its property generally, it has, in the absence of any restraining statute, power to mortgage property to be by it thereafter acquired, in like manner as a natural person has.[39] Such mortgages are indeed invalid at law, it being a fundamental maxim of the common law that a man cannot grant or convey what he does not own.[40] But it has long been settled, both in England and this country, that courts of equity will uphold and give effect to such mortgages, in so far as they do not conflict with the rights of subsequent creditors and purchasers without notice.[41]

(II) When Railroads Have This Power. Where the power to mortgage their property and franchises has been expressly conferred upon railroad corporations, this is held to carry with it by a reasonable implication the same power to mortgage their after-acquired property that a natural person possesses.[42] For instance a railroad company which has power under its charter to pledge its property, franchises, rights, and credits may mortgage property to be by it subsequently acquired. The power to pledge its franchises and rights carries with it as an incident the power to pledge everything that may be necessary to the enjoyment of the franchise, and such a mortgage is good as against subsequent creditors.[43]

38. Joy v. Jackson, etc., Plank Road Co., 11 Mich. 155.

39. Carpenter v. Black Hawk Gold Min. Co., 65 N. Y. 43; Fisk v. Potter, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 138, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 64.

40. Massachusetts.—Low v. Pew, 108 Mass. 347, 11 Am. Rep. 357; Rice v. Stone, 1 Allen 566; Barnard v. Eaton, 2 Cush. 294; Moody v. Wright, 13 Metc. 17, 46 Am. Dec. 706; Jones v. Richardson, 10 Metc. 481; Winslow v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 4 Metc. 306, 38 Am. Dec. 368.

New Hampshire.—Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

New Jersey.— Looker v. Peckwell, 38 N. J. L. 253; Smithurst v. Edmunds, 14 N. J. Eq. 408.

New York.— Van Hoozer v. Cory, 34 Barb. 9; Seymour v. Canandaigua, etc., R. Co., 25 Barb. 284 (per E. D. Smith, J.); Otis v. Sill, 8 Barb. 102.

Ohio.— Chapman v. Weimer, 4 Ohio St. 481.

England.— Gale v. Burnell, 7 Q. B. 850, 10 Jur. 198, 14 L. J. Q. B. 340, 53 E. C. L. 850; Lunn v. Thornton, 1 C. B. 379, 9 Jur. 350, 14 L. J. C. P. 161, 50 E. C. L. 379; Robinson v. Macdonnell, 5 M. & S. 228. But a grant of a thing which the grantor has potentially, although not actually, is good. Grantham v. Hawley, Hob. 132. See also Chidell v. Galsworthy, 6 C. B. N. S. 471, 95 E. C. L. 471; Congreve v. Evetts, 2 C. L. R. 1253, 10 Exch. 298, 18 Jur. 655, 23 L. J. Exch. 273; Hope v. Hayley, 5 E. & B. 830, 2 Jur. N. S. 486, 25 L. J. Q. B. 155, 85 E. C. L. 830.

41. New Hampshire.— Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

New York.— Field v. New York, 6 N. Y. 179, 57 Am. Dec. 435.

Vermont.— Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452.

Wisconsin.— Pierce v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 24 Wis. 551, 1 Am. Rep. 203; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Fisher, 17 Wis. 114.

United States.— Pennock v. Coe, 23 How. 117, 16 L. ed. 436; Mitchell v. Winslow, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,673, 2 Story 630.

England.— Doe v. Pott, Dougl. (3d ed.) 710; Langton v. Horton, 1 Hare 549, 6 Jur. 910, 11 L. J. Ch. 299, 23 Eng. Ch. 549; Ex p. Cotton, 6 Jur. 1045; Metcalfe v. York, 1 Myl. & C. 547, 13 Eng. Ch. 547, 6 L. J. Ch. 65, 6 Sim. 224, 9 Eng. Ch. 224; Noel v. Bewley, 3 Sim. 103, 6 Eng. Ch. 103; Seabourne v. Powel, 2 Vern. 11.

The old cases on this subject are reviewed at length by Paige, J., in Otis v. Sill, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 102. See also White v. Carpenter, 2 Paige (N. Y.) 217; Matter of Howe, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 125, 19 Am. Dec. 395.

A covenant to give a mortgage on subsequently acquired property is equivalent to an equitable mortgage thereon, and good in equity, except as to subsequent purchasers without notice. Fletcher v. Morey, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,864, 2 Story 555; Pie v. Danbury, 3 Brown C. C. 595; Robertson v. Morton, 1 Dr. & W. 195; Metcalfe v. York, 1 Myl. & C. 547, 13 Eng. Ch. 547, 6 L. J. Ch. 65, 6 Sim. 224, 9 Eng. Ch. 224; Burn v. Burn, 3 Ves. Jr. 573. Where a railroad company executed and recorded a mortgage of all the lands it owned or should thereafter acquire, etc., and an agent of the company sold and conveyed land to the company, it was held that he must be deemed to have waived any claim to a vendor's lien for the price as against the mortgagees and those claiming under them. Fisk v. Potter, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 138, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 64.

42. Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484.

43. Phillips v. Winslow, 18 B. Mon. (Ky.) 431, 68 Am. Dec. 729. See further in confirmation and illustration of this doctrine

j. Mortgage or Pledge of Future Earnings. A railway or other corporation having a general power to mortgage may on like grounds make a valid mortgage or pledge of its future net earnings to raise money for the construction and equipment of its road or other property.[44] The validity of such mortgages is supported on the same ground which supports the validity of other mortgages of subsequently acquired property. They are necessarily good as against subsequent creditors, otherwise they would convey no preference, and would be of no value as security. A railroad company authorized by statute[45] to mortgage the income of its property may, in order to make the mortgage effectual, stipulate therein that upon default the trustee may take possession, operate the road, and receive its earnings.[46]

k. Power to Mortgage Subscriptions to Capital Stock. It is not perceived upon what tenable ground the power of a corporation to mortgage the subscriptions to the shares of its capital stock for the purpose of raising money to carry out the purposes of its creation can be denied; but it has been denied, although in a decision which seems open to challenge and criticism.[47]

Ludlow v. Hurd, 1 Disn. (Ohio) 522, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 791; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Woelpper, 64 Pa. St. 366, 3 Am. Rep. 596 (learned discussion by Sharswood, J., quoting with approval Covey v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 3 Phila. (Pa.) 173, 15 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 228, and distinguishing Roberts' Appeal, 60 Pa. St. 400). Also see Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518, which contains an elaborate discussion of the whole subject.

Effect of a mortgage of after-acquired property belongs to the subject of mortgages, and not specially to the subject of corporations. See, generally, MORTGAGES; and 5 Thompson Corp. § 6145. Effect of such a mortgage upon a subsequent vendor's lien see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6146, and cases cited. Whether such mortgages will cut under the liens of mechanics and materialmen see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6147, and cases cited.

44. Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Menzies, 26 Ill. 121; Dunham v. Isett, 15 Iowa 284; Jessup v. Bridge, 11 Iowa 572, 79 Am. Dec. 513. Such a mortgage was construed in Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Marlor, 123 U. S. 687, 8 S. Ct. 311, 31 L. ed. 303, the court sustaining an action against the corporation by a bondholder to recover annual interest in money, on failure of the company to exercise its option to pay in scrip. "We know of no law which prevents a corporation from leasing portions of its works or even causing some of its works to be built with an understanding with the contractor that he shall be permitted to reimburse himself by the receipt of the tolls arising from the same. The contractor in such case becomes the agent of the company, and it is responsible for his acts." Boykin v. Shaffer, 13 La. Ann. 129, per Merrick, C. J. [citing Rabassa v. Orleans Nav. Co., 5 La. 461, 25 Am. Dec. 200, which see]. That a railway company, having no express power in its charter so to do, cannot lawfully issue deferred income bonds see McCalmont v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 14 Phila. (Pa.) 479, 38 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 168.

45. In this case Minn. Gen. Stat. (1878), c. 34, § 70.

46. Seibert v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 52 Minn. 246, 53 N. W. 1151.

47. Morris v. Cheney, 51 Ill. 451. With respect to mortgages of uncalled capital such a power would have to be exercised in subjugation to the discretionary power of the directors to make calls; but where a call has already been made there is no clear ground upon which the power can be denied; for the call becomes a debt subject to garnishment (3 Thompson Corp. §§ 3578, 3579), and is consequently assignable for any lawful purpose of the corporation. That calls actually made may be assigned by way of mortgage or pledge see In re Sankey Brook Coal Co., L. R. 10 Eq. 381, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 784, 18 Wkly. Rep. 914; In re International L. Assur. Soc., L. R. 10 Eq. 312, 39 L. J. Ch. 667, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 350, 18 Wkly. Rep. 970. For the state of the English law upon this question see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6150 [citing and discussing the following cases: In re Sankey Brook Coal Co., L. R. 10 Eq. 381, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 784, 18 Wkly. Rep. 914; Matter of Companies Act, L. R. 6 P. C. 265, 44 L. J. P. C. 76, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 277, 23 Wkly. Rep. 668; King v. Marshall, 33 Beav. 565, 10 Jur. N. S. 921, 34 L. J. Ch. 163, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 557, 12 Wkly. Rep. 971; Howard v. Patent Ivory Mfg. Co., 38 Ch. D. 156, 57 L. J. Ch. 878, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 395, 36 Wkly. Rep. 801; English Channel Steamship Co. v. Rolt, 17 Ch. D. 715, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 135; In re Colonial Trusts Corp., 15 Ch. D. 465; Matter of Joint-Stock Co.'s Winding-up Acts, 4 De G. J. & S. 407, 69 Eng. Ch. 313; Re Colonial, etc., Gas Co., 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 759, 19 Wkly. Rep. 344]. The authority of the last case was denied by the privy council in Matter of Companies Act, L. R. 6 P. C. 265, 44 L. J. P. C. 76, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 277, 23 Wkly. Rep. 668. Mortgage of the "undertaking" in English law see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6151; 8 & 9 Vict. c. 16, §§ 2, 41, 42, and schedule (C); Gardner v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 Ch. 201, 36 L. J. Ch. 323, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 552, 15 Wkly. Rep. 324; King v. Marshall, 33 Beav. 565, 10 Jur. N. S. 921, 34 L. J.

l. Mortgages to Secure Future Advances. A corporation possessing power to mortgage its property can make a valid mortgage thereof to secure future advances.[48] Such mortgages are legal, and have priority over liens which do not intervene before the advance is made.[49]

m. Power of Corporation to Mortgage Its Real Property Situated in Another State. If a corporation has under its charter, under a statute subsisting in the state of its creation, or under the general principles of law as detailed in this article, the general power to mortgage its real estate, then it must be concluded that this power will enable it to mortgage its real estate situated in another state, unless such a mortgage is prohibited by the law of that state.[50] The law of the state creating the corporation determines whether it had power to mortgage its real property; everything relating to the execution and enforcement of the mortgage is governed by the local law where the property is situated. Where the trustees, under a deed of trust so executed, proceed to foreclose or otherwise enforce it in accordance with its terms, and in conformity with the common law, its enforcement will not be enjoined unless it can be shown that it was not executed in accordance with the law of the state where the property is, or that the proceedings to enforce it are in derogation of that law.[51]

n. Mortgages Prohibited by Statute — (I) Prohibition Against Selling Includes Prohibition Against Mortgaging. Plainly a statute prohibiting a corporation from selling its property includes by necessary implication a prohibition against mortgaging its property, since a mortgage may become by defeasance an absolute sale.[52]

(II) Doctrine That Mortgages in Violation of Statutory Prohibitions Are Void In Toto, and Not Severable. There is judicial authority to the effect that where there is a statute containing a general prohibition upon particular corporations as to mortgaging their property, a mortgage made in violation of it will be deemed void in toto, and the court will not separate particular arti-

Ch. 163, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 557, 12 Wkly. Rep. 971; In re Hull, etc., R. Co., 40 Ch. D. 119, 58 L. J. Ch. 205, 59 L. T. Rep. N. S. 877, 37 Wkly. Rep. 145. Unregistered debentures under English Companies Act see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6152; 25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, § 43; In re Patent Bread Machinery Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 289, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 228, 20 Wkly. Rep. 347; In re Wynn Hall Coal Co., L. R. 10 Eq. 515, 39 L. J. Ch. 695, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 348, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1128; Wright v. Horton, 12 App. Cas. 371, 52 J. P. 179, 56 L. J. Ch. 873, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 782, 36 Wkly. Rep. 17; In re International Pulp, etc., Co., 6 Ch. D. 556, 46 L. J. Ch. 625, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 351, 25 Wkly. Rep. 822; In re Borough of Hackney Newspaper Co., 3 Ch. D. 669; In re Native Iron Ore Co., 2 Ch. D. 345, 45 L. J. Ch. 517, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 777, 24 Wkly. Rep. 503; Re Globe New Patent Iron, etc., Co., 48 L. J. Ch. 295, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 580, 27 Wkly. Rep. 424.

48. Jones v. Guaranty, etc., Co., 101 U. S. 622, 25 L. ed. 1030. See on the general subject of mortgages to secure future advances or liabilities and their validity Brinkerhoff v. Marvin, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 320; Lansing v. Woodworth, 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 43; Lawrence v. Tucker, 23 How. (U. S.) 14, 16 L. ed. 474.

Mortgage to secure more than is due is valid as against subsequent creditors. Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75. See Irwin v. Tabb, 17 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 419.

49. Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 280. That a statute prohibiting such a mortgage will not be so construed as to avoid a mortgage made for the purpose of raising money to take up antecedent debts of the corporation see Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127. That a corporation may execute subsequent mortgages subject to the lien of prior mortgages until this power is exhausted see Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

50. Bassett v. Monte Christo Gold, etc., Min. Co., 15 Nev. 293; American Waterworks Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 72 Fed. 956, 20 C. C. A. 133. When therefore a corporation had mortgaged its property and franchises, situated both in the state of its creation and in an adjoining state, it was held that a court of the United States, sitting within the state of its creation, had jurisdiction of a bill in equity, filed by the beneficiary in the mortgage, to compel the trustees named therein to sell such of the property covered by the mortgage as was situated in the adjoining state. Randolph v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 11 Phila. (Pa.) 502, 33 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 221.

51. Central Gold Min. Co. v. Platt, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 263.

52. Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700. See also Mannhardt v. Illinois Staats Zeitung Co., 90 Ill. App.

cles of property from the residue and hold it good as to them; since the plain intent of the corporation is not to transfer the few articles separate from the entire mass of its property included within its mortgage, and the prohibition of the statute is general. But at the same time it is held that creditors, by accepting from a corporation a mortgage void on its face, that is, a mortgage which the corporation had no power to issue, do not thereby estop themselves from pursuing their ordinary legal remedies as general creditors against the corporation.[53]

(III) Mortgages to Secure Debts in Excess of Charter Limits. Where the charter or governing statute fixes a limit to the indebtedness which the corporation may contract, and to secure which it may mortgage its property, sound reasoning would seem to result in the conclusion that a mortgage in excess of such limits is void and not enforceable, unless made good by the principle of estoppel. Thus a statute of Georgia forbidding the mortgage of after-acquired property operates to prevent a corporation from making a valid mortgage upon its future income without express legislative authority.[54] One decision is found, however, to the effect that where the articles of incorporation fix a limit to the indebtedness which the corporation may contract, an indebtedness in excess of such limit and a mortgage securing the same are not void, although the directors creating the debt and the mortgage may be answerable to the shareholders for their negligence or breach of trust; and the sense of justice of the court was such as to hold that such a mortgage was not void, although made in favor of a director and to secure him in preference to other creditors.[55] Nor will the fact that the directors of a railroad company violated its charter by issuing mortgage bonds in an amount greater than twice its paid-up capital entitle its general creditors, who become such with notice of the mortgage, to share in the proceeds of the foreclosure sale on an equality with bona fide purchasers of the bonds.[56] Plainly, where only a portion of the debt secured by the mortgage exceeds the statutory limit, the mortgage will be good as a security for so much of the debt as is within the limit, but void for the excess only.[57]

(IV) Mortgages Issued Without Consent of Requisite Number of Shareholders—(A) Brief Statement of These Statutes. Statutes exist in many states restraining the power of corporations to mortgage their property to cases where shareholders of a given number or value consent thereto; and these statutes have given rise to a variety of decisions which will now be noticed. Where the statute prescribes the value of the shares of capital stock that must assent to a mortgage made by the corporation, and that the assent must be expressed by a vote had at a meeting of the shareholders called for the purpose, and that thirty days' notice must be given to the shareholders of the time and place of the meeting and of the purpose for which it is called, the execution of a mortgage by the corporation to secure a loan in any other manner than that prescribed by the statute is ultra vires, and (subject, it may be assumed, to qualifications elsewhere stated) a mortgage so executed is void.[58]

(B) Do Not Apply to Mortgages For Unpaid Purchase-Money. Such a statute does not apply to mortgages for unpaid purchase-money given contemporaneously with the reception by the corporation of the deed of conveyance of land which it has purchased.[59]

315. But to the contrary see supra, XVIII, B, 1, c.

53. Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700.

54. Lubroline Oil Co. v. Athens Sav. Bank, 104 Ga. 376, 30 S. E. 409.

55. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 1, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Garrett v. Burlington Plow Co., 70 Iowa 697, 29 N. W. 395, 59 Am. Rep. 461.

56. Fidelity Ins., etc., Co. v. West Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 138 Pa. St. 494, 21 Atl. 21, 21 Am. St. Rep. 911.

57. Bell, etc., Co. v. Kentucky Glass Works Co., 106 Ky. 7, 48 S. W. 440, 50 S. W. 2, 1092, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1089, 1684, 51 S. W. 180, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 133, 156.

58. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Casa Grande Stable Co., 128 Ala. 624, 29 So. 654.

59. Farmers' L. & T. Co v. Equity Gaslight Co., 84 Hun (N. Y.) 373, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 385 65 N. Y. St. 591. Similarly, see McMurray

(c) Assent May Be Given Contemporaneously With Execution of Mortgage. Where the statute recites that the written assent "shall first be filed," it is sufficiently complied with if the assent of the shareholders is given contemporaneously with the execution of the mortgage,[60] at least where the question arises as between the parties to the mortgage and their privies,— for example, between an assignee of the mortgage and a receiver of the corporation.[61]

(d) Such Assent May Be Given Subsequently if Intervening Rights Do Not Arise. Such assent, even if given after the execution of the mortgage, will validate the mortgage, if there are no intervening rights, even though the assent is not filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the mortgaged property is situated;[62] and as elsewhere seen[63] the want of such assent may be cured by a subsequent ratification.

(e) Such Assent Where All Shares Are Owned by One or by Two Persons. If more than two thirds of the capital stock is owned by one person of course he is competent to give the statutory consent;[64] and so the fact that there are but two shareholders assenting to the mortgage makes no difference, provided they own the requisite amount of shares.[65]

(f) Such Assent Where Corporation Attempts to Own Its Own Shares. If the corporation is itself the owner of a portion of its stock, assuming that there can be such a solecism as a corporation owning its own shares,[66] it cannot give the assent required by the statute; nor can the assenting shareholders be deemed to represent a proportionate amount of the stock owned by the corporation.[67]

(g) Such Assent Where Portion of Shares Have Not Been Paid For. The fact that a portion of the shares represented in the assent have not been paid for in full has been held immaterial.[68] Persons who have subscribed for shares and who hold offices in the company, but who have received no certificates and made no payment, as well as persons who have subscribed and made substantial payment for their shares, either in cash or in work, are shareholders for the purpose of giving their assent, although no certificate of shares has been issued to them.[69]

(h) Such Assent Where Corporation Has Assigned Its Shares as Security For Debt. If the corporation has made an assignment, absolute on its face, of certificates of stock owned by it, as collateral security for a debt, the shares thus transferred cannot be deducted from the whole number, in estimating whether the required consent has been given; but it seems that the assignee of the shares stands in the position of a shareholder and has a right to a vote upon the question of giving the mortgage.[70]

(i) Such Assent Given by Shareholders Owning Debt Intended to Be Secured. The fact that the consent was given by shareholders owning the debt intended to be secured by the mortgage does not invalidate the mortgage;

v. St. Louis Oil Mfg. Co., 33 Mo. 377; McComb v. Barcelona Apartment Assoc., 134 N. Y. 598, 31 N. E. 613, 45 N. Y. St. 784 [affirming 10 N. Y. Suppl. 546, 31 N. Y. St. 325].

60. Welch v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 122 N. Y. 177, 25 N. E. 269, 33 N. Y. St. 452; Everson v. Eddy, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 872, 36 N. Y. St. 763.

61. Welch v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 122 N. Y. 177, 25 N. E. 269, 33 N. Y. St. 452. The provision that the written assent "shall first be filed" is said to have merely the effect of preventing the mortgage from taking effect as a valid instrument until the assent is filed. Greenpoint Sugar Co. v. Kings County Mfg. Co., 7 Hun (N. Y.) 44 [affirmed in 69 N. Y. 328].

62. Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318 [affirming 44 Hun (N. Y.) 130, 8 N. Y. St. 265]; Rochester Sav. Bank v. Averell, 96 N. Y. 467. See also Lord v. Yonkers Fuel Gas Co., 99 N. Y. 547, 2 N. E. 909.

63. See supra, XV, B, 7, a, (I).

64. Martin v. Niagara Falls Paper Mfg. Co., 122 N. Y. 165, 25 N. E. 303, 33 N. Y. St. 318 [affirming 44 Hun (N. Y.) 130, 8 N. Y. St. 265].

65. Welch v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 122 N. Y. 177, 25 N. E. 269, 33 N. Y. St. 452.

66. As to which see supra, XVII, B, 5.

67. Vail v. Hamilton, 85 N. Y. 453.

68. Lyceum v. Ellis, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 867, 30 N. Y. St. 242.

69. McComb v. Barcelona Apartment Assoc., 134 N. Y. 598, 31 N. E. 613, 45 N. Y. St. 784 [affirming 10 N. Y. Suppl. 546, 31 N. Y. St. 325].

70. Vail v. Hamilton, 85 N. Y. 453.

because a corporation, unless prohibited, may become indebted to its own shareholders, and may give them security for the debt,[71] although such a circumstance will subject the transaction to judicial scrutiny. In such a case the mortgage will pass judicial scrutiny if the indebtedness proves to be genuine, and if the shareholders voting the execution of the mortgage are not individually benefited, for the reason that it does not increase the liability of the company to them;[72] and the same is true where a mortgage is made to a trustee of a corporation.[73]

(J) Such Statutes Mean Subscribed Stock and Not Merely Potential Stock. In determining the question whether the assent of two thirds of the capital stock has been given, the statute is construed to mean two thirds of the stock actually issued or actually subscribed for, and not two thirds of the nominal amount to which the capital of the company is limited in the certificate of incorporation. In other words it refers to its actual subscribed capital and not to its potential capital.[74]

(K) Sufficiency of Instrument Expressing Consent. The instrument expressing the consent of the shareholders will be sufficient if it contains reasonable evidence of the consent of two thirds of their number, and sufficiently identifies the mortgage to the making of which the assent is intended to be given; and the fact that the amount of indebtedness intended to be secured is not expressed in the assent has been held not to vitiate it.[75]

(L) Statutes Providing That Such Assent Must Be Given at Meeting Duly Notified in Manner Prescribed — (1) IN GENERAL. Other statutes have been devised to prevent unauthorized mortgages being laid upon the property of corporations without the consent of a stated majority of their shareholders, which provide that such consent must be given at a meeting, duly notified for that purpose, in a manner prescribed. Where the assent is not given in the prescribed manner the mortgage is void, unless rendered valid by principles elsewhere considered.[76]

(2) WHAT IF MEETING AUTHORIZES MORTGAGE FOR LARGER AMOUNT THAN THAT EXPRESSED IN NOTICE. Where such a statute forbade a manufacturing corporation from mortgaging its property, unless authorized thereto by a vote of its shareholders holding three fifths of its capital stock, who should be notified of the object of the meeting called to obtain such vote, and which provided that without such notice the proceedings should not be valid, it was held that where a meeting had been called pursuant to a notice which specified the object of the meeting to be to authorize the issue of bonds to the extent of one hundred thousand dollars secured by mortgage, and the meeting actually authorized an issue to the extent of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, the proceedings were valid, so long as the shareholders for whose protection the statute was intended raised no objection.[77]

(3) WHAT LANGUAGE IN NOTICE EXPRESSING OBJECT OF MEETING HAS BEEN HELD SUFFICIENT. Where the governing statute required the assent of the shareholders to be given "at a meeting called for the purpose,"[78] a notice given of a meeting, which stated the object to be "to consider the question of an issue of bonds of the company secured by a mortgage on its property," was held sufficient, although the notice did not especially indicate that final action was to be taken at the meeting. Nor did the fact that after the directors had been thus authorized

71. See supra, VI, F, 3, a.

72. Rittenhouse v. Winch, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 122, 32 N. Y. St. 506 [affirmed in 133 N. Y. 678, 31 N. E. 623, 45 N. Y. St. 931].

73. Welch v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 122 N. Y. 177, 25 N. E. 269, 33 N. Y. St. 452.

74. Greenpoint Sugar Co. v. Kings County Mfg. Co., 7 Hun (N. Y.) 44 [affirmed in 69 N. Y. 328].

75. Greenpoint Sugar Co. v. Kings County Mfg. Co., 7 Hun (N. Y.) 44 [affirmed in 69 N. Y. 328].

76. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Casa Grande Stable Co., 128 Ala. 624, 29 So. 654.

77. Beecher v. Marquette, etc., Rolling Mill Co., 45 Mich. 103, 7 N. W. 695.

78. As is done for example by Mass. Pub. Stat. c. 106, § 23.

to purchase certain land in which the corporation then had a leasehold estate, and to mortgage "any or all of the rights, estate, property, and franchises" of the corporation, the corporation acquired title to the lands in fee simple, invalidate the authorization. In other words a vote by the shareholders authorizing the directors to mortgage "any or all of the rights, estate, property, and franchises" of the corporation, gives them power to mortgage the land of which the corporation acquires the fee subsequently to the vote.[79]

(4) ASSENT GIVEN AT MEETING HELD OUTSIDE STATE — (a) IN GENERAL. It seems that this not being a constituent act the assent of the shareholders may well be given at a meeting held outside the state, unless the governing statute otherwise prescribes.[80]

(b) SHAREHOLDERS MAY WAIVE INFORMALITY OF HOLDING MEETING OUTSIDE STATE. Assuming that such a meeting cannot lawfully be held in a foreign jurisdiction, yet the question is one which goes to the form and mode of executing a power possessed by the corporation, and not to the existence of the power itself; and therefore, like any other matter relating to the manner of executing corporate powers, the informality may be waived, and the act ratified by the subsequent consent and acquiescence of all the shareholders.[81]

(M) Statute Requiring Such Assent to Sale Requires Such Assent to Mortgage. A statute prohibiting a corporation from making a conveyance of its real estate without a two-thirds vote of its shareholders renders invalid a mortgage of its real estate without such a vote; since a mortgage by a defeasance may ripen into an absolute sale.[82]

(N) Creditors Cannot Assail Corporate Mortgages on This Ground. It has been held that the creditors of a corporation cannot attack the validity of a mortgage executed by it, on the ground that it did not receive the consent of the holders of the amount of stock required by the charter; since such provision was enacted solely for the protection of the shareholders.[83]

(O) Nor Can Subsequent Purchasers. Nor can a subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged premises who assumes the mortgage debt and agrees to pay it.[84]

(P) Shareholders Alone Can Raise This Objection. Only shareholders can take advantage of a failure to comply with such a statute.[85]

(Q) Failing to File Written Assent in Office of Public Registration. It is not necessary, in order to the validity of the mortgage, to file the written authorization of the holders of more than two thirds in value of the shares, which is required by the statute, in the office of the clerk of the county within which the mortgaged property is situated.[86]

(R) Where Officers of Corporation Own More Than Statutory Amount of Shares. Where the officers of a corporation who join in executing a mortgage on its property own more than the statutory amount of the shares, their mere act of executing the mortgage is a sufficient assent to satisfy the requirements of the statute.[87]

(S) Consent Need Not Be That of Registered Shareholders. Original subscribers for the capital stock of a corporation need not have their holdings entered

79. Evans v. Boston Heating Co., 157 Mass. 37, 31 N. E. 698.

80. Thompson v. Natchez Water, etc., Co., 68 Miss. 423, 9 So. 821.

81. Stutz v. Handley, 41 Fed. 531 [reversed on other grounds in 139 U. S. 417, 11 S. Ct. 417, 35 L. ed. 227].

82. Mannhardt v. Illinois Staats Zeitung Co., 90 Ill. App. 315. See also Richardson v. Sibley, 11 Allen (Mass.) 65, 87 Am. Dec. 700. But to the contrary see supra, XVIII, B, 1, c.

83. Barrett v. Pollak Co., 108 Ala. 390, 18 So. 615, 54 Am. St. Rep. 172; Bishop v. Kent, etc., Co., 20 R. I. 680, 41 Atl. 255. See also Anderson v. Bullock County Bank, 122 Ala. 275, 25 So. 523.

84. Alvord v. Spring Valley Gold Co., 106 Cal. 547, 40 Pac. 27.

85. In re New York Economical Printing Co., 110 Fed. 514, 49 C. C. A. 133.

86. Hailey First Nat. Bank v. G. V. B. Mining Co., 89 Fed. 439.

87. G. V. B. Mining Co. v. Hailey First Nat. Bank, 95 Fed. 23, 36 C. C. A. 633 [modifying 89 Fed. 439].

in the stock-book required to be kept by statute, in order to make their consent to the execution of a mortgage by the corporation valid and effectual.[88]

(T) Statute Must Be Complied With, Although President and His Wife Own All Shares. It has been held that such a statute, requiring the consent of two thirds of the shareholders to the mortgage to be expressed in writing and filed in the office of the clerk or the register of the county where a corporation has its principal place of business, or else that it be given by a vote of the shareholders at a special meeting and a certificate thereof filed and recorded, must be complied with even with respect to a chattel mortgage given by the corporation and executed by its president to secure a debt owing by him and his wife for an amount in excess of the capital stock, although the president and his wife own all the stock, and the mortgagee holds fifty-five per cent of it as collateral security for the debt secured by the mortgage.[89]

(V) How Far Legislature May Validate Void Mortgages. But as it is within the competency of the legislature to authorize a corporation to mortgage or otherwise convey its property and franchises so the legislature of a state may, within the limits hereafter stated, by a curative act, validate such a conveyance, by waiving any public objections to the same; that is to say, "the legislature may waive the public right to object to the acts of others, because they are opposed to the public interests, and where any act is invalid for want of legislative assent, may waive the objection, and ratify such act by a subsequent statute."[90] But the legislature obviously cannot, by such a curative statute, change the rights of individuals in respect of such void mortgage or other conveyance, which have already become vested; but such rights are to be determined according to the laws in force when they accrued.[91] It cannot revive a void mortgage so as to give it precedence over a subsequent lien, which is by its terms made subject thereto, or in respect of which the subsequent lienor is entitled to stand in the position of an innocent purchaser.[92] Nor can it confirm a fraudulent foreclosure sale of the mortgaged property of a corporation.[93] Nor can the legislatures in many states pass special acts of this nature because of constitutional inhibitions.[94]

o. Fraudulent Corporate Mortgages — (I) Principles Governing This Subject. The question of fraud in mortgages given by corporations rests upon substantially the same considerations as in the case of other fraudulent conveyances.[95] There is, however, this peculiarity with respect to the question where the conveyance has been made by the corporation or by those who managed its affairs and contracted in its name, whether the mortgage is fraudulent as against creditors merely, or as against the corporation itself in the sense that shareholders may challenge and impeach it under principles already considered. If such a transaction is immoral and corrupt and injurious to the corporation, and consequently to its shareholders, then those shareholders who are not concerned in it may denounce it and repudiate it, and acting in behalf of the corporation may have relief against it in a court of equity.[96] A mortgage of the property of a corporation, void for want of authority and as creating a preference in favor of a

88. Hamilton Trust Co. v. Clemes, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 152, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 141.

89. Quee Drug Co. v. Plaut, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 607, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 52, action by mortgagor to have chattel mortgage and note set aside — relief granted.

90. Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127, 136 [citing Shaw v. Norfolk County R. Co., 5 Gray (Mass.) 162; Pierce v. Emery, 32 N. H. 484].

91. Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127 [citing Rich v. Flanders, 39 N. H. 304].

92. Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127, 137 [citing Rich v. Flanders, 39 N. H. 304].

93. White Mountains R. Co. v. White Mountains R. Co., 50 N. H. 50.

94. See supra, I, I, 1.

95. See, generally, FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

96. Wardell v. Union Pac. R. Co., 103 U. S. 651, 26 L. ed. 509 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,164, 4 Dill. 339]. That a mortgage made by a corporation after receiving a reconveyance of its property after a sale director, even as between the immediate parties thereto, does not create a trust in behalf of the creditors of the corporation to whom the sureties, sought to be indemnified by such mortgage, are bound; nor can such creditors take anything by subrogation, since the sureties have no right to which they can be subrogated.[97]

(II) When Bondholders Entitled to Equitable Compensation. But notwithstanding the fact that such a contract may be avoided by the corporation, or by its shareholders where the corporation fails or refuses to sue, under principles already stated,[98] equity will not for that reason deprive those who have advanced money to, or conferred benefits upon, the corporation under it, of their right to equitable compensation. For instance in the case above stated the holder of the bonds will be allowed, in a suit to foreclose the mortgage, to take a decree for the payment of the sums actually expended for construction under the contract and remaining unpaid, which were payable and paid in bonds thus declared void.[99]

(III) Mortgages to Shareholders. A mortgage by a corporation of its property to one of its shareholders is not invalid either at law or in equity, although the circumstance may subject it to greater scrutiny by a court of equity, the principle being that the corporation and the individual shareholders who compose it are distinct persons in law, and may deal with each other at arm's length.[1] It has been held that the fact that a person to whom a mortgage was executed by a corporation was the principal shareholder in such corporation does not render the mortgage invalid, and it cannot be impeached or its foreclosure resisted on that ground by one who contracted with the corporation for the purchase of the mortgaged property years after its execution, and while it was of record.[2]

p. Who May, and Who May Not, Impeach Void Corporate Mortgages — (I) Party For Whose Benefit Omitted Statutory Formalities Were Prescribed. Where a mortgage is voidable, by reason of the failure to comply with a statutory formality in its authorization or execution, then, upon the question of the right to impeach it, it will be necessary to consider for whose benefit the statutory formalities were prescribed. Where for instance the meeting of the shareholders called to authorize the giving of the mortgage was not notified of it had been set aside as an attempted embarrassment of the court in dealing with the corporate assets is void and will be set aside was held in Grant v. Lowe, 89 Fed. 881, 32 C. C. A. 379.

97. Lowry Banking Co. v. Empire Lumber Co., 91 Ga. 624, 17 S. E. 968.

98. See supra, XI, B, 7 et seq.

99. Thomas v. Brownville, etc., R. Co., 109 U. S. 522, 3 S. Ct. 315, 27 L. ed. 1018. That directors who make a contract with themselves will not be allowed to recover on the contract, but will be allowed in equity a quantum meruit, see Gardner v. Butler, 30 N. J. Eq. 702; Wardell v. Union Pac. R. Co., 103 U. S. 651, 26 L. ed. 509 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,164, 4 Dill. 339]. Action by a single shareholder to remedy the breach of trust of the president and general manager of a railway company in appropriating its bonds to the payment of the debts of other corporations. Chicago v. Cameron, 120 Ill. 447, 11 N. E. 899. Action by bondholders against corporation, grounded on fraud and deceit in issuing the bonds. Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 416, 21 Cinc. L. Bul. 103. Where a railroad company contracted with certain parties, who were associated together as a construction company, for the construction of a portion of its road, and agreed to make payment in its mortgage bonds, and two of its directors were beneficial parties in the contract, and as a part of the transaction the other contracting parties agreed to assume subscriptions by all individual directors of the railway company to its capital stock, which was worthless, and to relieve them from all liability under it, it was held that the contract was immoral and corrupt, and such as could not be enforced in equity; and that the mortgage bonds issued under it to the construction company were voidable at election of the parties affected by the fraud, save in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, and that they were consequently void in the hands of those who took them under circumstances which ought to have put them on inquiry as to their validity. Thomas v. Brownville, etc., R. Co., 109 U. S. 522, 3 S. Ct. 315, 27 L. ed. 1018. It has been held that where a railroad company which owns a majority of the stock of another such company procures the latter to issue bonds to it, furnishing a sufficient consideration therefor, and using no improper means to procure the issue, it is immaterial to the validity of the transaction that the former procured and used such bonds as security to float a loan made for its own exclusive benefit. Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 139 Pa. St. 13, 21 Atl. 211.

1. See supra, VI, F, 3, a.

2. Hanchett v. Blair, 100 Fed. 817, 41 C. C. A. 76.

in compliance with the statute, it was held that the mortgage could not for that reason be impeached by subsequent lien creditors, because the statutory provision was intended for the protection of the shareholders, and more especially where the corporation and shareholders had become estopped from impeaching it by the fact of the corporation having received and retained the benefits accruing under it.[3]

(II) When Subsequent Creditors Cannot. Subsequent creditors cannot impeach an executed contract of a corporation, where their dealings with it, of which they claim the benefit, occurred after the contract became executed.[4]

(III) When Subsequent Mortgagee Without Notice Can Attack Prior Mortgage Collaterally. But it has been held that where bonds, and a mortgage to secure the same, have been issued by a corporation without authority of law, such bonds and mortgage may be attacked collaterally by a subsequent mortgagee without notice, whose mortgage has not been taken subject to the existence of the prior lien. In such a case it is not a good argument that the corporation would be estopped to impeach the bonds and mortgage, and that a subsequent mortgagee could not have any higher or better title than its mortgagor could confer.[5]

(IV) When Second Mortgagee Cannot. But it is held that the second mortgagee cannot in such a case maintain a bill in equity to impeach the validity of a prior mortgage, for the reason that being void and subject to collateral attack as such by any party whose rights are thereby injuriously affected, the holders of the mortgage have no title which they can maintain against the subsequent mortgagee, and the latter has a plain, complete, and adequate remedy at law, for any interference with the mortgaged property.[6]

(V) Volunteer or Purchaser of Equity of Redemption. Where bonds of a corporation were pledged as collateral security for corporate notes instead of being sold for cash, it was held that the objection that this disposition was unlawful, while open to the corporation or its shareholders, was not open to one who held the property of the corporation under a voluntary conveyance, or by a purchaser of an equity of redemption in the property of the corporation at an execution sale.[7]

(VI) Creditor After Ratification—(A) In General. When a mortgage, informally executed, has become good, as to the corporation making it, by ratification, a creditor of the corporation, who became such after the lapse of a sufficient time from which to assume a ratification, cannot impeach it. He can have no higher right in this regard than the corporation through which he claims.[8]

(B) After Formal Mortgage Executed in Lieu of Informal One. So where certain members of a corporation mortgaged their interest in the corporation for money which was applied to corporate purposes, and the corporation afterward issued a formal mortgage of the corporate property in lieu of the same, this latter was held a good mortgage as against general creditors.[9]

(VII) Receiver Where Assent of Requisite Value of Shareholders Has Not Been Obtained. A receiver of a corporation, after it passes into

3. Campbell v. Argenta Gold, etc., Min. Co., 51 Fed. 1.

4. Porter v. Pittsburg Bessemer Steel Co., 120 U. S. 649, 7 S. Ct. 741, 30 L. ed. 830; Graham v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 102 U. S. 148, 26 L. ed. 106.

5. Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672.

6. Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672.

7. Beecher v. Marquette, etc., Rolling Mill Co., 45 Mich. 103, 7 N. W. 695, opinion by Cooley, J.

8. Accordingly where a mortgage of corporate property was made by a majority of the directors who had met for that purpose on an illegal day, and without notice of any kind to those directors who did not attend, it was held that a creditor who became such after the lapse of eight months, during which time the corporation did nothing to repudiate the mortgage, although the absent members had notice of its existence from the minutes, could not claim payment of his debt out of the proceeds of a sale of the corporate property. Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 26 Am. Dec. 75.

9. Head v. Horn, 18 Cal. 211.

insolvency, has a standing in court to maintain an action to set aside a mortgage executed by it without the requisite consent of its shareholders, because he does not stand merely in the shoes of the corporation, but is also a representative of its general creditors.[10]

(VIII) STRANGERS TO TITLE OF MORTGAGED LAND. Where a corporation has mortgaged its land to secure a debt due to an individual, and a suit is brought to enjoin the removal of timber from the land, to which suit the corporation is a party, strangers to the title cannot question the power of the corporation to execute the mortgage.[11]

(IX) WHEN TRUSTEE IN BANKRUPTCY CANNOT. Where the directors of a corporation borrowed money of defendant and executed a deed as security, it was held that the fact that the corporation kept no record of their meetings constituted no ground for annulling the deed at the instance of a trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation.[12]

q. Estoppels With Respect to Corporate Mortgages — (I) CORPORATION ESTOPPED TO REPUDIATE ITS OWN MORTGAGE AFTER RECEIVING AND APPROPRIATING BENEFIT. A corporation, after having borrowed money on a mortgage of its property, and applied the money so raised to its corporate uses, will not be heard to deny the authority of its directors or their agents to execute the mortgage.[13] Accordingly it was held no defense to a bill to foreclose a mortgage of corporate property that the persons who executed the mortgage were not directors of the company, or authorized to bind the company by it, it being admitted that the corporation got the benefit of the money advanced to it.[14]

(II) ESTOPPED TO IMPEACH ITS OWN TITLE TO MORTGAGED PROPERTY. On stronger grounds, where a corporation has exceeded its powers in acquiring property which it has afterward mortgaged, it cannot defeat the title of its mortgagee by setting up its want of power to acquire the property. A corporation will not be allowed thus to impeach its own executed contracts, and to take advantage of its own wrong. Neither can its mortgagee, who has sold the property under the mortgage, excuse himself on such a ground from crediting the corporation with the proceeds of the sale.[15]

r. Other Holdings With Respect to Corporate Mortgages. A deed of trust conveying the real property of a corporation is not rendered invalid by a provision therein that it shall not operate to prevent the corporation from using or expending its moneys and assets in extending its work; since such provision refers merely to money and personal assets which are not included in the mortgage; or by a provision that the mortgaged premises may be sold or exchanged by the corporation when it will not decrease the security; since the reservation of such a power does not invalidate the right to convey.[16] The question of the illegality of the purpose for which a corporation was originally formed cannot be raised in a suit to foreclose a mortgage upon its property, where the mortgage was made while the corporation had power to make it, and where the illegality

10. Vail v. Hamilton, 85 N. Y. 453.

11. Collins v. Rea, 127 Mich. 273, 86 N. W. 811.

12. Murray v. Beal, 23 Utah 548, 65 Pac. 726.

13. Illinois.— West v. Madison County Agricultural Bd., 82 Ill. 205; Aurora Agricultural, etc., Soc. v. Paddock, 80 Ill. 263; Ottawa Northern Plank Road Co. v. Murray, 15 Ill. 336.

Iowa.— Beach v. Wakefield, 107 Iowa 567, 76 N. W. 688, 78 N. W. 197.

Missouri.— Tyrrell v. Cairo, etc., R. Co., 7 Mo. App. 294.

New Jersey.— De Kay v. Voorhis, 36 N. J. Eq. 37.

Vermont.— Langdon v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 53 Vt. 228.

Washington.— Circumstances under which a corporation could not be heard in a court of equity to plead its former incapacity to lend money on mortgage. Blair v. Metropolitan Sav. Bank, 27 Wash. 192, 67 Pac. 609.

United States.— Dimpfel v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,918, 9 Biss. 127, opinion by Drummond, J.

14. Ottawa Northern Plank Road Co. v. Murray, 15 Ill. 336.

15. Parish v. Wheeler, 22 N. Y. 494.

16. In re New Memphis Gaslight Co. Cases, 105 Tenn. 268, 60 S. W. 206.

was wholly extrinsic to the mortgage.[17] Where a banking corporation takes a mortgage from a manufacturing corporation whereby it agrees to carry on the business of the mortgagor, the agreement being ultra vires and void under the banking corporation's governing statute and articles of incorporation, the mortgagee bank is not liable for a breach of the contract in the mortgage for the sale of the goods, made by the mortgagor corporation or its agent.[18] The validity of a corporate mortgage is not affected by the fact that it was made while the corporation was inchoate, before it had perfected its legal organization by filing its final certificate, provided it was actually engaged in business as a de facto corporation, and afterward became a corporation de jure and received and enjoyed the benefits accruing from the mortgage.[19]

2. AUTHORITY OF MINISTERIAL OFFICERS TO EXECUTE — a. Authorization by Directors — (I) IN GENERAL. The ministerial officers of a corporation, for example, the president and the cashier, have presumptively no authority to take so important a step as the execution of a mortgage of the property of the corporation; but an authorization from the board of directors must in some form appear. Where the governing statute of the corporation provides that all the affairs, concerns, and property of the corporation shall be managed by a board of directors, a mortgage of corporate realty, although formally executed by the president and cashier of the company, is voidable, if it is shown that these officers had no authority from the board of directors so to execute it.[20] On principles elsewhere considered,[21] an authorization by the directors to the ministerial officers of the corporation, to execute even so important an instrument as a mortgage of its properties, need not be shown by any formal resolution of their board;[22] but the presence of the corporate seal upon the instrument, with the signatures of the proper officers, generally the president and secretary, is presumptive evidence that the proper precedent authority had been given.[23] If such officers execute the instrument with the knowledge and concurrence of the directors, or with their subsequent and long-continued acquiescence, it will be regarded as the act of the corporation, although there was no precedent authority by a formal resolution or vote.[24] Moreover the existence of the resolution may be proved by circumstances; and the fact that it has not been recorded in the proper corporate book will not render the mortgage invalid, provided it has been executed by its president and secretary with the corporate seal attached.[25] Still less is it necessary that a corporate vote, authorizing the execution of a mortgage deed in its behalf, should be evidenced by an instrument under the seal of the corporation; since it is not like an ordinary power of attorney to convey land. Nor is it necessary that such a vote should be recorded with the deed, as in the case of an ordinary conveyance under power of attorney.[26]

(II) WHERE THERE ARE NO DIRECTORS. If the articles of incorporation do not provide for a board of directors, and if in fact there are no directors, then the executive officers of the corporation to whom the management of its business is committed by the articles may, with the consent of the other shareholders, exercise the power of the corporation of mortgaging its property.[27]

17. Dickerman v. Northern Trust Co., 176 U. S. 181, 20 S. Ct. 311, 44 L. ed. 423 [affirming 80 Fed. 450, 25 C. C. A. 549].

18. Blitz v. Commonwealth Bank, 55 S. W. 697, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1554.

19. Forest Glen Brick, etc., Co. v. Gade, 55 Ill. App. 181.

20. Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec. 728.

21. See supra, XII, A, 2 et seq.

22. Sherman v. Fitch, 98 Mass. 59. Doctrine recognized in England v. Dearborn, 141 Mass. 590, 6 N. E. 837.

23. Schallard v. Eel River Steam Nav. Co., 70 Cal. 144, 11 Pac. 590; Southern California Colony Assoc. v. Bustamente, 52 Cal. 192. See also supra, X, D, 1, j; XII, A, 2 et seq.

24. Sherman v. Fitch, 98 Mass. 59, opinion by Wells, J.

25. Schallard v. Eel River Steam Nav. Co., 70 Cal. 144, 11 Pac. 590.

26. Beckwith v. Windsor Mfg. Co., 14 Conn. 594.

27. Bell, etc., Co. v. Kentucky Glass Works Co., 106 Ky. 7, 48 S. W. 440, 50 S. W. 2, 1092, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1089, 1684, 51 S. W. 180, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 133, 156.

(III) Where Executive Officers Are Invested With All Functions of Directors and Directors Are Entirely Inactive. Where the shareholders of a corporation, by their direct act or acquiescence, invest the executive officers of the company with the powers and functions of the board of directors as a continuous and permanent arrangement, the board being entirely inactive, and the officers discharging all its duties, a mortgage on the property of the corporation, made and executed in its behalf by such officers, is valid, although not authorized by any vote of the shareholders or directors.[28]

b. Must Take Place at Meeting Duly Assembled — (I) In General. But in the absence of circumstances of assent and acquiescence such as may afford circumstantial or presumptive evidence of a precedent authorization, then on principles already discussed[29] the directors can give a valid authorization of so important a measure as a mortgage of the property of the corporation, only when acting and consulting together as a board, duly assembled; and if the charter prescribes five members as necessary to a quorum, a mortgage authorized by a resolution passed by the board when but four members are present will be a nullity.[30] So if the meeting is not assembled in conformity with the requirements of the by-laws a mortgage authorized at the meeting will be invalid unless there is a ratification by the subsequent approval of the minutes of the meeting at another valid meeting of the board, or unless there is a ratification in some other form.[31]

(II) Place of Meeting of Board — (A) Outside State. As the execution of a mortgage is not what is called a constituent act, that is, an act affecting the organization of the corporation itself, but a mere business act, it may, unless the charter or governing statute otherwise provides, be authorized and executed at a meeting held outside the state in which the corporation was created;[32] but it is not so where the charter or governing statute of the corporation forbids meetings of its directors to be held outside the limits of the state within which it is created and exists, but such a mortgage is void, although the corporation is organized to do business in the state where the mortgaged property is situated, and the mortgage is made to secure its only creditor in that state and to procure the means to continue its business.[33]

(B) At What Place Within State. The fact that a mortgage is executed by the officers of the corporation having authority in the premises, at a distance from its home office, will not invalidate it where it is not repudiated by the directors within a reasonable time.[34]

(III) Notice of Meeting — (A) Necessity of Notice to All Directors Where Meeting Is Not Stated Meeting — (1) General Rule. On principles already discussed,[35] if the authorization takes place at other than a stated meeting of the board of directors, notice must be given to all the directors, and all must have a right to appear and be consulted, in order to the validity of the authorization; since, if any other rule were allowed to prevail, it would be possible, with a board of twelve members, for four directors to convene a meeting of seven, by giving notice to three, and withholding it from five others, and thus to bind the corporation by an act which has been in fact condemned by eight, that is to say, by two thirds of the full board.[36] The fact that a mortgage was made, not on a charter day or a day appointed by law, but at a special meeting convened without

28. Cunningham v. German Ins. Bank, 101 Fed. 977, 41 C. C. A. 609.

29. See supra, IX, E, 1, a et seq.

30. Coryell v. New Hope Delaware Bridge Co., 9 N. J. Eq. 457.

31. Curtin v. Salmon River Hydraulic Gold Min., etc., Co., 130 Cal. 345, 62 Pac. 552, 80 Am. St. Rep. 132.

32. Hervey v. Illinois Midland R. Co., 28 Fed. 169.

33. Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560.

34. Hailey First Nat. Bank v. G. V. B. Mining Co., 89 Fed. 439.

35. See supra, IV, D, 2 et seq.; IX, F, 3, a et seq.

36. Paola, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County Com'rs, 16 Kan. 302 [cited with approval in Little Rock Bank v. McCarthy, 55 Ark. 473, 478, 18 S. W. 759, 29 Am. St. Rep. 60].

notice, verbal or written, to those directors who did not attend, did not enable a subsequent creditor to impugn the mortgage and claim the proceeds of a sale of the mortgaged property.[37] The failure to give notice of the meeting becomes immaterial, when all the persons having any beneficial interest as shareholders in the property of the corporation ratify the act with full knowledge.[38]

(2) Exception to Rule. Where a corporate mortgage was challenged on the ground that its directors had not been duly notified, it was conceded by the objecting counsel "that a director cannot put a stop to corporate business by simply leaving its jurisdiction; and that, if after a reasonable search, the parties are unable to find him, the remaining directors may attend to the necessary affairs"; and this concession was quoted with approval by the court. This indicated to the court that an exception to the rule which requires a notice to all the directors might arise upon a concurrence of three conditions: (1) The impracticability of the notice; (2) the existence of an emergency for action; and (3) a reasonable necessity for the action taken. When therefore a mortgage of the property of a corporation had been executed by a majority of its directors, at a meeting of which an absent director had no notice, the conclusion was that it was not binding, in the absence of a showing that it was impracticable to give notice, and that an emergency existed demanding the immediate execution of the instrument.[39]

(3) Mortgagee Not Chargeable With Knowledge Whether or Not Notice Was Given. It has been held that the validity of a corporate mortgage executed by two of three directors is not affected by the fact that no notice of the meeting of directors was given to the third director, in the absence of knowledge by the mortgagee of want of such notice, as he is not bound to examine into the subject.[40]

(B) Notice Must Be Personal Notice. The kind of notice which is to be given, in the absence of a statutory prescription, has been already stated.[41] It must be a personal notice to each director; and a written notice left at the usual place of residence of a director, during the temporary absence of himself and family, has been held insufficient.[42]

c. Authority of General Agents, Superintendents, and Executive Committees. It may be conceded that the general agent of a manufacturing corporation, in one instance a person who held the two offices of president and treasurer, has no power to mortgage all its personal property, except its book-accounts, to secure the payment of a preëxisting debt, without a previous authority communicated in some form expressly or tacitly.[43] But on the other hand where such a corporation loosely commits all its business affairs to a superintendent, and he executes a chattel mortgage to secure a depositor who threatens to withdraw his deposit, the mortgage will be sustained so as to allow the depositor a preference on final distribution after insolvency.[44] Again where the constitution of an association for the promotion of agricultural fairs provided for the election of an executive committee, to be composed of three members of the board of directors, who should be "competent to transact any official business, unless otherwise instructed," and such committee was especially instructed to negotiate a loan, it was held that they possessed the power to make a mortgage to secure the loan, not by virtue of the special instruction, but under a general power in the constitution.[45]

37. Gordon v. Preston, 1 Watts (Pa.) 385, 387, 26 Am. Dec. 75, opinion by Gibson, C. J.

38. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375.

39. Little Rock Bank v. McCarthy, 55 Ark. 473, 18 S. W. 759, 29 Am. St. Rep. 60.

40. Kuser v. Wright, 52 N. J. Eq. 825, 31 Atl. 397.

41. See supra, IV, D, 12.

42. Little Rock Bank v. McCarthy, 55 Ark. 473, 18 S. W. 759, 29 Am. St. Rep. 60.

43. England v. Dearborn, 141 Mass. 590, 6 N. E. 837. Compare supra, X, C, 3, a et seq.

44. Poole v. West Point Butter, etc., Assoc., 30 Fed. 513.

45. Taylor v. West Alabama Agricultural, etc., Assoc., 68 Ala. 229.

d. Status of Mortgages Executed Without Proper Authority. The natural suggestion upon this subject would be that a mortgage executed without proper authority is, like any other act done by an assumed agent without proper authority, in the absence of a ratification or of circumstances of estoppel, void.[46]

e. Circumstances Which Do Not Invalidate Corporate Mortgages. A mortgage given by a corporation is not rendered invalid by the fact that the instrument fails to show the authority of the officers of the corporation to borrow the money to secure which the mortgage was executed; since, the corporation having received the money, such authority will be presumed.[47] Nor is a chattel mortgage rendered invalid by the circumstance that it was acknowledged three days before the passage of the resolution by which its execution was authorized, where it was not delivered and filed for record until after the passage of the resolution.[48]

f. Construction of Various Resolutions of Directors and of Other Instruments Authorizing Corporate Mortgages. An express authority conferred by the shareholders upon the ministerial officers of the corporation to prepare and execute mortgages for the purpose of borrowing money carries with it an implied authority to prepare and execute bonds for the payment of the money as one of the usual evidences of the loan, and the execution of the mortgages reciting the bonds is tantamount to a ratification of them.[49] Authority conferred by a corporation upon its president to execute a mortgage does not carry with it by implication an authority to execute, in addition thereto, a collateral undertaking with a second lien to a stranger.[50] The omission in the resolution of the corporation to state who the president is, or who it is that is authorized to execute and deliver the mortgage as president of the corporation, is cured by the authentication and seal of the corporation affixed to the mortgage purporting to be executed by him as president and in its name.[51] A resolution of the board of directors of a corporation that the bonds ordered to be issued shall be secured by mortgage, "with the usual covenants and agreements to fully secure the payment of said bonds," authorizes the insertion of a covenant that the trustee shall be entitled to just compensation and shall be reimbursed for all necessary expenditures, "including expenses of all necessary attorneys, counsel, or agents in and about said trust."[52] Others will be briefly noted in the margin.[53]

g. Mortgages Made by Promoters Prior to Organization. If the promoters of a private corporation assume to act as directors before the corporation has been regularly organized, and in that character issue bonds of the supposed corporation and make a mortgage securing them, and if, after the company has become organ-

46. Broughton v. Jones, 120 Mich. 462, 79 N. W. 691 (chattel mortgage executed without meeting of shareholders, and it not being shown that all of them consented thereto, treated as void); Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560 (mortgage authorized at a meeting of the directors held outside the state contrary to the charter).

47. Turner v. Kingston Lumber Co., 106 Tenn. 1, 58 S. W. 854 [affirming (Tenn. Ch. App. 1900, 59 S. W. 410].

48. Gilbert v. Sprague, 88 Ill. App. 508.

49. Pomeroy v. New York Smelting, etc., Co., (N. J. Ch. 1901) 48 Atl. 395.

50. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. American Bangor Slate Co., 203 Pa. St. 6, 52 Atl. 40.

51. Gilbert v. Sprague, 88 Ill. App. 508.

52. Southern California Motor Road Co. v. Union L. & T. Co., 64 Fed. 450, 12 C. C. A. 215.

53. Alabama.— Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster, 62 Ala. 555, what language authorizes the insertion of a provision for a foreclosure upon default of payment of interest for six months.

Indiana.— Greensburgh, etc., Turnpike Co. v. McCormick, 45 Ind. 239, holding that a resolution authorizing a mortgage of the whole authorizes a mortgage of part.

Iowa.— Shaver v. Hardin, 82 Iowa 378, 48 N. W. 68, what language authorizes the giving of a new note for old indebtedness and the execution of a mortgage securing it.

Maine.— Fitch v. Lewiston Steam Mill Co., 80 Me. 34, 12 Atl. 732, language sufficient to confer authority, especially after eight years' recognition of the corporation.

England.— Howard v. Patent Ivory Mfg. Co., 38 Ch. D. 156, 57 L. J. Ch. 878, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 395, 36 Wkly. Rep. 801, holding that authority to mortgage all or any part of the company's "properties or rights" authorizes a mortgage of uncalled capital.

ized, the directors authorize a sale of the bonds and a delivery of the mortgage, this will be equivalent to an original authority to issue the bonds and to execute the mortgage, and will render the question of the power of the promoters to bind the future corporation immaterial.[54]

h. Ratification of Informal or Invalid Corporate Mortgages. This question depends upon principles already considered and amplified.[55] It is therefore thought sufficient for the present purpose to refer to some additional decisions in the marginal note.[56]

i. Release of Corporate Mortgages. The president of a corporation has no power by virtue of his office to release a mortgage given to the corporation, without a general or special authorization.[57]

54. Wood v. Whelen, 93 Ill. 153. The validity of bonds and mortgage securing the same, issued by a defectively organized corporation, was established in Bergan v. Porpoise Fishing Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 397, 8 Atl. 523 [reversing 41 N. J. Eq. 238, 3 Atl. 404]. Similarly see Burhop v. Milwaukee, 21 Wis. 257.

55. See supra, XV.

56. Cozart v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 54 Ga. 379; Richards v. Merrimack, etc., R. Co., 44 N. H. 127. Such a mortgage is not ratified by the mere act of levying an assessment upon shareholders to pay the debt secured. Alta Silver Min. Co. v. Alta Placer Min. Co., 78 Cal. 629, 21 Pac. 373. Such a mortgage, where the power of directors to make it is disputed, is ratified by the act of the shareholders at a subsequent annual meeting, approving the minutes of the board of directors which authorized the borrowing of the money and the giving of the mortgage. Aurora Agricultural, etc., Soc. v. Paddock, 80 Ill. 263. Ratification by acquiescence until the money is expended. Browning v. Mullins, 13 S. W. 427, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 41. That the prior assent of the directors to the execution of a mortgage by the president and secretary, without a formal meeting of the board, with full knowledge of the facts, will be equivalent to a ratification by the board was held in Nevada Nickel Syndicate v. National Nickel Co., 96 Fed. 133. Circumstances under which a long delay by the shareholders to bring an action for the cancellation of the bonds and mortgage deed of trust securing them does not cut off their right to equitable relief. Chicago v. Cameron, 120 Ill. 447, 11 N. E. 899. Proceedings for the judicial confirmation of the validity of bonds of irrigating districts, under Cal. Stat. (1889), p. 212, see Modesto Irr. Dist. v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237. When a ratification of a part of such a transaction as the creation of the debt and the giving of a note for it ratifies the whole and confirms the mortgage see Krider v. Western College, 31 Iowa 547.

57. Smith v. Smith, 117 Mass. 72. Where a mortgage deed of trust only authorizes the trustee to release certain water rights on their sale for a specified price, on the price being paid to the trustee to apply on the mortgage, a release is invalid unless made in furtherance of such a sale. Lamar Land, etc., Co. v. Belknap Sav. Bank, 28 Colo. 344, 64 Pac. 210, holding further that where a trust deed given by a land company authorizes the trustee to release water claims sold by the company, on receipt of the price to apply on the mortgage, and no water rights are sold, but the trustee advances money to pay interest on the mortgage, a release of such water rights by the trustee to the mortgagor or its successors, after a repayment of such interest to the trustee, is wrongful; since the payment of the interest is for the protection of the mortgagor or its successors. Release of a mortgage given to a corporation, executed by its officers fraudulently and without authority, does not bind the corporation. Olney Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Rush, 97 Ill. App. 349. Where the treasurer of a savings-bank, who had been authorized by a vote of the trustees to discharge and release mortgages, fraudulently interpolated in the record of the vote the word "assign" between the words "discharge" and "release," it was held that as between the bank and one who, misled by the record, took an assignment of a mortgage for value and in good faith the bank must bear the loss. Holden v. Phelps, 141 Mass. 456, 5 N. E. 815.

Other incidents of corporate mortgages.— Filing for record and recording, under New York statutes. Guaranty Trust Co. v. Troy Steel Co., 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 484, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 915. Filing copy of articles of incorporation in county where the mortgaged land is situated not necessary under California statutes. Savings, etc., Soc. v. McKeon, 120 Cal. 177, 52 Pac. 305 [distinguishing California Sav., etc., Soc. v. Harris, 111 Cal. 133, 43 Pac. 525; Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66]. That notice to the secretary of a building and loan association, who is also president of a bank, acquired while acting as president of the bank, of a prior unrecorded mortgage on property on which the building association accepted mortgages a year later, is not of itself notice to the building association of the prior mortgage see Asbury Park Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Shepherd, (N. J. Ch. 1901) 50 Atl. 65. Advances made on condition that the lender have control of the corporation not fraudulent in law. Kitchen v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co.,

j. Equitable Liens and Mortgages — (i) In General. If a corporation or its directors have power in a given case to create a mortgage or pledge of the company's property to secure a debt, and the instruments by which it is sought to carry into effect this intention are imperfectly executed, equity will give effect to them and hold them a valid pledge upon the property, on the familiar principle that what is agreed to be done is considered as done.[58] An obvious exception to this doctrine is that it cannot be invoked to the prejudice of subsequent creditors and bona fide purchasers without notice. But the mere fact that the money advanced by a creditor was to meet the most pressing necessities of the corporation, and was used for the most meritorious corporate purposes, does not necessarily create an equitable lien in favor of such creditor as against prior mortgagees. It was so held where a creditor had advanced moneys for the payment of interest on the debentures of the corporation, and for taxes, and for the purchase of its right of way.[59]

(ii) Equity Will Give Effect to Informal Corporate Mortgage Against Subsequent Purchaser With Notice. This results from the principle of the preceding paragraph. Thus a mortgage made by the president of a corporation, in pursuance of authority thereto, and executed by him without the formality of the corporate seal, will receive effect in equity, as against the holders of bonds under subsequent mortgages, who have notice through their respective trustees of the first encumbrance.[60]

(iii) When Equity Will Reform Informal Corporate Mortgages. So the power which courts of equity possess to reform a deed to make it conform to the agreement of the parties will be exercised to reform a deed of trust of corporate property intended to be the deed of the corporation, but executed by its officers in their own names.[61] Accordingly where a corporate mortgage was not executed in the corporate name, but showed on its face that it was the mortgage of the corporation, a decree foreclosing it was sustained.[62]

XIX. TORTS AND CRIMES OF CORPORATIONS.

A. Civil Liability of Corporations For Torts — 1. General Rule That Corporations Are Liable For Torts of Their Agents. Disregarding ancient theories and fictions the modern law is that whenever the agent of a corporation, proceeding within the general scope of its powers and of the powers delegated by it to him, commits a wrong, the corporation must pay damages to the person injured, just as a natural person would be compelled to do under like circumstances.[63]

69 Mo. 224. That the trustee in a corporate mortgage may under the general principles of equity maintain a suit to cancel a lease executed by the officers of the corporation upon the mortgaged premises at a time when the corporation is in default in the payment of interest, which lease is made in opposition to the wishes of a majority of the shareholders, see Guardian Trust Co. v. White Cliffs Portland Cement, etc., Co., 109 Fed. 523. That a proviso in a mortgage securing corporate bonds that if the interest should be in default for ninety days the whole of the principal of all outstanding bonds should become due should not be construed as requiring the option to be exercised by all of the bondholders was held in Atlantic Trust Co. v. Crystal Water Co., 72 N. Y. App. Div. 539, 76 N. Y. Suppl. 647. That a debt arising from the assumption of a mortgage by a corporation, and an agreement to pay it as part of the purchase-money of the mortgaged land, is not a mortgage debt of the corporation was held in Barron v. Burrill, 86 Me. 72, 29 Atl. 938. Complication of circumstances under which the bondholders of a corporation were entitled to recover back one thousand shares of the corporate stock wrongfully diverted by the shareholders see Great Western Min., etc., Co. v. Harris, 111 Fed. 38.

58. Matter of Strand Music Hall Co., 3 De G. J. & S. 147, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 177, 14 Wkly. Rep. 6, 68 Eng. Ch. 113.

59. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

60. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Talman, 15 Ala. 472 (instrument not signed or sealed by the company itself, but by the agent merely); Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452.

61. West v. Madison County Agricultural Bd., 82 Ill. 205.

62. Ottawa Northern Plank Road Co. v. Murray, 15 Ill. 336.

63. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sykes, 96 Ill. 162 [with which compare Illi-

2. Are Liable on Same Footing as Individuals. It is but another way of stating the doctrine under consideration to say that private corporations, in respect of their liability for the acts of their agents or servants, stand before the law on the same footing as individuals.[64] nois Cent. R. Co. v. Downey, 18 Ill. 259; Arasmith v. Temple, 11 Ill. App. 39; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 9 Ill. App. 632]; Northwestern R. Co. v. Hack, 66 Ill. 238; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dickson, 63 Ill. 151, 14 Am. Rep. 114.

Massachusetts.— Haskell v. New Bedford, 108 Mass. 208; Hawks v. Charlemont, 107 Mass. 414; Oliver v. Worcester, 102 Mass. 489, 3 Am. Rep. 485; Bigelow v. Randolph, 14 Gray 541; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83; Thayer v. Boston, 19 Pick. 511, 31 Am. Dec. 157; Baker v. Boston, 12 Pick. 184, 22 Am. Dec. 421; Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35.

Missouri.— Alexander v. Relfe, 74 Mo. 495.

New York.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30.

Ohio.— Cincinnati v. Penny, 21 Ohio St. 499, 8 Am. Rep. 73; Western College v. Cleveland, 12 Ohio St. 375; Crawford v. Delaware, 7 Ohio St. 459; Rhodes v. Cleveland, 10 Ohio 159, 36 Am. Dec. 82; Scovil v. Geddings, 7 Ohio 211, Pt. II; Goodloe v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio 500, 22 Am. Dec. 764.

Pennsylvania.— Chestnut Hill, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Rutter, 4 Serg. & R. 6, 8 Am. Dec. 675.

United States.— Clark v. Washington, 12 Wheat. 40, 6 L. ed. 544.

England.— Smith v. Birmingham, etc., Gas Light Co., 1 A. & E. 526, 3 L. J. K. B. 165, 3 N. & M. 771, 28 E. C. L. 254; Yarborough v. Bank of England, 16 East 6, 14 Rev. Rep. 272.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1903.

The scope of the liability and the reasons supporting it are clearly stated by Shaw, C. J., in Thayer v. Boston, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 511, 31 Am. Dec. 157.

64. Alabama.— Jordan v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 74 Ala. 85, 49 Am. Rep. 800.

Connecticut.— Goodspeed v. East Haddam Bank, 22 Conn. 530, 58 Am. Dec. 439.

Delaware.— Wilson v. Rockland Mfg. Co., 2 Harr. 67.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hammer, 72 Ill. 347; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Read, 37 Ill. 484, 87 Am. Dec. 260; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353.

Indiana.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Ruby, 38 Ind. 294, 10 Am. Rep. 111.

Iowa.— Donaldson v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 18 Iowa 280, 87 Am. Dec. 391.

Kansas.— Wheeler, etc., Co. v. Boyce, 36 Kan. 350, 59 Am. Rep. 571; Western News Co. v. Wilmarth, 33 Kan. 510; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Little, 19 Kan. 267; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Kessler, 18 Kan. 523; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Weaver, 16 Kan. 456; Leavenworth, etc., R. Co. v. Rice, 10 Kan. 426.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Collins, 2 Duv. 114, 87 Am. Dec. 486.

Louisiana.— Vinas v. Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co., 27 La. Ann. 367; Ware v. Barataria, etc., Canal Co., 15 La. 169, 35 Am. Dec. 189, per Morphy, J.

Maine.— Goddard v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 57 Me. 202, 2 Am. Rep. 39.

Maryland.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Blocher, 27 Md. 277.

Massachusetts.— Reed v. Home Sav. Bank, 130 Mass. 443, 39 Am. Rep. 468; Haskell v. New Bedford, 108 Mass. 208; Hawks v. Charlemont, 107 Mass. 414; Oliver v. Worcester, 102 Mass. 489, 3 Am. Rep. 485; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Co., 4 Gray 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83; Lowell v. Boston, etc., R. Corp. 23 Pick. 24, 34 Am. Dec. 33; Thayer v. Boston, 19 Pick. 511, 31 Am. Dec. 157.

Michigan.—Bath v. Caton, 37 Mich. 199.

Mississippi.—Williams v. Planters' Ins. Co., 57 Miss. 759, 34 Am. Rep. 494; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Bailey, 40 Miss. 395.

Missouri.— Boogher v. Life Assoc. of America, 75 Mo. 319, 42 Am. Rep. 413.

New Hampshire.—Hopkins v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 9, 72 Am. Dec. 287, opinion by Perley, C. J.

New Jersey.— Vance v. Erie R. Co., 32 N. J. L. 334, 90 Am. Dec. 665.

New York.— Booth v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 50 N. Y. 396; Lee v. Sandy Hill, 40 N. Y. 442; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30; First Baptist Church v. Scheneotady, etc., R. Co., 5 Barb. 79; Bloodgood v. Mohawk, etc., R. Co., 18 Wend. 9, 31 Am. Dec. 313.

North Carolina.— Peebles v. Patapsco Guano Co., 77 N. C. 233, 24 Am. Rep. 447; Meares v. Wilmington, 31 N. C. 73, 49 Am. Dec. 412.

Ohio.— Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Dunn, 19 Ohio St. 162, 2 Am. Rep. 382; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Slusser, 19 Ohio St. 157; Little Miami R. Co. v. Stevens, 20 Ohio 415.

Pennsylvania.— Fenton v. Wilson Sewing Mach. Co., 9 Phila. 189, 31 Leg. Int. 132.

South Carolina.— Redding v. South Carolina R. Co., 3 S. C. 1, 16 Am. Rep. 681; Main v. Northeastern R. Co., 12 Rich. 82, 75 Am. Dec. 725.

Tennessee.— Wheless v. Second Nat. Bank, 1 Baxt. 469, 25 Am. Rep. 783.

Texas.— Hays v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 46 Tex. 272.

Vermont.— Lyman v. White River Bridge Co., 2 Aik. 255, 16 Am. Dec. 705.

United States.— Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Arms, 91 U. S. 489, 23 L. ed. 374; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 10 Wall. 604, 19 L. ed. 1008; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Quigley, 21 How. 202, 16 L. ed. 73; Clark v. Washington, 12 Wheat. 40, 6 L. ed. 544.

3. Liable For Torts Committed by Agent or Servant Within Scope of His Employment — a. Rule Stated. Under the rule of respondeat superior, a corporation is civilly liable for torts committed by its agent or servant while acting within the scope of his employment, although the corporation neither authorized the doing of the particular act nor ratified it after it was done.[65]

b. Although He May Have Exceeded His Orders. This is true although the agent or servant may have exceeded his orders.[66]

c. Or Acted Without Orders or Against Orders. The rule applies equally whether the principal or master is a natural person or a corporation in cases where the agent or servant in doing the wrong acts without orders or even against orders, provided the act is done within the scope of his employment, and not outside of his employment for the purpose of accomplishing some object of his own.[67]

England.— Smith v. Birmingham, etc., Gas Light Co., 1 A. & E. 526, 3 L. J. K. B. 165, 3 N. & M. 771, 28 E. C. L. 254; Maund v. Monmouthshire Canal Co., C. & M. 606, 41 E. C. L. 330, 2 Dowl. N. S. 113, 6 Jur. 932, 11 L. J. C. P. 317, 4 M. & G. 452, 43 E. C. L. 452, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 159, 5 Scott N. R. 457; Rex v. Medley, 6 C. & P. 292, 25 E. C. L. 439; Yarborough v. Bank of England, 16 East 6, 14 Rev. Rep. 272.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1903.

65. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hackett, 58 Ark. 381, 24 S. W. 881, 41 Am. St. Rep. 105; Duggins v. Watson, 15 Ark. 118, 60 Am. Dec. 560.

Illinois.— Consolidated Ice Mach. Co. v. Keifer, 134 Ill. 481, 25 N. E. 799, 23 Am. St. Rep. 688, 10 L. R. A. 696; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Harmon, 47 Ill. 298, 95 Am. Dec. 489.

Indiana.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kirk, 102 Ind. 399, 1 N. E. 849, 52 Am. Rep. 675; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Anthony, 43 Ind. 183.

Iowa.— Lewis v. Schultz, 98 Iowa 341, 67 N. W. 266.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Randall, 40 Kan. 421, 19 Pac. 783.

Massachusetts.— Hickey v. Merchants', etc., Transp. Co., 152 Mass. 39, 24 N. E. 860; Southwick v. Estes, 7 Cush. 385; Powell v. Deveney, 3 Cush. 300, 50 Am. Dec. 738.

Michigan.— Engel v. Smith, 82 Mich. 1, 46 N. W. 21, 21 Am. St. Rep. 549.

Minnesota.— Ellegard v. Ackland, 43 Minn. 352, 45 N. W. 715.

Missouri.— Haehl v. Wabash R. Co., 119 Mo. 325, 24 S. W. 737; Garretzen v. Duenckel, 50 Mo. 104, 11 Am. Rep. 405; Meade v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 92; Schmidt v. Adams, 18 Mo. App. 432.

New Jersey.—McCann v. Consolidated Traction Co., 59 N. J. L. 481, 36 Atl. 888, 38 L. R. A. 236 (although the act was not necessary for the proper performance of the servant's duty to his master, or was even contrary to the master's orders); Driscoll v. Carlin, 50 N. J. L. 28, 11 Atl. 482; Paulmier v. Erie R. Co., 34 N. J. L. 151.

New York.— Cosgrove v. Ogden, 49 N. Y. 255, 10 Am. Rep. 361; Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike, etc., Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293; Montgomery v. Sartirano, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 95, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 1066 (porter of lodging-house keeper using unnecessary force in ejecting an intruder); Clark v. Koehler, 46 Hun 536, 12 N. Y. St. 573; Haack v. Fearing, 5 Rob. 528, 35 How. Pr. 459; Leviness v. Post, 6 Daly 321; McCauley v. Hutkoff, 20 Misc. 97, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 85.

Pennsylvania.— McClung v. Dearborne, 134 Pa. St. 396, 19 Atl. 698, 26 Wkly. Notes Cas. 42, 19 Am. St. Rep. 708, 8 L. R. A. 204.

Texas.— Cook v. Houston Direct Nav. Co., 76 Tex. 353, 13 S. W. 475, 18 Am. St. Rep. 52.

West Virginia.— Gregory v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 606, 16 S. E. 819.

United States.— Singer Mfg. Co. v. Rahn, 132 U. S. 518, 10 S. Ct. 175, 33 L. ed. 440; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Derby, 14 How. 468, 14 L. ed. 502; Heenrich v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 20 Fed. 100.

England.— Whatman v. Pearson, L. R. 3 C. P. 422, 37 L. J. C. P. 156, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 290, 16 Wkly. Rep. 649; Reg. v. Stephens, L. R. I. Q. B. 702, 12 Jur. N. S. 961, 35 L. J. Q. B. 251, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 593, 14 Wkly. Rep. 859; Page v. Defries, 7 B. & S. 137 [overruling Lamb v. Palk, 9 C. & P. 629, 38 E. C. L. 367]; Rex v. Medley, 6 C. & P. 292, 25 E. C. L. 439; Limpus v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 1 H. & C. 526, 9 Jur. N. S. 333, 32 L. J. Exch. 34, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 11 Wkly. Rep. 149.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1903.

66. Indiana.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kirk, 102 Ind. 399, 1 N. E. 849, 52 Am. Rep. 675.

Massachusetts.— Hickey v. Merchants', etc., Transp. Co., 152 Mass. 39, 24 N. E. 860.

Missouri.— Meade v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 92.

New York.— Leviness v. Post, 6 Daly 321.

England.— Page v. Defries, 7 B. & S. 137 [overruling Lamb v. Palk, 9 C. & P. 629, 38 E. C. L. 367].

67. Arkansas.— St. Louis R. Co. v. Hackett, 58 Ark. 381, 24 S. W. 881; Duggins v. Watson, 15 Ark. 118, 16 Am. Dec. 560.

Illinois.— Consolidated Ice Mach. Co. v. Keifer, 134 Ill. 481, 25 N. E. 799, 23 Am. St. Rep. 688, 10 L. R. A. 696; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Harmon, 47 Ill. 298, 95 Am. Dec. 489.

Iowa.— Lewis v. Schultz, 98 Iowa 341, 67 N. W. 266.

d. Or Acted in Fraud of His Own Principal, Other Party to Transaction Being Innocent. The rule applies so as to charge the principal or master with liability for the fraud of the agent, even though the fraud was directed against the principal himself, provided the other party to the transaction was innocent.[68]

4. Not Liable Where Agent or Servant Steps Outside Line of His Employment to Accomplish Some Purpose of His Own — a. Rule Stated. A well-defined exception to the rule, and a distinction which should be constantly kept in mind, is between cases where the agent or servant is acting within the general scope of his employment, and where he steps outside the line or scope of his employment and commits the wrong, to accomplish some purpose, not of his principal or master, but of his own.[69]

b. Mode of Proving Agency and Scope of Authority — (I) In General. This calls up the question of the mode of proving the fact of agency and the scope of the authority of agents and servants, a question which has already been considered.[70]

(II) By Proving Habit of Acting. Whether a corporation has made a delegation of authority large enough to bring within its scope the particular tort for which it is sought to make it civilly liable may be proved, as in other cases of agency, by proving the corporation's habit of acting.[71] Thus where it is proved that a railroad company permits its engineers to allow their firemen to handle the locomotives, and damages are caused by the incompetency of a fireman when temporarily so acting, the company will be liable therefor.[72]

(III) Authorization Under Seal or by Matter of Record Not Necessary. In determining whether a tort, committed by the agent or servant of a corporation, was done within the scope of his employment so as to charge the Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Randall, 40 Kan. 421, 19 Pac. 783.

Massachusetts.—Southwick v. Estes, 7 Cush. 385; Powell v. Deveney, 3 Cush. 300, 50 Am. Dec. 738.

Michigan.— Engel v. Smith, 82 Mich. 1, 46 N. W. 21, 21 Am. St. Rep. 549.

Minnesota.— Ellegard v. Ackland, 43 Minn. 352, 45 N. W. 715.

Missouri.—Haehl v. Wabash R. Co., 119 Mo. 325, 24 S. W. 737; Garretzen v. Duenckel, 50 Mo. 104, 11 Am. Rep. 405; Meade v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 92; Schmidt v. Adams, 18 Mo. App. 432.

New Jersey.—McCann v. Consolidated Traction Co., 59 N. J. L. 481, 36 Atl. 888, 38 L. R. A. 236 (although the act was not necessary for the proper performance of the servant's duty to his master, or was even contrary to the master's orders); Driscoll v. Carlin, 50 N. J. L. 28, 11 Atl. 482; Paulmier v. Erie R. Co., 34 N. J. L. 151.

New York.— Cosgrove v. Ogden, 49 N. Y. 255, 10 Am. Rep. 361; Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293; Montgomery v. Sartirano, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 95, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 1066 (porter of lodging-house keeper using unnecessary force in ejecting intruder); Clark v. Koehler, 46 Hun 536, 12 N. Y. St. 573; Haack v. Fearing, 5 Rob. 528, 35 How. Pr. 459; McCauley v. Hutkoff, 20 Misc. 97, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 85.

Oregon. — Oliver v. North Pacific Transp. Co., 3 Oreg. 84.

Pennsylvania.— McClung v. Dearborne, 134 Pa. St. 396, 19 Atl. 698, 26 Wkly. Notes Cas. 42, 8 L. R. A. 204.

Texas.— Cook v. Houston Direct Nav. Co., 76 Tex. 353, 13 S. W. 475, 18 Am. St. Rep. 52.

West Virginia.— Gregory v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 606, 16 S. E. 819.

United States.— Singer Mfg. Co. v. Rahn, 132 U. S. 518, 10 S. Ct. 175, 33 L. ed. 440; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Derby, 14 How. 468, 14 L. ed. 502; Heenrich v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 20 Fed. 100.

England.— Betts v. De Vitre, L. R. 3 Ch. 429, 37 L. J. Ch. 325, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 165, 5 New Rep. 165, 16 Wkly. Rep. 529; Whatman v. Pearson, L. R. 3 C. P. 422, 37 L. J. C. P. 156, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 290, 16 Wkly. Rep. 649; Reg. v. Stephens, L. R. 1 Q. B. 702, 12 Jur. N. S. 961, 35 L. J. Q. B. 251, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 593, 14 Wkly. Rep. 859; Rex v. Medley, 6 C. & P. 292, 25 E. C. L. 439; Limpus v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 1 H. & C. 526, 9 Jur. N. S. 333, 32 L. J. Exch. 34, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 11 Wkly. Rep. 149.

68. Thus where the general manager of a corporation who was authorized to collect its checks, etc., presented a check belonging to it to a bank for payment, and the bank overpaid him by mistake, it was held that the corporation, whose agent he was, was liable to the bank for the overpayment, without regard to whether he accounted to the corporation for the amount or not. Kansas Lumber Co. Jr. v. Central Bank, 34 Kan. 635, 9 Pac. 751.

69. Redding v. South Carolina R. Co., 3 S. C. 1, 16 Am. Rep. 681.

70. See supra, X, D, 1, f, (I) et seq.

71. Thayer v. Boston, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 511, 31 Am. Dec. 157, per Shaw, C. J.

72. Harper v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. 567, 4 Am. Rep. 353.

corporation, it is not necessary to prove that the agent had such authority under the corporate seal, nor is it necessary to prove an order entered on the books of the corporation.[73]

c. Whether Question of Fact For Jury. It has been held that the question whether a given act was done within the scope of the employment of the actor is a question of fact for a jury;[74] but this will manifestly depend upon the state of the evidence as in other cases; and where the facts are settled or undisputed the conclusion will often be a conclusion of law to be drawn by the court.[75]

5. Not Liable For Torts of Independent Contractors. Another principle is that a corporation, in common with an individual, is not liable for torts committed by independent contractors or by their servants with whom the corporation contracts for the doing of a specific piece of work, leaving the contractor to his own methods and to the employment and control of his own servants, but holding him responsible only for the production of certain results. The distinction is between the case where the contractor engages to produce certain results merely, and where the proprietor reserves control over him with respect to his methods and the conduct of the men whom he employs. In the former case the proprietor is not liable for the torts of the contractor; in the latter case he is.[76] This subject is treated in the leading works on the law of negligence, and as it does not appertain specially to corporations it will not be further pursued here.[77]

6. Corporations Are Liable For Ultra Vires Torts — a. In General. According to strict logic, a corporation has no power to commit a tort, since the legislature has not conferred upon it any such power, and therefore it cannot commit a tort at all, every tort being ultra vires. A doctrine so dangerous to the public and so profoundly opposed to public policy, could not be allowed to stand in a civilized system of jurisprudence; and hence logic has yielded to justice and necessity, and it is now well settled that it is no defense on the part of a corporation when proceeded against to charge it with civil liability for a tort, that the commission of the tort was not authorized by its charter or governing statute, in other words that it was ultra vires.[78]

73. Hooe v. Alexandria, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,666, 1 Cranch C. C. 90. See also supra, X, D, 1, f, (I) et seq.; infra, XIX, B, 2.

74. Redding v. South Carolina R. Co., 3 S. C. 1, 16 Am. Rep. 681.

75. Drew v. Sixth Ave. R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 555, where the court held that the driver or brakeman of a horse-car acts within the line of his duty in assisting young and infirm passengers to alight. See also Eaton v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 57 N. Y. 382, 15 Am. Rep. 513, holding that a freight conductor has no power with respect to the transportation of passengers, as the business of carrying freight and carrying passengers is separated into two departments of service.

76. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Hanning, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 649, 21 L. ed. 220.

77. See 1 Thompson Neg. (2d ed.) § 621 et seq., and numerous cases there examined.

78. Alabama.— Central R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 76 Ala. 572, 52 Am. Rep. 353; South, etc., R. Co. v. Chappell, 61 Ala. 527.

Illinois.— German Nat. Bank v. Meadowcroft, 95 Ill. 124, 35 Am. Rep. 137.

Missouri.— Alexander v. Relfe, 74 Mo. 495.

Nebraska.— Rich v. State Nat. Bank, 7 Nebr. 201, 29 Am. Rep. 382.

New Jersey.— State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360.

New York.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30 [overruling on this point Mechanics' Bank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 N. Y. 599]. See Buffalo Lubricating Oil Co. v. Standard Oil Co., 42 Hun 153, 3 N. Y. St. 450 [affirmed in 106 N. Y. 669, 12 N. E. 826, action against corporation for slander].

North Carolina.— Hussey v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 98 N. C. 34, 3 S. E. 923, 2 Am. St. Rep. 312; Gruber v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 92 N. C. 1.

Tennessee.— Hutchinson v. Western, etc., R. Co., 6 Heisk. 634.

Washington.— Pronger v. Old Nat. Bank, 20 Wash. 618, 56 Pac. 391.

United States.— Grand Forks First Nat. Bank v. Anderson, 172 U. S. 573, 19 S. Ct. 284, 43 L. ed. 558 [affirming 6 N. D. 497, 72 N. W. 916, national bank liable as for a conversion for purchasing notes which it held as collateral security, although not within its powers to sell them to itself as agent of owner]; Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 122 U. S. 597, 7 S. Ct. 1286, 30 L. ed. 1146; Carlisle First Nat. Bank v. Graham, 100 U. S. 699, 25 L. ed. 750; Merchants' Bank v. State Bank, 10 Wall. 604, 19 L. ed. 1008; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Quigley, 21 How. 202, 16 L. ed. 73; Nevada Bank v. Portland Nat.

b. Acts Authorized by Valid Statutes Not Torts. In dealing with this question it is to be kept in mind that all torts are necessarily ultra vires, since if an act is authorized by a valid statute it is for that reason lawful and not a tort.[79] Care must be taken in applying this principle, since in many cases the public authorization to do an act is made on the implication that the corporation will pay the damages to private owners which happen in consequence of doing it.[80]

c. Liable For Ultra Vires Torts Committed in Performing Unnecessary or Gratuitous Acts. If a corporation undertakes to do more than is required by its charter or governing statute it will be answerable for any damages which may happen through the negligent doing of it. Thus where a turnpike company was required by its charter to construct its road thirty feet wide, but constructed it wider, it was held liable for an injury sustained in consequence of an obstruction within the road as made, but outside the road if its width had been limited to the width designated by the statute.[81] So a turnpike company, crossing a public bridge, became liable for an injury happening in consequence of a non-repair of one of the sidewalks of the bridge, by reason of having once or twice repaired such sidewalk.[82] So if a railway company obtains permission from the public authorities to build a bridge in order to pass over its tracks a highway which for many years has passed them on a level it is bound to keep such bridge and its approaches in repair, and is responsible for any damages which may happen in consequence of non-repair.[83]

d. Torts Which Are Ultra Vires the Agent or Servant Committing Them. It is no defense to the liability of a corporation for a tort that it was ultra vires the servant or agent who committed it, in the sense of not being authorized by the corporation; but if as already stated he was acting within the general scope of his employment, and was not stepping out of it to accomplish some purpose of his own, the corporation will be liable.[84]

7. Liability in Consequence of Ratifying Wrongful Act. A municipal corporation,[85] and for stronger reasons a private corporation,[86] may make itself liable for the wrongful act of its agent or servant by subsequently ratifying it, provided the ratification is something more than the negative acquiescence with knowledge, which sometimes estops a corporation, such as failing to discharge the servant who did the wrong,[87] or accepting a job of work from an independent contractor who has inflicted a negligent injury upon a third person in performing it.[88]

8. Corporations Not Included in General Statutes Giving Penalties. On the principle that penal statutes are to be strictly construed and are not to be extended Bank, 59 Fed. 338; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Green Bay, etc., R. Co., 12 Fed. 773, 11 Biss. 334.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1902.

79. Northern Transp. Co. v. Chicago, 99 U. S. 635, 25 L. ed. 336.

80. McAndrews v. Collerd, 42 N. J. L. 189, 36 Am. Rep. 508; Trenton Water Power Co. v. Raff, 36 N. J. L. 335; Tinsman v. Belvidere Delaware R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 148, 69 Am. Dec. 565; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church, 108 U. S. 317, 2 S. Ct. 719, 27 L. ed. 739. Compare Beseman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 50 N. J. L. 235, 13 Atl. 164; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Angel, 41 N. J. Eq. 316, 7 Atl. 432, 56 Am. Rep. 1.

81. Franklin Turnpike Co. v. Crockett, 2 Sneed (Tenn.) 263.

82. Wayne County Turnpike Co. v. Berry, 5 Ind. 286.

83. Hayes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 9 Hun (N. Y.) 63.

84. See supra, XIX, A, 3, a et seq.

85. Ross v. Madison, 1 Ind. 281, 48 Am. Dec. 361; McGary v. Lafayette, 12 Rob. (La.) 674, 43 Am. Dec. 239; Thayer v. Boston, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 511, 31 Am. Dec. 157. Compare McGary v. Lafayette, 4 La. Ann. 440.

86. Mitchell v. Rockland, 52 Me. 118; Malecek v. Tower Grove, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 17; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Grier, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 138, 49 S. W. 148.

87. Edelmann v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 3 Mo. App. 503. Compare Malecek v. Tower Grove, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 17.

88. Coomes v. Houghton, 102 Mass. 211.

For declarations of the managing officer approving the wrongful act which will afford evidence of a ratification see Malacek v. Tower Grove, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 17.

That slight acts of ratification will be sufficient to charge the corporation with liability for the tort of its agent was held in Perkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 201.

so as to include subjects not within their terms, it has sometimes been held that statutes denouncing penalties for the doing of certain acts do not include corporations, unless these artificial bodies are specially named; so that a statute imposing a penalty upon "the owner, agent, or superintendent of any manufacturing establishment," for employing any child under twelve years of age, and giving a private action for the penalty, did not include a manufacturing corporation;[89] and so that a statute denouncing a penalty for carrying away sawlogs without the consent of the owner and making the offense larceny did not include corporations.[90] Such a principle of interpretation is odious to sense and justice, in that it ignores the principle that statutes are to be applied to corporations, whenever they can be applied, as well to corporations as to natural persons,[91] and for the further reason that it confers upon an aggregate body of persons, acting together, an immunity from liability for their torts which single individuals are not permitted to enjoy. Other courts have followed the sensible and just rule of interpretation, and have held for example that a corporation which sells intoxicating liquors in violation of a statute is liable in a civil action for the penalty thereby denounced in like manner as an individual.[92]

9. Statutes Giving Penalties Merely Supply Cumulative Remedies. Where a statute gives a penalty for an infraction of a common-law right it is deemed merely to supply a cumulative remedy and the injured party may ignore the statute and sue at common law. Thus if a statute enjoining upon a railway company the duty of fencing its track gives double damages to a person whose cattle are killed or injured by the non-performance of this duty, a corporation neglecting this duty will be liable in a common-law action to a party thus injured.[93] It is otherwise where a statute creates a right which does not exist at common law, and prescribes a special remedy for its enforcement.[94]

10. When Corporation May Be Sued Jointly With Agent Who Committed Tort — a. In General. On well-understood grounds all who join in furthering a wrongful act injurious to another are regarded in the law as principals, and are liable to be sued jointly as such. Upon this ground, and contrary to an earlier misconception,[95] it is now settled that a corporation may be joined as a defendant with its agent or servant in an action to recover damages for a tortious act committed by the agent in the general line of his previously conferred authority, or where there has been a subsequent ratification by the corporation of his wrongful act, as for instance where the wrong consists of the negligence of the servant,[96] or of an assault and battery committed by him;[97] or where he has, when acting for the corporation, become liable for the malicious prosecution of a criminal

89. Benson v. Monson, etc., R. Co., 9 Metc. (Mass.) 562. That a statute denouncing a penalty for malicious injuries to canals did not include municipal corporations see Cumberland, etc., Canal Corp. v. Portland, 56 Me. 77.

90. Androscoggin Water Power Co. v. Bethel Steam Mill Co., 64 Me. 441.

91. South Carolina R. Co. v. McDonald, 5 Ga. 531; Stewart v. Waterloo Turn Verein, 71 Iowa 226, 32 N. W. 275, 60 Am. Rep. 786; Wales v. Muscatine, 4 Iowa 302.

92. Stewart v. Waterloo Turn Verein, 71 Iowa 226, 32 N. W. 275, 60 Am. Rep. 786.

93. Norris v. Androscoggin R. Co., 39 Me. 273, 63 Am. Dec. 621; Iba v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 45 Mo. 469; Calvert v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 34 Mo. 242, 38 Mo. 467.

94. See Actions, 1 Cyc. 679.

95. Orr v. U. S. Bank, 1 Ohio 36, 13 Am. Dec. 588 (Anno 1821).

96. Wright v. Compton, 53 Ind. 337; Holmes v. Wakefield, 12 Allen (Mass.) 580, 90 Am. Dec. 171. This is no more than an extension of the well-understood principle which allows a principal and his agent, or a master and his servant, to be joined as defendants, in actions for wrongs committed by the agent or servant. 2 Thompson Neg. (1st ed.) p. 890, § 11; Hewett v. Swift, 3 Allen (Mass.) 420; Whitamore v. Waterhouse, 4 C. & P. 383, 19 E. C. L. 565 (per Parke, J.). Compare Moreton v. Hardern, 4 B. & C. 223, 6 D. & R. 275, 10 E. C. L. 553. The case of Losee v. Buchanan, 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 86, which holds the doctrine of the text was reversed on appeal on other points in 51 N. Y. 476, 10 Am. Rep. 623 [affirming 42 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 385].

97. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353; Hewett v. Swift, 3 Allen (Mass.) 420; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.)

action.[98] Where the corporation is thus joined with its managing agents who did the act upon which the action is predicated a recovery may be had against the corporation only.[99]

b. Circumstances Under Which They Cannot Be Joined. Where the liability is for a mere nonfeasance, that is to say, for a failure on the part of the corporation to perform a duty which the corporation owes to the party seeking to maintain the action, then the agent or servant of the corporation, through whom the corporation has failed in the performance of the duty, cannot be joined, since he owes the duty to the corporation and not to the party aggrieved and is not in privity with him.[1]

B. Liability For Trespasses and Malicious Injuries — 1. Liable For Wilful and Criminal Acts of Servant Done Within Scope of His Employment — a. Rule Stated. Contrary to ancient conceptions,[2] which were to the effect that a master will not be liable for the wilful or criminal acts of his servant, although done at a time when he is pursuing his master's business, and although done with the means which the master has placed in his hands for the discharge of such business,[3] unless it be shown that the master authorized the particular act or ratified it after it was committed,[4] the modern law, supported by the great weight of 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83; Brokaw v. New Jersey R., etc., Co., 32 N. J. L. 328, 90 Am. Dec. 659.

98. Hussey v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 98 N. C. 34, 3 S. E. 923, 2 Am. St. Rep. 312. Upon this principle it has been held that a railroad corporation, by whose direction a contractor enters and builds its road, upon lands which it has acquired subject to an existing lease, is liable, as a joint tort-feasor with him and his servants, for the damages done to the crops of the lessee. Ullman v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 67 Mo. 118.

99. Bingham v. Lipman, 40 Oreg. 363, 67 Pac. 98.

1. For illustrations of this principle see Stockbridge Iron Co. v. Cone Iron Works, 102 Mass. 80. Woodward v. Webb, 65 Pa. St. 254. Compare Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.) 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83. For a discussion of this subject see 1 Thompson Neg. (2d ed.) § 611.

Shadowy distinctions at common law between direct and indirect injuries.— Shadowy distinctions have been taken where the common-law system of pleading prevails with respect to joining the corporation and its servant, where the tort of the servant was direct and where the tort of the master was deemed to be indirect. Parsons v. Winchell, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 592, 52 Am. Dec. 745. Compare an old case, where plaintiff was hurt by ungovernable horses in the hands of a servant of defendant and an action on the case was maintained against both the master and the servant. Michell v. Allestry, 3 Keb. 650, 2 Lev. 172, 1 Vent. 295. Another court has held that a master and servant are not jointly liable, in an action on the case, for an injury occasioned by the negligence of the servant, while driving the horse and carriage of the master in his absence. Parsons v. Winchell, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 592, 52 Am. Dec. 745. That an action at common law will lie both against the master and the servant in such a case was conceded in Wright v. Wilcox, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 343, 32 Am. Dec. 507.

Construction of a statute providing that a mortgage given by a corporation shall not exempt its property from execution on a judgment for its tort, with the conclusion that the remedy of the injured party is to reduce his claim to judgment and levy his execution upon the mortgaged lands. Williams v. West Asheville, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 918, 36 S. E. 189.

2. Voiced in such decisions as McManus v. Crickett, 1 East 106, 5 Rev. Rep. 518; Middletown v. Fowler, 1 Salk. 282.

3. Illinois.— Pritchard v. Keefer, 53 Ill. 117; Halty v. Markel, 44 Ill. 225, 92 Am. Dec. 182; Oxford v. Peter, 28 Ill. 434; Tuller v. Voght, 13 Ill. 277; Johnson v. Barber, 10 Ill. 425, 50 Am. Dec. 416.

Iowa.— Cooke v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 30 Iowa 202; De Camp v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 348.

Mississippi.— New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison, 48 Miss. 112, 12 Am. Rep. 356; McCoy v. McKowen, 26 Miss. 487, 59 Am. Dec. 264.

New York.— Fraser v. Freeman, 43 N. Y. 566, 3 Am. Rep. 740; Vanderbilt v. Richmond Turnpike Co., 2 N. Y. 479, 51 Am. Dec. 315; Ryan v. Hudson River R. Co., 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 137; Steele v. Smith, 3 E. D. Smith 321; Garvey v. Dung, 30 How. Pr. 315; Wright v. Wilcox, 19 Wend. 343, 32 Am. Dec. 507.

North Carolina.— Wesson v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 49 N. C. 379.

Pennsylvania.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Wilt, 4 Whart. 143.

Tennessee.— Puryear v. Thompson, 5 Humphr. 397.

England.— Jones v. Hart, 2 Salk. 441.

4. Alabama.— Lindsay v. Griffin, 22 Ala. 629.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Downey, 18 Ill. 259.

Maryland.— Brown v. Purviance, 2 Harr. & G. 316.

Michigan.— Moore v. Sanborne, 2 Mich. 519, 59 Am. Dec. 209.

authority, is that the master will be liable for the wrongful acts of his servant done within the scope of his employment whereby injury is inflicted upon a third person, without reference to the question whether such act was wanton, malicious, criminal, or merely negligent, and wholly without reference to the state of mind of the servant when he committed the act,[5] provided the servant in doing it did not step outside the course of his employment to accomplish some purpose of his own or of a third person other than his master.[6]

b. Illustration Where Servant Authorized to Use Force Uses Too Much Force. The modern rule is that if a servant authorized to use force about his master's business uses excessive force, his master must answer in damages to the person thereby injured, wholly without reference to the state of mind under which the servant acted.[7] If he is required to use force, and is left to his discretion as to Pennsylvania.— Snodgrass v. Bradley, 2 Grant 43; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Wilt, 4 Whart. 143.

5. Arkansas.— Duggins v. Watson, 15 Ark. 118, 60 Am. Dec. 560.

California.— Maynard v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 34 Cal. 48, 91 Am. Dec. 672.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sykes, 96 Ill. 162 [with which compare Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Downey, 18 Ill. 259; Arasmith v. Temple, 11 Ill. App. 39; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 9 Ill. App. 632]; Northwestern R. Co. v. Hack, 66 Ill. 238; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dickson, 63 Ill. 151, 14 Am. Rep. 114; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Harmon, 47 Ill. 298, 95 Am. Dec. 489.

Indiana.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Theobald, 51 Ind. 246; Jeffersonville R. Co. v. Rogers, 38 Ind. 116, 10 Am. Rep. 103.

Kansas.— Western News Co. v. Wilmarth, 33 Kan. 510, 6 Pac. 786.

Kentucky.— Sherley v. Billings, 8 Bush 147, 8 Am. Rep. 451; Hawkins v. Riley, 17 B. Mon. 101.

Louisiana.— Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 25 Am. Dec. 197, 6 La. 315, 26 Am. Dec. 478.

Maine.— Goddard v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 57 Me. 202, 2 Am. Rep. 39.

Massachusetts.— Krulevitz v. Eastern R. Co., 140 Mass. 573, 5 N. E. 500; Reed v. Home Sav. Bank, 130 Mass. 443, 39 Am. Rep. 468; Hawes v. Knowles, 114 Mass. 518, 19 Am. Rep. 383; Bryant v. Rich, 106 Mass. 180, 8 Am. Rep. 311; Ramsden v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 104 Mass. 117, 6 Am. Rep. 200; Howe v. Newmarch, 12 Allen 49.

Missouri.— Malecek v. Tower Grove, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 17; Gillett v. Missouri Valley R. Co., 55 Mo. 315, 17 Am. Rep. 653; Perkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 201; Buckley v. Knapp, 48 Mo. 152; Eckert v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 2 Mo. App. 36.

Nevada.— Quigley v. Central Pac. R. Co., 11 Nev. 350, 21 Am. Rep. 757, per Hawley, C. J.

New Jersey.— Vance v. Erie R. Co., 32 N. J. L. 334, 90 Am. Dec. 665; Brokaw v. New Jersey R., etc., Co., 32 N. J. L. 328, 90 Am. Dec. 659.

New York.— Mott v. Consumers' Ice Co., 73 N. Y. 543; Shea v. Sixth Ave. R. Co., 62 N. Y. 180, 20 Am. Rep. 480; McCormick v. Pennsylvania Cent. R. Co., 49 N. Y. 303; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30; Morton v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 34 Hun 366 [affirmed in 103 N. Y. 645]; Rounds v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 3 Hun 329 [affirmed in 64 N. Y. 129, 21 Am. Rep. 597]; Wolfe v. Mersereau, 4 Duer 473; Metcalf v. Baker, 34 N. Y. Super. Ct. 10.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., Pass. R. Co. v. Donahue, 70 Pa. St. 119.

Wisconsin.— Craker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 36 Wis. 657, 17 Am. Rep. 504.

United States.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Derby, 14 How. 468, 14 L. ed. 502; Pendleton v. Kinsley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,922, 3 Cliff. 416.

England.— Croft v. Alison, 4 B. & Ald. 590, 23 Rev. Rep. 407, 6 E. C. L. 614; Green v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 7 C. B. N. S. 290, 6 Jur. N. S. 228, 29 L. J. C. P. 13, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95, 8 Wkly. Rep. 88, 97 E. C. L. 290. In Edwards v. Midland R. Co., 6 Q. B. D. 287, 45 J. P. 374, 50 L. J. Q. B. 281, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 494, 29 Wkly. Rep. 609, the question reserved for decision was whether a corporation could be liable for an act which required malice in order to be actionable. Mr. Justice Fry delivered an opinion, holding that a company could be so liable, reviewing the following authorities: Green v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 7 C. B. N. S. 290, 6 Jur. N. S. 228, 29 L. J. C. P. 13, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95, 8 Wkly. Rep. 88, 97 E. C. L. 290; Stevens v. Midland Counties R. Co., 2 C. L. R. 1300, 10 Exch. 352, 18 Jur. 932, 23 L. J. Exch. 328; Yarborough v. Bank of England, 16 East 6, 14 Rev. Rep. 272; Goff v. Great Northern R. Co., 3 E. & E. 672, 7 Jur. N. S. 286, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 850, 30 L. J. Q. B. 148, 107 E. C. L. 672; Whitfield v. South Eastern R. Co., E. B. & E. 115, 4 Jur. N. S. 688, 27 L. J. Q. B. 229, 6 Wkly. Rep. 545, 96 E. C. L. 115.

6. Waters v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 101 Ill. App. 265; Croft v. Alison, 4 B. & Ald. 590, 23 Rev. Rep. 407, 6 E. C. L. 614.

7. Illinois.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 18 Ill. 460, 68 Am. Dec. 562.

Massachusetts.— Hewett v. Swift, 3 Allen 420; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83.

New York.— Cohen v. Dry Dock, etc., R. Co., 69 N. Y. 170; Rounds v. Delaware, etc., how much he shall use, the master will, upon either view of the subject, be answerable if he uses too much force through negligence.[8]

c. Difficulty in Determining When Act Is Within and When Without Scope of Authority. In many cases there is great difficulty in determining whether the act of the servant is to be deemed within or without the scope of his employment or authority, as where the force employed by him is so extreme[9] or where the act is so unusual[10] as to repel the presumption of authority.

2. Corporation Can Commit Trespass Same as Natural Person — a. Rule Stated. The ancient law was that a corporation could not commit a trespass except by a writing under its seal;[11] but the modern law is, with respect to private corporations,[12] that such a corporation may commit a trespass and may be held answerable in damages for a trespass in like manner as a natural person may be.[13]

b. Illustrations in Cases of Cutting Timber on Private Lands. If a railroad company, in order to facilitate its business, allows a telegraph company the use of its right of way for a telegraph line, such company may cut down timber on the right of way in order to prevent interference with its poles and wires, without incurring liability to an action by the landowner for damages. The railway company would have this right,[14] and the telegraph company might acquire it from the railroad company, where the telegraph line was intended to promote the business of the railway company.[15] If, however, the trees are not on the right of way, the telegraph company will be liable for damages, without reference to the question whether its line has been built by itself alone or jointly with the railroad company.[16]

R. Co., 64 N. Y. 129, 21 Am. Rep. 597 [affirming 3 Hun 329, 5 Thomps. & C. 475].

Texas.— Echols v. Dodd, 20 Tex. 190.

England.—Seymour v. Greenwood, 6 H. & N. 359, 30 L. J. Exch. 189, 9 Wkly. Rep. 518 [affirmed in 7 H. & N. 355, 30 L. J. Exch. 327, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 833, 9 Wkly. Rep. 785].

Contra, Cantrell v. Colwell, 3 Head (Tenn.) 471.

8. Puryear v. Thompson, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 397; Croft v. Alison, 4 B. & Ald. 590, 23 Rev. Rep. 407, 6 E. C. L. 614; Seymour v. Greenwood, 6 H. & N. 359, 30 L. J. Exch. 189, 9 Wkly. Rep. 518.

9. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison, 48 Miss. 112, 12 Am. Rep. 356; Jones v. St. Louis, etc., Packet Co., 43 Mo. App. 398; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Donahue, 70 Pa. St. 119.

10. Marsh v. South Carolina R. Co., 56 Ga. 274, hindering access to a witness.

Contrary and untenable decisions on this question.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Downey, 18 Ill. 259; Childs v. State Bank, 17 Mo. 213; Jackson v. Second Ave. R. Co., 47 N. Y. 274, 7 Am. Rep. 448 [compare Fraser v. Freeman, 43 N. Y. 566, 3 Am. Rep. 740, an opinion written by the same judge]; Isaacs v. Third Ave. R. Co., 47 N. Y. 122, 7 Am. Rep. 418. See also Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike, etc., Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293.

11. See 5 Thompson Corp. § 6302 and note, where much of the ancient twaddle in support of this proposition is set out.

12. Rehoboth Second Precinct v. Catholic Cong. Church, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 139 note; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363; Eastern Counties R. Co. v. Broom, 6 Exch. 314, 15 Jur. 297, 20 L. J. Exch. 196.

13. Delaware.— Whiteman v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 2 Harr. 514, 33 Am. Dec. 411.

Florida.— Edwards v. Union Bank, 1 Fla. 136.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Read, 37 Ill. 484, 87 Am. Dec. 260, per Breese, J. See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McCarthy, 20 Ill. 385, 71 Am. Dec. 285; Hinde v. Wabash Nav. Co., 15 Ill. 72; Lesher v. Wabash Nav. Co., 14 Ill. 85, 56 Am. Dec. 494.

Massachusetts.— Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83. See Hewett v. Swift, 3 Allen 420.

Michigan.— See Bath v. Caton, 37 Mich. 199.

New York.— Hay v. Cohoes Co., 3 Barb. 42 [affirmed in 2 N. Y. 159, 51 Am. Dec. 279].

England.— Smith v. Birmingham, etc., Gas Light Co., 1 A. & E. 526, 3 L. J. K. B. 165, 3 N. & M. 771, 28 E. C. L. 254; Maund v. Monmouthshire Canal Co., C. & M. 606, 41 E. C. L. 330, 2 Dowl. N. S. 113, 6 Jur. 932, 11 L. J. C. P. 317, 4 M. & G. 452, 43 E. C. L. 452, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 159, 5 Scott N. R. 457. See Yarborough v. Bank of England, 16 East 6, 14 Rev. Rep. 272; Giles v. Taff Vale R. Co., 2 E. & B. 822, 75 E. C. L. 822; Goff v. Great Northern R. Co., 3 E. & E. 672, 7 Jur. N. S. 286, 30 L. J. Q. B. 148, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 850, 107 E. C. L. 672; Limpus v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 1 H. & C. 526, 9 Jur. N. S. 333, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 11 Wkly. Rep. 149.

14. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Dryden, 11 Kan. 186.

15. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Rich, 19 Kan. 517, 27 Am. Rep. 159.

16. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Rich, 19 Kan. 517, 27 Am. Rep. 159.

c. Rule Extends to Trespasses Upon the Person — (I) In General. The rule in question extends to trespasses upon the person, and makes the corporation liable for the act of its servant in committing such a trespass, although accompanied with malice on the part of the servant, of which we have frequent illustrations in the cases of wrongful expulsions of passengers from railway trains by the servants of the railway corporation;[17] or where the servant of one corporation was wounded by the servants of another corporation in forcibly driving off the servants of the latter and taking possession of its property.[18]

(II) Hence Liable in Damages For Assault and Battery — (A) In General. A common illustration of the principle of the preceding section is found in those modern cases which hold that a corporation may be answerable civiliter in damages for assault and battery committed by its agents and servants in the course of their agency or employment.[19]

(B) As in Cases of Assaults on Passengers. An illustration of the foregoing

17. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kilpatrick, 67 Ark. 47, 54 S. W. 971.

California.— Carr v. Eel River, etc., R. Co., 98 Cal. 366, 33 Pac. 213, 21 L. R. A. 354, ejection from moving train.

Georgia.— Smith v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 100 Ga. 96, 27 S. E. 725 (liable where child pushed off by employee not authorized to eject); Fink v. Ash, 99 Ga. 106, 24 S. E. 976 (liable where trespasser falls off while attempting to avoid missiles thrown by employees).

Illinois.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Reagan, 52 Ill. App. 488, liable for wilful violence.

Indiana.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Redding, 140 Ind. 101, 39 N. E. 921, 34 L. R. A. 767 (not when train could not be safely stopped); Pennsylvania Co. v. Bray, 125 Ind. 229, 25 N. E. 439; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Beckett, 11 Ind. App. 547, 39 N. E. 429; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 3 Ind. App. 28, 29 N. E. 170, 50 Am. St. Rep. 256.

Kansas.— Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mitchell, 56 Kan. 324, 43 Pac. 244 (whether train running too fast for ejection a question for jury); Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Dickerson, 4 Kan. App. 345, 46 Pac. 975.

Kentucky.— Smith v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 95 Ky. 11, 23 S. W. 652, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 390, 21 L. R. A. 72, liable for unnecessary violence.

Michigan.— Hufford v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 53 Mich. 118, 18 N. W. 630.

Minnesota.— Carsten v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 44 Minn. 454, 47 N. W. 49, 20 Am. St. Rep. 589, 9 L. R. A. 688.

Mississippi.—Southern R. Co. v. Hunter, 74 Miss. 444, 21 So. 304 (liable for violent ejection from rapidly moving train); Thompson v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 72 Miss. 715, 17 So. 229 (the trespassing boy had been in the habit of jumping on and off slowly moving trains, and others had alighted in safety).

Missouri.— Farber v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 139 Mo. 272, 40 S. W. 932; Perkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 201; Kellett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 22 Mo. App. 356.

Nevada.— Quigley v. Central Pac. R. Co., 11 Nev. 350, 21 Am. Rep. 757.

New Jersey.— Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Walsh, 47 N. J. L. 548, 4 Atl. 323.

New York.— Eddy v. Syracuse Rapid-Transit R. Co., 50 N. Y. App. Div. 109, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 645; Ray v. Cortland, etc., Traction Co., 19 N. Y. App. Div. 530, 46 N. Y. Suppl. 521.

Texas.— St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Huffman, (Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 30, liable when greater force than necessary used.

Virginia.— Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 93 Va. 650, 25 S. E. 947, expulsion not duty of brakeman, but authority may be inferred from custom.

United States.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Winter, 143 U. S. 60, 12 S. Ct. 356, 37 L. ed. 71.

England.— Dancey v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 19 Ont. App. 664.

18. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 122 U. S. 597, 7 S. Ct. 1286, 30 L. ed. 1146. There is in the opinion in this case written by Harlan, J., a valuable exposition of the liability of corporations for the torts of their servants. Contrast this decision with the following untenable decisions: Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Webb, 49 Ala. 240 (holding that a railway company is not liable for an injury to animals run over by its cars, unless the act was done by the company's direction or assent; and that its conductor, engineer, or subordinate trainman is not its agent for the purpose of giving such assent); Fairchild v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 60 Miss. 931, 45 Am. Rep. 427 (holding that a railway company is not liable where its servants, in violation of their orders, in erecting a telephone line, cut trees on private property outside the right of way); Vanderbilt v. Richmond Turnpike Co., 2 N. Y. 479, 51 Am. Dec. 315 (holding that a corporation is not liable for the wilful trespasses of its agent, although authorized and sanctioned by its president and general agent).

19. California.— Maynard v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co., 34 Cal. 48, 91 Am. Dec. 672.

Illinois.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353.

Iowa.— McKinley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 314, 24 Am. Rep. 748.

Maine.— Hanson v. European, etc., R. Co., 62 Me. 84, 16 Am. Rep. 404.

Massachusetts.— Coleman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 106 Mass. 160; Monument Nat.

could be drawn from a very numerous class of cases, where corporations performing the office of common carriers have been held liable for assaults and batteries committed upon passengers, either in expelling them from the carrier's vehicle when they are rightfully there, or in expelling them by the use of excessive force and violence when they are wrongfully there.[20] Here there is not much room for refinement upon the question whether the servant in committing the assault has stepped outside the line of his duty to accomplish some purpose of his own, since the incorporated carrier has assumed the office of carrying the passenger safely, and has undertaken to perform it by means of the servant who is the immediate author of the injury, and it is hence a violation of the duty of the master, whatever the motive of the servant may be.[21]

3. Liable in Common-Law Actions of Trespass, Trover, Etc. It results from the foregoing that, wherever the rules of common-law pleading prevail, corporations may be held liable, in appropriate states of fact, in the common-law actions of trespass, trover, trespass on the case ex delicto, etc., for torts commanded or authorized by them.[22] For instance it is now settled that an action of trespass vi et armis, at common law, may be maintained against a corporation aggregate.[2]

Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass. 57, 3 Am. Rep. 322; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83.

New Jersey.— Brokaw v. New Jersey R., etc., Co., 32 N. J. L. 328, 90 Am. Dec. 659.

Ohio.— Passenger R. Co. v. Young, 21 Ohio St. 518, 8 Am. Rep. 78.

England.— Eastern Counties R. Co. v. Broom, 6 Exch. 314, 15 Jur. 297, 20 L. J. Exch. 196.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1904.

20. Massachusetts.— Ramsden v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 104 Mass. 117, 6 Am. Rep. 200.

Missouri.— Melecek v. Tower Grove, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 17; Perkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 201.

New York.— Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike, etc., Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293.

Tennessee.—Springer Transp. Co. v. Smith, 16 Lea 498, 1 S. W. 280.

United States.— Pendleton v. Kinsley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,922, 3 Cliff. 416.

21. Sherley v. Billings, 8 Bush (Ky.) 147, 8 Am. Rep. 451; Passenger R. Co. v. Young, 21 Ohio St. 518, 8 Am. Rep. 78 (conductor wrongfully ejected a passenger — his malicious motive immaterial); Craker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 36 Wis. 657, 17 Am. Rep. 504 (train conductor kissed a female passenger — railway company paid damages). See also among many other cases the following:

Indiana.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 47 Ind. 79.

Iowa.— McKinley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 314, 24 Am. Rep. 748.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Rich, 106 Mass. 180, 8 Am. Rep. 311; Holmes v. Wakefield, 12 Allen 580, 90 Am. Dec. 171.

New York.— Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293; Sanford v. Eighth Ave. R. Co., 23 N. Y. 343, 80 Am. Dec. 286; Hamilton v. Third Ave. R. Co., 13 Abb. Pr. N. S. 318, 44 How. Pr. 294.

United States.— Pendleton v. Kinsley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,922, 3 Cliff. 416.

England.— The Thetis, L. R. 2 A. & E. 365, 38 L. J. Adm. 42; Bayley v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., L. R. 7 C. P. 415, 3 Moak 308; Seymour v. Greenwood, 7 H. & N. 355, 30 L. J. Exch. 327, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 833, 9 Wkly. Rep. 785.

Numerous other instances under this head will be found in 5 Thompson Corp. § 6309.

22. Connecticut.— Crocker v. New London, etc., R. Co., 24 Conn. 249.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fell, 22 Ill. 333; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whipple, 22 Ill. 105.

Indiana.— Crawfordsville, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 5 Ind. 252.

Kentucky.— Underwood v. Newport Lyceum, 5 B. Mon. 129, 41 Am. Dec. 260.

Massachusetts.— Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574; Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35.

New York.— Hawkins v. Dutchess, etc., Steamboat Co., 2 Wend. 452; Beach v. Fulton Bank, 7 Cow. 485.

Ohio.— Goodloe v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio 500, 22 Am. Dec. 764; Hamilton County v. Cincinnati, etc., Turnpike Co., Wright 603.

Pennsylvania.— McCready v. Guardians of Poor, 9 Serg. & R. 94, 11 Am. Dec. 667; Chestnut Hill, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Rutter, 4 Serg. & R. 6, 8 Am. Dec. 675.

Vermont.— Barnard v. Stevens, 2 Aik. 429, 16 Am. Dec. 733; Lyman v. White River Bridge Co., 2 Aik. 255, 16 Am. Dec. 705.

23. Whiteman v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 2 Harr. (Del.) 514, 33 Am. Dec. 411; Underwood v. Newport Lyceum, 5 B. Mon. (Ky.) 129, 41 Am. Dec. 260. In Orr v. U. S. Bank, 1 Ohio 36, 13 Am. Dec. 588, it was held that an action of trespass for an assault and battery will not lie against a corporation aggregate, and that such a corporation cannot be joined as defendant with natural persons in such an action. The principle on which this case proceeded was reaffirmed in Foote v. Cincinnati, 9 Ohio 31, 34 Am. Dec. 420. The former of these cases does not

Contrary to an early misconception in Ohio,[24] it is now settled that a common-law action of trespass quare clausum fregit may be maintained against a corporation under a state of facts which would warrant a like action against an individual, as against a bridge company, for breaking and entering plaintiff's close and erecting thereon a bridge, etc.[25] For stronger reasons an action of trespass on the case will lie against a corporation aggregate, upon any state of facts which would make the action an appropriate one against a natural person.[26] Thus an action on the case for a vexatious suit may be sustained against a corporation aggregate.[27] It results from what is stated heretofore that where the common-law rules of pleading prevail an action of trespass will lie against a municipal corporation.[28] Accordingly an action of trespass against such a body for entering plaintiff's close, cutting his timber, etc., in an attempt to lay out a road through it, has been sustained.[29] In like manner a town in Illinois has been held liable, in trespass de bonis asportatis, for the act of its constable in wrongfully levying an execution on the plaintiff's goods.[30]

4. Liable For Malicious Libel — a. In General. A corporation aggregate may be liable in a civil action for damages for publishing a malicious libel, although necessarily the act of publishing is done by its agents or servants.[31] This must be obvious in the case of a corporation organized for the very purpose of printing and publishing newspapers or books.[32] But the rule is by no means confined to such cases. Even a railroad company may be liable in damages for a malicious libel published by its agents, acting in its behalf in the course of its business and of their employment.[33] And it has been held that a railroad company operating a line of telegraph may be liable in a civil action for a libel in transmitting over its line to different stations libelous matter concerning a person.[34] In like manner a railroad company has been held liable in a civil action for the act of its directors in publishing, in the course of its business, a libel injuriously reflecting on a stranger to the company.[35] seem to have been distinctly overruled in Ohio, although it has been entirely discredited by later decisions in that state, such as Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Dunn, 19 Ohio St. 162, 2 Am. Rep. 382, and Passenger R. Co. v. Young, 21 Ohio St. 518, 8 Am. Rep. 78.

24. Foote v. Cincinnati, 9 Ohio 31, 34 Am. Dec. 420.

25. Lyman v. White River Bridge Co., 2 Aik. (Vt.) 255, 16 Am. Dec. 705.

26. Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35; Chestnut Hill, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Rutter, 4 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 6, 8 Am. Dec. 675.

27. Goodspeed v. East Haddam Bank, 22 Conn. 530, 58 Am. Dec. 439. See also infra, XIX, B, 6, a et seq.

28. Allen v. Decatur, 23 Ill. 332, 76 Am. Dec. 692.

29. Allen v. Decatur, 23 Ill. 332, 76 Am. Dec. 692.

30. Wolf v. Boettcher, 64 Ill. 316.

31. California.— Maynard v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co., 34 Cal. 48, 91 Am. Dec. 672 [reaffirmed as to this point on rehearing in 47 Cal. 207].

Georgia.— Howe Mach. Co. v. Souder, 58 Ga. 64.

Louisiana.— Vinas v. Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co., 27 La. Ann. 367.

Missouri.— Johnson v. St. Louis Dispatch Co., 2 Mo. App. 565 [affirmed in 65 Mo. 539, 27 Am. Rep. 293].

United States.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Quigley, 21 How. 202, 16 L. ed. 73.

England.— Lawless v. Anglo-Egyptian Cotton, etc., Co., L. R. 4 Q. B. 262, 10 B. & S. 226, 38 L. J. Q. B. 129, 17 Wkly. Rep. 498; Whitfield v. Southeastern R. Co., E. B. & E. 115, 4 Jur. N. S. 688, 27 L. J. Q. B. 229, 6 Wkly. Rep. 545, 96 E. C. L. 115.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1904.

32. Johnson v. St. Louis Dispatch Co., 2 Mo. App. 565 [affirmed in 65 Mo. 539, 27 Am. Rep. 293 (overruling Childs v. Missouri Bank, 17 Mo. 213)]; Evening Journal Assoc. v. McDermott, 44 N. J. L. 430, 43 Am. Rep. 392; McDermott v. Evening Journal Assoc., 43 N. J. L. 488, 39 Am. Rep. 606.

33. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Quigley, 21 How. (U. S.) 202, 16 L. ed. 73.

34. Whitfield v. South Eastern R. Co., E. B. & E. 115, 4 Jur. N. S. 688, 27 L. J. Q. B. 229, 6 Wkly. Rep. 545, 96 E. C. L. 113.

35. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Quigley, 21 How. (U. S.) 202, 16 L. ed. 73.

On the other hand it seems that a libel may be committed against a corporation, as where a corporation is engaged in a business which depends upon credit, and a defamatory publication is made which injures its credit. Knickerbocker L. Ins. Co. v. Ecclesine, 34 N. Y. Super. Ct. 76, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 9. That a corporation may have

b. Not So Liable Where Agent Not Acting Within Scope of His Authority. But where an action against a corporation is predicated upon libelous matter contained in a letter written by its agent, a judgment against the corporation will not be sustained where there is no evidence from which a jury could properly infer express or implied authority on the part of the author of the letter to act as agent or to make any communication in behalf of the company.[36]

5. When Not Liable For Slander. The liability of a corporation for oral slanders uttered by its agent seems to stand on a somewhat different footing, the law ascribing them to the personal malice of the agent rather than to an act performed in the course of his employment and in aid of the interest of his employer, and exonerating the company unless it authorized, approved, or ratified the act of the agent in uttering the particular slander.[37]

6. Liable For Malicious Prosecution — a. In General. It is now settled that a corporation may be liable for the malicious prosecution of a criminal action, instituted by its authorized agents in the carrying out of its policy, or in the furtherance of its business.[38] an order for the arrest of defendant, on the ground that the wrong is an injury to "character," under the New York Code of Civil Procedure see Knickerbocker L. Ins. Co. v. Ecclesine, 34 N. Y. Super. Ct. 76, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 9. That a corporation may maintain an action for slander see Temperance Mut. Ben. Assoc. v. Schweinhard, 3 Pa. Co. Ct. 353.

For a discussion of the liability of corporations for libel see 29 Centr. L. J. 72.

36. Southern Express Co. v. Fitzner, 59 Miss. 581, 42 Am. Rep. 379.

37. Redditt v. Singer Mfg. Co., 124 N. C. 100, 32 S. E. 392.

38. Alabama.— Jordan v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 74 Ala. 85, 49 Am. Rep. 800 [overruling Owsley v. Montgomery, etc., R. Co., 37 Ala. 560, in which the supreme court of Alabama denied the doctrine of the text, but this decision is founded upon the overruled case of Childs v. State Bank, 17 Mo. 213, the discredited case of Stevens v. Midland Counties R. Co., 2 C. L. R. 1300, 10 Exch. 352, 18 Jur. 932, 23 L. J. Exch. 328, and the case of McLellan v. Cumberland Bank, 24 Me. 566].

Connecticut.— Goodspeed v. East Haddam Bank, 22 Conn. 530, 58 Am. Dec. 439.

Illinois.—A manufacturing corporation was held not liable, in an action for damages for false imprisonment, brought by one who had been arrested in proceedings conducted by a detective at the instance of a superintendent of the mills of the corporation, no special authority having been given by the corporation to the superintendent. Pinkerton v. Gilbert, 22 Ill. App. 568. Such a corporation was held not liable for damages for a criminal prosecution for forgery, where it appeared that the prosecution was instituted by the agent of his own motion, and under circumstances likely to cause him to profit by it. Springfield Engine, etc., Co. v. Green, 25 Ill. App. 106.

Indiana.— Pennsylvania Co. v. Weddle, 100 Ind. 18; American Express Co. v. Patterson, 73 Ind. 430.

Kansas.— Wheeler, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Boyce, 36 Kan. 350, 13 Pac. 609, 59 Am. Rep. 571.

Maryland.— The case of Carter v. Howe Mach. Co., 51 Md. 290, 34 Am. Rep. 311, resembled in its circumstances the Missouri case of Gillett v. Missouri Valley R. Co., 55 Mo. 315, 17 Am. Rep. 653, and it was held that, although a corporation is liable to an action for malicious prosecution, yet in such a case the agent must be shown to have express authority for his act or it must have been ratified, a limitation not upheld by the current of authority.

Massachusetts.— Reed v. Home Sav. Bank, 130 Mass. 443, 39 Am. Dec. 468.

Mississippi.— Williams v. Planters' Ins. Co., 57 Miss. 759, 34 Am. Rep. 494.

Missouri.— Woodward v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. 142; Boogher v. Life Assoc. of America, 75 Mo. 319, 42 Am. Rep. 413 [reversing 7 Mo. App. 591, and overruling Gillett v. Missouri Valley R. Co., 55 Mo. 315, 17 Am. Rep. 653]; Iron Mountain Bank v. Mercantile Bank, 4 Mo. App. 505. The case of Gillett v. Missouri Valley R. Co. limited Childs v. State Bank, 17 Mo. 213, which had denied the liability of a corporation for an assault and battery, malicious prosecution, or slander, and conceded its liability in such cases where the act comes within the purview of its charter powers, and is within the scope of the agent's authority, or is ratified. But the alleged malicious prosecution in that case being a criminal prosecution for embezzlement, it was held that it was not within the scope of the corporation's general or special powers, and therefore that the action would not lie. This last case, in so far as it imposes such limitation on the right of action, is now expressly overruled and exploded in Missouri. Woodward v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. 142; Boogher v. Life Assoc. of America, 75 Mo. 319, 42 Am. Rep. 413 [reversing 7 Mo. App. 591].

Nevada.— Ricord v. Central Pac. R. Co., 15 Nev. 167.

b. Authority of Agent to Institute and Carry On Prosecution. While it is not necessary to prove an express authorization of the particular prosecution by the governing body of the corporation, yet it is necessary to show that the act of the agent who authorized, instituted, or incited it was either within his special powers or within the general scope of his employment or authority.[39]

c. To What Corporations This Liability Has Been Ascribed. Upon the foregoing grounds, liability to pay damages for the malicious prosecution of civil or criminal actions has been ascribed to corporations aggregate, without regard to the object which such corporations were organized to promote, such for instance as a banking company,[40] a sewing-machine company,[41] an express company,[42] a railroad company,[43] a grocery company,[44] and a restaurant company.[45]

7. Liable For False Imprisonment. On like grounds a corporation may be liable in damages for that species of wrong which is commonly called false imprisonment, which generally, although not always, results from the malicious prosecution of a criminal action;[46] as where a railway passenger is detained in jail over night for failing to surrender his ticket before passing through the gate of a station in compliance with the regulations of the company;[47] or where a railway trainman finding a person asleep in a car, acting in pursuance of the gen-

New Jersey.— Vance v. Erie R. Co., 32 N. J. L. 334, 90 Am. Dec. 665.

New York.—Morton v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 34 Hun 366.

North Carolina.—Hussey v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 98 N. C. 34, 3 S. E. 923, 2 Am. St. Rep. 312.

Pennsylvania.— Fenton v. Wilson Sewing Mach. Co., 9 Phila. 189, 31 Leg. Int. 132.

Tennessee.— Wheless v. Second Nat. Bank, 1 Baxt. 469, 25 Am. Rep. 783.

United States.—Copley v. Grover, etc., Sewing Mach. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,213, 2 Woods 494.

England.— Cornford v. Carlton Bank, [1899] 1 Q. B. 392, 68 L. J. Q. B. 196, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 121 [affirmed on other grounds in [1900] 1 Q. B. 22, 68 L. J. Q. B. 1020, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 415]; Edwards v. Midland R. Co. 6 Q. B. D. 287, 45 J. P. 374, 50 L. J. Q. B. 281, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 694, 29 Wkly. Rep. 609; Walker v. South Eastern R. Co., L. R. 5 C. P. 640, 39 L. J. C. P. 346, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 14, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1032.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations." § 1904.

39. Walker v. Culman, 9 Kan. App. 691, 59 Pac. 606. Where the secretary of a corporation, acting on the advice of its counsel, had an employee arrested and tried on a criminal charge without probable cause, the corporation was held liable therefor in an action for malicious prosecution. Scott v. Dennett Surpassing Coffee Co., 51 N. Y. App. Div. 321, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 1016. In the absence of any evidence tending to show that the act of the president, who was also the manager, of a commercial corporation in procuring the arrest of a person for embezzlement was not within the scope of the powers conferred upon him by the by-laws, and where it appeared that he consulted with the attorney of the corporation before causing the arrest, and that neither he nor the attorney had any apparent interest in the matter except by virtue of their official connection with the corporation, the corporation was held liable. Schwarting v. Van Wie New York Grocery Co., 69 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 74 N. Y. Suppl. 747. The same conclusion was reached where a railway station agent having charge of the property and cars of the company and the duty of protecting them from trespassers instructed the employees to lock the door in case any one should be found in an empty car, and, acting under this instruction, an employee finding a person asleep in a car locked him in and sent for the sheriff. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Parker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 831.

40. Goodspeed v. East Haddam Bank, 22 Conn. 530, 58 Am. Dec. 439; Reed v. Home Sav. Bank, 130 Mass. 443, 39 Am. Rep. 468.

41. Copley v. Grover, etc., Sewing Mach. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,213, 2 Woods 494.

42. American Express Co. v. Patterson, 73 Ind. 430.

43. Krulevitz v. Eastern R. Co., 140 Mass. 573, 5 N. E. 500; Ricord v. Central Pac. R. Co., 15 Nev. 167.

44. Schwarting v. Van Wie New York Grocery Co., 69 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 74 N. Y. Suppl. 747.

45. Scott v. Dennett Surpassing Coffee Co., 51 N. Y. App. Div. 321, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 1016.

46. Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.) 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83; Lynch v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 24 Hun (N. Y.) 506; Bayley v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., L. R. 8 C. P. 148, 42 L. J. C. P. 78, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 366; Moore v. Metropolitan R. Co., L. R. 8 Q. B. 36, 42 L. J. Q. B. 23, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 579, 21 Wkly. Rep. 145; Goff v. Great Northern R. Co., 3 E. & E. 672, 7 Jur. N. S. 286, 30 L. J. Q. B. 148, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 850, 107 E. C. L. 672; Eastern Counties R. Co. v. Broom, 6 Exch. 314, 15 Jur. 297, 20 L. J. Exch. 196; Chilton v. London, etc., R. Co., 11 Jur. 149, 16 L. J. Exch. 89, 16 M. & W. 212, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 4.

47. Lynch v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 24 Hun (N. Y.) 506.

eral directions of the station agent applicable to such cases, locked him up and sent for the sheriff.[48]

8. Liable For Malicious and Vexatious Prosecution of Civil Actions. In the limited class of cases where the law gives actions for damages founded upon the malicious and vexatious prosecution of civil actions, corporations are liable equally with individuals provided as in other cases the agent instituting the civil action acted within the scope of his authority.[49]

9. Liable For Damages Done in Pursuance of Conspiracy. Upon like grounds an action may be maintained against a corporation to recover damages caused by a conspiracy to which the corporation was a party.[50]

10. Liable For Vexatiously and Maliciously Interfering With Business of Another. On like grounds it has been held that one corporation may be civilly liable in damages for vexatiously and maliciously interfering with the business of another, as where a company established for conveying passengers by an omnibus in the streets of London, by its servant, wrongfully, vexatiously, and maliciously did certain acts with the view to obstruct and annoy plaintiff in the conduct of a similar trade, and which acts had the effect intended.[51]

C. Liability For Frauds — 1. Ancient Doctrine That Corporation Could Not Commit Fraud. It was formerly supposed by some judges that corporations were not answerable for the frauds of their agents. This supposition rested upon the notion that the agent of a corporation could not be deemed its agent for the purpose of committing a fraud, since no such power had been delegated to him. If therefore he committed a fraud it was deemed his own fraud and not the fraud of his principal.[52]

48. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Parker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 831. See also Nichols v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 306, Clev. L. Rep. 268.

49. Goodspeed v. East Haddam Bank, 22 Conn. 530, 58 Am. Dec. 439, malicious prosecution of a suit by attachment. To the same effect is Western News Co. v. Wilmarth, 33 Kan. 510, 6 Pac. 786. See also Iron Mountain Co. v. Mercantile Co., 4 Mo. App. 505, suing out an injunction maliciously and without probable cause — principle recognized, but action failed because of insufficiency of petition. As to the grounds of such an action see further Keber v. Mercantile Co., 4 Mo. App. 195.

50. Buffalo Lubricating Oil Co. v. Standard Oil Co., 106 N. Y. 669, 12 N. E. 825 [affirming 38 Hun (N. Y.) 637]; West Virginia Transp. Co. v. Standard Oil Co., 50 W. Va. 611, 40 S. E. 591, 88 Am. St. Rep. 895, 56 L. R. A. 804.

51. Green v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 7 C. B. N. S. 290. 6 Jur. N. S. 228, 29 L. J. C. P. 13, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95, 8 Wkly. Rep. 88, 97 E. C. L. 290.

52. Duranty's Case, 26 Beav. 268, 4 Jur. N. S. 1068, 28 L. J. Ch. 37, 7 Wkly. Rep. 70; Matter of Hull, etc., L. Assur. Co., 2 De G. & J. 275, 59 Eng. Ch. 219 (per Lord Chelmsford, L. C.); Matter of Joint Stock Co.'s Winding-up Acts, Johns. 451, 5 Jur. N. S. 216, 28 L. J. Ch. 325. On this ground shareholders were held to their contracts in Holt's Case, 22 Beav. 48. In In re United Kingdom Ship Owning Co., 2 De G. J. & S. 456, 11 Jur. N. S. 52, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 613, 13 Wkly. Rep. 305, 67 Eng. Ch. 356, it was ruled that if a person has been deceived into taking shares in a company, he has no remedy against the company on that ground. His remedy is against the person who deceived him. Compare Barry v. Croskey, 2 Johns. & H. 1. In Dodgson's Case, 3 De G. & Sm. 85, 90, Vice-Chancellor Knight Bruce held that "directors, . . . cannot be the agents of the body of shareholders to commit a fraud. The directors only are liable for their conduct." This opinion was adopted by Vice-Chancellor Parker in Matter of North of England Joint Stock Banking Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 283, 289, 16 Jur. 810, 21 L. J. Ch. 468, where he said: "Dodgson's Case shews that the directors cannot be the agents of the Company to commit a fraud; and, therefore, if Mr. Bernard had been induced to take shares by misrepresentation of the directors, there was no reason why he should not be a contributory." But in Re Royal British Bank, 4 Drew. 205, 3 Jur. N. S. 879, 26 L. J. Ch. 855, 5 Wkly. Rep. 858, where the directors of the Royal British Bank, in their published reports, misrepresented the state of the company, and Brockwell, relying upon the truth of these reports, purchased some new shares, which were issued by the company, upon which it was sought to make him a contributory, Vice-Chancellor Kindersley held, principally upon the authority of the National Exch. Co. v. Drew, decided in the house of lords, 2 Macq. 103, that reports made by directors of the company, if they get into circulation, must be considered as reports of the company; and Brockwell was removed from the list of contributories. Brockwell's Case was overruled by Lord Chancellor Campbell and the Lords Justices, in Matter of Joint Stock

2. Modern Doctrine That Corporations Are Liable For Frauds Just as Natural Persons Are — a. Statement of Doctrine. As corporations can act only through the agency of individuals, this doctrine was equivalent to a declaration that while a corporation may be clothed with power to conduct every species of business, banking, trading, mining, and manufacturing, it cannot commit fraud or be made liable for fraud. Such a conclusion was on a par with the conclusion that a corporation could not be guilty of a malicious tort or of a trespass, since its charter or governing statute had clothed it with no power to do such an act. If therefore its agent acting in its behalf committed a fraud whereby a third person was cheated and damnified, it was the fraud of the agent merely and not that of the corporation. As the agent might be insolvent and as corporations in dealing with the public can act only through agents, such a conclusion left the public at an enormous disadvantage in dealing with these artificial bodies. If the contract were fraudulent, the corporation got the benefit of the fraud and shifted the fraud over upon the responsibility of its insolvent agent. Such a rule accorded to aggregate bodies, often possessing great wealth and wielding great power, an immunity from responsibility for the frauds of their agents which individuals did not possess. As the other party contracted on the faith of the responsibility of the corporation this conclusion, which involved the repudiation of the usual rule of respondeat superior, was destitute at once of juridical and of common sense and was profoundly unjust, oppressive, and opposed to a sound public policy. Such a doctrine could not long remain in an enlightened system of jurisprudence. Although there remain some doubts as to the rule which obtains in English courts of chancery,[53] yet it is the settled rule in England in cases at law,[54] and in America both at law and in equity, that a corporation is responsible for the frauds of its agent when acting within the powers of the corporation, and within the scope of his agency, precisely as a natural person is.[55]

b. Provided Agent Acts Within General Scope of His Authority. As in other cases of tort,[56] the distinction here evidently is between the case where the agent

Co.'s Winding-up Acts, 4 De G. & J. 575, 586, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 19, 7 Wkly. Rep. 677, 61 Eng. Ch. 454, which was also a case connected with the Royal British Bank. Lord Campbell in his judgment said: "Clearly there was a fraud, a gross fraud, on the part of the directors, and I have no doubt that he was induced by fraud to take his shares. I think, however, that it was a fraud on the part of the directors, which cannot be attributed to the company;" and Mixer was continued on the list of contributories. But this case was in its turn overruled by the house of lords. Compare supra, VI, K, 1, a, (1) et seq.

53. See the cases cited in the preceding note; also Green's Brice's Ultra Vires (2d ed.) p. 335 et seq.

54. Swift v. Winterbottom, L. R. 8 Q. B. 244; Kennedy v. Panama, etc., Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 580, 589; Barwick v. English Joint-stock Bank, L. R. 2 Exch. 259.

55. Georgia.— Scofield Rolling Mill Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 635.

Illinois.— Derrick v. Lamar Ins. Co., 74 Ill. 404.

New York.— Griswold v. Haven, 25 N. Y. 595, 82 Am. Dec. 380; Hunter v. Hudson River Iron, etc., Co., 20 Barb. 493.

North Carolina.— Peebles v. Patapsco Guano Co., 77 N. C. 233, 24 Am. Rep. 447.

Texas.— Henderson v. San Antonio R. Co., 17 Tex. 560, 67 Am. Dec. 675.

Wisconsin.— McClellan v. Scott, 24 Wis. 81.

United States.— Butler v. Watkins, 13 Wall. 456, 20 L. ed. 623.

England.—Barwick v. English Joint Stock Bank, L. R. 2 Exch. 259, 36 L. J. Exch. 147; Oakes v. Turquand, L. R. 2 H. L. 325, 344, 36 L. J. Ch. 949, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1201 (per Lord Chelmsford); Western Bank v. Addie, L. R. 1 H. L. Sc. 145; Mackay v. New Brunswick Commercial Bank, L. R. 5 P. C. 394, 43 L. J. P. C. 31, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 22 Wkly. Rep. 473; Swift v. Winterbotham, L. R. 8 Q. B. 244, 42 L. J. Q. B. 111, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 338, 21 Wkly. Rep. 562; Kennedy v. Panama, etc., Royal Mail Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 580, 8 B. & S. 571, 36 L. J. Q. B. 260, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1039; Re England L. Assoc., 34 Beav. 639; Ayre's Case, 25 Beav. 513, 4 Jur. N. S. 596, 27 L. J. Ch. 579; Re Royal British Bank, 4 Drew. 205, 3 Jur. N. S. 879, 26 L. J. Ch. 855, 5 Wkly. Rep. 858; New Brunswick, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Conybeare, 9 H. L. Cas. 711, 31 L. J. Ch. 297, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 109, 10 Wkly. Rep. 305; Ranger v. Great Western R. Co., 5 H. L. Cas. 72; Glasgow Nat. Exch. Co. v. Drew, 2 Macq. 103, 1 Paton App. Cas. 482; Ex p. Ginger, 5 Ir. Ch. N. S. 174.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 1906.

56. See supra, XIX, A, 3, a et seq.

acts within the general scope of his agency and professedly for his principal and where the defrauded person supposes that he is so acting, and the case where he steps aside from his agency and commits the fraud to accomplish some purpose of his own. In the former case the corporation will be liable for the consequences of the fraudulent act or misrepresentation, under the rule of respondeat superior. In the latter case the corporation will be exonerated unless, the act being within the apparent scope of his agency, the other contracting party supposed that he was acting fairly for the corporation and not fraudulently for himself. But it has been well said that an act cannot be extrinsic to his employment which is adopted as the means of accomplishing the object of his agency.[57]

3. Liable For Damages For Deceit — a. In General. Contrary it seems to the English law,[58] and to occasional misconceptions found in American cases,[59] the American law is that an action of deceit lies against a corporation to recover the damages sustained in consequence of acting upon false representations put forth by the corporation,[60] such as false representations contained in a prospectus issued by it, whereby plaintiff has been induced to subscribe for or to purchase its shares;[61] or in the case of a manufacturing or mercantile corporation for the fraud or deceit resorted to by its agent in order to effect a sale of its goods[62] or of its lands.[63]

b. Whether Liable For Deceit of Officers or Agents When Acting Ultra Vires the Corporation. There is authority for the proposition that a corporation is not answerable in damages for the deceit of its officers or agents when contracting with respect to a matter which is beyond the scope of its corporate powers, as in the case of a national bank selling the bonds of a railroad company on commission.[64] This, if sound, forms an exception to the rule that the defense of ultra vires is no answer to the liability of a corporation for its torts.[65]

4. Liable For Fraud Where It Adopts Contract. Where a contract is procured on behalf of a corporation by its agent through fraud, the corporation makes itself answerable for the fraud by adopting the contract with knowledge; since by so adopting the contract it necessarily adopts the means by which it was procured.[66]

57. Fishkill Sav. Inst. v. Fishkill Nat. Bank, 80 N. Y. 162, 36 Am. Rep. 595, reasoning of Danforth, J. See also Holden v. New York, etc., Bank, 72 N. Y. 286; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30.

58. Western Bank v. Addie, L. R. 1 H. L. Sc. 145.

59. Such as Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McKinney, 55 Tex. 176.

60. Fifth Ave. Bank v. Forty-second St., etc., R. Co., 137 N. Y. 231, 33 N. E. 378, 50 N. Y. St. 712, 33 Am. St. Rep. 712, 19 L. R. A. 331; Cragie v. Hadley, 99 N. Y. 131, 1 N. E. 537, 52 Am. Rep. 9; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 34 N. Y. 30; Frank v. Bradley, etc., Co., 42 N. Y. App. Div. 178, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 1032; Hunter v. Hudson River Iron, etc., Co., 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 493; Erie City Iron Works v. Barber, 106 Pa. St. 125, 51 Am. Rep. 508.

61. Dorsey Mach. Co. v. McCaffrey, 139 Ind. 545, 38 N. E. 208, 47 Am. St. Rep. 290 (fraudulent representations made by officers and shareholders); Benedict v. Guardian Trust Co, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 302, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 1082.

62. Peebles v. Patapsco Guano Co., 77 N. C. 233, 24 Am. Rep. 447; Erie City Iron Works v. Barber, 106 Pa. St. 125, 51 Am. Rep. 508. On the other hand false representations made by the seller of an article to the promoters of a corporation organized to sell it are in effect made to the corporation, and afford a foundation for an action on the case by the corporation. Iowa Economic Heater Co. v. American Economic Heater Co., 32 Fed. 735. It has been held that an action for deceit will lie against a corporation for the breach of an express contract of warranty, but not for the breach of an implied contract of warranty. Erie City Iron Works v. Barber, 102 Pa. St. 156. Compare as to the remedy at common law for a breach of an express contract of warranty Vanleer v. Earle, 26 Pa. St. 277.

63. Lynch v. Mercantile Trust Co., 18 Fed. 486, 5 McCrary, 623.

64. Weckler v. Hagerstown First Nat. Bank, 42 Md. 581, 20 Am. Rep. 95.

65. See supra, XIX, A, 6, a et seq.

66. Rives v. Montgomery South Plank-Road Co., 30 Ala. 92; Henderson v. San Antonio I. Co., 17 Tex. 560, 67 Am. Dec. 675; Crump v. U. S. Mining Co., 7 Gratt. (Va.) 352, 56 Am. Dec. 116; Oakes v. Turquand, L. R. 2 H. L. 325, 344, 36 L. J. Ch. 949, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1201 (per Lord Chelmsford); Western Bank v. Addie, L. R. 1 H. L. Sc. 145. See on the general principle Atwood v. Wright, 29 Ala. 346; Bowers v. Johnson, 10

5. Remedies Against Corporations Committing Frauds. Under any theory, the liability of a corporation for fraud extends to an obligation to return what it has acquired through the fraud of its agent, with interest. This may be compelled by an action of assumpsit at common law, or by an action of that nature under the modern codes of procedure, for money had and received;[67] in the view of some courts, although not of others,[68] by a common-law action for damages for the fraudulent representations or deceit of the agent of the corporation acting in its behalf, whereby plaintiff was entrapped into the contract or course of action complained of;[69] by a bill in equity for the rescission of the contract, for a restitution of the money which the corporation has acquired by the fraud,[70] and for an injunction against the bringing of suits on such contract.[71] On the other hand where the fraud has been practised by an agent of the corporation, to the prejudice of the corporation and of its shareholders, the corporation, suing for itself and as the representative of its shareholders, may have an appropriate relief in equity, as for instance in the case of an issue of spurious stock, by having the stock canceled as a cloud upon title,[72] leaving the defrauded taker of the spurious shares to his action for damages.[73]

D. Liability For Negligence — 1. Corporations Liable For Negligence Just as Individuals Are. A corporation aggregate, having, or supposed to have, a corporate fund, is liable, in an action at common law, for negligence in the performance of its duties, in the conduct of its business, or in the care of its property, just as an individual is.[74]

Sm. & M. (Miss.) 169; Meadows v. Smith, 42 N. C. 7; Harris v. Delamar, 38 N. C. 219; Huguenin v. Baseley, 2 White & T. Lead. Cas. 597, 14 Ves. Jr. 273; Bridgman v. Green, 2 Ves. 627, 28 Eng. Reprint 399.

67. See supra, XVII, F, 1, r, (III).

68. See supra, XIX, C, 3, a.

69. Reasoning in Scofield, etc., Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 635, and in New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 38 Barb. (N. Y.) 534.

70. Alabama.—Rives v. Montgomery South Plank-Road Co., 30 Ala. 92.

Iowa.— Davis v. Dumont, 37 Iowa 47.

Mississippi.— Water Valley Mfg. Co. v. Seaman, 53 Miss. 655.

Missouri.—Occidental Ins. Co. v. Ganzhorn, 2 Mo. App. 205.

Virginia.— Crump v. U. S. Mining Co., 7 Gratt. 352, 56 Am. Dec. 116.

England.— Bwlch-Y-Plwm Lead Min. Co. v. Baynes, L. R. 2 Exch. 324. 36 L. J. Exch. 183, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 597, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1108; New Brunswick, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Muggeridge, 1 Dr. & Sm. 363, 7 Jur. N. S. 132, 30 L. J. Ch. 242, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 651, 9 Wkly. Rep. 193; Glamorganshire Iron, etc., Co. v. Irvine. 4 F. & F. 947.

71. Henderson v. Lacon, L. R. 5 Eq. 249, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 527, 16 Wkly. Rep. 328; Smith v. Reese River Co., L. R. 2 Eq. 264, 12 Jur. N. S. 616, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 283, 14 Wkly. Rep. 606 [affirmed in L. R. 4 H. L. 64]; Venezuela Cent. R. Co. v. Kisch, L. R. 2 H. L. 99, 36 L. J. Ch. 849, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 500, 15 Wkly. Rep. 821.

Practice in such cases.— In re Ruby Consol. Min. Co., L. R. 9 Ch. 664, 43 L. J. Ch. 633, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 55, 22 Wkly. Rep. 833 (where the shares, the purchase of which it was alleged was brought about by the fraud of the company's agent, having been fully paid up, it was ruled that the merits ought to be tried at law, in an action to recover the purchase-money, and not by a motion in chancery, under section 35 of the Companies Act of 1862, to have plaintiff's name excluded from the list of shareholders); Thorpe v. Hughes, 3 Myl. & C. 742 (where an injunction was denied).

72. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Schuyler, 17 N. Y. 592, 34 N. Y. 30, on a subsequent appeal. Compare supra, VI, K, 5, c, (II), (A).

73. See supra, VI, K, 5, c, (II), (A). A subscriber to the stock of a corporation, who affirms his subscription after learning of a fraud by which he was induced to make it, cannot maintain an action against the corporation to recover damages for the fraud. Wilson v Hundley, 96 Va. 96, 30 S. E. 492, 70 Am. St. Rep. 837; Houldsworth v. Glasgow City Bank, 5 App. Cas. 317, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 194, 28 Wkly. Rep. 677.

Additional note on the subject of frauds by corporations.— That a corporation cannot be held liable to the creditors of an insolvent corporation by reason of having secured from such corporation the preferential payment of its own claims, through undue influence exerted upon it, where the influence is merely the moral influence resulting from being its creditor, and the corporation has not acquired control of its affairs, see National Bank of Commerce v. Allen, 90 Fed. 545, 33 C. C. A. 169. Circumstances under which the fact that one of the shareholders voted for a resolution authorizing the purchase of land on the assurance that certain of the directors would look after the payment of the purchase-money was not evidence of fraud against the corporation see Jenkins v. Bradley, 104 Wis. 540, 80 N. W. 1025.

74. Fowle v. Alexandria, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,993, 3 Cranch C. C. 70, and other cases cited in this subdivision.

2. Liability Rests Upon Rule of Respondeat Superior. As a corporation can from its very nature act only through the instrumentality of natural persons or of other corporations, it follows that in every case where it is sought to charge a corporation with liability on the ground of negligence the initial inquiry is, whether the agent through whose misconduct the negligent act or omission took place was at the time and with reference to the subject-matter acting within the scope of his employment or agency. This subject has already been sufficiently discussed in a previous subdivision of this article to show the principles on which the liability rests.[75]

3. Negligence in Performance of Ultra Vires Acts. Upon a principle elsewhere considered,[76] it will be no defense on the part of a corporation to an action to charge it with damages for a negligent injury that the injury was committed by its agents or servants while engaged in a business upon which it had no power under its charter or governing statute to enter. Thus a passenger may recover for personal injuries occasioned to him by the negligence of a street railway corporation which was transporting him on a railway which it had leased unlawfully, but which it was using and maintaining without objection from its owners or the commonwealth.[77]

4. Liability For Negligence in Performance of Duties Toward Individuals Which It Has Voluntarily Assumed — a. In General. Where a corporation undertakes, although gratuitously, the performance of a duty in favor of an individual, the confidence induced by the undertaking to perform the service is a sufficient consideration to create a duty to exercise care in the performance of it.[78] On a similar principle, where a corporation, in pursuance of a franchise granted to it by the legislature, undertakes to construct and to maintain works to be used by the public distributively, it thereby assumes the obligation of using reasonable care in the maintenance of such works; and it becomes liable, independently of statute, to any person who may be damaged, in making a lawful use of such works, in consequence of its negligence or nonfeasance in failing to keep them in a reasonable state of repair.[79]

b. Liability Illustrated in Case of Private Corporations Owning and Operating Works of Public Utility For Which They Receive Compensation From Public. The general rule of law under this head may be stated thus: When a corporation is clothed by its charter, by the legislature, or by prescription, which presumes a charter, with power to construct or improve turnpikes,[80] plank roads,[81] bridges,[82]

75. See supra, XIX, A, 3, a et seq.

76. See supra, XIX, A, 6, a et seq.

77. Feital v. Middlesex R. Co., 109 Mass. 398, 12 Am. Rep. 720. Compare Bathe v. Decatur County Agricultural Soc., 73 Iowa 11, 34 N. W. 484, 5 Am. St. Rep. 651.

78. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Derby, 14 How. (U. S.) 468, 14 L. ed. 502. The same principle is reaffirmed and applied in Glavin v. Rhode Island Hospital, 12 R. I. 411, 34 Am. Rep. 675.

79. Parnaby v. Lancaster Canal Co., 11 A. & E. 223, 9 L. J. Exch. 338, 3 Nev. & P. 523, 3 P. & D. 162, 39 E. C. L. 139. An interesting question of pleading was also decided. The declaration was framed under a statute, but as it contained allegations which showed a duty at common law it was held good.

80. Southworth v. Lathrop, 5 Day (Conn.) 237 (where a second subcontractor was held under his contract liable to pay damages which a traveler had recovered of a turnpike company for injuries resulting from non-repair, and which the company had recovered over from the principal contractor, the intermediate subcontractor being insolvent); Brookville, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Pumphrey, 59 Ind. 78, 26 Am. Rep. 76. See further, as to the obligation of a turnpike company to repair, the following cases:

Connecticut.— Goshen, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Sears, 7 Conn. 86.

Kentucky.— Shelby County Bd. Internal Improvement v. Scearce, 2 Duv. 576.

Maine.— Orcutt v. Kittery Point Bridge Co., 53 Me. 500.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Worcester Turnpike Corp., 3 Pick. 327.

New Jersey.— Ward v. Newark, etc., Turnpike Co., 20 N. J. L. 323; State v. Morris Turnpike Co., 4 N. J. L. 165, 7 Am. Dec. 579.

81. Ireland v. Oswego, etc., Plank Road Co., 13 N. Y. 526; Davis v. Lamoille County Plank Road Co., 27 Vt. 602. Compare Sims v. Yazoo, etc., Plank Road Co., 38 Miss. 23.

82. Georgia.— Tift v. Jones, 52 Ga. 538.

Indiana.— Wayne County Turnpike Co. v. Berry, 5 Ind. 286.

ferries,[83] railways,[84] canals,[85] docks,[86] wharves,[87] waterworks,[88] gas-works,[89] to improve navigable streams,[90] or to do other like work of a public nature for the benefit of members of the public distributively, and to take toll therefor,[91] it is bound to keep its works in repair and is liable in a civil action to an individual who has sustained damages in consequence of a failure of its duty in this particular.[92]

Maine.— Watson v. Lisbon Bridge, 14 Me. 201, 31 Am. Dec. 49.

New York.— Hayes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 9 Hun 63.

South Carolina.— Grigsby v. Chappell, 5 Rich. 443.

England.— Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 31 L. J. Q. B. 283, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 699, 10 Wkly. Rep. 741, 101 E. C. L. 916; Rex v. Lindsey, 14 East 317, 12 Rev. Rep. 529; Rex v. Kent, 13 East 220, 12 Rev. Rep. 330.

83. Murray v. Hudson River R. Co., 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 196; Oakland R. Co. v. Fielding, 48 Pa. St. 320.

84. Oakland R. Co. v. Fielding, 48 Pa. St. 320; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Hughes, 11 Pa. St. 141, 51 Am. Dec. 513.

85. Weitner v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 234; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Patterson, 73 Pa. St. 491; Saylor v. Smith, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 687; Winch v. Thames Conservators, L. R. 9 C. P. 378, 43 L. J. C. P. 167, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 22 Wkly. Rep. 879; Parnaby v. Lancaster Canal Co., 11 A. & E. 223, 9 L. J. Exch. 338, 3 P. & D. 184, 39 E. C. L. 139; Walker v. Goe, 4 H. & N. 350, 5 Jur. N. S. 737, 28 L. J. Exch. 184, 7 Wkly. Rep. 289. See also Heacock v. Sherman, 14 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co. v. Graham, 63 Pa. St. 290, 3 Am. Rep. 549; Witherley v. Regent's Canal Co., 12 C. B. N. S. 2, 3 F. & F. 61, 2 L. J. C. P. 190, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 255, 104 E. C. L. 2; Manley v. St. Helen Canal, etc., Co., 2 H. & N. 840, 27 L. J. Exch. 159, 6 Wkly. Rep. 297.

86. Smith v. London, etc., Docks Co., L. R. 3 C. P. 326, 37 L. J. C. P. 217, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 403, 16 Wkly. Rep. 728; Mersey Docks, etc., Bd. v. Gibbs, L. R. 1 H. L. 93, 11 H. L. Cas. 686, 12 Jur. N. S. 571, 35 L. J. Exch. 225, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 677, 14 Wkly. Rep. 872; Gibson v. Inglis, 4 Campb. 72, 15 Rev. Rep. 727; Mersey Docks, etc., Bd. v. Penhallow, 7 H. & N. 329, 8 Jur. N. S. 486, 30 L. J. Exch. 329, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 112; Gibbs v. Liverpool Docks, 1 H. & N. 439 [reversed in 3 H. & N. 164, 4 Jur. N. S. 636, 27 L. J. Exch. 321].

87. Wendell v. Baxter, 12 Gray (Mass.) 494; Radway v. Briggs, 37 N. Y. 256; Albany v. Cunliff, 2 N. Y. 165. See also Jeffersonville v. Louisville, etc., Steam Ferry Co., 27 Ind. 100, 89 Am. Dec. 495, 35 Ind. 19; Seaman v. New York, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 147; Buckbee v. Brown, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 110; Prescott v. Duquesne, 48 Pa. St. 118; Pittsburgh v. Grier, 22 Pa. St. 54, 60 Am. Dec. 65; Mersey Docks, etc., Bd. v. Gibbs, L. R. 1 H. L. 93, 11 H. L. Cas. 686, 12 Jur. N. S. 571, 35 L. J. Exch. 225, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 677, 14 Wkly. Rep. 872; Mersey Docks, etc., Bd. v. Penhallow, 7 H. & N. 329, 8 Jur. N. S. 486, 30 L. J. Exch. 329, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 112; Gibbs v. Liverpool Docks, 1 H. & N. 439 [reversed in 3 H. & N. 164, 4 Jur. N. S. 636, 27 L. J. Exch. 321].

88. Bayley v. Wolverhampton Waterworks Co., 6 H. & N. 241, 30 L. J. Exch. 57. In Atkinson v. Newcastle, etc., Waterworks Co., 2 Ex. D. 441, 46 L. J. Exch. 775, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 761, 25 Wkly. Rep. 794, it was ruled by the English court of appeal, reversing the court of exchequer (L. R. 6 Exch. 404, 20 Wkly. Rep. 35), that an action would not lie against a waterworks company for failing to keep its pipes charged as required by its governing statute, by reason of which neglect the plaintiff's premises burned down. The ground of the decision was that the statute creating the duty gave a penalty of £10, one half to any informer and the other half to the overseers of the parish, for a neglect of this duty, and that the penalty excluded a right of action for damages. The court question the authority of Couch v. Steel, 2 C. L. R. 940, 3 E. & B. 402, 18 Jur. 515, 23 L. J. Q. B. 121, 2 Wkly. Rep. 170, 77 E. C. L. 402, which governed the court below. In that case it was held that a statute (7 & 8 Vict. c. 112, § 18) making it the duty of a ship-owner to have on board a proper supply of medicines for the voyage, created a duty to each sailor, for the breach of which action might be sustained by any one thereby injured, although the statute gave a penalty.

89. See Hutchinson v. Boston Gas Light Co., 122 Mass. 219; Bartlett v. Boston Gas Light Co., 117 Mass. 533, 19 Am. Rep. 421, 122 Mass. 209; Flint v. Gloucester Gas Light Co., 9 Allen (Mass.) 552; Hunt v. Lowell Gas Light Co., 8 Allen (Mass.) 169, 85 Am. Dec. 697; Emerson v. Lowell Gas Light Co., 3 Allen (Mass.) 410; Holly v. Boston Gas Light Co., 8 Gray (Mass.) 123, 69 Am. Dec. 233; Lannen v. Albany Gas Light Co., 44 N. Y. 459 [affirming 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 264]; Butcher v. Providence Gas Co., 18 Alb. L. J. 372; Burrows v. March Gas, etc., Co., L. R. 7 Exch. 96, 41 L. J. Exch. 46, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 318, 20 Wkly. Rep. 493; Holden v. Liverpool New Gas, etc., Co., 3 C. B. 1, 10 Jur. 883, 15 L. J. C. P. 301, 54 E. C. L. 1; Mose v. Hastings, etc., Gas Co., 4 F. & F. 324; Blenkiron v. Great Cent. Gas Consumers Co., 2 F. & F. 437; Weld v. Gas Light Co., 1 Stark. 189, 2 E. C. L. 78.

90. Rex v. Kent, 13 East 220, 12 Rev. Rep. 330.

91. Brown v. South Kennebec Agricultural Soc., 47 Me. 275, 74 Am. Dec. 484.

92. Most of the foregoing cases either sustain or illustrate the text. Some of them, however, were cases where the negligence

c. Liability Same Where Duty Is Imposed in Express Terms by Charter or Governing Statute. Upon a principle applicable alike to persons and to corporations, that where an obligation is imposed by statute, the person upon whom it is imposed becomes liable to any one who may have been injured by or in consequence of its non-performance or negligent performance,[93] where the charter of a corporation, or other governing statute, makes it the duty of the corporation to keep in repair a bridge, dike, canal, or other public work, an individual injured by a neglect of the statutory duty may maintain an action therefor.[94] The same rule is applicable to chartered municipal corporations.[95]

d. When so Liable on Principle of Nuisance or Special Damage. The liability of corporations for the non-repair of roads or bridges, which they are under a duty by their charter to keep in repair, is often put on the common-law ground that they are the authors of a nuisance which has resulted in special damage to plaintiff. Accordingly, where the charter of a canal company required it to "build and keep in good repair suitable and convenient bridges over the canal," and one of the bridges, being defective, gave way while plaintiff was driving over it, it was held that he might recover damages, upon this principle, for the injury thus received.[96] Where such an injury happens to plaintiff through the negligent failure of defendant to perform a duty enjoined upon it by its charter, to be performed on behalf of the public generally, an action for the injury which plaintiff has received is supportable, not indeed on the theory of privity of contract, but as an action on the case for an injury which plaintiff has sustained through the malfeasance of defendant in failing to perform a duty toward him, although springing from a contract with another.[97]

5. Private Corporations How Liable For Non-Exercise of Granted Powers. It does not follow, however, that because power to construct or maintain a railway or other public work is granted to a person or corporation for his or its private emolument, such person or corporation will be compelled by mandamus to execute the power or be liable to a private action for a non-exercise of such power. Such a statute will it seems be deemed permissive unless its terms plainly import the contrary.[98] But a railway company which has so far entered upon the execution of its statutory powers as to condemn land to build part of its line will be compelled by mandamus to complete it, unless it shows that it has become amounted not to a mere nonfeasance in the performance of a duty voluntarily assumed but to a positive malfeasance. As to the duty of a street railroad to keep the pavement between its tracks in repair under the provisions of its charter see Troy v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 270.

93. Mersey Docks, etc., Bd. v. Gibbs, L. R. 1 H. L. 93, 11 H. L. Cas. 686, 12 Jur. N. S. 571, 35 L. J. Exch. 225, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 677, 14 Wkly. Rep. 872; Coe v. Wise, L. R. 1 Q. B. 711, 7 B. & S. 831, 37 L. J. Q. B. 262, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 891, 14 Wkly. Rep. 865; Gray v. Pullen, 5 B. & S. 970, 34 L. J. Q. B. 265, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 569, 13 Wkly. Rep. 257, 117 E. C. L. 970; Bessant v. Great Western R. Co., 8 C. B. N. S. 368, 98 E. C. L. 368.

94. Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Patterson, 73 Pa. St. 491; Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co. v. Graham, 63 Pa. St. 290, 3 Am. Rep. 549; Harrison v. Great Northern R. Co., 3 H. & C. 231, 10 Jur. N. S. 992, 33 L. J. Exch. 266, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1081; Bayley v. Wolverhampton Waterworks Co., 6 H. & N. 241, 30 L. J. Exch. 57 (where the waterworks company was held liable to a traveler whose horse was injured by their failing to keep a fire-plug in repair, as directed by a statute, although the plug belonged to the local board of health, which was liable to the waterworks company for the expense of the repairs).

95. Erie v. Schwingle, 22 Pa. St. 384, 60 Am. Dec. 87.

96. Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co. v. Graham, 63 Pa. St. 290, 3 Am. Rep. 549 [citing Kensington v. Wood, 10 Pa. St. 93, 49 Am. Dec. 582; Pittsburgh v. Scott, 1 Pa. St. 309; Hughes v. Heiser, 1 Binn. (Pa.) 463, 2 Am. Dec. 459; Baxter v. Winooski Turnpike Co., 22 Vt. 114, 52 Am. Dec. 84; Wilkes v. Hungerford Market Co., 2 Bing. N. Cas. 281, 1 Hodges 281, 2 Scott 446, 29 E. C. L. 537].

97. Reasoning of Sharswood, C. J., in Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co. v. Graham, 63 Pa. St. 290, 3 Am. Rep. 549.

98. Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 932, 31 L. J. Q. B. 283, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 699, 10 Wkly. Rep. 741, 101 E. C. L. 916 (per Crompton, J.); Reg. v. York, etc., R. Co., 1 E. & B.

impossible for it to do so;[99] and if after such a railway has been built the company takes up its rails a mandamus will lie to compel it to reinstate them.[1] So the proprietor of a toll-bridge must keep the same in repair so long as he exercises the privilege, accorded him by a statute, of receiving tolls, or else he must pay damages to any one thereby specially injured. He cannot escape this liability by maintaining a ferry, and collecting ferriage in lieu of the statutory pontage.[2] It seems that a corporation created by the legislature of a state, and which under a contract with the state has assumed the exclusive duty of repairing the levees upon a certain river within the state, for the purpose of preventing the overflow of cultivable lands, is liable for damages to a private landowner for the nonperformance of the duty; but where sufficient time had not elapsed between the date at which the corporation became empowered to enter upon the discharge of the duty so assumed and the happening of the injury for which plaintiff brought his action, it was held that the corporation was not liable.[3]

E. Indictment of Corporations — 1. Corporations Indictable Under Ancient Law. The law on the subject of the criminal liability of corporations has had a growth and development analogous to that relating to the civil liability of corporations for torts. Decisions and dicta are not wanting in the ancient, and even in the modern books of our law, which deny, in the broadest terms, that a corporation can be indicted or criminally impleaded. Lord Holt is reported to have said that "a corporation is not indictable, but the particular members of it are";[4] and the superior court of Virginia declared, in the year 1823, in general terms, that a corporation cannot be impleaded criminaliter by its artificial name.[5] But apart from the notorious inaccuracy of the so-called Modern Reports, and the suspicion which always attaches to the anonymous cases reported in that series,[6] it has been pointed out[7] that in the time of Lord Holt there were many instances of indictments against counties, which were quasi-corporations, for their neglect to keep their roads and bridges in repair.[8] It has often been urged in behalf of corporations that it is unnecessary to hold them liable criminally for acts of malfeasance, since their officers who do the act may be so prosecuted. "Of this," said Lord Denman, C. J., "there is no doubt. But the public knows nothing of the former; and the latter, if they can be identified, are commonly persons of the lowest rank, wholly incompetent to make any reparation for the injury. There can be no effectual means for deterring from an oppressive exercise of power for the purpose of gain, except the remedy by an indictment against those 178, 72 E. C. L. 178 (per Erle, J.); Rex v. Birmingham Canal Nav. Co., 2 W. Bl. 708 (per Lord Mansfield, C. J., and Astion, J.).

99. Reg. v. York, etc., R. Co., 1 E. & B. 178, 72 E. C. L. 178. Compare Edinburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Philip, 3 Jur. N. S. 249, 2 Macq. 514, 1 Paton App. Cas. 681, 29 Sc. Jur. 242, 5 Wkly. Rep. 377.

1. Rex v. Severn, etc., R. Co., 2 B. & Ald. 646, 21 Rev. Rep. 433.

2. Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 31 L. J. Q. B. 283, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 699, 10 Wkly. Rep. 741, 101 E. C. L. 916.

3. Louque v. Louisiana Levee Co., 27 La. Ann. 134.

4. Anonymous, 12 Mod. 559.

5. Com. v. Swift Run Gap Turnpike Co., 2 Va. Cas. 362.

6. Lord Holt himself complained of his reporters, who seem to have been mere private note-takers in the court, and not officially appointed, "that the stuff which they published would make posterity think ill of his understanding, and that of his brethren on the bench." But the fame of Lord Holt as a master of the common law is too well established to be shaken even by the travesties of his decisions which appear in the Modern Reports.

7. By Chief Justice Green, of New Jersey, in his learned opinion in State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360, 364.

8. Reg. v. Cluworth, Holt 239, 6 Mod. 163, 1 Salk. 359; Reg. v. Saintiff, 6 Mod. 255 (where Lord Holt himself presided, and held that if a common footway be in decay, an indictment will lie for it of necessity, because an action will not lie without special damage); Reg. v. Wilts, 1 Salk. 359. That an indictment was the settled method of compelling counties and municipal corporations to keep their highways in repair is shown by the following cases: Rex v. Great Broughton, 5 Burr. 2700; Rex v. West Riding, 5 Burr. 2594, 2 East 342, Lofft 238, 2 W. Bl. 685; In re Langforth Bridge Case, Cro. Car. 365; Rex v. Stratford-Upon-Avon, 14 East 348; Rex v. Liverpool, 3 East 86; Rex v. Clifton, 5 T. R. 498, 2 Rev. Rep. 657.

who truly commit it, that is, the corporation, acting by its majority: and there is no principle which places them beyond the reach of the law for such proceedings."[9] We may conclude that it is a settled principle of modern jurisprudence that an indictment will lie against a corporation aggregate, although not for every species of crime or misdemeanor.[10]

2. INDICTABLE FOR OFFENSES DENOUNCED AGAINST "PERSONS." There is judicial authority for the conclusion that a corporation is indictable for a statutory offense denounced against "persons," as where the statute recites that "if any person shall," etc.[11]

3. FOR WHAT OFFENSES CORPORATIONS ARE INDICTABLE — a. For Misfeasance as Well as For Nonfeasance. Having concluded upon judicial authority that corporations are indictable, the next inquiry will be for what offenses they are indictable; and this inquiry can be best answered by discovering for what offenses they are not indictable, and excluding that class of offenses from consideration. The ancient theory was that a corporation aggregate was indictable only for acts of nonfeasance, that is for the failure to perform some public duty, such as keeping a highway in repair. The theory was that it was not indictable for acts of misfeasance, because it had no power, under its charter, to commit such acts, but that, when those who professed to act in its behalf committed acts of misfeasance they were acting ultra vires, and their acts were personal acts, and not the acts of the corporation. The rule was strictly analogous to the ancient doctrine that evil intent or motive cannot be imputed to a corporation, and that a corporation cannot be made liable in a civil action for a trespass or other malicious injury unless committed by deed.[12] This idea that a corporation cannot be punished criminally for a malfeasance has inhered to some extent in modern decisions;[13] but it is now thoroughly settled, both in England and in America, that a corporation may be prosecuted by indictment for a misfeasance as well as for a nonfeasance.[14]

b. For Creating or Permitting Public Nuisances — (i) IN GENERAL. Under the foregoing principles a corporation is indictable for committing a public nuisance, whether the commission of it involves acts of nonfeasance or misfeasance; for, to quote again the observation of Lord Denman, "it is as easy to charge one person, or body corporate, with erecting a bar across a public road, as with the non-repair of it; and they may as well be compelled to pay a fine for the act as for the omission."[15] Thus a canal company is liable to indictment for the nuisance

9. Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315.

10. State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360 (where the subject was fully examined on the English precedents); Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. 223, 43 E. C. L. 708, 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278, 2 G. & D. 236, 6 Jur. 804, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 148 (where the subject underwent full examination).

11. State v. Clark First Nat. Bank, 2 S. D. 568, 51 N. W. 587; State v. Clark Security Bank, 2 S. D. 538, 51 N. W. 337 (indictment for usury). Compare supra, XIX, A, 8; infra, XIX, E, 3, d, (I).

As to whether corporation is included in word "person" in penal statutes see supra, XIX, A, 8.

12. See supra, XIX, B, 2, a.

13. State v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 362; State v. Great Works Milling, etc., Co., 20 Me. 41, 37 Am. Dec. 38.

14. Kentucky.— Com. v. Pulaski County Agricultural, etc., Assoc., 92 Ky. 197, 17 S. W. 442, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 468.

Maine.— State v. Portland, 74 Me. 268, 43 Am. Rep. 586 [overruling State v. Great Works Milling, etc., Co., 20 Me. 41, 37 Am. Dec. 38]; State v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 57 Me. 402; State v. Freeport, 43 Me. 198 (semble).

Massachusetts.— Com. v. New Bedford Bridge, 2 Gray 339.

New Jersey.— State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360.

New York.— People v. Albany, 11 Wend. 539, 27 Am. Dec. 95.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778.

Vermont.— State v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

England.— Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315.

See also People v. Equitable Gaslight Co., 5 N. Y. Suppl. 19; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 15 W. Va. 362, 36 Am. Rep. 803.

15. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 13 Bush (Ky.) 388, 26 Am. Rep. 205; State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360; Northern created by the water of its canal being suffered to percolate through its tow-path upon the land of an adjacent proprietor, causing stagnant and noxious pools to form thereon, creating a public nuisance.[16]

(II) Keeping Disorderly House. A disorderly house is unquestionably a public nuisance; and if a corporation is indictable for any public nuisance which it is capable of committing, a corporation formed, we will say, for the purpose of carrying on a hotel, may become indictable for carrying it on as a disorderly house; and it has been held that a corporation aggregate may be prosecuted by indictment for such an offense.[17]

(III) Obstructing Public Navigation. On the same principle a corporation is indictable for obstructing a navigable river or other navigable water. Thus a corporation which has been permitted, under its governing statute, to erect a toll-bridge across a navigable river, but upon the condition of erecting draw-bridges of a prescribed width, is indictable for not erecting such bridges.[18]

(IV) Obstructing Public Highway. A species of nuisance for which indictments have often been sustained against corporations, and especially against railway companies, has consisted of obstructing the public highway.[19] Thus a street railway company may be indicted both at common law and under statutes for failing to restore the surface of the street which it has occupied and disrupted, and for failing to keep that portion of it which is occupied by its tracks in a reasonable state of repair for ordinary travel.[20] So if a steam railroad company is authorized by its governing statute to change the site of any turnpike or public road, but upon condition of reconstructing the same at its own expense, if it fails so to reconstruct it it is liable to an indictment and fine.[21] It seems also Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315. It should be observed that some of the obsolete and overruled decisions related to the liability of corporations to be prosecuted criminally for nuisances consisting of acts of malfeasance. Thus in an early Virginia case it was held that a corporation is not indictable for a public nuisance which consists in obstructing a highway by digging it up and placing thereon large quantities of stone or dirt. Com. v. Swift Run Gap Turnpike Co., 2 Va. Cas. 362. In like manner the early case in Maine which laid down the doctrine that a corporation cannot be indicted for a crime or misdemeanor consisting of a positive or affirmative act was a case where it was sought to prosecute a corporation criminally, for committing a public nuisance in erecting a dam across a navigable river. State v. Great Works Milling, etc., Co., 20 Me. 41, 37 Am. Dec. 38 [overruled in State v. Portland, 74 Me. 268, 43 Am. Rep. 586].

16. Delaware Division Canal Co. v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 367, 100 Am. Dec. 570. Upon the same principle one court has held that a municipal corporation is indictable for so constructing its sewers as to create a public nuisance. State v. Portland, 74 Me. 268, 43 Am. Rep. 586. But another court has held that such a corporation is not indictable for a public nuisance which consists in the drainage, by private persons, of filthy water into the gutters of its streets. But this decision proceeds upon the ground that the nuisance is created personally by private individuals, and that the suffering it to remain consists merely of the non-exercise of its governmental powers, for which in general a municipal corporation is not indictable. State v. Burlington, 36 Vt. 521. It has been held that a statute providing that a railway or other corporation may be indicted for maintaining a public nuisance may apply to nuisances created prior to the adoption of the statute, if continued thereafter in defiance of it. State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114.

17. State v. Passaic County Agricultural Soc., 54 N. J. L. 260, 23 Atl. 680.

18. Com. v. New Bedford Bridge, 2 Gray (Mass.) 339, erecting a bridge across a navigable stream.

19. Missouri.—State v. White, 96 Mo. App. 34, 69 S. W. 684.

New Jersey.— State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360, erecting a depot across a public highway.

Pennsylvania.— Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778.

Vermont.— State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103, erecting a depot across a public highway.

England.— Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315.

20. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 87 Tenn. 746, 11 S. W. 946.

21. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192. Many of the decisions cite the case of Lyme Regis v. Henley, 3 B. & Ad. 77, 92, 23 E. C. L. 43, 5 Bing. 91, 15 E. C. L. 486, 6 L. J. C. P. O. S. 222, 30 Rev. Rep. 542, where Lord Tenterden, C. J., said: "We think the obligation to repair the banks and that where a steam railroad company is permitted to cross the public streets or highways at grade, if it allows its trains to obstruct such highways beyond the time prescribed by the governing statute, an indictment may be prosecuted against it therefor.[22] So a steam railway company authorized to intersect with its track ordinary highways must so construct its track that it will not impede the passage or transportation of persons or property over the track, and if it so constructs it that it becomes a serious inconvenience or a dangerous obstruction to ordinary public travel along the road or way it may be indicted therefor.[23]

(v) Failing to Keep Their Works in Repair — (A) In General. By the principles of the common law, as well as under various statutes, public corporations or quasi-corporations, such as counties, towns, and cities,[24] turnpike companies,[25] plank-road companies,[26] bridge companies,[27] and railway companies,[28] are liable to indictment for the public nuisance arising from their suffering their works to fall into decay or otherwise to be so used as to create a public nuisance.

(B) How Rule Applied With Respect to Railway Companies. It has been so held where a railway company allowed a hand-car to stand upon its road with buckets and clothing hanging upon it, so as to frighten horses upon the adjacent street, and to obstruct the same and endanger life;[29] and where such a company obstructed a turnpike road in the building of its railroad, and failed to restore the turnpike road within a reasonable time.[30] For the purpose of such an indictment a street is obstructed when by reason of the impediment or obstruction ordinary travel upon it becomes inconvenient or dangerous; and it is not necessary that there should be an actual injury to any person or vehicle in order to sustain such indictment.[31] So a railway company is indictable for failure to keep its highway crossings in repair, as by leaving them wet, and with the rails projecting several inches above the street.[32] Such a corporation may be indicted, in England, for disobeying an order of two justices, under a statute, to build certain arches and culverts.[33] sea-shores is one which concerns the public, in consequence of which an indictment might have been maintained against the plaintiffs in error for their general default."

22. Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 135 Mass. 550.

23. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

24. State v. Murfreesboro, 11 Humphr. (Tenn.) 217; State v. Barksdale, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 154; Rex v. Liverpool, 3 East 86. What is said of municipal corporations relates to the non-repair of their highways. See also Rex v. Hendon, 4 B. & Ad. 628, 24 E. C. L. 276; Reg. v. Stretford, 2 Ld. Raym. 1169.

25. State v. Godwinsville, etc., Road Co., 49 N. J. L. 266, 10 Atl. 666, 60 Am. Rep. 611 (conviction quashed upon specious reasoning); Waterford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. People, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 161 (indictment at common law, and conviction affirmed); White's Creek Turnpike Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 24.

26. Syracuse, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Tully, 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 25.

27. Com. v. Central Bridge Corp., 12 Cush. (Mass.) 242; Com. v. Newburyport Bridge, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 142 (where an act creating a corporation to build a bridge allowed three years for the completion of the bridge, and prescribed that it should be built with a draw and piers, and the corporation erected the bridge and took tolls for more than a year without building any piers, it was held that it was liable to indictment for such neglect, notwithstanding the three years had not elapsed).

28. Indiana.— State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114.

Kentucky.— Cincinnati R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 137.

New Jersey.— State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360.

Pennsylvania.— Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778.

England.— Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315.

29. Cincinnati R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 137.

30. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head (Tenn.) 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778. See also Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 583.

31. Cincinnati R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 137.

32. Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147; Com. v. Hancock Free Bridge Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 58 (under a statute).

33. Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. 223, 43 E. C. L. 708, 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278, 2 G. & D. 236, 6 Jur. 804, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 148.

A shadowy and untenable distinction has been taken between an indictment against a turnpike company for neglecting to construct

(c) How Rule Applied With Respect to Turnpike Companies. It has been held that a turnpike company is liable to an indictment at common law for a nuisance, in suffering its road to be out of repair, notwithstanding that by the terms of its charter a specific penalty is provided for its neglect to keep its road in repair; and although the act giving the penalty is silent with respect to an indictment, provided that its charter contains no negative words, nor any expression indicating the intention to impair the remedy which the public have at common law.[34] In order to render a turnpike road a nuisance by reason of its non-repair, so as to sustain such an indictment, it is not essential that it should be unsafe or impassable; but any contracting or narrowing of the roadway has been held to be a nuisance; and so is the leaving of any obstruction in the road, rendering it less convenient for public use. And with reference to this question it has been ruled that the public have a right that a turnpike road shall be continued substantially in the same manner, as to width and safety, which its charter required at its first construction.[35] It is no defense against such an indictment that the company had no funds with which to repair the road.[36]

c. For Failing to Perform Their Public Duties — (i) In General. As already indicated[37] it is the settled law that a corporation may be indicted for the failure to perform those public duties which are devolved upon it by the principles of the common law, or by the terms of its charter or governing statute.[38]

(ii) Failure to Keep Highways in Repair. The most frequent illustration of this principle is found in cases where counties and incorporated boroughs or cities have been proceeded against by indictment for failing to keep their highways in repair, or for creating or suffering public nuisances to exist within their limits.[39] its road in the manner prescribed by its charter, and such an indictment for failing to maintain it in the condition of repair therein prescribed, so that it becomes a public nuisance, with the conclusion that for a neglect to construct the company is not indictable, but for a neglect to repair it is. The reasoning is inconclusive and specious, and it is not made to appear why a turnpike company is not indictable for assuming to shut up a highway against free travel and to demand tolls of travelers, without putting it in the state of usefulness required by its charter. State v. Godwinsville, etc., Road Co., 49 N. J. L. 266, 10 Atl. 666, 60 Am. Rep. 611.

34. Waterford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. People, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 161.

35. See supra, XIX, E, 3, b, (v), (a). Under a statute providing that "whenever any person, liable to the payment of toll shall sustain any injury, by reason of any turnpike being insufficient or out of repair, the corporation owning said road shall be answerable for such injury, and also liable to indictment for such insufficiency and want of repair of their road," a corporation owning a turnpike road and neglecting to keep it in repair is liable to indictment, although no person liable to the payment of tolls has sustained injury by reason of such want of repair. Com. v. Hancock Free Bridge Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 58.

36. Com. v. Hancock Free Bridge Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 58. Although indictments against municipal corporations for permitting their streets to remain out of repair run against the corporation by the name in which it is properly impleaded, and consequently by the name of the mayor and aldermen, etc., yet these officers are not individually responsible for the nonfeasance (State v. Barksdale, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 154), but the judgment, if in favor of the state, results in a pecuniary fine against the corporation (State v. Murfreesboro, 11 Humphr. (Tenn.) 217). Municipal corporations are liable, under the principles of the common law, to indictment or presentment for failing to keep their streets in repair. State v. Murfreesboro, 11 Humphr. (Tenn.) 217; State v. Barksdale, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 154; Rex v. Stratford-Upon-Avon, 14 East 348; Rex v. Liverpool, 3 East 86. It has been held that a provision in the charter of a toll-bridge corporation that the bridge should "at all times be kept in good, safe, and passable repair" requires the company to light the bridge, if the jury find, on the trial of an indictment, that such lighting is necessary to make the bridge safe and convenient for passage at night. Com. v. Central Bridge Corp., 12 Cush. (Mass.) 242.

37. See supra, XIX, E, 3, a.

38. Com. v. Newburyport Bridge, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 142; Susquehanna, etc., Turnpike Co. v. People, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 267; Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. 223, 43 E. C. L. 708, 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278, 2 G. & D. 236, 6 Jur. 804, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 148.

39. See supra, XIX, E, 3, b, (v), (a). Compare supra, XIX, E, 3, b, (iii) et seq.

It has been said that the only admissible remedies for breaches of the duties charged on railroad corporations by the railroad act of

(III) Failure of Railway Company to Furnish Reasonable Transportation Facilities. Of this nature is the public duty imposed upon railway companies, by statute in some of the states,[40] of affording reasonable transportation facilities to the public.[41]

(IV) Habitual Failure of Railroad Company to Give Warning Signals at Highway Crossings. Under the principles of the common law, while a railway company may lawfully run its trains at any reasonable rate of speed, and no rate of speed is negligence per se, yet it is bound to take reasonable precautions to prevent the enjoyment of this privilege from injuring persons crossing its road upon the public highway. The habitual failure to give signals or warnings when its trains approach such highway crossings is therefore a nuisance indictable at common law.[42]

d. For Statutory Offenses — (I) Sabbath-Breaking. It has been held that a corporation may be indicted and punished for the offense of Sabbath-breaking denounced and punished by statute against "a person."[43]

(II) Inflicting Injuries Resulting in Death. Statutes exist in some of the New England states, giving a remedy by indictment against corporations for inflicting negligent injuries resulting in death, the fine to go to the widow or next of kin of the deceased.[44] As these statutes are designed merely to furnish a civil remedy, although in the form of a criminal action, and as they are local and peculiar, the decisions construing them will not be examined here.

(III) Usury — (A) In General. A corporation may be indicted under a statute which declares that "every person who, directly or indirectly, receives any interest, discount, or consideration upon the loan or forbearance of any money, goods or things in action, greater than is allowed by law, is guilty of a misdemeanor."[45]

(B) National Banks so Indictable in State Courts. It has been held that a national bank is subject to an indictment, trial, and punishment in a state court, for a violation of a state law which makes the receiving of a greater rate of interest than is allowed by law a misdemeanor, the law being the same as above quoted.[46]

(C) What Not Necessary to State in Such Indictment. It is not necessary to state, in an indictment under such a statute, that the usurious interest was taken either upon a "loan" or upon a "forbearance."[47]

(IV) Omitting to Stamp Papers as Required by Statute. During a period when the Revenue Statutes of the United States required the stamping of certain papers, it was held that a railway company was liable to indictment for

New York are mandamus, quo warranto, and indictment. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295.

40. See for instance N. H. Gen. Laws, c. 163, § 2.

41. State v. Concord R. Co., 59 N. H. 85, holding that an indictment, under the New Hampshire statute above cited, need not allege that the acts were unlawful, or that the merchandise was the property of the person endeavoring to have it shipped.

42. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 13 Bush (Ky.) 388, 26 Am. Rep. 205.

43. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 15 W. Va. 362, 36 Am. Rep. 803.

44. Me. Rev. Stat. (1871), p. 455, § 36. By section 7 of chapter 52 these provisions are made applicable to steamboats, stage-coaches, and common carriers. See also Mass. Stat. (1840), c. 80 (construed in Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 11 Cush. (Mass.) 512); Mass. Stat. 1874, c. 372, § 163 (construed in Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 129 Mass. 500, 37 Am. Rep. 382; Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 126 Mass. 61); Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 63, § 98 (construed in Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 120 Mass. 372; Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 10 Allen (Mass.) 189); Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 160, § 34 (construed in Com. v. East Boston Ferry Co., 13 Allen (Mass.) 589); Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 63, § 97 (construed in Com. v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 108 Mass. 7, 11 Am. Rep. 301); Mass. Pub. Stat. c. 112, § 212 (construed in Com. v. Brockton St. R. Co., 143 Mass. 501, 10 N. E. 506); N. H. Comp. Stat. p. 354, § 66 (construed in Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 32 N. H. 215).

45. State v. Clark First Nat. Bank, 2 S. D. 568, 51 N. W. 587; State v. Clark Security Bank, 2 S. D. 538, 543, 51 N. W. 337.

46. State v. Clark First Nat. Bank, 2 S. D. 568, 51 N. W. 587.

47. State v. Clark Security Bank, 2 S. D. 538, 51 N. W. 337.

the act of its officer or employee, in issuing receipts for goods without stamping them as required by the federal statute.[48]

(v) Doing Business Without License — (a) In General. It has been held that a corporation may be punished for peddling without a license, on account of sales made by its unlicensed agents, although a peddler's license cannot issue to a corporation except in the name of a designated agent, who alone can sell thereunder.[49]

(b) Foreign Corporations. It seems that a foreign corporation undertaking to do business within a state without the filing of the documents required by statute may be indicted and punished therefor.[50]

4. For What Offenses Corporations Are Not Indictable — a. Treason, Felony, or Breach of the Peace. A corporation cannot in general be indicted for ordinary crimes and misdemeanors, such as involve a criminal or immoral intent, and such as are often grouped, in books of the common law, under the threefold designation of treason, felony, or breach of the peace.[51]

b. Assault and Battery. Thus a corporation cannot be indicted for an assault and battery committed by its servant.[52]

c. Acts Authorized by Valid Charter or Statute Provisions — (i) In General. Although the doing by a corporation, even in a reasonable and proper manner, of acts authorized by its charter or governing statute, does not, under the most enlightened theories, necessarily preclude a right of action for damages in the way of compensation, by persons who are damaged by the doing of such acts,[53] yet the existence of the statutory authorization will obviously estop the state from maintaining an indictment for the doing of the act;[54] assuming of course that it is properly done and within the terms of the statutory authorization, and that the statute itself is not unconstitutional.

(ii) Doctrine Illustrated in Case of Railway Corporations. For instance it was held that an indictment would not lie against a railway company for frightening horses on an adjacent highway, by the passage of their locomotives and trains, parliament having conferred upon them the authority to build their railway and to operate it by locomotive engines.[55] The same has been held where a railway company occupies a portion of a public road not exceeding the extent allowed by its governing statute, and obstructs public travel to that extent and no further, for it is a legal solecism to call that a public nuisance which is maintained by public authority.[56]

5. Form and Sufficiency of Indictments Against Corporations — a. As to Name of Corporation. Regularly the indictment should be against the corporation in its corporate name.[57]

b. Averment That Defendant Is a Corporation. Regularly such an indictment ought to aver that defendant is a corporation.[58] But this has been held unnecessary, especially where the name by which defendant is indicted sufficiently 48. U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,509.

49. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 55 S. W. 8, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1339.

50. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 62 S. W. 897, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 302 (failing to have its corporate name painted or printed on its principal place of business as required by a statute of the domestic state); Associated Press v. Com., 60 S. W. 295, 523, 867, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1229, 1369.

51. Reg. v. Great North of England R. Co., 9 Q. B. 315, 2 Cox C. C. 70, 10 Jur. 755, 16 L. J. M. C. 16, 58 E. C. L. 315; 1 Bl. Comm. 476, 477.

52. Com. v. Punxsutawney St. Pass. R. Co., 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 25.

53. 5 Thompson Corp. § 6371.

54. Rex v. Pease, 4 B. & Ad. 30, 2 L. J. M. C. 26, 1 N. & M. 690, 24 E. C. L. 24.

55. Rex v. Pease, 4 B. & Ad. 30, 2 L. J. M. C. 26, 1 N. & M. 690, 24 E. C. L. 24.

56. Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29.

57. Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. 223, 43 E. C. L. 708, 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278, 2 G. & D. 241, 6 Jur. 804, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 148. Compare Sykes v. People, 132 Ill. 32, 23 N. E. 391.

For precedents of indictments against corporations see 3 Chitty Crim. L. 587; 4 Wentworth Prec. 157.

58. Com. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 6 Ky. L. Rep. 306.

imports that it is a corporation, such as the "Dry Fork Railroad Company."[59] So a designation in an indictment as "The Vermont Central Railroad Company, a corporation existing under and by force of the laws of this state, duly organized and doing business," is a sufficient averment of the existence of the corporation.[60]

c. Charging the Offense — (I) In Case of Indictment For Non-Repair of Highways. An indictment against a municipal corporation for the non-repair of a highway within a certain limit, charging the corporation with a liability by prescription to repair all common highways within such limit, "excepting such as ought to be repaired according to the form of the several statutes in such case made," was held bad for not showing that the highway in question was not within any of the exceptions.[61] It is necessary to aver, in an indictment against a turnpike company, for the failure to keep its road in repair, that it was under a duty or obligation so to keep it in repair.[62] But it is believed that every fulfilment of a good indictment is had, where the indictment states a given duty to repair, and negatives the performance of the duty.[63] If the manner in which the reparation shall be made is not prescribed by statute, and there is a duty of repairing at common law, then the rule of the common law is that the highway shall be kept convenient and safe, and that it becomes a nuisance when it ceases to be in that condition.[64] It has been held that an indictment against the president and directors of a turnpike company for allowing their road to become ruinous should contain an averment "that it was their duty, and of right they ought to have kept the said road in repair"; otherwise judgment will be arrested.[65] On the other hand it has been held that an indictment charging that a corporation is bound by law to "keep and maintain a bridge in such a condition as to render the same safe and convenient for travelers," etc., and that the proprietors of said bridge, "regardless of their duty in this behalf, negligently and wilfully suffered and permitted said bridge to be, and remain, in such a condition as to render it unsafe and inconvenient for travellers, by neglecting to keep the same properly and suitably lighted in the night time, to the great damage and common nuisance," etc., sufficiently charges a breach of public duty, without specially alleging that they were bound to light the bridge, the jury having found that such lighting was necessary to the safety of travelers.[66]

(II) For Failing to Have Its Corporate Name Painted or Printed on Its Principal Place of Business as Required by Statute. Under a statute providing for the punishment of every corporation doing business in the state which shall fail to have its corporate name painted or printed "on its principal place or places of business," an indictment charging that defendant corporation failed and refused to have its corporate name painted or printed on its principal place of business in a city named was held not sufficient.[67]

6. Proceedings Before an Examining Magistrate. Proceedings directed by statute,[68] for bringing a corporation before an examining magistrate, have been held not a condition precedent to the power of a grand jury to indict the corporation.[69]

59. State v. Dry Fork R. Co., 50 W. Va. 235, 40 S. E. 447. See also Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 11 Ky. L. Rep. 442.

60. State v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 583.

61. Rex v. Liverpool, 3 East 86.

62. State v. Godwinsville, etc., R. Co., 49 N. J. L. 266, 10 Atl. 666, 60 Am. Rep. 611.

63. Consult on this subject Reg. v. Stretford, 2 Ld. Raym. 1169.

64. Waterford, etc., Turnpike v. People, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 161; Rex v. Hendon, 4 B. & Ad. 628, 24 E. C. L. 276.

65. State v. Patton, 26 N. C. 16.

66. Com. v. Central Bridge Corp., 12 Cush. (Mass.) 242.

67. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 62 S. W. 897, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 302, where this was put on the ground that the indictment failed to charge that the city named was its principal place of business, or one of its principal places of business.

68. In this case S. D. Comp. Laws, § 7279 et seq.

69. State v. Clark Security Bank, 2 S. D. 538, 542, 51 N. W. 337, where the court say that the proceedings pointed out by the statute "are only intended as a means of bring-

7. Mode of Compelling Appearance of Corporation to Answer Criminal Charge — a. Distringas. A corporation, being an intangible person, can appear only by attorney, when sued in any judicial proceeding,[70] and the proceedings to compel it to appear to any suit, by attorney, were always, at common law, by distress of its lands and goods.[71] So far as the writer knows, the writ of distringas, as a means of compelling the appearance of a corporation in judicial proceedings, is unknown and unused in the United States.

b. Warrant, but Not Summons. The supreme court of Indiana have held that a warrant is the proper process to compel such an appearance; and that where the proceeding was against a railroad company a summons issued and served by copies being left with the station-agent, and an attorney and director of the corporation, was not a sufficient service. But it is to be observed that in Indiana the whole system of criminal procedure is statutory, and that the ruling of the court is intended to comply with the local statute.[72]

c. Summons Only, and Judgment by Default. In New Hampshire a summons is the only process to be issued to a corporation to require it to appear and answer an indictment; and if a summons is regularly issued and served, and the corporation makes default of appearance, a judgment by default may be rendered upon the indictment as in civil cases.[73]

d. Summons and Indorsement of Plea of Not Guilty. In New Jersey it is provided by statute[74] that when summons on a defendant corporation shall be served, the corporation shall be considered as in court, and as appearing to the indictment; and that the court shall order the clerk to enter an appearance, and indorse the plea of not guilty on the indictment. It is held that this applies only to cases where the corporation does not voluntarily appear, and that it has no application to cases where it voluntarily appears by attorney, in which case it is not necessary to take the proceedings pointed out by the statute.[75]

e. Appearance by Duly Enrolled Attorney Prima Facie Sufficient. Where a duly enrolled attorney of the court appears for the corporation, he is not required to produce any warrant of attorney to appear; but if any other person on behalf of the corporation disputes his right to appear, the burden is upon such person to show that his appearance was unauthorized.[76]

8. Entering Plea of Not Guilty. It has been held that where a corporation appears by attorney it need not appear in the record that the trial court ordered the clerk to enter an appearance and indorse the plea of not guilty, but it will be presumed that it was done.[77]

9. Proving Fact of Incorporation in Proceeding by Indictment. On the trial of an indictment charging forgery of the notes of a bank of another state or country it is not necessary to prove by direct evidence the due incorporation of the bank, but testimony of the most general character is sufficient for the purpose, such testimony for example as that of a banker who testified that he had been in the bank, had seen banking business carried on there, that he had seen the articles of ing the defendant corporation before the magistrate after a grand jury has returned a presentment, and are necessary only because the corporation cannot be brought before him on a bench-warrant as natural persons are." But we are not acquainted with any system of criminal procedure under which it is necessary to bring a party before an examining magistrate after indictment or presentment found by a grand jury.

70. 1 Bl. Comm. 477.

71. Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. 223, 43 E. C. L. 708, 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278, 2 G. & D. 236, 6 Jur. 804, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 148; 1 Bl. Comm. 477.

72. State v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 362.

73. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 32 N. H. 215.

74. N. J. Crim. Proc. Act, § 80.

75. State v. Passaic County Agricultural Soc., 54 N. J. L. 260, 23 Atl. 680.

76. State v. Passaic County Agricultural Soc., 54 N. J. L. 260, 23 Atl. 680.

As to when a corporation cannot be compelled to appear and answer an indictment see People v. Equitable Gas-Light Co., 5 N. Y. Suppl. 19.

77. State v. Passaic County Agricultural Soc., 54 N. J. L. 260, 23 Atl. 680.

incorporation, etc.[78] On the other hand another court has held, in a case where an indictment of a warehouseman for defrauding a banking corporation alleged, not only that the party defrauded was a corporation, but also that it was "organized and incorporated under and by virtue of the laws of this State," that the latter averment, although perhaps unnecessarily specific, was a matter of essential description of the corporation alleged to have been defrauded, such as imposed upon the state the burden of proving the due organization of such corporation under the laws of the state, and this notwithstanding the provisions of a statute relating to evidence in criminal cases, that user shall afford prima facie evidence of corporate existence. The court reasoned that the statute in no way attempts to change the rules of evidence by which the corporate name may be shown when in dispute.[79]

10. Defenses to Indictments Against Corporations — a. In Case of Indictment For Failing to Repair Its Road — (I) No Defense That It Has Not Sufficient Funds to Repair. Where the indictment is for a failure to perform a duty which it has assumed under its charter, such as, in the case of a plank-road company, the duty of keeping its road in repair, it will be no defense that the corporation has not funds to enable it to perform the duty.[80]

(II) Good Defense That Duty to Repair Has Been Imposed by Statute Upon Another Corporation. It is a good defense to an indictment against a corporation for failing to repair a particular bridge, that the duty to make the reparation has been cast by statute upon another corporation.[81]

(III) When No Defense That Legislature Has Provided Remedy For Failing to Repair. The mere fact that the charter of a turnpike, toll-road, or bridge company provides a penalty for its failure to perform the public duty of keeping its road or bridge in a proper state of repair does not in the absence of negative words afford any bar to an indictment for the failure to perform that duty.[82]

78. People v. D'Argencour, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 178 [affirmed in 95 N. Y. 624].

79. Sykes v. People, 132 Ill. 32, 23 N. E. 391.

80. Waterford, etc., Turnpike v. People, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 161.

That the want of funds wherewith to make the repairs is no answer to a civil action for damages growing out of such failure, where the corporation possesses the power of raising the funds, was held by the house of lords in Lyme Regis v. Henley, 3 B. & Ad. 77, 23 E. C. L. 43, 5 Bing. 91, 15 E. C. L. 486, 6 L. J. C. P. O. S. 222, 3 M. & P. 278, 30 Rev. Rep. 542 [affirmed in 1 Bing. N. Cas. 222, 27 E. C. L. 614, 8 Bligh N. S. 690, 5 Eng. Reprint 1097, 2 Cl. & F. 331, 6 Eng. Reprint 1180, 1 Scott 29], reprinted in full in 2 Thompson Neg. (1st ed.) 626. See also Milledgeville v. Cooley, 55 Ga. 17; Hines v. Lockport, 50 N. Y. 236 [affirming 5 Lans. (N. Y.) 16, 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 378, 41 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 435]; Hutson v. New York, 9 N. Y. 163, 59 Am. Dec. 526 [affirming 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 289]; Peach v. Utica, 10 Hun (N. Y.) 477; Hyatt v. Rondout, 44 Barb. (N. Y.) 385 [affirmed in 41 N. Y. 619]; Smith v. Wright, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 621; Hartnall v. Ryde Com'rs, 4 B. & S. 361, 10 Jur. N. S. 257, 33 L. J. Q. B. 39, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 574, 11 Wkly. Rep. 963, 116 E. C. L. 361. It has been so held with regard to the civil liability of overseers of highways. Hover v. Barkhoof, 44 N. Y. 113. In an action against local boards or commissioners in England, for damages growing out of such negligence, it is not necessary to show affirmatively that the commissioners had funds or the means of raising funds to meet any damages which might be recovered against them. Ohrby v. Ryde Com'rs, 5 B. & S. 743, 10 Jur. N. S. 1048, 33 L. J. Q. B. 296, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1079, 117 E. C. L. 743. But the rule seems to be different in the United States, where it is sought to recover damages from a surveyor of highways personally. Smith v. Wright, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 621.

81. Rex v. Ecclesfield, 1 B. & Ald. 348, 1 Stark. 393, 19 Rev. Rep. 335, 2 E. C. L. 152. Where a turnpike company was indicted for not keeping a bridge in repair on the line of its road, but on an unfinished part thereof, it was held that it was not liable, because its charter provided that its power should cease and be of no effect so far as related to the unfinished part (State v. Morris Turnpike Co., 4 N. J. L. 165, 7 Am. Dec. 579); and as will appear from many cases the fact that some other person or corporation is liable to make the reparation in question, is the ground on which such indictments have often been contested (State v. Godwinsville, etc., Road Co., 49 N. J. L. 266, 10 Atl. 666, 60 Am. Rep. 611; Rex v. West Riding, 5 Burr. 2594, 2 East 342, Lofft 238, 2 W. Bl. 685; Rex v. West Riding, 7 East 588; Rex v. Sheffield, 2 T. R. 106, 1 Rev. Rep. 442).

82. State v. Godwinsville, etc., Road Co., 49 N. J. L. 266, 10 Atl. 666, 60 Am. Rep. 611; Waterford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. People, 9

b. In Case of Indictment Against Railway Company For Obstructing Turnpike Road — (I) In General. Neither is it a defense to an indictment against a railway company for obstructing a turnpike road that it would require an expenditure of from five thousand dollars to eight thousand dollars, so to lower the bed of the turnpike as to make it pass under the railway and obviate the obstruction.[83]

(II) No Defense That Legislature Has Given Specific Remedy to Turnpike Company. Nor does the fact that an act of the legislature gives the turnpike company a specific remedy for an injury to its rights impair the right of the commonwealth to proceed by indictment in such a case or furnish any defense to the indictment on the part of the railroad company.[84]

11. Judgment or Sentence in Criminal Proceeding Against Corporation. As already stated, according to one view, if the corporation fails to appear, a judgment by default may be taken against it as in civil cases.[85] The usual judgment is that the corporation pay a fine; although this is influenced in all cases by statutes; and we have already noted a class of statutes under which the judgment is for a fine or penalty to go to the next of kin or heirs of the person killed through the neglect of the corporation or its servants.[86] The fine as we have seen is assessed against the corporation as a political body, and not against its officers.[87] Where the indictment is for a nuisance, a part of the judgment, under the principle of the common law, is that the nuisance be abated.[88] A sentence that a corporation abate the nuisance is proper, although the nuisance may be situated on the land of another; for the owner of the soil will not be allowed to control the public right to have it abated, and what the law demands to be done for the benefit of the public an individual may not resist.[89]

F. Contempts by Corporations — 1. Corporation Cannot Be Attached For Contempt. There are early decisions to the effect that a corporation cannot be attached for a contempt of court, committed in refusing to obey its order or judgment.[90] This is obvious, when it is considered that a corporation is intangible, and has no body that can be arrested or taken by attachment or execution, and that the only means of compelling the attendance of a corporation in a court of justice at common law was by a distraint of its lands or goods.[91]

2. But May Nevertheless Be Punished For Contempt. But we may easily conclude, both upon principle and modern authority, that a corporation may be punished for those contempts which consist in the disobedience of the judgments, decrees, or orders of a court of justice, made in a case within its jurisdiction.[92]

3. Corporate Officers Punishable For Contempt — a. In General. In order to include the officers and agents of a corporation in an injunctive order directed against the corporation, it is usual to lay the restraint or command not only upon the corporation itself but also upon its officers, agents, and servants; and it is understood that in the case of its violation not only the corporation itself is amenable to punishment, but also its officers, agents, and servants, whether parties to Barb. (N. Y.) 161; Simpson v. State, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 525.

83. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

84. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300. That a turnpike is a public highway in such a sense that an indictment will lie for obstructing it as a public nuisance see Com. v. Wilkinson, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 175, 26 Am. Dec. 654.

85. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 32 N. H. 215.

86. See supra, XIX, E, 3, d, (II).

87. State v. Barksdale, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 154.

88. State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 23 N. J. L. 360, 370 (per Green, C. J.); Reg. v. Cluworth, 6 Mod. 163, 1 Salk. 359; Rex v. Stead, 8 T. R. 142; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 75, § 14.

89. Delaware Division Canal Co. v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 367, 100 Am. Dec. 570 [citing Smith v. Elliott, 9 Pa. St. 345].

As to indictment for offenses against corporations and their property see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6444, and cases there collected.

90. Smith v. Butler, Comb. 326; Guilford v. Mills, 2 Keb. 1; Mills' Case, T. Raym. 152.

91. Davis v. New York, 1 Duer (N. Y.) 451. See also supra, XIX, E, 7, a.

92. Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 190, 15 N. Y.

the proceeding or not, provided they have knowledge of the terms of the order and disobey it wilfully.[93]

b. What Appearance by Corporate Officer Will Give Court Jurisdiction Over Him. Where it appeared that defendant, in a proceeding for contempt, was the president of an insolvent corporation, and that a rule nisi had been served upon him to show cause why he should not turn over the assets of the corporation to a receiver, in accordance with an order previously entered against the corporation, and he came into court, answered in his individual capacity, and took part in the proceedings by objecting to evidence and cross-examining witnesses, it was held that the court acquired such jurisdiction over him as would authorize it to deal with him for contempt in not obeying the order.[94]

4. Attorneys For Corporations Punishable For Contempt as Officers of the Court. The attorneys of a corporation may be made amenable to process of contempt, not so much upon the ground of being agents of the corporation, as on the ground of being officers of the court, and privy to the proceedings before the court in which they represent the corporation as counsel.[95]

XX. Insolvent Corporations.

A. Assignments For Creditors — 1. Power of Corporation to Make Assignment For Benefit of Its Creditors — a. In General. Every corporation which has the power to contract debts has, at common law and in the absence of restraints imposed by charter or statute, the power to make an assignment of all its property to a trustee for the benefit of its creditors.[96]

St. 686; People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 12 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 171, 20 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 358.

93. 4 Wait Pr. 206 [quoted with approval in Tolleson v. People's Sav. Bank, 85 Ga. 171, 11 S. E. 599]. See also McKim v. Odom, 3 Bland (Md.) 407.

94. Tolleson v. People's Sav. Bank, 85 Ga. 171, 11 S. E. 599.

95. Accordingly it has been held that where, in an action by a creditor against a banking corporation, to wind up its affairs on the ground of insolvency, a temporary order is made, restraining defendant, its officers and agents, from paying out the funds or otherwise disposing of the effects of the corporation, it is a constructive contempt by the attorneys of defendant to advise its officers and shareholders to file a petition in bankruptcy, with a view of removing its property beyond the jurisdiction of the court, but not a contempt of such a nature as to warrant their suspension or removal as attorneys. Watson v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 5 S. C. 159.

96. Alabama. — Chamberlain v. Bromberg, 83 Ala. 576, 3 So. 434; Pope v. Brandon, 2 Stew. 401, 20 Am. Dec. 49.

Arkansas.— Ringo v. Biscoe, 13 Ark. 563; Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302.

Connecticut.—Catlin v. Eagle Bank, 6 Conn. 233.

Illinois.— Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492; Whithed v. J. Walter Thompson Co., 86 Ill. App. 76 [affirmed in 185 Ill. 454, 56 N. E. 1106, 76 Am. St. Rep. 51].

Iowa.— Buell v. Buckingham, 16 Iowa 284, 296, 85 Am. Dec. 516, per Dillon, J.

Maryland.— Tennessee Union Bank v. Ellicott, 6 Gill & J. 363; State v. State Bank, 6 Gill & J. 205, 26 Am. Dec. 561.

Massachusetts.— Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743; Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Revere v. Boston Copper Co., 15 Pick. 351; Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. 63.

Michigan.— Boynton v. Roe, 114 Mich. 401, 72 N. W. 257; Covert v. Rogers, 38 Mich. 363, 31 Am. Rep. 319; Town v. River Raisin Bank, 2 Dougl. 530.

Mississippi.— Grand Gulf R., etc., Co. v. State, 10 Sm. & M. 428; Montgomery v. Commercial Bank, Sm. & M. Ch. 632; Robins v. Embry, Sm. & M. Ch. 207.

Missouri. — Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865; Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260; Hutchinson v. Green, 91 Mo. 367, 1 S. W. 853; Shockley v. Fisher, 75 Mo. 498.

New York.— Vanderpoel v. Gorman, 140 N. Y. 563, 35 N. E. 932, 56 N. Y. St. 503, 24 L. R. A. 548, 37 Am. St. Rep. 601; De Ruyter v. St. Peter's Church, 3 N. Y. 238 [affirming 3 Barb. Ch. 119]; Hurlbut v. Carter, 21 Barb. 221; Hoyt v. Shelden, 3 Bosw. 267; Workum v. Caldwell, 27 Misc. 72, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 175 [distinguishing Tindel v. Park, 154 Pa. St. 36, 26 Atl. 300]; People v. U. S. Law-Blank, etc., Co., 24 Misc. 535, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 852, 27 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 351 (subject, in New York, to the restriction that it shall not contain preferences); Home Bank v. Brewster, 17 Misc. 442, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 203 (although assignments for preferences are forbidden by statute).

Pennsylvania. — Ardesco Oil Co. v. North

b. What Corporations May Make Such Assignments — (I) In General. Under this principle a banking corporation,[97] a manufacturing corporation,[98] a trading corporation,[99] a building association,[1] or even an incorporated religious society,[2] may make an assignment of all its assets for the benefit of its creditors, and in some cases with preferences, as we shall hereafter see.[3]

(II) Foreign Corporations. A foreign corporation may make an assignment of its property for the benefit of its creditors in Pennsylvania, although prohibited by statute from so doing in the state in which it was organized;[4] and so it may in South Dakota, although it has transacted all its business in that state in violation of a statute;[5] for, although the corporation may have violated the law in contracting the debts, it does not violate any law in turning over its property to make a ratable payment of them. Statutes not embodied in the charters of corporations prohibiting assignments and confessions of judgment by corporations, in contemplation of bankruptcy or insolvency, have no extraterritorial operation, and hence do not apply to foreign corporations.[6]

c. What Is, and What Is Not, a Common-Law Assignment For Creditors. Where a corporation, being deeply indebted, gave mortgages to certain creditors, as trustees for themselves and certain other named creditors, and the trustees began proceedings to foreclose, and a receiver was appointed, with the debtor's consent, with power to continue the business, it was held that the proceedings did not constitute a common-law assignment for the benefit of creditors, and hence an unsecured creditor was not entitled to share in the benefit of the mortgages.[7] An instrument made by the secretary of a corporation under the direction American Oil, etc., Co., 66 Pa. St. 375; Zucker v. Froment, 5 Pa. Dist. 579 (power of officers to make an assignment cannot be challenged by a creditor, but only by shareholders).

South Carolina.— Parker v. Carolina Sav. Bank, 53 S. C. 583, 31 S. E. 673, 69 Am. St. Rep. 888, not invalid for want of a vote of the shareholders, since the statute requiring such vote does not apply to assignments for creditors.

South Dakota.— Wright v. Lee, 2 S. D. 596, 51 N. W. 706.

Tennessee.— Hopkins v. Gallatin Turnpike Co., 4 Humphr. 403.

Texas. — Miller v. Goddman, 91 Tex. 41, 40 S. W. 718 [affirming 15 Tex. Civ. App. 244, 40 S. W. 743]; Birmingham Drug Co. v. Freeman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 451, 39 S. W. 626.

Washington.— Cerf v. Wallace, 14 Wash. 249, 44 Pac. 264 (although it cannot make a statutory assignment); McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579, 41 Pac. 919; Nyman v. Berry, 3 Wash. 734, 29 Pac. 557.

Wisconsin.— Binder v. McDonald, 106 Wis. 332, 82 N. W. 156, power exists independently of statute governing voluntary assignments.

See also Ames, etc., Co. v. Heslet, 19 Mont. 188, 47 Pac. 805, 61 Am. St. Rep. 496; and note to Sidell v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 78 Fed. 724, 24 C. C. A. 216.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 2190.

97. Arkansas.— Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302.

Georgia.— McCallie v. Walton, 37 Ga. 611, 95 Am. Dec. 369.

Maryland.—State v. State Bank, 6 Gill & J. 205, 26 Am. Dec. 561.

New Hampshire.— Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430.

New York.— Haxtum v. Bishop, 3 Wend. 13.

Pennsylvania. — Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. 223.

Tennessee.— Hopkins v. Gallatin Turnpike Co., 4 Humphr. 403.

Vermont.— Warner v. Mower, 11 Vt. 385.

United States.—Lenox v. Roberts, 2 Wheat. 373, 4 L. ed. 264, in effect.

98. Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743.

99. Pope v. Brandon, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 401, 20 Am. Dec. 49.

1. Harvey v. Cubbedge, 75 Ga. 792.

2. De Ruyter v. St. Peter's Church, 3 N. Y. 238 [affirming 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 119]. In this case the religious corporation had power "to sell" with the concurrence of the chancellor, and, without his concurrence, power "to give, grant, demise, lease, or otherwise dispose of" its property. It was held that it had power to make an assignment for the benefit of its creditors, under an order from the vice-chancellor, exercising, under another statute (1 N. Y. Rev. Stat. 168, § 2), the power to sell its property, the jurisdiction of the chancellor first having been obtained.

3. See infra, XX, B, 1, a et seq.

4. Benevolent Order, etc., v. Sanders, 28 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 321.

5. Wright v. Lee, 2 S. D. 596, 51 N. W. 706.

6. Worthington v. Pfister Bookbinding Co., 3 Misc. (N. Y.) 418, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 295, 52 N. Y. St. 448; Borton v. Brines-Chase Co., 175 Pa. St. 209, 34 Atl. 597.

7. Longley v. Amazon Hosiery Co., 128 Mich. 194, 87 N. W. 209.

of the board of directors, conveying all the assets of the insolvent debtor to an assignee for the benefit of all its creditors in proportion to their respective claims, is a general assignment under the Texas statutes, and it is the duty of the assignee to cause the instrument to be recorded and to execute a bond with sureties.[8] Where, after the institution of such a suit, and the appointment of a receiver therein, the corporation executes a conveyance of all its property to the receiver in his official capacity, such conveyance is in effect one made under the insolvency statute of the state, and not a voluntary common-law assignment, and as such it operates only on property within the state. As to property in other states it has only such effect as may be given it by their laws, and in general must give way to the claims of the creditors pursuing their remedies there.[9]

2. EFFECT OF STATUTES ON POWER TO MAKE ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS. A statute providing for assignments by insolvent debtors, which enacted that no assignment by any debtor, otherwise than as therein provided, should be legal or binding as against creditors, has been held not to include assignments by corporations, but a common-law assignment by a corporation is valid.[10] A statute prohibiting corporations of a stated class from giving preferences to their creditors when insolvent does not impair the common-law power to make assignments for creditors without preferences.[11]

3. WHAT PASSES BY SUCH ASSIGNMENTS — a. Choses in Action. There is no doubt that the general power of a corporation to assign its property to a trustee for the benefit of its creditors enables it to assign or pledge its choses in action for such purpose.[12]

b. Unpaid Stock Subscriptions — (i) In General. Such an assignment passes the unpaid stock subscriptions;[13] and it follows that creditors cannot maintain

8. Birmingham Drug Co. v. Freeman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 451, 39 S. W. 626.

9. Huntington v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 98 Fed. 459.

10. McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579, 41 Pac. 919; Nyman v. Berry, 3 Wash. 734, 29 Pac. 557.

11. Creteau v. Foote, etc., Glass Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 168, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 370, 31 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 265; Hurlbut v. Carter, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 221; Hill v. Reed, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 280; In re Bowery Bank Case, 5 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 415.

Further decisions with respect to the operation of statutes on assignments by corporations for the benefit of their creditors are to the following effect: That Ky. Stat. § 561, empowering corporations to close their business and wind up their affairs does not apply to assignments for the benefit of creditors, see U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Reed, 62 S. W. 1020, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 342. That the operation of the statute of Missouri, providing for a proceeding by the superintendent of insurance to wind up insolvent insurance companies, necessarily precludes the power on the part of such a company to make a general assignment for its creditors, and that any such attempted assignment is void, see McCoy v. Connecticut F. Ins. Co., 87 Mo. App. 73. That an ordinary proceeding by an officer of a corporation to recover a claim against the corporation is not within the statute of New York (N. Y. Laws (1890), c. 564, § 48) prohibiting assignments to its officers, see Worthington v. Pfister Bookbinding Co., 3 Misc. (N. Y.) 418, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 295, 52 N. Y. St. 448. That an assignment for the benefit of all its creditors by an insolvent corporation may be defeated by the commencement of proceedings by an existing creditor within sixty days after the registration of the deed of assignment, under N. C. Laws, § 685, providing for the defeat in such manner of "any conveyance of its property, whether absolute or upon condition, in trust or by way of mortgage," executed by the corporation, see Wilson Cotton Mills v. C. C. Randleman Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 475, 20 S. E. 770 [rehearing denied in 116 N. C. 647, 21 S. E. 431]. That the New York statute of 1825 "to prevent fraudulent bankruptcies by incorporated companies," etc., applied to the New York and Erie Railroad Company so as to invalidate any assignment made by that company in view of its insolvency, see Bowen v. Lease, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 221. As to validity of an assignment under statutes providing that no bank shall make assignments in favor of creditors and authorizing the bank commissioners to take possession of assets in insolvency see Rossman v. McFarland, 9 Ohio St. 369. Reviewing such an assignment by appeal where it was made pending suit in chancery begun by attachment see Hall v. Virginia Bank, 14 W. Va. 584.

12. Clark v. Titcomb, 42 Barb. (N. Y.) 122; Nelson v. Edwards, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 279.

13. Chamberlain v. Bromberg, 83 Ala. 576, 3 So. 434; Eppright v. Nickerson, 78 Mo. 482; Shockley v. Fisher, 75 Mo. 498; Boeppler v. Menown, 17 Mo. App. 447; Lionberger v. Broadway Sav. Bank, 10 Mo. App. 499; actions against the shareholders to enforce the payment of balances due to the corporation upon their subscriptions, because these are collectable by the assignee alone;[14] and it has been held immaterial that for whatever cause the assignee has failed to bring suit within two years.[15] The assignment of such a credit will pass without express words in the deed. It will be deemed to pass by general words which import that the corporation intends to assign all its assets for the benefit of its creditors.[16]

(II) Does Not Pass Power to Assess Unpaid Shares or Premium Notes. But such an assignment does not pass to the assignee the power ordinarily exercised by the directors of the corporation of assessing the share subscriptions, or, in case of a mutual insurance company, the premium notes;[17] but in the absence of a statute empowering the assignee to make such assessments it can be made only by a court of equity or by the court superintending the administration of the assigned estate;[18] although it has been held that where the total amount due and payable from all the shareholders will be not more than sufficient to pay the debts of the corporation no previous assessment, either by the corporation or by a court of equity, is necessary, but that the assignee may sue for the full unpaid balance.[19]

(III) But Court Superintending Administration May Make Assessment. But the court which has the superintendence of the administration may make an order requiring the payment of unpaid stock subscriptions, the same as the directors, under the authority vested in them, might have done, while the corporation was a going concern.[20] After such an assessment has been made (or where, under one theory, the whole amount will be required to liquidate the debts, without an assessment being made),[21] the assignee may maintain an appropriate action, either at law or in equity, to collect the portion assessed against the respective shareholders. In Missouri it has been held that he may maintain a suit in equity, against the corporation and its shareholders, to recover such unpaid subscriptions; and it is no objection to the equitable proceeding that certain creditors of the corporation have already proceeded against certain shareholders, by motion under a statute, to subject to the payment of their debts what is due to the corporation by such shareholders in respect of their shares, the statutory remedy being merely cumulative and not exclusive.[22] A call made by the court

Lewis v. Glenn, 84 Va. 947, 6 S. E. 866. See also Adler v. Milwaukee Patent Brick Mfg. Co., 13 Wis. 57; Hatch v. Dana, 101 U. S. 205, 25 L. ed. 885; Webster v. Upton, 91 U. S. 65, 23 L. ed. 384; Ogilvie v. Knox Ins. Co., 22 How. (U. S.) 380, 16 L. ed. 349.

14. St. Louis Sav. Assoc. v. O'Brien, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 45, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 764, 20 N. Y. St. 826; Hamilton v. Glenn, 85 Va. 901, 9 S. E. 129. The right to collect unpaid subscriptions passed by an assignment under the late bankrupt law. Hatch v. Dana, 101 U. S. 205, 25 L. ed. 885; Glenny v. Langdon, 98 U. S. 20, 25 L. ed. 43; Erwin v. U. S., 97 U. S. 392, 24 L. ed. 1065; Webster v. Upton, 91 U. S. 65, 23 L. ed. 384; Sanger v. Upton, 91 U. S. 56, 23 L. ed. 220.

15. Lane v. Nickerson, 99 Ill. 284. See also Trimble v. Woodhead, 102 U. S. 647, 26 L. ed. 290.

16. Lionberger v. Broadway Sav. Bank, 10 Mo. App. 499. To the same effect is Eppright v. Nickerson, 78 Mo. 482. It seems that in Massachusetts such an assignment does not by its own vigor pass the liability of shareholders and directors; because we find a decision in that state where, interpreting such a deed of assignment, to which the particular creditor was a party, it was held that it did not operate to release his right to bring an action against the corporation and the shareholders, to enforce their statutory liability. The reasoning of the court assumes that the right to enforce the statutory liability of shareholders and directors remains in the creditors, and does not pass by an assignment; and all it holds is that the language of the particular deed of assignment ought not to be construed as showing an intent to release such a right. Nonantum Worsted Co. v. Holliston Mills, 149 Mass. 359, 21 N. E. 670.

17. Hurlbut v. Carter, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 221.

18. Boeppler v. Menown, 17 Mo. App. 447. Compare Shulz v. Sutter, 3 Mo. App. 137.

19. Boeppler v. Menown, 17 Mo. App. 447.

20. Marson v. Deither, 49 Minn. 423, 52 N. W. 38. See also supra, VIII, B, 4, c, (III).

21. Boeppler v. Menown, 17 Mo. App. 447.

22. Lionberger v. Broadway Sav. Bank, 10 Mo. App. 499. It was at one time reasoned that such an assignment passes only the right to collect such subscriptions, where calls have been previously made by the directors, and upon the shareholders in the exercise of this power does not of course determine their liability; it merely makes due and payable any sum for which they may be justly liable; suit may be brought therefor by the assignee subject to any defenses which they may have against it.[23] The authority of the court to order the call depends upon the necessity of making it in order to raise money to liquidate the debts of the corporation.[24]

c. Passes What Franchises. In the absence of an enabling statute, such an assignment passes only those franchises which are in the nature of property belonging to the corporation and does not pass those primary or unalienable franchises which the corporation cannot sell because they are not its property. Such an assignment does not therefore entitle the assignee to an order of court granting him leave to sell "all the rights, privileges, powers and immunities which were granted by said act incorporating said bank."[25]

d. Whether Passes Rights of Action Ex Delicto. Such an assignment, according to some opinion, passes the right of action which the corporation may have ex delicto against its directors to recover damages for their mismanagement of its affairs.[26]

4. Assignments Made by Directors — a. Power of Directors to Make Such Assignment Without Authorization of Shareholders. Such an assignment does not necessarily destroy the corporation, and is therefore not strictly a constituent act, but rather a business act done in pursuance of the duty of the directors to provide for the payment of the debts of the corporation.[27] It follows that the directors have the discretionary power to make an assignment of all the assets of the corporation for a ratable distribution among its creditors, without the assent of the shareholders, and even in opposition to their will,[28] unless the charter or governing statute enacts or implies the contrary.[29] Assuming that the authority where the corporation has the present right to sue. Shultz v. Sutter, 3 Mo. App. 137. But this conception really involved the result that a chose in action may be assigned in part, which is not the law, the right to assign a part of a chose in action being denied, because it operates to multiply lawsuits and oppress debtors. Love v. Fairfield, 13 Mo. 300, 53 Am. Dec. 148; Mandeville v. Welch, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 277, 5 L. ed. 87. Subsequently it was held in Missouri, in the cases first above cited, that such an assignment passed both the called and uncalled stock subscriptions. Upon the question whether such an assignment passes the individual superadded statutory liability of shareholders there is a difference of opinion. The superadded individual liability of shareholders in national banks is enforceable by the receiver. 3 Thompson Corp. § 3561. That an individual statutory liability does not pass under general words in a deed of assignment see Ohio L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Merchants' Ins., etc., Co., 11 Humphr. (Tenn.) 1, 53 Am. Dec. 742.

23. Re Minnehaha Driving Park Assoc., 53 Minn. 423, 55 N. W. 598.

24. Re Minnehaha Driving Park Assoc., 53 Minn. 423, 55 N. W. 598.

25. Fietsam v. Hay, 122 Ill. 293, 13 N. E. 501, 3 Am. St. Rep. 492. Compare Lehigh Iron Co.'s Estate, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 257.

26. Wallace v. Lincoln Sav. Bank, 89 Tenn. 630, 15 S. W. 448, 24 Am. St. Rep. 625. See also supra, VI, P, 11, f, (IV).

27. See the observations of Black, J., in Hutchinson v. Green, 91 Mo. 367, 375, 1 S. W. 853.

28. Hutchinson v. Green, 91 Mo. 367, 1 S. W. 853; Descombes v. Wood, 91 Mo. 196, 4 S. W. 82, 60 Am. Rep. 239 [qualifying Eppright v. Nickerson, 78 Mo. 482, where it was held that such an assignment, if made by the directors without the consent of the shareholders, would be ultra vires and void, but only against the shareholders; and that a creditor of the corporation could not make the objection].

29. Connecticut.—Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64.

Indiana.— De Camp v. Alward, 52 Ind. 468.

Maryland.— Merrick v. Metropolis Bank, 8 Gill 59.

Massachusetts.— Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743.

Minnesota. — Tripp v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 41 Minn. 400, 43 N. W. 60, under a statute.

Missouri.— Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260; Hutchinson v. Green, 91 Mo. 367, 1 S. W. 853; Descombes v. Wood, 91 Mo. 196, 4 S. W. 82, 60 Am. Rep. 239; Chew v. Ellingwood, 86 Mo. 260, 56 Am. Rep. 429.

Pennsylvania. — Ardesco Oil Co. v. North American Oil, etc., Co., 66 Pa. St. 375; Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. 223; Boardman v. Keystone Standard Watch Case Co., 8 Lanc. L. Rev. 25. To the same effect see Le-of the shareholders may be necessary in a particular case, then it is held that the assignment is presumed to have been made by their authority until the contrary is shown.[30]

b. Validated by Ratification, Acquiescence, or Laches. Such an assignment, even if made without original power on the part of the directors, would be validated by the subsequent assent or acquiescence of the shareholders;[31] and on the other hand a shareholder may be precluded by his laches from questioning such an assignment.[32] Although made without the authority of the shareholders which in the particular case may be necessary, yet if it has been acquiesced in for a considerable time, or if the shareholders have taken positive affirmative action under it, and if its impeachment would disturb the status quo, the shareholders will be barred by their laches and acquiescence from contesting its validity to the prejudice of other parties.[33]

c. Validity of Assignments Made by Directors De Facto. Such an assignment cannot be impeached at the instance of shareholders in a collateral proceeding, on the ground that some of the directors were not legally elected, where they were directors de facto.[34] The principle which upholds the acts of the directors of a corporation, who are such de facto, although possibly not de jure,[35] upholds an assignment made for the benefit of creditors by a board of directors elected outside the state creating the corporation.[36]

d. Directors Do Not Execute Instrument Personally. The directors do not exercise the power held to exist in them by the decisions cited above, by formally executing the assignment themselves. They authorize the proper officers of the corporation to execute it.[37]

5. Formalities Required in Making Assignment — a. In General. Where there is a statute providing the formalities necessary in making a deed of assignment by a corporation for the benefit of its creditors, that of course must be followed.[38] Where there is no such statute, the instrument of assignment ought to fulfil the requisites of a formal deed of the corporation to pass the property intended to be passed by it, whether real or personal.[39]

b. Necessity of Using Corporate Seal. A bona fide assignment has been held good, notwithstanding the corporate seal was not used.[40]

c. Informalities Which Do Not Vitiate. A tendency is discovered to overlook informalities in such deeds of assignment, when they are not matter of substance, high Iron Co.'s Estate, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 257; Wright v. Lee, 2 S. D. 596, 51 N. W. 706. There is a note on this subject in 19 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 128.

30. Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670. In Merrick v. Metropolis Bank, 8 Gill (Md.) 59, there was previous authorization by the shareholders.

31. Lehigh Iron Co.'s Estate, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 257. See also supra, XV, C, 2, e.

32. Descombes v. Wood, 91 Mo. 196, 4 S. W. 82, 60 Am. Rep. 239. See also supra, XI, B, 15, a et seq.

33. Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

34. Boardman v. Keystone Standard Watch Case Co., 8 Lanc. L. Rev. 25.

35. See supra, IX, B, 1 et seq.

36. Milliken v. Steiner, 56 Ga. 251; Wright v. Lee, 2 S. D. 596, 51 N. W. 706.

37. Thus an assignment of all the property and assets of a bank to certain trustees for the benefit of creditors, executed by the president of the corporation and sealed with its seal, in pursuance of an ordinance of the board of directors, was held valid in Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302. In the case of a bank, where the assets to be assigned consist of securities, they may, it has been held, authorize the president or one of their own number to assign such securities. Stevens v. Hill, 29 Me. 133; Northampton Bank v. Pepoon, 11 Mass. 288; Spear v. Ladd, 11 Mass. 94. And see Bank Com'rs v. Brest Bank, Harr (Mich.) 106.

38. Tripp v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 45 Minn. 383, 48 N. W. 4, where it was held that a resolution by the directors of an insolvent corporation, authorizing its officers to assign all its assets for the equal benefit of all its creditors, is sufficient to authorize such an assignment, under the Minnesota Insolvent Law of 1881, as against a subsequent attachment of the corporate property. See also supra, XII, B, 1, a et seq.

39. Thus in Texas, where the use of the corporate seal is necessary to convey land, an unsealed instrument of assignment is invalid, although the inventory shows only personalty. Shropshire v. Behrens, 77 Tex. 275, 13 S. W. 1043.

40. Teitig v. Boesman, 12 Mont. 404, 31 Pac. 371. But see Shropshire v. Behrens, 77 Tex. 275, 13 S. W. 1043.

where the assignee enters upon the discharge of his duties and obtains possession and control of the property. It was so held even where the deed was not made by any authorized officer of the corporation.[41] The following informalities have been held not to render such an assignment void: That the board of trustees of the corporation had not been reëlected and maintained to the extent of the number required by the statute; that the assignment was not authorized at a regular meeting of the shareholders or of the trustees; that no corporate seal was affixed to the instrument of assignment, it appearing that no seal had ever been adopted by the corporation; it further appearing that the corporation had been created with but three members, who had elected themselves as its trustees, and that, upon one of them retiring, it had sunk to the status of a mere joint-stock partnership, the two remaining shareholders being in substance the absolute owners of the property assigned;[42] that the notice of the shareholders' meeting at which the assignment was authorized to be made was given to the transferees, and not to the transferrers, of certain shares, the transfers of which were insufficient to pass the legal title, because not formally made on the transfer-books;[43] and that the schedule attached to the deed of assignment is defective or that no schedule at all is attached.[44]

d. Necessity of Assent of Assignee or Trustee. There is no necessity that the assignee, trustee, or trustees to whom the assignment is made should join in the execution of the deed,[45] or enter into covenants to perform the trusts. The moment the deed is made, the right of property passes and vests in the assignee, trustee, or trustees named therein, and the relation of trustee and cestui que trust, as between them and the creditors, is at once established, so that the corporation cannot recall the deed.[46] Any act done by them which shows their assent will make the deed obligatory upon them; and equity will enforce the trust, and will not allow it to fail for want of a trustee.[47]

e. Necessity of Recording. In respect of the necessity of recording such a deed of assignment, it has been held that the act of one bank delivering to another a mass of notes and bills of exchange, as collateral security for an advance to be used in redeeming the notes of the bank executing the pledge, is not an assignment for the benefit of creditors, within a statute requiring such an assignment to be recorded, and that such a delivery is not invalid for that reason.[48]

f. Effect of Ratification of Informal or Invalid Assignments. An assignment which is invalid by reason of some informality which is not so serious that it cannot be cured by a ratification, as for example an assignment executed by the vice-president without any previous authority from the board of directors, does not, on the principle already stated,[49] become valid by a subsequent ratification in

41. Bell, etc., Co. v. Kentucky Glass Works Co., 106 Ky. 7, 48 S. W. 440, 50 S. W. 2, 1092, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1089, 1684, 51 S. W. 180, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 133, 156.

42. Teitig v. Boesman, 12 Mont. 404, 31 Pac. 371.

43. American Nat. Bank v. Oriental Mills, 17 R. I. 551, 23 Atl. 795.

44. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302; Robins v. Embry, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 207. Where an insolvent bank executed an assignment of "all and every of its property and effects, rights and credits of each and every kind and character whatsoever, in as full and complete a manner as the same are now owned, held and possessed by it," and the assignee accepted the trust, the right of property passed to them, together with the right to sue for and recover the rights, credits, etc., belonging to the bank. Hill v. Western, etc., R. Co., 86 Ga. 284, 12 S. E. 635.

45. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302; Flint v. Clinton Co., 12 N. H. 430.

46. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302.

47. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302.

That only a part of the trustees to whom the assignment has been made have signed the deed of assignment has been held no objection to an action to possess themselves of assets being maintained in the names of all, provided they are all before the court; since the court can transfer the possession to those who have signed, and allow them to hold it for the others, and to come in and execute the necessary bonds; and if they fail to come in and execute such bonds within a reasonable time the court can remove them and appoint others. And it has been held that in such a case the trustees who have qualified are entitled to an injunction to aid them in getting possession of the assets of the corporation, the remedy by an action of replevin being inadequate and incomplete. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302.

48. Griffin v. Rogers, 38 Pa. St. 382.

49. See supra, XV, B, 7, h.

such a sense as to cut off the rights of intervening creditors in a contest for preferences.[50]

6. VALIDITY OF CONDITIONS IN SUCH ASSIGNMENTS. These do not relate specially to corporations, but to the general subject of assignments for the benefit of creditors, and are treated in the article on that subject[51] and are consequently omitted here.

7. CHARTER DETERMINES VALIDITY OF ASSIGNMENT — a. In General. The validity of such an assignment must of course be decided by the charter or governing statute under which the corporation is organized. An assignment contrary to the provisions of the charter will not be upheld.[52]

b. Determined by Law of State of Organization. The validity of such an assignment, in so far as it operates as the foundation of a right of action by the assignee against the shareholders, resident and non-resident, must in general be determined in accordance with the laws of the state creating the corporation, and within which it is domiciled.[53]

c. Validity of Assignments Where Charter Makes Shareholders Liable For Corporate Debts. There is nothing in the suggestion that the charter leaves the shareholders liable for the debts of the corporation which affects the validity of an assignment of all its property for the benefit of its creditors any more than there would be in the case of a natural person who is liable for his own debts.[54]

8. QUESTIONING VALIDITY OF ASSIGNMENT — MAY BE ASSAILED AND SUPPORTED COLLATERALLY. An assignment for the benefit of creditors, not being a judicial proceeding, may of course be assailed and defended collaterally by any person whose interest in the subject-matter of it entitles him so to do. As against a stranger the burden rests upon any person asserting rights under it to show at least that it is valid on its face; and the other party may show that it is invalid by reason of extrinsic facts, as that it was not authorized by a legal meeting of the directors. It has been so held where a judgment creditor proceeded to enforce the liability of shareholders, and they set up by way of defense that there had been a general assignment by the corporation for the benefit of creditors, whereby the sole right to collect money due by them for their stock had passed to the assignee.[55]

9. VALIDITY OF BOARD MEETING AT WHICH ASSIGNMENT WAS AUTHORIZED — a. Regularity of Meeting Presumed Until Contrary Is Shown. If the validity of such an assignment is assailed on the ground that it does not appear that notice of the meeting of the board of directors at which the assignment was authorized had been communicated to all the members of the board, the validity of the authorization will be supported on the presumption of right-acting, unless it appear affirmatively that such notice was not given.[56]

50. Friedman v. Lesher, 198 Ill. 21, 64 N. E. 736 [affirming 99 Ill. App. 42].

51. See ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS, 4 Cyc. 185 et seq.

52. Ringo v. Biscoe, 13 Ark. 563.

53. Lewis v. Glenn, 84 Va. 947, 6 S. E. 866. Previously to this decision the court of appeals of Maryland, examining the question with reference to the decisions in Virginia, had reached the conclusion that the deed was valid under the laws of Virginia. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Glenn, 28 Md. 287, 92 Am. Dec. 688.

54. Pope v. Brandon, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 401, 20 Am. Dec. 49.

55. Doernbecher v. Columbia City Lumber Co., 21 Oreg. 573, 28 Pac. 899, 28 Am. St. Rep. 766.

56. Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743 [quoted with approval in Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64]. See also Lane v. Brainerd, 30 Conn. 565. On like grounds where it was shown in support of the proceedings of the board of directors that notice was sent to the absent directors at their respective residences, it was presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the notice specified the purpose for which the meeting had been called. Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64. The record of a meeting of the directors of a corporation, at which an assignment of the assets of the corporation for the benefit of its creditors was made, began as follows: "At a special meeting of the directors . . . called for the purpose of making an assignment of its estate in insolvency for the benefit of all the creditors, pursuant to the statute," etc. It was held that upon this record, until the

b. Regularity of Notice of Meeting. Such an assignment has been held to be not rendered invalid by the circumstance that actual notice was not communicated to the directors who did not attend the meeting, when they were absent at the time from the state, and were notified by telegrams sent to their respective addresses within the state, although such telegrams were not received by them. The reason is that a rule which would require actual notice to be communicated to such of the directors as had departed from the state, in order to the validity of such an assignment, would be a perilous rule; for in such cases the exigency may demand immediate action to save the property and to prevent expense.[57]

c. No Notice Necessary Where All Assemble and Act. On a principle already stated the want of the appropriate notice to the directors will be cured where all assemble and act, or where all, being together, act without objection.[58]

d. Assignment May Be Authorized by Majority of Assembled Quorum. Where the charter, the statute law, the articles of incorporation, the by-laws, or other governing instrument prescribes what shall constitute a quorum of the directors to transact ordinary business, then, if such a quorum is regularly assembled, a majority of this quorum may make an assignment for creditors of the corporation, although this may result in the passage of the resolution by the minority;[59] but not if this quorum has not been duly assembled, in pursuance of the governing statute or other instrument, by the proper legal notice.[60] Nor will it take the case out of the rule that the votes of the absent directors if they had been present would not have changed the result, since they are entitled to be present for the purpose of consultation and of being heard.[61]

10. What Resolution of Directors Will Authorize Such Assignment. It has been held that a resolution of the directors authorizing the president and secretary to execute "judgment notes, chattel mortgages, bills of sale, or other instruments, in their judgment necessary to the financial interest of the company" gives them power to execute an assignment of book-accounts to secure a debt.[62] Another court has held that a resolution of the directors of an insolvent corpocontrary was shown, it would be presumed that the purpose of the meeting was specified in the notice sent to the respective directors. Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64.

57. Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64.

58. See supra, IV, D, 9.

59. Chase v. Tuttle, 55 Conn. 455, 12 Atl. 874, 3 Am. St. Rep. 64; Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260. See also supra, IX, E, 3, i.

60. Simon v. Sevier Assoc., 54 Ark. 58, 14 S. W. 1101; Doernbecher v. Columbia City Lumber Co., 21 Oreg. 573, 28 Pac. 899, 28 Am. St. Rep. 766.

61. See supra, IV, D, 2; IX, F, 3, a; Doernbecher v. Columbia City Lumber Co., 21 Oreg. 573, 29 Pac. 899, 28 Am. St. Rep. 766 (where a judgment creditor of a corporation sued its shareholders to enforce their liability for unpaid subscriptions for stock. During the pendency of the suit, three of the directors, without any notice to the other two directors, privately met and passed a resolution authorizing the president and secretary to assign all its property for the benefit of its creditors; and in pursuance thereof a deed of assignment was executed. It was held that the assignment was void. Nor did the fact that one of the absent directors was beneficially interested in the judgment on which the suit was based, and was a member of the corporation, excuse the failure to notify him of the meeting).

It has been held that the record of the directors' meeting showing that four of the five directors were in attendance, and that two voted in favor of the adoption of such a resolution and one against it will be sufficient to show its adoption, where the minutes are signed and approved by the president, he being one of the four members present, and there is nothing else to show how he voted. Rollins v. Shaver Wagon, etc., Co., 80 Iowa 380, 45 N. W. 1037, 20 Am. St. Rep. 427. But this decision, which sustained the assignment, although some of the relatives of the directors were preferred as creditors, is not entitled to any more respect than the other decisions of the same court, which hold that conveyances by insolvent corporations for the purpose of preferring their own directors as creditors over their general creditors are valid. The record not only did not show that the resolution had been carried by a majority of the quorum present, but it showed the contrary; and the act of the president in authenticating the minutes of the corporation was in no sense a vote upon the resolution, since it would have been his duty to authenticate the minutes, although he had voted against the resolution.

62. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Burch, 141 Ill. 519, 31 N. E. 420, 33 Am. St. Rep. 331 [modifying 40 Ill. App. 505].

ration, empowering the vice-president to use all means, to do all acts, and make all deeds considered by him necessary or proper, to conserve the best interests of the association, and to use the corporate seal for such purposes, is large enough to authorize him to make an assignment of the property of the corporation for the benefit of its creditors, notwithstanding a proviso in the same resolution authorizing the treasurer to receive all moneys and to act as manager until the business is closed.[63]

11. EFFECT OF SUCH ASSIGNMENT — a. Does Not Extinguish Corporation. The assignment by a corporation of all its property for the benefit of its creditors does not extinguish it as a corporation, or disable it from maintaining an action, unless the subject-matter of the action passed from it by the assignment;[64] although it may amount to a de facto dissolution, such as lets in the remedies of the creditors against shareholders.[65]

b. Effect of Assignment Made Immediately Before Expiration of Charter. Where the directors of a bank, just before the expiration of its charter, transferred the property to trustees for the benefit of the shareholders, the assignment was held to terminate all the interest which the corporation had in the property, and to vest the legal title in the trustees, and the beneficial interest in the shareholders.[66]

c. Does Not Affect Rights Acquired Under Actions Previously Commenced. Such an assignment does not operate to impair rights or to change remedies under actions commenced before the date of the assignment.[67] Such an assignment does not take effect as of the time of the adoption of a resolution of the board of directors to make the same, so as to cut off intervening liens or securities which are not created under such circumstances as to constitute them parts of the assignment.[68]

12. WHO ELIGIBLE AS ASSIGNEE. It has been held that a solicitor of an insolvent corporation, who has advised and been intimately associated with its management, alleged to have been fraudulent, should be removed when appointed by it as its assignee in insolvency.[69] The fact that the assignee is or has been a shareholder or is himself insolvent does not necessarily disqualify him from exercising the trust, although it is a circumstance which a jury may consider as bearing on the question of the good faith of the assignment.[70] It has even been held that such a deed is not void, although made to the president of the corporation, who in that character executed the deed as grantor.[71] Nor is it invalid because made to persons who under the charter are ineligible to the office of trustees of the corporation.[72]

13. ASSIGNEE MAY MAINTAIN ACTIONS TO COLLECT SHARE SUBSCRIPTIONS. The assignee may of course maintain actions for unpaid share subscriptions, these being a part of the assets of the estate, provided the conditions exist under which

63. Huse v. Ames, 104 Mo. 91, 15 S. W. 965.

64. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

65. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.

66. Stevens v. Hill, 29 Me. 133.

67. London, etc., Mortg. Co. v. St. Paul Park Imp. Co., 84 Minn. 144, 86 N. W. 872. Compare Leavitt v. Tylee, 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 207.

68. Pollak Co. v. Muscogee Mfg. Co., 108 Ala. 467, 18 So. 611, 54 Am. St. Rep. 165.

69. Failey v. Stockwell, 2 Pa. Dist. 197, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 403.

70. Covert v. Rogers, 38 Mich. 363, 31 Am. Rep. 319.

71. Pope v. Brandon, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 401, 20 Am. Dec. 49.

72. De Ruyter v. St. Peter's Church, 3 N. Y. 238. There is one extraordinary decision to the effect that an assignment made by a governing board of a banking corporation to fifteen trustees, all of them shareholders and ten of them members of the board making the assignment, the ten constituting a two-thirds' majority of such board, is not for that reason invalid. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302. An apology is due to the profession for even citing this decision. That the assignee, when it is a trust company, need not qualify by giving a bond provided by a trust company, but may, when such proceeding is authorized by the statute law, deposit securities with the state see Roane Iron Co. v. Wisconsin Trust Co., 99 Wis. 273, 74 N. W. 818, 67 Am. St. Rep. 856.

an action might have been maintained by the corporation in the absence of any assignment.[73]

B. Preferring Creditors — 1. Doctrine That Insolvent Corporation Cannot Prefer Particular Creditors — a. Statement of Doctrine. There are two doctrines upon this subject. One is that the assets of a corporation are a trust fund for its creditors;[74] that when the corporation becomes insolvent or when its affairs reach such a state that its shareholders or directors find themselves obliged to deal with its assets in view of its approaching suspension, they can deal with them only in the character of trustees for its creditors; that this necessarily means that they can deal with them only as trustees for all its creditors, and not for particular creditors whom they may desire to pay in preference to the others, that is, to pay out of money which equitably belongs to the others. This doctrine in short is that a corporation, being insolvent, or dealing with its funds in contemplation of insolvency, and not in the ordinary course of its business, has no power to prefer particular creditors.[75]

b. Statutory Affirmations of This Doctrine. Statutory affirmations of this doctrine exist under the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883, section 48;[76] under the English Companies Act of 1862, section 164;[77] under the English Companies Clauses Act of 1863, section 24;[78] under the Federal Bankruptcy Law;[79] under 73. Shockley v. Fisher, 75 Mo. 498; Nathan v. Whitlock, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 152.

74. See supra, VI, M, 1, b, (I); VIII, B, 1 et seq.

75. Alabama.— Corey v. Wadsworth, 99 Ala. 68, 11 So. 350, 42 Am. St. Rep. 29, 23 L. R. A. 618; Goodyear Rubber Co. v. George D. Scott Co., 96 Ala. 439, 11 So. 370; Gibson v. Trowbridge Furniture Co., 96 Ala. 357, 11 So. 365 [all overruled in Corey v. Wadsworth, 118 Ala. 488, 25 So. 503, 44 L. R. A. 766; O'Bear Jewelry Co. v. Volfer, 106 Ala. 205, 17 So. 525, 54 Am. St. Rep. 31, 28 L. R. A. 707].

Michigan.— Kendall v. Bishop, 76 Mich. 634, 43 N. W. 645, semble.

Minnesota.— Tripp v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 45 Minn. 383, 48 N. W. 4, under a statute.

Missouri.—State v. Brockman, 39 Mo. App. 131; Kankakee Woolen Mills Co. v. Kempe, 38 Mo. App. 229.

New York.— Gillet v. Moody, 3 N. Y. 479.

Ohio.— Rouse v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 46 Ohio St. 493, 22 N. E. 293, 15 Am. St. Rep. 644, 5 L. R. A. 378; Remington v. Central Press Assoc., 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 337, 3 Ohio N. P. 258; Philips v. Ammon-Stevens Co., 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 418, 2 Ohio N. P. 187 (holding that a transfer by an insolvent corporation of all its property to some of its creditors is fraudulent and constitutes a general assignment in trust for all its creditors).

Rhode Island.— Olney v. Conanicut Land Co., 16 R. I. 597, 18 Atl. 181, 27 Am. St. Rep. 767, 5 L. R. A. 361.

South Dakota.— Adams, etc., Co. v. Deyette, 8 S. D. 119, 65 N. W. 471, 59 Am. St. Rep. 751, 31 L. R. A. 497.

Texas.— Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802 [affirmed in 88 Tex. 468, 27 S. W. 100]; Rogers v. Southern Pine Lumber Co., 21 Tex. Civ. App. 48, 51 S. W. 26; Florsheim Bros. Dry Goods Co. v. Wettermark, 10 Tex. Civ. App. 102, 30 S. W. 505; Harrigan v. Quay, (Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 512.

Washington.— Burrell v. Bennett, 20 Wash. 644, 56 Pac. 375 (where the relations of the pledgee and the officers of the bank, and their knowledge of its affairs, are such as to advise them of its condition); Van Brocklin v. Queen City Printing Co., 19 Wash. 552, 53 Pac. 822; Biddle Purchasing Co. v. Port Townsend Steel Wire, etc., Co., 16 Wash. 681, 48 Pac. 407; Conover v. Hull, 10 Wash. 673, 39 Pac. 166, 45 Am. St. Rep. 810; Thompson v. Huron Lumber Co., 4 Wash. 600, 30 Pac. 741, 31 Pac. 25.

West Virginia.— Hope v. Valley City Salt Co., 25 W. Va. 789.

Wisconsin.— Ford v. Plankinton Bank, 87 Wis. 363, 58 N. W. 766; Haywood v. Lincoln Lumber Co., 64 Wis. 639, 26 N. W. 184.

United States.— Smith Middlings Purifier Co. v. McGroarty, 136 U. S. 237, 10 S. Ct. 1017, 34 L. ed. 346 (under laws of Ohio); Doe v. Northwestern Coal, etc., Co., 78 Fed. 62; Sutton Mfg. Co. v. Hutchinson, 63 Fed. 496, 11 C. C. A. 320; Consolidated Tank-Line Co. v. Kansas City Varnish Co., 45 Fed. 7; Howe v. Sanford Fork, etc., Co., 44 Fed. 231; Adams v. Kehlor Milling Co., 35 Fed. 433; White, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Henry B. Pettes Importing Co., 30 Fed. 864; Lippincott v. Shaw Carriage Co., 25 Fed. 577.

76. In re Washington Diamond Min. Co., [1893] 3 Ch. 95, 62 L. J. Ch. 895, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 27, 41 Wkly. Rep. 681.

77. In re Blackburn, [1899] 2 Ch. 725, 68 L. J. Ch. 764, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 520, 7 Manson 47, 48 Wkly. Rep. 186.

78. In re Mersey R. Co., [1895] 2 Ch. 287, 64 L. J. Ch. 625, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 12 Reports 345.

79. Act Cong. July 1, 1898; 30 U. S. Stat. at L. c. 541, p. 544, as amended by Act Cong. Feb. 5, 1903; 32 U. S. Stat. at L. (pt. 1), c. 487, p. 797.

the various state statutes relating to insolvent banks;[80] under the statute of New York relating to moneyed corporations,[81] construed as applicable to insolvent mutual insurance companies;[82] under the New York statute to prevent fraudulent bankruptcies by corporations;[83] under the statute of New York of 1882 relating to transfers by banking corporations of effects exceeding in value one thousand dollars;[84] under the Public Laws of New Jersey of 1896, page 298, section 64;[85] under the Code of North Carolina, section 685, 80. Such as Ga. Code, § 4429. Hill v. Western, etc., R. Co., 86 Ga. 284, 12 S. E. 635.

81. N. Y. Rev. Stat. 591, §§ 9, 10.

82. Furniss v. Sherwood, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 521.

83. 3 N. Y. Rev. Stat. (8th ed.) p. 1729, § 4. This statute was intended to prevent an assignment which should give a preference to the officers or shareholders, and to secure the making of a fair dividend among the bona fide creditors. An assignment made not in contemplation of insolvency, and made to assignees who are not officers or shareholders of the corporation, in trust for the payment of all its debts pro rata, is valid. Hurlbut v. Carter, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 221; Hill v. Reed, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 280; Haxton v. Bishop, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 13; De Ruyter v. St. Peter's Church, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 119. Contra, Harris v. Thompson, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 62.

Further as to what payments and transfers this statute avoids see Paulding v. Chrome Steel Co., 94 N. Y. 334 (holding that the fact of insolvency at the time of the transfer is not conclusive, but that the act must have been done because of the insolvency); Dutcher v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 59 N. Y. 5 (holding that payments made in the usual course of business, under such circumstances that they would have been made if the corporation had been entirely solvent, are not within the prohibition of the statute); Robinson v. Attica Bank, 21 N. Y. 406 (holding and illustrating the principle that the statute avoids transfers made after an actual suspension); Curtis v. Leavitt, 15 N. Y. 9 [modifying 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 309, and holding that both the intent to prefer particular creditors and the insolvency of the corporation must be alleged and proved]; Heroy v. Kerr, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 194, 21 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 409 (seemingly frittering away the statute by construing the words "in contemplation of insolvency"). What transfers the statute does not avoid see Everson v. Eddy, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 872, 36 N. Y. St. 763 (conveyances made when solvent); Hoyt v. Shelden, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 267 (statute does not invalidate rights of bona fide subpurchasers for value); New York Fourth Nat. Bank v. American Mills Co., 137 U. S. 234, 11 S. Ct. 52, 34 L. ed. 655 (transfer of goods to one who has a valid factor's lien upon them for more than their value, accompanied with possession). How far this statute prohibits preferences obtained by means of actions against the corporation see Varnum v. Hart, 119 N. Y. 101, 23 N. E. 183, 28 N. Y. St. 262 [reversing 2 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 478, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 346, 25 N. Y. St. 755, and holding that the statute only applies to unjust discriminations happening through the affirmative action of the corporation, and not through its negligently suffering creditors to recover judgments by default against it, thereby obtaining preferences]. That a judgment against the corporation is not void under the statute unless recovered by the active procurement of an officer of the corporation see Dickson v. Mayer, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 651, 35 N. Y. St. 482, 26 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 257. This statute does, however, operate to invalidate an attachment levied on the assets of the corporation by a creditor who is one of its directors, although such attaching creditor has no control over the assets at the time of the levy, and although the proceeding is strictly hostile as between him and the corporation. Throop v. Hatch Lithographic Co., 125 N. Y. 530, 26 N. E. 742, 35 N. Y. St. 816 [affirming 58 Hun (N. Y.) 149, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 532, 33 N. Y. St. 880]. To the same effect is King v. Union Iron Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 33 N. Y. St. 545. But in such a case no judgment by way of punishment will be rendered against the creditor. King v. Union Iron Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 33 N. Y. St. 545. For a case not within this principle upon these facts see Bicknell v. Speir, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 590, 45 N. Y. St. 651. As this statute has no extraterritorial force it does not forbid a preference made by an insolvent corporation organized under the laws of another state. Hill v. Knickerbocker Electric Light, etc., Co., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 813, 45 N. Y. St. 761. Compare Demarest v. Flack, 128 N. Y. 205, 28 N. E. 645, 40 N. Y. St. 383, 13 L. R. A. 854. See 26 Am. L. Rev. 194; 27 Am. L. Rev. 252; 28 Am. L. Rev. 414; U. S. Vinegar Co. v. Schlegel, 143 N. Y. 537, 38 N. E. 729. This statute was held in one case to invalidate an assignment made in contemplation of insolvency by a corporation, of all of its property, in trust for the ratable payment of its creditors (Harris v. Thompson, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 62); but as above seen the contrary is the settled construction of the statute.

84. 2 N. Y. Rev. Stat. (8th ed.) p. 1554, §§ 186, 187. This statute invalidated the transfer, in a single transaction, not in the ordinary course of business, by the cashier of a bank, of a number of separate securities, the value of no one of which equaled one thousand dollars, but the aggregate value of which exceeded that sum. Atkinson v. Rochester Printing Co., 114 N. Y. 168, 21 N. E. 178, 23 N. Y. St. 155 [affirming 43 Hun (N. Y.) 167].

85. Howell v. Keen, (N. J. Err. & App. 1899) 43 Atl. 1070 (mortgage executed by making such transfers voidable as to creditors who commence proceedings to enforce their claims within sixty days after the registration of the deed;[86] under the General Assignment Act of Illinois, which prohibits preferences;[87] under the New York Stock Corporation Law, section 48;[88] under the statute of New president of corporation to secure an existing indebtedness, void under the statute, notwithstanding a subsequent ratification by the directors, where the ratification was made in contemplation of insolvency); Skirm v. Eastern Rubber Mfg. Co., 57 N. J. Eq. 179, 40 Atl. 769 (holding that a mortgage executed by a corporation to secure an issue of proposed bonds, a part of which were afterward issued to its creditors, was void under the statute, the corporation being in fact insolvent at the time); Frost v. Barnert, 56 N. J. Eq. 290, 38 Atl. 956 (holding that a corporation organized under the General Corporation Act of New Jersey cannot execute a mortgage to a general creditor to secure his preëxisting debt, although he has no notice of the insolvency of the corporation).

86. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Newton Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 507, 20 S. E. 765, holding that if proceedings are not commenced by the creditors within the sixty days limited by the statute, the conveyance will stand. As to conveyances of directors in that state see Graham v. Carr, 130 N. C. 271, 41 S. E. 379.

87. Chicago Title, etc., Co. v. Smith, 158 Ill. 417, 41 N. E. 1076, holding that the statute does not invalidate the assignment of a small fraction of the estate of a corporation to a trustee without any intent to make a general assignment under the Insolvent Debtors Act.

88. N. Y. Laws (1892), c. 688, § 48. The statute renders void payments made "with intent to give a preference" while insolvency is imminent and prevents a corporation in contemplation of insolvency from making a general assignment for the benefit of its creditors, even without preferences. Rossman v. Seaver, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 603, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 677 [affirming 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 661, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 91, and holding that where notes are given by a corporation in part for a prior indebtedness and in part for a present loan, and are split up by an officer of the corporation into sums upon which suit can be brought in an inferior court and judgment recovered at short notice, the actions not being opposed and the appointment of a receiver not being procured until after recovery of judgments therein, such judgments are "suffered," contrary to the statute, and are not valid]; Troy Waste Mfg. Co. v. Harrison, 73 Hun (N. Y.) 528, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 109, 56 N. Y. St. 183; Stiefel v. New York Novelty Co., 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 221, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 90 (holding that a payment of cash by an insolvent corporation to a creditor constitutes a "transfer" within the meaning of the statute and is void).

What payments are void under this statute.— As to what payments are void under this statute see Lopez v. Campbell, 163 N. Y. 340, 57 N. E. 501 [reversing 18 N. Y. App. Div. 427, 46 N. Y. Suppl. 91, and holding that as between a judgment rendered in favor of one creditor in November, the officers of the corporation being guilty of no other act than mere non-resistance to the action, the corporation having no valid defense thereto, and an attachment levied by another creditor upon the property of the corporation in the following December, the judgment was not within the condemnation of the statute and would prevail over the attachment]; Hilton v. Ernst, 161 N. Y. 226, 55 N. E. 1056 [affirming 38 N. Y. App. Div. 94, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 908, holding that an assignment of accounts which had been made to take the place of accounts previously assigned, and which had been wrongfully collected by the corporation, was invalid]; Creteau v. Foote, etc., Glass Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 168, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 370, 31 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 265 (holding that the statute operates to prevent a judgment creditor from maintaining an action to set aside an assignment for the benefit of creditors, since the maintenance of such action would operate to give him a preference over other creditors); Lodi Chemical Co. v. National Lead Co., 41 N. Y. App. Div. 535, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 717 [modifying 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 97, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 668, holding that the failure of creditors of an insolvent domestic corporation to make themselves parties before judgment to an action brought on their behalf to set aside transactions and judicial proceedings as conferring an unlawful preference under this statute does not deprive them of their distributive share of the assets of the debtor corporation, or entitle the plaintiff to a priority over them in the payment of his judgment]; Halpin v. Mutual Brewing Co., 20 N. Y. App. Div. 583, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 412 (avoiding notes given by an insolvent corporation to its officer for the purpose of putting the claim in such a shape that he could collect it readily, thus acquiring a preference over other creditors); Baker v. Emerson, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 348, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 576, 74 N. Y. St. 203; Milbank v. De Riesthal, 82 Hun (N. Y.) 537, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 522, 64 N. Y. St. 199 (holding that a judgment for a valid debt against an insolvent corporation which neither interposes any defense nor renders any assistance to plaintiff is not, without more, "a judgment suffered" within the meaning of the statute, and that it is hence valid); Dudensing v. Jones, 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 69, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 178; Stiefel v. New York Novelty Co., 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 221, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 90 (holding that the statute applies as well to preferential payments of debts contracted before, as to those contracted after, the statute took effect); Lodi Chemical Co. v. Charles H. Pleasants Co., 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 97, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 668 [citing Hayden v. Chemical Nat. Bank, 84 Fed. 874, 28 C. C. A.

York[89] providing that no corporation which shall have refused to pay its obligations when due, or any of its officers or directors, shall assign any of its property to any of its creditors for the payment of any debt, and that "no officer, director, or stockholder thereof shall make any transfer or assignment of its property, or any stock therein, to any person, in contemplation of its insolvency"; and under the Minnesota Laws of 1881, chapter 148, providing for the fair and honest division among the creditors of an insolvent of his unexempt assets, and forbidding passive, as well as active, fraudulent preferences.[90]

c. This Doctrine Founded on Trust-Fund Doctrine — (I) In General. This doctrine is founded by many of the courts upon the doctrine already considered,[91] that the assets of a corporation constitute in equity a trust fund pledged to the payment of all its debts, which necessarily means pledged to the payment of all its debts ratably and equally, giving no preference as among creditors who stand in equal degree.[92]

(II) Qualifications of This Trust-Fund Doctrine. Many of the courts qualify this trust-fund doctrine by saying that it does not operate to turn the assets of a corporation into a trust fund for its creditors so long as it continues a going concern;[93] so long as it continues to carry on its business in the usual course of trade;[94] where it has not ceased to do business, and there is a reasonable expectation that it can continue in business;[95] or until its condition has become such that its assets cannot be dealt with except in contemplation of insolvency and suspension.[96]

(III) Meaning of Trust-Fund Doctrine Explained. The meaning of the doctrine is that the assets of an insolvent corporation are not a trust fund, nor are the officers of the corporation strictly trustees with respect to those assets; but at most the assets are a quasi-trust fund, and the directors or officers are quasi-trustees, under the duty of dealing with the fund according to principles of equity and the circumstances of the case.[97] The meaning is that the property of a private corporation which is dissolved, or which becomes insolvent and determines to discontinue its business, is thereafter affected with an equitable lien or trust for the benefit of creditors in preference to shareholders.[98]

548, and holding that a corporation which refuses payment upon demand of a note due is insolvent, within the meaning of the statute]; Olney v. Baird, 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 385, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 815, 73 N. Y. St. 401 [affirmed in 7 N. Y. App. Div. 95, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 202, 74 N. Y. St. 765].

89. N. Y. Laws (1890), c. 564, § 48.

90. Yanish v. Pioneer Fuel Co., 64 Minn. 175, 66 N. W. 198, holding that a corporation knowing its own insolvency cannot lawfully give a preference to one creditor by permitting a judgment to be entered against it and subsequently making an assignment.

91. See supra, VI, M, 1, b, (I); VIII, B, 1 et seq. See also Coleman v. Howe, 154 Ill. 458, 39 N. E. 725, 45 Am. St. Rep. 133 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 82], which fund consists not only of the paid-in capital, but of that which the shareholders have promised to pay.

92. Alabama.— St. Marys' Bank v. St. John, 25 Ala. 566.

Illinois.— Beach v. Miller, 130 Ill. 162, 22 N. E. 464, 17 Am. St. Rep. 291, holding that directors of an insolvent corporation are trustees for its creditors, and cannot prefer themselves at the expense of other creditors. But this case does not deny the right to prefer creditors other than themselves.

Nebraska.— Stough v. Ponca Mill Co., 54 Nebr. 500, 74 N. W. 868.

North Carolina.— Hill v. Pioneer Lumber Co., 113 N. C. 173, 18 S. E. 107, 37 Am. St. Rep. 621, 21 L. R. A. 560.

Ohio.— Meisse v. Loren, 6 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 258, 4 Ohio N. P. 100.

Texas.— Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 88 Tex. 468, 27 S. W. 100 [affirming 86 Tex. 143, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802].

Wisconsin.— Haywood v. Lincoln Lumber Co., 64 Wis. 639, 26 N. W. 184.

United States.— Washburn v. Green, 133 U. S. 30, 10 S. Ct. 280, 33 L. ed. 516; Butler v. Cockrill, 73 Fed. 945, 20 C. C. A. 122.

93. Barth v. Koetting, 99 Wis. 242, 75 N. W. 395.

94. Moon Bros. Carriage Co. v. Waxahachie Grain, etc., Co., 89 Tex. 511, 35 S. W. 1047 [affirming 13 Tex. Civ. App. 103, 35 S. W. 337].

95. Ide v. College Park Electric Belt Line, 90 Tex. 509, 39 S. W. 915 [affirming 15 Tex. Civ. App. 273, 40 S. W. 64].

96. Sabin v. Columbia Fuel Co., 25 Oreg. 15, 34 Pac. 692, 42 Am. St. Rep. 756 [rehearing denied in 35 Pac. 854].

97. Gottlieb v. Miller, 154 Ill. 44, 39 N. E. 992.

98. Sutton Mfg. Co. v. Hutchinson, 63 Fed. 496, 11 C. C. A. 320. It has been reasoned that the capital stock of a corporation is a

(iv) Denials of Trust-Fund Doctrine. Other courts deny the doctrine that the assets of a corporation, although insolvent, are a trust fund for its creditors in any other sense than that in which the assets of a copartnership or of an individual are a trust fund for creditors,[99] necessarily holding that the creditors of the corporation have no equitable charge or lien upon it or equitable title to it in any different sense from that which an individual or partnership creditor has upon the property of an individual or partnership debtor.[1]

d. Point of Time at Which Power of Corporation to Deal With Its Assets as an Individual May Ceases. Where the doctrine prevails that a corporation cannot use its funds so as to prefer particular creditors to the exclusion or delay of others, it often becomes necessary to consider at what point of time the ability of the corporation to deal with its funds so as to pay particular debts in full ceases. Under this head one expression is that a corporation may in good faith pay a bona fide debt unless it is insolvent, has ceased to be a going concern, or its business is such that the directors know, or ought to know, that suspension is impending.[2] Another expression is that so long as a corporation is a "going concern," engaged in the conduct of its regular business, and not known or believed to be insolvent by its officers and managers, with assets exceeding its liabilities, it is not in such a state of insolvency as will preclude its executing a mortgage on its property in good faith to secure a debt of the corporation, even though the debt is one for which the directors are security.[3] Another expression is that a corporation engaged in the business for which it was organized, in other words a corporation which continues to be a "going concern," does not necessarily become insolvent in such a sense as disables it from preferring one creditor over another, although embarrassed at the time and unable to pay its debts as fast as they mature.[4] Another court has reasoned that a corporation is insolvent within the trust fund for the benefit of its creditors, to be held subject to the payment of their claims unless it is transferred in good faith, in payment of a debt due to a bona fide purchaser, for a valuable consideration, and that it cannot be withdrawn by the shareholders as such. Gilbert v. Washington Beneficial Endowment Assoc., 10 App. Cas. (D. C.) 316, 25 Wash. L. Rep. 149.

99. Catlin v. Eagle Bank, 6 Conn. 233; Union Bank v. Ellicott, 6 Gill & J. (Md.) 363; State v. State Bank, 6 Gill & J. (Md.) 205, 26 Am. Dec. 561; Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. (Pa.) 223.

1. Crawfordsville First Nat. Bank v. Dovetail Body, etc., Co., 143 Ind. 550, 40 N. E. 810, 52 Am. St. Rep. 435; Wehn v. Fall, 55 Nebr. 547, 76 N. W. 13, 70 Am. St. Rep. 397 (creditors of an insolvent corporation do not acquire any specific lien upon its assets); German Nat. Bank v. Hastings First Nat. Bank, 55 Nebr. 86, 75 N. W. 531; Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co. v. Henderson Electric, etc., Co., 116 N. C. 112, 21 S. E. 951. The meaning is that the capital of a corporation is not held in trust for creditors, except in the sense that it cannot be distributed among shareholders without first providing for the payment of corporate debts; and in this respect there is no distinction between unpaid capital and paid capital, between stock subscriptions and any other assets of a corporation. O'Bear Jewelry Co. v. Volfer, 106 Ala. 205, 17 So. 525, 54 Am. St. Rep. 31, 28 L. R. A. 707 (not a trust fund for the benefit of creditors in any sense other than that when a court of equity takes possession of it upon some general principle of equity jurisdiction, wholly independent of any idea that the property constitutes a trust fund, it will be administered for the equal benefit of creditors); Grand De Tour Plow Co. v. Rude Bros. Mfg. Co., 60 Kan. 145, 55 Pac. 848 (corporation may prefer its creditors whenever a natural person may do so); Hospes v. Northwestern Mfg., etc., Co., 48 Minn. 174, 50 N. W. 1117, 51 Am. St. Rep. 637, 15 L. R. A. 470; Gould v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 52 Fed. 680 (same principle decided in conformity with the law of Arkansas, it being a rule of property to be administered in the federal courts).

2. Hinz v. Van Dusen, 95 Wis. 503, 70 N. W. 657.

3. Currie v. Bowman, 25 Oreg. 364, 35 Pac. 848; Sabin v. Columbia Fuel Co., 25 Oreg. 15, 34 Pac. 692, 42 Am. St. Rep. 756, 35 Pac. 854.

4. Sabin v. Columbia Fuel Co., 25 Oreg. 15, 34 Pac. 692, 42 Am. St. Rep. 756, 35 Pac. 854. A statute authorizing a corporation to hold, purchase, and sell such property as the "purposes" of the corporation may require applies only to powers to be used while the corporation is a "going concern" and carrying on its business, and does not confer upon it the power to execute a preferential deed of assignment after insolvency and the permanent cessation of its business. Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802 [affirmed in 88 Tex. 468, 27 S. W. 100].

rule as to preferring creditors, where its assets are insufficient to pay its debts and it has ceased to do business, or is in the act of taking a step which will practically incapacitate it from conducting the corporate enterprise with reasonable prospect of success, or its embarrassments are such that early suspension and failure must ensue.[5] On the other hand it is a proposition which will command universal assent, that when a corporation is solvent and a "going concern," and not in the expectation of insolvency at the time of making a mortgage or a pledge of its property, the act cannot be attacked, in the event of its subsequently becoming insolvent, on the ground that its property was held in trust for its creditors.[6]

2. Doctrine That Insolvent Corporation Can Prefer Particular Creditors to Exclusion of Others Who Stand on Equal Footing With Those Preferred — a. Statement of Doctrine. Opposed to the doctrine first above announced[7] is the doctrine that corporations, when insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, may dispose of their assets so as to prefer favored creditors, although the result may be to leave nothing for others, who stand on a footing equally meritorious.[8]

5. Corey v. Wadsworth, 99 Ala. 68, 11 So. 350, 42 Am. St. Rep. 29, 23 L. R. A. 618. Other expressions on this subject may be found in Bird v. Magowan, (N. J. Ch. 1898) 43 Atl. 278; Fremont First Nat. Bank v. Rice, 22 Ohio Cir. Ct. 183, 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 121.

6. In re New Memphis Gaslight Co. Cases, 105 Tenn. 268, 60 S. W. 206.

7. See supra, XX, B, 1, a.

8. Alabama.— Corey v. Wadsworth, 118 Ala. 488, 25 So. 503, 44 L. R. A. 766 [overruling earlier decisions]; O'Bear Jewelry Co. v. Volfer, 106 Ala. 205, 17 So. 525, 54 Am. St. Rep. 51, 28 L. R. A. 707.

Arkansas.— Ringo v. Biscoe, 13 Ark. 563.

Colorado.—Breene v. Merchants', etc., Bank, 11 Colo. 97, 17 Pac. 280; John V. Farwell Co. v. Sweetzer, 10 Colo. App. 421, 51 Pac. 1012; Burchinell v. Bennett, 10 Colo. App. 150, 50 Pac. 206, 10 Colo. App. 502, 52 Pac. 51 (unless there is some element of bad faith, or fraudulent preference, or the transaction is between persons who sustain a fiduciary relation to the corporation, under circumstances that ought to preclude them from asserting the preference); West v. Hanson Produce Co., 6 Colo. App. 467, 41 Pac. 829.

Connecticut.— Catlin v. Eagle Bank, 6 Conn. 233.

Georgia.— Albany, etc., Steel Co. v. Southern Agricultural Works, 76 Ga. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 26.

Illinois.— State Nat. Bank v. Union Nat. Bank, 168 Ill. 519, 48 N. E. 82 [affirming 68 Ill. App. 25]; Chicago Title, etc., Co. v. Smith, 158 Ill. 417, 41 N. E. 1076 (transfer of accounts to a trustee valid, although on the same day a bill is filed for the appointment of a receiver and a winding-up; such an assignment not defeated by a statute providing for the winding-up of the business of corporations by suits in equity, although such suit is brought immediately after the assignment); Gottlieb v. Miller, 154 Ill. 44, 39 N. E. 992; Peoria First Nat. Bank v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 151 Ill. 308, 37 N. E. 1019 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 358, may make a valid chattel mortgage to secure a portion of its creditors]; Warren v. Columbus First Nat. Bank, 149 Ill. 9, 38 N. E. 122, 25 L. R. A. 746 (holding that the mere insolvency of a corporation does not eo instanti deprive the directors and officers of the power to dispose of the corporate property in good faith, by paying or securing corporate debts, although certain creditors are thereby given a preference over others); State Nat. Bank v. John Moran Packing Co., 68 Ill. App. 25 [affirmed in 168 Ill. 519, 48 N. E. 82]; Juillard v. Walker, 54 Ill. App. 517 (holding that a preference to creditors of an insolvent corporation is not void or voidable because such corporation, in concert with its creditors, has determined upon winding up its affairs through a receiver); Peterson v. Brabrook Tailoring Co., 51 Ill. App. 249 [affirmed in 150 Ill. 290, 37 N. E. 242].

Indiana.— Levering v. Bimel, 146 Ind. 545, 45 N. E. 775; Henderson v. Indiana Trust Co., 143 Ind. 561, 40 N. E. 516 (may prefer any of its creditors who are not shareholders or directors, even though the preferred claims are secured by the indorsement of the directors and part of the shareholders).

Iowa.—Manton v. Seiberling, 107 Iowa 534, 78 N. W. 194 (provided that it does not do so by an instrument or instruments of general assignment, or which are construed to be assignments for the benefit of creditors, and therefore void by reason of preferences); Latrobe First Nat. Bank v. Garretson, 107 Iowa 196, 77 N. W. 856; Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Garrett v. Burlington Plow Co., 70 Iowa 697, 29 N. W. 395, 59 Am. Rep. 461.

Kentucky.— Lexington L., etc., Ins. Co. v. Page, 17 B. Mon. 412, 66 Am. Dec. 165.

Maryland.— State v. State Bank, 6 Gill & J. 205, 26 Am. Dec. 561.

Massachusetts.— Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743.

Michigan.— Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Dewey, 14 Mich. 477.

Mississippi.— Sells v. Rosedale Grocery, etc., Co., 72 Miss. 590, 17 So. 236 (in the absence of fraud, notwithstanding an intention existing at the time subsequently to execute a general assignment without preference; and notwithstanding the provision of

b. Doctrine That It Can Prefer Its Own Shareholders Over Its Other Creditors. The doctrine that a corporation can prefer particular creditors to the postpone-

Miss. Code, § 847, that, on the dissolution of a corporation, the debts due to and from it shall be a charge upon its property); Palmer v. George W. Hutchinson Grocery Co., (Miss. 1892) 11 So. 789.

Missouri.— Pullis v. Pullis Bros. Iron Co., 157 Mo. 565, 57 S. W. 1095; Meyer v. American Folding Chair Co., 130 Mo. 188, 32 S. W. 300 (provided it does so in good faith to secure or to pay a bona fide debt); Waggoner-Gates Milling Co. v. Ziegler-Zaiss Commission Co., 128 Mo. 473, 31 S. W. 28 (chattel mortgage to secure creditors executed by an insolvent corporation and covering its entire property is valid in the absence of fraud as against other creditors, although made in contemplation of a general assignment which was in fact executed the same day, and although some of the directors were personally liable on the debts secured thereby); Slavens v. John R. Cook Drug Co., 128 Mo. 341, 30 S. W. 1025 (where the corporation is still a "going concern," although in a failing condition, and although the managers have resolved to quit business); Alberger v. National Bank of Commerce, 123 Mo. 313, 27 S. W. 657 (if it is done in good faith while its property remains in its possession unaffected by liens or process of law); Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260 [affirming 16 Mo. App. 150]; St. Louis v. Alexander, 23 Mo. 483, 524 (per Ryland, J.); Manhattan Brass Co. v. Webster Glass, etc., Co., 37 Mo. App. 145; Schroeder v. Mason, 25 Mo. App. 190.

Nebraska.— M. A. Seeds Dry-Plate Co. v. Heyn Photo Supply Co., 57 Nebr. 214, 77 N. W. 660 (in the absence of fraud); German Nat. Bank v. Hastings First Nat. Bank, 55 Nebr. 86, 75 N. W. 531 (holding that the determination of the managing officers of a corporation, resolving to effect a consolidation with another corporation, in order to avoid trouble with the creditors, to retain a portion of the goods sold them and apply the proceeds to the payment of debts, does not constitute such goods a trust fund for the payment of creditors pro rata so as to prevent the corporation from giving a creditor a preference therein by mortgage, notwithstanding that the other creditors relied upon the goods being distributed pro rata); Wallachs v. Robinson, etc., Co., 50 Nebr. 469, 70 N. W. 52 (in the absence of actual fraud); Shaw v. Robinson, etc., Co., 50 Nebr. 403, 69 N. W. 947 [rehearing denied in 51 Nebr. 164, 70 N. W. 953, provided it does so in good faith].

New Jersey.— Bergen v. Porpoise Fishing Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 397, 8 Atl. 523; Vail v. Jameson, 41 N. J. Eq. 648, 7 Atl. 52; Wilkinson v. Bauerle, 41 N. J. Eq. 635, 7 Atl. 514; Stratton v. Allen, 16 N. J. Eq. 229.

Pennsylvania.— Moller v. Keystone Fiber Co., 187 Pa. St. 553, 41 Atl. 478 (an insolvent corporation may assign its interest in fire-insurance policies after loss, in such a way as to prefer one creditor to another, if the preference is honestly made to secure or satisfy a bona fide debt); Hall v. West Chester Pub. Co., 180 Pa. St. 561, 37 Atl. 106; Pairpoint Mfg. Co. v. Philadelphia Optical, etc., Co., 161 Pa. St. 17, 28 Atl. 1003, 34 Wkly. Notes Cas. 216 (an insolvent corporation may prefer a creditor by confession of judgment); Dana v. U. S. Bank, 5 Watts & S. 223.

Virginia.— Planters' Bank v. Whittle, 78 Va. 737.

West Virginia.— Pyles v. Riverside Furniture Co., 30 W. Va. 123, 2 S. E. 909; Bier v. Gorrell, 30 W. Va. 95, 3 S. E. 30, 8 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Wisconsin.— Ford v. Hill, 92 Wis. 188, 66 N. W. 115, 53 Am. St. Rep. 902, but see Wisconsin cases cited supra, XX, B, 1, a.

Wyoming.— Conway v. Smith Mercantile Co., 6 Wyo. 468, 46 Pac. 1084.

United States.— Hollins v. Brierfield Coal, etc., Co., 150 U. S. 371, 14 S. Ct. 127, 37 L. ed. 1113; American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Ward, 111 Fed. 782, 49 C. C. A. 611, 55 L. R. A. 356 (holding that no trust in favor of creditors attaches to the assets of a corporation until possession has been taken of them by a court of equity for the purposes of administration); National Bank of Commerce v. Allen, 90 Fed. 545, 33 C. C. A. 169; Allis v. Jones, 45 Fed. 148; Lippincott v. Shaw Carriage Co., 25 Fed. 577.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 2162.

In New Jersey by the act of Feb. 16, 1829, "to prevent frauds by incorporated companies," all sales or transfers of its property, by an incorporated company, either after insolvency or suspension or in contemplation of insolvency, were forbidden and declared void as to creditors, although good as to bona fide purchasers for value. See N. J. Rev. (1846), p. 129. These provisions were construed as requiring the affairs of any incorporated company, on becoming insolvent, to be put in a train of proceedings, the form of which the statute prescribed, whereby its property was distributed among its creditors, and as forbidding the preference of any creditor, after insolvency, known or contemplated. Wells v. Rahway White Rubber Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 402; Kinsela v. Cataract City Bank, 18 N. J. Eq. 158; Van Wagenen v. Paterson Sav. Bank, 10 N. J. Eq. 13; Coryell v. New Hope Delaware Bridge Co., 9 N. J. Eq. 457; State Bank v. New Brunswick Bank, 3 N. J. Eq. 266. But in the more recent revision of the statutes of New Jersey these provisions were omitted and the act to prevent frauds by incorporated companies was repealed. N. J. Rev. p. 1395, § 411. With the statutory prohibition out of the way, the courts of that state ment or exclusion of the others has been carried to the extent of holding that in the absence of any legislative prohibition it can prefer one of its own shareholders to the exclusion of its other creditors;[9] and this, although, under the governing statute, the shareholders are liable for the debts of the corporation, in a primary sense, as partners, so that an execution issuing from a judgment recovered against a corporation may, in the event of a deficiency of corporate assets, be levied upon the property of the shareholders.[10] As the shareholders are in substance the proprietors, it cannot escape attention that this doctrine is tantamount to the doctrine that a man engaged in business may prefer himself over his own creditors.[11]

c. Doctrine That It Can Prefer Its Own Directors and Officers Over Its Outside Creditors — (i) In General. It is to be regretted that some of the American courts have carried the right of an insolvent corporation to prefer creditors to the extent of holding that it may not only prefer creditors who are its own shareholders, but may prefer such as are its own directors.[12] have fallen in line with the decisions in other states, which hold that insolvent corporations have the same power to prefer their creditors that individuals have. Bates v. Elmer Glass Mfg. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1888) 15 Atl. 246; Bergen v. Porpoise Fishing Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 397, 8 Atl. 523; Vail v. Jameson, 41 N. J. Eq. 648, 7 Atl. 520; Wilkinson v. Bauerle, 41 N. J. Eq. 635, 7 Atl. 514.

In Pennsylvania, under the act of 1836, an attachment execution did not lie against a corporation. Nor could the property of an insolvent corporation be seized for the benefit of a particular creditor; and the test of insolvency was the absence of tangible property. Ridge Turnpike Co. v. Peddle, 4 Pa. St. 490. But now it seems that a corporation may, in that state, give a judgment note for an honest debt to one of its members. Randall v. Jackson, 1 Pa. Dist. 726. But see In re Clymer Distilling Co., 2 Pa. Co. Ct. 111.

In Arkansas an assignment of all its assets by a bank, which never had any capital, except what it had borrowed under a scheme by which it was propped up by the credit of the state, was upheld, although it contained an elaborate scheme of preferences, dividing the creditors for this purpose into seven classes and making the officers of the corporation first. Ex p. Conway, 4 Ark. 302. This right of the same corporation to prefer creditors was reaffirmed and rendered worse by an additional holding to the effect that a creditor might buy up its bills and set them off to the extent of their face value, accrued interest, and the penalty of ten per cent per annum, denounced by the charter against the bank for suspending specie payments. Ringo v. Biscoe, 13 Ark. 563.

9. Reichwald v. Commercial Hotel Co., 106 Ill. 439; Parsons v. Hatton-Snowden Co., 58 Ill. App. 272; Lexington L., etc., Ins. Co. v. Page, 17 B. Mon. (Ky.) 412, 66 Am. Dec. 165; Whitwell v. Warner, 20 Vt. 425 (holding that shareholders securing to themselves a preference are not guilty of such a fraud as renders them personally liable to creditors).

10. Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743, where such an assignment was made for the payment of liabilities on which the assignee was an indorser for the corporation, upon condition that the assignee give a bond to the corporation binding him to apply the proceeds of the property to the payment of such indorsed notes, and to account for such application, and pay over the balance, if any, and the court found nothing in the assignment which was void as against creditors, in such a sense as to sustain an attachment against the property assigned; and the property having been attached by another creditor the assignee recovered it in replevin. It was admitted that the conveyance would be fraudulent if made by an individual, because repugnant to the letter and spirit of the insolvent laws. But as corporations were not subject to the insolvent laws at that time, and as the court saw nothing in such an assignment which was not in furtherance of the purposes of the corporation, one of those purposes being to pay its debts and to enable it to go on successfully with its business by the aid of new assessments, or to wind up and settle upon terms most advantageous to the shareholders, the court sustained the assignment.

11. That this is not the modern law see infra, XX, B, 3.

12. Alabama.—Wilson v. Stevens, 129 Ala. 630, 29 So. 678, 87 Am. St. Rep. 86; Corey v. Wadsworth, 118 Ala. 488, 25 So. 503, 44 L. R. A. 766.

Colorado.— West v. Hanson Produce Co., 6 Colo. App. 467, 41 Pac. 829.

Connecticut.— Smith v. Skeary, 47 Conn. 47.

Illinois.— Harts v. Brown, 77 Ill. 226, holding that directors, after giving shareholders a chance to some in and make advances to relieve the corporation, can buy up an indebtedness honestly owing to one of the directors, and enforce the sale of the corporation property under a deed of trust given to secure such indebtedness, and thereby acquire title to the property; and the other shareholders cannot then complain.

(II) Although Directors May Have Voted For Proposition. This infamous doctrine has been pushed to the extent of allowing the directors and shareholders of a corporation to prefer themselves at the expense of its creditors at large, although the director or shareholder may have voted for the proposition.[13]

(III) Although Preferred Directors Had Falsely Represented to Public That Corporation Had Certain Capital. A conception which proceeds upon a similar level is that the fact that the directors had falsely represented to the public, by means of the letter-heads on which they conducted the business correspondence of their company, that it had a certain capital, does not estop them from preferring themselves before the general creditors of the company, whom they have thus deceived into giving credit to it.[14]

(IV) Preferring Debts With Respect to Which Their Directors Are Sureties — (A) In General. The doctrine of the last preceding paragraph carries with it the conclusion that a corporation which is insolvent, or in contemplation of suspension, may devote its assets to the payment of certain indebtedness with respect to which its own directors are sureties, in preference to other indebtedness with respect to which they are not sureties.[15] Under any theory the payment by a corporation of its valid debt does not become fraudulent as to its Indiana.— Compare Crawfordsville First Nat. Bank v. Dovetail Body, etc., Co., 143 Ind. 534, 42 N. E. 924, which was a case of payment by a solvent corporation, not contemplating insolvency, of indebtedness for which its directors were security.

Iowa.— Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Garrett v. Burlington Plow Co., 70 Iowa 697, 29 N. W. 395, 59 Am. Rep. 461; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Wasson, 48 Iowa 336, 30 Am. Rep. 398; Buell v. Buckingham, 16 Iowa 284, 85 Am. Dec. 516. Compare Hallam v. Indianola Hotel Co., 56 Iowa 178, 9 N. W. 111.

Michigan.— Montreal Bank v. J. E. Potts Salt, etc., Co., 90 Mich. 345, 51 N. W. 512.

Missouri.— Butler v. Harrison Land, etc., Co., 139 Mo. 467, 41 S. W. 234, 61 Am. St. Rep. 464; Schufeldt v. Smith, 131 Mo. 280, 31 S. W. 1039, 52 Am. St. Rep. 628, 29 L. R. A. 830; Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260 [affirming 16 Mo. App. 150].

New Jersey.— Whittaker v. Amwell Nat. Bank, 52 N. J. Eq. 400, 29 Atl. 203, under Corporations Act (1875), § 80, directors may prefer themselves by mortgages.

Pennsylvania.— In re Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc. No. 2, 202 Pa. St. 589, 52 Atl. 58, exhibiting circumstances under which the directors of a corporation who have advanced money to it to make a purchase are not subject to have their claims on account of such advance set aside in favor of other creditors of the corporation.

South Carolina.— Central R., etc., Co. v. Claghorn, Speers Eq. 545, where insolvency was not found as a fact.

Virginia.— Planters' Bank v. Whittle, 78 Va. 737, "providing they did it with the utmost good faith."

United States.—American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Ward, 111 Fed. 782, 49 C. C. A. 611, 55 L. R. A. 356; Brown v. Grand Rapids Parlor Furniture Co., 58 Fed. 286, 7 C. C. A. 225, 22 L. R. A. 817; Gould v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 52 Fed. 680; Hills v. Stockwell, etc., Furniture Co., 23 Fed. 432 (under Michigan law).

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 2170.

Such preference gives no right of attachment.— That the fact that the directors of an insolvent corporation have used its assets in preferring themselves gives no right of attachment to an outside creditor was the conception of courts in Missouri. Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260 [affirming 16 Mo. App. 150].

That the president of a corporation can prefer himself as a creditor of a third person over the corporation which is also a creditor of the same person, thus running a race of diligence with, and outrunning his cestui que trust, see Farmers', etc., Bank v. Wasson, 48 Iowa 336, 30 Am. Rep. 398.

13. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Foster v. Mullanphy Planing-Mill Co., 92 Mo. 79, 4 S. W. 260. Where a director and bookkeeper of a corporation which afterward failed became such on the recommendation of his ability by another corporation for the place, and as such director by his vote in the board secured a preference in favor of the corporation which had recommended him, it was held that the law would not presume that he acted under the control of the creditor corporation. National Bank of Commerce v. Allen, 90 Fed. 545, 33 C. C. A. 169 [distinguishing American Oak Leather Co. v. Fargo, 77 Fed. 671].

14. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263.

15. Swift v. Dyer-Veatch Co., 28 Ind. App. 1, 62 N. E. 70 [withdrawing opinion in 60 N. E. 169] (mortgage of all the property by three directors, to secure debts for which creditors from the mere fact that one of its officers, even its president, is also personally liable for the payment of the debt.[16]

(B) Although Debts in Respect of Which Directors Are Preferred Have Been Contracted in Excess of Statutory Limit. One court has proceeded upon a conception so poor as to hold that directors may, by mortgage of the corporate property, prefer themselves as creditors, although they have, in violation of their duty, allowed the corporation to become indebted in excess of the limit prescribed by its governing statute.[17]

(V) Directors Bound to Exercise Utmost Good Faith to Protect Corporation. While the directors may or may not be deemed fiduciaries of the creditors with respect to the assets of the corporation, yet they are fiduciaries of the corporation and of its shareholders, and under principles already explained[18] they are bound to exercise the utmost good faith to protect the rights of the corporation and its shareholders, without regard to their own personal interest.[19]

3. Doctrine That Corporation Cannot Prefer Its Own Shareholders Before Its General Creditors. We now come to a class of cases announcing the juster doctrine that a corporation cannot prefer its own shareholders over its outside creditors,[20] for the reason that they are in substance and in sense its proprietors; and hence any rule of equity which would allow a corporation to prefer its own shareholders would, by strict analogy, allow a partnership to prefer its own members; nor can the sense and justice surrounding this question be obscured by falling back upon the proposition that a corporation is one person in the law and its shareholders another person.

4. Doctrine That Corporation Cannot Prefer Its Own Directors and Officers — a. Statement of Doctrine. The better doctrine, and one resting on principles of justice too obvious for explanation or comment, is that when a corporation is insolvent, or when it reaches such a condition that its creditors see that they must deal with its assets in the view of its probable suspension, they cannot use those assets to prefer themselves, as creditors or sureties, in respect of past advances, to the prejudice of its general creditors.[21] such directors were surety, is void, unless authorized by a quorum of board of directors, a majority of which quorum are not liable as sureties); Clapp v. Allen, 20 Ind. App. 263, 50 N. E. 587.

Illustrations.— It has been held that a director of an insolvent corporation, who signed a bond to indemnify a corporate creditor, for the purpose of protecting the corporate property, and thereby benefiting all the shareholders and creditors may, from the proceeds derived from the sale to him of corporate property, pay such creditor. Graham v. Carr, 130 N. C. 271, 41 S. E. 379, where it was also held that a director of an insolvent corporation, who is also a surety for the payment of corporate debts, cannot apply the proceeds of the sale to him of corporate property, to the payment of such debts. It has been held that a preference by an insolvent corporation of creditors whose debts have been guaranteed by directors of the corporation is not invalid, although made without the requirement or knowledge of the creditors, unless it otherwise appears that it was made for the benefit of the directors or guarantors, and not for that of the creditors themselves. Blair v. Illinois Steel Co., 159 Ill. 350, 42 N. E. 895, 31 L. R. A. 269.

16. Parsons v. Hatton-Snowden Co., 58 Ill. App. 272.

17. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Garrett v. Burlington Plow Co., 70 Iowa 697, 29 N. W. 395, 59 Am. Rep. 461.

18. See supra, IX, G, 1 et seq.

19. J. W. Butler Paper Co. v. Robbins, 151 Ill. 588, 38 N. E. 153.

20. Reagan v. Chicago First Nat. Bank, 157 Ind. 623, 61 N. E. 575, 62 N. E. 701; Washington Mill Co. v. Sprague Lumber Co., 19 Wash. 165, 52 Pac. 1067.

21. Alabama.— Corey v. Wadsworth, 99 Ala. 68, 11 So. 350, 42 Am. St. Rep. 29, 23 L. R. A. 618; Goodyear Rubber Co. v. George D. Scott Co., 96 Ala. 439, 11 So. 370; Gibson v. Trowbridge Furniture Co., 96 Ala. 357, 11 So. 365. Contra, Corey v. Wadsworth, 118 Ala. 488, 25 So. 503, 44 L. R. A. 766.

Illinois.— Roseboom v. Whittaker, 132 Ill. 81, 23 N. E. 339; Beach v. Miller, 130 Ill. 162, 22 N. E. 464, 17 Am. St. Rep. 291, 14 N. E. 698 [reversing 23 Ill. App. 151, and distinguishing Merrick v. Peru Coal Co., 61 Ill. 472, and Harts v. Brown, 77 Ill. 226]; Cleveland Rolling Mill Co. v. Crawford, 9 R. & Corp. L. J. 171 (property already in hands of receiver).

Indiana.— Port v. Russell, 36 Ind. 60, 10 Am. Rep. 5; Swift v. Dyer-Veatch Co., 28 Ind. App. 1, 62 N. E. 70 [withdrawing opin-

b. This Doctrine Explained — (I) In General. The governing principle is that the directors and managers of insolvent corporations are trustees of the funds as well for the creditors as for the corporation, and are bound to apply them pro rata, and cannot use them to exonerate themselves to the injury of other creditors.[22] That such is the rule of distribution results from the principle that equity is equality, and that in the administration of assets in equity all who stand in equal relations are entitled to share equally. It need scarcely be added that any arrangement by which the directors turn the property of the company over to themselves, without consideration, or without even assuming an obligation to pay its just debts, is an arrangement which, although happy for the directors, will not be permitted to stand if properly challenged.[23]

(II) Rule Does Not Avoid Transfers Made For Full Value. The above rule does not of course operate to avoid a sale of the assets of a corporation made to one of its directors in good faith and for full value.[24]

c. Point of Time at Which Directors Lose Power to Prefer Themselves as Creditors. This obligation to hold the assets of the corporation as a trust fund for equal distribution among its creditors attaches to the directors, not only when ion in 60 N. E. 169] (insolvent corporation cannot prefer a debt with respect to which its directors or officers are bound as sureties); Nappanee Canning Co. v. Reid, (Ind. App. 1901) 60 N. E. 1068 (mortgage creating such a preference voidable at the suit of other creditors).

Kansas.— Arkansas Valley Agriculture Soc. v. Eicholtz, 45 Kan. 164, 25 Pac. 613.

Maine.— Symonds v. Lewis, 94 Me. 501, 48 Atl. 121.

Minnesota.— Taylor v. Fanning, 87 Minn. 52, 91 N. W. 269.

Missouri.—State v. Brockman, 39 Mo. App. 131; Kankakee Woolen Mills Co. v. Kampe, 38 Mo. App. 229; Williams v. Jackson County Patrons of Husbandry, 23 Mo. App. 132.

Nebraska.— Williams v. Turner, 63 Nebr. 575, 88 N. W. 668; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. McDonald, 63 Nebr. 363, 88 N. W. 492, 89 N. W. 770; National Wall Paper Co. v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 63 Nebr. 234, 88 N. W. 481, 56 L. R. A. 121 (all holding that an insolvent corporation cannot prefer a debt with respect to which its directors or officers are bound as sureties).

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Putnam, 61 N. H. 632; Richards v. New Hampshire Ins. Co., 43 N. H. 263.

New Jersey.— Smith v. Loomis, 5 N. J. Eq. 60.

New York.— Ogden v. Murray, 39 N. Y. 202; King v. Union Iron Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 33 N. Y. St. 545; West v. West, etc., Mfg. Co., 9 N. Y. St. 255.

Pennsylvania.— Finch Mfg. Co. v. Stirling Co., 187 Pa. St. 596, 41 Atl. 294, 43 Wkly. Notes Cas. 113 (rule that an officer or director of an insolvent corporation cannot prefer his individual debt is said to be based, not on statutory insolvency, but on the unfair and fraudulent character of the transaction); Sicardi v. Keystone Oil Co., 149 Pa. St. 148, 24 Atl. 163.

Rhode Island.— Olney v. Conanicut Land Co., 16 R. I. 597, 18 Atl. 181, 27 Am. St. Rep. 767, 5 L. R. A. 361.

Virginia.— Tate v. Commercial Bldg. Assoc., 97 Va. 74, 33 S. E. 382, 75 Am. St. Rep. 770, 45 L. R. A. 243.

Washington.— Smith v. Hopkins, 10 Wash. 77, 38 Pac. 854, where the corporation has been insolvent for a long time and is not a going concern.

West Virginia.— Sweeny v. Grape Sugar Refining Co., 30 W. Va. 443, 4 S. E. 431, 8 Am. St. Rep. 88.

Wisconsin.— Haywood v. Lincoln Lumber Co., 64 Wis. 639, 26 N. W. 184.

United States.— Drury v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 7 Wall. 299, 19 L. ed. 40; Hart v. Globe Ins. Co., 113 Fed. 307; Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cotton Exch. Real-Estate Co., 70 Fed. 155; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. San Diego Street-Car Co., 45 Fed. 518 (pledge made contrary to purpose declared in resolution); Consolidated Tank-Line Co. v. Kansas City Varnish Co., 45 Fed. 7; Howe v. Sanford Fork, etc., Co., 44 Fed. 231; Adams v. Kehlor Milling Co., 35 Fed. 433; Sprague-Brimmer Mfg. Co. v. M. J. Murphy Furnishing Goods Co., 26 Fed. 572; Lippincott v. Shaw Carriage Co., 25 Fed. 577.

See 12 Cent. Dig. tit. "Corporations," § 2170.

22. Richards v. New Hampshire Ins. Co., 43 N. H. 263; Olney v. Conanicut Land Co., 16 R. I. 597, 18 Atl. 181, 27 Am. St. Rep. 767, 5 L. R. A. 361.

23. Hilles v. Parrish, 14 N. J. Eq. 380, where it was also held that the fact that the complaining party was himself acting fraudulently toward the company will not justify a violation of their duties on the part of the directors.

24. Graham v. Carr, 130 N. C. 271, 41 S. E. 379. Thus where a solvent corporation sold to two of its directors, who were also the principal shareholders, certain real estate, in consideration of such purchasers assuming certain of the corporate debts, to an amount equal or greater than the value of such property, the sale was valid as against the other creditors of the corporation.

they have voted the corporation to be insolvent,[25] but whenever the fact that it must discontinue business by reason of insolvency comes to their knowledge.[26] This knowledge of insolvency is not, and cannot from the very nature of things, be a positive knowledge. It is a reasonable belief, founded upon probabilities having reference to the company's affairs. It is sufficient to put an end to the right of directors to prefer themselves as creditors for them to know that it is probably insolvent,[27] although sometimes, it is to be confessed, the courts have gone far in indulging a want of knowledge or judgment on the part of the directors in this particular.[28] The only sound principle then is that the directors of the corporation cannot prefer themselves as creditors, either when it is in fact insolvent,[29] or when its condition is such that the act is done by them in contemplation of its insolvency.[30]

5. WHETHER DIRECTORS CAN PREFER THEIR OWN RELATIVES. The power of directors of insolvent corporations to prefer their own relatives stands in reason on much the same footing as their power to prefer themselves. It has been held that such directors cannot prefer their relatives who are corporation creditors.[31] But where the rule of the particular jurisdiction allows the directors to prefer themselves, they can for just as good reasons prefer their relatives.[32]

6. VALIDITY OF ABSOLUTE ASSIGNMENT OF ALL CORPORATE PROPERTY TO PAY SINGLE DEBT. That an insolvent individual or partnership may make an absolute assignment of all its property to pay a single debt, provided the purpose be to pay the debt, and not to hinder, delay, or defraud other creditors, seems to be settled;[33] but with respect to a corporation such an assignment will be held valid or void according to the theory which obtains in the particular jurisdiction with respect to the power of a corporation to prefer particular creditors to the exclusion of others. Such an assignment has been held valid by some courts[34] and void by others.[35]

Swentzel v. Franklin Invest. Co., 168 Mo. 272, 67 S. W. 596.

25. Williams v. Jackson County Patrons of Husbandry, 23 Mo. App. 132.

26. State v. Brockman, 39 Mo. App. 131; Buffalo Third Nat. Bank v. Elliott, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 121, 3 N. Y. St. 390.

27. Lamb v. Pannell, 28 W. Va. 663; Lamb v. Cecil, 28 W. Va. 653.

28. Thus where it did not appear that a corporation was insolvent at the time its board of directors executed judgment bonds to secure debts due certain of the directors, or that there was any collusion or actual fraud, the mere entry of judgment on the bonds, after the supposed insolvency of the corporation, was held not such a fraud in law as to warrant the continuance of an injunction restraining the sale of corporate property on execution issued on the judgment. Neal's Appeal, 129 Pa. St. 64, 18 Atl. 564.

29. Beach v. Miller, 130 Ill. 162, 22 N. E. 464, 17 Am. St. Rep. 291; Hopkins' Appeal, 90 Pa. St. 69; Olney v. Conanicut Land Co., 16 R. I. 597, 18 Atl. 181, 27 Am. St. Rep. 767, 5 L. R. A. 361.

30. See the cases previously cited in this and the preceding sections; also King v. Union Iron Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 33 N. Y. St. 545; West v. West, etc., Mfg. Co., 9 N. Y. St. 256. There is a note on this subject in 19 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 98. Whether a director of an insolvent bank, with full knowledge of its insolvency, can withdraw his deposits from the bank was mooted in Lamb v. Laughlin, 25 W. Va. 300.

31. West v. West, etc., Mfg. Co., 9 N. Y. St. 256; Adams v. Kehlor Milling Co., 35 Fed. 433, 36 Fed. 212. Effect of the managing officer of a corporation creating fictitious debts in favor of his wife, and transferring corporate assets in pretended payment see Jeffery v. J. W. Butler Paper Co., 37 Ill. App. 96.

32. Blair v. Illinois Steel Co., 159 Ill. 350, 42 N. E. 895, 31 L. R. A. 269 (preference of a corporate creditor not unlawful although she was the aunt of three of the directors); Rollins v. Shaver Wagon, etc., Co., 80 Iowa 380, 45 N. W. 1037, 20 Am. St. Rep. 427.

33. Lampson v. Arnold, 19 Iowa 479.

34. Sargent v. Webster, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 497, 46 Am. Dec. 743. It has been held by a court which denies the right of an insolvent corporation to prefer its creditors that the insolvency of a corporation at the time of making a conveyance of its property does not affect the validity of the conveyance, where its operation is merely to transfer, in the absolute payment of a debt, property which has been previously conveyed as security for the same debt, and at a time when the corporation was solvent, a conclusion which seems plain enough. O'Conner Min. etc., Co. v. Coosa Furnace Co., 95 Ala. 614, 10 So. 290, 36 Am. St. Rep. 251.

35. Kendall v. Bishop, 76 Mich. 634, 43 N. W. 645.

7. Rights of Creditors Against Corporation While It Continues a Going Concern. While a corporation continues to be a going concern its separate creditors, in the absence of statutory qualifications of the rule, and of course in the absence of collusion and fraud, have the same rights against it for the collection of their demands that they would have in the case of an individual debtor.[36] In a jurisdiction where the doctrine obtains that corporations may prefer particular creditors, the creditor of a corporation who, without knowledge of its insolvency or its intent to make an assignment, procures by diligence a bill of sale and chattel mortgage upon its property will, in the absence of fraud or collusion, be permitted to retain the fruits of his diligence.[37] In a jurisdiction where corporations are not allowed to prefer particular creditors, a creditor who, in the absence of collusion and without knowledge of the insolvency of the corporation, procures a payment to be made by the corporation of a debt which the corporation owes to him, will not be required to surrender the payment to its receiver after its insolvency, although the payment exhausts most of the assets of the corporation.[38] This doctrine has even been applied in a case where the giving of security in the form of a mortgage inured to the benefit of shareholders and directors, they being ignorant of the insolvent condition of the corporation at the time when such security was given.[39]

8. Payments Made by Corporation in Due Course of Business. Payments made by a corporation in due course of business and with the expectation of being able to continue the same are not fraudulent preferences in the absence of an express statute making them so.[40]

9. Protection of Bona Fide Purchasers. The mere fact of insolvency does not operate to fasten any specific lien upon the property of a corporation so as to enable its general and unsecured creditors to follow the property into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value.[41] Nor will a sale of goods by a corporation to an innocent purchaser while it is a going concern be subsequently held to be fraudulent as to its creditors, although after the sale the officers of the corporation misappropriate the proceeds,[42] the principle being that a person dealing with a trustee is not, in the absence of fraud or collusion, charged with the proper application of money which he may pay to such trustee.[43]

10. Right of Creditors of Corporations to Secure Preferences by Use of Judicial Process — a. May Obtain Preferences by Attachment. A creditor of a corporation which is in fact insolvent may obtain a preference over its other creditors by an attachment levied upon its property while it continues to be a going concern;[44] although it is so circumstanced that an early cessation of its business must result

36. Slack v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 103 Wis. 57, 79 N. W. 51, 74 Am. St. Rep. 841.

37. Oakford v. Fischer, 75 Ill. App. 544.

38. Ford v. Lamson, 17 Ohio Cir. Ct. 539, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 374.

39. Chick v. Fuller, 114 Fed. 22, 51 C. C. A. 648.

40. The most conspicuous illustration of this statement is found in the case of a run on a bank which, in the hope of resisting the run, continues payment until its available resources are exhausted and then suspends. Here its assignee or receiver cannot maintain an action against a depositor who, even down to the last hour, has been fortunate enough to withdraw his deposit. In like manner it has been held that a corporation, intending in good faith to proceed with its business, can pay to its directors money borrowed from them without rendering them responsible to its creditors. Holt v. Bennett, 146 Mass. 437, 16 N. E. 5; Dutcher v. Importers', etc., Nat. Bank, 59 N. Y. 5.

41. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 66 Fed. 809, 14 C. C. A. 116.

42. Levins v. W. O. Peeples Grocery Co., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 733.

43. 4 Thompson Corp. § 4930.

44. Mallette v. Ft. Worth Pharmacy Co., 21 Tex. Civ. App. 267, 51 S. W. 859; Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Peck, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 111, 49 S. W. 160; Ballin v. Merchants' Exch. Bank, 89 Wis. 278, 61 N. W. 1118, 46 Am. St. Rep. 834, 27 L. R. A. 357. To the contrary that the doctrine that the assets of a corporation constitute a trust fund for its creditors operates to prevent creditors from obtaining liens or preferences by means of the statutes relating to attachment and garnishment see Miller v. Goodman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 244, 40 S. W. 743 [disapproving Roseboom v. Whittaker, 132 Ill. 81, 23 N. E. 339].

from the fact of levying the attachment;[45] and although its president contemplates an assignment for the benefit of all its creditors.[46]

b. Jurisdictions in Which Creditors May Not Obtain Preferences by Attachment. In a jurisdiction where the assets of an insolvent corporation are deemed to be a trust fund for the ratable satisfaction of all its creditors, a creditor will not be permitted to acquire a preference over other creditors by attachment when he would not be permitted to acquire such a preference in any other manner; but if the attaching creditor knows that the corporation is insolvent his attachment will be set aside, and the property of the corporation will be administered for the equal benefit of all its creditors.[47] In such a jurisdiction an attachment levied by consent of the corporate debtor, immediately after it has resolved to execute a general assignment for its creditors, and when it is proceeding to do so, stands on no higher ground than a mortgage or other form of security executed under the same circumstances to prefer a particular creditor, but becomes a part of the general assignment.[48]

c. Obtaining Preferences by Procuring Confessions of Judgment — (I) In General. In those jurisdictions where the right of a corporation to prefer one of its creditors over others is conceded, an insolvent corporation may confess a judgment in favor of a bona fide creditor, not an officer or a member, which judgment, with an execution thereon, will constitute a valid lien on all its property except its franchise.[49]

(II) When Such Preferences Voidable. Preferences obtained by judicial process have been held void under the following circumstances: Where a bank recovered a judgment by default against an insolvent corporation in an action instituted at the suggestion of an officer of the corporation after the commencement of another action instituted in the same way, in a state where insolvent corporations are not allowed to prefer particular creditors, and where, after default in the latter action, an agreement had been made between the attorneys of the respective parties that the judgments should be entered together;[50] where a corporation in failing circumstances borrowed money with which to buy in its own shares of stock, and when it became insolvent gave to the persons from whom the money was borrowed a preference over other creditors by confessing judgments in their favor, the lenders of the money having had actual knowledge of the purpose for which it was borrowed, the reason being that such conduct worked a fraud upon bona fide creditors and defeated the collection of their claims;[51] where judgment against an insolvent corporation was obtained upon its notes, which had been given in consideration of a sham sale of worthless securities to the corporation, which were not delivered to it, the conclusion being that an execution upon such a judgment was not a valid lien upon the property of the corporation nor upon a fund arising from the sale of such property;[52] where an attorney for certain creditors of a corporation, who was also a trustee under a deed of trust which had been executed by the corporation, split up certain accounts which his

45. Moon Bros. Carriage Co. v. Waxahachie Grain, etc., Co., 13 Tex. Civ. App. 103, 35 S. W. 337 [affirmed in 89 Tex. 511, 35 S. W. 1047].

46. American Nat. Bank v. Dallas Tinware Mfg. Co., 15 Tex. Civ. App. 631, 39 S. W. 955 [disapproving Corey v. Wadsworth, 99 Ala. 68, 11 So. 350, 42 Am. St. Rep. 29, 23 L. R. A. 618].

47. Compton v. Schwabacher, 15 Wash. 306, 46 Pac. 338.

48. Pollak Co. v. Muscogee Mfg. Co., 108 Ala. 467, 18 So. 611, 54 Am. St. Rep. 165. That a creditor of a corporation which has ceased to be a going concern, and which has committed plain and open acts of insolvency, cannot gain a preference over other creditors by filing a bill (the mode of procedure in the particular jurisdiction) and by levying an attachment see Levins v. W. O. Peeples Grocery Co., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 733.

49. East Side Bank v. Columbus Tanning Co., 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 357 [affirmed in 170 Pa. St. 1, 32 Atl. 539].

50. Conover v. Hull, 10 Wash. 673, 39 Pac. 166, 45 Am. St. Rep. 810.

51. Adams, etc., Co. v. Deyette, 5 S. D. 418, 59 N. W. 214, 49 Am. St. Rep. 887.

52. Atlas Nat. Bank v. More, 152 Ill. 528, 38 N. E. 684, 43 Am. St. Rep. 274, opinion by Baker, J.

clients held against the corporation so as to bring them within the jurisdiction of a court of limited jurisdiction, and then instituted suit and obtained judgments thereon, the corporation making no defense to the actions because of quieting representations made by such attorney and trustee, with the conclusion that such judgments would be declared void for fraud in law, and would not be allowed to give the judgment creditors preference over other creditors;[53] where a judgment by default against an insolvent corporation had been obtained in an action in which the process had been secretly served upon the president and another officer, who were respectively the son and brother of the plaintiff creditor, at a time when the open and public institution of such proceedings would surely have inaugurated a series of suits by other creditors;[54] where judgment notes were given by a corporation immediately preceding a general assignment for its creditors, which corporation was organized under the laws of Ohio, but had subsequently removed its property and business into Pennsylvania, where it became insolvent, the object of the giving of such notes being to secure bona fide debts due to creditors who were non-residents of Ohio; and judgments were taken thereon in Pennsylvania, and property of the corporation was seized and sold thereon in accordance with the laws of Pennsylvania, the conclusion being that the preference thereby created was not valid under the laws of Ohio;[55] and where a judgment was rendered in an action against an insolvent corporation on the day on which service of summons in the action had been obtained, for the full amount demanded, with costs, upon an offer made by an attorney for the corporation at the suggestion of its president, after an assignment had been made for the benefit of its creditors, and while an injunction was in full force restraining the corporation, its officers, and agents, from encumbering any of its real or personal property, the conclusion being that the judgment ought to be vacated on motion of the assignee and officers of the corporation not assenting thereto, and that the assignee and corporation be allowed to defend the action upon a suggested ground of defense which, if established, would be sufficient to defeat a recovery.[56]

(III) When Such Preferences Not Voidable. On the other hand preferences acquired in judicial proceedings have been held not voidable under the following circumstances: Where, the corporation being insolvent, the directors had allowed a judgment against it to be taken collusively, but where the corporation had no defense to the action, and the judgment creditor was neither a shareholder nor a director;[57] and where a judgment was rendered against a corporation for a bona fide debt in a case where the officers of the corporation did not put in an answer, the conclusion being that it would not be set aside at the instance of a receiver of the corporation as creating an unlawful preference in favor of the judgment creditor.[58]

d. Obtaining Preferences by Other Judicial Means. For the secretary of a corporation, at the bidding of a particular creditor whom the corporation desires to prefer, to go to another state for the purpose of having process against the corporation served upon him, and for him to place the papers served upon him in the hands of an attorney to whom he is introduced by an attorney for the creditors, and who is ultimately paid by such creditors, places the corporation in the attitude of suffering a judgment in order to give a preference within the meaning of a statute[59] rendering invalid any transfer or judgment suffered by a corporation which is insolvent or whose insolvency is imminent, with an intent to prefer

53. Wilson Cotton Mills v. C. C. Randleman Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 475, 20 S. E. 770 [rehearing denied in 116 N. C. 647, 21 S. E. 431].

54. Conover v. Hull, 10 Wash. 673, 39 Pac. 166, 45 Am. St. Rep. 810, opinion by Dunbar, C. J.

55. Kit Carter Cattle Co. v. McGillin, 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 210, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 413.

56. Willsie v. Rapid Valley Horse-Ranch Co., 7 S. D. 114, 63 N. W. 546.

57. Cummings v. American Gear., etc., Co., 87 Hun (N. Y.) 598, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 541, 68 N. Y. St. 653, a seemingly untenable decision in view of the New York statute.

58. Ridgway v. Symons, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 98, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 895, 74 N. Y. St. 606.

59. N. Y. Laws (1892), c. 688, § 48.

a particular creditor;[60] nor could the assignee of a claim against the corporation, who knew of the insolvency of the corporation and of its purpose to avoid the effect of a statute prohibiting the transfer to any officer or shareholder of any property of a corporation which has refused payment of its obligation, directly or indirectly, recover a judgment upon the assigned claim which would be valid as against the other creditors.[61]

11. Validity of Mortgages and Other Assignments of Corporate Property to Secure Present Advances. The inability of a corporation to deal with its property, when insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, for the purpose of preferring particular creditors, whether this inability is imposed by judicial decision or by statute, does not extend so far as to prevent a corporation, even when insolvent, from making in good faith transfers or mortgages of its property to secure present advances of money to be used in paying its debts, in extricating itself from its difficulties, or otherwise in continuing its business;[62] and this is none the less so where the mortgage is made to an officer of the corporation.[63] So the insolvency of a corporation at the date of a deed of its property does not affect its validity, where its operation is merely to transfer, in absolute payment of a debt, property which had been previously conveyed as security therefor, at a time when the corporation was not insolvent.[64] But such transactions will be closely scrutinized whenever properly called in question in a judicial proceeding. If therefore the directors sell property of the corporation to a member of the board to raise money to pay debts, it must appear that there was a necessity for the sale, and that the property was bought by the director in open market, at a fair price, without any undue advantage over the corporation, in good faith, and without the slightest unfairness.[65]

12. Validity of Preferences to Creditors by Means of Executing Judgment Notes — a. In General. A favorite way of preferring particular creditors is by 60. Olney v. Baird, 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 385, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 815, 73 N. Y. St. 401 [affirmed in 7 N. Y. App. Div. 95, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 202, 74 N. Y. St. 765].

61. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Townley, 92 Hun (N. Y.) 172, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 584, 74 N. Y. St. 212.

62. Skinner v. Smith, 134 N. Y. 240, 31 N. E. 911, 47 N. Y. St. 528 [affirming 56 Hun (N. Y.) 437, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 81, 31 N. Y. St. 448]; Damarin v. Huron Iron Co., 47 Ohio St. 581, 26 N. E. 37.

63. Mullanphy Sav. Bank v. Schott, 135 Ill. 655, 26 N. E. 640, 25 Am. St. Rep. 401; Strohl v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 25 Wash. 28, 64 Pac. 916 (president of corporation advanced money to it, took demand notes therefor, and afterward the corporation executed a mortgage to him — held valid as against its receiver); Twin-Lick Oil Co. v. Marbury, 91 U. S. 587, 23 L. ed. 328. It has been held that a mortgage executed by an insolvent corporation in Indiana, in compliance with an agreement to secure an advance of money to discharge an indebtedness of the corporation, is valid as against its creditors, although the president and secretary were individually liable on the indebtedness so discharged, of which fact the mortgagee had knowledge. Crawfordsville First Nat. Bank v. Dovetail Body, etc., Co., 143 Ind. 550, 40 N. E. 810, 52 Am. St. Rep. 435. See also Blake v. Ray, 62 S. W. 531, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 84 (assignment by a corporation of a note to its president valid, when made to reimburse the assignee for money advanced for the corporation when it was solvent); Campbell Printing Press, etc., Co. v. Bellman Bros. Co., 11 Ohio Cir. Ct. 360 (a mortgage by a business corporation upon its personal property, in pursuance of an agreement with a bank advancing it money that it will execute such mortgage at any time the bank deems it necessary for its protection, is not invalid as a preference of the bank in fraud of other creditors); Hogsett v. Columbia Iron, etc., Co., 203 Pa. St. 148, 52 Atl. 179 (holding that a judgment confessed by a corporation to one of its directors is good against its creditors, where it is for money advanced by the director under a resolution of the board of directors and an agreement of the corporation, recognizing its insolvency, to the effect that if the director would furnish funds to operate its plant he should be secured by the first judgment confessed). In line with this theory it has been held that a mortgage by an insolvent corporation to secure advances made while it is solvent, upon the faith of a promise by one of its officers to give such security, is valid as against its creditors and receiver. Brower v. Brooklyn Trust Co., 21 N. Y. Suppl. 324, 50 N. Y. St. 630.

64. O'Conner Min., etc., Co. v. Coosa Furnace Co., 95 Ala. 614, 10 So. 290, 36 Am. St. Rep. 251.

65. Crescent City Brewing Co. v. Flanner, 44 La. Ann. 22, 10 So. 384, opinion by McEnery, J.

the execution of what are called judgment notes, that is to say a note containing a power of attorney to confess a judgment thereon against the maker. The execution of such a note is of course not invalid as a preference to the particular creditor, where no attempt is made to confess a judgment upon it.[66] Whether it is valid as a preference to the particular creditor where judgment is entered or confessed upon it may depend upon the rule of the particular jurisdiction with respect to the power of the corporation to prefer particular creditors, and even upon other considerations. For example in Illinois the property of a corporation is not held by it in trust for all its creditors in such a sense as to forbid it from giving judgment notes, from making confessions of judgment, from making mortgages, or from preferring one creditor to another in any other manner.[67] So it has been held that an insolvent corporation is not prohibited by the laws of Ohio from making and delivering to one of its creditors a judgment note, although it is intended that the judgment shall be recoverable thereon in another state, and property there situated be applied to its payment.[68] In the same state judgment entered upon a warrant of attorney contained in a so-called judgment note, given by a corporation while it was a going concern, has been held not invalid because entered immediately before an assignment for creditors made by the corporation, where other conditions exist making it valid.[69] It is of course not necessary for the holder of a cognovit note to wait until the suspension of the corporation before he takes judgment thereon; but if he has advanced money to the corporation and taken as his security therefor its cognovit note he will be entitled, in the absence of collusion or knowledge of the insolvency of the corporation, to recover a judgment and levy upon the property of the corporation in its possession while it is engaged in the transaction of its business.[70] A subordinate court in the same state has held that a corporation cannot by means of a judgment note give a secret preference to a particular creditor.[71]

b. Position of Judgment Notes Renewed After Insolvency. Judgment notes of a corporation renewed after its insolvency are in the same position with respect to the right of the corporation to make preferences as prior judgment notes for which the renewals were given.[72]

c. Judgment Note Given by Creditor Whose Debt Is Owned by Himself and a Director in Undistinguished Shares. A creditor of a corporation upon an indebtedness owned by himself and by directors of the corporation in undistinguished shares cannot reap any advantage over other creditors by reason of a note and warrant of attorney to take judgment, executed while the corporation is insolvent, as such creditor stands in the same position as the directors, and they have no right to prefer themselves as creditors.[73]

d. Giving Judgment Notes and Filling Offices of Directors With Nominees of Holders of Notes. The giving by an insolvent corporation of its judgment notes to certain of its creditors, and the filling of the offices of its directors by persons nominated by the holders of such notes, so as to effectuate an agreement that no notes or preferences shall be given to other creditors while the corporation con-

66. Matson v. Alley, 141 Ill. 284, 31 N. E. 419. Where a corporation executed judgment bonds to certain of its directors, at a time when it was solvent, without any fraudulent intent, but to protect them as indorsers for the corporation, the mere use by them of the bonds, by entering judgments and issuing executions thereon, after the corporation became insolvent, was held not of itself fraudulent. Neal's Appeal, 129 Pa. St. 64, 18 Atl. 564.

67. J. W. Butler Paper Co. v. Robbins, 151 Ill. 588, 38 N. E. 153.

68. Youngstown First Nat. Bank v. McKinney, 16 Ohio Cir. Ct. 80, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 1.

69. Matter of George D. Winchell Mfg. Co., 1 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 310, 1 Ohio N. P. 136.

70. Ford v. Lamson, 17 Ohio Cir. Ct. 539, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 374.

71. Benedict v. Market Nat. Bank, 6 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 320, 4 Ohio N. P. 231.

72. Illinois Steel Co. v. O'Donnell, 156 Ill. 624, 41 N. E. 185, 47 Am. St. Rep. 245, 31 L. R. A. 265 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 314].

73. Atwater v. American Exch. Nat. Bank, 152 Ill. 605, 38 N. E. 1017.

tinues its ordinary business as before, has been held fraudulent in fact as to other creditors.[74] But where three out of four of the unsecured creditors advanced their money to assist the corporation, and by an agreement with the common shareholders obtained the election of their representatives as directors and as manager, and remained in control for two and one-half years, paying the fourth creditor one third of its claim, and increasing the indebtedness of the corporation to themselves by advancing money for its use; and thereafter, when the business could no longer be carried on, caused a chattel mortgage and a trust deed of the property of the corporation to secure its creditors to be executed, wherein preference was given to the claims of themselves to the exclusion of the fourth creditor, it was held that the evidence presented a state of facts justifying the conclusion that the fourth creditor was not injured, but was the only one of the four creditors benefited by the transaction, and hence that the chattel mortgage and deed of trust were not void.[75]

13. Creditor Attempting to Obtain Unlawful Preference and Failing May Nevertheless Participate in Distribution. A creditor of an insolvent corporation who has endeavored to procure an unlawful preference over other creditors and failed is not for that reason to be punished by being deprived of the right to participate in the distribution of the assets,[76] and this, although he may even be a shareholder or a director.[77]

14. Priorities in Distribution. Under the operation of the trust-fund doctrine — and without its operation for that matter — in any distribution of the assets of an insolvent or dissolved corporation the creditors have a right of priority in payment over the shareholders,[78] unless the shareholders have secured valid liens which entitle them to preference notwithstanding the relation of shareholder. On the other hand the fact that a creditor is a shareholder or even a director, assuming that his demand is valid, does not prevent his demand from taking rank the same as that of any other creditor.[79] Valid liens already acquired are not dis-

74. American Oak Leather Co. v. Fargo, 77 Fed. 671. For example a trading corporation, being in financial difficulty, and largely indebted, made an arrangement with its two largest creditors by which it borrowed from them fifty thousand dollars, and gave them judgment notes covering this sum and also the amount of its prior indebtedness to them. As a part of the same arrangement, its board of directors was reorganized by placing thereon a majority of persons nominated by such creditors, and having no interest in its business, and its by-laws were amended so as to require action of the directors authorizing the giving of further judgment notes. It was agreed that the new directors should not interfere with the business of the corporation, the sole purpose of their appointment being to prevent preferences to the other creditors; and the entire arrangement was kept secret to enable the corporation to continue its business. The business was continued for six months, when the corporation suspended, having been in fact insolvent when the arrangement was made. During this time some of the indebtedness was paid off, and new indebtedness to the same and other creditors contracted. It was held that, although the laws of the state permitted the preference of creditors by an insolvent, such transaction constituted a fraud in fact on the general creditors, which not only rendered the preference given by the judgment notes invalid, but precluded the creditors so preferred from sharing with other creditors in the distribution of the assets of the corporation. U. S. Rubber Co. v. American Oak Leather Co., 96 Fed. 891, 37 C. C. A. 599 [modifying 82 Fed. 248, 27 C. C. A. 118].

75. American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Ward, 111 Fed. 782, 49 C. C. A. 611, 55 L. R. A. 356.

76. Brown v. Morristown Co-Operative Stove Co., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1897) 42 S. W. 161; U. S. Rubber Co. v. American Oak Leather Co., 181 U. S. 434, 21 S. Ct. 670, 45 L. ed. 938 [reversing 96 Fed. 891, 37 C. C. A. 599 (modifying 82 Fed. 248, 27 C. C. A. 118)].

77. Thompson v. Huron Lumber Co., 4 Wash. 600, 30 Pac. 741, 31 Pac. 25. Similarly see King v. Union Iron Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 603, 33 N. Y. St. 545.

78. South Bend Toy Mfg. Co. v. Pierre F. & M. Ins. Co., 4 S. D. 173, 56 N. W. 98.

79. Standard Cotton Seed Oil Co. v. Excelsior Refining Co., 108 La. 74, 32 So. 221, where a shareholder and director made advances in good faith to meet the liabilities of the corporation. A corporation whose funds have wrongfully been taken and used to pay liabilities of an insolvent corporation, by persons who were officers in control of both, has no claim to preference in the general assets of the latter corporation. Slater placed; but outside of this the rule of equity obtains that distribution is to be made equally to those who stand on an equal footing, in equal degree, or in equal right. Outside of a limited exception relating to claims for recent supplies furnished to railroad companies, and outside of the principles which obtain in admiralty, the rule of prior in time, prior in right, obtains; and hence the party who loans money to an embarrassed corporation which is subsequently adjudged to be insolvent, and who at the time of his loan takes security therefor, cannot in equity claim a lien on its property in preference to a mortgage existing at the time when he made his loan, nor upon the proceeds of a sale of its property under such mortgage, no matter for what purpose his loan was made or how the money which he loaned was applied, provided the mortgage bondholders were not parties to the transaction resulting in the loan, and were not as such estopped.[80] A debt due from the corporation to its president for money paid by the president for the corporation as its surety cannot be postponed to debts due shareholders for their shares sold to the corporation.[81]

15. Creditor Unlawfully Preferred Chargeable in Equity as Trustee For All Creditors — a. In General. The doctrine of these cases is that a director who uses the property of the corporation to prefer himself as a creditor may be charged in equity to the extent of the property so diverted as a trustee for all the creditors equally.[82] Where for any reason a preference attempted by a corporation in favor of a particular creditor is unlawful, the claims of all creditors will be enforced by converting the conveyee into a trustee for its shareholders, preserving the rights of bona fide purchasers for value.[83] Such accounting may be had in an action by a receiver of the corporation appointed at the instance of the other creditors.[84]

b. Judgment Confessed in Favor of One Creditor Inures to Benefit of All. A judgment confessed by a building association for an antecedent debt is a lien or encumbrance created by voluntary act, and creates an illegal preference under the statute law of Virginia[85] in favor of one of its creditors, and inures to the benefit ratably of all its creditors.[86]

v. Oriental Mills, 18 R. I. 352, 27 Atl. 443.

80. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Bankers', etc., Tel. Co., 148 N. Y. 315, 42 N. E. 707, 51 Am. St. Rep. 690, 31 L. R. A. 403. Debts arising from personal property sold to a manufacturing corporation are of course not entitled to priority over a valid mortgage executed by the corporation. Heath v. Big Falls Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 202, 20 S. E. 369.

81. Blalock v. Kernersville Mfg. Co., 110 N. C. 99, 14 S. E. 501. That an attachment by one creditor of the property of a corporation, which has been fraudulently disposed of to a preferred creditor by a conveyance subsequently declared void and declared to constitute a general assignment for creditors, is not entitled to a prior lien as against other creditors see Philips v. Ammon-Stevens Co., 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 418, 2 Ohio N. P. 187.

82. Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Scott Co., 96 Ala. 439, 11 So. 370; Beach v. Miller, 130 Ill. 162, 17 Am. St. Rep. 291 [reversing 23 Ill. App. 151]; Neufeld v. Moll, 37 Ill. App. 535; Hart v. Globe Ins. Co., 113 Fed. 307. There is a note on this subject of directors preferring themselves in 19 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 98.

83. Kit Carter Cattle Co. v. McGillin, 10 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 146, 7 Ohio N. P. 575.

84. Williams v. Turner, 63 Nebr. 575, 88 N. W. 668, receiver may require directors to account for property unlawfully turned over to third persons to secure claims on which such directors are liable as sureties. The unsuccessful attempt on the part of a director to secure a preference of his claim under an assignment of the corporate assets for which he voted does not invalidate the other preferences lawfully created and conferred by the assignment. Moller v. Keystone Fibre Co., 187 Pa. St. 553, 41 Atl. 478. Creditors of an insolvent who organize a corporation to take the insolvent's property and carry on his business, and who accept his notes for the percentage of their claims against the insolvent, the stock being held by a trustee as collateral for the notes, are mere general creditors of the corporation, having no greater rights than subsequent creditors, and cannot in the absence of other facts complain of the acts of the corporation in paying particular creditors in preference to others. South Bend Chilled Plow Co. v. George C. Cribb Co., 97 Wis. 230, 72 N. W. 749.

85. Va. Code, § 1149.

86. Tate v. Commercial Bldg. Assoc., 97 Va. 74, 33 S. E. 382, 75 Am. St. Rep. 770, 45 L. R. A. 243.

16. Transfers After Insolvency to Effectuate Agreements or Equities Made During Solvency. It may be collected from some of the cases already cited that a transfer made by a corporation to a particular creditor, after it has become insolvent, in pursuance of an agreement to secure him made while it was solvent, is not an unlawful preference unless the secret nature of the agreement may have made it operate as a fraud upon other creditors.[87]

17. Taking Security For Purchase-Price of Property Sold. For a vendor to take security for the purchase-money of property sold to a corporation is not an unlawful preference of a creditor within the meaning of a statute, but is the giving of a present security for a present advance. Hence a statute making any lien or encumbrance upon the property of a corporation for the purpose of giving a preference to a particular creditor inure to the ratable benefit of all creditors does not apply to such a transaction.[88]

C. Selling Out to New Corporation — 1. Power of Private Corporation to Sell All of Its Property. A private corporation having no public duties to perform has ordinarily the same power to sell all of its property in a single transaction that an individual has,[89] although such a sale might defeat the objects of its incorporation.[90] It has the power to sell all of its property and to go out of business whenever it finds that its business is unprofitable, or whenever in its discretion it sees fit so to do.[91]

2. May Receive Pay in Stock of New Corporation. Nor is it beyond the power of such a corporation to sell all its property to a new corporation, and to receive pay therefor in stock of the new corporation, the stock being taken in lieu of money, to be distributed among those shareholders of the new corporation who are willing to receive it, or to be converted into money for those who do not desire to retain it.[92]

87. For example a transfer of accounts by a corporation to certain creditors to secure them on past-due notes given for money loaned, in place of other accounts previously transferred to secure such notes, under an agreement providing for the substitution of accounts while there is "no default on the notes," does not show an intent to give a preference to any particular creditor over other creditors, within the meaning of N. Y. Laws (1892), c. 688, § 48, since the officers of the corporation may have regarded themselves as bound in equity to make such a transfer as would comply with the conditions on which the money was originally loaned. Milbank v. Welch, 74 Hun (N. Y.) 497, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 705, 57 N. Y. St. 241. In a jurisdiction where insolvent corporations are not allowed to prefer particular creditors, it has been held that the payment by an insolvent corporation of outstanding valid mortgage liens upon its real estate, by a conveyance thereof to the mortgagee for the fair value of the land, cannot be avoided by other creditors of the corporation, as being a preference of one creditor above another. Klosterman v. Mason County Cent. R. Co., 8 Wash. 281, 36 Pac. 136. Where one corporation unlawfully conveyed property to another, and a creditor of the grantee corporation held a valid obligation against it upon which he subsequently recovered a judgment against it, a reconveyance of the property to the grantor was not fraudulent as to plaintiff. Summers v. Glenwood Gold, etc., Min. Co., 15 S. D. 20, 86 N. W. 749. The rights of creditors obtained by judgments on notes given for money loaned a corporation to enable it to continue its business and relieve it from temporary embarrassment are not affected by the fact that some of the officers of the corporation drew from its funds in payment of obligations due from it to them, or otherwise, where such creditors had nothing to do with such withdrawal. Peterson v. Brabrook Tailoring Co., 51 Ill. App. 249 [affirmed in 150 Ill. 290, 37 N. E. 242].

88. Breed v. Glasgow Invest. Co., 71 Fed. 903.

89. Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865.

90. Buell v. Buckingham, 16 Iowa 284, 85 Am. Dec. 516. Thus a corporation organized to deal in lands may sell all of its lands in bulk, and provide for the adjustment of its debts; and such an arrangement is not a winding-up, since the proceeds will belong to it and may be reinvested, and the corporation will still exist. Sewell v. East Cape May Beach Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 717, 25 Atl. 929.

91. Miners' Ditch Co. v. Zellerback, 37 Cal. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 300; Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490.

92. Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490. Compare In re New South Meeting-House, 13 Allen (Mass.) 497; Com. v. Smith, 10 Allen (Mass.) 448, 87 Am. Dec. 672; Packets Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co., 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203; Leggett v. New Jersey Mfg., etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 541, 23 Am. Dec.

3. Cannot Sell Out Its Property to Prejudice of Its Creditors — a. In General. It is not necessary to say that a corporation cannot sell, or in any way alien its property, to the prejudice of its creditors, so as to hinder, delay, or defraud them in the collection of other debts owing by it; and in general whenever a conveyance is made by a corporation under such circumstances as would characterize it as a fraud upon creditors if made by an individual, it will be set aside in equity at the suit of such creditors, or other appropriate relief will be accorded them.[93] Hence a sale by a corporation of all its assets to another corporation in consideration of the latter delivering a specified amount of its stock to the individual shareholders of the selling corporation, and guaranteeing the payment of the debts of the selling corporation, is prima facie fraudulent as to the creditors of the selling corporation.[94] And where the rights of a creditor have supervened, it is beyond the 728; Hodges v. New England Screw Co., 1 R. I. 312, 53 Am. Dec. 624. Accordingly it has been held that where a company organized for the purpose of creating a water-power finds that it can no longer profitably use its privileges, and its water-power has been extinguished by contract with the commonwealth, it may sell its lands and receive payment therefor in its own stock. Dupee v. Boston Water Power Co., 114 Mass. 37.

Interpretation of a shareholder's resolution held not to authorize a contract to pay all the debts of the selling corporation absolutely, in consideration of a transfer of its property. Bi-Spool Sewing Mach. Co. v. Acme Mfg. Co., 153 Mass. 404, 26 N. E. 991.

93. Pennsylvania Knitting Mills v. Bibb Mfg. Co., 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

94. Couse v. Columbia Powder Mfg. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1895) 33 Atl. 297. So a sale of all the property of a corporation, in consideration of a greater part of the stock of another company, organized only to acquire such property, and whose stock is based only on the property, has been held invalid as against the creditors of the selling corporation. Vance v. McNabb Coal, etc., Co., 92 Tenn. 47, 20 S. W. 424. So it has been held that a sale by a corporation of all its property to another corporation, to be paid for in stock of the latter, which stock is to be distributed among the shareholders of the former, or any other arrangement which will have the effect to withdraw the capital of the company and turn it over to its shareholders except in the manner provided for by law, is a violation of that provision of the California Corporation Act of 1853 which forbids the trustees "to divide, withdraw, or in any way pay to the stockholders, or any of them, any part of the capital stock of the company," and is void as to any creditor of the corporation, either prior or subsequent, who had no notice of the arrangement at the time of giving the credit. Martin v. Zellerback, 38 Cal. 300, 90 Am. Dec. 365. Circumstances under which creditor assigning his claim upon agreement for shares in new corporation not bound to make a tender. Manistee Lumber Co. v. Union Nat. Bank, 143 Ill. 490, 32 N. E. 449. So a corporation having outstanding debts cannot transfer its entire property by a lease for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, so as to prevent the application of it at its full value to the satisfaction of its debts; but the property will be followed into the hands of the lessee, and a court of equity will decree the payment by the lessee of a judgment recovered against the lessor. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, 134 U. S. 276, 33 L. ed. 900. So where the members of a partnership agreed among themselves to incorporate for the purpose of continuing the business as a corporation, and a member of the firm, in contemplation of the proposed change, agreed to assume and pay a debt of the firm to one of its creditors, in discharge of a debt of his to the firm, the creditor of the firm having no knowledge of this, and never assenting to it, it was held that this did not constitute a novation, or in any way affect his rights as a creditor against the corporation. Andres v. Morgan, 62 Ohio St. 236, 56 N. E. 875. So a corporation owning a majority of the shares of another corporation which is insolvent can acquire no benefit by a lease of the property of the latter to the disadvantage of its creditors. Such a lease will not be allowed to stand as against its creditors unless it constitute an assignment as available and valuable to them as the original trust fund for which it becomes a substitute. Sidell v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 78 Fed. 724, 24 C. C. A. 216. That the directors of the selling corporation cannot appropriate the proceeds of the sale to their own use see Fellrath v. Peoria German School Assoc., 66 Ill. App. 77. Rights of the creditors of a partnership which has been succeeded by a corporation, which corporation assumed the liabilities of the partnership and thereafter contracted debts on the faith of the partnership property which had been transferred to it see Lamkin v. Baldwin, etc., Mfg. Co., 72 Conn. 57, 43 Atl. 595, 1042, 44 L. R. A. 786. It has been held that a creditor of a corporation cannot have relief because of a lease of all its property to another corporation holding the majority of its stock where the property included in the lease is of no appreciable value above the encumbrances prior to the claim of such creditor, and the lease provides for the application of the rent upon the interest on the prior mortgage bonds. Sidell v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 78 Fed. 724, 24 C. C. A. 216.

power of a corporation, even with the consent of its shareholders, to sell out its plant and retire from business, taking the stock of the purchasing corporation in payment therefor, and issuing it to one of its individual shareholders without any agreement on his part to pay the corporate debts.[95]

b. Circumstances Under Which Such Sales Are Ultra Vires. It has been held by a federal court in Ohio that a solvent corporation, created under the laws of that state and engaged in a profitable business, cannot sell its plant and assets for a consideration, the greater part of which consists of the stock and bonds of another corporation, to be organized to carry on the business of the former, where no exigency exists making such sale necessary for the protection of the shareholders of the former corporation; for the reason that under the laws of Ohio as established by the highest state tribunal, one corporation cannot become the owner of the stock of another, unless authority to do so is clearly conferred by statute.[96] The manager of a corporation cannot transfer all its assets in payment of its indebtedness, without the authority or consent of the board of directors.[97]

c. Cannot Give Away Its Assets. For stronger reasons a corporation cannot give away its assets to the prejudice of its creditors or its members. A majority of the members of a corporation, such as an incorporated secret or benevolent society, cannot by resolution donate the property of such corporation to a new corporation of which such majority are members.[98]

d. Creditors of Selling Corporation Have Equitable Lien Upon Assets Thus Transferred. Where one corporation transfers all its assets to another corporation, and thus practically ceases to exist, without having paid its debts, the purchasing corporation takes the property subject to an equitable lien or charge in favor of the creditors of the selling corporation.[99] This is a necessary extension of the doctrine that the assets of a corporation are a trust fund for its creditors.[1] Such being the quality which equity annexes to them, when the corporation elects to go out of existence, to dispossess itself of them, and to transfer them to another corporation, equity follows the trust fund into the hands of the new taker, and charges the property in the hands of such taker with the debts of the transferrer. In other words the corporation receiving the assets is charged in equity, as a trustee in respect of such property, with the payment of the debts of the antecedent corporation.[2] And while the right to follow a trust fund into the hands of a third party depends upon the answer to the inquiry whether such third party took it with knowledge of the trust, the case being one where the trustee who transferred it to him had a power of disposition, yet in such a case as we are supposing, where one corporation transfers all its assets to another, not in the ordinary course of business, the very circumstances of the case imply full knowledge on the part of the transferee of all the facts necessary to charge the property in his hands with the debts of the transferrer; and the case is still clearer where

95. Hurd v. New York, etc., Steam-Laundry Co., 167 N. Y. 89, 60 N. E. 327 [reversing 52 N. Y. App. Div. 467, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 125].

96. Easun v. Buckeye Brewery Co., 51 Fed. 156. It is worthy of note that the action was for damages for a breach of the contract thus to sell. That one corporation cannot become a shareholder in another under the laws of Ohio see Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 Ohio St. 350, 38 Am. Rep. 594. And see on the subject, generally, supra, VI, G, 2, a et seq.; XVII, B, 4, a et seq.

97. Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Scott Co., 96 Ala. 439, 11 So. 370.

98. Polar Star Lodge No. 1 v. Polar Star Lodge No. 1, 16 La. Ann. 53.

99. Heman v. Britton, 88 Mo. 549; Jefferson Nat. Bank v. Texas Invest. Co., 74 Tex. 421, 12 S. W. 101; Blair v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Fed. 148; Fogg v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. 871, 5 McCrary 441; Brum v. Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co., 16 Fed. 140, 4 Woods 156; Harrison v. Union Pac. R. Co., 13 Fed. 522; Hibernia Ins. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 13 Fed. 516, 4 McCrary 432. See also Pollock Contr. p. 200 et seq.; Vance v. McNabb Coal, etc., Co., 92 Tenn. 47, 20 S. W. 424; Re Empress Engineering Co., 16 Ch. Div. 125.

1. See supra, VI, M, 1, b, (I); VIII, B, 1 et seq.

2. Leathers v. Janney, 41 La. Ann. 1120, 6 So. 884, 6 L. R. A. 661; Jefferson Nat. Bank v. Texas Invest. Co., 74 Tex. 421, 12 S. W. 101.

the corporation receiving the transfer agrees to assume and pay the debts of the corporation making it, in which case, under the principles of equity and under the modern codes of procedure, the creditors of the transferring corporation may maintain a direct action against the transferee corporation upon the contract, as a contract made for their benefit.[3] The principle has no application to a sale made in the usual course of business;[4] nor does it apply in a case of a sale for a full consideration, albeit of the entire property of the selling corporation, to another; and it has been held that if the consideration for the sale is the assumption and payment by the purchasing company of the mortgage debts of the selling company, to the full value of all the property conveyed, the sale will not be set aside in favor of other unsecured creditors of the selling company, nor will they have a lien on the property for which full value has been paid in good faith.[5]

e. When Such Transactions Fraudulent and When Not. On a principle already stated[6] the mere fact that the directors sell the property of the corporation to a new corporation, of which they are directors and shareholders, will not make the sale absolutely void.[7] A sale of all the property of a corporation, which has taken place under a resolution appointing the president and secretary a committee to dispose of it, will be set aside in equity at the suit of a dissenting shareholder, where the sale is made to one who purchased it under an agreement, previously made with the secretary, for their joint acquisition of the property. The reason is that the power conferred on the president and secretary requires their joint action, and that the secretary is disqualified from acting by reason of his personal interest.[8]

f. When Buying Corporation Is Not Chargeable With Debts of Selling Corporation. Where a corporation transfers all its assets to another corporation and does not agree to assume the liabilities of the selling corporation, and both corporations maintain a separate existence, then in the absence of fraud the purchasing corporation will not be answerable for any debts of the selling corporation.[9]

4. Cannot Sell Out Its Property to Prejudice of Its Shareholders — a. In General. Where a corporation has a lawful existence after the expiration of its charter, but solely for the purpose of winding up its affairs, a majority in interest of its shareholders cannot sell its property to a new corporation, of which they are directors and shareholders, at a valuation estimated by themselves, against the will of the minority, and compel such dissenting shareholders either to receive shares of stock in the new corporation in return for their old shares, or to be paid therefor on a basis of the estimated valuation of the property; but the minority may have the property publicly sold and converted into money, and the money distributed.[10] A business corporation cannot sell all of its property to a foreign corporation, organized through its procurement, with a majority of nonresident trustees, for the purpose of taking its place and its assets and carrying on its business, this being a virtual dissolution of the preëxisting corporation. And while the shareholders who have assented to such an unlawful distribution of the corporate property may be estopped thereby, dissenting shareholders are not

3. See supra, II, B, 3. See also Jefferson Nat. Bank v. Texas Invest. Co., 74 Tex. 421, 12 S. W. 101. Compare Owensboro Deposit Bank v. Barrett, 13 S. W. 337, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 910.

4. Jefferson Nat. Bank v. Texas Invest. Co., 74 Tex. 421, 12 S. W. 101, per Gaines, J.

5. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263.

6. See supra, XX, C, 2.

7. Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865. See also supra, IX, J, 1, a et seq.

8. Chicago Hansom Cab Co. v. Yerkes, 141 Ill. 320, 30 N. E. 667, 33 Am. St. Rep. 315.

9. Goldmark v. Magnolia Metal Co., 44 N. Y. App. Div. 35, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 425 [citing Goldmark v. Metal Co., 30 N. Y. App. Div. 580, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 446, and distinguishing Brundred v. Rice, 49 Ohio St. 640, 32 N. E. 169, 34 Am. St. Rep. 589; Montgomery Web Co. v. Dienelt, 133 Pa. St. 585, 19 Atl. 428, 19 Am. St. Rep. 663; Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Claggett, 141 U. S. 520, 12 S. Ct. 60, 35 L. ed. 841].

10. Mason v. Pewabic Min. Co., 133 U. S. 50, 10 S. Ct. 224, 33 L. ed. 524. See also supra, XI, D, 2, d.

estopped; and the state may demand that those officers of the corporation who perpetrated the wrong shall make restitution. Nor does the fact that the trustees in making the transfer acted in good faith render the act valid; nor does the difficulty which may attend the final adjustment of rights, as between the assenting and dissenting shareholders, constitute a defense to an action by the state, prosecuted under a statute to compel the trustees of the precedent corporation to account for breaches of their trust.[11] But where a corporation sells to another corporation a specific item of property, and perhaps the rule is applicable to a case where it sells all its property, and the sale is open, fair, and free from fraud or guilty connivance, the purchasing company is not bound to see to the proper distribution of the purchase-price, whether it consists in money or in shares of the stock of the purchasing company; and therefore if the purchase-price is paid in shares of the purchasing company, a pledgee holding shares of the selling company will not have a standing in court to establish a lien on the property sold, on the ground that distribution was not made to him of his proportion of the shares of the purchasing company, which were paid over to the selling company as the purchase-price of the property sold, but that such distribution was made to his pledger.[12]

b. Ratification of Such Selling Out by Shareholders. Assuming that such a sale of all the assets of the corporation as we are considering has taken place under circumstances where dissenting shareholders are entitled to maintain a proceeding to avoid it, as where it has been done by the directors without the consent of the shareholders, expressed in general meeting or otherwise, yet here as in other cases[13] the shareholders may ratify it so as to conclude them from making further objections; and such ratification may be inferred from that species of tacit acquiescence which consists in the entire failure to protest or to take any steps to repudiate or set aside the sale.[14] A shareholder who participated in the sale will not be allowed to avoid the contract after it has been thus ratified by the acquiescence of the other shareholders.[15] But where the sale proceeds in fraud of the rights of shareholders, a majority cannot of course ratify it so as to conclude a dissenting shareholder.[16]

5. Selling Out All Its Property May Dissolve Corporation De Facto but Not De Jure. Undoubtedly the fact that a corporation sells all of its property to another corporation, and thereby disables itself from carrying out the purposes of its existence, while for certain purposes working a dissolution de facto,[17] will not work a technical, legal dissolution; but the corporation nevertheless continues to exist de jure for the purpose of suing and being sued.[18]

11. People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 48 N. Y. St. 166, 17 L. R. A. 737 [rehearing denied in 136 N. Y. 639, 32 N. E. 611, 48 N. Y. St. 846].

12. Leathers v. Janney, 41 La. Ann. 1120, 6 So. 884, 6 L. R. A. 661.

13. See supra, XV, B, 7.

14. Stokes v. Detrick, 75 Md. 256, 23 Atl. 846.

15. Berry v. Broach, 65 Miss. 450, 4 So. 117.

16. Chicago Hansom Cab Co. v. Yerkes, 141 Ill. 320, 30 N. E. 667, 33 Am. St. Rep. 315.

17. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e (I) et seq.

18. Brinkerhoff v. Brown, 7 Johns. Ch. (N.Y.) 217; Island City Sav. Bank v. Sachtleben, 67 Tex. 420, 3 S. W. 733. See also infra, XXI, G, 3, a, (I) et seq. But where the trustees of a water company, together with the shareholders, sold the entire stock and delivered the property of the corporation to a purchaser, who took possession thereof; and three years thereafter, no intermediate act having been done by them, a majority of the trustees met, allowed an account against the company, and drew a check therefor, it was held that they were not trustees de jure or de facto, and had no power to bind the corporation. Orr Water Ditch Co. v. Reno Water Co., 17 Nev. 166, 30 Pac. 695. Where a steamship company went into liquidation and transferred all its property to another corporation, and subsequently, in a collision between one of the steamships so transferred and other vessels, plaintiff's intestate was killed, and she by mistake brought an action against the old company and prosecuted it to judgment, it was held that this judgment could not be enforced in equity against its former property in the hands of the new company, thus transferred before the time when the alleged cause of action arose, although the debts of the old company had been assumed by the new. Gray v. National Steamship Co., 115

XXI. DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP.

A. In What Manner Corporations May Be Dissolved — 1. When Corporation Is Deemed to Be Dissolved For All Purposes. Keeping in view that a corporation is deemed to be existent for some purposes and to be dissolved for others, the test by which to determine whether a corporation is dissolved for all purposes has been said to be to consider whether it has lost its capacity to sustain itself by a new election of officers.[19] If the corporation have the power in itself to supply the deficiency in its body, its rights are not extinguished, but only dormant. If, however, that power is gone, and it cannot act until the deficiency is supplied, the corporation is dissolved. This is not a forfeiture for non-user, but is a consequence of law.[20]

2. Five Ways in Which Corporations May Be Dissolved. Although it has been frequently said that there are but four ways in which corporations may be dissolved,[21] yet on a little reflection it appears that there are five ways: (1) By the expiration of the term of existence granted by the legislature either in its charter, where it is organized under a special charter, or under its governing statute, where it is organized under a general law; (2) by an act of the legislature, where power has been reserved for that purpose either in its charter, where it is created by a

U. S. 116, 5 S. Ct. 1166, 29 L. ed. 309. Effect of such a selling out upon the right of recovery on a promissory note payable "when the first locomotive engine on the M. railroad shall arrive" in town see Askew v. Hooper, 28 Ala. 634.

Receiver's sales.—Circumstances under which purchasing company at void receiver's sale entitled to subrogation to rights of old company see St. Louis, etc., Co. v. Sandoval, etc., Co., 116 Ill. 170, 3 N. E. 370. Compare Kinney v. Knoebel, 51 Ill. 112.

19. Iba v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 45 Mo. 469. See also infra, XXI, D, 1, a.

20. Philips v. Wickham, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 590.

21. These were said to be: (1) By the act of the legislature; (2) by the death of all the members; (3) by a forfeiture of their franchises; (4) by a surrender of their charters. Angell & A. Corp. 501; 1 Bl. Comm. 485; 2 Kent Comm. 245; 2 Kyd Corp. 447; Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Oakes v. Hill, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 442. More explicitly stated, it has been said that such dissolution can take place only: (1) By an act of the legislature, where power is reserved for that purpose; (2) by a surrender, which is accepted, of the charter; (3) by a loss of all its members, or of an integral part, so that the exercise of corporate functions cannot be restored; (4) by a forfeiture, which must be declared by the judgment of a court. Penobscot Boom Co. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656.

Observations more or less similar to the above, as to the mode in which a private corporation may become dissolved, will be found in the following cases:

Maine.— Hodsdon v. Copeland, 16 Me. 314.

Maryland.— Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Gill & J. 1.

Massachusetts.— Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Revere v. Boston Copper Co., 15 Pick. 351; Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. 63.

New York.— Niagara Bank v. Johnson, 8 Wend. 645; Vernon Soc. v. Hills, 6 Cow. 23, 16 Am. Dec. 429; Wilde v. Jenkins, 4 Paige 481; Slee v. Bloom, 5 Johns. Ch. 366.

England.— Peter v. Kendal, 6 B. & C. 703, 5 L. J. K. B. O. S. 282, 30 Rev. Rep. 504, 13 E. C. L. 316.

See also 2 Kent Comm. 312.

Sometimes the first mode above stated is omitted by courts in cataloguing the grounds of dissolution, evidently under the theory that a dissolution by an act of the legislature is inadmissible under the rule of the Dartmouth College case. 4 Thompson Corp. § 5381. Thus we find it stated in an early case in Ohio that a private corporation in this country may be dissolved: (1) By the death of its members; (2) by the surrender of its franchises; (3) by a judgment of forfeiture for non-user or abuse. McIntire Poor School v. Zanesville Canal, etc., Co., 9 Ohio 203, 34 Am. Dec. 436. But we shall see that this catalogue is imperfect by reason of the omission of all reference to a legislative dissolution; and all of them are imperfect by reason of the omission of all reference to a dissolution by the expiration of the term of existence which has been granted to the corporation by the legislature. As to the limitation of the duration of corporate life see State v. Ladies of Sacred Heart, 99 Mo. 533, 12 S. W. 293, 6 L. R. A. 84 (statute limiting corporate life to twenty years has no application to purely charitable corporation); Elizabethtown Gas-Light Co. v. Green, 46 N. J. Eq. 118, 18 Atl. 844; People v. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co., 131 N. Y. 140, 29 N. E. 947, 15 L. R. A. 240. A corporation is dissolved ipso facto, with all the consequences of a dissolution by any other mode, when the period of limitation fixed by its charter is reached. Supreme Lodge K. of P. v. Weller, 93 Va. 605, 25 S. E. 891.

special charter, or in a constitutional provision or a general statute operative upon it; (3) by a surrender of its franchises, which is accepted, and a voluntary dissolution;[22] (4) by a loss of all its members, or of an integral part, so that the exercise of corporate functions cannot be restored;[23] (5) by a forfeiture of its franchises by a judicial proceeding, usually an information in the nature of a writ of quo warranto,[24] but sometimes, under the operation of statutes, a proceeding in a court of equity, which at the same time winds up the corporation and distributes its assets.[25]

3. DISSOLUTION BY EXPIRATION OF GRANTED TERM OF CORPORATE LIFE — a. In General. If the charter or governing statute of the corporation fixes a definite period of time at which its corporate life shall expire, when that period is reached the corporation is ipso facto dissolved,[26] without any direct action to that end, either on the part of the state or of its members; and no powers created by the charter or governing statute can thereafter be exercised, except such as are continued, by force of the statute law, for the purpose of winding up its affairs. Where a corporation has been organized under a decree of a court in pursuance of a statute which prescribes the filing of the decree of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state, the corporate life begins, not from the date of the decree, but from the date of the filing of it in the office of the secretary of state, and it will continue from that point of time during the period limited by the governing statute; and it has been held that this is so, although there may have been a neglect to file the decree in the office of the secretary of state for several years after the granting of it, during which time the theory was that the corporation was such de facto.[27]

b. Rule Where Charter Contains No Limitation of Life of Corporation. A corporation which is invested by its charter with the faculty of "perpetual succession," without any restriction in other provisions of the instrument upon the meaning of this expression, has the right to exist forever, although the general law of the state limits the duration of corporations, when not otherwise provided, to the period of twenty years.[28]

c. Judicial Remedies After Expiration of Period of Corporate Life. As we shall see hereafter[29] the general rule in the absence of saving statutes is that all actions by or against a corporation abate upon the expiration of the period of existence limited in its charter or governing statute; so that whatever remedies thereafter exist in respect to its assets, for the purpose of calling them in and of distributing them among those entitled thereto, must be supplied either by the statute law or by the remedial principles of equity.[30]

22. "By surrender of its franchises into the hands of the King, which is a kind of suicide." 1 Bl. Comm. 485.

23. "By the natural death of all its members, in case of an aggregate corporation." 1 Bl. Comm. 485. It would be misleading to perpetuate this ancient doctrine with respect to a modern joint-stock corporation; since the death of all the shareholders in a common catastrophe and at the same time would not have the effect of dissolving the corporation. Their shares would pass by operation of law respectively to their personal representatives, who might continue its existence if they should see fit.

24. See, generally, QUO WARRANTO.

25. See infra, XXI, F, 2, a et seq.

26. People v. Anderson, etc., R. Co., 76 Cal. 190, 18 Pac. 308; Scanlan v. Crawshaw, 5 Mo. App. 337; La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420. For instance a corporation which has the franchise of demanding tolls upon a wagon-road cannot demand such tolls after the expiration of the period named in its charter. People v. Anderson, etc., R. Co., 76 Cal. 190, 18 Pac. 308.

27. State v. American Medical College, 59 Mo. App. 264.

28. Fairchild v. Masonic Hall Assoc., 71 Mo. 526 [overruling on that point Scanlan v. Crawshaw, 5 Mo. App. 337]. The first section of the General Corporation Law of Missouri (Mo. Rev. Stat. (1845), c. 231), limiting the duration of corporations to a period of twenty years, unless otherwise provided in their charters, had no application to purely charitable corporations. State v. Ladies of Sacred Heart, 99 Mo. 533, 12 S. W. 293, 6 L. R. A. 84. Nor was this conclusion changed by the provisions of the revision of 1855 (Mo. Rev. Stat. (1855), pp. 369, 370). State v. Ladies of Sacred Heart, 99 Mo. 533, 12 S. W. 293, 6 L. R. A. 84.

29. See infra, XXI, G, 3, a, (II).

30. It was held in an early case in Missouri that legal proceedings regularly commenced

4. DISSOLUTION BY LEGISLATIVE REPEAL OF CHARTER — a. In General. Under the decision of the supreme court of the United States in Dartmouth College v. Woodward,[31] the charter of a corporation, whether embodied in a special statute or in a general statute permitting the organization of corporations under prescribed conditions, is deemed to be a contract between the state and the coadventurers who accept the conditions tendered, within the meaning of that clause of the constitution of the United States which is to the effect that no state shall pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts;[32] and therefore such charters are protected from legislative alteration or repeal, unless the power to alter or repeal has been reserved by the legislature in making the grant of the franchises, either in the particular act in which the grant is embodied or in some general law applicable to the subject.[33] In the latter case a statute dissolving a corporation and annulling its charter is not unconstitutional.[34] Where this reservation has been made, a corporation may be dissolved by an act of the legislature repealing its charter. Where the legislature has reserved to itself the power to repeal, and exercises it, the courts will not presume that the power has been improperly or unconscientiously exercised.[35]

b. Legislature Cannot Enact Forfeiture of Corporate Franchises Unless Power Has Been Reserved. Except where the power to repeal the charter of a corporation, or to revoke the franchises which it has conferred upon the coadventurers, is expressly reserved, as already stated,[36] it is not in general competent for the legislature of a state to dissolve a corporation or to declare a forfeiture of any of its franchises. The reason is that such an act is an exercise of judicial power, which by all American constitutions is vested in a separate body; which consequently is denied by implication to the legislature; and which in some states is denied to it in express terms.[37] Another reason applicable to repeals by state legislation is that such a repeal would be a law impairing the obligation of a contract within the meaning of the constitution of the United States.[38] Still another reason is that the franchises of a corporation are property; and in view of this fact there is no room for doubt upon the proposition that an act of the legislature annulling the franchises of a corporation, where the power to do so has not been reserved so as to become a part of the contract embodied in the grant itself, would be a deprivation of property without due process of law, within the inhibition of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.

c. But Legislature May Appoint Trustee to Wind Up. But as elsewhere pointed out whenever a corporation does become dissolved in any mode known to the law it is undoubtedly competent for the legislature as a mere administrative measure in the absence of any constitutional restraint having reference to special legislation or otherwise, to appoint a trustee to take its assets and administer them in conformity with the general rules which it has prescribed, or with the rules of a court of equity, if no statutory provisions have been enacted.[39] But if no trustee is appointed by the legislature, a court of equity, which never allows a trust to fail for the want of a trustee, would see to the execution of the trust, although by the dissolution of the corporation the legal title to its property may have been changed.[40] against a corporation were not affected by the expiration of its charter before the determination of such proceedings (Lindell v. Benton, 6 Mo. 361); but the question was not well considered, and no reasons were given for the conclusion, which might possibly have had reference to some provision of the statute law.

31. 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518.

32. U. S. Const. art. 1, § 10.

33. See supra, I, K, 3, b; III, C, 1, b; VIII, F, 4; XVI, A, 5, b.

34. People v. O'Brien, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 519; McLaren v. Pennington, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 102; Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

35. State v. Curran, 12 Ark. 321; McLaren v. Pennington, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 102.

36. See supra, I, K, 3, b; III, C, 1, b; VIII, F, 4; XVI, A, 5, b.

37. Bruffett v. Great Western R. Co., 25 Ill. 353; State v. Noyes, 47 Me. 189; State University v. Williams, 9 Gill & J. (Md.) 365, 31 Am. Dec. 72.

38. See supra, XXI, A, 4, a.

39. Louisville, etc., Turnpike Road Co. v. Ballard, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 165.

40. Lothrop v. Stedman, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,519, 42 Conn. 583, 13 Blatchf. 134, opinion by Shipman, J.

5. Legislature Judge Whether Condition Upon Which Right of Repeal Is Predicated Has Happened — a. Where Right of Repeal Has Been Reserved on Happening of Certain Condition — (i) In General. Where the legislature reserves the unqualified right of repeal upon the happening of a certain condition, it is, in the theory of many of the state courts, exclusively within the power of the legislature to determine whether the condition has happened, and a previous judicial determination of that fact is not necessary;[41] and this is the only tenable theory.[42]

(ii) As Where Right of Repeal Has Been Reserved in Case Corporation Misuses or Abuses Its Franchises. This principle has been carried to the extent of holding that where the legislature reserves the right of repeal in case the corporation misuses or abuses its franchises, it is for the legislature and not for the courts to determine the fact of misuse or abuse, and that such determination, when made by the legislature, is conclusive upon the courts.[43] The meaning is that a general reservation of the power to alter, revoke, or repeal a grant of special privileges necessarily implies that the power may be exerted at the pleasure of the legislature.[44]

(iii) Corporations Hold Their Franchises as Mere Tenants at Will of Legislature. It has been held that where a charter is granted, with a reservation of the right of repeal in case the franchise therein conferred should be abused or misused, and the abuse or misuse has in point of fact occurred, the corporators, after such abuse or misuse, hold the franchise as mere tenants at the will of the legislature, and the latter possesses as full power to repeal the charter as if the reservation of the right of repeal had been originally unconditional.[45]

b. Legislative Repeal Valid Although It Abates Actions. The repeal of a charter is not an infringement of any constitutional right, where the power has been reserved by the legislature, although the effect of it is, as in other cases,[46] to abate actions against the corporation; since this merely restrains the creditor who is the plaintiff in the action from prosecuting his demand to a judgment at law and thereby obtaining an advantage in the distribution of the assets over other creditors. In common with the others he still participates in the distribution; and hence the effect of the legislative repeal is not to destroy but merely to change his remedy against the corporation.[47]

c. Effect of Restoring Charter on New Conditions. If a corporation which has forfeited its charter accepts an act of the legislature restoring its charter on new conditions the old charter is thereby repealed and the corporation is estopped to deny the validity of the law to which it has thus assented.[48]

d. Repeal of Secondary Franchises Does Not Necessarily Dissolve Corporation. A repeal of what has been termed "a secondary franchise," by which is meant a franchise which is not necessary to the life of a corporation, but without which

41. Miners' Bank v. U. S., 1 Greene (Iowa) 553, Morr. (Iowa) 482, 43 Am. Dec. 115; Crease v. Babcock, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 334, 34 Am. Dec. 61; Myrick v. Brawley, 33 Minn. 377, 23 N. W. 549; Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287. Under a general statute, reserving to the legislature the right to amend or repeal all charters thereafter to be granted, with a proviso that it will not repeal a certain class of charters unless for some violation or other default, the legislative inquiry to ascertain whether there has been a violation or other default is not a "judicial act," within the meaning of the clause of the bill of rights of Massachusetts which forbids the legislature from exercising judicial acts. Crease v. Babcock, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 334, 34 Am. Dec. 61.

42. See 4 Thompson Corp. § 5420.

43. Miners' Bank v. U. S., 1 Greene (Iowa) 553, Morr. (Iowa) 482, 43 Am. Dec. 115; Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

44. Hamilton Gaslight, etc, Co. v. Hamilton, 146 U. S. 258, 13 S. Ct. 90, 36 L. ed. 963.

45. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

46. See infra, XXI, G, 3, a, (II).

47. Read v. Frankfort Bank, 23 Me. 318.

48. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

the corporation can exist and carry out some of the purposes of its creation, does not operate to dissolve the corporation.[49]

6. WHERE STATUTE PRESCRIBES THAT FRANCHISES SHALL REVERT TO STATE IF NOT EXERCISED WITHIN GIVEN TIME — a. In General. Where the charter prescribes that the franchises therein granted shall revert to the state unless exercised within a given time, or that within a given time the corporation shall do a certain act, upon the question whether such franchises are ipso facto forfeited in case they are not exercised, or in case the given act is not done within the prescribed time there is a regrettable conflict of judicial opinion.

b. Doctrine That There Is Ipso Facto Forfeiture or Reverter — (I) STATEMENT OF DOCTRINE. One class of decisions holds that if the franchises are not exercised within the prescribed time, or if the prescribed act is not performed within that time, the franchises are ipso facto forfeited, and that no act of the state, judicial or otherwise, is necessary to complete the forfeiture.[50]

(II) WHETHER FRANCHISES FORFEITED BECOMES FACT IN PAIS. In such a case whether the corporation has lost its existence is a fact in pais, which may be ascertained in any judicial proceeding, whether the question arises directly or collaterally, whenever its ascertainment becomes necessary for the protection of rights or the redress of wrongs.[51]

49. Putnam v. Ruch, 54 Fed. 216 [affirmed in 56 Fed. 416], holding for example that the withdrawal, by the adoption of a new state constitution, of the exclusive privilege given to a corporation by its charter of conducting and carrying on the business of landing and slaughtering live stock within certain limits in a city does not deprive such corporation of its existence, but leaves it with power to carry on its original business without the exclusive privilege, where the power to permit the slaughtering of animals under certain conditions and limitations within such territory is given to the city.

50. California.— Oakland R. Co. v. Oakland, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 365, 13 Am. Rep. 181.

Connecticut. — New York, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 196.

Illinois.— Green v. Green, 34 Ill. 320, by analogy.

Kansas.— Atchison St. R. Co. v. Nave, 38 Kan. 744, 17 Pac. 587, 5 Am. St. Rep. 800.

New Jersey.— Elizabethtown Gas-Light Co. v. Green, 46 N. J. Eq. 118, 18 Atl. 844.

New York.— Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524; In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245, 75 N. Y. 335, 81 N. Y. 69; In re Kings County El. R. Co., 41 Hun 425; Kennedy v. Strong, 14 Johns. 128.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Lykens Water Co., 110 Pa. St. 391, 2 Atl. 63. It was so held where a statute provided that if a company incorporated under a cerain act should fail to carry on its works and construct the necessary buildings, etc., within two years from granting of letters-patent, then the rights and privileges granted should revert to the commonwealth. Here, upon the failure of the company to comply with the conditions, its rights and privileges reverted to the commonwealth, without any judicial action or further legislation; and it was competent for the commonwealth to grant those privileges to another company to be formed for that purpose. West Manayunk Gas Light Co. v. New Gas Light Co., 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 369.

Tennessee.— It has been held that a turnpike corporation whose franchise is amended so as to cover several new roads forfeits its entire franchise by failure to construct any of them within the time limited by its charter, and that a turnpike company which fails to complete its road within the time limited by its charter forfeits its charter under the Tennessee code, although such failure is not wilful or corrupt. State v. Nonconnah Turnpike Co., (Tenn. Sup. 1875) 17 S. W. 128.

Texas.— Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., 63 Tex. 529. It has been held that a statute declaring that the charter of a railway not urban, suburban, or belt, shall be forfeited as to the uncompleted portion upon the company's failure to construct and operate ten miles of its roads within two years is self-executing; but that a provision therein that it shall not apply to urban, suburban, or belt railroads less than ten miles in length, provided they are completed or operated within twelve months, requires a judicial declaration of the forfeiture of such company's charter for non-compliance with the statutory requirements. Houston v. Houston Belt, etc., R. Co., 84 Tex. 581, 19 S. W. 786.

United States.— A constitutional provision repealing a corporate charter is self-enforcing and terminates the corporate existence. Putnam v. Ruch, 54 Fed. 216.

Compare Omnibus R. Co. v. Baldwin, 57 Cal. 160; Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 49 Mich. 148, 13 N. W. 492.

51. Connecticut.— Where a statute provided that, in case any railroad company should not, within twelve months after the acceptance of its route by the commissioners, procure and pay for the right of way over all land covered by the location, such acceptance by the commissioner should be void and of no effect, it was held that its failure

c. Doctrine That There Must Be Subsequent Legislative or Judicial Declaration of Forfeiture — (i) Statement of Doctrine. Another class of cases holds that the grant vests in the grantees and takes effect in præsenti; that the condition of the grant is a condition subsequent, the non-performance of which will operate to defeat the grant; but that it is for the state to say by some affirmative action, legislative or judicial, and generally the latter, that it will insist upon the performance of the condition,[52] until which time the existence of the corporation cannot be called in question by a private person.[53] to procure and pay for the right of way was not in the nature of a forfeiture, to be taken advantage of only by the state in a direct proceeding against the company, but that the whole proceeding became of no effect after the expiration of twelve months, and it was void simply because the statute said so. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 196.

Kansas.— Atchison St. R. Co. v. Nave, 38 Kan. 744, 17 Pac. 587, 5 Am. St. Rep. 800, by analogy.

New Jersey.— Elizabethtown Gas-Light Co. v. Green, 46 N. J. Eq. 118, 18 Atl. 844.

New York.— Where the franchise to complete a railroad had become ipso facto forfeited by reason of the fact of the railroad not having entered upon the building of the road within the time limited, a landowner successfully resisted its attempt to condemn his land for that purpose. In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245. In another case where a street railroad company had not proceeded with the building of its road within the time limited by its charter, but attempted to proceed with it thereafter, and the city interfered and prevented it from further occupying its streets, an injunction to restrain the city from so interfering was denied. Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524.

United States.— For the distinction between common-law forfeitures with respect to which there must in general be a judicial declaration of forfeiture, and legislative forfeitures where there may be a forfeiture ipso facto under the operation of a self-executing statute in compliance with the will of the legislature, see the reasoning of Marshall, C. J., in U. S. v. Grundy, 3 Cranch 337, 351, 2 L. ed. 459.

52. District of Columbia.— U. S. v. Metropolitan R. Co., 21 Wash. L. Rep. 787.

Illinois.— Chicago v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 73; Chicago City R. Co. v. People, 73 Ill. 541.

Louisiana.— Atchafalaya Bank v. Dawson, 13 La. 497.

Missouri.— Hovelman v. Kansas City Horse R. Co., 79 Mo. 632.

New York.— Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765; Brooklyn Cent. R. Co. v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 32 Barb. 358; People v. Manhattan Co., 9 Wend. 351.

Tennessee.— La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. 420.

Texas.— Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 81 Tex. 572, 17 S. W. 67.

Vermont.— Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

United States.— Davis v. Gray, 16 Wall. 203, 21 L. ed. 447.

53. Connecticut.— Enfield Toll Bridge Co. v. Connecticut River Co., 7 Conn. 28, where it was held that a neglect to give bonds for completion of the work as required by charter was not available to third persons.

District of Columbia.— U. S. v. Metropolitan R. Co., 21 Wash. L. Rep. 787.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 153 Ill. 307, 38 N. E. 1062.

Indiana.— Stoops v. Greensburgh, etc., Plank-Road Co., 10 Ind. 47.

Louisiana.— Atchafalaya Bank v. Dawson, 13 La. 497, even where the language of the charter was "shall be forfeited and void."

Maryland.— Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Gill & J. 1, even where the language was "shall be forfeited and ccase."

Massachusetts.— Charles River Bridge v. Warren Bridge, 7 Pick. 344.

New York.— Matter of Reformed Presb. Church, 7 How. Pr. 476. And see Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765; In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245; Caryl v. McElrath, 3 Sandf. 176; Mickles v. Rochester City Bank, 11 Paige 118, 42 Am. Dec. 103.

Tennessee.— La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. 420.

Utah.— A private individual cannot insist upon the forfeiture of the franchise of a corporation because of its failure to conform to the conditions thereof, where such forfeiture has been waived by the state or city granting the franchise, by the repeated granting of additional franchises after default in the performance of the conditions. Dern v. Salt Lake City R. Co., 19 Utah 46, 56 Pac. 556.

Vermont.— Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

Wisconsin.— A state which by amendment to the charter of a corporation, of which it could claim a forfeiture because of non-user, recognizes the continued existence of the corporation, waives such acts of non-user as a ground of forfeiture. Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138.

United States.—Wallamet Falls Canal, etc., Co. v. Kittridge, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,105, 5 Sawy. 44.

(II) Theory That Such Conditions Are to Be Construed in Like Manner as Conditions Subsequent in Private Grants, Resulting in Conclusion That There Is No Forfeiture Until State Intervenes. This theory confuses all distinction between public and private grants and applies to public grants the well-known rule relating to conditions subsequent in private grants, which is that where the condition is possible at the time of making the grant, but afterward becomes impossible by the act of God, the act of law, or the act of the grantor, the estate, having once become vested, is not thereby divested, but becomes absolute, resulting in the conclusion that there is no forfeiture until the state intervenes and declares it in the form of a judicial decision.[54]

d. Legislative Waiver of Forfeiture. Where the doctrine obtains that in order to create a forfeiture for the breach of a condition of the grant the state must act affirmatively in some way, it seems clear that it is competent for the legislature to waive the right of the state to exact the forfeiture unless restrained from so doing by some constitutional inhibition. Such inhibitions are found in recent state constitutions.[55]

7. Dissolution by Loss of All or Integral Part of Its Members — a. In General. The mode by which a corporation may become dissolved, as already stated,[56] namely, by the loss of all its members or of such an integral part of them as prevents the exercise of corporate functions, is no doubt applicable to municipal corporations. Thus if all the inhabitants of a village should move outside of the incorporated territory and leave no inhabitant there the corporation would become ipso facto dissolved. This mode of dissolution may perhaps also take place in a

54. Chicago v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 73. The first case cited by the court is Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121. This was the case of a deed of land to a railroad company by a private person, upon condition that the company should construct its road thereon within a limited time. Here it was held, and against the plain intention of the parties, that the failure to perform the condition did not divest the title, but that there must be an entry, or what is made by statute equivalent thereto, by the grantor or his heirs, for breach of the condition, to forfeit the estate; and that the right of entry was not a reversion or an estate in land, and would not pass by assignment or by the conveyance of the premises held subject to the condition. The decision abounds in ancient technicality, and the conclusion defeats the intention of the parties, and makes a contract for them which they never made for themselves, and is palpably unjust. See also Hovelman v. Kansas City Horse R. Co., 79 Mo. 632 (holding that a private person could not treat a street railway franchise as ipso facto determined where the terms of the grant were that in case of the failure of the company to complete the road within twelve months after the acceptance of the grant the city council might take away the franchise by a two-thirds vote); Brooklyn Cent. R. Co. v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 358 (the court in this case in like manner proceeding upon the doctrine of Davis v. New York, 14 N. Y. 506, 67 Am. Dec. 186, which related to a private grant); Davis v. Gray, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 21 L. ed. 447 (holding that the state of Texas had, by plunging into the Civil war, rendered it impossible for the grantee of the franchise to fulfil the terms of the grant). See also Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765. This case follows the decision of the supreme court of Vermont in Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 2, in the interpretation of a Vermont charter. The language of the charter was: "If said corporation shall not, within ten years from the approval of this act, commence the construction of said railroad, then said corporation shall be dissolved." The New York court undertook to "distinguish" certain previous decisions of its own (Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524; In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245, 75 N. Y. 335), where it held the contrary, under a statute using the language "its corporate existence and powers shall cease"; but it is plain that those decisions cannot be distinguished on any differences in the language of the governing statute. That a railroad corporation cannot prolong its existence by leasing its franchise to another corporation which complies with the conditions of the grant, not for the benefit of the grantor, but for its own benefit, was held in In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 81 N. Y. 69 [affirming 19 Hun (N. Y.) 314].

55. One of them (Cal. Const. art. 12, § 7) prohibits the extension of the franchise of any corporation or the remission of any forfeiture of corporate franchises. It was held that this provision did not prevent the legislature from passing a statute waiving a forfeiture of the franchise of a street railway company because of its unauthorized use of electricity as a motive power. People v. Los Angeles Electric R. Co., 91 Cal. 338, 27 Pac. 673.

56. See supra, XXI, A, 2.

charitable corporation, or indeed in any species of corporation which is capable of sustaining a loss of all its members.[57] Yet this mode of dissolution cannot take place in respect of pecuniary or business corporations which have a transferable joint stock, for the reason that their shares, being personal property, pass by assignment, bequest, or descent, and must always remain the property of some person or persons, who must of necessity be a member or members of the corporation as long as it exists.[58] As already pointed out,[59] the legal title to its property remains in the ideal body or corporation, no matter how much its individual members may change. If every member of a joint-stock corporation should die at the same moment, its shares would be distributed under the statute of distributions, or according to the testaments of the deceased shareholders, and the legal representatives of the deceased members would have authority by law to manage the corporation; and no dissolution would in such a case take place.[60] It is a very common thing to change, in one transaction, the entire personnel of a corporation, by the concurrent act of all its members, in selling all their shares to third persons, who may thereupon elect a new board of directors. The assignees of the shares, thus proceeding to reorganize the corporation, perpetuate its legal existence, and the title of the ideal body to its real and personal property remains as before.[61]

b. No Dissolution Because All Shares Pass Into Ownership of One Person. The judicial decisions seemed to be unanimous to the effect that the mere fact that all the shares of a corporation pass into the ownership of one person does not of itself dissolve the corporation. They rest upon the principle that a corporation is not dissolved by the destruction of an integral portion of its membership, so long as the remaining portion has the power to restore or renew the defective part.[62] Thus in the case of a charitable corporation no loss of members destroys the corporation, so long as a sufficient number remain to continue the succession and fill up the vacancies.[63] Contrary to early opinion[64] it is now generally held that the fact that all the shares in a joint-stock corporation have passed into the hands of two members,[65] or even into the hands of a single person,[66] does not ipso facto work a dissolution of the corporation; since such sole owner may so dispose of the shares as, by the election of the necessary directors and officers, to continue the corporate existence. If therefore such a sole owner continues the business under the corporate name, without giving notice to the public of a dissolution or of his individual ownership, he is still liable to be sued as a corporation.[67] Such 57. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 63.

58. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

59. See supra, VI, F, 1, a; VI, F, 2, b.

60. Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 63.

61. Wilde v. Jenkins, 4 Paige (N. Y.) 481. That a charter will not be judicially approved, in Pennsylvania, for a beneficial society, which provides that the corporation shall not be dissolved while nine members remain, such provision not being authorized by law, see In re United Daughters of Cornish, 35 Pa. St. 80.

62. Indiana.— State v. Vincennes University, 5 Ind. 77. This decision was not reversed by the decision of the supreme court of the United States in 14 Howard, but the latter decision preceded the former. See 5 Ind. 80.

Louisiana.— Matter of Belton, 47 La. Ann. 1614, 18 So. 642, 30 L. R. A. 648.

Pennsylvania.— Monongahela Bridge Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., Traction Co., 196 Pa. St. 25, 46 Atl. 99, 79 Am. St. Rep. 685, where all the shares of a bridge company passed into the ownership of a city except thirteen, which were distributed to the officers and directors — corporation not dissolved — title to property not vested in city — city no right to manage or control bridge.

South Carolina.— Smith v. Smith, 3 Desauss. 557.

Texas.— Wagner v. Marple, 10 Tex. Civ. App. 505, 31 S. W. 691.

63. State v. Vincennes University, 5 Ind. 77.

64. Bellona Co.'s Case, 3 Bland (Md.) 442.

65. Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 63.

66. Newton Mfg. Co. v. White, 42 Ga. 148; Bohannon v. Binns, 31 Miss. 355; Geo. T. Stagg Co. v. Taylor, 68 S. W. 862, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 495.

67. Newton Mfg. Co. v. White, 42 Ga. 148.

sole owner does not become the legal owner of the property of the corporation, but he owns merely the shares,[68] although he would probably be regarded as the equitable owner.[69] And in general the dissolution of a corporation, which is made the ground of an action, is not shown by evidence that the discharge of the corporate functions under the charter has become impossible by reason of the diminution of the number of corporators, where a forfeiture of the franchise has not been declared by a court in a proper proceeding.[70]

c. Private Agreements Among Sole Shareholders Do Not Work Dissolution. A corporation is not dissolved in consequence of any private agreement among its sole shareholders, unless the necessary effect of such agreement is a surrender of its charter. Thus where a corporation came lawfully into existence with but two shareholders, there being an agreement between them that each was to contribute half of the expense in carrying on the work for which the corporation was organized, that the profits of the venture were to be divided equally between them, but that no debts to strangers were to be contracted without the consent of both of them, the subsequent refusal of one of the corporators to be any longer bound by the agreement did not, upon any conceivable theory, work a dissolution of the corporation.[71]

B. Doctrine That Forfeitures of Corporate Franchises Can Be Effected Only by State — 1. Scope of This Doctrine. This doctrine, already considered in another relation,[72] subject to exceptions elsewhere stated,[73] is that a corporation cannot be deprived of its franchises for misuser or non-user of them, or for any other cause, and its dissolution decreed, except in a direct judicial proceeding instituted by the state for that purpose; nor can its right to exercise its franchises be litigated in a collateral proceeding instituted by a private person or corporation.[74]

2. But Private Persons May Proceed to Forfeit Charters Under Statutory Authority. The legislature of a state has of course the power to prescribe in what manner the power of a corporation to do a prescribed act, for example the power of a banking corporation to issue notes intended to circulate as money, may be called in question.[75] And it has been held that authority for private

68. Button v. Hoffman, 61 Wis. 20, 20 N. W. 667, 50 Am. Rep. 131.

69. Compare supra, VI, F, 2, b; XII, D, 2, h.

70. Bohannon v. Binns, 31 Miss. 355.

71. McKay v. Beard, 20 S. C. 156.

72. See supra, XVI, A, 5, a, (I).

73. See supra, XVI, A, 5, a, (II).

74. Alabama.— Bloch v. O'Conner Min., etc., Co., 129 Ala. 528, 29 So. 925.

New Jersey.—West Jersey Traction Co. v. Camden Horse R. Co., 52 N. J. Eq. 452, 29 Atl. 333; Elizabethtown Gas Light Co. v. Green, 49 N. J. Eq. 329, 24 Atl. 560.

New York.— People v. Ulster, etc., R. Co., 128 N. Y. 240, 28 N. E. 635, 40 N. Y. St. 280, holding that the existence of a corporation is not terminated by the mere fact of a forfeiture which the state may waive, either by neglecting to sue under a statute authorizing the state by its attorney-general to bring an action to annul such existence for forfeiture of the corporate franchises or by discontinuing such an action.

Pennsylvania.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 187 Pa. St. 123, 40 Atl. 967, 42 Wkly. Notes Cas. 419 (holding that the forfeiture of a corporate franchise granted by the commonwealth, by non-exercise or otherwise, is a question between the commonwealth and her grantee only, and cannot be raised by a private litigant, for example the owner of property over which the corporation seeks the right of way); In re South Side Water Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 158, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 603, 36 Wkly. Notes Cas. 55 (question whether a corporation duly chartered with exclusive privileges has forfeited or lost them cannot be determined on the application of a rival corporation for a charter); Chestnut Hill, etc., R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 441 (holding that the forfeiture of a corporate charter for non-user cannot be asserted by another corporation); Union St. R. Co. v. Hazelton, etc., Electric R. Co., 7 Kulp 313.

Tennessee.— Parker v. Bethel Hotel Co., 96 Tenn. 252, 34 S. W. 209, 31 L. R. A. 706, non-user of the franchise of a corporation, and the sole proprietorship of all its capital, will not constitute a dissolution of the corporation without a judicial adjudication thereof.

Texas.— Pickett v. Abney, 84 Tex. 645, 19 S. W. 859 (judgment forfeiting the charter of a corporation, where the state is not party to the suit, is a nullity); Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 81 Tex. 572, 17 S. W. 67.

United States.— Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

75. Williams v. State, 23 Tex. 264.

parties to institute a proceeding by scire facias against a corporation for a forfeiture of its charter may properly be conferred by a general law.[76]

C. Grounds of Forfeiting Charters and Dissolving Corporations — 1. General Principles and Doctrines — a. Disinclination of Courts to Forfeit Charters. It may be collected not only from what the courts have judged but from what the judges have said, that the courts are disinclined to forfeit the charters of corporations, especially those created for purposes of public utility, which it is the policy of the state to encourage and foster. The reasons for declaring such a forfeiture must be solid, weighty, and cogent; there must have been a violation of a positive prohibitory statute; or a plain abuse of power, by which the corporation fails to fulfil the design and purpose of its creation; some act of misuser or non-user touching matters which are of the essentials of the contract between the sovereign and the corporation, and the act or neglect must be wilful and repeated;[77] and the information must state with precision every fact which constitutes the abuse of the franchises on which the demand for a forfeiture is predicated.[78]

b. How Far Question of Forfeiture Rests in Judicial Discretion. It may be collected from a comparison of a number of decisions speaking upon the question that, although grounds of forfeiture have been clearly made out, yet the question of imposing the severe penalty of the law is committed to judicial discretion so far as mitigation is concerned, unless a judgment of ouster is commanded by a statute in such terms as leaves the court no discretion.[79]

c. Effect of Subsequent Good Behavior of Corporation. Where a corporation has done acts which as mere matter of law operate as a forfeiture of its franchises, and entitle the state to demand a judgment of ouster, its mere subsequent good behavior will not disable the state from demanding such judgment. Nothing but a waiver by the state will release the corporation from the consequences of its acts.[80] In such a case, it has been reasoned that the corporation, after the doing or suffering of the guilty act which incurs the penalty of forfeiture, holds its franchises as a mere tenant at will of the state.[81]

d. Public Must Have Interest in Act Done or Omitted. In respect to those acts which will constitute a just ground for adjudging a forfeiture of the franchises of a corporation, a distinction is taken between those provisions of the charter which are intended to apply merely to the internal government of the corporation, and those which impose positive conditions, restrictions, and duties, in which the public right or interest is involved. For a violation of the latter, a forfeiture will be adjudged, but not so with regard to the former.[82] "It is not every excess of power, nor every omission of duty, that produces that effect.

76. State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1, referring to Md. Code, art. 12. A statute of Pennsylvania (Pa. Act June 19, 1871) authorizes any private citizen by a bill in equity to compel a corporation to show its authority to do a particular act; but it is held that a private citizen cannot, by virtue of this statute, show the mere non-user of a franchise, in order to establish a forfeiture of the charter of the corporation. Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 104 Pa. St. 399. That the Revised Statutes of Louisiana of 1870, § 2593 et seq., do not provide for the forfeiture of the charters of corporations at the instance of private persons, even when they are parties interested, see State v. Atty.-Gen., 30 La. Ann. 954.

77. State v. St. Paul, etc., Turnpike Co., 92 Ind. 42; Moore v. State, 71 Ind. 478. See also People v. Broadway R. Co., 126 N. Y. 29, 26 N. E. 961, 36 N. Y. St. 376 [reversing 56 Hun (N. Y.) 45, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 6, 29 N. Y. St. 343]; State v. Commercial Bank, 10 Ohio 535; Com. v. Commercial Bank, 28 Pa. St. 383; State v. Pawtuxet Turnpike Corp., 8 R. I. 182.

78. Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602.

79. Bank Com'rs v. Buffalo Bank, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 497; State v. People's Mut. Ben. Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 579; State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258; State v. Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co., 23 Ohio St. 121, 13 Am. Rep. 233; State v. Essex Bank, 8 Vt. 489.

80. People v. Fishkill, etc., Plank Road Co., 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 445.

81. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287. Compare In re Franklin Tel. Co., 119 Mass. 447.

82. Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602; Commercial Bank v. State, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 599; State v. Wood, 13 Mo. App. 139.

The public must have an interest in the act done, or omitted to be done. If it is confined exclusively to the corporation, and in nowise affects the community, it should not be considered as of those conditions upon which the grant is made."[83]

e. Annulment of Charters Which Conflict With Previous Grants. The state may maintain a proceeding to annul a charter which it has previously granted, on the ground that it was improvidently granted and is void by reason of the fact that it conflicts with the prior rights of another chartered corporation.[84]

f. Supposed Distinction Between Public and Private Corporations With Respect to Power of Courts to Dissolve Them. Under the principles of the common law, there is no distinction between public and private corporations with respect to the power of the state to demand the annulment of their charters in judicial proceedings for misuser or non-user of their corporate powers, or for the usurpation of powers which have not been granted.[85] Such a distinction must be founded in statute if it exists at all.[86]

2. Usurpation of Ungranted Franchises — a. In General. The grounds on which the franchises of corporations may be seized by the state, as usually described, consist of a wilful nonfeasance or malfeasance; in other words of a wilful non-user or misuser of their franchises, in matters affecting the interest or right of the public generally.[87] A very little reflection will show that these two grounds do not exhaust the list, but that we must add to them a third cause of forfeiture; namely, the exercise by a corporation of powers which have never been granted to it.[88]

b. Usurpation of Ungranted Powers Does Not Necessarily Forfeit Entire Franchises. The usurpation by a corporation of powers which have not been granted to it is not necessarily redressed by the forfeiture of all its franchises; but public justice is frequently satisfied by merely ousting it of the powers which it has usurped.[89]

c. But May Result in Such Forfeiture. But pursuing the official syllabus of an Ohio case, "in quo warranto against a corporation, where it has assumed fran-

83. Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602, 605. Therefore in a proceeding by information in the nature of quo warranto to forfeit the franchise of a private manufacturing corporation, it was held that the court might consider evidence tending to show that one of the corporators procured the institution of the proceeding in bad faith and for his private purposes. State v. Wood, 13 Mo. App. 139.

84. Com. v. Lance, 8 Del. Co. Rep. 9, 3 Dauph. Co. Rep. 181, 7 Northam. Co. Rep. 242.

85. State v. Bradford, 32 Vt. 50, a case of usurpation.

86. In California, where questions of this kind are governed by a civil code, it is held that in the absence of statute the judicial courts have no power to dissolve a public corporation for misuser or non-user of its corporate powers, and that an irrigation district is such a corporation. People v. Selma Irr. Dist., 98 Cal. 206, 32 Pac. 1047.

87. Alabama.— Paschall v. Whitsett, 11 Ala. 472.

Maryland.— Washington, etc., Turnpike Road v. State, 19 Md. 239.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Blue Hill Turnpike Corp., 5 Mass. 420; Com. v. Union F. & M. Ins. Co., 5 Mass. 230, 4 Am. Dec. 50.

Nebraska.— State v. Council Bluffs, etc., Ferry Co., 11 Nebr. 354, 9 N. W. 563.

New York.— People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 54 Hun 354, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 406, 5 L. R. A. 386 [affirmed in 121 N. Y. 582, 21 N. E. 834, 31 N. Y. St. 781, 18 Am. St. Rep. 843, 9 L. R. A. 33].

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. U. S. Bank, 2 Ashm. 349.

United States.— Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. 281, 8 L. ed. 945; Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. 518, 4 L. ed. 629; Terret v. Taylor, 9 Cranch 43, 3 L. ed. 650.

There is a learned note on this subject in 22 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 210.

88. As where a corporation has power to employ its funds in the purchase of so much real estate as may be necessary for the transaction of its business, but employs them in purchasing real estate for investment. Bixler v. Summerfield, 195 Ill. 147, 62 N. E. 849.

89. Meurer v. Detroit Musicians' Benev., etc., Assoc., 95 Mich. 451, 54 N. W. 954. The provisions of a statute (Can. Civ. Proc. art. 997) authorizing the attorney-general to bring actions to forfeit the charters of corporations do not relate to every illegal act which a corporation may do, but only to such as are professedly or manifestly done in the assertion of a special power, franchise, or privilege not conferred upon the corporation by law. Casgrain v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., [1895] A. C. 282, 64 L. J. P. C. 88, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 369, 11 Reports 449.

chises not granted, and it appears that the certificate of incorporation does not comply with the requirements of the statute under which it is organized, the court, in the exercise of its discretion, will oust it of the franchise to be a corporation." [90]

3. Forfeiture by Reason of Non-User of Its Franchises — a. In General. While the abandonment and non-user by a corporation of its franchises will or will not work an ipso facto dissolution, according to the nature of the rights involved in the question, and the manner in which it arises,[91] yet it is well settled that, whenever a corporation voluntarily and totally abandons the exercise of its franchises, and does or suffers to be done acts which destroy the end and objects for which it was incorporated, this will authorize a judgment ousting it of its franchises at the suit of the state,[92] or the appointment of a receiver by a court of equity to wind up its affairs, under a statutory jurisdiction, on the ground that it has suffered de facto dissolution.[93] But where a corporation possesses several powers or privileges, the non-user of one of them, it not being essential to the purposes of its creation, will not afford a ground of terminating its existence.[94]

b. Must Have Done or Suffered Something Which Destroys End and Object of Its Creation. Some of the cases proceed upon the proposition, announced in a leading case,[95] that the suffering an act to be done which destroys the nature and object for which the corporation was instituted must be regarded as equivalent to a direct surrender of its franchises.[96] Where this is the theory, an action in the nature of quo warranto, prosecuted by the state, does not, except in form, oust the corporation of its franchises; for it has already abandoned or surrendered them. It does no more than judicially ascertain the fact of the abandonment and surrender, and put it beyond all future question.[97]

90. State v. Central Ohio Mut. Relief Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 399.

91. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.; infra, XXI, C, 3, e et seq.

92. Connecticut.— Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 524, under a statute.

Illinois.— Henderson Loan, etc., Assoc. v. People, 163 Ill. 196, 45 N. E. 141 (loan association having banking powers discontinuing business without excuse for fifteen years); St. Louis, etc., Co. v. Sandoval, etc., Co., 116 Ill. 170, 5 N. E. 370.

New York.— People v. Northern R. Co., 53 Barb. 98 (under a statute); People v. Hudson Bank, 6 Cow. 217.

Ohio.— State v. Seneca County Bank, 5 Ohio St. 171.

Texas.—City Water Co. v. State, (Civ. App. 1895) 33 S. W. 259, where there was a failure of a water company to elect directors or officers, hold meetings, or perform corporate acts, for nearly eight years, and an attempted sale and surrender of all its property to another corporation.

93. Ward v. Sea Ins. Co., 7 Paige (N. Y.) 294; Matter of Jackson Mar. Ins. Co., 4 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 559.

94. Wadesboro Cotton Mills Co. v. Burns, 114 N. C. 353, 19 S. E. 238.

95. Slee v. Bloom, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 456, 10 Am. Dec. 273. See also supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.

96. People v. Hudson Bank, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 217; State v. Seneca County Bank, 5 Ohio St. 171.

97. When therefore in a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto, the corporation showed that it had been duly incorporated, and traversed the allegations of usurpation in the information; and the state replied, setting up in substance among other things, that on a day named the corporation had become wholly insolvent and unable to redeem its bills; that it had discontinued its banking operations, either by the way of discounts or otherwise, and had assigned or transferred so much of its property to trustees, in trust for the payment of its debts, as to render itself incapable of continuing its banking operations according to the intent of the statute of incorporation, it was held that this constituted a good ground for a judgment of ouster. People v. Hudson Bank, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 217. Closely similar to this on its facts and conclusions was State v. Seneca County Bank, 5 Ohio St. 171. On the other hand a railway company does not subject itself to a judicial sentence of forfeiture, when it discontinues its business, in consequence of having conveyed its property to another such company, under the authorization of a special statute, which by a just construction of its terms contemplates that the granting company shall continue its corporate existence. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245. Again it has been adjudged that the assignment by a banking corporation of all its assets for the liquidation of its debts does not of itself authorize a judgment ousting it of its franchises, although it is conceded that circumstances may exist under which such an assignment will be tantamount to such a non-user of its franchises as will warrant an ouster. State v. Commercial Bank, 13 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 569, 53 Am. Dec. 106. Compare State v. Commercial Bank, 33 Miss. 474. An

c. No Forfeiture For Non-User of Some of Its Granted Powers. No corporation is required to exercise all the powers granted to it as a condition of the exercise of any of them, unless such a requirement is expressly made in some statute or ordinance under which it obtains some of its powers, or unless its powers are inseparably connected with each other.[98]

d. No Forfeiture by Reason of Unauthorized Lease of Properties and Franchises. It has been held that the charter of a domestic railway and bridge corporation will not be forfeited because of an unauthorized lease of all its rights and privileges for ninety-nine years to a foreign corporation composed of and officered by the same men, which fails to comply with charter conditions as to the streets.[99]

e. Suspending Ordinary Business For Year Under Statute. Under the Revised Statutes of New York,[1] a corporation which for one whole year had remained insolvent, or which had suspended its ordinary business, was deemed to have surrendered its franchises and was subject to be adjudged dissolved. This statute was the subject of numerous adjudications, but as it has been repealed it will not be further noticed here.

f. Failing to Build Branch Railroad. The principle already referred to,[2] that the courts proceed with extreme reluctance in adjudging forfeitures of the franchises of corporations, finds an apt illustration in a case where it was held that, where a corporation fails to carry out the public duties assumed by it in consideration of the grant of its franchises, by building a branch railroad, its franchises are forfeited only as to that particular branch.[3]

g. Forfeiture of Charter of Railroad Company For Discontinuing Part of Its Route — (i) In General. It has been reasoned that a railroad company which has completed its road between the termini named in its charter or articles of association forfeits its franchise by abandoning or ceasing to operate a part of the route. It was held that it could not be compelled by a court of equity, even where the action was brought by the state, to continue to maintain and operate it. The remedy was by mandamus, or indictment, or by a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto, at the election of the state, to forfeit the franchises of the corporation.[4]

(ii) Will Work Forfeiture of Franchise of Building Unfinished Portion. It may perhaps be collected, as the result of a few cases, that the failure of a railroad or plank-road company to build a part of its route will not work a forfeiture of all its franchises, but will at most work a forfeiture of the franchise which it possesses of building the unfinished portion, so that the state will be warranted in conferring that franchise upon another company.[5] insurance company does not forfeit its charter because of non-user, by refusing to insure against extra-hazardous risks. State v. Urbana, etc., Mut. Ins. Co., 14 Ohio 6.

98. Illinois Trust, etc., Bank v. Ottumwa Electric R. Co., 89 Fed. 235 [affirmed in 105 Fed. 123, 44 C. C. A. 389, 52 L. R. A. 481].

99. State v. Omaha, etc., R., etc., Co., 91 Iowa 517, 60 N. W. 121.

1. 2 N. Y. Rev. Stat. p. 463, § 38.

2. See supra, XXI, C, 1, a.

3. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245. See also State v. Brownstown, etc., Gravel Road Co., 120 Ind. 337; Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Gray (Mass.) 180. It may be remarked that where a corporation fails to carry out the public object for which it was incorporated, such as the construction of a particular line of railroad, and the statutory duty is clear, a mandamus will lie to compel it to perform such duty. State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40; People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295.

4. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295. Compare State v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 95 N. C. 602.

5. State v. Brownstown, etc., Gravel Road Co., 120 Ind. 337, 22 N. E. 316; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245. In the former case the court so concluded in obedience to the language of a statute, but the reasoning of the court indicates that its conclusion would have been the same without the statute. In a case in Michigan, where the four judges of the court delivered separate opinions, and one of them dissented, leave to file an information in the nature of quo warranto against a railroad company for the purpose of forfeiting its charter was denied where it was apparent that the forfeiture of the charter would not redress the grievance complained of, which was that the lessee of the railroad company had discontinued a part

h. Failing to Keep Works in Repair — (I) In General. In the case of corporations organized to build toll-roads, canals, or other works of public utility, to be used by members of the public distributively on the payment of tolls, there is a reasonable implication, arising from the acceptance of the franchise, that the corporation will keep the works in a reasonable state of repair for the benefit of the public; and moreover the charters or other governing statutes generally prescribe this in express terms. In either case a substantial failure to comply with this duty will be ground upon which the state may demand a judgment ousting the corporation of its franchises.[6]

(II) Rigid State of Repairs Not Insisted Upon. But here, as elsewhere seen,[7] in proceedings to forfeit the franchises of corporations, the law does not require the performance of conditions subsequent with extreme strictness, nor does it insist upon extreme care, or upon the attainment by the corporation of impracticable results.[8]

i. Omission to Elect Directors. As elsewhere seen[9] the mere omission to elect trustees, directors, or other officers of a corporation does not ipso facto work a dissolution, provided the means remain, under the charter or governing statute, of perpetuating its existence; and similarly it has been held that the omission to elect trustees for a number of years is not a statutory ground of dissolution,[10] since the old board hold over, and their acts are valid until their successors are elected.[11]

4. Forfeiture For Misuser of Franchises or Powers — a. In General. The doctrine under this head has been well stated by saying that where a private corporation, created by a state law, misuses its franchise with respect to matters which are of the essence of the contract between such corporation and the state, and the acts or omissions are wilful and repeated, and inflict injury upon the public generally, they constitute ground for the forfeiture of the franchises and the dissolution of a corporation.[12] of its route, and had side-tracked a village, which complained of the consequent loss of facilities for transportation. Atty.-Gen. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 15, 20 N. W. 696. The decision of another court is to the effect that a railroad corporation which has built a branch railroad under authority from the legislature, which maintains it in good condition for use, uses it regularly and sufficiently for the transportation of freight, and is ready at all times to transport passengers and draw passenger-cars over it whenever any shall be offered to be transported or drawn, for a reasonable toll or compensation, does not forfeit its franchise by discontinuing, after public notice, the running of regular passenger trains over the branch railroad, when there is not sufficient passenger business, at any rate of toll or fare, to pay the expenses of running them, by reason of the establishment, under authority of the legislature, of a competing line for the transportation of passengers over a horse railroad. Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Gray (Mass.) 180.

6. State v. Moore, 19 Ala. 514; People v. Plainfield Ave. Gravel-Road Co., 105 Mich. 9, 62 N. W. 998 (financial inability of corporation immaterial); People v. Plymouth Plank Road Co., 32 Mich. 248; People v. Fishkill, etc., Plank Road Co., 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 445; People v. Hillsdale, etc., Turnpike Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 254; People v. Royalton, etc., Turnpike Co., 11 Vt. 431; State v. Pasumpsic Turnpike Co., 3 Vt. 178.

7. See infra, XXI, C, 4, c, (I) et seq.

8. When therefore a charter had been granted for the navigation of a bayou, and the company was required to keep ordinarily, at low tide, a certain depth of water, the simple fact that less water was occasionally found, in consequence of extremely low stages of the lake into which the bayou emptied, was not sufficient ground for the state to demand a judgment of forfeiture. State v. New Orleans Nav. Co., 7 La. Ann. 679. Nor was a turnpike company required after fifty years to continue its road in the same condition as required by the statute in its original construction, but the law was satisfied with its continuance in a good state of general repair; so that, to warrant a forfeiture for an omission to keep it in repair, it was necessary for the state to allege and prove that the want of repair was such as to render the road dangerous and inconvenient to travelers. People v. Williamsburgh Turnpike, etc., Co., 47 N. Y. 586. Compare People v. Waterford, etc., Turnpike Co., 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 580, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 327.

9. See infra, XXI, D, 2, b.

10. Under N. Y. Laws (1848), c. 40, § 4.

11. Kelsey v. Pfaudler Process Fermentation Co., 45 Hun (N. Y.) 10.

12. State v. New Orleans Water Works Co., 107 La. 1, 31 So. 395 [writ of error dismissed in 185 U. S. 336, 22 S. Ct. 691, 44 L. ed. 936].

b. Wilfully Violating Charter Provisions Intended For Protection of Public. The principle is sometimes announced by the statement that where there has been a misuser or non-user in regard to matters which are of the essence of the contract between the corporation and the state, and the acts or omissions have been repeated and wilful, they constitute a just ground on which the state may claim a forfeiture.[13]

c. Misuser in Non-Performance of Conditions Subsequent — (I) In General. When it is determined, as the true interpretation of the charter or governing statute, that a condition annexed to a grant of corporate franchises is not a condition precedent, which must be performed before the grant takes effect, but is a condition subsequent, then, in conformity with a doctrine already considered,[14] the non-performance of the condition does not operate ipso facto to determine the grant, until the state or the municipal corporation, where that is the granting power, takes the appropriate affirmative action to put an end to the grant for that reason, and this by analogy to the principle, applicable to conditions subsequent in private grants, that such a condition does not defeat the grant until there is an entry by the grantor.[15] But where conditions subsequent in a grant of corporate franchises are of such a nature as to affect the public right and interest, in such a manner and to such an extent that it may be reasonably presumed that without the insertion of the conditions the grant would not have been made, then if the conditions are not performed it is good ground for adjudging a forfeiture of the franchises at the suit of the state.[16] And this is true, not only of express conditions in charters and governing statutes, but also of those conditions which the law implies as necessarily inhering in the grant. Thus it was said in a case in the English king's bench, that all franchises are granted upon condition that they shall be duly executed according to the charter, and that a corporation cannot be allowed to take a grant and repudiate the conditions on which it is made, but that a breach of the conditions is punished by withdrawing the grant.[17] This doctrine has been affirmed by American courts, and with the additional statement that it is a fundamental doctrine that corporations shall perform the conditions and duties enjoined by the fundamental law of their creation, and that a non-performance of the conditions is per se such a misuser as will forfeit the grant at common law.[18] The general doctrine therefore is that the non-performance of the substantial conditions named in the charter, upon which the grant was made, or of those named in the governing statute under which the corporation was permitted to organize, operates per se as such a misuser as will warrant a judicial forfeiture of the grant.[19]

(II) Non-Performance Need Not Be Result of Bad or Corrupt Motive. While it is often said that to warrant a judgment of forfeiture there must be something wrong arising from wilful abuse or improper neglect, something more than mere accidental negligence, excess of power, or mistake in the

13. State v. New Orleans Gas Light, etc., Co., 2 Rob. (La.) 529; State v. Commercial Bank, 33 Miss. 474; Com. v. Commercial Bank, 28 Pa. St. 383.

The erection of a building by a bank was said to be a violation of its charter, such as would entitle the state to forfeit its franchises, in New Haven v. City Bank, 31 Conn. 106. But there is no propriety in such a conclusion, since the building would be of public benefit and utility, and only the shareholders would have the right to complain.

14. See supra, XXI, A, 6, c, (I) et seq.

15. See to this effect People v. Hillsdale, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 254; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

16. People v. National Sav. Bank, 129 Ill. 618, 22 N. E. 288.

17. London v. Vanacker, 1 Ld. Raym. 496.

18. People v. Kingston, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 193, 35 Am. Dec. 551.

19. Illinois.—People v. National Sav. Bank, 129 Ill. 618, 22 N. E. 288.

Massachusetts.— Lumbard v. Stearns, 4 Cush. 60; Quincy Canal v. Newcomb, 7 Metc. 276, 39 Am. Dec. 778.

New York.—People v. Waterford, etc., Turnpike Corp., 3 Abb. Dec. 580, 2 Keyes 327; People v. Bristol, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. 222; People v. Kingston, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. 193, 35 Am. Dec. 551.

North Carolina.—Atty.-Gen. v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

mode of exercising an acknowledged power, yet it is also held that it is enough to work a forfeiture, that the performance of the condition is neglected, or designedly omitted, and that the ingredient of a bad or corrupt motive is not necessary.[20]

(III) Strained or Technical Compliance With Condition Not Required. It must also be concluded from what has preceded[21] that the law does not insist upon a strained, literal, or technical compliance with the conditions of such a grant, but that a reasonable and substantial performance of the conditions is all that is necessary to defeat a claim to a forfeiture.[22]

(IV) Misprisions of Directors and Officers — (A) In General. Here as elsewhere the rule obtains that the acts of the directors are the acts of the corporation, and that the misprisions of the directors in the exercise of their offices are the misprisions of the corporation.[23] Hence, where the directors of a corporation do any act which may work a forfeiture of its charter, this will afford ground for a proceeding in equity on the part of a minority of the shareholders, under a statute, to wind up the corporation by the appointment of a receiver.[24]

Rhode Island.—State v. Pawtuxet Turnpike Corp., 8 R. I. 182.

Vermont.— People v. Royalton, etc., Turnpike Co., 11 Vt. 431.

20. People v. Kingston, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 193, 35 Am. Dec. 551.

21. See supra, XXI, C, 1, a.

22. Thompson v. People, 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 537; People v. Kingston, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 193, 35 Am. Dec. 551. And see Com. v. Allegheny Bridge Co., 20 Pa. St. 185. Cal. Civ. Code, § 502, does not declare that a failure to comply with the provision which requires work to be commenced within one year by a street railroad company shall work a forfeiture; but that a failure to comply with that, and also with the provision which requires the work to be completed within three years, shall have that effect. Omnibus R. Co. v. Baldwin, 57 Cal. 160. Where the charter of a railroad company defined the beginning point and terminus of the road, gave the general direction of the road, and required a survey of the route to be made, and a map of it to be filed in the office of the secretary of state within twelve months from the grant of the charter, these provisions were held not material conditions in the charter affecting the public interest, and the conclusion was that a failure to comply with them would not authorize a judicial declaration of the forfeiture of the franchise. Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602. But where the charter of a banking corporation contained the provision, "this act shall be void, unless said corporation shall organize and proceed to business within two years after the passage of this act," and another provision was, "the capital stock of said corporation shall be $50,000.00, with power to increase the same to $150,000.00, and shall be divided into shares," etc., and only ten thousand dollars of the capital stock was subscribed and paid in within the two years thus limited, it was held that the corporation had no authority to proceed to business, and that the state was entitled to a judgment of ouster. People v. National Sav. Bank, 129 Ill. 618, 22 N. E. 288. For a statute providing for the dissolution of railway corporations which do not begin the construction of their roads within five years see Colo. Laws (1889), p. 95.

23. Vincennes Bank v. State Bank, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234; Life, etc., Ins. Co. v. Mechanics' F. Ins. Co., 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 31; Bank Com'rs v. Buffalo Bank, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 497.

24. Ward v. Sea Ins. Co., 7 Paige (N. Y.) 294. Where one of the trustees of a corporation entered into an agreement with one A, to the effect that if A would obtain an appropriation from the legislature to the corporation he should receive whatever amount might be appropriated in excess of a certain sum; and the board of trustees, with knowledge of the agreement, appropriated, by resolution, the excess over the sum named, to the payment of A, after he had obtained the legislative appropriation; and the money was paid to A in pursuance of their resolution, these acts were held to be such an abuse of the powers of the corporation as constituted sufficient ground for a sentence of dissolution. Nor did the fact that in making the payment to A the trustees acted upon the advice of counsel; or the fact that, since the passage of the resolution, the board of trustees had been changed by the election of new members, and that the new members were competent to manage the affairs of the corporation, constitute any defense to the action to dissolve it for the misconduct above stated. People v. Dispensary, etc., Soc., 7 Lans. (N. Y.) 304. So where it was found by a jury in a quo warranto proceeding that a banking corporation had embezzled large sums of money deposited with it for safe-keeping by the United States, this was held a violation of the first principles of their charter; and it was no argument that the embezzlement was the act of the directors, and was not to be charged against the shareholders, since the statute evidently contemplated that the corporation should be responsible to the fullest extent for the acts of its governing body. Besides the whole corporation by their corporate name had been charged and found guilty by the verdict of the jury. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234. It

(B) But Not Unauthorized Misprisions and Breaches of Trust. But it must not be concluded from the foregoing that the unauthorized misprisions of the ministerial officers of corporations will constitute grounds of a judicial sentence forfeiting the franchises of the corporation, and thereby working wrong to the innocent shareholders. Thus it has been held that the cashier of a banking corporation cannot produce a forfeiture of the charter, by a direct and palpable violation of the authority or instructions given him by the directors. It is conceded that if they give him no instructions against doing the illegal act upon which the right of forfeiture is predicated by the state, and he commits it in the course of his ordinary duties, it becomes their act; but it is held that if his act is a direct violation of express instructions from them, as well as a violation of the charter, the corporation is not bound by it, in such a sense that its charter is to be thereby forfeited.[25] Nor must it be concluded that every illegal act or breach of trust on the part of the directors even of a corporation will warrant a sentence of forfeiture.[26]

d. What Acts of Misuser Will Not Warrant Forfeiture — (I) In General. No decree forfeiting the franchises of a corporation will be granted for anything less than the violation of an express provision of law under which the corporation derives its powers, or for such a misuse or non-use of them as results in a substantial failure to fulfil the purpose of its organization.[27]

(II) Unlawful Acts For Which Forfeitures Will Not Be Granted. A forfeiture of the charter of a corporation will not be granted for wrongs to creditors or shareholders in the administration of its affairs, which have resulted from the assumption of questionable rights, the parties aggrieved having other adequate remedies; but there must have been ultra vires acts, wilful and continued, and relating to some franchise granted.[28] Such a forfeiture will not for example be granted because of the illegal levy of assessments upon the shares of shareholders.[29] Such a forfeiture will not be granted in the case of a water company because of violation of law at the time of its organization, more than eight years before, in issuing bonds in excess of the cost of constructing the waterworks, where none of the present shareholders were guilty of such violation.[30]

(III) Making or Procuring Fundamental Changes in Corporation — (A) In General. This in general is not a ground of forfeiting the franchises of a corporation. It has even been held that, if a domestic corporation procures a charter from a foreign state, under which its members attempt to reorganize, this is not such a violation of its allegiance to the state granting its charter, or crimen læsæ majestatis, as will warrant a judicial sentence forfeiting its charter in the domestic state.[31] Nor does the further fact that the corporation, under cover of its foreign charter, has instituted a proceeding in the circuit court of the United States within the domestic state, against another corporation created by the domestic state, and also against other persons, praying that an act of the legislature has been held that a mutual benefit society will not be wound up because of the adoption of by-laws by its incorporators giving themselves the power to fill all vacancies in office and fix their own salaries, where such action has been rescinded, and the organization as perfected is entirely legal. Com. v. United Brethren Mut. Aid Soc., 16 Pa. Co. Ct. 145.

25. State v. Commercial Bank, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 218, 45 Am. Dec. 280.

26. Thus the fact that the trustees of a mutual benefit association illegally voted to themselves back pay and issued unauthorized certificates of membership was held not a sufficient ground for ousting the corporation of its franchises. The court justly concluded that "to visit the perversion of its objects by a few, upon the heads of the entire membership must result in irremediable hardship." State v. People's Mut. Ben. Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 579, 584.

27. Illinois Trust, etc., Bank v. Ottumwa Electric R. Co., 89 Fed. 235 [affirmed in 105 Fed. 123, 44 C. C. A. 389, 52 L. R. A. 481].

28. State v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 132 Ala. 50, 31 So. 375.

29. People v. Rosenstein-Cohn Cigar Co., 131 Cal. 153, 63 Pac. 163.

30. State v. Janesville Water Co., 92 Wis. 496, 66 N. W. 512, 32 L. R. A. 391.

31. Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26. Compare Com. v. Cullen, 13 Pa. St. 133, 53 Am. Dec. 450, which seems to have been a statutory proceeding by quo warranto of the domestic state be declared null and void, warrant such a judicial sentence; for, although a corporation which undertakes to drag its sovereign ad forinsecus examen before the bar of the tribunal of another sovereign violates its first and paramount duty, and thereby subjects itself to the extreme consequences, yet a court of the United States within the domestic state is not a court of another sovereign, because the federal constitution is the constitution of the state, and the government of the United States forms a part of the government of the state.[32] So where an incorporated turnpike company attempted in good faith to consolidate with another such company, and twelve years afterward the consolidation was declared void, and the former company then resumed possession of its property, and for a year continued to exercise its franchises, it was held that it should not be deemed to have forfeited them by non-user, by reason of having failed to keep up its original organization during the period when the consolidation subsisted de facto. The court proceeded largely upon the ground of encouraging such enterprises as the company had been organized to promote, the maintaining of turnpike roads.[33]

(B) Changing Corporate Name. The attempt of a corporation to change its name, in a manner not authorized by its charter, does not ipso facto work an avoidance of its charter.[34] Nor does the use of an abbreviated name by the officers of a corporation, organized under a particular name, constitute such a usurpation as will support a proceeding by quo warranto to oust the corporation of its franchises.[35]

(IV) Attempted Violations of Law. No mere intention or purpose on the part of those who are in control of a corporation to violate the law will afford ground for forfeiting its franchises; since there is always a locus pœnitentiæ, and the carrying out of such an unlawful purpose may generally be thwarted by process of injunction.[36]

(V) Failure to Make, File, or Publish Statements as Required by Statute. There is a difference of opinion upon the question whether statutes requiring the filing by corporations of their condition at stated periods, and denouncing penalties for failing so to do, are cumulative or exclusive. If the penalty is exclusive, then such a failure is not ground of forfeiting the franchises of the corporation.[37] Whether such a statute is deemed to be cumulative or exclusive, a mere negligent or inadvertent failure to make the prescribed returns would not afford ground of forfeiture.[38] to oust certain officers of a corporation, who had undertaken to accept certain fundamental charter amendments.

32. Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26.

33. State v. Crawfordsville, etc., Turnpike Co., 102 Ind. 283, 1 N. E. 395.

34. O'Donnell v. Johns, 76 Tex. 362, 13 S. W. 376.

35. People v. Bogart, 45 Cal. 73. Compare People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 511. And see as to names of corporations supra, I, C, 1 et seq.

36. Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26, 45. Upon the same line of thought, it has been held that the "reasonable cause" to decree a dissolution of a corporation, under a statute of Massachusetts (Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 68, § 35) providing for a dissolution upon a petition by a majority in number or interest of the members, is something more than a vague apprehension of some future mischief. It was accordingly held no ground for the dissolution of a telegraph company, upon such a petition, that it had leased its line to another company at a less rent than it might have obtained, fraudulently intending to give the benefit of the lease to the second company, in which the majority in interest of the shareholders of the first company were also interested, it appearing that after the filing of the petition for dissolution the lease had been canceled by a vote of the directors of both companies. Re Franklin Tel. Co., 119 Mass. 447.

37. State v. Brownstown R., etc., Gravel Road Co., 120 Ind. 337, 22 N. E. 316. See also Baker v. Backus, 32 Ill. 79. It may be collected from two cases in New Hampshire that the failure of a bridge company to make returns to the state of its tolls for the period of thirty years is not a ground upon which "in equity and good conscience a decree of forfeiture should be made," under the provisions of a statute, where the defendants pray to be permitted to make the returns. State v. Barron, 57 N. H. 498, 58 N. H. 370.

38. State v. Seneca County Bank, 5 Ohio St. 171. For a failure to make an annual report required by the New York Manufactur-

(VI) Committing Frauds Upon Creditors and Shareholders. The commission of frauds upon creditors or upon shareholders is not a general ground of dissolving a corporation, since such wrongs are remediable in equity. The dismemberment of a trading corporation and the appointment of a receiver is not in the opinion of one court justified upon the mere apprehension that certain frauds which have been committed by a majority of the directors may be repeated.[39] But it seems that an injunction is authorized on behalf of a particular creditor to prevent a failing corporation from preferring other creditors, by confessing judgments in their favor or otherwise;[40] and it seems that where the state is a creditor it may have an injunction and a receiver if the circumstances warrant it.[41]

(VII) Acts for Which Legislature Has Provided Specific Penalty. If the legislature has forbidden the doing of an act by a corporation and provided a specific penalty for doing it, the penalty is generally deemed to be exclusive, so as to prevent a forfeiture of the charter of the corporation after violating the legislative command;[42] although it is believed that this principle cannot be stated with confidence as applicable to all cases, but that it must depend upon the nature of the act and the true construction of the statute in each case.

(VIII) Mere Insolvency. Mere insolvency does not, as elsewhere stated,[43] work an ipso facto dissolution of a corporation; nor is it ordinarily a ground on which the state may demand a judgment of ouster.[44] But it may be and often is regarded as a de facto dissolution, for the purpose of letting in the remedies of its creditors against its shareholders.[45] Under statutes of New York authorizing proceedings in equity to wind up insolvent moneyed corporations the mere failure of a bank to pay a debt on demand would not support such a proceeding.[46]

(IX) Officers and Directors Residing Out of State. It is no ground for declaring a forfeiture of the franchises of a corporation organized under the general law of Illinois for the purpose of buying, leasing, selling, and operating railroad rolling-stock, that the officers and directors reside outside of the state; since the officers and directors of such corporations are not, like the officers and directors of railroad corporations, required to reside within the state.[47]

ing Law of 1848, § 12, a corporation incurs the liability of a forfeiture of its charter. People v. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co., 131 N. Y. 140, 29 N. E. 947, 42 N. Y. St. 753, 15 L. R. A. 240.

39. Laurel Springs Land Co. v. Fougeray, 50 N. J. Eq. 756, 26 Atl. 886.

40. Galwey v. U. S. Steam Sugar Refining Co., 36 Barb. (N. Y.) 256 [affirming 13 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 211, 21 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 313].

41. State v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 18 Md. 194.

42. Com. v. Breed, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 460; State v. Commercial Bank, 10 Ohio 535.

43. See infra, XXI, D, 2, h, (I) et seq.

44. State v. Bailey, 16 Ind. 46, 79 Am. Dec. 405.

45. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (III), (A) et seq.

46. Livingston v. State Bank, 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 304, 5 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 338; In re Mechanics' Bank Case, 5 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 374. That the mere refusal to pay a note or other evidence of debt issued by a banking corporation, when the officers of the corporation had reasonable cause for believing that the debt was not due, would not work a forfeiture of its charter see Bank Com'rs v. Buffalo Bank, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 497. Again that neither discontinuance of business, reputed insolvency and inability to pay their debts, having large amounts of notes outstanding and unpaid, suffering their circulation notes to be returned to the comptroller for redemption, non-payment of rent for the premises occupied by the association, nor having on hand less than twelve and a half per cent of specie, nor the issue of post-notes, were grounds warranting a dissolution of a New York banking association to be ordered see Parmly v. Tenth Ward Bank, 3 Edw. (N. Y.) 395. That a creditor at large cannot maintain an action to have a corporation dissolved on the ground of its insolvency and to compel the officers to make good the losses from their mismanagement see Cole v. Knickerbocker L. Ins. Co., 23 Hun (N. Y.) 255. A mutual insurance corporation will not be dissolved for insolvency under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1785, where there are capital-stock notes available to meet any losses, and therefore the public interests are not in imminent danger, and the corporation has expressed its desire to make good any deficiency in the cash; but the dissolution will be denied upon the condition that the corporation shall make good such deficiency within a time to be specified. People v. Equitable Mut. F. Ins. Co., 12 Misc. (N. Y.) 556, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 708, 67 N. Y. St. 577.

47. North, etc., Rolling Stock Co. v. People, 147 Ill. 234, 35 N. E. 608, 24 L. R. A. 462.

e. What Acts of Misuser Will Warrant Forfeiture — (I) Making Excessive Loans to Directors. It has been held that for a banking corporation to make loans to its own directors in excess of the limit prescribed by statute is a ground for forfeiting its franchises.[48]

(II) Joining "Trust" to Stifle Competition. For a corporation to combine with other corporations and form a "trust," the object of which is to limit production, maintain prices, and to stifle competition, is such a misuser of its franchises as will entitle the state to demand a judgment ousting it of them, where there is a statute prohibiting corporations from entering into such combinations.[49]

(III) Making Usurious Loans, Shaving Notes, Etc. The deliberate violation by a banking corporation of restrictive provisions in its charter relating to the rate of interest or of discounts upon loans is a ground upon which the state may demand a forfeiture of its franchises.[50] Thus where a banking corporation is prohibited by its charter from making loans at a greater rate of discount than one half of one per centum for thirty days, and from dealing in promissory notes, if it wilfully violates these restrictions by discounting at a higher rate or by dealing in promissory notes otherwise than by discounting them at a rate not greater than that prescribed, such acts constitute good ground of forfeiture.[51]

(IV) For Public-Service Corporations to Serve Public Unequally. It seems clear that corporations chartered for the performance of public duties, such as railway companies, turnpike companies, gaslight companies, water-supply companies, and the like, stand under the duty of serving all members of the public equally under equal conditions, and that a wilful violation of this duty is such an offense against the implied conditions under which they have received their charters as entitles the state to demand a forfeiture of them.[52]

(V) Contracting Debts Beyond Prescribed Limit. Where the charter of a banking corporation provided that the total amount of debts which the corporation should at any time owe should not exceed double the amount of moneys actually deposited in the bank for safe-keeping, a violation of this provision was held to be a ground on which the state might demand a judgment of ouster, although the statute provided for making the directors individually liable for the offense.[53]

(VI) For Banking Corporation to Issue Paper With Intent to Defraud. In a proceeding by quo warranto against a banking corporation, it was found by the jury that they, with intent to defraud, etc., had issued paper to a vast amount, which at the time of issuing they knew that they had not the means of redeeming, and which they did not intend to redeem. It was held that this finding, although it did not disclose a violation of any express provisions of the charter, disclosed what was evidently contrary to the intent and spirit of the grant; and that upon it the state was entitled to a judgment of ouster, upon the well-known principle of common law, that whenever the managers of a corporation pursue such a course as wholly to frustrate the design of the state in grant-

48. State v. Seneca County Bank, 5 Ohio St. 171.

49. People v. American Sugar Refining Co., 7 R. & Corp. L. J. 83; Distilling, etc., Co. v. People, 156 Ill. 448, 41 N. E. 188, 47 Am. St. Rep. 200; People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 3 N. Y. Suppl. 401, 19 N. Y. St. 853, 16 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 1, 22 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 164 [affirmed in 54 Hun (N. Y.) 354, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 406, 27 N. Y. St. 282, 5 L. R. A. 386 (affirmed but on another ground in 121 N. Y. 582, 24 N. E. 834, 31 N. Y. St. 781, 18 Am. St. Rep. 843, 9 L. R. A. 33)].

For constitutional provisions affirming this principle see Ida. Const. 11, § 18; Mont. Const. 1889, art. 15, § 20.

A forfeiture may be predicated on the violation of an anti-trust statute which is unconstitutional in some respects. State v. Shippers' Compress, etc., Co., 95 Tex. 603, 69 S. W. 58 [affirming (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 67 S. W. 1049].

50. State v. Commercial Bank, 33 Miss. 474.

51. Com. v. Commercial Bank, 28 Pa. St. 383. See also Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234.

52. See the reasoning of Shaw, C. J., in Lumbard v. Stearns, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 60.

53. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234.

ing its franchise, the reason of its existence ceases, and the state has a right to resume the franchise granted.[54]

(VII) For Banking Corporation to Make Dividends While Refusing Specie Payments. It has been held that the verdict of a jury, finding that a banking corporation had made large dividends of profits, while they had refused to redeem their notes in specie or anything else, entitled the state to a judgment of ouster of its franchises. "If," said Holman, J., "they were, at the time of those dividends, able to redeem their notes and refused to do so, it manifests a fraudulent intention; if they were then unable to redeem them, their conduct shows a predetermination to continue so."[55]

(VIII) For Banking Corporation to Embezzle Deposits of United States. Where a jury in a quo warranto proceeding found that a banking corporation, created by a charter granted by the legislature of Indiana, had embezzled large sums of money deposited for safe-keeping by the United States, this was held "a violation of the first principles of their charter," such as showed that they could not be safely trusted with their franchises, and such as consequently entitled the state to a judgment of ouster.[56]

(IX) For Banking Corporation to Suspend Specie Payments. The general refusal of a bank to redeem, in gold and silver coin of the United States, its circulating notes, was frequently held, during the period of the existence of state banks of issue, to be such a failure to discharge the obligations imposed upon such a bank by its charter, defeating the essential ends for which it was instituted, as entitled the state to a judgment ousting it of its franchises.[57]

54. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234. The charter of a debenture company which had set forth a scheme for the sale of certificates redeemable at the expiration of six years, with fifty per cent in addition to the cash paid in, to come exclusively from the interest on twenty-five per cent of the payment, sixty-five per cent of the payment being used to liquidate other debentures maturing earlier, was annulled at the suit of the state because of the impossibility of the accomplishment of the scheme and the certainty of disastrous results to investors, in other words, because the scheme was fraudulent on its face. State v. New Orleans Debenture Redemption Co., 51 La. Ann. 1827, 26 So. 586; State v. Louisiana Debenture Co., 51 La. Ann. 1795, 26 So. 592.

55. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 276, 12 Am. Dec. 234.

56. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234.

57. Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234; Planters' Bank v. State, 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 163; Commercial Bank v. State, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 599; State v. State Bank, 1 Speers (S. C.) 433; State v. Charleston Bank, 2 McMull. (S. C.) 439, 39 Am. Dec. 135; Townsends v. Racine Bank, 7 Wis. 185. See also Bank Com'rs v. James Bank, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 457 (construing a statute subjecting banking corporations to a forfeiture of their charters for allowing their circulating notes to remain unpaid for the period of twenty days, with the conclusion that they must be left with the agent of the bank until after the expiration of the twenty days, or presented for payment a second time after the expiration of that time); State v. Commercial Bank, 10 Ohio 535 (where it was held that the fact that the legislature had provided a separate penalty for this offense indicated a purpose that it should not be ground of a total forfeiture). For a case where two five-dollar bills of a bank were presented and redemption demanded in gold coin and the cashier refused to redeem in other coin than in quarter dollars of United States coinage see People v. Dubois, 18 Ill. 333.

Other violations of duty by banking corporations.— For an early and profligate decision to the effect that not the suspension of specie payments, nor the taking of usurious interest, nor expansions and contractions of circulation, nor disproportionate loans to its own officers, will entitle the state to a judgment of ouster against one of its incorporated banks, see State v. Commercial Bank, 10 Ohio 535. Contrast Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234. For a decision to the effect that for a banking corporation to receive from another such corporation the bills of the latter in exchange for its own bills, with the purpose of paying them out instead of specie, entitles the state to a perpetual injunction at the suit of the bank commissioners see Bank Com'rs v. Buffalo Bank, 6 Paige (N. Y.) 497. For a decision to the effect that the bank commissioners of a state were not entitled to an injunction restraining a bank from exercising its franchises on the ground that it was so managing its concerns as to defraud and endanger the public, on the evidence of past mismanagement, where there had been a readjustment of its affairs with the approbation of such commissioners, see Bank Com'rs v. Rhode Island Cent. Bank, 5 R. I. 12.

(x) For Water-Supply Company to Fail to Supply Wholesome, Pure, Deep-Well Water in Accordance With Charter and Contract. The state may demand a judicial forfeiture of the charter of a water-supply company which supplies river water instead of pure, wholesome, deep-well water as required by its charter and its contract with the city, where such misconduct has continued during four dry spells in the space of two years, notwithstanding its promise after suit is begun that it will sink the additional wells necessary to afford an adequate water-supply.[58]

(xi) Migrating From State of Its Creation. It is sufficient ground for the dissolution of a corporation that it has removed its principal place of business and all of its agencies from the state of its creation, in contravention of the policy of the state as evinced by its general system of legislation.[59]

(xii) Failing to Keep Its Place of Business, Books, Etc., Within State as Required by Statute. Statutes exist in some of the states requiring corporations to keep their offices for the transaction of business and the office of their treasurer and their moneys within the state. A deliberate violation or evasion of such a statute by a corporation will afford ground on which the state may demand a forfeiture of its franchises.[60] For a failure for more than six months to comply with such a statute the charter of a corporation was annulled.[61] But where a corporation failed to comply with the provisions of a general statute requiring corporations to keep their books continually at their offices within the state, but kept them a portion of the time at another office across the state line, and produced them for inspection whenever required at its principal office within the state, it was held that its conduct exhibited no ground for a forfeiture of its charter.[62]

(xiii) Unlawful Granting of College Degrees. For an incorporated medical college to confer degrees for a price, without regard to the qualification of the applicant to practise medicine, is such an abuse and misuse of its franchises as entitles the state to demand a revocation of them.[63]

5. Failure to Organize in Mode Prescribed by Charter or Statute — a. Distinction Between Substantial and Directory Provisions of Statutes. It may be concluded, by analogy to what has preceded, that where the coadventurers enter upon the business of the corporation, and hold themselves out as possessing the faculties of a corporation, before they have complied, in the manner of effecting their organization, with the substantial requirements of the governing statute, this will be a just ground on which the state may demand a judgment of ouster against them; and on the other hand that the failure to comply with an unimportant, subsidiary, or directory provision, will not afford such a ground.[64]

58. Capital City Water Co. v. State, 105 Ala. 406, 18 So. 62, 29 L. R. A. 743, holding that the right of the state to declare the forfeiture of the charter of a waterworks company for infractions of duty imposed by its charter and contract is not taken away by a provision in the contract that the city may rescind it if the company's works fail to meet its requirements. That the failure to act as a corporation for eight years, and the attempted sale by a water-supply company of all its properties, the purchaser undertaking to fulfil its public duties, are wilful violations of corporate duties and afford ground of forfeiture of the vendor corporation see City Water Co. v. State, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 33 S. W. 259.

59. Simmons v. Norfolk, etc., Steamboat Co., 113 N. C. 147, 18 S. E. 117, 22 L. R. A. 677, 37 Am. St. Rep. 614. Compare North, etc., Rolling Stock Co. v. People, 147 Ill. 234, 35 N. E. 608, 24 L. R. A. 462.

60. State v. Park, etc., Lumber Co., 58 Minn. 330, 59 N. W. 1048, 49 Am. St. Rep. 516.

61. State v. Topeka Water Co., 59 Kan. 151, 52 Pac. 422.

62. North, etc., Rolling-Stock Co. v. People, 147 Ill. 234, 35 N. E. 608, 24 L. R. A. 462.

63. Independent Medical College v. People, 182 Ill. 274, 55 N. E. 345; Illinois Health University v. People, 166 Ill. 171, 46 N. E. 737. But it has been held that the unlawful granting of a diploma by a school of osteopathy is not cause for forfeiting its charter, where the act was done in good faith, under legal advice, and in the belief that it had the right so to grant the diploma. State v. National Osteopathy School, 76 Mo. App. 439.

64. Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506, irregularities in reorganization where the franchises had passed under a judicial

b. Commencing Business Before Prescribed Amount of Capital Has Been Raised. For a corporation to commence business before the amount of capital has been raised which its charter or governing statute prescribes as a prerequisite to its commencing business is a ground on which the state may demand a forfeiture of its franchises.[65]

c. Failing to Fill Up Capital Before Expiration of Statutory Period. The statutory provision that a "corporation shall be dissolved" on failure to pay the capital stock within two years after incorporation makes it the imperative duty of the court to declare the forfeiture in case the attorney-general exercises his discretion to bring an action therefor, and leave to do so is given by the court.[66]

d. Failing to File Amended Articles of Incorporation With Secretary of State. Construing statutes, it has been concluded that a failure to file an amendment to articles of incorporation with the secretary of state is not vital, and will not be ground of forfeiting its franchises, if the amendment is not fundamental, such as an amendment increasing the number of directors.[67]

e. Failure to Compel Payment of Statutory Deposit. Again the failure to comply with such a provision as that at the time of the subscription to the capital stock each subscriber shall pay in cash five dollars on each share subscribed[68] is not sufficient ground for the state to demand a judgment of ouster.[69]

f. Neglect to Sell Shares of Delinquent Subscribers. Nor is a departure from the directions given in the statute to the agents of the state, in the proceeding to organize the corporation, or the neglect of the directors to sell the stock of a subscriber who has not paid the calls made against it, as they are directed to do by the charter, in itself, a ground of forfeiture.[70]

g. Corporators Failing to Perfect Legal Organization Proceeded Against Individually as Usurpers. The true doctrine, indicated by many decisions, is that the court does not in such a case bring its information against the corporation, for that would recognize that it had acquired a legal existence as such; but it brings it against the individuals who are usurping the franchises; and the judgment of the court ousts them of the franchises which they pretend to exercise.[71] In such sale. When therefore a company incorporated to supply the city of San Francisco with water instituted a statutory proceeding to condemn land required for its purposes, and the owner of the land contested the application, on the ground that it was not a legal corporation because its articles of association did not show "where the principal place of business of the company is to be located," as required by the governing statute, it was held that this was not a proper ground for the dismissal of the petition, since it was a mere technical error and did not avoid the act of incorporation. Re Spring Valley Waterworks, 17 Cal. 132. Compare State v. Bradford, 32 Vt. 50, judgment of ouster against village corporation granted on proof that a majority of the electors voted against accepting the charter. There is a weak and untenable decision to the effect that the failure of the corporators named in the charter of a banking corporation to organize in compliance with the charter, and their act of holding themselves out as a corporation without so organizing, makes them a corporation, even as against the state; and that a judgment cannot be rendered in a proceeding by the state against such coadventurers to the effect that they never were a corporation, the court proceeding partly on the ground that a judgment of nullity would in some way work injury to innocent third persons. State v. Simonton, 78 N. C. 57. Under this doctrine a number of adventurers can meet together and call themselves a corporation and the state is powerless to interfere.

65. State v. Debenture Guarantee, etc., Co., 51 La. Ann. 1874, 26 So. 600; Reg. v. Eastern Archipelago Co., 1 E. & B. 310, 17 Jur. 491, 22 L. J. Q. B. 196, 18 Eng. L. & Eq. 167, 72 E. C. L. 310 [affirmed in 23 L. J. Q. B. 82, 22 Eng. L. & Eq. 328]. So where the governing statute prescribed that no corporation should continue to transact business beyond the period of one year from the date of its organization unless its entire capital should be fully paid up in cash. People v. Leadville City Bank, 7 Colo. 226, 3 Pac. 214, opinion by Stone, J.

66. People v. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co., 131 N. Y. 140, 29 N. E. 947, 42 N. Y. St. 753, 15 L. R. A. 240.

67. Jackson v. Crown Point Min. Co., 21 Utah 1, 59 Pac. 238, 81 Am. St. Rep. 651.

68. As to which see supra, VI, H, 13, a et seq.

69. Com. v. West Chester R. Co., 3 Grant (Pa.) 200.

70. State v. Commercial Bank, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 218, 45 Am. Dec. 280.

71. See for an illustration State v. Brown, 33 Miss. 500. See also State v. Barron, 57

a proceeding against individuals it is not sufficient for them to show an act establishing a corporation, and that they are members of it, in virtue of which they use the franchises mentioned in the information; but they must also show that the corporation is in such a state of organization as to authorize the use of the franchises and privileges which they are charged to have usurped, and that they are empowered by the corporation to do the acts complained of.[72]

h. Constitutional and Statutory Provisions Annulling Charters Where Organization Has Not Taken Place. Constitutional and statutory provisions have been enacted in some of the states declaring all existing charters ipso facto forfeited where a bona fide organization has not taken place thereunder,[73] and prohibiting the legislature from remitting the forfeiture of any corporate charter.[74]

i. Frauds Committed in Organizing. The fact that in the organization of a corporation a single subscriber and the appraisers committed a fraud upon the corporation, by allowing such subscriber stock on insufficient security, affords no ground for dissolving the company, unless the directors who accepted the security were privy to the fraud.[75]

6. Other Misprisions Not Sufficiently Serious to Demand Forfeiture of Corporate Franchises. It has been held that the franchises of a corporation will not be forfeited by reason of its failure to list its property within the state for taxation;[76] by reason of its failure to comply with a statute requiring a corporation to display a sign at its principal office advising the public of the location of such office, where the business of the corporation involves no dealing with the general public, but only with the railroad company to which the cars which it supplies are leased;[77] or by reason of its having loaned money upon the debentures of another corporation whose charter the state has set aside, or guaranteed such debentures, where the lending corporation had no legal connection with the debenture company.[78]

D. Ipso Facto Forfeitures of Charters and De Facto Dissolutions — 1. Acts and Neglects Which Operate Ipso Facto to Dissolve Corporations — a. Acts or Neglects Which Create Incapacity to Revive or Resuscitate Corporation. Generally stated any circumstance or collection of circumstances which creates an incapacity to revive or resuscitate the powers of a corporation operates in law ipso facto as a dissolution of it. In a learned opinion Chancellor Walworth classified the circumstances as follows: "1st. The absence of the necessary officers who are required to be present, when the deficiency is supplied, or their incapacity or neglect to do some act which is requisite to the validity of the appointment; 2d. The want of the necessary corporators who are required to unite in the appointment; 3d. The want of the proper persons from whom the appointment is to be made."[79]

N. H. 498; People v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 113, 30 Am. Dec. 33.

72. State v. Brown, 33 Miss. 500.

73. See for example Mo. Const. (1875), art. 12, § 1.

74. Mo. Const. (1875), art. 12, § 3. Evidence to support a finding that a corporation had organized and commenced business within one year after the date of its incorporation see People v. Rosenstein-Cohn Cigar Co., 131 Cal. 153, 63 Pac. 163.

75. King v. Sea Ins. Co., 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 62. A corporation formed for the general purpose of manufacturing lumber and operating a sawmill will not be ousted of its franchise because the corporation was not constituted as railroad corporations are required to be, although one purpose named in the articles is to buy, lease, sell, mortgage, and otherwise deal in railroads, tramways, and rights of way. People v. Mt. Shasta Mfg. Co., 107 Cal. 256, 40 Pac. 391.

76. North, etc., Rolling Stock Co. v. People, 147 Ill. 234, 35 N. E. 608, 24 L. R. A. 462.

77. North, etc., Rolling Stock Co. v. People, 147 Ill. 234, 35 N. E. 608, 24 L. R. A. 462.

78. State v. Debenture Guarantee, etc., Co., 51 La. Ann. 1874, 26 So. 600. That a clause in a charter prohibiting a dissolution of the corporation until its debts are paid does not prevent the state from proceeding to demand its dissolution for violations of its charter, but merely prevents the corporation from dissolving itself before the expiration of its charter without paying its debts, see Vincennes Bank v. State, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 12 Am. Dec. 234.

79. Philips v. Wickham, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 590, 597. In support of this text he added

b. Dissolution by Injunction Against Corporation Made Perpetual — (I) In General. Under statutory systems a corporation is deemed dissolved for all purposes when an injunction against the exercise of its franchises is made perpetual, in statutory proceedings to dissolve it and wind it up by means of a receiver,[80] and not until then.[81]

(II) Judgments Valid in Suits Instituted Before Proceedings For Injunction. On the other hand judgments and executions obtained against a corporation, and sales of corporate property thereunder, before any proceedings have been instituted to obtain a judgment or decree declaring a surrender of the corporate franchises and a dissolution of the corporation, are valid, and the purchasers at such sales acquire good titles.[82]

2. Acts and Neglects Which Do Not Ipso Facto Operate to Dissolve Corporations — a. Mere Non-User of Corporate Powers. A corporation is not ipso facto dissolved for all purposes by merely neglecting to exercise its corporate powers, so long as the possibility remains of resuming them.[83]

b. Omission to Elect Directors. The mere omission to elect directors, trustees, or other corporate officers does not of itself work a dissolution of the corporation, so long as the possibility of restoring the governing body by an election or otherwise remains in the members; and especially in view of the general rule of law that existing directors, trustees, and officers hold over until their successors the following: "The case of The Corporation of Banbury, before referred to [10 Mod. 346], appears to be one of the first description. And the case cited from Rolle, and that put by Chief Baron Comyn, as well as Rex v. Pasmore, 3 T. R. 199, 1 Rev. Rep. 688, and The Corporation of Maidstone, and The Borough of Teverton, referred to in that case, all appear to belong to the two last classes of cases. The statute 11 Geo. I, c. 4 (15 Stat. at L. 178) has provided for the first class of cases; but the sixth section of the act expressly excludes the second class, and no provision is made for cases of the third class. The result of an examination of all the cases on this subject is the principle so ably and successfully contended for by Serjeant East, in The King v. Pasmore, that if the corporators have the power in themselves to supply the deficiency in their body, their rights are not extinguished, but only dormant. If however that power is gone, and they cannot act until the deficiency is supplied, the corporation is dissolved. In the language of Lord Mansfield, this is not a forfeiture for non-user, but is a consequence of law. 'The corporation is dead, and not barely asleep.'"

Illustration.— A savings-bank corporation which had paid its depositors, sold out its assets and good-will, and had done no business for sixteen years, but which subsequently changed its name and place of business, and exercised its corporate powers without objection on the part of the state, was not incapacitated from so doing by reason of the non-user of its franchises, but was at least a de facto corporation. Richards v. Minnesota Sav. Bank, 75 Minn. 196, 77 N. W. 822.

80. Dane v. Young, 61 Me. 160; Wiswell v. Starr, 48 Me. 401.

81. Mickles v. Rochester City Bank, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 118, 42 Am. Dec. 103, per Walworth, Ch.

82. Mickles v. Rochester City Bank, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 118, 42 Am. Dec. 103.

83. District of Columbia.— Brown v. Delafield Cement Co., 1 App. Cas. 232, 21 Wash. L. Rep. 653, but may constitute a ground for forfeiting its charter in a proceeding brought by the state.

Maine.— St. Albans Baptist Meeting-House v. Webb, 66 Me. 398; Rollins v. Clay, 33 Me. 132.

Maryland.— State University v. Williams, 9 Gill & J. 365, 31 Am. Dec. 72.

Massachusetts.— Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. 63.

Montana.— Morrison v. Clark, 24 Mont. 515, 63 Pac. 98, failure of a mining company which has filed a certificate of incorporation, to hold meetings of shareholders and commence business does not invalidate a conveyance of mining claims to the corporation.

New Jersey.— A non-user even for twenty years has been held not per se evidence of an abandonment by a corporation of its franchises, although it is a relevant fact to be considered in determining the question. Raritan Water-Power Co. v. Veghte, 21 N. J. Eq. 463.

New York.— Atty.-Gen. v. Niagara Bank, Hopk. 354.

Texas.— Moseby v. Burrow, 52 Tex. 396.

Vermont.— Brandon Iron Co. v. Gleason, 24 Vt. 228.

Wisconsin.—Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138, but a non-user merely furnishes a basis for judicial action in declaring its franchises forfeited.

On the other hand where a chapter of Free Masons disposed of all their property and held no meetings and elected no officers for twenty-three years this was held to dissolve it in such a sense as placed it beyond the power of the state chapter to restore it to life. Strickland v. Prichard, 37 Vt. 324.

are lawfully chosen.[84] The highest American court has declared this principle with regard to an eleemosynary corporation;[85] and the reasons are stronger for so holding in the case of a joint-stock corporation. In the latter case the board of directors or other managers or officers do not form an integral part of the corporation; and therefore the omission to elect them will operate merely to suspend the powers of the corporation for the time being, since it cannot act without them, but a subsequent election will restore its functions.[86] The conclusion is unavoidable, where the charter expressly provides that in case of the failure to elect directors at the prescribed time the old directors shall continue in the offices until their successors are elected;[87] but it is not at all necessary to the conclusion that there should be such a charter provision.[88]

c. Failure to Reëlect Ministerial Officers. It is scarcely necessary to add that a dissolution of a corporation does not arise from a failure to reëlect officers at the proper periods, when the corporate offices are in fact filled and their functions exercised by officers de facto; for in such a case it is clear that a new election may be had.[89] Where there is a statute providing that in case of a suit against a corporation which has failed to elect directors service may be had on the late proper officers, such a failure will not of course prevent the recovery of a judgment against the corporation.[90]

d. Resignation of Corporate Officers. For stronger reasons it must be apparent that the mere resignation of all the officers of a corporation does not work a dissolution of the corporation, so long as the possibility remains of again filling the offices by an election or otherwise.[91]

e. Cessation of Business and Assignment For Creditors. The mere fact that a corporation ceases its business and makes an assignment of all its property to a trustee for the payment of its debts,[92] and thereafter discontinues for several years to hold annual meetings and to choose directors,[93] does not work a dissolution so as to disable it from maintaining an action on an evidence of indebtedness due to 84. Arkansas.— Searcy v. Yarnell, 47 Ark. 269, 1 S. W. 319, where there is a by-law providing that those elected shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified according to law.

Connecticut.— Evarts v. Killingworth Mfg. Co., 20 Conn. 447.

Illinois.— Baker v. Backus, 32 Ill. 79.

Massachusetts.— Knowlton v. Ackley, 8 Cush. 93; Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

Michigan.— Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457.

Mississippi.— Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602; Smith v. Natchez Steamboat Co., 1 How. 479.

Missouri.— St. Louis Domicile, etc., Assoc. v. Augustin, 2 Mo. App. 123.

New Jersey.—Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427.

New York.—All Saints Church v. Lovett, 1 Hall 191; Allen v. New Jersey Southern R. Co., 49 How. Pr. 14; People v. Runkle, 9 Johns. 147.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Cullen, 13 Pa. St. 133, 53 Am. Dec. 450; Rose v. Roseburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 3 Watts 46; Lehigh River Bridge v. Lehigh Coal, etc., Co., 4 Rawle 9, 26 Am. Dec. 111.

Tennessee.— Blake v. Hinkle, 10 Yerg. 218.

United States.— Vincennes University v. Indiana, 14 How. 268, 14 L. ed. 416.

Compare Ward v. Sea Ins. Co., 7 Paige (N. Y.) 294.

85. Vincennes University v. Indiana, 14 How. (U. S.) 268, 14 L. ed. 416.

86. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Rose v. Roseburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 3 Watts (Pa.) 46. See Colchester v. Seaber, 3 Burr. 1866, 1 W. Bl. 591.

87. Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457; Slee v. Bloom, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 366.

88. Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457; People v. Runkle, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 147.

89. Vernon Soc. v. Hills, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 23, 16 Am. Dec. 429; Philips v. Wickham, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 590; Slee v. Bloom, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 366; Lehigh River Bridge v. Lehigh Coal, etc., Co., 4 Rawle (Pa.) 9, 26 Am. Dec. 111.

90. Blake v. Hinkle, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 218. That the omission of a corporation to elect a clerk during the year previous to incurring the debt sued on will not be a good defense by a shareholder in a proceeding to make him personally liable for a debt of the corporation see Knowlton v. Ackley, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 93.

91. Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funck, 18 Iowa 469.

92. De Camp v. Alward, 52 Ind. 468; Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

93. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Brandon Iron Co. v. Gleason, 24 Vt. 228.

it. This position is of course more clear where the deed of assignment contains clauses which contemplate the future existence of the corporation, as where it covenants that the corporation will make any further conveyance and assurance which may become necessary, and will do and perform any other and further act which may be required to enable the assignees fully to execute their trust.[94]

f. Sale or Disposal of All Its Property — (I) In General. The sale or disposal by a corporation of all its property does not of itself work such a dissolution of the corporation as disables it from thereafter exercising its corporate powers, although it may have the effect of substantially destroying the object for which the corporation was created;[95] but it may be regarded as a de facto dissolution for the purpose of letting in the rights of creditors against shareholders.[96] As the property of a corporation does not belong to the shareholders, but to the ideal body, a corporation does not lose its existence, so as to authorize forfeiture of its charter, merely because individual shareholders sell a majority of its stock to another corporation, even though the latter undertakes to exercise control over its property by mortgaging it.[97]

(II) Judicial Sale of All Corporate Property. For the same reason a judicial sale of all the property of a corporation does not ipso facto work a dissolution of the corporation,[98] since it does not pass its primary franchise, that of being a corporation; but merely passes its secondary franchise, that is to say, its right to carry on the business for which it was created;[99] although in case of the judicial sale of all the corporate property and franchises of a railroad company, the court may be justified in administering the assets of the corporation as if a legal dissolution had occurred.[1]

g. Mere Cessation of Active Business — (I) In General. The dissolution of a corporation is not necessarily implied from its mere cessation of active business.[2]

(II) Suspending Business For One Year Under Statutes. Statutes exist declaring in substance that a corporation which suspends its business for one whole year shall be deemed dissolved for the purpose of letting in the rights of its creditors. Such a suspension has been held not to create a dissolution of the corporation ipso facto and for all purposes, but merely to furnish a ground for a

94. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

95. Illinois.— Reichwald v. Commercial Hotel Co., 106 Ill. 439.

Kansas.— Attica State Bank v. Benson, 8 Kan. App. 566, 54 Pac. 1037 (bank transferring all its assets to another corporation); Eureka Light, etc., Co. v. Eureka, 5 Kan. App. 669, 48 Pac. 935 (sale by a street railway company of all its property, and the failure to elect new directors for about two years or to hold any meeting of the directors or officers within the same period of time, and the non-residence of all officers and directors but one).

Kentucky.— Smith v. Gower, 2 Duv. 17.

Maryland.—State v. State Bank, 6 Gill & J. 205, 26 Am. Dec. 561.

Massachusetts.— Russell v. McLellan, 14 Pick. 63.

Missouri.— Kansas City Hotel Co. v. Sauer, 65 Mo. 279; Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63; Hill v. Fogg, 41 Mo. 563.

New Jersey.— New Jersey Zinc Co. v. New Jersey Franklinite Co., 13 N. J. Eq. 322.

New York.— Bradt v. Benedict, 17 N. Y. 93; Brinckerhoff v. Brown, 7 Johns. Ch. 217; Barclay v. Talman, 4 Edw. 123.

96. McDonnell v. Alabama Gold L. Ins. Co., 85 Ala. 401, 5 So. 120; Kehlor v. Lademann, 11 Mo. App. 550; Slee v. Bloom, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 456, 10 Am. Dec. 273. See also supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.; infra, XXI, D, 3, b, (I) et seq.

97. Com. v. Punxsutawney Water Co., 197 Pa. St. 569, 47 Atl. 843.

98. Smith v. Gower, 2 Duv. (Ky.) 17.

99. See supra, XVI, C, 1. It has, however, been held that the sale of a railroad in a proceeding to enforce a lien reserved to the state operates a dissolution of the corporation because it totally destroys the end and object for which it was created. Moore v. Whitcomb, 48 Mo. 543; Opinion of Judges, 37 Mo. 129. See also Reynolds v. Cridge, 11 Pa. Co. Ct. 306, holding that a sale upon execution of all the property and franchises of a corporation extinguishes the corporation and prevents the obtaining of a valid judgment against it.

1. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497, 36 C. C. A. 155 [rehearing denied in 96 Fed. 784, 37 C. C. A. 587, modifying 82 Fed. 642, and 86 Fed. 929].

2. Kansas City Hotel Co. v. Sauer, 65 Mo. 279; State Nat. Bank v. Robidoux, 57 Mo. 446; Butchers', etc., Bank v. Pulitzer, 11 Mo. App. 594; Law v. Rich, 47 W. Va. 634, 35 S. E. 858 (unless by resolution of the shareholders to discontinue business).

judgment of dissolution in a proper proceeding prescribed for that purpose.[3] Such a suspension of business operates as a dissolution for the purpose of enabling creditors to proceed against shareholders, but for all other purposes the corporation continues in existence, and may be sued and may defend actions as before, and service of process may be had upon, or may be accepted by, the same officers as before.[4] The suspension of business contemplated by such a statute is a suspension of the ordinary business for which the corporation was organized. If this business has been suspended for the period of one year the corporation is dissolved for the purpose of letting in suits by creditors against its shareholders, although it may have during that time transacted such business as was necessary or incidental to the winding-up of its affairs.[5]

h. Insolvency and Its Incidents — (i) In General. Neither the insolvency of a corporation nor the circumstances which usually attend an insolvency, such as the appointment of a receiver, work a dissolution of the corporation, so as to disable it from exercising its corporate powers and using its corporate name for the purpose of protecting the rights of those beneficially interested in its assets and business,[6] since the possession of property is not essential to the existence of a corporation.[7]

(ii) Appointment of Receiver. A corporation is not therefore dissolved because a receiver of its assets has been appointed by reason of its insolvency, unless the court appointing the receiver has, under the authority of a statute, issued an injunction against the exercise of its franchises, which injunction is made tantamount to a dissolution.[8]

i. Consolidation With Another Corporation. The union or consolidation of two corporations does not work such a dissolution of either of them as abates a pending action,[9] although it may require an amendment of the pleadings for the purpose of keeping the records straight.[10]

j. Resolution of Directors to Wind Up as Trustees. It has been held that the fact that the directors of a corporation resolved to notify the shareholders that the affairs of the corporation should be at once wound up by the directors acting as trustees under the statute, and that a meeting should be called to ratify the action of the directors, is not evidence that the corporation was dissolved, nor did it show that a subsequent call upon stock by the directors was invalid.[11]

k. Breach of Conditions Subsequent Named in Charter. The breach of a condition subsequent named in a corporate charter will not operate as an ispo facto

3. Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138.

4. Whitman v. Citizens' Bank, 110 Fed. 503, 49 C. C. A. 122.

5. Brigham v. Nathan, 62 Kan. 243, 62 Pac. 319.

6. Pondville Co. v. Clark, 25 Conn. 97; Catlin v. Eagle Bank, 6 Conn. 233; Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292; Nimmons v. Tappan, 2 Sweeny (N. Y.) 652; Hoyt v. Shelden, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 267.

7. Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

8. Colorado.— Steinhauer v. Colmar, 11 Colo. App. 494, 55 Pac. 291.

Massachusetts.—Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

Montana.— State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct., 22 Mont. 220, 56 Pac. 219 [citing Decker v. Gardner, 124 N. Y. 334, 26 N. E. 814, 36 N. Y. St. 267, 11 L. R. A. 480], holding that the appointment of a receiver of a corporation pendente lite does not necessarily mean dissolution of the corporation or its destruction.

New Jersey.— Kirkpatrick v. State Bd. Assessors, 57 N. J. L. 53, 29 Atl. 442, does not work its dissolution so as to affect its liability to taxation.

New York.— Denike v. New York, etc., Lime, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599; Moran v. Lydecker, 27 Hun 582; Davenport v. Buffalo, etc., City Bank, 9 Paige 12.

Texas.— Moseby v. Burrow, 52 Tex. 396.

Vermont.— Dewey v. St. Albans Trust Co., 56 Vt. 476, 48 Am. Rep. 803.

Evidence that a corporation has become insolvent and has ceased to do business does not support an allegation that it has become dissolved. Butchers', etc., Bank v. Pulitzer, 11 Mo. App. 594.

9. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Musselman, 2 Grant (Pa.) 348. See also supra, III, D, 1, b et seq.

10. Kinion v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. App. 574.

11. Lucas Market Sav. Bank v. Goldsoll, 8 Mo. App. 596.

dissolution of the corporation, although it may afford ground on which the state may maintain a judicial proceeding for that purpose.[12]

l. Operation of Constitutional Provisions Affecting Charters Where Organization Has Not Taken Place. Provisions have been inserted in several modern state constitutions affecting all existing charters or grants of special or exclusive privileges where the grantees have not organized and commenced business in good faith at the time of the adoption of the constitution.[13] Such a provision has been held not to annul the existence of a corporation created under general laws, although it had omitted to commence business prior to the adoption of the constitution.[14] Such a provision did not extend to the case of a railway or turnpike corporation fully organized and doing business at the time of the adoption of the constitution, although it had subsequently an added privilege not theretofore exercised, so as to prevent it from exercising such a privilege.[15]

m. Failure to Keep Alphabetical List of Shareholders. A corporation is not ipso facto dissolved by any species of misprision, which consists in a violation of the statute governing its existence, until the state supervenes and demands and receives a judgment of dissolution. Therefore the mere failure of a corporation to keep in its office an alphabetical list of its shareholders, showing their residences, the number of their respective shares, and the amounts which each has paid in, does not of itself work a dissolution of the corporation.[16]

3. Dissolution For Certain Purposes but Not For Others — a. In General. It has not escaped the observation of capable judges that the dissolution of a corporation sometimes means an annulment of its franchises or a termination of its existence, and sometimes a mere judicial act which alienates its property and suspends its business without terminating its existence; so that the corporation may for certain purposes be considered as dissolved so far as to be incapable of doing injury to the public, while it yet retains vitality so far as essential for the protection of the rights of others.[17]

b. De Facto Dissolution For Purpose of Effectuating Rights of Creditors — (I) In General. For the purpose of effectuating the rights of creditors in administering statutes which provide that for all debts of corporations of certain descriptions, due and owing at the time of their dissolution, the persons then composing the corporation shall be liable to the extent of their respective shares of stock held therein to its creditors, it has often been held that a corporation may do or suffer acts to be done which amount in contemplation of law to a surrender of its franchises; and that if it suffers acts to be done which have the effect of destroying the end and object for which it was created this will be equivalent to a surrender of its rights and will work its dissolution.[18]

(II) Where Corporation Asserts Its Own Existence. This doctrine has no just application, in a litigation by or against a corporation, where the corporation itself asserts the fact of its own existence.[19]

12. See supra, XXI, A, 6, b, (I) et seq. Compare XXI, C, 4, c, (I) et seq.

Of this nature is a failure to comply with a provision in the charter of a bridge company that the company should give a bond for the completion of the bridge within a limited time, where this was not in terms prescribed as a condition precedent. Enfield Toll Bridge Co. v. Connecticut River Co., 7 Conn. 28.

13. See for example Mont. Const. (1889), art. 15, § 1; Pa. Const. (1874), art. 16, § 1.

14. Morrison v. Clark, 24 Mont. 515, 63 Pac. 98.

15. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 187 Pa. St. 123, 40 Atl. 967, 42 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 419.

16. Baker v. Backus, 32 Ill. 79.

17. In re Independent Ins. Co., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,017, 1 Holmes 103.

18. Perry v. Turner, 55 Mo. 418; State Sav. Assoc. v. Kellogg, 52 Mo. 583; Moore v. Whitcomb, 48 Mo. 543; Dryden v. Kellogg, 2 Mo. App. 87; Briggs v. Penniman, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 387, 18 Am. Dec. 454 [affirming 1 Hopk. (N. Y.) 300]; Slee v. Bloom, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 456, 10 Am. Dec. 273. Compare La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420.

19. La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420. Chancellor Kent, in his Commentaries, has carefully pointed out what he deems to be a just limitation of the doctrine of the celebrated case of Slee v. Bloom,

(III) When Corporate Election Will Not Prevent Dissolution. On the other hand where it is necessary in order to give effect to the rights of creditors against shareholders, to treat the corporation as dissolved, under a principle already stated,[20] it is held that the mere election of trustees for the purpose of keeping the corporation in existence will not be deemed to have prevented such a dissolution.[21]

c. Dissolution For Purpose of Taxation. A corporation may cease to exist de facto for the purpose of taxation, although it has not been dissolved in a judicial proceeding.[22]

4. Judicial Proceedings With Respect to De Facto Corporations. By analogy to the general rule of pleading in civil actions against corporations, it has been held that where an information in the nature of a writ of quo warranto proceeds against a corporation by its corporate name, this fact admits its existence as a corporation.[23] But where a corporation exists de facto, the state is at liberty to treat it as such and to bring it into court as a party defendant in its corporate character, without making its members parties, for the purpose of obtaining a decree against it annulling its charter on the ground that the corporation was illegal because made for an illegal purpose.[24]

E. Voluntary Surrender of Franchises and Voluntary Dissolutions — 1. Dissolution by Voluntary Surrender of Franchises — a. In General. As already seen[25] one of the recognized modes by which a corporation may be dissolved is a voluntary surrender of its franchises.[26]

b. Acceptance by State — (I) In General. The dissolution of a corporation may be effected by the concurrent act of the state and the corporation, the corporation surrendering and the state accepting the surrender of its franchises, without the intervention of any judicial proceedings for that purpose.[27] Even in the case of a corporation chartered for the performance of public duties, the legislature may at pleasure release it from the performance of those duties and allow the transfer of them to another corporation.[28]

(II) Whether Acceptance by State Necessary — (A) In General. The doctrine is frequently announced in judicial decisions that a corporation cannot dissolve itself by a mere corporate act, or by the vote of a majority of its members, so as to escape its responsibilities or liabilities,[29] but that a surrender of its franchises by a corporation must in order to be effective be followed by an acceptance on the part of the state.[30] It is added that, to make the surrender, by the 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 456, 10 Am. Dec. 273, which is that it is merely a doctrine devised to save the rights of creditors and that it does not apply in other cases. 2 Kent Comm. 311.

20. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.

21. Briggs v. Penniman, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 387, 18 Am. Dec. 454 [affirming Hopk. (N. Y.) 300].

22. Thus it has been held under taxing laws of New York that a bank is not taxable during the period of six years allowed by the statute (N. Y. Laws (1859), c. 236), after the redemption of ninety per cent of its circulation, for closing its business, if it has permanently ceased to transact any banking business. By ceasing to act as a bank it loses its character as such, and is no longer deemed to exist as a bank for purposes of taxation. Metcalf v. Messenger, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 325.

23. State v. Hannibal, etc., Gravel Road Co., 37 Mo. App. 496; People v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 113, 30 Am. Dec. 33.

24. New Orleans Debenture Redemption Co. v. Louisiana, 180 U. S. 320, 21 S. Ct. 378, 45 L. ed. 550.

25. See supra, XXI, A, 2.

26. McMahan v. Morrison, 16 Ind. 172, 79 Am. Dec. 418; Washington, etc., Turnpike Road v. State, 19 Md. 239; People v. Olmstead, 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 644; Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 281, 8 L. ed. 945.

27. Savage v. Walshe, 26 Ala. 619.

28. Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685, holding that a single shareholder cannot object, although he cannot be compelled to take stock in the new company.

29. Portland Drp Dock, etc., Co. v. Portland, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 77; Polar Star Lodge No. 1 v. Polar Star Lodge No. 1, 16 La. Ann. 53; Curien v. Santini, 16 La. Ann. 27; Revere v. Boston Copper Co., 15 Pick. (Mass.) 351; Town v. River Raisin Bank, 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 530. Contra, McCurdy v. Myers, 44 Pa. St. 535.

30. Georgia.— Mechanics' Bank v. Heard, 37 Ga. 401.

corporators, of their charter of incorporation effectual, a record of the acceptance must be made.[31]

(B) Doctrine Not Applicable to Corporations Created For Strictly Private Purposes. It must be obvious that an acceptance by the state of the surrender of corporate franchises is not necessary in the case of corporations created for strictly private purposes and which have not assumed the performance of any public duties, but which do not differ, except in form of organization, from unincorporated joint-stock companies or business partnerships, in the continuation of which the state has no interest; but such a corporation may dissolve itself by the voluntary action of its members without the consent of the state.[32]

(C) State Without Means to Compel Private Corporation to Remain in Existence. This may be the conclusion when it is considered that the law affords no means by which the state can compel a private corporation to remain in existence for the purpose of discharging those duties in consideration of which its corporate franchises have been granted. The state may indeed compel the performance of minor or incidental duties by a corporation, which it has assumed under its charter, such as the operating by a railroad company of a branch railroad,[33] or the establishing and maintaining of a station at a particular place;[34] it may compel it by mandamus to restore a part of its railroad which it has dismantled;[35] and it may demand in a judicial proceeding a forfeiture of its franchises in whole or in part for refusing so to do.[36]

(D) Corporations Dissolved by Mere Abandonment and Non-User of Their Franchises. This must also be the conclusion when it is further considered that a corporation may be dissolved by a voluntary surrender of its franchises, evidenced by its mere abandonment and non-user of them, without any formal tender of them to the state or acceptance of them by the state, for the purpose of effectuating the remedy of its creditors against its shareholders, as has been adjudged in numerous decisions, which have been already much considered.[37] And while the facts showing such a surrender are not available for the purpose of proving a dissolution of a corporation, in order to defeat an action brought in its name,[38] yet without special reference to the rights of creditors it is clear upon principle and authority that a corporation may become defunct for all purposes by its own voluntary act, or rather by the voluntary act or neglect of its members, and that it does become defunct for all purposes, whenever there has been an abandonment Indiana.— Harris v. Muskingum Mfg. Co., 4 Blackf. 267, 29 Am. Dec. 372.

Massachusetts.—Boston Glass Manufactory v. Langdon, 24 Pick. 49, 35 Am. Dec. 292.

New York.— New York Marbled Iron Works v. Smith, 4 Duer 362.

Wisconsin.—Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138, holding that consent of the state to the surrender in some form is necessary before the surrender can work a dissolution of the corporation.

31. Norris v. Smithville, 1 Swan (Tenn.) 164.

32. Merchants', etc., Line v. Waganer, 71 Ala. 581; Savage v. Walshe, 26 Ala. 619.

33. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295.

34. See the reasoning in Martindale v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 508.

35. Rex v. Severn, etc., R. Co., 2 B. & Ald. 646, 21 Rev. Rep. 433.

36. Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466. It has even been held that a corporation which is a defendant in a suit in equity and liable to respond pecuniarily to the plaintiff in the suit, and which has made one attempt to procure its own dissolution, may be enjoined from taking any proceeding to that end, or for the appointment of a receiver of its effects, or for the distribution of such effects among its shareholders or any other persons, or from making any distribution or transfer of any of its effects. Fisk v. Union Pac. R. Co., 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,830, 10 Blatchf. 518.

37. McMahan v. Morrison, 16 Ind. 172, 79 Am. Dec. 418; Washington, etc., Turnpike Road v. State, 19 Md. 239; Briggs v. Penniman, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 387, 18 Am. Dec. 454; Slee v. Bloom, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 456, 10 Am. Dec. 273; La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.; XXI, D, 3, b, (I) et seq.

38. Louisiana.— Atchafalaya Bank v. Dawson, 13 La. 497.

Maryland.— State University v. Williams, 9 Gill & J. 365, 31 Am. Dec. 72.

Michigan.— Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457.

New York.— Niagara Bank v. Johnson, 8 Wend. 645.

of its franchises, committed under such circumstances, or continued for such a length of time, as renders it morally or legally impossible for it to resume them.[39] In the same line of thought it has been held that where an act authorizes a certain proceeding to be had upon the surrender by a corporation of its franchises, the same may be had without waiting for the acceptance of the surrender by the state.[40]

c. Power of Directors to Surrender Franchises. The directors of a corporation, being merely its business managers and possessing no power to do any constituent act unless thereto specially authorized,[41] have not, in the absence of some enabling statute, or of the authorization of the constituent body, any power to surrender the franchises of the corporation or to declare it dissolved.[42] Statutes have been enacted changing this rule. Thus the General Corporation Act of New Jersey provides that any corporation may be dissolved whenever deemed advisable by the board of directors, provided that two thirds in interest of all the shareholders shall consent thereto at a meeting called for the purpose. Construing this statute, it has been held that a court of equity has no power to review the decision of the board of directors of such a corporation as to the advisability of a dissolution or to enjoin such dissolution at the suit of a minority shareholder.[43]

d. Surrender by Failure to Accept and Act Upon Charter. The failure to accept and exercise the franchises granted by the state in a charter, within a reasonable time after the making of the grant, is evidence of a surrender, so that the franchises cannot be renewed without a new expression of the will of the legislature, but the state is entitled to demand a judgment of ouster in a proceeding by quo warranto.[44]

e. Other Evidence of Surrender. A surrender may be made by acts or neglects in pais as well as by a formal proceeding for that purpose; and it may be concluded, upon abundant authority,[45] that a surrender by a corporation of its charter may be presumed from a neglect for a long period of time to choose directors and to exercise the corporate franchises,[46] although this presumption is a disputable one and may be rebutted by other circumstances.[47]

f. Position of Creditors Immaterial. The position of creditors to a voluntary surrender by a corporation of its franchise is immaterial, since its assets are still available to the satisfaction of their claims, and hence no right of others is impaired by the fact of the corporation voluntarily going out of existence.[48]

Vermont.— Brandon Iron Co. v. Gleason, 24 Vt. 228.

39. Bradt v. Benedict, 17 N. Y. 93.

40. Wilson v. Central Bridge, 9 R. I. 590. The real reason was that the statute did not contemplate any further action on the part of the state.

41. See supra, IX, C, 7.

42. Smith v. Smith, 3 Desauss. (S. C.) 557. It follows that a resolution, passed by the directors of a banking corporation that the bank be closed, that its business cease, that it go into liquidation, and that its franchises be surrendered, does not operate to dissolve it, in such a sense as to preclude the maintaining of actions against it to enforce its liabilities. Lake Ontario Nat. Bank v. Onondaga County Bank, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 549. To the contrary (and untenable), that the act of dissolution must proceed from the directors who alone can exercise the corporate powers see Wallamet Falls, etc., Co. v. Kittridge, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,105, 5 Sawy. 44, per Deady, J.

43. Windmuller v. Standard Distilling, etc., Co., 114 Fed. 491.

44. State v. Bull, 16 Conn. 179.

45. See supra, XXI, D, 2, a et seq.

46. State v. Vincennes University, 5 Ind. 77.

47. State v. Vincennes University, 5 Ind. 77. For a collection of facts under which it was held that an incorporated agricultural society had surrendered its franchises and ceased to exist for all purposes see Union Agricultural Soc. v. Gamble, 52 Iowa 524, 3 N. W. 531. On an issue as to whether there had been a surrender of a corporate franchise effected by the action or non-action of the shareholders intending to surrender the franchise, evidence as to the intention of another corporation holding a majority of its stock was admissible. Manchester St. R. Co. v. Williams, 71 N. H. 312, 52 Atl. 461.

48. The fact that parties hold property of a corporation under a lease extending for a term into the future presents no obstacle to the winding-up of the affairs of the corporation within the period provided by statute in the case of voluntary dissolution. Musgrove v. Gray, 123 Ala. 376, 26 So. 643, 82 Am. St. Rep. 124.

2. Number and Value of Shareholders That Can Surrender Franchises and Wind Up — a. Organizations in Which Unanimous Consent Necessary. It seems that in unincorporated joint-stock companies unanimous consent is necessary to a dissolution and winding-up; because these are merely numerous partnerships, and the rights of the members rest strictly on the footing of private contract among themselves, so that one or more of them cannot put an end to the contract without the consent of the others.[49] The same is true of incorporated societies created for ideal purposes, and not for the carrying on of business, such as a religious society; here, so long as there are dissenting members enough to hold and to exercise the franchises, a dissolution cannot be effected by the majority. The majority may sever their connection with the organization, but cannot put an end to the right of the minority to have it continued.[50] And this rule has been applied in the case of corporations organized for business purposes.[51]

b. In Business Corporations Unanimous Consent Not Necessary — (I) Rule Stated. But in the absence of some controlling statute the unanimous vote or consent of the shareholders or members of a corporation organized for business purposes is not necessary to a valid surrender of its franchises and to a dissolution and winding-up, but the dissent of a single member or of a minority will not be allowed to prevent a surrender desired by all the others.[52]

(II) But Majority May Dissolve and Wind Up or May Sell Out — (A) In General. But in corporations organized for business purposes and for the private gain of their members, the principle of the rule of the majority obtains to the extent that if the majority conclude that the business cannot be carried on with profit or advantage to all they may against the will of the minority elect to wind it up.[53] So if in the exercise of a sound discretion the majority of the shareholders deem it expedient to do so, they may sell out the whole property of the corporation to a new corporation, taking payment in its shares, to be distributed among such of the old shareholders as may be willing to take them.[54] But a corporation cannot, where the rights of a creditor have intervened, even with the consent of its shareholders, sell its plant and retire from business, taking the stock of the purchasing corporation in payment therefor, such stock being issued to an individual shareholder, without any agreement on his part to pay the corporate debts.[55]

(B) Courts Will Not Inquire Whether Resolution Is Expedient. If it is conceded that such action on the part of the majority is lawful, then the principle follows that the judicial courts will not examine into the affairs of the corporation for the purpose of determining whether the action is expedient, or for the purpose of scanning the motives which have led to it.[56]

A simple contract creditor of a corporation cannot restrain it from taking steps to wind up its affairs in the statutory manner, upon the mere ground that the corporation is insolvent. North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co. v. Rehn, 8 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 594, 6 Ohio N. P. 185.

49. Von Schmidt v. Huntington, 1 Cal. 55.

50. Polar Star Lodge No. 1 v. Polar Star Lodge No. 1, 16 La. Ann. 53.

51. Curien v. Santini, 16 La. Ann. 27; Revere v. Boston Copper Co., 15 Pick. (Mass.) 351; Campbell v. Mississippi Union Bank, 6 How. (Miss.) 625.

52. Union Agricultural Soc. v. Gamble, 52 Iowa 524, 3 N. W. 531; Wilson v. Central Bridge, 9 R. I. 590.

53. Price v. Holcomb, 89 Iowa 123, 56 N. W. 407 (such sale is not in violation of Iowa Code, § 1066, providing that "no corporation can be dissolved prior to the period fixed in the articles of incorporation, except by unanimous consent, unless a different rule has been adopted in their articles," although such sale may have the effect of terminating the business for which the corporation was organized); Pringle v. Eltringham Constr. Co., 49 La. Ann. 301, 21 So. 515 (provided it is done in good faith, and not for the purpose of speculation and subsequently starting the business anew); Trisconi v. Winship, 43 La. Ann. 45, 9 So. 29, 26 Am. St. Rep. 175; Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490; Berry v. Broach, 65 Miss. 450, 4 So. 117.

54. Treadwell v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 393, 66 Am. Dec. 490.

55. Hurd v. New York, etc., Steam Laundry Co., 167 N. Y. 89, 60 N. E. 327 [reversing 52 N. Y. App. Div. 467, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 125].

56. Oglesby v. Attrill, 105 U. S. 605, 26 L. ed. 1186; Bailey v. Birkenhead, etc., R.

3. Necessity of Pursuing Steps Pointed Out by Statute. Where the statute prescribes the steps to be taken by the members of a corporation for the surrender of its charter, those steps must of course be followed, in order to terminate the existence of the corporation. But it is necessary to discriminate between those steps which are made by the statute essential to effect the surrender, and other collateral steps which are merely directory.[57]

4. Voluntary Dissolution and Winding-Up Under Various Statutes. Adjudicated points which do not refer themselves to any principle, but rather to the varying expressions in the statute law, are noted in the margin.[58]

Co., 12 Beav. 433, 14 Jur. 119, 19 L. J. Ch. 377, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 256. Compare Hurst v. Coe, 30 W. Va. 158, 3 S. E. 564, holding that a statutory proceeding for a dissolution cannot be had at the instance of a majority without showing good cause therefor, although it is competent for a majority in interest to discontinue business.

57. See for illustration American Bank v. Cooper, 54 Me. 438, holding that where the steps for the surrender were taken in compliance with the statute, except the publication of the notice, the surrender was effectual.

58. California.—Voluntary dissolution and winding-up under California statute. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1227, 1228, 1229, 1230, 1231, 1232, and 1233, as amended April 16, 1880. That these provisions are exclusive see Kohl v. Lilienthal, 81 Cal. 378, 387, 20 Pac. 401, 22 Pac. 689, 6 L. R. A. 520, per Fox, J., a seemingly unsound conclusion. That they do not apply to corporations formed for ideal purposes having no shareholders see People v. State College, 38 Cal. 166.

Connecticut.— Under Gen. Stat. § 1942. Hammond v. National L. Assoc., 58 N. Y. App. Div. 453, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 585 [affirming 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 182, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 407], superior court of Connecticut has no jurisdiction to decree dissolution of corporation where there has been no vote of shareholders to wind up its affairs, nor any abandonment of its business, and neglect thereafter within a reasonable time to wind up its affairs. Further as to dissolving and winding-up under statute of Connecticut see Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 524.

Kentucky.— The required publication of four weeks is a condition precedent to a voluntary dissolution of a corporation organized under Gen. Stat. c. 56, § 8. An affidavit stating that a majority of the shareholders, in a meeting held for that purpose, voted in favor of closing up its affairs, does not show the "consent in writing" required by Stat. § 561, of the owners of a majority of the shares, necessary in order to a voluntary dissolution. The fact that plaintiff participated in the meeting of shareholders at which the resolution to wind up was passed does not discharge the corporation from liability to him, there being in fact no dissolution. Economy Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Paris Ice Mfg. Co., 68 S. W. 21, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 107.

Montana.— Under Comp. Stats. (1887), §§ 492*a*–494. Want of power in the directors and the majority of the shareholders of a mining corporation, against the dissent of any shareholder, while the corporation is a going and prosperous concern, to transfer all its property, etc. Forrester v. Butte, etc., Consol. Copper, etc., Min. Co., 21 Mont. 544, 55 Pac. 229 [rehearing denied in 21 Mont. 565, 55 Pac. 353].

New York.— Under Rev. Stat. § 463; Laws (1889), c. 314, p. 384, § 38. Medbury v. Rochester Frear Stone Co., 19 Hun 498. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2419 et seq. In re Murray Hill Bank, 153 N. Y. 199, 47 N. E. 298 [affirming 14 N. Y. App. Div. 318, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 836, directors cannot apply for voluntary dissolution, after superintendent of banking has taken possession of assets with intention to have attorney-general bring action to dissolve under Banking Law (Laws (1892), c. 689)]; Hitch v. Hawley, 132 N. Y. 212, 30 N. E. 401, 43 N. Y. St. 625 [affirming 15 Daly 413, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 28 N. Y. St. 416 (reversing 2 N. Y. Suppl. 257, 18 N. Y. St. 175)] (circumstances under which a dissolution and distribution of the assets of a business exchange, a large majority of whose shareholders desired to wind it up, will be "beneficial to the interests of the shareholders," within Code Civ. Proc. § 2429); In re Lenox Corp., 57 N. Y. App. Div. 515, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 103 [affirmed in 167 N. Y. 623, 60 N. E. 1115] (condition of facts held to show insolvency so as to authorize a petition for a voluntary dissolution under the statute); Jameson v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 14 N. Y. App. Div. 380, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 15 (directors of a corporation may bring an action for a voluntary dissolution, although the corporation is not insolvent, where for ten years it has been losing money every year, during which time the dividends have been paid from the surplus on hand; schedule of assets and liabilities annexed to the petition showing a surplus of assets cannot be amended after the appointment of a receiver so as to show a deficiency); In re Murray Hill Bank, 9 N. Y. App. Div. 554, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 920, 75 N. Y. St. 1290 (where the superintendent of banking has delivered assets and books to a receiver appointed in a proceeding by the attorney-general to forfeit the charter of a bank, the court will not order him to deliver the books and assets to a receiver appointed in a proceeding by the directors for a voluntary dissolution); In re Hitchcock Mfg. Co., 1 N. Y. App. Div. 164, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 834, 73 N. Y. St. 46 (particularity in the statement of reasons which induce the petitioners to desire a dissolution); In re Pyrolusite Manganese Co., 29 Hun 429 (judgment of dissolution reversed because petition failed to state facts showing that a dissolution would be beneficial to the shareholders); Chamberlain v. Rochester Seamless Paper Vessel Co., 7 Hun 557; Lake Ontario Nat. Bank v. Onondaga County Bank, 7 Hun 549; In re Santa Eulalia Min. Co., 4 N. Y. Suppl. 174, 21 N. Y. St. 89. Under Laws (1876), c. 442. Court may direct sale of assets which remain after payment of expenses of receivership. In re Woven Tape Skirt Co., 8 Hun 508. Circumstances and state of pleadings under which an injunction seeking to restrain the dissolution of a corporation by the majority shareholders will not be granted at the instance of the minority. In re Lenox Corp., 57 N. Y. App. Div. 515, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 103 [affirmed in 167 N. Y. 623, 60 N. E. 1115] (under Code Civ. Proc. § 2419, having acquired jurisdicttion may make a nunc pro tunc order correcting formal defects in its order reciting that insolvency has been satisfactorily shown); Elbogen v. Gerbereux-Flynn Co., 50 N. Y. App. Div. 623, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 1 [reversing 30 Misc. 264, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 287]. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1783, 1784. In re Hoagland, 36 Misc. 28, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 435, a proceeding for a voluntary dissolution under section 1784 does not take precedence over an action by a judgment creditor for a sequestration under section 1793.

F. Dissolution at Suit of Shareholders — 1. Constitutionality of Statutes Providing For Compulsory Dissolution of Corporations. Statutes of this kind

Ohio.— Under Rev. Stat. § 5654. Particularity in setting forth the amount of corporate indebtedness with an inventory of all its assets in order to give the court jurisdiction. Fitch v. Sprague Carriage Co., 19 Ohio Cir. Ct. 296, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 520. Any of the petitioners may withdraw if the court finds that the petitioners do not own the requisite amount of shares, but upon such withdrawal the court cannot allow another to be substituted. Herancourt Brewing Co. v. Armstrong, 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 468.

Oregon.—Voluntary winding-up under statute of Oregon. Wallamet Falls, etc., Co. v. Kittridge, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,105, 5 Sawy. 44, untenable in so far as it holds that the act of dissolution must proceed from the directors.

Pennsylvania.— Mode of conducting shareholders' meeting and balloting on the question of dissolution, under supervision of court. Re Titusville Oil Exch., 8 Pa. Super. Ct. 304; Titusville Oil Exch. v. Witherop, 2 Pa. Super. Ct. 508, 39 Wkly. Notes Cas. 185.

West Virginia.— Dissolution and winding-up under Code, c. 53, § 57, with the conclusion that the shareholders may proceed in pais or by a bill in equity, and that if they proceed in equity the corporation is a necessary party defendant. Hurst v. Coe, 30 W. Va. 158, 3 S. E. 564.

United States.— Power of the trustees, in case of a transfer of the assets to another company, to pledge the shares received from the purchasing company to the holders of the dissolving company's mortgage bonds, in order to free the assets of the latter company. Wing v. Charleroi Plate Glass Co., 112 Fed. 817.

England.— Voluntary winding-up under English Companies Acts. Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 875 et seq.; In re London India Rubber Co., L. R. 1 Ch. 329, 12 Jur. N. S. 402, 35 L. J. Ch. 592, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 316, 14 Wkly. Rep. 527 [citing In re Sunderland 32nd Universal Bldg. Soc., 21 Q. B. D. 349, 37 Wkly. Rep. 95]; Re Torquay Bath Co., 32 Beav. 581, 9 Jur. N. S. 633, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 527, 11 Wkly. Rep. 653. As to what will be a good notice of a meeting to pass a resolution to wind up see Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 877; In re Bridport Old Brewery Co., L. R. 2 Ch. 191, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 643, 15 Wkly. Rep. 291; In re National Sav. Bank Assoc., L. R. 1 Ch. 547, 12 Jur. N. S. 697, 35 L. J. Ch. 808, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 127, 14 Wkly. Rep. 1005; In re Silkstone Fall Colliery Co., 1 Ch. D. 38, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46. That such a notice may be good in part although bad in part, good so far as it relates to the passing of a resolution to wind up, although bad as to matters which are ultra vires, see Cleve v. Financial Corp., L. R. 16 Eq. 363, 43 L. J. Ch. 54, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 89, 26 Wkly. Rep. 839; Stone v. City, etc., Bank, 3 C. P. D. 282, 47 L. J. C. P. 681, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 9. Impeaching resolutions for a voluntary winding-up and amalgamation for want of a sufficient notice of the meeting. In re Imperial Bank, L. R. 1 Ch. 339. See In re Gibraltar, etc., Bank, L. R. 1 Ch. 69, 11 Jur. N. S. 916, 35 L. J. Ch. 49, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 386, 14 Wkly. Rep. 69. What claim does not constitute a party a creditor so as to entitle him to obtain an order continuing the voluntary winding-up under the supervision of the court. In re Pen-Y-Van Colliery Co., 6 Ch. D. 477, 46 L. J. Ch. 390. Circumstances under which an order will be made continuing the voluntary winding-up under supervision. In re United Service Co., L. R. 7 Eq. 76. Sufficient that creditor is such at the date of proving his claim, although not such at the date of the order for continuing the voluntary winding-up. In re Oriental Commercial Bank, L. R. 6 Eq. 582, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 450, 16 Wkly. Rep. 784. State of pleadings under which a creditor could not claim a winding-up order on the ground that the company was insolvent. In re Spence's Patent Non-Conducting Composition, etc., Co., L. R. 9 Eq. 9, 39 L. J. Ch. 79, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 413, 18 Wkly. Rep. 82. Costs of the liquidator incurred previously to an order made on the petition of a creditor to continue the voluntary winding-up under supervision. In re New York Exch. Co., [1893] 1 Ch. 371. The court will not, which provide for a compulsory dissolution of corporations at the suit of shareholders are not unconstitutional.[59]

2. Power of Courts of Equity in Dissolving and Winding Up Corporations — a. In General. In the absence of enabling statutes, courts of chancery have no jurisdiction to decree the dissolution of a corporation;[60] nor as a general rule can such a court, during the life of the corporation, wind up its business and sequestrate its property and effects, on the application of a shareholder as such;[61] but when a corporation dies by reason of the expiration of its charter, or becomes substantially dead by reason of the non-user of its franchises, a court of equity has jurisdiction, under principles already elaborated,[62] to lay hold of its assets by its receiver and distribute them among its creditors.

b. Such Jurisdiction Frequently Conferred by Statute — (I) In General. Jurisdiction to dissolve a corporation may of course be conferred upon a court of equity by a statute;[63] and, considering the constitution of these courts and their modes of procedure, statutes conferring such a jurisdiction are very appropriately enacted, and exist in many of the states.

(II) Such as Statutes Providing For Adjudication of Insolvency and Appointment of Receiver — (A) In General. In some cases the statutes go no further than to provide for an adjudication of insolvency, and for the appoint-at the instance of contributories, interfere with a voluntary winding-up, by ordering a winding-up by or under the supervision of the court, except where the resolution for winding-up voluntarily has been obtained by fraud, or by an inequitable overbearing of the rights of a dissentient minority by improper influence. In re Beaujolais Wine Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 15, 16 Wkly. Rep. 177; In re London, etc., Discount Co., L. R. 1 Eq. 277, 35 L. J. Ch. 229, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 665, 14 Wkly. Rep. 219. If the resolution disables the company from performing its contracts it of course remains liable in an action for damages for the breach of them. Inchbald v. Western Neilgherry Coffee, etc., Plantation Co., 17 C. B. N. S. 733, 10 Jur. N. S. 1129, 34 L. J. C. P. 15, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 345, 13 Wkly. Rep. 95, 112 E. C. L. 733. But it is added by Sir Nathaniel Lindley that "generally speaking, a winding-up order is not equivalent to a breach of contract." Lindley Comp. L. (5th ed.) 883. See also China Bank v. Morse, 168 N. Y. 458, 61 N. E. 774, 85 Am. St. Rep. 676, 56 L. R. A. 139 [affirming 44 N. Y. App. Div. 435, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 268, holding that a proceeding for the voluntary winding-up of a company under section 161 of the Companies Act of 1862 does not cease to be a case within that section merely because presented to the court for its approval]; In re Gutta Percha Corp., [1900] 2 Ch. 665, 69 L. J. Ch. 769, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401, 8 Manson 67 (rule that a voluntary winding-up is prima facie a bar to a shareholder obtaining a compulsory order does not apply where there are circumstances which require an investigation by a court); In re Haycraft Gold Reduction, etc., Co., [1900] 2 Ch. 230, 69 L. J. Ch. 497, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 166, 7 Manson 243 (resolution for voluntary winding-up is not valid, if passed at an extraordinary general meeting of the company, convened by the secretary without the authority, previously or subsequently given, of the board of directors); In re Varieties, [1893] 2 Ch. 235, 62 L. J. Ch. 526, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 214, 3 Reports 324, 41 Wkly. Rep. 296; Southern Counties Deposit Bank v. Rider, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 374 (court will not declare a special resolution for the voluntary winding-up of a corporation invalid because the notices convening the meeting at which such resolution was passed issued under a resolution passed at a meeting of the directors at which a quorum was not present).

59. Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Swigert, 135 Ill. 150, 25 N. E. 680, 12 L. R. A. 328; Ward v. Farwell, 97 Ill. 593; Brown v. Mesnard Min. Co., 105 Mich. 653, 63 N. W. 1000 (not unconstitutional because of its failure to make all shareholders necessary parties to the winding-up bill).

60. Wheeler v. Pullman Iron, etc., Co., 143 Ill. 197, 32 N. E. 420, 17 L. R. A. 818. See supra, XI, D, 1, a et seq. Compare Edelin v. Pascoe, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 826, jurisdiction to call the redeemed shareholders of a building association to account at the suit of the unredeemed shareholders.

61. Cronin v. Potters' Co-Operative Co., 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 749, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 52. It has been held that a bill by majority shareholders of a private corporation praying its dissolution on the ground of insolvency and that its business is being carried on at a loss, but which does not allege any act which is illegal, fraudulent, or ultra vires, or show any action on the part of plaintiffs to induce a change of management either by the officers or shareholders, does not present a case for equitable relief, or authorize a circuit court of the United States in the absence of statute to take the property of the corporation from its possession and management. Worth Mfg. Co. v. Bingham, 116 Fed. 785, 54 C. C. A. 119.

62. See supra, VIII, B, 1 et seq.

63. Chicago Mut. L. Indemnity Assoc. v. Hunt, 127 Ill. 257, 20 N. E. 55, 2 L. R. A. 549.

ment of a receiver, and the winding-up of the affairs of the corporation by collecting its debts and converting its assets into money and distributing the money ratably among its creditors first and thereafter among its shareholders.[64]

(B) What Deemed Insolvency For Such Purpose—(1) In General. It seems that a court of equity has power, on a bill filed by some of the shareholders of the corporation, to decree its dissolution, where it has been found "impracticable to keep the company together"; where a successful prosecution of the business for which the corporation has been organized is "impracticable and a delusion"; and where it appears that the desire of the petitioning shareholders, "being in accordance with the interests of all concerned, ought not to be thwarted."[65]

(2) Filing Petition in Bankruptcy. It has been held that the rule that the filing of a petition in bankruptcy is per se an act of insolvency which renders the actual solvency or insolvency of the petitioner immaterial, applies as well to proceedings by corporations as by individuals.[66]

(3) Under Statute Relating to Insolvency For One Year. Under the provisions of a statute[67] that a corporation shall be dissolved when it shall have remained insolvent, or neglected or refused to pay its notes or evidences of debt, or suspended its business for one year, a corporation is not regarded as having committed an act of insolvency or as having neglected or refused to pay its obligations because its demand notes have remained outstanding until the payment has been demanded.[68] Insolvency in the ordinary sense, which is simply an inability to pay and discharge one's obligations as they accrue[69] in the ordinary course

64. Such a statute exists in Minnesota. Minn. Gen. Stat. (1878), c. 76. See Hospes v. Northwestern Mfg., etc., Co., 41 Minn. 256, 43 N. W. 180; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Bailey Mfg. Co., 34 Minn. 323, 25 N. W. 639. Equitable jurisdiction existing in Pennsylvania, under the act of June 16, 1836, § 13, as to corporations, is said to be general and unlimited, and includes a bill to remove the assignee of an insolvent corporation. Failey v. Stockwell, 2 Pa. Dist. 197, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 403. The power of a court of equity, on good cause shown, to dissolve or close up the business of any corporation, which is conferred by section 25 of the Illinois statute for the incorporation of companies for pecuniary profit, exists only as a portion of the relief provided for by that section and does not authorize the exercise of such power, except for causes for which the state might procure a judgment of forfeiture at law. Wheeler v. Pullman Iron, etc., Co., 143 Ill. 197, 32 N. E. 420, 17 L. R. A. 818. That banking associations established under the general banking law of New York were corporations within the provisions of the Revised Statutes relative to proceedings against insolvent corporations, etc., and that such association, failing to make an annual return, as required by the statute of 1841, was liable to be proceeded against as insolvent see Metropolitan Bank v. Godfrey, 23 Ill. 579; Robinson v. Attica Bank, 21 N. Y. 406; Gillet v. Moody, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 185; Leavitt v. Blatchford, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 9; Mabey v. Adams, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 346; Boisgerard v. New York Banking Co., 2 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 23. That the provisions of the statutes of New York relating to "moneyed corporations" had no application to banking associations organized under the general act of 1838 see Leavitt v. Blatchford, 17 N. Y. 521. To the same effect see Tracy v. Talmage, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 456. To the contrary Mabey v. Adams, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 346; In re Dansville Bank, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 370; Leavitt v. Yates, 4 Edw. (N. Y.) 134; Leavitt v. Tylee, 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 207.

65. Von Schmidt v. Huntington, 1 Cal. 55. It should be noted that the corporation was organized by articles of association under the laws of New York, presumably the celebrated statute of that state authorizing the formation of manufacturing and mining corporations. It is also to be noted that the court dealt with it as it would have dealt with a partnership. It should be added that the bill did not pray for a decree of dissolution, the lawyer who drew it had too much sense for that; but what the court really did was to direct a decree to be entered dissolving the company as of the date of the judgment appealed from, directing the receiver to sell its property to pay the costs of suit, including counsel fees, and to make a pro rata distribution of the balance of the assets among all the shareholders, excluding two of them, etc.

66. In re Atlantic Mut. L. Ins. Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 628, 9 Ben. 270.

67. 1 N. Y. Rev. Stat. 604, § 4; 2 N. Y. Rev. Stat. 463, § 38.

68. Denike v. New York, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599.

69. Hazelton v. Allen, 3 Allen (Mass.) 114; Brouwer v. Harbeck, 9 N. Y. 589; Ferry v. Central New York Bank, 15 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 445.

of business, is not sufficient to warrant a decree of dissolution under the foregoing statute.[70]

3. NUMBER AND VALUE OF SHAREHOLDERS WHOSE CONCURRENCE IS NECESSARY TO SUPPORT PROCEEDING — a. When Not Dissolved at Suit of Single Shareholder. It has been held that a corporation will not be dissolved on the petition of a single shareholder, on the ground that its officers have refused to allow the petitioner to inspect its books and accounts, that it is carrying on a losing business, and that the directors have levied an assessment for the purpose of compelling the petitioner to dispose of his shares.[71] Nor according to a decision of a court of common pleas in Ohio will a corporation in that state be dissolved at the suit of a shareholder, because a by-law provides that it shall continue only for a certain period, and that period has expired, since the by-law imposes on those assenting to it no enforceable obligation.[72] Nor will a corporation be dissolved on such a petition, on the ground that it was actually formed for a longer period than that designated in the preliminary subscription agreement, either on the ground that such agreement of itself terminates the corporate life or that it should be specifically performed.[73]

b. When Not Dissolved on Petition of Minority in Value. What has just been said with respect to dissolving a corporation on the petition of a single shareholder will of course apply under the same conditions where a suit is brought by a minority of the shareholders to effect the same object. In the absence of statutory authorization a court cannot, in virtue of its equity powers merely, entertain a petition of a minority in value of the shareholders to dissolve and wind up the corporation, or to produce under any form of language that substantial result.[74]

70. Denike v. New York, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599. When therefore a referee found that a company was insolvent at the date of the commencement of the action, but also that it had not been insolvent for one year prior thereto; that it had not for one year neglected or refused to pay and discharge its obligations or suspended its ordinary and lawful business, it was held that a judgment entering a decree of dissolution was rightly reversed. Denike v. New York, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599. Ordering an election of directors to act as trustees for the shareholders in the winding-up see Lehigh Coal, etc., Co. v. Central R. Co., 35 N. J. Eq. 349. Enjoining the prosecution of suits in other courts against the corporation see Smith v. St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co., 6 Lea (Tenn.) 564. Insolvent building associations wound up according to principles of equity see City Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Goodrich, 48 Ga. 445. As to the liability of the officers carrying out the scheme enjoined see Goodrich v. City Loan, etc., Assoc., 54 Ga. 98.

71. Burham v. San Francisco Fuse Mfg. Co., 76 Cal. 24, 17 Pac. 940.

72. Cronin v. Potters' Co-Operative Co., 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 748, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 52.

73. Cronin v. Potters' Co-Operative Co., 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 748, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 52. Under English Company Law a debenture shareholder of a company to whom nothing is due for principal or interest has no locus standi to present a petition to wind up the company. In re Melbourne Brewery, etc., [1901] 1 Ch. 453, 70 L. J. Ch. 198, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 228, 8 Manson 403, 49 Wkly. Rep. 250. Under the same law a petition by a shareholder in arrears in the payment of calls upon his shares for the winding-up of the company will not be dismissed absolutely, but will not be heard until the calls are at least paid into court, or an undertaking given to submit to any order as to their payment. In re Crystal Reef Gold Min. Co., [1892] 1 Ch. 408, 61 L. J. Ch. 208, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 111, 40 Wkly. Rep. 235. Nor according to a recent decision can a shareholder or a minority of the shareholders maintain a suit for a dissolution of the corporation because the law has been changed so as to make them liable for its debts. Williams v. Nall, 108 Ky. 21, 55 S. W. 706, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1526. But under English Company Law a single shareholder may maintain a proceeding to have a company wound up when it has embarked its funds in a wholly ultra vires business, as where, organized to do a banking business, it has undertaken to carry on speculations in land, the formation of a foreign company, and the business of investing in shares and securities. In re Crown Bank, 44 Ch. D. 634, 59 L. J. Ch. 739, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 823, 38 Wkly. Rep. 666. Compare supra, XI, D, 1, a et seq.

74. Stewart v. Pierce, 116 Iowa 733, 89 N. W. 234. But another such court has held that diversity of interest among the members of a corporation, and differences of opinion as to the advisability of continuing the existence of the concern, such as make it certain that no benefit can result to any party interested in perpetuating its existence, furnish sufficient grounds for its dissolution, in a judicial proceeding under a statute, at the suit of some of its shareholders. Matter of Importers', etc., Exch., 15 Daly 413, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 322, 28 N. Y. St. 416. It has been held not a sufficient ground for dissolving a manufacturing corporation, on the

The reason goes back to a principle elsewhere discussed and often misapplied, that a corporation owes its life to the sovereign power, and that the circumstances under which it shall forfeit or be deprived of that life depend on the same power. "A corporation," it is said, "may be dissolved by forfeiture through abuse or neglect of its franchises; but such forfeiture, unless there be special provisions by statute, can only be enforced by the sovereign in some proceeding instituted in its behalf."[75] The conclusion is especially obvious that a corporation cannot be dissolved and a receiver appointed at the suit of a shareholder, where the state of the statute law requires every action to dissolve a corporation to be brought by the attorney for the state and in the name of the state.[76]

c. Construction of Statutes Prescribing Number and Value That Can Petition For Dissolution. Several of the statutes providing for voluntary proceedings for the winding-up of corporations prescribe the number and value of shareholders who must concur in the proceeding, in order to authorize the court to act. Under one statute, requiring the concurrence of three fourths in value of the shares at the time of the institution of the proceeding, and of the final decree, it was held that it was not necessary to the validity of the decree that it should appear that the petitioners for dissolution continued to desire the dissolution, from the filing of the petition up to the final decree, where they were prosecuting the case to the very last.[77] Any of the petitioners for the dissolution of a corporation may, before the court has found that they own the necessary amount of stock to entitle them to maintain the proceeding, withdraw therefrom, and if there is not left a number of petitioners owning a sufficient amount, the court cannot proceed on the petition and dissolve the corporation.[78]

d. Dissolution by Unanimous Consent of Shareholders. This may take place by any act or acts in pais which destroy the end and object for which the corpopetition of a majority in number of the shareholders owning a minority of the stock, that one owner of a majority of the stock has for many years controlled the election of the officers, and elected himself agent and clerk; that he has for a long time managed the business "according to his own will and choice, regardless of the wishes and interests of the petitioners"; that according to his statement the corporation had been doing a losing business for many years; that he has refused to make any change in the business or to purchase the shares of the petitioners; and that if the business were skilfully and properly managed it might be made a source of profit to all concerned. In such a case there must at least be a showing of illegal and fraudulent acts upon the part of the governing shareholder to the prejudice of those holding a minority of the shares. Pratt v. Jewett, 9 Gray (Mass.) 34.

75. Denike v. New York, etc., Co., 80 N. Y. 599, 605. It has been held by a subordinate court in New York that a life-insurance corporation organized under the laws of that state may be dissolved and wound up at the suit of a single shareholder. Masters v. Electric L. Ins. Co., 6 Daly (N. Y.) 455.

76. Dudley v. Dakota Hot Springs Co., 11 S. D. 559, 79 N. W. 839, where the complaint alleged that its officers and shareholders were fraudulently sacrificing property whose value was in excess of its liabilities.

77. Wolfe v. Underwood, 97 Ala. 375, 12 So. 234. As to a voluntary winding-up under the Alahama statute see also Wolfe v. Underwood, 91 Ala. 523, 8 So. 774; Merchants', etc., Line v. Waganer, 71 Ala. 581.

78. Herancourt Brewing Co. v. Armstrong, 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 468 [reversed on jurisdictional grounds in 53 Ohio St. 467, 42 N. E. 425], points of evidence under statutes limiting number and value of shareholders necessary in such a petition.

Where some of the shares are owned by a deceased person, his executor or administrator is a shareholder for the purpose of making up the requisite number; and his appointment as executor is sufficiently proved by a certified copy of the will and the proceedings of the court probating the will and directing his qualification. Wolfe v. Underwood, 97 Ala. 375, 12 So. 234.

Upon the question of the mode of proving the amount of capital stock, it has been held that it is sufficiently proved by a certified copy of the charter proceedings. Upon the question of the amount of shares held by the petitioners their oral testimony is admissible, and the stock-book of the corporation need not be produced; and the failure to produce it will not be reversible error, at least without evidence that there was such a book. In reviewing such a proceeding, if it appears that all the material averments of the petition were established by uncontradicted legal evidence, the judgment will not be reversed no matter how much immaterial, illegal, incompetent, or irrelevant evidence may have been admitted. Wolfe v. Armstrong, 97 Ala. 375, 12 So. 234.

ration was created and which hence work what has been called a de facto dissolution of it;[79] such as resolutions adopted by all the shareholders authorizing a sale of all the corporate property, although not adopted by the directors sitting as a board.[80]

4. Questions of Procedure — a. Notice of Application For Dissolution — (I) In General. It has been held that where a corporation had become dissolved and its assets had become, under an existing statute, vested in its trustees then in office, in trust for its creditors and shareholders, a subsequent proceeding, under a subsequent statute, instituted by the attorney-general, such trustees not being made parties, resulting in a decree appointing a receiver and divesting the property out of the hands of such trustees and vesting it in the receiver for the purposes of a winding-up was a violation of a constitutional inhibition against the taking of property without due process of law.[81] The theory of the decision is that the right to have the property administered under the existing statute by the existing trustees was a right accruing to the creditors and shareholders which it was not competent for the legislature by a subsequent act to release or discharge.[82] It is obvious that if notice had been given to the trustees in possession it would not have cured the defect.

(II) Notice to Attorney-General Under Statute of New York. The statute of New York[83] requiring notice to be given to the attorney-general in case of any application for the dissolution of a corporation has been held to apply to proceedings for a voluntary dissolution.[84]

b. Order to Show Cause Against Application. Where the statute provides for an order to show cause against the application, and for service or publication in a certain way, unless the order is so made and served or published, the whole proceeding will be void. The reason is that the order to show cause is in the nature of original process, bringing in parties in interest, who have the right to oppose the winding-up;[85] and of course such a proceeding will be dismissed, at the instance of any party in interest at any stage of it, upon it being made to appear 79. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.; XXI, D, 3, b, (I) et seq.

80. Webster v. Turner, 12 Hun (N. Y.) 264.

81. People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255 [reversing 45 Hun (N. Y.) 519]. Compare People v. O'Brien, 103 N. Y. 657.

82. People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255 [reversing 45 Hun (N. Y.) 519, and citing and following Dash v. Van Kleeck, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 477, 5 Am. Dec. 291]. The court also cited Wynehamer v. People, 13 N. Y. 378; Westervelt v. Gregg, 12 N. Y. 202, 62 Am. Dec. 160; Taylor v. Porter, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 140, 40 Am. Dec. 274; Parker v. Browning, 8 Paige (N. Y.) 388, 35 Am. Dec. 717; Kilbourn v. Thompson, 103 U. S. 168, 26 L. ed. 377. Under a statute of Pennsylvania (Pa. Act April 4, 1872, Pamph. L. 40) notice of an application for the dissolution of a corporation should be published once a week for three weeks. In re Philadelphia Straw Braid Sewing Mach. Co., 6 Pa. Co. Ct. 65; In re Ashton Hand Mfg. Co., 5 Pa. Co. Ct. 400. And where a place of meeting is maintained in a county other than that in which the principal office is located, such advertisement should be in both counties. In re Ashton Hand Mfg. Co., 5 Pa. Co. Ct. 400. It has been held that the action of the English directors of a corporation chartered in England, but having its property, business, and four fifths of its shareholders in America, in attempting to wind up the company by voluntary procedure under the English statute, upon notice to the American shareholders given so late that it would be impossible for them to be represented, will not be sustained by an American court upon principles of international comity, since it is the voluntary act of the English shareholders, and not of the British courts. Brown v. Republican Mountain Silver Mines, 55 Fed. 7.

83. N. Y. Laws (1883), c. 378, § 8.

84. People v. Seneca Lake Grape, etc., Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 174, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 136, 23 N. Y. St. 346, 17 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 130. Vacating such an order on motion of the attorney-general, when made on petition of shareholders and creditors. Matter of Mart, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 82, 22 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 227. When application for appointment of a new trustee of an insolvent insurance company need not be given to the attorney-general see Matter of Gay, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 602, 21 N. Y. St. 346.

85. People v. Seneca Lake Grape, etc., Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 174, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 136, 23 N. Y. St. 346, 17 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 130; Freeman's Nat. Bank v. Smith, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,089, 13 Blatchf. 220; In re Pensacola Lumber Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,959, 8 Ben. 171.

that no order to show cause has been made, served, or published, in conformity with the statute.[86]

c. Allegations of Bill. In a proceeding to wind up an insolvent corporation under the statutes of New Jersey the bill need not allege that the corporation is doing business in the state at the time when the bill is filed, since the court has, under the statute, jurisdiction in the case of a foreign corporation which has previously done business in the state and still has property there.[87]

d. Consolidation of All Suits Pending Against Corporation by Creditors. A shareholder who is also a creditor may file a bill in equity in Tennessee to wind up an insolvent corporation, and may have all suits pending against it by creditors consolidated and proper accounts taken for the settlement of its affairs; and other shareholders may show that the claim of the one filing the bill is not valid, although the bill has been taken for confessed against the corporation.[88]

e. Intervention of Creditors. A final settlement, made between a corporation and its members, on the winding-up of its affairs, is not of course valid as against its creditors, unless they have been parties to the proceeding.[89] On general principles of equity, where such a proceeding takes place in a court possessing equity powers, it would be within the discretion of the court to allow a creditor to intervene, even after the expiration of the time previously limited for that purpose, at least it has been so held where the proceeding was instituted by creditors,[90] and no reason is perceived why the rule should be different where it is instituted by shareholders.

G. Effect of Dissolution — 1. At Common Law — a. In General. Under the operation of the principles of the ancient common law, excluding in this statement the principles of equity jurisprudence and the effect of general saving statutes, the effect of the dissolution of a corporation is to put an end to its existence for all purposes whatsoever and to destroy every one of the faculties possessed by it; so that thereafter it can neither make nor take contracts,[91] nor sue,[92] nor be sued;[93] and so that all debts to or from it become extinguished,[94]

86. In re Pyrolusite Manganese Co., 29 Hun (N. Y.) 429. When therefore the governing statute (N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2423) prescribed that on presentation of the petition the court might make an order requiring all persons interested in the corporation to show cause why it should not be dissolved, and the order that was in fact made and served was an order to show cause "why the prayer of the petition should not be granted," and there was no statutory provision for the service of a copy of the petition with the order to show cause, it was held that subsequent proceedings were void. People v. Seneca Lake Grape, etc., Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 174, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 136, 23 N. Y. St. 346, 17 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 130.

87. Albert v. Clarendon Land, etc., Co., 53 N. J. Eq. 623, 23 Atl. 8.

88. Crutchfield v. Mutual Gas-Light Co., (Tenn. Sup. 1886) 2 S. W. 658.

89. Heggie v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 107 N. C. 581, 12 S. E. 275.

90. Spooner v. St. Louis Bay Syndicate, 48 Minn. 313, 51 N. W. 377.

91. Saltmarsh v. Planters', etc., Bank, 14 Ala. 668; Carrington v. Commercial F. & M. Ins. Co., 1 Bosw. (N. Y.) 152; Green v. Seymour, 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 285; White v. Campbell, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 38.

92. State Bank v. Wilson, 19 La. Ann. 1; Whitman v. Cox, 26 Me. 335.

93. Carey v. Giles, 10 Ga. 9; Bonaffe v. Fowler, 7 Paige (N. Y.) 576.

94. Delaware.— Commercial Bank v. Lockwood, 2 Harr. 8.

Georgia.— Robinson v. Lane, 19 Ga. 337; Thornton v. Lane, 11 Ga. 459; Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 52 Am. Dec. 412.

Louisiana.— In Louisiana the property and property rights of a corporation are not destroyed by the expiration of its charter. Fleitas v. New Orleans, 51 La. Ann. 1, 24 So. 623.

Massachusetts.— Thornton v. Marginal Freight Co., 123 Mass. 32.

Mississippi.— State Bank v. Duncan, 56 Miss. 166; Port Gibson v. Moore, 13 Sm. & M. 157; Commercial Bank v. Chambers, 8 Sm. & M. 9.

New York.—Assuming that this rule was introduced in New York by the constitution of 1777, adopting such parts of the common law as was then the law of the colony, yet the changed conditions surrounding the creation and dissolution of corporations and the distribution of their assets after dissolution have abrogated the rule. Shayne v. Evening Post Pub. Co., 168 N. Y. 70, 61 N. E. 115, 10 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 237, 85 Am. St. Rep. 654, 55 L. R. A. 777 [reversing 56 N. Y. App. Div. 426, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 937].

North Carolina.— Von Glahn v. De Rosset, 81 N. C. 467; Malloy v. Mallett, 59 N. C. 345; Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48.

Tennessee.— Hopkins v. Whitesides, 1 Head 31; White v. Campbell, 5 Humphr. 38.

and all actions by[95] or against[96] it abate; and so that its real property reverts to the grantors or donors thereof or their heirs;[97] and its personal property escheats to the crown or to the state.[98]

b. Extinguished Liability of Shareholders — (i) Rule Stated. The general rule of the ancient common law that debts owing by or to a corporation become extinguished upon the event of its dissolution had the necessary consequence of exonerating the shareholders from their liability to pay calls to the corporation in respect of the shares for which they had subscribed.[99] Therefore a shareholder was not liable to garnishment, under a statute, by a creditor of a defunct corporation; because a garnishing creditor claims in right of his debtor, and whatever will disable his debtor from claiming will operate as a disability against him.[1] So where, under the charter or governing statute, a judgment recovered against a corporation may be levied upon the property of any of its shareholders, a shareholder is privy to the judgment, in such a sense that he may maintain in his own name a writ of error and reverse it where it has been recovered against the corporation after its dissolution.[2]

(ii) But Individuals May Incur Liabilities Which Will Survive. But although the debts owing to or from the corporation are at common law extinguished by its dissolution, yet this does not exclude the conclusion that the individuals composing the corporation may during its existence incur liabilities, under the operation of statutes or otherwise, which will survive.[3]

United States.— Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. 281, 8 L. ed. 945.

95. Eagle Chair Co. v. Kelsey, 23 Kan. 632; State Bank v. Wrenn, 3 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 791.

96. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375; Selma First Nat. Bank v. Colby, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 609, 21 L. ed. 687.

97. Massachusetts.— Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. 63.

New York.— Bingham v. Weiderwax, 1 N. Y. 509; Hooker v. Utica, etc., Turnpike Co., 12 Wend. 371.

North Carolina.— Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48; State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Tennessee.— White v. Campbell, 5 Humphr. 38.

Texas.—Acklin v. Paschal, 48 Tex. 147.

England.— Winsor v. Webb, Godb. 211; Edmunds v. Brown, 1 Lev. 237; Atty.-Gen. v. Gower, 9 Mod. 224; Coke Litt. 136.

98. Coulter v. Robertson, 24 Miss. 278, 57 Am. Dec. 168; Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48.

99. Paschall v. Whitsett, 11 Ala. 472; Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 52 Am. Dec. 412; Merrill v. Suffolk Bank, 31 Me. 57, 50 Am. Dec. 649; Malloy v. Mallett, 59 N. C. 345, 346. The court which rendered the last of these decisions seems to have been animated by sheer love of injustice, and in another case, while professing to proceed according to the principles of equity, refused relief against the shareholders of a bank, notwithstanding the following clause in its charter: "The private property of the individual stockholders shall be liable for all the debts, contracts and liabilities of the corporation in proportion to the stock subscribed by each individual." Notwithstanding this provision it was held that a court of equity had no power, after the dissolution of a corporation, at the suit of a creditor of the same, to aid him in collecting his debt from the shareholders; and this is the way the court reasoned in reaching the conclusion: "The responsibility thus imposed upon the individual stockholders is, we think, manifestly a secondary one; because it makes them liable for the debts of another person, to wit: the corporation. Such a liability was amply sufficient for the security of the creditors of the company, should they be diligent in enforcing it, during the existence of the corporation; while, to have made it greater, would, in a considerable degree, have tended to defeat the purpose for which the company was created. The liability of the individual stockholders being thus a secondary one for the debts of the company, it follows that when the corporation expired and its debts became thereby extinct, their liability became extinct also. As long as there were debts of the company to be paid, the stockholders were bound to pay them, if necessary, out of their private means; but when the debts of the corporation ceased to exist, as such, there remained nothing upon which to attach a responsibility on those who had been members of the defunct company." The court also found an analogy in the case of a creditor's bill founded upon a judgment which is not in force. Wintz v. Webb, 14 N. C. 27. The doctrine announced in Von Glahn v. De Rosset, 81 N. C. 467, although an obiter dictum, expresses the unquestioned rule of the American law, and necessarily involves a repudiation of the doctrine in this case.

1. Paschall v. Whitsett, 11 Ala. 472.

2. Merrill v. Suffolk Bank, 31 Me. 57, 50 Am. Dec. 649.

3. Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 52 Am. Dec. 412.

2. Effect of Dissolution With Respect to Contracts — a. Destroys Power of Corporation to Make Contracts. After a corporation has been dissolved de jure,[4] it can make no contract which will have the effect of binding its assets.[5]

b. To What Extent Liable For Money Thereafter Borrowed. There is a decision to the effect that a corporation whose charter has expired is liable for money thereafter borrowed, only where such money is necessary to preserve its property or pay its just and legal liabilities.[6]

c. Effect of Dissolution Upon Unexpired or Executory Contracts — (i) In General. The executory contracts of a corporation become nugatory after it is forced into an involuntary liquidation and dissolution.[7]

(ii) Puts End to Continuing Duty of Corporation and Entitles Obligee to Just Compensation. In respect of contracts of such a nature as to involve a continuing duty or liability on the part of the corporation, the necessary effect of its dissolution is to put an end to the continuing duty or liability, and to entitle the other party to just compensation.[8]

(iii) Entitles Obligee to Damages For Breach of Contract. In ordinary cases the obligee will be entitled to be paid, out of the assets of the dissolved corporation, compensation by way of damages for the breach of its contract.[9]

(iv) Renders Debentures of Corporation Immediately Payable. In England the winding-up of a corporation renders immediately payable a deben-

4. The expression de jure is used to exclude from conception those de facto and shadowy dissolutions which are frequently held to have taken place through insolvency or the non-user of the corporate franchises, for the purpose of letting in the rights of creditors against their shareholders, and for some other purposes. See supra, VIII, P, 1, e, (I) et seq.

5. Carrington v. Commercial F. & M. Ins. Co., 1 Bosw. (N. Y.) 152; Green v. Seymour, 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 285; White v. Campbell, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 38.

Illustrations.— Such an effect has been ascribed to an order enjoining a corporation from exercising its franchises, in a statutory proceeding to dissolve it. Carrington v. Commercial F. & M. Ins. Co., 1 Bosw. (N. Y.) 152. So where a note secured by a deed of trust was executed to a defunct corporation, it was held that the note was void for want of a payee, and that the deed of trust was void for want of a beneficiary. White v. Campbell, 5 Humphr. (Tenn.) 38. So where the directors of a corporation, after they had been, by a vote of the shareholders, which took place in pursuance of the charter, divested of all authority except to close its concerns, issued new obligations in the name of the company and took a mortgage therefor, it was held that the mortgage thus taken was void. Green v. Seymour, 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 285. So where a corporation's charter is declared void for non-payment of taxes, and a receiver is appointed, a claim by its manager for services rendered and money loaned after the date of the forfeiture cannot be allowed as against the receiver. Louchheim v. Clawson Printing, etc., Co., 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 55.

6. Mason v. Pewabic Min. Co., 66 Fed. 391, 13 C. C. A. 532. The decision is obviously unsound. A corporation whose charter has expired, unless there is a statute continuing its corporate life for the purpose of winding-up, cannot borrow money, because it is non-existent, and it cannot be liable for anything for the same reason. Another holding announces the doctrine that the acts of a minority party of a corporation organized for ideal purposes, done after the corporation has ceased to exist, are void. Com. v. Order of Solon, 166 Pa. St. 33, 30 Atl. 930. This decision must be read with reference to the principle that so long as a corporation not having a joint stock retains a sufficient number of members to keep the corporation alive, their acts are binding; but of course not after it has ceased to exist. Another decision announces the principle that an attempt on the part of the managers of a corporation to exercise corporate powers after the expiration of its charter without renewal is ultra vires. In re McKinley-Lanning L., etc., Co., 1 Pa. Dist. 551. Naturally, because there is no corporation, and the case simply presents the attempt of a number of private persons to exercise the powers of a corporation which does not exist.

7. People v. Globe Mut. L. Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. 174; Griffith v. Blackwater Boom, etc., Co., 46 W. Va. 56, 33 S. E. 125.

8. This may be best illustrated in respect of contracts of fire insurance where, if the insurance company becomes dissolved while the contract is in force, the contract is determined as a contract of insurance, and the insured is entitled to the unearned premium at the date of the dissolution. Carr v. Union Mut. F. Ins. Co., 28 Mo. App. 215.

9. In re Wiltshire Iron Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 443, 37 L. J. Ch. 554, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38, 16 Wkly. Rep. 682. That the dissolution of a corporation, while preventing specific performance of its contracts, perfects a cause of action for their breach see Schleider v. Dielman, 44 La. Ann. 462, 10 So. 934.

ture issued by it covenanting for the payment of the money on a specified day, which is subsequent to such winding-up, although there is no special provision for such immediate payment.[10]

(v) When Court May Order Execution of Contract After Winding-Up Order. In England the principle has been recognized that where a corporation has entered into an obligation and commenced its performance after the presentation of a petition for a winding-up, and the contract remains but partly performed when the winding-up order is made, it is within the power of the court to order the performanee of it to be completed.[11]

(vi) Effect Upon Unexpired Contracts to Render Services to Corporation. The effect of the dissolution of a corporation upon an unexpired contract for the rendition of services to it does not bar a recovery of damages for the breach of the contract for the unexpired portion of the term.[12]

(vii) Effect Upon Unexpired Leases Made to Corporation—(a) In General. Neither the receiver of a dissolved corporation appointed to wind up its affairs nor its assignee in bankruptcy[13] is bound to accept onerous property, because this would be in violation of the rights of creditors. He is not therefore bound, if to do so will be prejudicial to the interests of the creditors, to comply with the covenants of a lease made to the corporation by paying rent in full; but he may allow the lease to be forfeited, and allow the lessor to intervene pro interesse suo to recover his distributive share of any rents accruing prior to the date of the forfeiture.[14]

(b) Receiver May Take Possession of Leased Property and Pay Rent. If on the other hand it becomes clear that it will be profitable and advantageous to the insolvent estate in his hands to hold on to the lease, even for the purpose of selling it, where it is assignable, he may undoubtedly do this; and where he makes such an eleetion, the estate in his hands will become liable to pay to the lessor the full amount of the rents already accrued and thereafter accruing. In general the same result will follow where the court orders him to take possession of the leased property, by an order, the terms of which leave him no eleetion. But it seems that if he is appointed receiver of an estate where part of the estate consists of leased property, he has an election whether he will take possession of the leased property and assume the liability to pay rent according to the covenants of the lease; and the mere fact of his appointment does not render him liable so to pay rent, until he makes his election or does some act which in law would be equivalent to an election.[15]

10. Wallace v. Universal Automatic Mach. Co., [1894] 2 Ch. 547, 63 L. J. Ch. 598, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 852, 1 Manson 315, 7 Reports 316.

11. When therefore a customer of a trading company had bona fide ordered and paid for an invoice of goods, and the company had loaded the goods on a railway carriage marked to his address, and sent him the invoices after the presentation of a petition to wind up its affairs, but before the winding-up order had been made, it was held that the disposition of the property was complete before the winding-up order, and the goods were ordered to be delivered to the customer. In re Wiltshire Iron Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 443, 37 L. J. Ch. 554, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38, 16 Wkly. Rep. 682.

12. Rosenbaum v. U. S. Credit System Co., 61 N. J. L. 543, 40 Atl. 591 [reversing 60 N. J. L. 294, 37 Atl. 595, and disapproving People v. Globe Mut. L. Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. 174].

13. In re Merrifield, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 8,465. See also supra, VIII, J, 8.

14. This seems to the writer to be the result of the best adjudications on the subject. People v. National Trust Co., 82 N. Y. 283. Compare Gaither v. Stockbridge, 67 Md. 222, 9 Atl. 632, 10 Atl. 309; Hoyt v. Stoddard, 2 Allen (Mass.) 442.

15. Com. v. Franklin Ins. Co., 115 Mass. 278; Woodruff v. Erie R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609 [reversing 25 Hun (N. Y.) 246]; Moore v. Higgins, 2 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 298, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 895, 24 N. Y. St. 378, 20 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 123 [affirmed in 132 N. Y. 456, 30 N. E. 861, 44 N. Y. St. 608]; People v. Universal L. Ins. Co., 30 Hun (N. Y.) 142; In re Lundy Granite Co., L. R. 6 Ch. 462, 40 L. J. Ch. 588, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 922, 19 Wkly. Rep. 609; In re Oak Pits Colliery Co., 21 Ch. D. 322, 51 L. J. Ch. 768, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 7, 30 Wkly. Rep. 759; In re Brown, 18 Ch. D. 649; Turner v. Richardson, 7 East 335, 3 Smith K. B. 330. Compare Miltenber-

3. Effect of Dissolution Upon Actions — a. Destroys Its Power to Sue — (I) In General. By the principles of the common law, after a corporation has become effectually dissolved in any mode known to the law, its power to sue in its corporate name is effectually extinguished.[16] Thereafter it can maintain no action to enforce rights acquired during the life of its charter, unless its capacity in this respect has been continued by the provisions of its charter or otherwise by statute.[17]

(II) Abates All Actions Commenced in Its Name. By the principles of the common law, in the absence of any saving statute, the dissolution of a corpo-ger v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 106 U. S. 286, 1 S. Ct. 140, 27 L. ed. 117; In re Bridgewater Engineering Co., 12 Ch. D. 181, 48 L. J. Ch. 389. The English doctrine is thus expressed by Lord Justice Lindley, in giving the judgment of the English court of appeal: "When the liquidator retains the property for the purpose of advantageously disposing of it, or when he continues to use it, the rent of it ought to be regarded as a debt contracted for the purpose of winding up the company, and ought to be paid in full, like any other debt or expense properly incurred by the liquidator for the same purpose; and in such a case it appears to us that the rent for the whole period, during which the property is so retained or used, ought to be paid in full, without reference to the amount which could be realized by a distress." In re Oak Pits Colliery Co., 21 Ch. D. 322, 51 L. J. Ch. 768, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 7, 30 Wkly. Rep. 759. On the same principle where a receiver is appointed to take charge of a leasehold estate, which is sublet to various tenants, for the purpose of collecting the rents and profits, such a receiver being usually called "a receiver of rents and profits," his primary duty is to pay the head rent, or rent which is due from the debtor whose custody he has displaced, to the principal landlord; and he is bound to do this without any order of court to that effect, and without compelling the landlord to resort to any proceedings for the purpose of enforcing such payment. Balfe v. Blake, 1 Ir. Ch. 365; Walsh v. Walsh, 1 Ir. Eq. 209. This is obvious when it is considered that the very fact of his appointment, and of his taking possession of property which is thus liable to a head rent, is an affirmation of the covenant in the lease under which such head rent is due. For a clause in a lease which justifies the lessor in making a reëntry upon the lessee corporation going into liquidation see Horsey v. Steiger, [1898] 2 Q. B. 259, 67 L. J. Q. B. 747, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 116. As to the remedies of the landlord after the lessee corporation has gone into liquidation, his remedy by distress, his relief by filing an intervening petition, his right to priority in the distribution, etc. see 5 Thompson Corp. § 6999.

16. Alabama.— Saltmarsh v. Planters', etc., Bank, 17 Ala. 761.

Louisiana.— State Bank v. Wilson, 19 La. Ann. 1.

Maine.— Whitman v. Cox, 26 Me. 335; Read v. Frankfort Bank, 23 Me. 318.

North Carolina.— Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48, collection of a judgment recovered by bank cashier suing in behalf of the bank after its dissolution enjoined in equity. Compare Von Glahn v. De Rosset, 81 N. C. 467 [overruling in effect Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48].

Ohio.— Miami Exporting Co. v. Gano, 13 Ohio 269.

Texas.— In Texas a corporation which has been dissolved is without power to bring trespass to try title to land owned by it. Baldwin v. Johnson, 95 Tex. 85, 65 S. W. 171.

United States.— Greeley v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,748, 3 Story 657.

17. Alabama.—Saltmarsh v. Planters', etc., Bank, 14 Ala. 668, 17 Ala. 761.

Connecticut.— Wilcox v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 56 Conn. 468, 16 Atl. 244; National Pahquioque Bank v. Bethel First Nat. Bank, 36 Conn. 325, 4 Am. Rep. 80.

Kansas.—Krutz v. Paola Town Co., 20 Kan. 397.

Louisiana.—Planters Consol. Assoc. v. Claiborne, 7 La. Ann. 318.

Mississippi.— State Bank v. Wrenn, 3 Sm. & M. 791; Campbell v. Mississippi Union Bank, 6 How. 625.

New Hampshire.— Blake v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 39 N. H. 435.

New York.—Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384 [affirming 11 Hun 136].

Ohio.—Renick v. West Union Bank, 13 Ohio 298, 42 Am. Dec. 203; Miami Exporting Co. v. Gano, 13 Ohio 269.

Tennessee.—Ingraham v. Terry, 11 Humphr. 572.

Virginia.— Rider v. Nelson, etc., Union Factory, 7 Leigh 154, 30 Am. Dec. 495.

United States.— Pendleton v. Russell, 144 U. S. 640, 12 S. Ct. 743, 36 L. ed. 574; U. S. Bank v. McLaughlin, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 928, 2 Cranch C. C. 20; Smith v. Frye, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,049, 5 Cranch C. C. 515.

Statute construed.— That the common-law rule that an unqualified dissolution of a corporation extinguishes all rights of action in favor of or against it is not changed by Conn. Gen. Stat. § 1322, specifying the power of receivers, see Wilcox v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 56 Conn. 468, 16 Atl. 244. That in an action on a note by a corporation it is no defense that the charter fails to define the period of its duration see East Tennessee Iron Mfg. Co. v. Gaskell, 2 Lea (Tenn.) 742.

ration has the effect of abating all actions pending against the corporation at the date when the dissolution takes effect.[18]

(III) This Doctrine Not Applicable to De Facto Dissolutions. This doctrine is not applicable to those de facto dissolutions which have been frequently declared by the courts to exist, for the purpose of letting in the rights of creditors against shareholders. Thus the non-user by a corporation of its franchises, such as is evidenced by its cessation of active business, does not impair its capacity to prosecute suits.[19]

(IV) What Actions Abate and What Survive Under Statutes— (A) Follows Rule With Respect to Death of Natural Persons — (1) In General. Assuming that a statute exists preventing the dissolution of a corporation from putting an end to rights of action against it, the question arises whether those rights of action which, under the principles of the common law, abate on the death of a natural person, will abate on the dissolution of a corporation. It seems that this question must be answered in the affirmative.

(2) Action by Corporation For Libel. For instance it has been held that an action by a corporation for a libel, being for a mere personal tort, does not survive the dissolution of the corporation; and that such a right of action does not continue in its receiver, and this is so, although the libel may have resulted in pecuniary injury to the corporation, and may have diminished the amount of its estate which has passed into the hands of the receiver.[20]

(3) Action For Tort Continued Against Directors Under Statute. But an action brought against a corporation for a tort may be continued against its directors and trustees under a statute[21] providing that upon the dissolution of a

18. Eagle Chair Co. v. Kelsey, 23 Kan. 632; State Bank v. Wrenn, 3 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 791; May v. North Carolina State Bank, 2 Rob. (Va.) 56, 40 Am. Dec. 726.

Effects of this principle.— If for instance a corporation becomes extinct by the expiration of its charter, or by a decree of forfeiture, pending a suit at law by it for a corporate demand, and the fact be brought regularly to the notice of the court, the action must terminate, and any attachment made in aid of it must be dissolved; and if after judgment in favor of the corporation it becomes extinct no execution can regularly issue thereon in the corporate name; and if one be sued out it may be quashed on showing that the corporation had become extinct before it was sued out. May v. North Carolina State Bank, 2 Rob. (Va.) 56, 40 Am. Dec. 726. The effect of this principle was such that where, in an action by a corporation, plaintiff introduced in evidence its articles of incorporation, although no issue as to its corporate existence had been raised, and these articles showed that its charter had expired during the pendency of the action, it was held that the court could not render a judgment in favor of the corporation upon the verdict which had been returned by the jury. Eagle Chair Co. v. Kelsey, 23 Kan. 632. The doctrine of this section must be absolutely clear, so far as it relates to proceedings in courts which have no equity powers. In order to place it beyond the possibility of doubt, it is only necessary to consider that if, after the dissolution of the corporate plaintiff, the action should proceed to judgment, there would be no person capable in law of receiving the fruits of it. Decisions exist which have sometimes been quoted in opposition to this principle, but on examination it will be found that they are capable of being reconciled with it. Examine with reference to this statement the cases of Louisville v. U. S. Bank, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 138; Alexandria Bank v. Patton, 1 Rob. (Va.) 499. See also 5 Thompson Corp. p. 5308, note 2, where these cases are explained. In New York an action commenced by a corporation is not abated by a subsequent dissolution. New York Marbled Iron Works v. Smith, 4 Duer (N. Y.) 362, but this is in conformity with a saving statute. But in that state as everywhere else after a corporation has been dissolved no cause of action can arise in favor of it, because it is non-existent — "all is void," etc. Kinney v. Reid Ice Cream Co., 57 N. Y. App. Div. 206, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 325. It has been held that where a court has decreed the dissolution of a corporation and the appointment of a receiver; and the corporation has appealed from the portion of the decree appointing a receiver, but not from that ordering dissolution, its acquiescence in the decree of dissolution terminates its existence, so that it has no capacity to prosecute an appeal from the other provision of the decree, and such appeal will be dismissed. State v. Fidelity L. & T. Co., 113 Iowa 439, 85 N. W. 638.

19. State Nat. Bank v. Robidoux, 57 Mo. 446.

20. Milwaukee Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Sentinel Co., 81 Wis. 207, 51 N. W. 440, 15 L. R. A. 627.

21. 1 N. Y. Rev. Stat. p. 600, §§ 8, 9.

corporation its directors shall be trustees for its creditors and shareholders, with power to settle up its affairs and distribute its assets among its creditors first and its shareholders next.[22]

(4) Action For Specific Performance Abates. Necessarily the dissolution of a corporation puts an end to an action to compel the specific performance of its contract; but it is said that it has at the same time the effect of perfecting a right of action for its breach.[23]

b. Destroys Its Capacity to Be Sued — (I) In General. The complete dissolution of a corporation destroys its capacity to be sued at law because a judgment can no more be rendered against a dead corporation than against a dead man.[24]

(II) Cannot Thereafter Be Made Party Defendant. It cannot thereafter be made a party defendant in an action brought by a receiver to set aside a fraudulent conveyance of its assets.[25]

(III) Abates All Actions Pending Against It — (A) In General. The necessary effect of the dissolution of a corporation is to abate all actions pending against it at the time of its dissolution, in the absence of a saving statute providing for the continuation of such actions.[26]

22. Hepworth v. Union Ferry Co., 62 Hun (N. Y.) 257, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 692, 41 N. Y. St. 783. A private business corporation duly chartered and organized under the laws of West Virginia, which failed to wind up its business when the time fixed by its charter for its duration expired, but continued thereafter in its charter name to carry on its corporate business, may be sued in a court of law in its corporate name for a tort committed by it after its charter had expired. Miller v. Newburg Orrel Coal Co., 31 W. Va. 836, 8 S. E. 600, 13 Am. St. Rep. 903.

23. Schleider v. Dielman, 44 La. Ann. 462, 10 So. 934.

24. Georgia.— Carey v. Giles, 10 Ga. 9.

New York.— Bonaffe v. Fowler, 7 Paige 576.

West Virginia.— Styles v. Laurel Fork Oil, etc., Co., 45 W. Va. 374, 32 S. E. 227, 47 W. Va. 838, 35 S. E. 986, holding that there can be no suit against an expired domestic corporation except a suit in equity under a statute to wind up its affairs for the benefit of its creditors and shareholders.

Wisconsin.— Combes v. Keyes, 89 Wis. 297, 62 N. W. 89, 46 Am. St. Rep. 839, 27 L. R. A. 369, holding that a railroad company divested of all its property and franchises by foreclosure of mortgages is without capacity to be sued after a new corporation under legislative authority has acquired its property and franchises and operated its road for many years.

United States.— Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. 281, 8 L. ed. 945.

25. Carey v. Giles, 10 Ga. 9.

26. Alabama.— Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375.

Illinois.— Providence City Ins. Co. v. Commercial Bank, 68 Ill. 348.

Louisiana.— Munson v. Richardson, 11 Rob. 37.

Maine.— Merrill v. Suffolk Bank, 31 Me. 57, 50 Am. Dec. 649; Whitman v. Cox, 26 Me. 335; Read v. Frankfort Bank, 23 Me. 318.

Massachusetts.— Thornton v. Marginal Freight R. Co., 123 Mass. 32.

New York.— McCulloch v. Norwood, 58 N. Y. 562; Bonaffe v. Fowler, 7 Paige 576.

North Carolina.— Dobson v. Simonton, 86 N. C. 492.

Pennsylvania.— Farmers', etc., Bank v. Little, 8 Watts & S. 207, 42 Am. Dec. 293.

Texas.— Life Assoc. of America v. Goode, 71 Tex. 90, 8 S. W. 639.

United States.— Selma First Nat. Bank v. Colby, 21 Wall. 609, 22 L. ed. 687; Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. 281, 8 L. ed. 945; Greeley v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,748, 3 Story 657.

Illustrations.— Therefore a suit against a national bank to enforce the collection of a demand was abated by a decree of a district court of the United States, dissolving the corporation and forfeiting its franchises, rendered upon an information against the bank filed by the comptroller of the currency, there being no saving statute continuing rights of action. Selma First Nat. Bank v. Colby, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 609, 22 L. ed. 687. Under the statutory system existing in New York the court, on an application for a final order dissolving a corporation, must make a final order of dissolution if it appears that the corporation is insolvent, although upon such dissolution a pending action for personal injuries will abate. Re New York Oxygen Co., 33 N. Y. Suppl. 726, 67 N. Y. St. 549, 24 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 398. But under the system prevailing in New Jersey it seems that unless the terms of the order made by the court are tantamount to a dissolution of the corporation, a pending action against it may regularly proceed, notwithstanding the adjudication of insolvency and the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs, and notwithstanding the action is in the courts of another state than that of the home jurisdiction. Taylor v. Gray, 59 N. J. Eq. 621, 44 Atl. 668 [modifying (N. J. Ch. 1897) 38 Atl. 951]. In Texas a judgment for personal injuries against a railway company is not void because

(B) Contrary Decisions That Such Actions Do Not Abate. Decisions are sometimes met with which hold in general terms a doctrine opposed to that just stated. Thus according to an early decision in Missouri the expiration of the charter of a corporation does not affect legal proceedings already commenced against it.[27] It is enough to say of such decisions that unless they can be justified by some local statute they were badly decided.[28]

(C) Judgment Rendered Against Corporation After Dissolution Erroneous — (1) IN GENERAL. It follows that a judgment rendered against a corporation after it has been dissolved is voidable, in the sense that it will be reversed on error,[29] or that the execution of it will be perpetually enjoined.[30]

(2) DOCTRINE THAT SUCH JUDGMENTS ARE VOID — (a) STATEMENT OF DOCTRINE. Other authoritative courts have gone to the length of holding that a judgment rendered against the corporation after its dissolution, although in an action previously commenced, is not merely erroneous, but absolutely void.[31]

(b) MAY BE IMPEACHED COLLATERALLY BY CREDITORS. It follows that under this doctrine such a judgment may be impeached by any one entitled to participate in the distribution of the assets of the corporation. It has been held that it may be impeached by a creditor; for every creditor claiming payment out of the funds of an insolvent corporation occupies an adversary position toward every other claimant, and has a right to contest the validity of the claim preferred by any other, and to see that another claimant does not get a preference under the operation of a void judgment.[32]

it is rendered after a judgment dissolving the company in a suit by the state, where an appeal is pending from such judgment of dissolution. Giles v. Stanton, 86 Tex. 620, 26 S. W. 615 [reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 24 S. W. 556]. In Connecticut, where the receivers of a corporation rely upon its dissolution as a defense to an action against it, it has been held proper to allow them to appear and plead specially to the action. Morgan v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 73 Conn. 151, 46 Atl. 877.

27. Lindell v. Benton, 6 Mo. 361.

28. In Com. v. Huntingdon Bank, 2 Penr. & W. (Pa.) 438, it was held that a statute of the state exacting a duty of eight per cent upon the amount of dividends declared by the bank, and providing that upon the failure of the bank to pay the same to the state treasurer within a given period he should proclaim the charter of the bank forfeited, did not preclude the state from recovering the duty in an action, although the state treasurer had by proclamation forfeited the charter. But as there was no opinion the ground of the decision does not appear.

29. Musson v. Richardson, 11 Rob. (La.) 37; Rankin v. Sherwood, 33 Me. 509; Merrill v. Suffolk Bank, 31 Me. 57, 50 Am. Dec. 649 (reversed on error at the suit of a member whose property has been levied upon under an execution to enforce the judgment).

30. Rankin v. Sherwood, 33 Me. 509; Merrill v. Suffolk Bank, 31 Me. 57. But see Whitman v. Cox, 26 Me. 335.

31. Massachusetts.— Thornton v. Marginal Freight R. Co., 123 Mass. 32.

New York.—Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384; McCulloch v. Norwood, 58 N. Y. 562 [reversing 36 N. Y. Super. Ct. 180]; Re Norwood, 32 Hun 196. In New York a judgment rendered against a corporation whose charter has expired is void, unless the action be continued by order of the court under the New York Law of 1832, c. 295, to prevent abatement, etc. Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384. Therefore after the dissolution of a corporation its attorneys are without power to enter into a stipulation affecting any pending action. In re Norwood, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 196. A judgment recovered in a suit commenced against a corporation two months after its dissolution was held to be not even prima facie evidence of a debt due from the corporation at the time of its dissolution. Bonaffe v. Fowler, 7 Paige (N. Y.) 576.

North Carolina.— Dobson v. Simonton, 86 N. C. 492.

Pennsylvania.— McAnulty v. National L. Assoc., 6 Lack. Leg. N. 128.

Rhode Island.— Insurance Commissioner v. United F. Ins. Co., 22 R. I. 377, 48 Atl. 202, holding that an agreement by counsel of corporation, subsequent to its dissolution, that a judgment in a pending action may be rendered against it, is absolutely void.

Tennessee.— Grace v. Noel Mill Co., (Ch. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 246, holding that there can be no decree against dissolved corporation in a subsequent suit by shareholders against the purchasers of the corporate property, most of whom were shareholders in the dissolved corporation, to recover assessments fraudulently appropriated.

United States.— Pendleton v. Russell, 144 U. S. 640, 12 S. Ct. 743, 36 L. ed. 574.

32. Dobson v. Simonton, 86 N. C. 492. That such is the right of a creditor in the administration of an insolvent estate of a deceased person see Long v. Yanceyville Bank, 85 N. C. 354; Wordsworth v. Davis, 75 N. C. 159; Overman v. Grier, 70 N. C. 693. In Her-

(c) Other Consequences of This Doctrine. Relief cannot be given to a corporation against a decree in equity on the ground that it had no existence at the time when the decree was rendered, where it is not shown that its existence had not been so prolonged or revived that it would have a standing in court.[33] So, although a corporation may have been in the possession of its charter and franchises at the time of the rendition of a judgment against it, yet a scire facias cannot be maintained upon the judgment if, before the issue of the writ, its charter has been surrendered or forfeited.[34]

(d) Creditors May Nevertheless Enforce Their Claims Against Corporate Assets. Creditors may, however, enforce their claims against any property belonging to the corporation, which has not passed into the hands of bona fide purchasers, but is still held in trust for the company or for its shareholders, at the time of its dissolution, in any mode permitted by the local laws.[35]

(e) Shareholders May Sue to Wind Up. Under statutory systems shareholders also have a standing to sue in equity to wind up the affairs of the corporation.[36]

(f) And Corporation May Prevent Consequences of Dissolution by Making Assignment For Creditors. It must also be kept in mind that it is within the power of every business corporation to prevent the results which the rules of the common law attach to a dissolution, by making an assignment of all its property, prior to its dissolution in trust for the benefit of its creditors.[37]

(iv) Dissolves All Attachments Levied on Its Property. The necessary effect of the de jure dissolution of a corporation is that it dissolves all attachments levied on its property,[38] and destroys the attachment lien.[39]

(v) De Facto Dissolutions Do Not Destroy Capacity to Be Sued. It must be kept in mind that this rule is not applicable to those de facto dissolutions which are frequently declared for the purpose of letting in the rights of creditors against shareholders; but the mere insolvency of a corporation, rendering it incapable of carrying on the business for which it was created, never operated to prevent the prosecution of suits against it.[40]

c. Dissolution Has No Effect Upon Proceedings to Enforce Liens Upon Corporate Property — (i) Does Not Operate to Divest Vested Rights. The dissolution of a corporation does not operate to divest rights which have become vested before the dissolution. It does not for example affect a valid conveyance made prior to the dissolution; but with respect to the property thus conveyed no title will pass in the event of dissolution to the person who otherwise might have been entitled to take in that event.[41]

(ii) Does Not Oust Court of Bankruptcy of Jurisdiction. So the dissolution of a corporation does not oust the court of bankruptcy of a jurisdiction previously obtained over its property, a proceeding in bankruptcy being a proceeding in rem.[42]

vey v. Edmunds, 68 N. C. 243, an outside creditor of defendant's intestate was permitted to assail the integrity of a judgment, for the reason that he was interested in the administration of the assets and in preventing the priority attempted to be given to plaintiff therein.

33. Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funck, 18 Iowa 469.

34. Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 281, 8 L. ed. 945.

35. Providence City Ins. Co. v. Commercial Bank, 68 Ill. 348; Thornton v. Marginal Freight R. Co., 123 Mass. 32; Lindell v. Benton, 6 Mo. 361; Habich v. Folger, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 22 L. ed. 307; Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 281, 286, 8 L. ed. 945 (per Story, J.).

36. Krutz v. Paola Town Co., 20 Kan. 397. See supra, XI, D, 1, a et seq.; XXI, F, 2, b, (I) et seq.

37. Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384 [affirming 11 Hun (N. Y.) 136]. See supra, XX, A, 1. a.

38. Morgan v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 73 Conn. 151, 46 Atl. 877; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Little, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 207, 42 Am. Dec. 293; Walters v. Western, etc., R. Co., 69 Fed. 679.

39. Wilcox v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 56 Conn. 468, 16 Atl. 244.

40. Providence City Ins. Co. v. Commercial Bank, 68 Ill. 348.

41. Methodist Protestant Church v. Johnson, 22 Nebr. 163, 34 N. W. 221.

42. Platt v. Archer, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,213, 9 Blatchf. 559, 6 Nat. Bankr. Rep. 465, per Blatchford, District Judge.

(III) Does Not Oust Trustees in Mortgage of Right to Take Possession and Carry On Business. So the right of trustees in a mortgage of its property, executed by a corporation, to take possession and control of the property, and carry on the business for which the property was used, is such a right or interest in the property as survives a voluntary dissolution of the corporation. But where a proceeding has been instituted, under a statute, by shareholders, to secure a voluntary dissolution of the corporation, this will exclude an independent proceeding to foreclose such a mortgage, and will remit the mortgagees to the remedy of filing their claim in the dissolution proceeding.[43] Especially is it true that the voluntary action of the shareholders in effecting a dissolution of the corporation, under the provisions of a statute, cannot be allowed to have such an effect; since this would impair the obligation of an existing contract. The court will in such a case direct the execution of the power contained in the mortgage.[44]

4. Effect of De Facto Dissolutions — a. Dissolution by Reason of Non-User Not Pleadable. The dissolution which alone is pleadable under the foregoing principles is an absolute, unqualified dissolution, such as has been announced by a competent judicial sentence, or such as needs no judicial sentence to announce the fact. The foregoing principles have no application to a dissolution by the mere non-user of the franchises of the plaintiff corporation; for although such non-user might be a ground upon which the state could vacate the franchises of the corporation, yet this result cannot be accomplished by private individuals in a collateral way, by way of defense to an action brought by the corporation.[45] The very fact of bringing the action is a revival of the corporation if dormant, and a user of its franchises if they have fallen into a state of non-user. Accordingly where trustees of a religious corporation bring an action colore officii an objection that they were not regularly elected as such trustees cannot be sustained, unless it be shown that proceedings have been instituted against them by the government and carried to judgment of ouster.[46]

b. Nor Is Mere Insolvency. From the foregoing principles it follows that, in an action by a corporation against an individual, evidence that the corporation has become insolvent is inadmissible; for although such insolvency might be a ground for adjudging the corporate rights forfeited in proceedings against the corporation for that express purpose, yet it cannot be inquired into collaterally in an action brought by the corporation.[47] If therefore an action has been brought against a corporation to enforce an obligation entered into by it, plaintiff has the right to have the corporation retained as defendant, notwithstanding it may have become insolvent or may have disposed of its property in such a manner as to render the recovery of the judgment futile, and a motion to substitute an assignee for the corporation will be properly denied unless assented to by plaintiff.[48]

43. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375.

44. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375; Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funck, 18 Iowa 469.

45. Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457. See also Vernon Soc. v. Hills, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 23, 16 Am. Dec. 429; Silver Lake Bank v. North, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 370.

46. Vernon Soc. v. Hills, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 23, 16 Am. Dec. 429. See also the same principle in Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656; Banks v. Poitiaux, 3 Rand. (Va.) 136, 15 Am. Dec. 706. Upon the same principle it is held that the failure of a railroad company to commence the construction of its road within the time limited by its charter does not per se work a forfeiture of its franchises without judicial determination, unless it is apparent from the language of the statute that the legislature intended that the statute should be self-executing without the aid of any judicial sentence. See supra, XXI, A, 6, a; In re Brooklyn El. R. Co., 11 N. Y. Suppl. 161, 32 N. Y. St. 1065. And even where there has been an absolute dissolution, such franchises as exist in perpetuity and as have been assigned by mortgage with the assent, express or implied, of the legislature, if in the nature of real property, survive according to one view and exist in perpetuity. People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255.

47. Cahill v. Kalamazoo Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 124, 43 Am. Dec. 457, opinion by Finch, J.

48. Hood v. California Wine Co., 4 Wash. 88, 29 Pac. 768.

5. Effect of Dissolution After Judgment — a. No Execution Can Issue in Corporate Name — (I) In General. If a corporation becomes dissolved after the recovery of a judgment by it, no execution can issue thereon in its name, because there is no existent person entitled to receive the proceeds; but if an execution is sued out on such a judgment, it may be quashed on showing that the corporation had become extinct before it was sued out.[49]

(II) Collection of Such Judgment Enjoined. In the same semibarbarous era it was held that where a judgment has been recovered upon a promissory note by the legal payee thereof, if the note really belongs to a corporation, which has become defunct by the expiration of its charter, equity will enjoin the collection of the judgment.[50]

b. Contra, That Property of Corporation May Be Sold on Execution Under Judgment Obtained Against It Before Forfeiture. Opposed to this is the doctrine that the forfeiture of the charter of a corporation will not prevent the sale of its property under execution upon a judgment which had been obtained against it before the forfeiture.[51] In New York the annulment of the charter of a corporation for the non-payment of taxes will not abate an action properly commenced in the name of the corporation, and prosecuted to judgment before a referee previously to the annulment.[52]

6. Modern Doctrine That Obligations of Corporations Survive Against Their Assets — a. Doctrine Stated. The doctrine of the ancient common law that the debts of a corporation, and the remedies furnished by that law for the collection of the same, die and abate with the corporation, has been repudiated by modern American courts as odious to justice;[53] and the sound and just doctrine now is that the death of a corporation no more impairs the obligation of its contracts than does the death of a natural person, but that its assets remain a trust fund or pledge for the payment of its creditors and shareholders, and that a court of equity will lay hold of those assets by its receiver or otherwise and see that they are duly collected and justly applied.[54] The obligation of such contracts survives, except such as in the nature of the case are incapable of specific performance; and the creditor may still enforce his demands against any property belonging to the corporation, which has not passed into the hands of a bona fide purchaser.[55]

b. Obligations Survive Against Shareholders to Extent of What Is Due Upon Their Shares. Under the operation of the modern doctrine as already seen[56] if the shareholders of the corporation have not paid their subscriptions according to the terms of their contract, or if the capital stock and property of the corporation have been divided among them, leaving its debts unpaid, every shareholder

49. May v. North Carolina Bank, 2 Rob. (Va.) 56, 40 Am. Dec. 726.

50. Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48. See supra, XXI, G, 3, a, (I).

51. Boyd v. Hankinson, 92 Fed. 49, 34 C. C. A. 197 [reversing 83 Fed. 876].

52. Pyro-Gravure Co. v. Staber, 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 658, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 520.

53. Nevitt v. Port Gibson Bank, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 513, 520 (opinion by ex-Chancellor Kent as counsel); Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 493, 52 Am. Dec. 412 (quoting with approval the opinion of ex-Chancellor Kent just referred to).

54. 2 Kent Comm. 307 note.

55. Connecticut.—National Pahquioque Bank v. Bethel First Nat. Bank, 36 Conn. 325, 4 Am. Rep. 80.

Florida.— Howe v. Robinson, 20 Fla. 352.

Georgia.— Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 52 Am. Dec. 412.

Illinois.— Providence City Ins. Co. v. Commercial Bank, 68 Ill. 348; Tarbell v. Page, 24 Ill. 46.

Iowa.— Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funck, 18 Iowa 469.

Mississippi.— Nevitt v. Port Gibson Bank, 6 Sm. & M. 513.

Missouri.— McCoy v. Farmer, 65 Mo. 244; Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63.

New York.— Tinkham v. Borst, 31 Barb. 407; Hastings v. Drew, 50 How. Pr. 254.

North Carolina.— Von Glahn v. De Rosset, 81 N. C. 467.

Pennsylvania.— Shamokin Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Malone, 85 Pa. St. 25.

United States.— Bacon v. Robertson, 18 How. 480, 15 L. ed. 499; Curran v. Arkansas, 15 How. 304, 14 L. ed. 705; Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. 281, 8 L. ed. 945; Boyd v. Hankinson, 92 Fed. 49, 34 C. C. A. 197 [reversing 83 Fed. 876] (forfeiture of charter of a corporation does not prevent suits of its creditors and shareholders to preserve its assets for their benefit); Platt v. Archer, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,213, 9 Blatchf. 559.

56. See supra, VIII, B, 1 et seq.

is deemed to hold a portion of the assets of the corporation; and equity will compel him to contribute to discharge its debts pro rata out of the funds of the corporation which in theory of equity are in his hands.[57]

c. Effect of Doctrine That Obligations of Corporation Survive Against Its Assets Upon Constitutionality of Statutes. From this doctrine it follows that a legislative act dissolving a corporation and transferring its franchises to another is not unconstitutional, since it does not impair the obligation of its contracts.[58] So it is a sound view that a man has no constitutional right not to pay his debts;[59] that an act of the legislature compelling him so to do does not impair the obligation of his contracts with his creditors, but gives validity to them; and hence that a statute providing that when a judgment is entered against an incorporated bank, ousting it of its franchises, its debtors shall not thereby be released from their debts and liabilities, and prescribing a mode for collecting such debts and enforcing such liabilities, is a valid exercise of legislative power.[60] A statute providing for a distribution among creditors of the property of corporations whose charters had become forfeited was likewise valid.[61] On the other hand a law distributing the property of an insolvent trading or banking corporation among its shareholders, or giving it to strangers, or seizing it to the use of the state, would as clearly impair the obligation of its contracts as a law giving to the heirs the personal effects of a deceased natural person would impair the obligation of his contracts.[62]

d. Operation of This Doctrine Where Corporation Abandons Its Franchises. It follows that a corporation cannot by dissolving itself defeat the rights of its creditors; but if its officers die, resign, or refuse to act, and its shareholders neglect or refuse to appoint others in their place, a court of equity, which never allows a trust to fail for want of a trustee, will interfere and appoint a receiver or manager ad interim for the purpose of winding up and putting an end to the concern.[63] On the other hand, in conformity with a principle already stated,[64] the mere non-user by a corporation of its franchises does not of itself disable it from resuming them so as to bring actions to enforce its obligations; but so long as its organization remains it may collect its dues and pay its debts, although the undertaking for which it was created has been abandoned.[65] The modern doctrine may perhaps be summed up in the language of the supreme court of errors of Connecticut: "For the protection of creditors it is also a well-settled rule that a dissolution of a corporation by winding up, or other act of its stockholders,

57. Hastings v. Drew, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 254. The extent of the jurisdiction of the court winding up the affairs of a corporation is said to be to ascertain the amount of corporate assets and liabilities and to declare the necessity for making an assessment upon the shareholders. It has no authority to render a personal judgment against one of the shareholders, who is not a party to the winding-up proceeding by service of process or voluntary appearance; nor any authority to adjudicate the fact of membership in the corporation. Commonwealth Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Hayden, 61 Nebr. 454, 85 N. W. 443 [setting aside on rehearing decision in 60 Nebr. 636, 83 N. W. 922, 83 Am. St. Rep. 545]. This proposition may well be challenged.

58. Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 281, 8 L. ed. 945; Platt v. Archer, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,213, 9 Blatchf. 559.

59. Harris v. Glenn, 56 Ga. 94; Sparger v. Cumpton, 54 Ga. 355.

60. Nevitt v. Port Gibson Bank, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 513.

61. Mudge v. Commissioners of Exch., etc., Co., 10 Rob. (La.) 460.

62. Curran v. Arkansas, 15 How. (U. S.) 304, 312, 4 L. ed. 705, per Curtis, J.

63. Curry v. Woodward, 53 Ala. 371; Brown v. Union Ins. Co., 3 La. Ann. 177, 182. In Carlen v. Drury, 1 Ves. & B. 154, 158, 12 Rev. Rep. 203, which involved the question of the neglect of the managers of the association of the Bankside Brewery to act, the lord chancellor said: "This court is not to be required on every Occasion to take the Management of every Playhouse and Brewhouse in the Kingdom: but, if the Case justified the Interference of the Court it may appoint a Manager in the Interim, for the Purpose of winding up, and putting an End to, the Concern . . . But there must be a positive Necessity for the Interference of the Court, arising from the Refusal or Neglect of the Committee to act." See also Knowlton v. Ackley, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 93.

64. See supra, XXI, D, 2, a.

65. Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203.

or by limitation, or in any mode except legislative repeal or judicial decree, does not affect the rights of creditors; and that as to them, and their right to enforce their claims, or determine their validity, by suit or otherwise, the corporation will be deemed to continue in existence."[66]

7. Statutes Abrogating Common-Law Rule That Debts Due by or to Corporation Die With It — a. In General. The bald injustice of the rule of the ancient common law that the obligations of a corporation die with it led to the enactment of statutes abolishing the rule, and providing for the survival of such debts, and for the continuation of the right of action to enforce them.

b. Constitutionality of These Statutes. On the one hand it was held that such a statute would be unconstitutional, in so far as it attempted to revive debts which had become extinguished, under the principles of the common law, before the enactment of the statute;[67] although it was not denied that the legislature might preserve the debts from extinction by an appropriate statute enacted before they became extinct.[68] On the other hand it was held that where a statute had been passed saving the rights of creditors of dissolved corporations and appointing trustees to collect the assets of such corporations and administer them in the payment of their debts, a subsequent statute cutting down the powers of the trustees to the substantial prejudice of the creditors of the bank by requiring them to sell the assets for cash was unconstitutional.[69]

c. These Statutes Liberally Construed. These statutes, being plainly remedial, have been liberally construed.[70]

d. Whether Construed as Prescribing an Exclusive Remedy — (i) In General. Whether such a statute will be construed as prescribing the remedy which is to be exclusive of all others, and which ousts the ordinary jurisdiction of courts of equity, is a more difficult question. If such a statute prescribes a complete system of procedure for the winding-up of insolvent corporations, it may reasonably be concluded that the purpose of the legislature was to establish a course of procedure which should be exclusive, just as the statutory system enacted in some of the states for administering the estates of deceased persons is held to be exclusive of the jurisdiction formerly exercised by courts of equity upon that subject. In North Carolina it has been held that the provisions of the code of that state[71] continuing the existence of defunct corporations for three years after the expiration of their charters, for the purpose of bringing and defending suits and closing their general business, have the effect of ousting the former jurisdiction of courts of equity to accomplish the same result by the appointment of a receiver upon a creditors' bill. The conclusion was that a failure to proceed within the period of three years pointed out by the statute would be a complete defense, 66. National Pahquioque Bank v. Bethel First Nat. Bank, 36 Conn. 325, 334, 4 Am. Rep. 80.

67. Commercial Bank v. Lockwood, 2 Harr. (Del.) 8.

68. Robinson v. Lane, 19 Ga. 337.

69. Coulter v. Robertson, 24 Miss. 278, 57 Am. Dec. 168; Commercial Bank v. Chambers, 8 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 9. That the Mississippi act of 1843, saving the rights of creditors after dissolution, did not apply to banks dissolved by limitation of their charters was held in State Bank v. Duncan, 56 Miss. 166. That a statute providing that suits against corporations shall not abate by expiration of their charters, but that the provision shall not apply "to any corporation the affairs of which are being wound up by order of any court," etc. (Ill. Sess. Laws (1869), p. 1, § 4), excepts only corporations which were being wound up at the time when the act took effect, and not all those in course of being wound up when a question of abatement might arise, see Ramsey v. Peoria M. & F. Ins. Co., 55 Ill. 311. A statute of West Virginia providing that "when a corporation shall expire or be dissolved, . . . suits may be brought, continued or defended . . . in the corporate name, in like manner . . . as before such dissolution or expiration" (W. Va. Code, c. 53, § 59), applies to a dissolution by forfeiture or charter as well as to voluntary dissolutions and those decreed by equity. Greenbrier Lumber Co. v. Ward, 30 W. Va. 43, 3 S. E. 227.

70. Franklin Bank v. Cooper, 36 Me. 179; Michigan State Bank v. Gardner, 15 Gray (Mass.) 362; Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 63.

71. N. C. Rev. Code, c. 26, §§ 5, 6.

not only to the corporation, but to its shareholders, who by its charter were individually liable in the event of its insolvency.[72] Such a statute does not create a new right and give a remedy for that right, but merely gives a remedy to effectuate a right already existing under the general principles of law. It is not a sound view that it creates a remedy which is exclusive and which puts an end to the ordinary remedy in equity, unless it says so in express terms, or by necessary implication; and it is scarcely necessary to add that if it does not furnish an adequate remedy it does not oust the ordinary remedy in equity.[73]

(II) When Court of Equity Will Assist Statute. It the statute does not afford an adequate remedy to the creditor, a court of equity will assist him, in furtherance of the purpose and policy of the statute. It was so held under the provisions of the Mississippi act of 1843, which provided that after a judgment of forfeiture the debts due the bank should not be extinguished, but that a trustee should be appointed to collect them and apply the proceeds to the payment of the debts of the bank.[74]

e. Whether Apply in Case of Voluntary Dissolutions. Some of these statutes have been held not to apply in the case of proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of corporations.[75]

8. Statutes Continuing Existence of Corporation For Purpose of Suing and Being Sued — a. Description of These Statutes. A class of statutes of the kind under consideration merely enacts, that, for the purpose of winding up the concerns of a corporation after the expiration of its charter, or after it has otherwise been dissolved, its corporate powers shall continue, to the extent of prosecuting and defending actions, for a stated period, in some cases three years[76] and in some cases five years.[77]

b. Their Construction — (I) When Word "May" to Read "Must" or "Shall." It has been held that the rule which obtains in the construction of statutes that the word "may" in a statute is to be made to read "must" or "shall," where the public interest and rights are concerned, and where the public or third persons have a claim de jure that the power permitted by the statute shall be exercised, applies to a statute of the kind under consideration.[78]

(II) Judgment Rendered After Expiration of Statutory Period Void — (A) In General. A judgment rendered against the corporation after the period of limitation created by the statute has expired is void.[79]

(B) Except Where Period of Limitation Is Referred to Commencement of Action, and Not to Judgment. But in many cases the period of limitation fixed

72. Von Glahn v. De Rosset, 81 N. C. 467.

73. Shamokin Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Malone, 85 Pa. St. 25.

74. Coulter v. Robertson, 24 Miss. 278, 57 Am. Dec. 168; Commercial Bank v. Chambers, 8 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 9.

75. Thus the continuation of the existence of corporations "dissolved by forfeiture or any other cause," provided for by Ala. Code, § 1690, does not apply to corporations dissolved by the voluntary act of the owners of three fourths of the stock, under sections 1683–1689, which supply a complete scheme or system of procedure for winding up its affairs. Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238, 11 So. 428, 17 L. R. A. 375. So the North Carolina statute (N. C. Rev. Code, § 667 et seq.), providing that corporations whose charters shall have expired or been annulled shall continue as bodies corporate for three years for the purpose of winding up their business, and that receivers shall be appointed to settle their affairs, etc., relates only to cases where the charters of corporations expire by limitation or are annulled by forfeiture or otherwise, and does not apply to the case where a building and loan association has been wound up by the voluntary action of its members, so as to render a judgment void which has been recovered against the corporation after the lapse of three years. Heggie v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 107 N. C. 581, 12 S. E. 275. Compare Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 36 Am. Dec. 48.

76. Such as Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 68, §§ 36, 37. Thornton v. Marginal Freight R. Co., 123 Mass. 32. See further as to the construction of such statutes Wright v. Rogers, 26 Ind. 218; Cunningham v. Clark, 24 Ind. 7; Herron v. Vance, 17 Ind. 595; Blake v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 39 N. H. 435; Ferguson v. Miners', etc., Bank, 3 Sneed (Tenn.) 609.

77. Such as Ala. Rev. Code, § 1775. Tuskaloosa Scientific Assoc. v. Green, 48 Ala. 346.

78. Blake v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 39 N. H. 435.

79. Thornton v. Marginal Freight R. Co., 123 Mass. 32.

by such statutes has been construed as referring to the time of the commencement of the action against the corporation and not to the date of the judgment rendered against it in such action.[80]

(III) When Receiver to Be Made Party. Where a statute provides that upon the dissolution of a corporation suits against it shall not abate, the suit can be continued only upon the terms prescribed in the statute. The proper practice clearly is for plaintiff to satisfy the court that in the suit as continued the proper parties will be represented. A suit prosecuted against the defunct corporation by name will not be binding upon the receiver or other person having charge of the assets of the corporation, unless he is substituted for the corporation as defendant.[81]

c. What Powers May Be Exercised During Period of Continuance — (I) In General. Unless the statute is so expressed as to leave no room for construction upon this point, the implication necessarily is that during the period to which the existence of the corporation is thus extended no powers can be exercised by it or in its name, except such as may be necessary for the winding-up of its affairs.

(II) When Notes May Be Renewed. Where the statute continued the corporate capacity of a bank for three years from its date, with all the powers necessary for collecting the debts then due to the corporation, for selling and conveying its property and finally closing its concerns, it was held that the corporation had authority within that period to take a new note in part payment or renewal

80. Thus where a statute applicable to a banking corporation extended the existence of the corporation during the period of two years and authorized the trustees to institute actions in its name at any time within that period, and to prosecute them to final judgment, it was held that such action, commenced within the prescribed period, might be prosecuted after the period had expired. Franklin Bank v. Cooper, 36 Me. 179. Where the charter of a bank provided that the bank should continue in existence until Jan. 1, 1859, but contained a proviso that all banking powers should cease after Jan. 1, 1857, "except those incidental and necessary to collect and close up its business," and an action of ejectment was brought against the bank during the period of its existence, and such proceedings were had therein that the action was, in the year 1862, pending in the supreme court of the United States on a writ of error, a motion to dismiss the writ was refused, on the ground that its prosecution belonged to those "necessary and incidental powers to collect and close up its business" which were saved by the statute. Pomeroy v. Indiana Bank, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 23, 17 L. ed. 500. So where a statute of Michigan provided that all corporations whose charters expired by their own limitation should continue to be bodies corporate for three years, for the purpose of prosecuting and defending suits by or against them, and that any suit pending in favor of a corporation at the time of its dissolution should not be thereby abated, but might be prosecuted by the trustees on whom its estate should have devolved, in its or their name, under the direction of the court in which the suit might be pending; and shortly before the end of the three years next after the expiration of its charter a corporation, established by the laws of Michigan, sold and assigned to an individual all its property and claims, upon his giving bond to pay its debts and do certain other things, it was held that an action commenced in Massachusetts prior to the expiration of the charter, by the assignee, in the name of the corporation, might be prosecuted to judgment after the expiration of the three years. Michigan State Bank v. Gardner, 15 Gray (Mass.) 362. This is in accordance with the construction put by the supreme court of Michigan upon the statute, which was that the purpose of the statute was not to limit but to enlarge the corporate privileges so that the corporation might continue business throughout the whole charter period; for which reason it was held that it might begin legal proceedings in its own name at any time within three years after the expiration of its franchises and continue such proceedings to a close, unless its powers should be superseded by the appointment of trustees or receivers. Bewick v. Alpena Imp. Harbor Co., 39 Mich. 700. Under the statute of Illinois a corporation against which suit has been brought within the two years granted by the statute may sue out a writ of error in such cause after the two years have expired. Singer, etc., Stone Co. v. Hutchinson, 176 Ill. 48, 51 N. E. 622 [reversing 72 Ill. App. 366]. Application of statutes of Ohio, with the conclusion that an incorporated lodge of Odd Fellows whose charter has expired by limitation may be sued as a corporation, where it still continues to exercise corporate powers as if its charter had not expired. Meyers v. Lucas, 16 Ohio Cir. Ct. 545, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 431.

81. McCulloch v. Norwood, 58 N. Y. 562.

of an old one, although the indorsers on the new note were not the same as those upon the old note.[82]

(III) Assign and Indorse Notes to Trustees Appointed by It to Wind Up Its Affairs. Again, where the statute provided that corporations should be continued bodies corporate for the term of three years after the expiration of their charters, for the purpose of settling their business, but not for the purpose of continuing it, it was held that a banking corporation was authorized, immediately before the expiration of the term of extension so limited, to indorse notes held by it to trustees appointed by it to wind up its affairs, on whom it had purported to confer, in the instrument of appointment, all of its powers. The reasoning of the court was that the notes not having been collected before the expiration of the statutory period of extension, the bank had a clear right to sell them or to dispose of them in any other reasonable and proper manner so as to wind up its concerns. As it had a right to dispose of the notes to the trustees, it was no concern of the obligors therein how the money thus collected was to be disposed of.[83] This, it will be perceived, is merely an extension — or rather an application — of the settled rule of law, already considered,[84] that a corporation has the power to assign or otherwise dispose of its assets for the payment of its debts.

d. Effect of Such Statutes Upon Remedies of Creditors Against Shareholders. Where another applicatory statute prescribes that those who are shareholders when the charter of a corporation expires shall be liable to its creditors, the charter is deemed to expire, in the case of a legislative repeal, when the repealing act takes effect, and not at the expiration of the three years permitted by such statute for the winding-up of its concerns. The reason is that the effect of the statute prolonging the existence of the corporation is merely to prolong its existence for the purpose of an administration of its estate; and that all rights in respect of its property become fixed at the date of its dissolution, although it is endowed by the statute with a nominal existence for the purpose of closing its concerns in the most convenient manner, and especially of compelling it to execute its contracts and discharge its obligations and liabilities.[85]

e. Such Statutes Applicable to Foreign Corporations. It has been held that such a statute applies to suits brought in the state enacting it, in the name of a corporation organized and dissolved in another state, by its assignees in insolvency appointed in such other state.[86] But another court has held that such a provision of the statute law of the state creating the corporation is not operative outside of that state, but that the mode of continuing an action against a foreign corporation after its dissolution is a matter of practice governed by the law of the state of the forum.[87]

9. Statutes Continuing Directors and Managers as Trustees to Wind Up — a. Description of These Statutes. Other states have enacted statutes which in substance provide that on the dissolution of a corporation the directors or managers of its affairs at that time shall be trustees of its creditors and shareholders, for the purpose of winding up its affairs.[88]

b. General Statement of Effect of Such Statutes. Such statutes have the necessary effect of abrogating the rule of the common law that all debts due the corporation are extinguished; but they merely transfer the right of action to recover them from the corporation to the statutory trustees.[89]

82. Mariners' Bank v. Sewall, 50 Me. 220.
83. Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 63.
84. See supra, XX, A, 1, a.
85. Crease v. Babcock, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 334, 34 Am. Dec. 61 [citing Foster v. Essex Bank, 16 Mass. 245, 8 Am. Dec. 135].
86. Stetson v. New Orleans City Bank, 2 Ohio St. 167 [reaffirmed in 12 Ohio St. 577].
87. Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384.
88. 1 Wagner Stat. Mo. p. 293, § 21; 1 Mo. Rev. Stat. (1879), § 744; 1 Mo. Rev. Stat. (1889), § 2513; N. Y. Rev. Stat. 600, § 9.
89. McCoy v. Farmer, 65 Mo. 244. That the statute of jeofails cures the fault of bringing an action in the corporate name after the statutory period of limitation instead of bringing it in the name of the directors as

c. To What Extent Arrest Dissolution of Corporation. But the corporation itself may be none the less dissolved. Such a statute, unless it expresses something more than above indicated, does not have the effect of continuing the existence of the corporation, as cestui que trust or otherwise, so as to render it capable of defending actions in its corporate name after its charter has expired.[90]

d. Do Not Arrest Running of Statute of Limitations. The effect of a statute of this kind does not arrest the running of the statute of limitations against any demand accruing to the corporation, upon which the directors as trustees acquire a right of action. A trust which has devolved upon them by the operation of the statute is not such a trust as arrests the running of the statute of limitations, such as those trusts which are within the exclusive jurisdiction of equity, arising in cases of partnership, agency, and the like.[91]

e. Do Not Prevent Assignments For Creditors. A statute providing that a corporation whose charter has been declared forfeited or annulled may have three years within which to settle its affairs does not prevent a corporation whose charter has been declared forfeited from transferring thereafter, and before the expiration of three years, for the benefit of its creditors, its property.[92]

f. Do Not Abate Actions Against Directors For Malfeasance. Where a statute gives an action against the directors of a corporation for malfeasance in office, as for instance where it makes them personally liable for debts contracted beyond a certain prescribed limit,[93] the expiration of the charter by its own limitation while such an action is pending does not have the effect of abating it.[94] But a dissolution of the corporation will have the effect of exonerating the directors as to any future liability.[95]

10. When Dissolution of Corporation Takes Effect — a. When Charter Is Repealed. If the charter of a corporation is repealed by a valid act of the legislature, its dissolution takes effect at the time when the repealing act takes effect, and is not postponed by a statute continuing the corporate faculties for three years for the purpose of winding up its affairs.[96]

b. In Case of Statutory Winding-Up by Means of Receiver — (i) In General. Where a statute provides for the winding-up of a business corporation by means of a receiver, it has been held that suits may be continued against it and prosecuted to judgment until a decree of dissolution has been entered, unless such actions are restrained by injunction.[97]

(ii) Invalidity of Confession of Judgment After Issuing of Order to Show Cause. But this is not inconsistent with the conclusion that a judgment confessed by a corporation, after the issuing of an order requiring all persons interested to show cause why it should not be dissolved, is void, whether confessed on a bond and warrant of attorney or after the regular commencement of a suit.[98]

(iii) Judgment Recovered After Filing of Petition For Dissolution Ineffectual. It has been held that a creditor who recovers judgment against an insolvent corporation, after the filing of a petition for a dissolution of the corporation, although before the appointment of a receiver, acquires no lien thereby.[99] trustees was held in Kansas City Hotel Co v. Sauer, 65 Mo. 279.

90. Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384.

91. Landis v. Saxton, 105 Mo. 486, 16 S. W. 912, 24 Am. St. Rep. 403.

92. Sage v. Crowley, 83 Minn. 314, 86 N. W. 409, where land had been granted to a railroad by congress.

93. See supra, IX, P, 7, a et seq.

94. Moultrie v. Smiley, 16 Ga. 289.

95. Thus in New York, if a receiver of a manufacturing company is appointed before the expiration of the time allowed the trustees for making their report, the corporation is so far dissolved that the trustees will not be liable to the penalty of the General Manufacturing Act (see supra, IX, P, 5, g et seq.) for failing to make such a report. Huguenot Nat. Bank v. Studwell, 74 N. Y. 621. Compare People v. Cohocton Stone Road, 25 Hun (N. Y.) 13.

96. Crease v. Babcock, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 334, 34 Am. Dec. 61.

97. Kincaid v. Dwinelle, 59 N. Y. 548.

98. Matter of Waterbury, 8 Paige (N. Y.) 380.

99. Matter of Eagle Iron Works, 3 Edw. (N. Y.) 385.

c. Doctrine That Forfeiture Takes Effect From Commission of Act but Becomes Effectual Only From Date of Sentence. It has also been reasoned that the forfeiture of the franchises of a corporation, declared by judicial sentence, is incurred from the date of the commission of the act for which the judgment of forfeiture is rendered; but it is said in the next breath that notwithstanding this the corporation continues a corporation de facto, so as to render its transactions valid, until the judgment of forfeiture is actually pronounced.[1]

11. Effect of Dissolution Upon Property of Corporation — a. In General. By the principles of the ancient common law the effect of a dissolution of the corporation upon the devolution of its property was as follows: (1) Real property reverted to the grantor and his heirs; (2) personal property, being analogous to the bona vacantia of the civil law, that is to say, to goods having no owner, vested in the sovereign; (3) choses in action, consisting of debts due to the corporation, became extinct; that is to say, the debtor became released from the performance of his obligation because there was no creditor who could accept payment.[2]

b. Upon Real Property — (I) In General. The modern doctrine is that the real property of a business or joint-stock corporation does not revert to the grantor and his heirs upon the dissolution of the corporation. And while cases may be found dealing with this question with respect to eleemosynary corporations which seem to preserve a semblance of the ancient rule, yet on examination they will be found conformable to the modern doctrine.[3]

(II) Property Which Reverted Must Have Been Held by Corporation at Date of Its Decease. Again it is to be observed that the rule of the ancient common law was never applied except as to real property, the title to which was lawfully held by the corporation at the time of its decease. Property which had become divested out of it by its own act or by the act of the law prior to its dissolution did not so revert.[4]

c. Personal Property Does Not Escheat. The modern rule also is that upon dissolution the personal property does not escheat to the state, but that both species of property vest in a receiver or other trustee; and that all the property, real and personal, of the corporation, is to be administered by him for the benefit of creditors and shareholders.[5]

d. Secondary Franchises Do Not Revert, but Pass to Receiver or Trustee — (I) In General. The secondary franchises of a corporation, that is to say, the peculiar privileges or rights which it may have received from the legislature under its charter or incorporating act, or from a municipal corporation under an ordinance by way of a license, are in the nature of property, and do not revert to the state upon the death of the corporation, but being vendible[6] pass to a receiver or other representative of the corporation among its other assets, to be administered for the benefit of its creditors; and the corporation may make a valid sale thereof, in like manner with its other property,[7] before it is dissolved.[8]

1. State v. Charleston Bank, 2 McMull. (S. C.) 439, 39 Am. Dec. 135.

2. Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358, 6 Am. Dec. 48.

3. As late as the year 1877 the doctrine was applied in Texas, in regard to real estate which had been donated to an educational institution which had become subsequently dissolved, but with the qualification that the heirs of the grantor would hold the property subject to the burden of any debts owing by the institution. Acklin v. Paschal, 48 Tex. 147. In this way the effect of the decease of the corporation was made precisely analogous to the effect of that of a natural person. His land descends to his heirs, but subject to the right of his creditors to have it sold to pay his debts.

4. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140; State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

5. Towar v. Hale, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 361; Owen v. Smith, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 641.

6. See supra, XVI, C, 1.

7. 4 Thompson Corp. § 5415.

8. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140; Pollard v. Maddox, 28 Ala. 321; Bailey v. Platte, etc., Canal, etc., Co., 12 Colo. 230, 21 Pac. 35; People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255.

Doctrine illustrated by the right of way of a railroad.—This may be illustrated by con-

(11) Except Where Ousted of Such Franchises by State. But a corporation which has been forever ousted, barred, and excluded on quo warranto from the further exercise of the rights and privileges conferred by its charter has no power afterward to sell and transfer them.[9]

e. Effect of Dissolution Upon Commercial Paper Transferred by Delivery Merely. It was adjudged in 1849 in Mississippi, in a case exciting great interest, upon the decision of which a number of other like cases depended, that, where a banking corporation assigns a promissory note by mere delivery and without indorsement, and afterward its charter is forfeited in a judicial proceeding, the assignee cannot sue at law, but must bring a bill in equity, because an assignment without indorsement passes an equitable title merely; and it was consequently held that the trustees appointed under a statute to wind up the bank could not bring the action to the use of the beneficial owner of the note, because the statute only vested in them the legal title coextensive with the beneficial rights which the bank itself possessed.[10]

f. When Property Vests in Shareholders as Tenants in Common. Where, on the dissolution of a private foreign corporation, all debts are satisfied, and no receiver has been appointed to wind up its affairs, the title to its property vests in its shareholders as tenants in common, so that they may bring an action of trespass to try title as to such property.[11]

12. Effect of Repeal of Charter — a. Does Not Impair Obligation of Contracts, but They Survive Against Property of Corporation. A statute authorizing a corporation to surrender its charter and be dissolved is not invalid as infringing the obligation of the contracts subsisting between the corporation and third persons. The obligation of its contracts survives. The theory is that by the nature of its political existence a corporation is subject to dissolution, by a surrender of its corporate franchises, and by a forfeiture of them for wilful misuser and non-sidering the subject of the right of way of a railroad company which has been acquired by the condemnation of land of private owners and the payment of damages to them, under the right of eminent domain, which the state has delegated to the corporation, in view of the public use which the corporation has been created to subserve. While it has been said that the right thus acquired is coextensive with the life of the corporation (Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140), yet the reasoning in the same case and in other cases plainly shows that the right is property, which is vendible in execution, and which passes under a sale foreclosing a mortgage covering the properties and franchises of the corporation. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140; Pollard v. Maddox, 28 Ala. 321; Allen v. Montgomery R. Co., 11 Ala. 437. Compare People v. O'Brien, 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255; 4 Thompson Corp. § 5415. The rule that the real property of a corporation reverts to the donor or grantor or his heirs does not therefore extend to the right of way of a railroad company which has been transferred to another person or corporation under a sale foreclosing a mortgage. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 637, 6 So. 140. It has been aptly said, with reference to such a case, that "it is the public use for which the land is taken, and so long as it is used for railroad purposes it is immaterial what company or what individuals operate it." Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140 [citing 2 Wood Railw. L. § 242]. Such property does not revert to the donor or his heirs upon any theoretical dissolution of the corporation which may take place in consequence of the mere non-user of its franchises, although according to the reasoning of one case the period of non-user had reached the term of forty years. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140. But the state may, in the case of a non-user, by a second exercise of the right of eminent domain, vest the right of way in another corporation, which will carry out the purposes of the condemnation, upon paying compensation to the preceding corporation, which has failed to carry out such purposes. Noll v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 32 Iowa 66. This case involved the application of a statute providing for the transfer to another company of a right of way condemned by a railroad company, upon the failure of the earlier company to construct its road within the period of ten years, upon the later company making compensation to the earlier company.

9. Wilmington Water-Power Co. v. Evans, 166 Ill. 548, 46 N. E. 1083.

10. Bacon v. Cohea, 12 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 516. This would not be the rule under the modern codes of procedure, which require all actions to be brought in the name of the real party in interest.

11. Baldwin v. Johnson, 95 Tex. 85, 65 S. W. 171.

user. Every creditor must be presumed to understand the nature and incidents of such a body politic, and to contract with reference to them. The existence of the private contracts of the corporation does not force upon it a perpetuity of existence.[12]

b. Does Not Extinguish Its Property Rights, but They Survive in Its Creditors and Shareholders. Upon the same principle a statute annulling a corporation and repealing its franchises does not extinguish its property rights acquired during its corporate existence, or affect the rights of shareholders and creditors to use and enjoy such property.[13] Such an act cannot take away or impair the remedy of a creditor against it for previously incurred liability or affect a pending suit against it.[14]

c. But Nevertheless Extinguishes Corporation. But outside of the operation of this principle, where the power to repeal a charter has been reserved to the legislature, the act of repeal has precisely the same effect upon the corporation that a judicial dissolution has. The corporation is thereby extinguished, and is consequently incapacitated from suing or being sued in a court of law, except so far as the capacity may be continued by the repealing act or by some other operative statute.[15]

13. Extent of Title of Trustees Appointed to Wind Up — a. In General. Trustees appointed under a statute to wind up an insolvent corporation have no greater powers than the statute gives them. Unless thereto empowered by the statute they cannot therefore allow a suit to be brought in their names to the use of an assignee of commercial paper of the bank, where the assignment has been made without an indorsement, so as not to pass the legal title, but only to pass an equitable title.[16] Trustees, under the same statutes, had no rights whatever as to debts or notes assigned by the bank before the forfeiture of its charter.[17] While such trustees could sue to recover debts due to the bank,[18] they were not so far substituted in the place of the bank as to be clothed with every naked, legal title which was in the bank, but they possessed no power except where the bank had a beneficial interest.[19] It was said in another case that the trustees appointed under that statute did not differ materially from a trustee appointed by contract.[20]

b. Whether Sue in Name of Corporation. The fact that the charter of a corporation has expired by limitation does not necessarily disable the trustees, to whom it has previously made a general assignment of its assets, from prosecuting actions to recover its debts in its corporate name for their use, where the common-law rule of pleading is in force.[21]

14. Effect of Dissolution in Foreign Jurisdiction — a. Dissolved in State of Its Creation, Dissolved Everywhere. It necessarily follows that when a corporation becomes dissolved in the state or country of its creation, in any mode known to

12. Mumma v. Potomac Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 281, 8 L. ed. 945.

13. People v. O'Brien, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 519 [affirmed in 111 N. Y. 1, 18 N. E. 692, 19 N. Y. St. 173, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, 2 L. R. A. 255].

14. Blake v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 39 N. H. 435.

15. Whitman v. Cox, 26 Me. 335; Read v. Frankfort Bank, 23 Me. 318.

16. Bacon v. Cohea, 12 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 516.

17. Grand Gulf R., etc., Co. v. State, 10 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 428.

18. Nevitt v. Port Gibson Bank, 6 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 513.

19. Bacon v. Cohea, 12 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 516.

20. Commercial Bank v. Chambers, 8 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 9.

21. State v. Washington Bank, 18 Ark. 554. Compare Alexandria Bank v. Patton, 1 Rob. (Va.) 499. Where the charter of a bank had been judicially forfeited, and a judgment which the bank had recovered against a third person had been revived in the name of P, its trustee appointed under a statute to wind up its affairs, and the judgment was filed as a claim against the estate of the judgment debtor, who had died insolvent, it was held to be immaterial that it was filed in the name of the bank which had become defunct; since regularity of pleading is not required in such cases, and the vouchers showed that the claim was preferred by a party capable in law of assert-the laws of such state or country, it is dissolved everywhere else; so that any action depending against it in a judicial tribunal in another state or country will abate, upon the fact of its dissolution in the state or country of its domicile being brought to the attention of the court.[22]

b. Effect of Expiration of Charter of Foreign Corporation Upon Domestic Actions — Revival of Such Actions. On the other hand if a corporation is maintaining an action in the courts of a state other than the state of its creation, the action will abate upon the expiration of its charter, in like manner as though the action were depending in the state of its creation. And in such case it has been held that the action will not be revived, by virtue of a subsequent statute of the state of its creation, authorizing the trustees of its property to maintain actions to enforce its rights.[23]

c. Effect of Foreign Statutes Appointing Trustees to Wind Up Foreign Corporations. It has been held that a statute of the state of the domicile of a corporation, making its directors and managers trustees for the purpose of winding up its affairs, is not operative outside of the state creating the corporation, for the purpose of continuing actions against it; but that the mode of continuing actions against foreign corporations is a matter of practice governed by the law of the forum.[24]

15. Effect of Dissolution on Criminal Offenses Denounced by Charter. If the charter of a corporation makes criminal the doing of a certain act relating to the corporation or to its funds, as for instance the embezzlement of its funds by its officers, there can be no punishment for the offense after the charter has expired by its own limitation.[25]

16. Effect of Expiration of Charter on Torts Afterward Committed. While it is a general principle that after the charter of a corporation has expired it is not even a corporation de facto,[26] yet it has been held that where a private business corporation continues to do business after the expiration of its corporate existence, as fixed by its charter, it will be liable to be sued in a court of law for a tort committed after that time.[27]

17. Effect of Voluntary Dissolution — a. No Greater Effect Than Expiration of Charter or Decree of Forfeiture. The dissolution of a corporation by the voluntary act of its shareholders does not have any greater effect in putting an end to the powers of the corporation than would be produced by an expiration of its charter or a decree of forfeiture. It does not destroy the power to wind up its affairs or displace the rights of creditors.[28]

b. Effect Upon Contracts. Contracts under which third parties hold the property of a corporation are not necessarily annulled and avoided by the voluntary dissolution of the corporation under a statute;[29] although as already seen the ing it, and that for all substantial purposes it ought to be regarded as the claim of the trustee. Robertson v. Agricultural Bank, 28 Miss. 237.

22. Farmers', etc., Bank v. Little, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 207, 42 Am. Dec. 293.

23. Galliopolis Bank v. Trimble, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 599.

24. Sturges v. Vanderbilt, 73 N. Y. 384. That a judgment recovered in Ohio against an insurance corporation organized under the laws of New York, which had voluntarily submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the Ohio court, was valid, although the corporation had been dissolved and a receiver of its effects had been appointed in New York pending the action in Ohio, was held in McCullough v. Norwood, 36 N. Y. Super. Ct. 180.

25. Com. v. Cain, 14 Bush (Ky.) 525.

26. See supra, I, N, 3; XXI, A, 3, a et seq.

27. Miller v. Newburg Orrel Coal Co., 31 W. Va. 836, 8 S. E. 600, 13 Am. St. Rep. 903.

28. Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funck, 18 Iowa 469. In Kentucky it is held that a corporation created by special act of the legislature prior to the present constitution, as to which no method of dissolution is expressly provided, cannot be dissolved by the act of the shareholders, so as to exempt it from suit for existing liabilities; and the court thought it doubtful whether, in the absence of statutory authority permitting it, the resolution of a mere majority in interest of shareholders may terminate its existence for any purpose before the date fixed by its charter. Economy Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Paris Ice Mfg. Co., 68 S. W. 21, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 107.

29. Musgrove v. Gray, 123 Ala. 376, 26 So. 643, 82 Am. St. Rep. 124.

executory contracts of a corporation are incapable of a specific performance after its dissolution.[30]

18. Reviving Dissolved Corporations Will Not Displace Rights Accrued Since Dissolution. Corporations may be revived by the legislature after they have become dissolved de jure;[31] but the act of revival will not operate to displace any rights which have been acquired in consequence of the dissolution. Thus it has been held that where, under principles of the common law, the debts of the corporation become extinguished in consequence of its dissolution, the obligation to pay those debts cannot be restored, under the principles of American constitutions, by an act reviving the corporation.[32]

19. Dissolution Does Not Invalidate Acts of Corporation De Facto. Where a judgment of dissolution is rendered in consequence of informalities and irregularities in the attempt of the corporators to organize themselves into a corporation, transactions had in good faith between the pretended corporation and others, before the institution of the quo warranto proceedings, will be valid, upon the principle which upholds, for the protection of third persons, the acts of corporations de facto.[33]

20. When Dissolution Does Not Devolve Obligations Upon Successor Corporation. This subject has been considered when treating of the reorganization of corporations.[34] The mere purchase by a successor corporation of the property and franchises of a dissolved corporation does not make the successor corporation liable for the personal wrongs of the predecessor.[35]

21. Winding-Up Order Not Judgment In Rem. A statutory proceeding for the winding-up of a corporation is not a proceeding in rem, and the judgment therein rendered is not binding upon strangers to the proceeding.[36]

XXII. ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS.

A. Power to Sue and Be Sued — 1. At Common Law — a. In General. In general it may be said that the power to sue and be sued is, by the principles of the common law, an incident of every corporation.[37]

30. See supra, XXI, G, 3, a, (IV), (A), (4).

31. It has been held that a decree by which an act of incorporation is annulled and the corporation dissolved, "except for certain purposes," declaring that the corporation shall only continue in existence for the purposes specified, and appointing receivers of its assets and business, does not operate to extinguish the corporation in such sense that it cannot be revived by repeal of the decree or by other governmental acts recognizing the corporation as existent. Lea v. American Atlantic, etc., Canal Co., 3 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 1.

32. Robinson v. Lane, 19 Ga. 337.

33. Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 Ohio St. 481, 3 N. E. 357. A provision of the charter of a new benevolent association, binding the new association to pay all liabilities of the old association, which has been dissolved by the expiration of the period of limitation fixed by its charter, does not of itself revive the old corporation, or give any life to by-laws attempted to be adopted by it after its legal dissolution. Supreme Lodge K. of P. v. Walter, 93 Va. 605, 25 S. E. 891.

34. See supra, II, B, 3, a et seq.

35. For example a telephone company which upon its organization succeeded to the property of a former company which was dissolved should not be substituted as a defendant in place of the old corporation in an action brought against it by a subscriber, to restrain it from removing a telephone from his office, imposing unreasonable restrictions, or charging exorbitant rates; since the cause of action is based solely on the personal act of the defendant, for which a company acquiring its property is not liable. Sterne v. Metropolitan Telephone, etc., Co., 33 N. Y. App. Div. 164, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 467 [distinguishing Prouty v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 85 N. Y. 272].

36. In re Bowling, etc., Contract, [1895] 1 Ch. 663, 64 L. J. Ch. 427, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 411, 2 Manson 257, 12 Reports 218, 43 Wkly. Rep. 417.

37. See supra, I, B, 1 et seq.; Planters', etc., Bank v. Andrews, 8 Port. (Ala.) 404; Breene v. Merchants', etc., Bank, 11 Colo. 97, 17 Pac. 280; Libbey v. Hodgdon, 9 N. H. 394, 396 (opinion by Wilcox, J.); Grant County v. Lake County, 17 Oreg. 453, 21 Pac. 447. See also Berford v. New York Iron Mine, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 236, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 836, 21 N. Y. St. 439. It is scarcely necessary to cite precedents of cases where this power has been ascribed to railroad companies (Bal-

b. Power to Sue Coextensive With Power to Make Contracts. Where the power is conferred upon any collective body of men to make and take contracts in their aggregate capacity, they have the right to sue, and are liable to be sued, in respect to such contracts in such aggregate capacity. The conferring of such a power places them in the category of what are termed quasi-corporations, and it is not necessary, in order to support a right of action against them in respect of a contract which they have made when acting within their statutory powers, that such a right of action should be given by any statute in express terms.[38]

c. Suable Although State Is Member or Sole Proprietor. Although an action cannot be brought against a sovereign state without its own consent, yet if it chooses so far to cast off its sovereignty as to become a member of a private corporation, in that character it may be sued.[39] It follows that the fact that the state is a member of a corporation, otherwise liable to suit,[40] or even that it is the sole proprietor,[41] does not prevent the corporation from being sued; and such a corporation may be sued in a court of the United States, where the requisite jurisdictional grounds exist.[42]

d. States May Sue as Corporations. A state of the American Union being a corporation may sue to enforce a contract in the courts of another state of the American Union.[43] A foreign government may sue in the courts of one of the American states.[44]

2. Under Statutes and Constitutional Provisions — a. This Power Expressly Conferred by Statutes — (I) In General. The power to "sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, answer and be answered, defend and be defended, in courts of record, or any other place whatsoever," if not an incident to a corporation, is conferred in every incorporating act,[45] as for instance by the act of congress incorporating the Union Pacific Railroad Company.[46]

(II) By What Statutes — (A) In General. Under a grant of "all such rights, privileges and immunities as by law are incident or necessary to corporations, and what may be necessary to the corporations herein constituted," it is held that the right to sue exists.[47]

(B) By Statutes Using Word "Person." The word "person" in a statute is interpreted as including corporations aggregate, when the circumstances in timore, etc., R. Co. v. Gallahue, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 655, 65 Am. Dec. 254), to turnpike companies (Dunningtons v. Northwestern Turnpike Road, 6 Gratt. (Va.) 160), or indeed to any particular kind of corporation; because we shall see, from an examination of each case, that the question was whether the party suing or being sued as a corporation was indeed a body corporate. This for instance was the question where an action had been brought against the State Sinking Fund of Kentucky, and where the court held that it was liable to be sued, because it was a body corporate, although in its interests and functions closely connected with the state, against which no action could be brought. Sinking Fund Com'rs v. Northern Bank, 1 Metc. (Ky.) 174. Such also was the question where the right to bring an action for an injury resulting from negligence against the Metropolitan Fire Department of New York was challenged, the court holding it liable to be sued as a corporation. Clarissy v. Metropolitan Fire Dept., 7 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 352.

38. Ward v. Hartford County, 12 Conn. 404; McLoud v. Selby, 10 Conn. 390, 27 Am. Dec. 689.

39. U. S. Bank v. Planters' Bank, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 904, 6 L. ed. 244.

40. Moore v. Wabash, etc., Canal, 7 Ind. 462.

41. Hutchinson v. Western, etc., R. Co., 6 Heisk. (Tenn.) 634; Western, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 6 Heisk. (Tenn.) 408.

42. U. S. Bank v. Planters' Bank, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 904, 6 L. ed. 244.

43. Indiana v. Woram, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378.

44. Mexico v. Arrangois, 11 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 1.

45. U. S. Bank v. Deveaux, 5 Cranch (U. S.) 61, 85, 3 L. ed. 38.

46. Smith v. Union Pac. R. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,121, 2 Dill. 278. See also Lathrop v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 MacArthur (D. C.) 234; Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243.

47. Marsh v. Astoria Lodge No. 112, I. O. O. F., 27 Ill. 421, 425.

A resolve of the legislature, authorizing a part of a society to hold meetings, choose officers, levy taxes, and repair their meeting-house, has been held to give a right to sue for the destruction of such meeting-house after it is repaired. Tilden v. Metcalf, 2 Day (Conn.) 259.

which such corporations are placed are identical with those of natural persons who are expressly included in the statute,[48] unless there is something in the statute showing a legislative intention to restrict its application to natural persons.[49]

(III) By What Statutes Not Conferred. A statute incorporating the members of a voluntary association, to whom moneys were due, and conferring upon the corporation the power to receive all those moneys to its use, and to give receipts to the debtors which would be evidence in any action to recover such moneys, was held not to empower the corporation to maintain an action at law in its own name to collect the same, although it might give effectual discharges to the debtors on receiving payment.[50]

b. This Power Expressly Conferred by Constitutional Provisions. Constitutional provisions exist in many states providing in distinct terms that all corporations may sue or be sued in all courts in like manner as natural persons.[51]

3. Power to Sue How Affected by Want of Organization — a. In General. In strictness a body of adventurers, not having a valid charter, or not duly organized as a corporation, cannot maintain an action in that character;[52] although as elsewhere seen[53] the defendants may be estopped by their conduct from setting up that they are not a corporation. On the other hand if a body of adventurers assuming to act as a corporation, but who have not been legally organized as such, threaten an injury to a third person, he may, it has been held, maintain a preventive action against them in their assumed corporate name.[54]

48. Gaskell v. Beard, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 399, 33 N. Y. St. 852.

49. Crafford v. Warwick County, 87 Va. 110, 12 S. E. 147, 10 L. R. A. 129. See also Jeffries Neck Pasture v. Ipswich, 153 Mass. 42, 26 N. E. 239. Therefore by statute in Massachusetts (Mass. Pub. Stat. c. 3, cl. 16) a corporation may in that state maintain a petition to quiet title to lands. Jeffries Neck Pasture v. Ipswich, 153 Mass. 42, 26 N. E. 239. Lord Coke in commenting upon the statute of 31 Eliz. c. 7, respecting the erection of cottages, where the language is "No person shall," etc., says: "This extends as well to persons, politicke and incorporate, as to naturall persons whatsoever." 2 Coke Inst. 736. See also U. S. Bank v. Merchants' Bank, 1 Rob. (Va.) 573.

A corporation has been held to be an "inhabitant" under a statute providing for the reparation of bridges (2 Coke Inst. 703), and an "inhabitant and occupier," and therefore liable as such to pay poor rates (Rex v. Gardner, Cowp. 79).

50. Scots Charitable Soc. v. Shaw, 8 Mass. 532.

A statute providing for an appeal from an award of arbitrators, upon defendants entering into a recognizance with one or more sureties in the nature of special bail to make certain payments, or in default thereof to surrender the defendant or defendants to the jail of the proper county, has no application to corporations; since these bodies, being political, can neither be surrendered nor imprisoned. A corporation therefore might have its appeal without entering into a recognizance. Carpentier v. Delaware Ins. Co., 2 Binn. (Pa.) 264.

51. With some variation of language, this provision is found in the following constitutions, and doubtless in many others:

Alabama.— Const. (1875), art. 13, § 12.
California.— Const. (1879), art. 12, § 4.
Kansas.— Const. (1859), art. 12, § 6.
Michigan.— Const. (1850), art. 15, § 11.
Minnesota.— Const. (1857), art. 10, § 1.
Nebraska.— Const. (1875), art. 11, § 3.
Nevada.— Const. (1864), art. 8, § 5.
North Carolina.— Const. Amendm. (1876), art. 8, § 3.

52. Workingmen's Accommodation Bank v. Converse, 29 La. Ann. 369; Doboy, etc., Tel. Co. v. De Magathias, 25 Fed. 697.

53. See supra, VI, P, 6, a, (I), (D), (1) et seq.; infra, XXII, D, 1, b, (II), (A).

54. Newton County Draining Co. v. Nofsinger, 43 Ind. 566. This case presents the incongruity of an injunction being procured against a threatened trespass by a defendant, impleaded as a corporation, on the ground that it had never been legally organized as such; and because of this absurdity, Pettit, J., dissented.

Statutes exist imposing limitations on the power of corporations to sue, until they have complied with certain formalities. For instance, section 299 of the civil code of California provides that every corporation must file in the office of the clerk of every county in the state in which it holds any property, except in the county where its original articles of incorporation are filed, a certified copy of such articles, and prohibits a corporation failing to comply with this provision from maintaining or defending any action or proceeding in relation to such property, its rents, issues, or profits, until it does so comply. This, it has been held, does not prevent it from defending an action brought against it to recover for work and labor alleged to have been performed upon its property. Weeks v. Garibaldi South Gold Min. Co., 73 Cal. 599, 15 Pac. 302.

b. Enough That Corporation Exists De Facto. If under principles already considered[55] the corporation exists de facto, it may exercise the power to sue, and the question of its having the right to exercise it will be deemed one which can be raised only by the state,[56] except in those cases where it is proceeding to assert rights which from their nature can only exist in a corporation; e. g., to condemn land for the purposes of a railroad, under a statute granting such a power to corporations.[57] A body which might have been properly organized as a corporation under an enabling statute, and which has attempted, although possibly without complying with the requisite formalities, so to organize itself, and which has acted as a corporation, executing deeds and releases in its corporate name, and which in that name has recovered judgment in a former action against the defendant now impleaded, will, on the principle of being a corporation de facto, if not de jure, be allowed to sustain an action for damages for a nuisance.[58] As to what will be evidence of the existence of a corporation we may recur to what has preceded and refer to what will follow, with the statement, for our present purposes, that general reputation that plaintiffs have been conducting business as a corporation, coupled with the fact that the obligation sued on was payable to them in their corporate name, will be sufficient to prevent a dismissal of their complaint on the ground that formal proof of their organization as a corporation has not been made.[59]

4. Power to Sue and Be Sued How Affected by Dissolution — a. Dissolution Ends Power to Sue or Be Sued. Unless the power of a corporation to sue or to be sued after its dissolution has been prolonged by statute, then such power is determined by the fact of its dissolution, and its dissolution may be pleaded in abatement of any pending action by or against it. After a corporation becomes dissolved, it can neither sue nor be sued, unless the faculty of suing or being sued is prolonged by statute for the purpose of winding up its affairs.[60]

b. Mere Insolvency Does Not Have This Effect. But the mere insolvency of a corporation does not of itself determine this power or cut off any remedy which its creditors might otherwise have against it.[61]

c. Common-Law Disability Avoided by Assignment For Creditors. The deplorable consequences of a corporate dissolution at common law, when not provided against by a provision of the charter or by some general statute,[62] might be

55. See supra, I, O, 1, a et seq. For the purpose of establishing the existence of a body as a corporation de facto, oral testimony, not purporting to give the contents of corporate records or documents, tending to show that after the execution of articles of incorporation, the supposed corporation held meetings, adopted by-laws, elected officers, issued stock, and did business as a corporation, is admissible without producing the corporate records or accounting for their loss. Johnson v. Okerstrom, 70 Minn. 303, 73 N. W. 147. A corporation does not exist de facto where there has been an entire failure to execute and file articles of incorporation as required by the governing statute. McLennan v. Hopkins, 2 Kan. App. 260, 41 Pac. 1061.

56. See infra, XXII, D, 2, f, (v), (B).

57. See infra, XXII, D, 2, b, (v).

58. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church, 108 U. S. 317, 2 S. Ct. 719, 29 L. ed. 739. Corporations formed by the legislatures of certain states, while in armed rebellion against the United States, had power, after the suppression of the rebellion, to sue in the federal courts, if their acts of incorporation had no relation to anything else than the domestic concerns of the state, and were, neither in their apparent purpose nor in their operation, hostile to the Union, nor in conflict with the constitution, but were mere ordinary legislation, such as might have been had if there had been no war or no attempted secession, and such as is of yearly occurrence in all the states. U. S. v. Home Ins. Co., 22 Wall. (U. S.) 99, 22 L. ed. 816, opinion by Strong, J.

59. Holmes v. Gilliland, 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 568. Thus it has been held that the fact that the clerk of a corporation has not been sworn and has not filed, in the office of the register of deeds, the certificate of his appointment required by law (South Bay Meadow Dam Co. v. Gray, 30 Me. 547), or the fact that the amount of the capital stock of the corporation has not been fixed pursuant to the governing statute (Worcester City Hotel v. Dickinson, 6 Gray (Mass.) 586), does not disable it from maintaining actions in its corporate name.

60. Building Assoc. v. Anderson, 7 Phila. (Pa.) 106. See also supra, XXI, G, 3, a, (I) et seq.

61. Van Pelt v. U. S. Metallic Spring, etc., Co., 13 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 325.

62. See supra, XXI, G, 1, a et seq.

avoided by making an assignment in trust of all assets of the corporation to trustees for the purpose of winding up its affairs. This was the course pursued previous to the expiration of the charter of the bank of the United States.[63]

d. Or by Failing to Notice on Record Fact of Dissolution. In one case where this course was pursued, and pending an appeal the charter of the corporation expired, it was held that the court might inquire as to the fact of the assignment, and upon being satisfied of the fact might permit the case to proceed without noticing on the record the dissolution of the corporation.[64]

5. Power to Sue Exercised by or Through Board of Directors — a. In General. Where the governing statute provides that the corporate powers shall be exercised by a board of directors, the corporation can obtain redress of injuries done to it only through the action of its board of directors, and if they are unable or unwilling to act, the artificial entity is incapable of obtaining a remedy;[65] although on principles elsewhere considered[66] the refusal of the corporate officers to proceed to obtain redress of a corporate grievance, by the appropriate action, may of itself open a remedy to the shareholders in equity.

b. Resolution Authorizing Bringing of Action Not Necessary. But it is not necessary, in order to make it appear that an action is rightfully brought by the corporation, that a formal resolution of the board of directors authorizing or directing the bringing of the action should be produced; although it has been said that it would be otherwise if the suit were brought in the name of the corporation solely for the use of somebody else. In that case it might be necessary, if such an action could be maintained at all, to show that there was authority for permitting the third party to use the name of the corporation.[67]

c. Resolution Authorizing Dismissal of Action Not Necessary. On the other hand it is not necessary to produce a resolution of the board of directors in order to prove that the withdrawal of a suit, brought by a corporation, has been made by the proper authority; but if the act be done by its agent or attorney no other proof of authority will be required.[68]

6. Suable in What Manner. A private corporation is a creature of the state, and must be sued in such manner as the legislature provides;[69] but if there is no statute prescribing the mode, the ordinary legal remedies applicable in the case of natural persons will be equally applicable in the case of corporations, except in so far as the differences which exist between artificial and natural bodies prevent them from being applied.

7. Corporations May Maintain Action Against Their Own Members. As already seen[70] a corporation may contract with and sue one of its own shareholders, officers, or corporators, in his individual capacity.[71]

63. U. S. Bank v. McLaughlin, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 928, 2 Cranch C. C. 20.

64. Alexandria Bank v. Patton, 1 Rob. (Va.) 499. See also May v. North Carolina Bank, 2 Rob. (Va.) 56, 40 Am. Dec. 726.

65. Arkansas River Land, etc., Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 13 Colo. 587, 22 Pac. 954.

66. See supra, XI, B, 7 et seq.

67. Kenton Furnace R., etc., Co. v. McAlpin, 5 Fed. 737, per Swing, D. J. But this is doubtful. If for instance a corporation has made an assignment of a non-negotiable instrument, it would be necessary, under the common-law system of pleading, for the assignee to bring an action upon it in the name of the corporation to his use. The corporation would not be responsible for costs, and hence could not refuse the use of its name. The fact of the assignment would of itself be a consent to that use. Nor could it prevent the use of its name by a receiver, or by its assignee for creditors. The power of the board of directors to authorize the institution of an action, the very nature of which is to destroy the corporation itself, as for instance to direct the filing of a petition to have the corporation adjudged a bankrupt, has been denied. In re Lady Bryan Min. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,978, 2 Abb. 527, 1 Sawy. 349. But as the directors clearly have the power to direct the making of an assignment of all the assets of a corporation for the benefit of its creditors (see supra, XX, A, 4, a), it is difficult to see how this holding can be maintained.

68. Union Mfg. Co. v. Pitkin, 14 Conn. 174.

69. Holgate v. Oregon Pac. R. Co., 16 Oreg. 123, 17 Pac. 859.

70. See supra, VI, F, 3, a et seq.

71. Wausau Boom Co. v. Plumer, 35 Wis. 274.

B. Actions by Corporations — 1. Corporations Entitled to What Remedies — a. Entitled to Same Remedies as Individuals. Generally speaking corporations have the same remedies at common law, in equity, and under statutes, which are accorded to individuals under like circumstances. This is seen by what follows in this article.[72]

b. May Sue in Assumpsit. The old idea was that a corporation could not maintain an action of assumpsit, because it could only contract by its common seal, and hence could sue only in covenant. But this idea is exploded, and the settled law is that a corporation can sue in assumpsit whenever an individual can.[73] Thus an incorporated bridge company may maintain assumpsit for the use and occupation of premises held by its tenant.[74] As already seen [75] assumpsit may be maintained by a corporation against a shareholder upon his express promise to pay his proportion of the legal assessments upon stock issued to him.[76]

c. May Sue in Trespass. Although the old conception was that a corporation could act only by its seal, still it did not follow that it could not be acted upon except by its seal. It could own property, and if a trespass were committed thereon, it could maintain an action of trespass to recover damages therefor.[77]

d. May Maintain Actions Sounding in Damages — (I) In General. Corporations like individuals constantly maintain actions, the object of which is the recovery of damages for wrongs done to them, as for instance where a shareholder and officer of a corporation and a third person conspire to cripple the corporation by a manipulation of its shares and the conspiracy is successful.[78]

(II) Such as Actions For Libel or Slander. For example a corporation may maintain an action for libel, upon averment and proof of special damages.[79] This would clearly be true in respect of a slander of its goods or property.

e. May Have Summary Remedies. It has been held not unconstitutional for the legislature to give a summary remedy for the collection of its debts to a corporation created for the public benefit.[80]

f. May Have Special Remedies Under Statutes. When it was the fashion to create corporations by special acts of the legislature, special remedies were often accorded to them; but the decisions relating to such remedies may for the most part be regarded as obsolete,[81] and under modern constitutions abolishing special legislation their validity would be doubtful.

The trustees of schools and school lands, in Mississippi, are corporate bodies, and as such may maintain an action against a member of their own bodies. Connell v. Woodward, 5 How. (Miss.) 665, 37 Am. Dec. 173.

72. That a corporation cannot have equitable relief in behalf of its shareholders when they are without equity see Arkansas River Land, etc., Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 13 Colo. 587, 22 Pac. 954. That a corporation may follow its property as a trust fund when an individual might see Erie R. Co. v. Vanderbilt, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 123.

73. London Gas-Light, etc., Co. v. Nicholls, 2 C. & P. 365, 12 E. C. L. 620.

74. Southwark Bridge Co. v. Sills, 2 C. & P. 371, 12 E. C. L. 623.

75. See supra, VI, P, 2, a.

76. Andover, etc., Turnpike Corp. v. Gould, 6 Mass. 40, 4 Am. Dec. 80; Gilmore v. Pope, 5 Mass. 491; Worcester Turnpike Corp. v. Willard, 5 Mass. 80, 4 Am. Dec. 39; Dutchess Cotton Manufactory v. Davis, 14 Johns. (N. Y.) 238, 7 Am. Dec. 459; Goshen, etc., Turnpike Road v. Hurtin, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 217, 6 Am. Dec. 273. Under the common-law system of pleading, a corporation may maintain assumpsit upon a contract to take its stock at a specific price, or it may declare on a contract to take stock agreeably to the provisions of its charter; and to such a declaration the common counts may be added. Beene v. Cahawba, etc., R. Co., 3 Ala. 660.

77. Second Cong. Soc. v. Waring, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 304; Greenville, etc., R. Co. v. Partlow, 14 Rich. (S. C.) 237.

78. Ilion Bank v. Carver, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 230.

79. Knickerbocker L. Ins. Co. v. Ecclesine, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 385, 42 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 201.

80. Newbern Bank v. Taylor, 6 N. C. 266.

81. That the Ohio statute of 1844, regulating practice in the courts, did not apply to suits of incorporated banks see Clinton Bank v. Hart, 19 Ohio 372. That the statute of the same state, authorizing a joint action by a bank against a drawer and indorser, applied to banks of other states, see Lewis v. Kentucky Bank, 12 Ohio 132, 40 Am. Dec. 469. Construction of Ohio statute of 1824 relating to suits where banks are parties see Goodenow v. Duffield, Wright (Ohio) 455. That a bank could not ask the aid of a court of equity

g. May Have What Remedies With Respect to Commercial Paper. Some of the cases take this distinction, that where a corporation has no power to acquire commercial paper, yet if it does acquire it it cannot maintain an action thereon, but may maintain an action for money had and received to recover what it gave for the paper.[82] That is to say, while it cannot maintain an action on the instrument which it had no power to take, it can maintain an action to recover its money which it had no power to pay out and which it ought not to have parted with.[83]

h. May Maintain Action on Promise Made to Its Officer. Elsewhere we have seen that a deed conveying land to the trustees of a corporation is a deed to the corporation itself.[84] An analogous rule is that a promise made to the officers of a corporation for its benefit, and upon a consideration proceeding from it, is enforceable in the form of an action by the corporation, as for instance an agreement to pay to the directors of a corporation money due to the corporation itself.[85]

i. May Maintain Action Against Corporation Having Same Officers as Itself. In theory of law a corporation is an ideal body or person, distinct from the individuals who compose it, and, subject to exceptions where the trustees are the corporation, distinct from its officers and directors. It may therefore maintain actions against corporations having the same officers or directors as itself.[86]

2. Corporation Cannot Sue as Common Informer Under Statute Giving Such Action to "Any Person or Persons." It has been held under a statute[87] giving an action for a penalty to any person or persons that a corporation cannot sue as a common informer.[88]

3. Demand in Actions by Corporations. A corporation must make demand where an individual must, and need not make demand where an individual need not, prior to bringing and maintaining an action.[89]

C. What Actions Will and Will Not Lie Against Corporations — 1. Any Appropriate Actions — a. In General. Without going into the ancient history of this subject, it may be said here that it is settled that where the law imposes an obligation upon a corporation, which it fails or refuses to discharge, it may be held civilly liable therefor, at law or in equity, in any appropriate form of action where the system of common-law pleading prevails, and on appropriate allegations and proofs, under the system of equity, in admiralty, and under the codes.[90]

b. When Assumpsit Will Lie — (i) In General. Thus, although there are some ancient and untenable holdings to the contrary,[91] a corporation may now be against a party to a joint and several contract before exhausting legal remedies see Chillicothe Bank v. Yoe, 4 Ohio 125.

82. See supra, XVII, B, 2, f; XVII, C, 7; XVII, C, 10, a et seq.

83. Waddill v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 35 Ala. 323. Compare Phelps v. Masterton, etc., Stone Dressing Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 517.

84. See supra, XII, D, 5, b.

85. Thompson v. Marion, etc., Gravel Road Co., 98 Ind. 449.

86. Salina Nat. Bank v. Prescott, 60 Kan. 490, 57 Pac. 121 [reversing 53 Pac. 769]. See also San Diego, etc., R. Co. v. Pacific Beach Co., 112 Cal. 53, 44 Pac. 333, 33 L. R. A. 788; Manufacturers' Sav. Bank v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 97 Mo. 38, 10 S. W. 865; Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145, 34 N. Y. St. 743.

87. 7 Geo. II, c. 7.

88. Weavers Co. v. Forrest, 2 Str. 1241.

89. Thus if the treasurer of a corporation receives money belonging to it, and asserts rights thereto inconsistent with the right of the corporation to demand the same, and makes charges in the corporate books in extinguishment of his obligation to pay over the money to the corporation, a demand is not necessary before suit brought by the corporation to recover the money. East New York, etc., R. Co. v. Elmore, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 214.

90. For a general statement of the doctrine of the liability of a corporation to an action by one sustaining damage in consequence of its failure to discharge a duty imposed by law see Seagraves v. Alton, 13 Ill. 366.

91. Frankfort Bank v. Anderson, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 1; Breckbill v. Turnpike Co., 3 Dall. (Pa.) 496, 1 L. ed. 694.

An exception to this rule was admitted where a local act authorized a corporation to make promissory notes. Slark v. Highgate Archway Co., 5 Taunt. 792, 1 E. C. L. 405. But all American corporations have this power, unless it is prohibited to them. See supra, XVII, C, 1, a.

sued in assumpsit on express or implied promises, in the same manner as an individual.[92] This action will lie against it for refusing to permit a transfer of its shares upon its books, at the suit of a person lawfully entitled to demand the same;[93] or upon a refusal of the corporation to permit a shareholder to subscribe for additional stock to which he is entitled.[94] If a railroad corporation occupies land after its agent has been notified by the owner that rent will be charged it is liable in assumpsit for use and occupation.[95]

(II) When Not Assumpsit but Covenant. Covenant, and not assumpsit, being the form of action at common law upon a sealed instrument, assumpsit cannot be maintained against a corporation upon a written agreement to which the agent of the corporation has put a seal, although not the common seal of the corporation. Such an instrument is nevertheless the deed of the corporation.[96]

e. Trespass. It being settled in the modern law, contrary to earlier opinion,[97] that a corporation can commit tresspass,[98] both upon person and property, through its agents acting in its behalf, it follows that where the common-law system of pleading prevails, an action of trespass will lie against a corporation for a direct injury done within the general scope of its corporate powers.[99]

d. Trespass on the Case. An action of trespass on the case for malfeasance will lie against a corporation aggregate.[1] This form of action may for instance be

92. California.— Hunt v. San Francisco, 11 Cal. 250.

Illinois.— Seagraves v. Alton, 13 Ill. 366.

Maryland.— In re Cape Sable Co.'s Case, 3 Bland 606.

Massachusetts.— Sargent v. Franklin Ins. Co., 8 Pick. 90, 19 Am. Dec. 306; Foster v. Essex Bank, 17 Mass. 479, 9 Am. Dec. 168; Hayden v. Middlesex Turnpike Corp., 10 Mass. 397, 6 Am. Dec. 143; Worcester Turnpike Corp. v. Willard, 5 Mass. 80, 4 Am. Dec. 39; Gray v. Portland Bank, 3 Mass. 364, 3 Am. Dec. 156.

New Jersey.—Antipoeda Baptist Church v. Mulford, 8 N. J. L. 182.

New York.— Kortright v. Buffalo Commercial Bank, 20 Wend. 91 [affirmed in 22 Wend. 348, 34 Am. Dec. 317]; Dunn v. St. Andrew's Church, 14 Johns. 118; Danforth v. Schoharie, etc., Turnpike Road, 12 Johns. 227.

Pennsylvania.— Chesnut Hill, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Rutter, 4 Serg. & R. 6, 8 Am. Dec. 675; North Whitehall v. South Whitehall, 3 Serg. & R. 117.

South Carolina.— Waring v. Catawba Co., 2 Bay 109.

Vermont.— Gassett v. Andover, 21 Vt. 342; Stone v. East Berkshire Cong. Soc., 14 Vt. 86; Poultney v. Wells, 1 Aik. 180; Proctor v. Webber, 1 D. Chipm. 371, 456 note.

United States.— Metropolis Bank v. Guttschlick, 14 Pet. 19, 10 L. ed. 335; Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Knapp, 9 Pet. 541, 9 L. ed. 222; Mechanics' Bank v. Columbia Bank, 5 Wheat. 326, 5 L. ed. 100; Columbia Bank v. Patterson, 7 Cranch 299, 3 L. ed. 351; Davis v. Georgetown Bridge Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,637, 1 Cranch C. C. 147.

England.—Rex v. Bank of England, Dougl. (3d ed.) 524.

93. Sargent v. Franklin Ins. Co., 8 Pick. (Mass.) 90, 19 Am. Dec. 306; Kortright v. Buffalo Commercial Bank, 20 Wend. (N. Y.) 91 [affirmed in 22 Wend. (N. Y.) 348, 34 Am. Dec. 317]; Rex v. Bank of England, Dougl. (3d ed.) 524. See supra, VII, D, 9, e.

94. Gray v. Portland Bank, 3 Mass. 364, 3 Am. Dec. 156.

95. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Thompson, 116 Ill. 159, 5 N. E. 117.

That a corporation must first be put in default before it will be liable upon an implied contract see Seagraves v. Alton, 13 Ill. 366.

96. Porter v. Androscoggin, etc., R. Co., 37 Me. 349. But the scroll or private seal of the chief engineer of a railroad corporation affixed to a contract is not the seal of the company and will not make the contract a specialty so as to prevent assumpsit against the company for its breach. Saxton v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 4 N. M. 378, 16 Pac. 851. Compare supra, XII, D, 1, h.

97. See supra, XIX, B, 2, a.

98. See supra, XIX, B, 2, a et seq.

99. Delaware.— Whiteman v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 2 Harr. 514, 33 Am. Dec. 411.

Illinois.— That an action of trespass for assault and battery will lie against a railroad company see St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353. See also supra, XIX, B, 2, c, (II), (A) et seq.

Indiana.— Crawfordsville, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 5 Ind. 252.

Kentucky.—Underwood v. Newport Lyceum, 5 B. Mon. 129, 41 Am. Dec. 260.

New Hampshire.— Hopkins v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 9, 72 Am. Dec. 287.

Pennsylvania.— McCready v. Guardians of Poor, 9 Serg. & R. 94, 11 Am. Dec. 667.

Vermont.— Lyman v. White River Bridge Co., 2 Aik. 255, 16 Am. Dec. 705.

Application of this doctrine to municipal corporations.— Chicago v. Turner, 80 Ill. 419; Chicago v. McGraw, 75 Ill. 566; Wolf v. Boettcher, 64 Ill. 316; Allen v. Decatur, 23 Ill. 332, 76 Am. Dec. 692; Sheldon v. Kalamazoo, 24 Mich. 383.

1. Harlem v. Emmert, 41 Ill. 319; New York v. Bailey, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 433.

maintained by a purchaser of the shares of stock of an incorporated bank against the corporation for its refusal to transfer the shares to him on its books.[2]

e. Trover. As a corporation may through its agents have the custody of personal property, and as it may sometimes have that custody wrongfully, it follows that it is liable in the common-law action of trover, where the common-law system of pleading prevails, or in an action of a similar nature under the modern codes of procedure, by the owner of goods and chattels, for the conversion of them to its own use.[3]

f. Replevin. For the same reason an action of replevin will lie against a corporation, the object of this action being to recover if possible the specific goods or chattels and damages for their detention, and if it is not possible to recover them then to recover their value and also damages for their detention.[4]

g. Ejectment. The ancient notion that trespass could not be maintained against a corporation prevented of course corporations being made defendants in suits of ejectment. But this principle was early abandoned, and it has long been regarded as the established law that the method of trying the title of land by ejectment extends to corporations of every kind, whether in the character of plaintiffs or defendants.[5]

h. Forcible Entry and Detainer. The same principle will support the statutory action of forcible entry and detainer against a corporation aggregate.[6]

i. Slander of Goods or Business. One corporation may be liable to another in an action for damages for slandering its business and representing its product to be of an inferior quality.[7]

j. Book-Account. An action of "book-account" may be maintained either by or against a corporation.[8]

k. Account Stated. An action may be maintained against a corporation to recover upon an account stated, in like manner as against an individual, the same presumption existing that if the account, when rendered, is not correct, the alleged debtor will make objection to it within a reasonable time. The presumption would no doubt have the same force in the case of a commercial corporation as in that of a commercial partnership; but in the case of other corporations, which act more slowly, it is conceived that it might be somewhat relaxed.[9]

2. Presbyterian Congregation v. Carlisle Bank, 5 Pa. St. 345. See also supra, VII, D, 9, f.

3. Sherman v. Commercial Printing Co., 29 Mo. App. 31; Yarborough v. Bank of England, 16 East 6, 14 Rev. Rep. 272. That trover lies by a shareholder against the corporation for the conversion of his shares see supra, VII, D, 9, c, (I) et seq.

4. It has been held that a stock subscription list, like a promissory note or other written obligation, may be the subject of an action of replevin or other possessory action; and an instance of such an action is found in Louisiana, where it was held that an alternative judgment for forty thousand dollars, in case of default in obeying the order of the court to deliver the list, was invalid, the subscriptions being on credit and the judgment not recognizing or reserving defendant's right to receive a corresponding amount of stock. People's Brewing Co. v. Boebinger, 40 La. Ann. 277, 4 So. 82.

5. 1 Kyd Corp. 187. See also Den v. Fen, 10 N. J. L. 237.

6. It has been held that a statute declaring any person who shall "enter into or upon any lands, tenements, or other possessions, and detain or hold the same with force and strong hand, or with weapons," etc., guilty of a forcible entry and detainer (Mansfield Dig. Ark. § 3347) is applicable to the possession by a railroad company of a railroad or part of a railroad, there being no reason in the nature of a possession of a section of a railroad line which takes it out of the language of such a statute, or out of the general principle which lies at the foundation of all actions of forcible entry and detainer. Iron Mountain, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 119 U. S. 608, 7 S. Ct. 339, 30 L. ed. 504.

7. Buffalo Lubricating Oil Co. v. Standard Oil Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 153.

8. Hunneman v. Jamaica Fire Dist. No. 1, 37 Vt. 40; Vermont Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Cummings, 11 Vt. 503.

9. Where resolutions were adopted by the trustees of a religious society, acknowledging the justness of a claim made by plaintiff against the corporation, fixing the amount thereof, and agreeing to pay the same in a specified time, and were duly certified by the secretary of the board of trustees, and transmitted to plaintiff, who thereupon assented to the proposition contained in the resolutions, and agreed to accept the sum offered by the trustees, it was held that an action would lie against the corporation, notwith-

l. Use and Occupation. While an action of assumpsit will lie against a corporation for the use and occupation of land, plaintiff waiving the tort and suing upon an implied contract,[10] yet it has been held that a statutory "action of contract" for the use of a railroad cannot be maintained by the owner against persons who did not recognize his title, but used the railroad adversely to him, under a bona fide claim of right, by virtue of a lease from another person.[11]

m. Actions on Clauses of Charter. Where a clause in the charter of a corporation provides that any trustee or manager shall have a claim and lien upon the proceeds of the sales of the company's property, for expenses or debts incurred by him for its benefit, this gives a remedy at law against the company to recover such expenses and debts.[12]

n. Actions on By-Laws. Where a right arises under the provisions of a by-law, an action, generally an action of debt at common law, will lie to enforce that right, a subject already considered.[13]

o. Actions For Violations of Public Duties. When a private person brings an action against a corporation in respect of the violation of some general public duty, it is sometimes loosely said that the liability of the corporation for the violation of such a duty cannot be raised in this collateral way, and that the only exception to the rule which prohibits collateral inquiry by a private citizen into the supposed illegal acts of a corporation is where express legislative permission is granted therefor.[14] This language does not lead the mind to a clear understanding of any principle, although the result of the decisions is that where the duty is undertaken by the corporation toward the members of the public distributively, as where a railroad company undertakes to carry a passenger safely, where a telegraph company undertakes to transmit a message properly, where a canal company undertakes to keep its canal in a navigable condition for the use of its patrons, or where a municipal corporation undertakes to open a highway and keep it in repair, the corporation is liable in an action to any individual damaged by its failure to perform the particular duty assumed.[15] But where the duty is one that is assumed toward the public generally, or toward a considerable portion of the public in the aggregate, as where a railway company fails to complete its road according to its charter, establishes it on a route not permitted by its charter, establishes a depot at a place not permitted or prohibited by law, or abandons some portion of its route and leaves the inhabitants of that vicinity without adequate service, the injury is of that public nature which, unless the legislature has expressly given a private action to an individual, can be redressed only by a proceeding on the part of the state.[16] The principle here laid down is somewhat analogous to the right of action for a nuisance. If the injury flowing therefrom is one sustained by the public, or by a neighborhood generally, and is not special or peculiar to plaintiff, he has no right of action; the injury is to the public, and it must be redressed by a public prosecution by indictment[17] or standing it had omitted to make a record of the vote of its board of trustees upon the resolutions, and that the plaintiff could recover upon the promise contained in the resolutions, under a count upon an account stated. St. Mary's Church v. Cagger, 6 Barb. (N. Y.) 576.

10. See supra, XXII, C, 1, b, (I).

11. Kittredge v. Peaslee, 3 Allen (Mass.) 235.

12. Stephens v. Green Hill Cemetery Co., 1 Houst. (Del.) 26.

13. See supra, V. A, 10. See also Watson v. Clarke, Carth. 75, Comb. 138.

14. Martindale v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 508.

15. Shewalter v. Pirner, 55 Mo. 218; Land v. Coffman, 50 Mo. 243; North Missouri R. Co. v. Winkler, 33 Mo. 354; Chambers v. St. Louis, 29 Mo. 543; Christian University v. Jordan, 29 Mo. 68.

16. Kinealy v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. 658; Martindale v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 508; Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70; Brainard v. Missisquoi R. Co., 48 Vt. 107.

17. Stone v. Fairbury, etc., R. Co., 68 Ill. 394, 18 Am. Rep. 556; Proprietors Locks, etc., v. Nashua, etc., R. Co., 10 Cush. (Mass.) 385; Smith v. Boston, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 254; Holman v. Townsend, 13 Metc. (Mass.) 297; Quincy Canal v. Newcomb, 7 Metc. (Mass.)

information, or sometimes by an information in equity brought by the attorney-general.[18]

p. Specific Performance. Courts with equity powers will compel the specific performance of their contracts by corporations, where they would exert the same power against individuals.[19]

q. Bills in Equity For Discovery — (I) In General. A bill in equity for a discovery may be maintained against a corporation in like manner as against an individual, although with a difference of procedure about to be stated;[20] nor will the corporation be relieved from the duty of answering such a bill by the fact that its officers and agents have been by statute made competent witnesses for either party to the suit.[21]

(II) Practice of Joining Officers of Corporation as Co-Defendants — (A) In General. In order to prevent a failure of justice arising from the circumstances that a corporation cannot take an oath and cannot be indicted for perjury for making an answer wilfully false, the practice has long been settled to join the officers of the corporation, such as its secretary, bookkeeper, a director or other officer or agent, and even its members, as defendants in bills in chancery for the purpose of compelling them to make discovery for it.[22] When discovery

276, 39 Am. Dec. 778; Stetson v. Faxon, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 147, 31 Am. Dec. 123; Kinealy v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. 658. Compare Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Compton, 2 Gill (Md.) 20; Jackson v. Jackson, 16 Ohio St. 163; Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am. Dec. 667; Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466.

18. Missouri.— State v. Saline County Ct., 51 Mo. 350, 11 Am. Rep. 454.

New York.— People v. Third Ave. R. Co., 45 Barb. 63; People v. New York, 32 Barb. 102; People v. New York, 10 Abb. Pr. 144; People v. Lowber, 7 Abb. Pr. 158.

Pennsylvania.— Buck Mountain Coal Co. v. Lehigh Coal, etc., Co., 50 Pa. St. 91, 88 Am. Dec. 534, where the doctrine was recognized.

Wisconsin.— Atty.-Gen. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 425.

England.— Auckland v. Westminster Local Bd., L. R. 7 Ch. 597, 41 L. J. Ch. 723, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 961, 20 Wkly. Rep. 845; Atty.-Gen. v. Mid-Kent, etc., R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 100; Atty.-Gen. v. West Hartlepool Imp. Com'rs, L. R. 10 Eq. 152, 39 L. J. Ch. 624, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 510, 18 Wkly. Rep. 685; Atty.-Gen. v. Dublin, 1 Bligh N. S. 312, 4 Eng. Reprint 888; Atty.-Gen. v. Great Northern R. Co., 4 De G. & Sm. 75, 14 Jur. 684, 15 Jur. 387; Atty.-Gen. v. Great Northern R. Co., 1 Dr. & Sm. 154; Atty.-Gen. v. Poole, 2 Jur. 934, 8 L. J. Ch. 27, 4 Myl. & C. 17, 18 Eng. Ch. 17; Atty.-Gen. v. Aspinwall, 1 Jur. 812, 7 L. J. Ch. 51, 2 Myl. & C. 613, 14 Eng. Ch. 613; Stockport Dist. Waterworks Co. v. Manchester, 9 Jur. N. S. 266, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 545, 11 Wkly. Rep. 156; Frewin v. Lewis, 4 Myl. & C. 249, 18 Eng. Ch. 249; Atty.-Gen. v. Liverpool, 7 L. J. Ch. 51, 1 Myl. & C. 171, 13 Eng. Ch. 171; Campbell v. Norwich, 2 Myl. & C. 406, 14 Eng. Ch. 406; Atty.-Gen. v. Lichfield, 13 Sim. 547, 36 Eng. Ch. 547.

19. Montclair Tp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 N. J. Eq. 436, 18 Atl. 242. The question of the power of a court of chancery, by exerting its process in personam against parties before it, to compel them to perform acts relating to real property in another jurisdiction, is a disputable one. It has been held that a court of chancery in one state has no jurisdiction to compel a domestic corporation to go into another state and specifically execute a contract to make improvements on lands, and on its default to enforce the decree by attachment and sequestration of its property in the home state. Port Royal R. Co. v. Hammond, 58 Ga. 523.

Mode of compelling specific performance of an agreement entered into by a corporation to arbitrate. St. Louis v. St. Louis Gaslight Co., 70 Mo. 69 [citing People v. Manhattan Gas Light Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 136; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hall, 91 U. S. 343, 23 L. ed. 428; U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,600, 3 Dill. 524].

20. Morse v. Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 938, bill for a discovery and accounting on behalf of holders of corporate bonds which provide that interest shall be paid out of net earnings.

21. Indianapolis Gas Co. v. Indianapolis, 90 Fed. 196. A corporation may be compelled to answer a bill against it for discovery and accounting, which is filed by holders of bonds which are to receive interest from net profits, but no interest in the absence of net profits, where it alleges fraudulent misappropriation of the corporate assets in violation of the rights of bondholders. Edwards v. Bay State Gas Co., 91 Fed. 946.

22. Many v. Beekman Iron Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 188; Fulton Bank v. New York, etc., Canal Co., 1 Paige (N. Y.) 311 (per Walworth, Ch.); Brumly v. Westchester County Mfg. Soc., 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 366; Bronson v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 2 Wall. (U. S.) 283, 303, 17 L. ed. 725 (per Nelson, J.); Moodalay v. Morton, 1 Bro. Ch. 469, Dick. 652, 28 Eng. Reprint 1245; Glascott v. England Copper Miners Co., 5 Jur. 264, 10 L. J. Ch. 30, 11 Sim. 305, 34 Eng. Ch. 305; Gibbons v.

is sought of an officer of a corporation impleaded as a defendant in equity, the officer must be made a party for that purpose, although no substantial relief is sought against him.[23] On the other hand, if no substantial relief is sought against him, and if no discovery is demanded from him in the bill, he is not properly joined as a party, especially where the bill waives answer under oath.[24]

(B) Further Explanations of This Practice. The officers of a corporation

Waterloo Bridge Co., 5 Price 491; Wych v. Meal, 3 P. Wms. 310, 24 Eng. Reprint 1078; Anonymous, Vern. 117; Le Texier v. Anspach, 15 Ves. Jr. 159; Dummer v. Chippenham, 14 Ves. Jr. 245. "It seems to be settled that a bill will lie against a corporation and its officers, to compel a discovery from the officers, to aid a plaintiff or a defendant in maintaining or defending a suit brought against or by the corporation alone." Field, J., in Post v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 341, 347, 11 N. E. 540, 59 Am. Rep. 86 [citing McComb v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 426, 19 Blatchf. 69; Moodalay v. Morton, 1 Bro. Ch. 469, Dick. 652, 28 Eng. Reprint 1245; Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 1 Ch. D. 171, 45 L. J. Ch. 145, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 632, 24 Wkly. Rep. 151; Glascott v. England Copper Miners Co., 5 Jur. 264, 10 L. J. Ch. 30, 11 Sim. 305, 34 Eng. Ch. 305]. See on the subject of discovery Colgate v. Compagnie Francaise, etc., 23 Fed. 82, 23 Blatchf. 86; Bolton v. Liverpool, Coop. t. Brough. 19, 1 L. J. Ch. 166, 1 Myl. & K. 88, 7 Eng. Ch. 88; MacGregor v. East India Co., 2 Sim. 452, 2 Eng. Ch. 452. It is said that in suits against a corporation, as it answered under its common seal and not under oath, the practice was early established in Massachusetts of making one or more of its officers or members co-defendants, and of compelling them to make disclosure of such facts within their knowledge as the corporation, if a natural person, could have been compelled to disclose, although their answers could not be used as evidence against the corporation. Their answers enabled plaintiff to ascertain, in advance of a trial, what the facts within their knowledge were, and to propound proper interrogatories to them or to other persons as witnesses. Field, J., in Post v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 341, 11 N. E. 540, 59 Am. Rep. 86 [citing Wright v. Dame, 1 Metc. (Mass.) 237]. The practice of joining an officer of the corporation in a bill against it for a discovery, where plaintiff is entitled to a discovery, is explained in McComb v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 426, 19 Blatchf. 69. The reason of the rule is stated by Lord Chancellor Talbot in the leading case of Wych v. Meal, 3 P. Wms. 310, 24 Eng. Reprint 1078, which seems to have finally established the practice to be that the plaintiff ought to have discovery, and although the corporation might answer under its common seal, it would not be responsible for perjury. It is an exception to the general rule that a witness cannot be joined for purposes of discovery. A limitation of the rule is that the officer cannot be joined as a party for the discovery of what he did not learn as an officer, or of the facts which he knew before he became an officer. It has also been held that the plaintiff may join a member of the corporation for the purposes of discovery, although the latter is not an officer or agent of the corporation. Wright v. Dame, 1 Metc. (Mass.) 237. And it has been held in the English court of chancery that members of the corporation may be joined with an officer in such a bill. Glascott v. England Copper Miners Co., 5 Jur. 264, 10 L. J. Ch. 30, 11 Sim. 305, 34 Eng. Ch. 305. But outside of the rule above stated a bill for a discovery, in aid of a defense to an action, cannot be maintained against one who is not a party to the record at law, although he may be interested in the subject of the action, Lord Cottenham saying: "The cases of officers of corporations stand on principles entirely peculiar to themselves, and have obviously no application to the present case." Reg. v. Glyn, 7 Cl. & F. 466, 488, 7 Eng. Reprint 466, 45 L. J. Ch. 145, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 682, 24 Wkly. Rep. 151. In the case of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 1 Ch. D. 171, there was a cross bill for a discovery against the plaintiff and the president of the plaintiff republic. The only questions were as to staying the original action till answer, and as to the right to choose the officer of the plaintiff republic who should make the discovery. One of the leading cases on this subject was that of a "Bill against a Corporation to discover Writings. The Defendants answer under their Common Seal; and so being not sworn, will answer nothing in their own prejudice. Ordered that the Clerk of the Company, and such principal Members as the Plaintiff shall think fit, answer on Oath, and that the Master settle the Oath." Anonymous, Vern. 117 (Anno 1682). So in a case against the East India Company, an officer of the company was made defendant in a bill for discovery of orders and entries in the books of the company, and a demurrer to the bill was overruled. Wych v. East India Co., 3 P. Wms. 309, 24 Eng. Reprint 1078 (Anno 1734). In like manner a demurrer to a bill against the East India Company and their secretary, praying for a general examination of witnesses in India, and that the defendants might discover by what authority plaintiff was dispossessed of a lease for supplying Madras with tobacco (the plaintiffs intending to bring an action), was overruled. Moodalay v. Morton, 1 Bro. Ch. 469, Dick. 652, 28 Eng. Reprint 1245 (Anno 1785).

23. Virginia, etc., Min., etc., Co. v. Hale, 93 Ala. 542, 9 So. 256, Clopton, J., delivering the opinion of the court.

24. Colonial, etc., Mortg. Co. v. Hutchinson Mortg. Co., 44 Fed. 219.

will in many cases be made parties for the mere purpose of compelling them to make discovery of doings of the corporation, where no relief is sought against them as individuals.[25] Although no relief is sought against the officers or agents, but merely a discovery, yet this discovery cannot be had from them unless they be joined with the corporation as defendants in the action; but the answer in such a case will be under the seal of the corporation, according to the knowledge and information and belief of its officers, ascertained from all proper sources of information.[26]

(III) Mere Witness Cannot Be Joined For Discovery. Moreover it is a principle that mere witnesses, who are shown to be cognizant of the alleged facts, cannot be joined for a discovery.[27]

(IV) When Bill Does Not Require Answer Under Oath. It is of the essence of a discovery that it should be under oath, and a party is impleaded as defendant for the purposes of discovery in order to compel him to answer under oath. When therefore the bill does not require an answer under oath the officers of the corporation are improperly joined for discovery.[28]

(V) Former Officers May Be Joined For Discovery. The former as well as the present officers of a corporation can be made parties to a suit against it for the purpose of compelling them to make discovery of facts within their official knowledge.[29]

(VI) Plaintiff May Waive Right to Have Corporate Officer Joined For Discovery. Plaintiff may of course waive his right to have an officer of the corporation joined, who can answer under oath and be responsible for the penalties of perjury for the purpose of making discovery. He may therefore maintain a bill for a discovery against the corporation alone in aid of an action at law, although it does not answer under oath.[30]

(VII) Discovery Limited to Matters Coming to Their Knowledge as Officers. Where the officers of a corporation are thus joined for the purpose of discovery, the discovery is limited to matters coming to their knowledge in the course of their service as officers and cannot be extended to other matters.[31]

25. Dummer v. Chippenham, 14 Ves. Jr. 245.

26. Brumley v. Westchester County Mfg. Soc., 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 366; French v. New York City First Nat. Bank, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,099, 7 Ben. 488. Also it has been said that a bill for a discovery will lie against the members of a corporation without joining the corporation where the members are personally liable for its debts. Middletown Bank v. Russ, 3 Conn. 135, 8 Am. Dec. 164. Where the officers or members of the corporation are joined with the corporation for purposes of discovery only, and the complainant by mistake inserts a prayer for relief against such officers as well as against the company, the officers cannot demur to the discovery and relief generally. They should make the discovery sought and demur to the relief, or should answer the bill generally, and then object at the hearing that they have been improperly made parties to the suit for relief as well as for discovery. Many v. Beekman Iron Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 188.

27. Norwood v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 563; Many v. Beekman Iron Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 188; How v. Best, 5 Madd. 19; Gibbons v. Waterloo Bridge Co., 5 Price 491; Le Texier v. Anspach, 15 Ves. Jr. 159; Story Eq. Pl. §§ 234, 235, note 2. Upon this principle it is held that where a bill in equity is filed by a creditor against a corporation, and also against its directors and officers, but no relief is prayed except as against the corporation, and no fraud, conspiracy, or breach of trust is charged against the directors and officers, they cannot be joined as defendants for the sole purpose of discovery. Tutweiler v. Tuskaloosa Coal, etc., Co., 89 Ala. 391, 7 So. 398; Norwood v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 563.

28. Tutweiler v. Tuskaloosa, etc., Coal Co., 89 Ala. 391, 7 So. 398. Compare Watts v. Eufaula Nat. Bank, 76 Ala. 474; Zelnicker v. Brigham, etc., Co., 74 Ala. 598.

For a bill not alleging facts entitling plaintiff to a discovery from the directors see Camp v. Taylor, (N. J. Ch. 1890) 19 Atl. 968.

Even though the answers of the corporation to the demand of the bill for a discovery cannot be read as evidence against the corporation, yet they may be of use in directing plaintiff how to draw his interrogatories for the purpose of obtaining a better discovery. Wych v. Meal, 3 P. Wms. 310, 24 Eng. Reprint 1078.

29. Fulton Bank v. Sharon Canal Co., 1 Paige (N. Y.) 219.

30. Colgate v. Compagnie Francaise, etc., 23 Fed. 82, 23 Blatchf. 86.

31. "No case has gone so far as to join an officer of a corporation for the purpose of a discovery of matters which were not within

(VIII) OBJECTION THAT DISCOVERY MAY SUBJECT CORPORATION TO FORFEITURE OF ITS CHARTER. The objection that a discovery may subject the company to a forfeiture of its charter is not sufficient to support a general demurrer to a bill for discovery and relief, even if it would have authorized a demurrer to the discovery of particular facts.[32]

r. Statutory Substitutes For Bills For Discovery. Statutory substitutes for the bill for discovery have been enacted both in England[33] and America,[34] under the operation of which the subject of discovery in equity has lost much of its importance. A statutory provision to the effect that any party to an action may be examined as a witness at the instance of any adverse party or parties, after issue joined in said action and before trial thereof, is a statutory substitute for the bill of discovery in equity.[35]

s. Bill of Interpleader by Agent of Corporation. For the circumstances under which an agent of a corporation may bring a bill of interpleader to compel the corporation and a third person to litigate with each other to determine the title to a fund or to a thing in the possession of the agent, and the practice under such a bill, see the authorities cited in the margin.[36]

t. Actions to Recover Payments Voluntarily Made. The rule that a payment voluntarily made under a mistake of law, but with a full knowledge of the facts, cannot be recovered back, rests upon general principles of public convenience, and applies to a corporation as well as to a natural person.[37]

2. DEMAND IN ACTIONS AGAINST CORPORATIONS. It is conceived that no demand is necessary in order to maintain an action against a corporation, except where it would be necessary in the case of an individual. But before a shareholder can bring an action to prevent or redress breaches of trust committed by the officers of the corporation in the management of its affairs, he must make a demand on the directors to sue in the name of the corporation, absurd as this in some cases may be;[38] although some courts have held that no such demand is necessary where it must be made upon the persons who themselves are guilty of the his knowledge as such officer, or learned by him while in the service, or as a member of the corporation, nor, as in this case, matters which took place before the corporation was formed, or in which it had no part, though it appears that by and through other sources of information the officer happens to have obtained such knowledge." Per Choate, J., in McComb v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 426, 428, 19 Blatchf. 69.

32. Robinson v. Smith, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 222, 24 Am. Dec. 212.

When production of corporate books compelled.— Where a corporation, being a party to a suit, is directed by an order of court to do a specific thing to effectuate certain relief to which the other party is entitled, an officer of the corporation may in aid of such relief be compelled, by a subpœna duces tecum on the order of a master, to produce certain specified books and documents of the corporation. Erie R. Co. v. Heath, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,513, 8 Blatchf. 413.

33. In England it is no longer the practice, or even proper, to make an officer or member of a corporation a party to a bill against it for purposes of discovery. In accordance with the fifty-first section of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1854, it has been provided, by the rules of court, that "if any party to an action be a body corporate or a joint stock company, whether incorporated or not, or any other body of persons, empowered by law to sue or be sued, whether in his own name or in the name of any officer or other person, any opposite party may apply at Chambers for an order allowing him to deliver interrogatories to any member or officer of such corporation, company, or body, and an order may be made accordingly." Rules of Court 1875, Order XXXI, Rule 4. See Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552, 555, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 413, 26 Wkly. Rep. 735. Doubtless the more recent court rules deal with the subject in a similar way.

34. These statutes and their interpretation are considered at length in 1 Thompson Trials, § 731 et seq. For the construction of the New York statute see 1 Thompson Trials, § 743 et seq.

35. Wilson v. Webber, 2 Gray (Mass.) 558; Apperson v. Mutual Ben. L. Ins. Co., 38 N. J. L. 272.

36. Gibson v. Goldthwaite, 7 Ala. 281, 42 Am. Dec. 592; Atkinson v. Manks, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 691; Morley v. Thompson, 3 Madd. 564 note; Lowe v. ———, 3 Madd. 277; Bowyer v. Pritchard, 11 Price 103; 6 Thompson Corp. § 7413.

37. Valley R. Co. v. Lake Erie Iron Co., 46 Ohio St. 44, 18 N. E. 486, 1 L. R. A. 412.

38. See supra, XI, B, 19, a et seq.; XI, C, 4, c.

wrong.[39] A demand against a corporation must of course be made upon an agent authorized to represent it in respect of the matter of the demand.[40]

D. Questions Relating to Corporate Existence — 1. In General[41] — a. Corporations De Facto Suable as if De Jure. The contracts of corporations which do not rightfully exist, but which nevertheless do exist and carry on their business as corporations with the consent or through the neglect of the state, may be enforced against them the same as though they were corporations de jure,[42] under the operation of the principle that the question of the rightfulness of the claim to exist as a corporation will not be litigated collaterally between the corporation and private parties, but will be litigated only between it and the state.[43]

b. Estoppel to Deny Corporate Existence — (i) In General. Another principle which constantly comes into operation in actions by and against corporations or in actions by or against the receiver or other representative of corporations in their insolvency is that a party by entering into a contract with a corporation in its artificial name and character, and under such circumstances as necessarily admit its artificial character, becomes thereafter estopped to deny that it is a corporation.[44]

39. Wickersham v. Crittenden, 93 Cal. 17, 28 Pac. 788.

40. Commercial Bank v. Bonner, 13 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 649; Langworthy v. New York, etc., R. Co., 2 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 195. Thus a demand made by a passenger or by his assignee for his baggage where his check has been lost is a good demand if made upon the baggage-master of the railroad company. Cass v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 522. How demand made upon the corporation to lay a foundation for an action to enforce a shareholder's individual liability see Harvey v. Chase, 38 N. H. 272; Haynes v. Brown, 36 N. H. 545.

41. Most of the questions which might properly be considered in this subdivision have been fully dealt with already. See supra, I.

42. Doty v. Patterson, 155 Ind. 60, 56 N. E. 668 [citing Hasselman v. U. S. Mortgage Co., 97 Ind. 365; Williamson v. Kokomo Bldg., etc., Assoc., 89 Ind. 389, 391, 392; Mullen v. Beech Grove Driving Park, 64 Ind. 202; Indianapolis Furnace, etc., Co. v. Herkimer, 46 Ind. 142; Ft. Wayne, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Deam, 10 Ind. 563; Ensey v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 10 Ind. 178; Stoops v. Greensburgh, etc., Plank-Road Co., 10 Ind. 47].

43. Jones v. Aspero Hardware Co., 21 Colo. 263, 40 Pac. 457, 52 Am. St. Rep. 220, 29 L. R. A. 143; Indiana Bond Co. v. Ogle, 22 Ind. App. 593, 54 N. E. 407, 72 Am. St. Rep. 326; McLeary v. Dawson, 87 Tex. 524, 29 S. W. 1044; Davis v. Stevens, 104 Fed. 235. For example there having been no law of the territory of Dakota under which a corporation could be formed for banking purposes, an attempted incorporation for that purpose under the laws of the territory did not create even a corporation de facto under the operation of a statute declaring the common-law principle above stated, but the incorporators were liable as partners on contracts made in the name of the pretended corporation. Davis v. Stevens, 104 Fed. 235.

44. Connecticut.— Fish v. Smith, 73 Conn. 377, 47 Atl. 711, 84 Am. St. Rep. 161, one sued by the receiver of a corporation as a shareholder for an unpaid balance on his shares is estopped from asserting that the organization never became a corporation.

Illinois.— Crystal White Soap Co. v. Roseboom, 91 Ill. App. 551, concern holding itself out as a corporation not permitted to deny its legal identity as such as against those with whom it has assumed to be and to act as a corporation.

Louisiana.— Anderson v. Thompson, 51 La. Ann. 727, 25 So. 399, promoter and organizer of an assumed corporation estopped from denying its existence as such, as against one who has acted upon the assumption of its corporate existence.

Michigan.— Kalamazoo v. Kalamazoo Heat, etc., Co., 122 Mich. 489, 81 N. W. 426, 124 Mich. 74, 82 N. W. 811, parties dealing with a corporation as such, estopped from raising objections to the irregularity of its organization.

Nebraska.— Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Baird, 60 Nebr. 173, 82 N. W. 385 (party contracting with an assumed corporation estopped to question its capacity to contract or to sue); Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bidwell, 60 Nebr. 169, 82 N. W. 384; Haas v. Bank of Commerce, 41 Nebr. 754, 60 N. W. 85 (legal existence of a corporation cannot be questioned collaterally, where it is authorized by law and there has been an attempt in good faith to organize).

New York.— Muehlenbeck v. Babylon, etc., R. Co., 26 Misc. 136, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1023.

Ohio.— Hatry v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 238, principle applied in an action to determine the priority of liens on a railroad.

Oregon.— Washington Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793, 58 L. R. A. 816, principle applied so as to estop one who has borrowed from a building association from questioning its corporate existence in an action to foreclose the mortgage.

(II) This Estoppel Extends to Promoters, Directors, Officers, and Shareholders—(A) In General. This estoppel operates in favor of persons who have given credit to the assumed corporation, or otherwise changed possession to their loss, upon the faith of its being what it purports to be, as against those who by their active conduct have held it out to the world as a corporation.[45] It therefore estops promoters, directors, officers, and shareholders, from denying the fact of the existence of the corporation, when proceeded against to charge them upon the assumption of its existence, and of their connection with it as such.

(B) How as to Promoters. In an action to recover from promoters the profits which they have made in buying property for one price and selling it to the corporation for a greater price, defendants, by reason of their active participation in the formation of the corporation, are estopped from denying that it has been regularly organized.[46]

(C) Extends to Cases Where Parties Contract Among Themselves to Be Liable Only as Members of Supposed Corporation Are Liable. Yet while it is a rule of law that persons who have assumed to make a contract as agents of a corporation which has no existence bind themselves personally, on the principle of breach of warranty of agency,[47] nevertheless this doctrine, in the absence of fraud, has no application where the other contracting party is himself a member of the supposed or pretended corporation. The reason is that where several persons have agreed among themselves to be liable only as the members of a corporation are liable, each one of them is estopped by his own agreement from charging the others with a greater liability.[48]

c. Estoppel to Deny Corporate Powers. Another principle sometimes applied is that a party entering into a contract with a corporation impliedly admits not only the corporate existence of the other contracting party, but its power, under its charter or governing statute, to enter into the particular contract, so as to estop such party from raising the question of such power when sued to enforce the contract.[49]

d. Suing Corporation as Such Admits Its Corporate Existence. Where a plaintiff brings an action against a corporation the direct object of which is to operate upon it and to procure relief against it in its corporate character, he will be estopped at any subsequent stage of the case from denying that defendant is a corporation.[50]

United States.— American Cable R. Co. v. New York, 68 Fed. 227, question of corporate existence cannot be contested in the defense of an action for the infringement of a patent.

See also supra, I, N, 1, b et seq.

45. Pittsburg Min. Co. v. Spooner, 74 Wis. 307, 42 N. W. 259, 17 Am. St. Rep. 149. We have already considered at length how this estoppel operates against shareholders (see supra, I, N, 1, k; VI, P, 6, a, (I), (D), (1) et seq.; VIII, C, 8, a et seq.), and against directors (see supra, IX, P, 12, a, (I) et seq.).

46. Pittsburg Min. Co. v. Spooner, 74 Wis. 307, 42 N. W. 259, 17 Am. St. Rep. 149. So where, in an action in the name of an insurance company, suing as a corporation, upon a subscription executed to the company in liquidation of a subscription to its capital stock, it appeared that defendant was one of the original subscribers to such capital stock, and that he had been elected and had served as one of the directors of the company, it was held that these facts estopped him from objecting that plaintiff had failed to prove a legal corporate organization. Ramsey v. Peoria M. & F. Ins. Co., 55 Ill. 311. So where a certificate of incorporation has been signed by certain persons who accept the office of trustees they are estopped from denying the validity of the certificate. Parrott v. Byers, 40 Cal. 614.

47. See supra, I, Q, 7, c, (I) et seq.; VIII, C, 1, a et seq.

48. Foster v. Moulton, 35 Minn. 458, 29 N. W. 155.

49. Standard Sewing-Mach. Co. v. Frame, 2 Pennew. (Del.) 430, 48 Atl. 188. See further with respect to estoppel to set up the want of corporate power supra, XVII, F, 2, b, (I) et seq.

50. Distilling, etc., Co. v. People, 156 Ill. 448, 41 N. E. 188, 47 Am. St. Rep. 200 (proceeding against a defendant by its corporate name impliedly admits the regularity and legality of the corporate organization); Useful Manufactures Soc. v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 157, 21 Am. Dec. 41. Still less can a corporation be sued as such, and brought into court, and the action be maintained against it, on the ground that it is not

e. General Appearance by Corporation Admits Its Corporate Existence — (I) Rule Stated. A corporation, by appearing in a suit which has been brought against it, admits its corporate existence and estops itself from denying the same.[51]

(II) Rule Extends to Case of Foreign Corporation Proceeded Against by Attachment. So if a foreign corporation proceeded against by attachment voluntarily appears and gives bond in its corporate name it cannot afterward deny its corporate existence.[52]

f. Corporate Existence Admitted by Taking Appeal — (I) In General. So if a defendant is sued as a corporation and makes no appearance until judgment is rendered against it, but appeals from such judgment to a higher court, its appearance for the purpose of taking an appeal, and its appeal, will have the effect of admitting its existence as a corporation, so that it will not be a good point in the appellate court that plantiff failed to prove defendant's corporate existence.[53]

(II) Or by Executing Appeal-Bond. So an assumed corporation, against which a judgment has been rendered, becomes estopped to deny its existence by executing a bond for the purpose of appealing from such judgment.[54]

2. Questions of Pleading Relating to Corporate Existence — a. When Not Necessary to Allege Corporate Existence — (I) In General. There is a mass of authority, more or less definite, to the effect that in an action by[55] or a corporation; and other defendants sued jointly with it cannot be charged in such an action with having jointly, with such corporation, usurped the rights of a corporation, etc., because by suing the corporation as such its existence is admitted. People v. Stanford, 77 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 85, 19 Pac. 693, 2 L. R. A. 92.

51. Alabama.— Oxford Iron Co. v. Spradley, 46 Ala. 98.

Colorado.— Baldwin Coal Co. v. Davis, 15 Colo. App. 371, 62 Pac. 1041.

Illinois.— U. S. Express Co. v. Bedbury, 34 Ill. 459.

Kansas.— Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Shirley, 20 Kan. 660.

Missouri.— Seaton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 416.

New York.— Compare Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. 573.

52. Smith v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 526; Seaton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 416; Hudson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 53 Mo. 525.

53. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Bolson, 36 Kan. 534, 14 Pac. 5.

54. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 6 Heisk. (Tenn.) 607.

55. Alabama.— Seymour v. Thomas Harrow Co., 81 Ala. 250, 1 So. 45.

Georgia.—Wilson v. Sprague Mowing Mach. Co., 55 Ga. 672.

Indiana.— Mackenzie v. Board School Trustees, 72 Ind. 189; Adams Express Co. v. Hill, 43 Ind. 157; Cicero Hygiene Draining Co. v. Craighead, 28 Ind. 274; Williams v. Franklin Tp. Academical Assoc., 26 Ind. 310; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Richardson v. St. Joseph Iron Co., 5 Blackf. 146, 33 Am. Dec. 460; Harris v. Muskingum Mfg. Co., 4 Blackf. 267, 29 Am. Dec. 372.

Iowa.— Harris Mfg. Co. v. Marsh, 49 Iowa 11.

Kansas.— Ryan v. Farmers' Bank, 5 Kan. 658.

Kentucky.— Henderson, etc., R. Co. v. Leavell, 16 B. Mon. 358.

Missouri.— Farmers', etc., Ins. Co. v. Needles, 52 Mo. 17.

Nebraska.— Exchange Nat. Bank v. Capps, 32 Nebr. 242, 49 N. W. 223, 29 Am. St. Rep. 433.

New Jersey.— Bennington Iron Co. v. Rutherford, 18 N. J. L. 105, 35 Am. Dec. 528.

New York.— Phœnix Bank v. Donnell, 40 N. Y. 410 [affirming 41 Barb. 571]; La Fayette Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 30 Barb. 491; Kennedy v. Cotton, 28 Barb. 59; Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. 573; Camden, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Remer, 4 Barb. 127; Georgia M. & F. Ins. Bank v. Jauncey, 1 Barb. 486; Lighte v. Everett F. Ins. Co., 5 Bosw. 716; Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Osgood, 1 Duer 707; Shoe, etc., Bank v. Brown, 9 Abb. Pr. 218, 18 How. Pr. 308; Waterville Bank v. Beltser, 13 How. Pr. 270; Acome v. American Mineral Co., 11 How. Pr. 24; Michigan Bank v. Williams, 5 Wend. 478; Utica Bank v. Smalley, 2 Cow. 770, 14 Am. Dec. 526; Dutchess Cotton Manufactory v. Davis, 14 Johns. 238, 7 Am. Dec. 459; U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. 132.

Ohio.— Brady v. Palmer, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 27.

Oklahoma.— Leader Printing Co. v. Lowry, 9 Okla. 89, 59 Pac. 242.

Pennsylvania.— Zion Church v. St. Peter's Church, 5 Watts & S. 215.

South Carolina.— Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. White, 14 S. C. 51.

Virginia.— Gillett v. American Stove, etc., Co., 29 Gratt. 565.

Wisconsin.— Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cross, 18 Wis. 109; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Fisher, 17 Wis. 114; Chickerming Lodge No. 55, I. O. O. F. v. McDonald, 16 Wis. 112; against[56] a corporation, whether ex contractu or ex delicto, it is not necessary to allege the fact that plaintiff or defendant is a corporation.

(II) Not so Necessary Where Plaintiff or Defendant Is Described by Name Which Imports Corporation. Most of these decisions proceed upon the ground that where the plaintiff or the defendant as the case may be is described in the declaration or complaint by a name which naturally imports that it is a corporation, that is a sufficient allegation that such is the fact, for the purpose of an action, until it is controverted.[57]

(III) Not so Necessary Where Plaintiff or Defendant Is Described by Name in Which It Has Entered Into Contract Sued on—(A) In General. Others proceed on the ground that in an action on a contract it will be sufficient for the declaration or complaint to describe plaintiff or defendant as the case may be by the artificial name by which such party is described in the contract, and that the defendant will be estopped by the contract to deny the capacity of such party to sue or be sued by that name.[58]

(B) This Rule Under Statutes. Still others rest upon statutes such as that of Iowa providing that "when an action is founded on a written instrument, suit

Rains v. Oshkosh, 14 Wis. 372; Central Bank v. Knowlton, 12 Wis. 624, 78 Am. Dec. 769.

United States.— Society for Propagation, etc. v. Pawlet, 4 Pet. 480, 7 L. ed. 927; Union Cement Co. v. Noble, 15 Fed. 502.

56. Arkansas.—Odd Fellows Bldg. Assoc. v. Hogan, 28 Ark. 261.

Georgia.— Cribb v. Waycross Lumber Co., 82 Ga. 597, 9 S. E. 426.

Illinois.— U. S. Express Co. v. Bedbury, 34 Ill. 459.

Indiana.—Adams Express Co. v. Harris, 120 Ind. 73, 21 N. E. 340, 16 Am. St. Rep. 315, 7 L. R. A. 214; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. McDougall, 108 Ind. 179, 8 N. E. 571; Sayers v. Crawfordsville First Nat. Bank, 89 Ind. 230; Indianapolis Sun Co. v. Horrell, 53 Ind. 527; Adams Express Co. v. Hill, 43 Ind. 157.

Michigan.— Ladd v. East Saginaw M. E. Church, 1 Mich. N. P. 47.

New York.— Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. 573.

North Carolina.— Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331.

Wisconsin.— Brauser v. New England F. Ins. Co., 21 Wis. 506.

England.— Woolf v. City Steamboat Co., 7 C. B. 103, 13 Jur. 456, 18 L. J. C. P. 125, 62 E. C. L. 103.

57. Alabama.— Seymour v. Thomas Harrow Co., 81 Ala. 250, 1 So. 45, where plaintiff sued as the "Thomas Harrow Company."

Arkansas.— Odd Fellows Bldg. Assoc. v. Hogan, 28 Ark. 261, defendant being sued merely as the "Odd Fellows' Building Association."

Georgia.— Cribb v. Waycross Lumber Co., 82 Ga. 597, 9 S. E. 426.

Indiana.—Adams Express Co. v. Harris, 120 Ind. 73, 21 N. E. 340, 16 Am. St. Rep. 315, 7 L. R. A. 214 (the "Adams Express Company"); Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. McDougall, 108 Ind. 179, 8 N. E. 571 (where defendant was sued as the "Cincinnati, Hamilton & Indianapolis Railroad Company"); Mackenzie v. Board School Trustees, 72 Ind. 189 (where plaintiff sued as "The Board of School Trustees for the Town of," etc.); Indianapolis Sun Co. v. Horrell, 53 Ind. 527; Adams Express Co. v. Hill, 43 Ind. 157; Northwestern Universalists Conference v. Myers, 36 Ind. 375; Cicero Hygiene Draining Co. v. Craighead, 28 Ind. 274; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; O'Donald v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 14 Ind. 259; Richardson v. St. Joseph's Iron Co., 5 Blackf. 146, 33 Am. Dec. 460; Harris v. Muskingum Mfg. Co., 4 Blackf. 267, 27 Am. Dec. 372.

New York.— Phœnix Bank v. Donnell, 40 N. Y. 410 (where plaintiff sued as the "Phœnix Bank"); Lighte v. Everett F. Ins. Co., 5 Bosw. 716; Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Osgood, 1 Duer 707.

North Carolina.— Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331.

Virginia.— Gillett v. American Stove, etc., Co., 29 Gratt. 565, where plaintiff sued as the "American Stove & Hollow-ware Company."

England.— Woolf v. City Steamboat Co., 7 C. B. 103, 13 Jur. 456, 18 L. J. C. P. 125, 62 E. C. L. 103, where the declaration commenced: "The plaintiff complaining of The City Steam Boat Company, who have been summoned to answer the plaintiff," etc., and it was held that this was a sufficient declaration without alleging defendant to be chartered, or incorporated, or registered.

58. National Ins. Co. v. Bowman, 60 Mo. 252; Farmers', etc., Ins. Co. v. Needles, 52 Mo. 17; Exchange Nat. Bank v. Capps, 32 Nebr. 242, 49 N. W. 223, 29 Am. St. Rep. 433; Platte Valley Bank v. Harding, 1 Nebr. 461; Dutchess Cotton Manufactory v. Davis, 14 Johns. (N. Y.) 238, 7 Am. Dec. 459. It has been held that where defendant has contracted in writing with plaintiffs as a corporation, they will not be required to prove their corporate existence, because he avers in his answer that he is informed and believes that they "are not a corporation." East River Bank v. Rogers, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 493. See also supra, I, N, 1, a et seq.; XXII, D, 1, b, (I).

may be brought by or against any of the parties thereto, by the same name and description as those by which they are designated in such instrument."[59]

(iv) Theory of Decisions Which Dispensed With Necessity of Alleging Corporate Existence. Most of the cases, as already noted, rest upon the theory that it is sufficient to describe plaintiff or defendant by an artificial name which naturally imports that it is a corporation. Others rest upon the broader ground that plaintiff may, on the one hand, sue by whatever name or description he chooses to take, and that he may sue defendant, on the other hand, by whatever name or description he chooses to give; so that if in the former case there is no such plaintiff, defendant may appear and show that fact,[60] and that until he does appear and show that fact by an appropriate plea it is immaterial whether plaintiff is a corporation, a partnership, or an individual, but his petition is good on demurrer,[61] and it is not necessary for the plaintiff on the trial to introduce any evidence of its existence as a corporation;[62] and so that, on the other hand, if there is no such defendant, it is not necessary for any one to appear at all. Again, in cases where plaintiff is described by a name which is ordinarily given to a corporation, many of the decisions hold that the declaration or complaint is sufficient on demurrer, because it does not appear on the face of it that plaintiff is not a corporation;[63] and the same rule has been suggested as applicable to the case where defendant is so sued even in an action ex delicto;[64] and this conclusion is strengthened in those jurisdictions which practice under the modern codes of procedure, which allow the want of capacity of plaintiff to sue to be taken advantage of by demurrer, when it appears on the face of the complaint, but which expressly require all other objections to parties to be made by answer.[65] And finally many of the cases lay stress upon the failure of defendant to raise the objection by the proper plea, or until after verdict;[66] and it is the implication of all the cases that the objection must be made in limine and by plea in abatement, or otherwise in the mode pointed out by statute, as by affidavit in Virginia;[67] and it seems that this rule applies in equity as well as at law;[68] and this would be the conclusion in the code states, where there is one code of procedure applicable alike to cases at law and in equity. Under no system of pleading is it necessary for the corporate existence to be averred and where the suit is in the name of trustees who hold the legal title.[69]

b. Contrary Doctrine That It Is Necessary to Allege Corporate Existence — (i) In General. On the contrary there are some judicial holdings, mostly it seems, rendered in deference to statutory provisions, that in an action by[70] or 59. Iowa Code, § 2558; Harris Mfg. Co. v. Marsh, 49 Iowa 11, 13. Compare Gaines v. Mississippi Bank, 12 Ark. 769; Hoereth v. Franklin Mill Co., 30 Ill. 151.

60. "A party," says Nevius, J., "must come into court in his true and proper name. If he fails to do so, the defendant may interpose his plea in abatement; but if he pleads to the action, he admits the plaintiff's right to sue in the name assumed." Bennington Iron Co. v. Rutherford, 18 N. J. L. 105, 107, 35 Am. Dec. 528.

61. Seymour v. Thomas Harrow Co., 81 Ala. 250, 1 So. 45. See also Mackenzie v. Edinburg School Trustees, 72 Ind. 189; Phœnix Bank v. Donnell, 40 N. Y. 410.

62. Adams Express Co. v. Hill, 43 Ind. 157; Gillett v. American Stove, etc., Co., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 565.

63. Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Osgood, 1 Duer (N. Y.) 707.

64. Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331.

65. See for instance N. C. Code Civ. Proc. § 95, as thus interpreted in Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331.

66. Cribb v. Waycross Lumber Co., 82 Ga. 597, 9 S. E. 426; Kennedy v. Cotton, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 59.

67. Gillett v. American Stove, etc., Co., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 565. See also infra, XXII, D, 2, f, (IX).

68. Thus in a bill in equity filed by a corporation an averment of the corporate existence of the complainants is unnecessary. Central Mfg. Co. v. Hartshorne, 3 Conn. 199; Frye v. State Bank, 10 Ill. 332; German Reformed Church v. Von Puechelstein, 27 N. J. Eq. 30.

69. Wolf v. Goddard, 9 Watts (Pa.) 544.

70. Oroville, etc., R. Co. v. Plumas County, 37 Cal. 354, 360 (per Rhodes, J.); Central Mfg. Co. v. Hartshorne, 3 Conn. 199; Connecticut Bank v. Smith, 17 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 487; Havana Bank v. Wickham, 16 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 97; Johnson v. Kemp, 11 How. Pr.

against a corporation, it is necessary for the declaration, complaint, or petition to allege that it is a corporation.[71]

(II) Courts Proceed Upon Distinction Between Public Statutes and Private Charters — (A) In General. Some of these decisions proceed upon a distinction between the case where a corporation is created by a public statute, which the courts will notice judicially, and the case where it is created by a private charter, which must be pleaded and proved, holding that in the latter case plaintiffs must aver and prove that they are a body corporate, duly constituted by competent authority,[72] while conceding that the rule is otherwise where the act of incorporation is a public statute of the state in which the action is brought, of which the court can take judicial notice.[73] This principle, it has been held, applies with equal force in a case where the action is brought by a foreign corporation,[74] and where it is brought by a domestic corporation created by a private statute;[75] since in the latter as well as in the former case, the act under which the plaintiff claims to exist as a corporation cannot be judicially known by the court.

(B) Courts Which Repudiate This Distinction. Other courts repudiate this distinction, and hold that it is not necessary to plead the charter of the corporation, although it is a private statute.[76]

(III) Distinction Between Actions Ex Delicto and Actions Ex Contractu. One case takes a further distinction between actions ex delicto and actions ex contractu, holding that in an action ex delicto against a defendant impleaded by an artificial name the petition should allege defendant to be either a corporation or a partnership, or capacitated to be sued in the action, while conceding that if the action were upon a contract, and defendant were impleaded by the artificial name used therein, that would be sufficient.[77]

(IV) Jurisdictions in Which Rule Rests Upon Statute. It should also be noted that some of the decisions holding that it is necessary to aver in a complaint that plaintiff is a corporation rest upon the language of positive statutes, such as decisions in New York.[78]

(V) Necessary to Allege Corporate Existence Where Action Is to Enforce Right Which Can Inhere Only in a Corporation. Even if the general rule of procedure stated in the preceding paragraphs,[79] which dispensed with the necessity of averring the fact of corporate existence in ordinary cases, obtained, yet on sound principles an exception to it must be admitted in the case where a

(N. Y.) 186; Alabama Bank v. Simonton, 2 Tex. 531. The last two cases are disapproved in Kennedy v. Cotton, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 59. And see Phœnix Bank v. Donnell, 40 N. Y. 410.

71. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393, 23 Pac. 303; Middletown Bank v. Russ, 3 Conn. 135, 8 Am. Dec. 164; Byington v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 11 Iowa 502.

72. Central Mfg. Co. v. Hartshorne, 3 Conn. 199; Holloway v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 23 Tex. 465, 76 Am. Dec. 68; Alabama Bank v. Simonton, 2 Tex. 531.

73. Holloway v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 23 Tex. 465, 76 Am. Dec. 68.

74. Alabama Bank v. Simonton, 2 Tex. 531.

75. Holloway v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 23 Tex. 465, 76 Am. Dec. 68.

76. U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 132. See also Taylor v. Alexandria Bank, 5 Leigh (Va.) 471; Grays v. Lynchburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 4 Rand. (Va.) 578.

77. Byington v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 11 Iowa 502. Compare Harris Mfg. Co. v. Marsh, 49 Iowa 11; Falconer v. Campbell, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,620, 2 McLean 195.

78. That the failure to allege either that plaintiff or defendant is a corporation is ground of demurrer under section 1775 of the New York Code of Civil Procedure see Schillinger Fireproof Cement, etc., Co. v. Arnot, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 326; Oesterreicher v. Sporting Times Pub. Co., 5 N. Y. Suppl. 2; National Temperance Soc. v. Anderson, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 49, 17 N. Y. St. 389.

In an action for a penalty given by a statute against "the several railroad companies in this State," for transporting slaves from place to place without the permission of their masters, it was held, in Missouri, that it is necessary for plaintiff to aver in his complaint that defendant is a railroad company in this state; that without this averment the petition showed no cause of action which would support a judgment; and that a judgment rendered upon such a petition would be reversed and the cause remanded with leave to plaintiff to amend. Welton v. Pacific R. Co., 34 Mo. 358.

79. See supra, XXII, D, 2, a, (I) et seq.

party is suing by an artificial name to enforce a right which from its nature can be possessed only by a corporation, in which case it must allege and prove that it is a corporation; because such allegation and proof are necessary — not to its right of action generally, but to its right or title to maintain the particular action.[80] It has been so held where it sues to recover property of a previously existing company, and its own charter requires it to purchase such property as a condition precedent to becoming organized as a body corporate. Here, as no recovery can be had without the fulfilment of the condition, that is to say, without organizing as a corporation, the fact of its having so organized must be alleged by it and proved.[81] So where there is a statute giving as a substitute to a discovery in equity the right to examine the officers of the opposite party to a suit where the opposite party is a corporation,[82] then, in order to entitle the other party to file interrogatories thereunder, he must prove that the opposite party is in fact a corporation.[83]

c. What Averments of Corporate Existence Sufficient — (I) Enough to Allege That Plaintiff or Defendant Is Corporation, Etc. In an action by[84] or against[85] a corporation, it is in general not necessary for plaintiff to do more than allege the fact that plaintiff or defendant as the case may be is a corporation created under laws of a state or country named.

(II) What Plaintiff Need Not Aver. Plaintiff need not go further and set forth the charter, whether it be a public or private statute;[86] state whether the corporation has been created by a public or private act of the legislature,[87] give the names of the individuals composing it,[88] how they came to be a corporation,[89] or the manner in which the corporation was organized;[90] or aver the performance

80. Frye v. State Bank, 10 Ill. 332, 335, per Trumbull, J.

81. Wheadon v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 42 Ill. 494.

82. Mass. Gen. Stat. c. 129, § 50.

83. Gott v. Adams Express Co., 100 Mass. 320.

84. California.— South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222.

Georgia.—Wilson v. Sprague Mowing Mach. Co., 55 Ga. 672.

Illinois.— Spangler v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 276.

Indiana.—Washer v. Allensville, etc., Turnpike Co., 81 Ind. 78; Paine v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 31 Ind. 283.

Missouri.—Chillicothe Sav. Assoc. v. Ruegger, 60 Mo. 218.

Nevada.— Little v. Virginia, etc., Water Co., 9 Nev. 317.

New York.— Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. 573; Camden, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Remer, 4 Barb. 127; Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dwight, 1 Hilt. 50; U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. 132.

Ohio.— Smith v. Weed Sewing Mach. Co., 26 Ohio St. 562.

South Carolina.— Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Garland, 14 S. C. 63; Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. White, 14 S. C. 51.

85. Dodge v. Minnesota Plastic Slate Roofing Co., 14 Minn. 49; Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dwight, 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 50; Minter v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Utah 500, 24 Pac. 911; Hart v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 W. Va. 336.

86. Indiana.— Paine v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 31 Ind. 283.

Minnesota.— Dodge v. Minnesota Plastic Slate Roofing Co., 14 Minn. 49.

New York.— Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Dwight, 1 Hilt. 50; U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. 132.

Ohio.— Smith v. Weed Sewing Mach. Co., 26 Ohio St. 562, a foreign corporation.

Virginia.— Grays v. Lynchburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 4 Rand. 578.

Contra, that plaintiff must set forth such parts of its acts of incorporation as are necessary to show that it is a corporation and has power to sue see Central Mfg. Co. v. Hartshorne, 3 Conn. 199.

87. U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 132.

88. U. S. Bank v. Haskins, 1 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 132.

89. Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 573; Utica Bank v. Smalley, 2 Cow. (N. Y.) 770, 14 Am. Dec. 526; Grays v. Lynchburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 4 Rand. (Va.) 578.

90. Alabama.— Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Tipton, 5 Ala. 787, 39 Am. Dec. 344.

Georgia.—Wilson v. Sprague Mowing Mach. Co., 55 Ga. 672.

Indiana.—Washer v. Allensville, etc., Turnpike Co., 81 Ind. 78.

Kentucky.— Instone v. Frankfort Bridge Co., 2 Bibb 576, 5 Am. Dec. 638.

West Virginia.— Hart v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 W. Va. 336.

The same rule has been applied under the common-law system of pleading in an action ex contractu against the directors of an alleged corporation, the court taking the view that the averment of the existence of the corporation need not be made in positive language, but may be made by way of recital; nor so formal as to set out how the corpora-of statutory conditions precedent.[91] But everything beyond the general fact of incorporation alleged in the declaration necessary to maintain the action is matter of evidence upon the trial.[92]

(III) THE USUAL WAY OF MAKING THE AVERMENT. Under the foregoing principles, in an action by a corporation, an averment that plaintiff was a corporation "duly incorporated under and by virtue of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Missouri entitled," etc., is the usual way of making the averment of the corporate existence of plaintiff, and is sufficient.[93] tion came into existence, reciting the various steps necessary to make it a corporation; but suggesting that the rule is otherwise, at least on special demurrer, where the action is founded on tort. Falconer v. Campbell, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,620, 2 McLean 195. This is in conformity with the doctrine of an old case to the effect that where the fact of incorporation is pleaded as an inducement to something else, for instance as a means of alleging seizin in the defendants, it is not necessary to set forth how they became incorporated. Manby v. Long, 3 Lev. 107. The rule is the same where the due organization of a corporation is the foundation of the plaintiff's action, as where two parties agree to organize a corporation, combining their business under a scheme by which one of them is to receive certain guaranteed dividends, and his action is to recover those dividends. Here it is enough for him to allege that the corporation was duly organized, without alleging the details of its organization. Lorillard v. Clyde, 86 N. Y. 384.

91. South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222; Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Garland, 14 S. C. 63; Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. White, 14 S. C. 51. A statute of California provides that no corporation now in existence or hereafter formed shall maintain or defend any action in relation to its property until it has filed a certified copy of its articles of incorporation with the clerk of the county in which such property is situated. Cal. Civ. Code, § 299. The construction of this statute is that where the complaint contains no averment upon the subject, whether the plaintiff has complied with this provision or not, it is not for that reason demurrable; it is a defense to be specially pleaded in the answer. As a defense it is only matter in abatement of the action, and if not specially pleaded it is deemed to have been waived. South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222; Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Purcell, 77 Cal. 69, 18 Pac. 886; Phillips v. Goldtree, 74 Cal. 151, 13 Pac. 313, 15 Pac. 451; Sweeney v. Stanford, 67 Cal. 635, 8 Pac. 444. Moreover a plea in abatement setting up this matter is strictly construed. Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66. See Larco v. Clements, 36 Cal. 132; Thompson v. Lyon, 14 Cal. 39; Tooms v. Randall, 3 Cal. 438. An answer setting up "that plaintiff has not, and at the commencement of this action had not, legal capacity to sue; that plaintiff never was a corporation duly or otherwise organized under the laws of this state, nor a copartnership, nor an individual" states mere conclusion of law and does not properly plead this defense so as to admit evidence of it. Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 70, 22 Pac. 66. From the foregoing it follows that a complaint which does not show that plaintiff has complied with this law, nevertheless, if otherwise good, states a cause of action. Phillips v. Goldtree, 74 Cal. 151, 13 Pac. 313, 15 Pac. 451. It is also held that the expression in the above statute, "every corporation now in existence," was intended to embrace only corporations formed in the state of California, whether formed under the provisions of the civil code of that state or under the provisions of statutes existing in that state prior to the civil code; and that it has no application to foreign corporations. South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222. The theory has been put forward that where a corporation brings an action, if it has been created by an act of the legislature which requires certain acts to be done before it can be considered in esse, it must allege and prove that such acts have been done in order to establish its corporate existence; but that when a corporation is declared such by its act of incorporation, without the doing of any further act to make it such, the existence of the charter need not be alleged. St. Paul Div. No. 1 S. of T. v. Brown, 9 Minn. 157. But this is not the law. The true theory is that of the text, that it is not necessary to do more in any case than to allege that the plaintiff is a corporation.

92. Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 573.

93. Dodge v. Minnesota Plastic Slate Roofing Co., 14 Minn. 49; Chillicothe Sav. Assoc. v. Ruegger, 60 Mo. 218. As to the averment of corporate existence under the code of New York prior to the statute of 1880 (N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1775) see Canandarkua Academy v. McKechnie, 19 Hun (N. Y.) 62; Howe Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 399; Roberts v. National Ice Co., 6 Daly (N. Y.) 426; Sonoma Valley Wine, etc., Co. v. Heyman, 11 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 327. Among the more or less contradictory and confusing decisions construing this statute are: Adams v. Lamson Consol. Store Service Co., 59 Hun (N. Y.) 127, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 118, 35 N. Y. St. 518; American Baptist Home Mission Soc. v. Foote, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 307, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 236, 23 N. Y. St. 462; Northampton First Nat. Bank v. Doying, 13 Daly (N. Y.) 509, 11 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 61; Gilpin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 N. Y. Suppl. 520, 44 N. Y. St. 298;

(iv) Whether Necessary to Repeat Averment of Corporate Existence in Successive Counts. Where the declaration, petition, or complaint contains several counts, each stating a separate cause of action, then, according to the rule in some jurisdictions, if proper averments be made in the first count of the petition, showing the corporate existence and powers of parties to the action, they need not be repeated in subsequent counts;[94] while in other jurisdictions the averment must be repeated in each count.[95]

(v) Declaring Against Corporation Which Has Changed Its Name. A change of name by a corporation does not change its character or abrogate its contracts;[96] and an action against a corporation by a former name cannot be defeated by showing that it has changed its name without any change of membership.[97] Where, since the making of the contract, or the happening of the event which gives the right of action, the corporation liable to the action has changed its name, plaintiff proceeds against it in its true name and simply declares that defendant by the name of — here inserting its old name — made the contract sued on or did the act complained of; and it is not necessary to explain how its name came to be changed, because the question can only arise on a defensive pleading.[98]

d. Question of Corporate Existence of Plaintiff Must Be Raised by Defendant — (i) Under All Theories of Pleading. Under all theories of pleading, whether the declaration or complaint sets out that plaintiff is a corporation or not, the question will never be noticed unless it is distinctly raised by defendant by some defensive pleading.[99]

(ii) Corporate Character of Plaintiff Admitted by Default. Therefore the capacity of plaintiff to sue, in the character assumed by it, is always admitted by a default.[1]

(iii) When Corporate Existence of Plaintiff Presumed After Verdict. It also follows that if it is not appropriately raised by defendant, the Oesterreicher v. Sporting Times Pub. Co., 5 N. Y. Suppl. 2; Columbia Bank v. Jackson, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 433; National Temperance Soc. v. Anderson, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 49, 17 N. Y. St. 389; Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank v. Rogers, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 757, 17 N. Y. St. 381, 15 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 250; Irving Nat. Bank v. Corbett, 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 85; Utica Second Nat. Bank v. Wells, 53 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 242.

94. West v. Eureka Imp. Co., 40 Minn. 394, 42 N. W. 87; Aull Sav. Bank v. Lexington, 74 Mo. 104.

95. People v. Central Pac. Co., 83 Cal. 393, 23 Pac. 303.

96. See supra, I, C, 6, a.

97. Dean v. La Motte Lead Co., 59 Mo. 523; Welfley v. Shenandoah Iron, etc., Co., 83 Va. 768, 3 S. E. 376.

98. 6 Thompson Corp. § 7597.

Contrary to the text is an old case to the effect that where in an action it becomes necessary to plead an authority under a corporation, if the pleader describes the corporation by one name and recites that after a period named it was known by another name, it is incumbent upon him to show in what manner the name of the corporation became changed. Adney v. Vernon, 3 Lev. 243.

99. California.— South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222; Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Purcell, 77 Cal. 69, 18 Pac. 886.

Illinois.— Bailey v. Valley Nat. Bank, 127 Ill. 332, 19 N. E. 695 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 642].

Missouri.— Kansas City Y. M. C. A. v. Dubach, 82 Mo. 475; Bulkley v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 77 Mo. 105.

Nebraska.— Exchange Nat. Bank v. Capps, 32 Nebr. 242, 49 N. W. 223, 29 Am. St. Rep. 433; Heron v. Cole, 25 Nebr. 692; National L. Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 8 Nebr. 452, 1 N. W. 124.

North Carolina.— Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331.

South Carolina.— Rembert v. South Carolina R. Co., 31 S. C. 309, 9 S. E. 938; Palmetto Lumber Co. v. Risley, 25 S. C. 309.

Texas.— Willis v. Smith, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 543, 43 S. W. 325, holding that the existence of a corporation need not be proved in the absence of a plea denying its existence.

United States.— Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman, 38 Fed. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503.

See also Bliss Code Pl. (2d ed.) § 408.

1. Phenix Bank v. Curtis, 14 Conn. 437, 36 Am. Dec. 492; McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Hubbard v. Chappel, 14 Ind. 601; Harris v. Muskingum Mfg. Co., 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 267, 29 Am. Dec. 372.

existence of plaintiff as a corporation will be presumed after verdict, whether plaintiff's affirmative pleading states that it is a corporation or not.[2]

e. Plea to Merits Admits Corporate Existence. Whether the corporation is the plaintiff or the defendant in the action, if its existence is alleged in the declaration, complaint, or petition, a plea to the merits of the action operates as an admission that it is a corporation. Thus, although there are some early and overruled decisions to the contrary,[3] if the action is brought by a plaintiff, alleging itself to be a corporation, a plea of the general issue at common law admits the corporate existence of plaintiff, and its right to sue in the character which it has assumed;[4] and the same effect is ascribed to the general denial under the codes

2. British American Land Co. v. Ames, 6 Metc. (Mass.) 391; Girls' Industrial Home v. Fritchey, 10 Mo. App. 344; Williams v. Michigan Bank, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 539. Compare Wolf v. Goddard, 9 Watts (Pa.) 544.

3. Alabama.— Lucas v. Georgia Bank, 2 Stew. 147.

Illinois.— Jones v. State Bank, 1 Ill. 124; Hargrave v. State Bank, 1 Ill. 122.

Maryland.— Agnew v. Gettysburg Bank, 2 Harr. & G. 478.

Michigan.— Smith v. Adrian, 1 Mich. 495; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Troy City Bank, 1 Dougl. 457.

Mississippi.— Carmichael v. School Lands Trustees, 3 How. 84.

New Hampshire.— Society for Propagating, etc. v. Young, 2 N. H. 310.

New York.— U. S. Bank v. Stearns, 15 Wend. 314; New York Fire Dept. v. Kip, 10 Wend. 266; Welland Canal Co. v. Hathaway, 8 Wend. 480, 24 Am. Dec. 51; Michigan Bank v. Williams, 5 Wend. 478 [affirmed in 7 Wend. 539]; Wood v. Jefferson County Bank, 9 Cow. 194; Vernon Soc. v. Hills, 6 Cow. 23, 16 Am. Dec. 429; Utica Bank v. Smalley, 2 Cow. 770, 14 Am. Dec. 526; Auburn Bank v. Weed, 19 Johns. 300, 303; Bill v. Fourth Great Western Turnpike Co., 14 Johns. 416; Dutchess Cotton Manufactory v. Davis, 14 Johns. 238, 7 Am. Dec. 459; Jackson v. Plumbe, 8 Johns. 378.

North Carolina.— Buncombe Turnpike Co. v. McCarson, 18 N. C. 306; Tar River Nav. Co. v. Neal, 10 N. C. 520.

Ohio.— Lewis v. Kentucky Bank, 12 Ohio 132, 40 Am. Dec. 469.

Texas.— Holloway v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 23 Tex. 465, 76 Am. Dec. 68.

Virginia.— Jackson v. Marietta Bank, 9 Leigh 240; Taylor v. Alexandria Bank, 5 Leigh 471; Rees v. Conococheague Bank, 5 Rand. 326, 16 Am. Dec. 755; Grays v. Lynchburg, etc., Turnpike Co., 4 Rand. 578.

The rule in England seems to be as held in these earlier American cases. Norris v. Staps, Hob. 293; Henriques v. West Indies Dutch Co., 2 Ld. Raym. 1532; 1 Kyd Corp. 292. This rule is hence frequently spoken of in the American law-books as the "rule of the common law." See for example Smith v. Adrian, 1 Mich. 495; Central Land Co. v. Calhoun, 16 W. Va. 361. Compare Ætna Ins. Co. v. Wires, 28 Vt. 93.

4. Alabama.— Prince v. Commercial Bank, 1 Ala. 241, 34 Am. Dec. 773.

Arkansas.—Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443; Washington v. Finley, 10 Ark. 423, 52 Am. Dec. 244; McKiel v. Real Estate Bank, 4 Ark. 592.

Connecticut.— Phenix Bank v. Curtis, 14 Conn. 437, 36 Am. Dec. 492.

Illinois.— Bailey v. Valley Nat. Bank, 127 Ill. 332, 19 N. E. 695.

Indiana.— Price v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. 137; Bartholomew County v. Bright, 18 Ind. 93; Carpenter v. Mercantile Bank, 17 Ind. 253; Harrison v. Martinsville, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 505, 79 Am. Dec. 447; Hubbard v. Chappel, 14 Ind. 601; Hardy v. Merriweather, 14 Ind. 203; Jones v. Cincinnati Type Foundry Co., 14 Ind. 89; Railsback v. Liberty, etc., Turnpike Co., 2 Ind. 656.

Kentucky.—Taylor v. Illinois Bank, 7 T. B. Mon. 576.

Maine.— Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49, 69 Am. Dec. 81; Roxbury v. Huston, 37 Me. 42; Putnam Free School v. Fisher, 30 Me. 523; Savage Mfg. Co. v. Armstrong, 17 Me. 34, 35 Am. Dec. 227; Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656.

Maryland.— Metropolis Bank v. Orme, 3 Gill 443; Whittington v. Farmers' Bank, 5 Harr. & J. 548.

Massachusetts.— Monumoi Great Beach v. Rogers, 1 Mass. 159. Compare Plymouth Christian Soc. v. Macomber, 3 Metc. 235.

Michigan.— Lake Superior Bldg. Co. v. Thompson, 32 Mich. 293 (under a statute); Smith v. Adrian, 1 Mich. 495.

Mississippi.—Compare Carmichael v. School Lands Trustees, 3 How. 84.

Nebraska.— Swift v. Crawford, 34 Nebr. 450, 51 N. W. 1034.

New Hampshire.— Concord v. McIntire, 6 N. H. 527. Compare Orange School Dist. No. 1 v. Blaisdell, 6 N. H. 197.

New York.—Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309; People v. Ravenswood, etc., Turnpike, etc., Co., 20 Barb. 518. Compare Southold v. Horton, 6 Hill 501.

Ohio.— Cincinnati M. E. Church v. Wood, 5 Ohio 283.

Pennsylvania.—Rheem v. Naugatuck Wheel Co., 33 Pa. St. 356; Zion Church v. St. Peter's Church, 5 Watts & S. 215. Compare Wolf v. Goddard, 9 Watts 544.

South Carolina.— Liberian Exodus Joint Stock Steamship Co. v. Rodgers, 21 S. C. 27; Commercial Ins., etc., Co. v. Turner, 8 S. C. 107.

and practice acts,[5] and to a special plea to the merits.[6] It is substantially another statement of this rule to say that, in an action by a plaintiff declaring itself to be a corporation, the question of its corporate existence can be raised only by a plea in abatement, a plea of nul tiel corporation, or other pleading designed to raise that question distinctly, and that a plea to the merits of the action in any form admits the capacity of plaintiff to sue in the name assumed.[7]

f. In What Manner Question of Corporate Existence Raised in Pleading — (1) In General Not Raised by Demurrer. It has been elsewhere said, in a state practising under a code, that the question must be raised by demurrer or answer or it will be deemed waived;[8] but as a demurrer has no larger office under the codes than a special demurrer had at common law, it is clear that it cannot be raised by demurrer, unless the declaration, complaint, or petition, affirmatively shows that the party described is not a corporation.[9] Where a body

West Virginia.— Hart v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 W. Va. 336.

United States.— Yeaton v. Lynn, 5 Pet. 224, 8 L. ed. 105; Union Cement Co. v. Noble, 15 Fed. 502; Dental Vulcanite Co. v. Wetherbee, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,810, 2 Cliff. 555. Compare Society for Propagation, etc., v. Pawlet, 4 Pet. 480, 7 L. ed. 927.

5. Herron v. Cole, 25 Nebr. 692, 41 N. W. 765; National L. Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 8 Nebr. 452, 1 N. W. 124; Rembert v. South Carolina R. Co., 31 S. C. 309, 9 S. E. 968; Palmetto Lumber Co. v. Risley, 25 S. C. 309; Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman, 38 Fed. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503.

6. Bailey v. Valley Nat. Bank, 127 Ill. 332, 19 N. E. 695; Central Land Co. v. Calhoun, 16 W. Va. 361.

7. Alabama.— Montgomery R. Co. v. Hurst, 9 Ala. 513; Prince v. Commercial Bank, 1 Ala. 241, 34 Am. Dec. 773.

Connecticut.—Litchfield Bank v. Church, 29 Conn. 137; West Winsted Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Ford, 27 Conn. 282, 71 Am. Dec. 66; People's Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Collins, 27 Conn. 142; Phenix Bank v. Curtis, 14 Conn. 437, 36 Am. Dec. 492.

Illinois.— McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.

Indiana.— Adams Express Co. v. Hill, 43 Ind. 157; Cicero Hygiene Draining Co. v. Craighead, 28 Ind. 274; Bartholomew County v. Bright, 18 Ind. 93; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Hubbard v. Chappel, 14 Ind. 601; Jones v. Cincinnati Type Foundry Co., 14 Ind. 89; Railsback v. Liberty, etc., Turnpike Co., 2 Ind. 656; Dunning v. New Albany, etc., R. Co., 2 Ind. 437; Guaga Iron Co. v. Dawson, 4 Blackf. 202.

Kentucky.— Taylor v. Illinois Bank, 7 T. B. Mon. 576.

Maine.— Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49, 69 Am. Dec. 81; Penobscot, etc., R. Co. v. Dunn, 39 Me. 587; Oldtown, etc., R. Co. v. Veazie, 39 Me. 571; Freeman v. Machias Water Power, etc., Co., 38 Me. 343; Putnam Free School v. Fisher, 30 Me. 523; Savage Mfg. Co. v. Armstrong, 17 Me. 34, 35 Am. Dec. 227; Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656; Dutton Ministerial, etc., Fund v. Kendrick, 12 Me. 381.

Maryland.— Whittington v. Farmers' Bank, 5 Harr. & J. 489.

Massachusetts.— Sutton First Parish v. Cole, 3 Pick. 232; Gilbert v. Nantucket Bank, 5 Mass. 97; Kennebeck Purchase v. Call, 1 Mass. 483; Monumoi Great Beach v. Rogers, 1 Mass. 159.

Mississippi.— Reed v. Benton, etc., R., etc., Co., 4 How. 257, under a statute.

Nebraska.— U. S. National L. Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 8 Nebr. 452, 1 N. W. 124.

New Hampshire.— Milton School Dist. No. 1 v. Bragdon, 23 N. H. 507; Concord v. McIntire, 6 N. H. 527; Orange School Dist. v. Blaisdell, 6 N. H. 197.

New Jersey.— Bennington Iron Co. v. Rutherford, 18 N. J. L. 105, 35 Am. Dec. 528.

New Mexico.— Butterfield's Overland Dispatch Co. v. Wedeles, 1 N. M. 528.

Ohio.— Cincinnati M. E. Church v. Wood, 5 Ohio 283.

Vermont.— Stone v. East Berkshire Cong. Soc., 14 Vt. 86; Manchester Bank v. Allen, 11 Vt. 302; Boston Type, etc., Foundry v. Spooner, 5 Vt. 93.

United States.— Society for Propagation, etc. v. Pawlet, 4 Pet. 480, 7 L. ed. 927; Conard v. Atlantic Ins. Co., 1 Pet. 386, 7 L. ed. 189; Kenton Furnace R., etc., Co. v. McAlpin, 5 Fed. 737; Dental Vulcanite Co. v. Wetherbee, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,810, 2 Cliff. 555, 3 Fish. Pat. Cas. 87.

8. Kansas City Y. M. C. A. v. Dubach, 82 Mo. 475.

9. South Yuba Water, etc., Co. v. Rosa, 80 Cal. 333, 22 Pac. 222; Exchange Nat. Bank v. Capps, 32 Nebr. 242, 49 N. W. 223, 29 Am. St. Rep. 433; Stanly v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 89 N. C. 331; Crane Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Reed, 3 Utah 506, 24 Pac. 1056. Contra, in Massachusetts, prior to the statute of 1881, c. 113. Goodwin Invalid Bedstead Co. v. Darling, 133 Mass. 358 [citing Williamsburg City F. Ins. Co. v. Frothingham, 122 Mass. 391; Hebron Church Deacons v. Smith, 121 Mass. 90 note; Mosler v. Potter, 121 Mass. 89; Hungerford Nat. Bank v. Van Nostrand, 106 Mass. 559]. It has been held in Missouri that where the incorporation is not by public act, and where the action is not upon a contract made by the defendant with the plaintiff in the name by which it sues, so as to raise an of persons affect to sue in chancery, in a corporate character, if they have no such title to this character, their want of title may, according to the English chancery practice, be set up by demurrer, provided the objection appear on the face of the bill;[10] for it is the exclusive power of the government to create corporations and invest them with the power of suing by their corporate name.[11] "It is the absolute duty of Courts of Justice," said Lord Eldon, "not to permit persons, not incorporated, to affect to treat themselves as a corporation upon the Record."[12] But at common law, the question of corporate existence cannot be raised by demurrer.[13]

(II) By Plea in Abatement—(A) In General. At common law, and under some of the modern codes, it is necessary, in order to raise the question, to plead in abatement that the party is not a corporation.[14]

(B) That Is, by Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation at Common Law. This plea in abatement is called, in the language of common-law pleading, a plea of nul tiel corporation; and this, where that system of pleading prevails, is generally the plea by which such an issue is raised;[15] but as to whether the common-law plea of nul tiel corporation is a plea in abatement or in bar, there is a division of opinion, as will be seen hereafter.[16]

(III) By Verified Plea—(A) In General. It is now provided by statute in several of the states that in actions by a corporation, proof of the corporate existence is put in issue by answer or plea verified by oath.[17]

estoppel, the fact of the incorporation of the plaintiff should be averred, and if a general denial is pleaded should be proved. Girls' Industrial Home v. Fritchey, 10 Mo. App. 344. So as elsewhere seen (see supra, XXII, D, 2, e) it was the early theory in several American jurisdictions, and notably in New York, that under a general denial plaintiff suing as a corporation was required to prove the facts of its incorporation. Williams v. Michigan Bank, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 539; Auburn Bank v. Weed, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 300.

10. Lloyd v. Loaring, 6 Ves. Jr. 773.

11. Story Eq. Pl. §§ 496, 497.

12. Lloyd v. Loaring, 6 Ves. Jr. 773.

13. Lighte v. Everett F. Ins. Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 716; Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Osgood, 1 Duer (N. Y.) 707. But see Waterville Bank v. Beltser, 13 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 270.

14. Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66; Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman, 38 Fed. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503. As to the statutory rule in New York requiring the question of the incorporation of a plaintiff to be raised by plea in abatement or in bar see Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474; Stone v. Western Transp. Co., 38 N. Y. 240; Union M. E. Church v. Pickett, 19 N. Y. 482; Eaton v. Aspinwall, 19 N. Y. 119; Genesee Bank v. Patchin Bank, 13 N. Y. 309; Bengston v. Thingvalla Steamship Co., 31 Hun (N. Y.) 96; Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 573; Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Osgood, 1 Duer (N. Y.) 707; East River Electric Light Co. v. Clark, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 463, 45 N. Y. St. 645; Waterville Bank v. Beltser, 13 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 270; McFarlan v. Triton Ins. Co., 4 Den. (N. Y.) 392; Southbold v. Horton, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 501. See also Leader Printing Co. v. Lowry, 9 Okla. 89, 59 Pac. 242, should be raised by a special plea in the nature of a plea in abatement.

15. Arkansas.—Gaines v. Mississippi Bank, 12 Ark. 769.

Connecticut.—Phenix Bank v. Curtis, 14 Conn. 437, 36 Am. Dec. 492.

Illinois.—Bailey v. Valley Nat. Bank, 127 Ill. 332, 19 N. E. 695 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 642]; Hoereth v. Franklin Mill Co., 30 Ill. 151; McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321.

Indiana.—Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Hubbard v. Chappel, 14 Ind. 601; Morgan v. Lawrenceburgh Ins. Co., 3 Ind. 285; Harris v. Muskingum Mfg. Co., 4 Blackf. 267, 29 Am. Dec. 372; Gauga Iron Co. v. Dawson, 4 Blackf. 202.

New York.—Auburn Bank v. Aikin, 18 Johns. 137.

England.—Stafford v. Bolton, 1 B. & P. 40; Mellor v. Spateman, 1 Saund. 339, note 2.

In one jurisdiction where practice is conducted under a code of procedure, if plaintiff, suing in a name which prima facie imports a corporation, is in fact not assuming to act as a corporation, but only as a partnership, this fact may be raised by answer alleging want of parties in interest to the suit. Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430. See also Brown v. Killian, 11 Ind. 449.

16. See infra, XXII, D, 2, f, (V), (A).

17. The author does not assume to state the language of particular statutes, but merely their substance. See Ala. Acts (1888–1889), p. 57 (applied in Rosenberg v. H. B. Claflin Co., 95 Ala. 249, 10 So. 521); Mo. Act, March 15, 1883 (applied in White v. Bellefontaine Lodge I. O. O. F., 30 Mo. App. 682); N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1776; Wis. Code, § 4199 (applied in Michigan Ins. Bank v. Eldred, 130 U. S. 693, 9 S. Ct. 690, 32 L. ed. 1080).

(B) Denial on Information and Belief Not Sufficient. Under such a statute a denial upon information and belief is not sufficient.[18]

(C) Same Rule in Case of Actions by Foreign Corporations. Such a statute applies in actions brought by foreign corporations.[19]

(IV) By Special Demand For Proof of Incorporation. Under other statutes the existence of plaintiff corporation stands admitted, unless defendant, within a specified time prior to the filing of his answer, makes a special demand for proof of the fact.[20]

(V) By Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation at Common Law—(A) Whether This Is Plea in Abatement or in Bar. In jurisdictions where the common-law system of pleading prevails, it has been a controverted question whether the plea of nul tiel corporation is to be treated as a plea in abatement or as a plea in bar of the action. The general opinion seems to be that it is a plea in bar,[21] although some of the courts take the view that a plea that there is no such corporation in existence is substantially matter of abatement only, and cannot be relied upon in bar of the action.[22] Moreover where such a plea is regarded as a plea in abatement it must, under most systems of pleading, precede the answer to the merits.[23]

(B) Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation Raises Only Question of Existence De Facto of Corporation. Upon the trial of the issue of fact raised by such an

18. Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Selby, 111 Iowa 402, 82 N. W. 968 (denial of want of information with reference to corporate capacity of plaintiff not sufficient to put plaintiff to its proof); Rock Island First Nat. Bank v. Loyhed, 28 Minn. 396, 10 N. W. 421 (under a statute); Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474; Taendstickfabriks Aktiebolaget Vulcan v. Meyers, 58 Hun (N. Y.) 161, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 663, 34 N. Y. St. 122; Bengston v. Thingvalla Steamship Co., 31 Hun (N. Y.) 96; East River Bank v. Rogers, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 493; Deutz Lithographing Co. v. International Registry Co., 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 687, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 540 (under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1776); East River Electric Light Co. v. Clark, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 463, 45 N. Y. St. 645; Law Guaranty, etc., Soc. v. Hogue, 37 Oreg. 544, 62 Pac. 380, 63 Pac. 690 (averment that defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief whether the plaintiff is a corporation, not sufficient). Accordingly an answer stating that "the defendant has no information sufficient to form a belief," concerning plaintiff's allegation that it is a corporation, "and therefore denies the same," is insufficient under such a statute. Crane Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Morse, 49 Wis. 368, 5 N. W. 815.

In Indiana there is this distinction, that whereas a general denial unverified by oath will not put plaintiff to the proof of its corporate existence (Price v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. 137), yet the contrary will be held where the general denial is verified by oath (Indianapolis Furnace, etc., Co. v. Herkimer, 46 Ind. 142; Chance v. Indianapolis, etc., Gravel Road Co., 32 Ind. 472).

19. Williams Mower, etc., Co. v. Smith, 33 Wis. 530.

20. Goodwin Invalid Bedstead Co. v. Darling, 133 Mass. 358; Mass. Stat. (1881), c. 113.

21. Arkansas.— Mahony v. State Bank, 4 Ark. 620.

Illinois.— Hoereth v. Franklin Mill Co., 30 Ill. 151; Marsh v. Astoria Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F., 27 Ill. 421; Lewiston v. Proctor, 27 Ill. 414.

Massachusetts.— Plymouth Christian Soc. v. Macomber, 3 Metc. 235.

New Hampshire.— Sunapee v. Eastman, 32 N. H. 470; Lisbon School Dist. No. 3 v. Aldrich, 13 N. H. 139; Orange School Dist. No. 1 v. Blaisdell, 6 N. H. 197.

Oregon.—Law Guaranty, etc., Soc. v. Hogue, 37 Oreg. 544, 62 Pac. 380, 63 Pac. 690.

Pennsylvania.— Northumberland County Bank v. Eyer, 60 Pa. St. 436.

See also Bacon Abr. tit. Abatement.

22. Jones v. Tennessee Bank, 8 B. Mon. (Ky.) 122, 46 Am. Dec. 540; Woodson v. Gallipolis Bank, 4 B. Mon. (Ky.) 203.

23. New York City Phenix Bank v. Curtis, 14 Conn. 437, 36 Am. Dec. 492; Jones v. Cincinnati Type Foundry Co., 14 Ind. 89. In Missouri, and no doubt under some other codes, all matters of defense, whether in abatement or in bar, are pleadable in one answer.

There was, under the principles of common-law pleading, another distinction, which was extremely technical. It was that whereas, under the general issue, plaintiff was bound to prove, in the first instance, that it was a corporation, therefore a special plea setting up negatively that it was not a corporation was bad on special demurrer as amounting to the general issue. Auburn Bank v. Weed, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 300. See also Carmichael v. School Trustees, 3 How. (Miss.) 84; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Rayner, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 194; Wood v. Jefferson County Bank, 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 194. But this principle would have no application, and a special plea of nul tiel corporation would be open to no such objection, in those jurisdictions where the modern doctrine obtains, that the question of the corporate existence of plaintiff cannot be raised upon the general issue. Montgomery R. Co. v. Hurst, 9 Ala. 513; Prince v. Commercial Bank, 1 Ala. 241, 34 Am. Dec. 773; McIntire v. Preston, 10 Ill. 48, 48 Am. Dec. 321; Wert v. Crawfordsville, answer and a reply thereto, it is said that the evidence is limited to the question of the existence de facto of a corporation, under an authority sanctioning such a corporation de jure. In other words mere irregularities in organization cannot be shown collaterally, where there is no defect of power.[24] But this, on a principle already considered,[25] is restrained to cases where under the law such a corporation might exist.[26]

(c) Nul Tiel Corporation How Pleaded. In an action by a plaintiff, alleging itself to be a corporation, a plea that at the time the suit was commenced there was no such corporation in existence as plaintiff has been held substantially good.[27] etc., Turnpike Co., 19 Ind. 242; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Hubbard v. Chappel, 14 Ind. 601; Jones v. Cincinnati Type Foundry, 14 Ind. 89; Morgan v. Lawrenceburgh Ins. Co., 3 Ind. 285; Guaga Iron Co. v. Dawson, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 202; Manchester Bank v. Allen, 11 Vt. 302; Boston, etc., Foundry v. Spooner, 5 Vt. 93. If therefore in any case plaintiff would not be bound to prove its incorporation, the plea of nul tiel corporation would raise the issue. But if the nature of the action was such — as where plaintiff sued upon a promise made upon condition of its becoming a corporation — that it was bound, in order to state and prove a case for a recovery, to allege and prove that it was a corporation, then it was held that the plea of nul tiel corporation amounted to a general denial, and if pleaded with an answer of general denial might be stricken out on motion. Wert v. Crawfordsville, etc., Turnpike Co., 19 Ind. 242.

In Massachusetts the party who intends to avail himself of this circumstance must give notice of his intention to do so, in a specification of defense. Townsend v. Lowell First Freeville Baptist Church, 6 Cush. (Mass.) 279. Accordingly, in an action by a corporation, defendant may plead the general issue, giving notice at the same time that he shall deny that plaintiff is a corporation, in which case plaintiff is bound to prove its corporate existence. Newburyport First Universalist Soc. v. Currier, 3 Metc. (Mass.) 417; Plymouth Christian Soc. v. Macomber, 3 Metc. (Mass.) 235.

In Arkansas it was held in several early cases that in the case of a public corporation created under a public law, of which the courts take judicial notice, a plea of nul tiel corporation will be bad on demurrer; since the court will look to the statute, and from it determine the question of the existence of the corporation. Conway v. State Bank, 13 Ark. 48 (where the plea was stricken out for the same reason); Pickett v. Real Estate Bank, 8 Ark. 224; Murphey v. State Bank, 7 Ark. 57; Mahoney v. State Bank, 4 Ark. 620; McKiel v. Real Estate Bank, 4 Ark. 592. But these holdings were clearly unsound since in the case of private corporations it requires something more than an enabling act to create a corporation, but the charter must have been accepted. See supra, I, J, 7, a. And it is upon this principle that the ordinary mode of proving the existence of a corporation is to prove a charter and user thereunder. See supra, I, M, 3. These decisions were accordingly evasively overruled in a case where the court saw the true principle. Hammett v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 20 Ark. 204, 207. "If, however," said English, J., "the statute does not ipso facto create the corporation eo instanti, but prescribes something to be done after its passage, as a condition precedent to the legal existence of the corporation, we suppose the plea would be good, and the plaintiff would have to reply to it, and prove that the thing was done, which the statute required to be done as a condition precedent to the coming into existence of the corporation."

24. Williams v. Franklin Tp. Academical Assoc., 26 Ind. 310; Gillespie v. Ft. Wayne, etc., R. Co., 17 Ind. 243; Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430; Harriman v. Southam, 16 Ind. 190; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Evansville, 15 Ind. 395; Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26; Brown v. Killian, 11 Ind. 449; Toledo Bank v. International Bank, 21 N. Y. 542.

25. See supra, I, O, 2, d.

26. Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 279, 79 Am. Dec. 430. When therefore it was alleged in an answer in the nature of a plea of nul tiel corporation that the articles by which the corporation was organized were filed before the law authorizing its organization was in force, it was held that such allegations were properly stricken out, since they would be bad on demurrer, as the court judicially knew that the General Railroad Law was in force at the time when the corporation was formed. Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430. In State v. Bailey, 16 Ind. 46, 79 Am. Dec. 405, it was held that courts will take judicial notice of the time when the statute took effect and will decide the question as a question of law.

27. Morgan v. Lawrenceburgh Ins. Co., 3 Ind. 285. That an answer pleading nul tiel corporation may be stricken out as a sham on plaintiffs producing evidence of their incorporation and defendant showing nothing to the contrary see Philadelphia Commonwealth Bank v. Pryor, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 227. Where the complaint described plaintiffs as the "St. Louis Bagging & Rope Company," and nothing more, it was held that a plea of nul tiel corporation might be stricken out as irrelevant, because it did not appear from the complaint that plaintiff sued as a corporation. Ware v. St. Louis Bagging, etc., Co., 47 Ala. 667.

A plea stating that plaintiff "is not a corporation duly authorized by law to maintain this suit" was held, although brief, to contain all that is of substance in the plea of nul tiel corporation.[28] Where a corporation, once legally existing, is alleged to have ceased so to exist, it is necessary that the pleading should show and set forth particularly the manner in which the corporate powers have ceased.[29]

(D) Further as to Particularity of Averment in Raising Question of Corporate Existence — (1) IN GENERAL. Where the alleged corporation is plaintiff in the action, the denial of its corporate existence must be made in positive terms or by a direct negative averment.[30]

(2) NOT A CORPORATION AUTHORIZED TO MAINTAIN THE ACTION. On the other hand, in an action by a corporation, a plea that plaintiff is not a corporation authorized to maintain the action is a defense to the whole action and devolves on plaintiff the burden of proving its corporate existence.[31]

(3) PARTICULARITY OF STATEMENT WHERE DEFENDANT PLEADS CORPORATE EXISTENCE. It seems that where a defendant pleads the existence of a corpora-

28. Johnson v. Hanover Nat. Bank, 88 Ala. 271, 6 So. 909.

29. Sutherland v. Lagro, etc., Co., 19 Ind. 192. Compare Underhill v. Bank, 6 Ark. 135. If we advert to the rule of pleading that it is not necessary for plaintiff, suing in a name which imports its corporate existence, formally to allege that it is a corporation (see supra, XXII, D, 2, a, (II)), then it would seem to be immaterial whether the issue is raised by such a formal allegation, and is traversed by a special plea, or whether it is raised by a special plea and replication, in the absence of such a formal allegation. Thus, under the Massachusetts practice, in an action against persons sued in a corporate name, if their incorporation is not alleged as a fact in the declaration, or if, being alleged, it is denied in the answer, plaintiff is bound to prove it affirmatively on the trial, if then controverted by defendants. Gott v. Adams Express Co., 100 Mass. 320.

30. Accordingly a verified plea which (omitting the formal parts) recites that "the defendant says the plaintiff is a corporation, not incorporated under the laws of the State of Indiana, but is incorporated and organized under the laws of the State of New York; and that, at the commencement of this action the plaintiff had not complied with the provisions of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, entitled 'An act respecting Foreign Corporations and their agents in this State,' approved June 15, 1852," is not a good plea in abatement, raising the question of the right of plaintiff to maintain a suit in the domestic jurisdiction; because it states merely a conclusion, and not a fact. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Effinger, 79 Ind. 264, 265. Similarly an information in the nature of quo warranto, against a corporation, alleging that it did not file a copy of its articles of association with the recorder of the county in which it was pretending to exercise the functions of a corporation is not a reasonably certain averment that the articles were not filed in the recorder's office. State v. Bethlehem, etc., Gravel Road Co., 32 Ind. 357; Stork v. Supreme Lodge K. of P., 113 Iowa 724, 84 N. W. 721 (statement insufficient to show that plaintiff was a fraternal society and not a life-insurance company as alleged — decision under a statute). A denial that plaintiff "is a corporation duly organized as a national bank under the act of Congress of June 3, 1864, or any other act" does not put in issue plaintiff's corporate existence. Plattsmouth First Nat. Bank v. Gibson, 60 Nebr. 767, 84 N. W. 259. A denial that plaintiff is a corporation organized and existing "under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois" does not raise an issue, since it is pregnant with the admission that plaintiff is nevertheless a corporation. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hovey, 36 Oreg. 259, 59 Pac. 189.

31. Johnson v. Hanover Nat. Bank, 88 Ala. 271, 6 So. 909. Under a statute (Cal. Civ. Code, § 299), requiring corporations to file a copy of their articles of incorporation in the county where their property is situated, and providing that until this is done they "shall not maintain or defend any action or proceeding in relation to such property," the failure so to file a copy of the articles must be specifically set up in the answer, in order to state a defense under the statute, and is not well pleaded by an answer which merely denies the existence of the corporation. Ontario State Bank v. Tibbits, 80 Cal. 68, 22 Pac. 66; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Purcell, 77 Cal. 69, 18 Pac. 886. That a want of compliance with the statute cannot be specially pleaded see further Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Purcell, 77 Cal. 69, 18 Pac. 886; Phillips v. Goldtree, 74 Cal. 151, 13 Pac. 313, 15 Pac. 45.

That an allegation of incorporation is "new matter" within the meaning of a stipulation of New York see Becht v. Harris, 4 Minn. 504.

That the abbreviation, "C. B. & Q. R. R. Co.," was not a sufficient description of a party in a petition to take depositions was held in Accola v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 70 Iowa 185, 30 N. W. 503, although the most ignorant man in Iowa undoubtedly knows that the abbreviation, which is in constant use, means the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company.

tion by way of inducement or otherwise, it is not necessary for him to plead it more specifically than where a plaintiff pleads it, but that he may make the allegation in general language.[32]

(VI) Particularity in Replication to Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation. Under the old practice, where plaintiff replied to a plea of nul tiel corporation, it was necessary for him to plead with more accuracy than in stating the fact of corporate existence in his original declaration. For instance it has been held that a replication to a plea alleging that there is no such corporation as plaintiff must set forth specially how plaintiffs are a corporation, if their incorporating act requires certain things to be done before they can become such.[33] And where, under the Revised Statutes of New York,[34] he pleaded the title of the incorporating act, it was necessary to state it with entire accuracy, and a variance between the statement and the title of the act as it really was, was ground of demurrer if the act was a public statute[35] so that the court could notice it judicially. This will impress the modern practitioner as senseless technicality; since it is not necessary to plead a public statute at all, because the court will notice it judicially.

(VII) Burden of Proof Under Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation Plaintiff. Where the declaration or other affirmative pleading substantially alleges that plaintiff is a corporation, and a plea of nul tiel corporation is interposed by defendant, this plea operates as a special traverse of the averment that plaintiff is a corporation, and puts upon plaintiff the burden of proving that fact.[36]

(VIII) Plea of Nul Tiel Corporation Defendant—(A) In General. It has been held to be an insuperable inconsistency to allow a party sued as a corporation to appear by attorney, as a corporation must if it appear at all, and defend the action on the ground that it is not a corporation.[37] But it is believed that it

32. Manby v. Long, 3 Lev. 107. This is especially true where the rule of the forum does not require it to be pleaded at all, in a case where the name used imports that the party is a corporation. Johnson v. Gibson, 78 Ind. 282.

33. Auburn Bank v. Aikin, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 137.

34. Permitting an act of incorporation to be pleaded by its title and date of passage. 2 N. Y. Rev. Stat. p. 459, § 13.

35. Union Bank v. Dewey, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 509.

36. Johnson v. Hanover Nat. Bank, 88 Ala. 271, 6 So. 909; Savage v. Russell, 84 Ala. 103, 4 So. 235; Bailey v. Valley Nat. Bank, 127 Ill. 332, 19 N. E. 695; Ramsey v. Peoria Mar. Ins. Co., 55 Ill. 311; Stone v. Great Western Oil Co., 41 Ill. 85; Lewiston v. Proctor, 27 Ill. 414; Spangler v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 276; Indianapolis Furnace, etc., Co. v. Herkimer, 46 Ind. 142; Saltsman v. Schultz, 14 Hun (N. Y.) 256; Hallett v. Harrower, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 537. The rule is the same in the proceedings in the district courts of the United States in admiralty; so that a libellant suing as a corporation has the burden of proving its organization, where its corporate existence is put in issue by the answer. The Guy C. Goss, 53 Fed. 839. So where plaintiffs sue as a corporation, in Massachusetts, and defendant, on pleading the general issue, gives notice, conformably to a rule of court, that he will deny their corporate existence, they must prove it, or they cannot maintain their action. Newburyport First Universalist Soc. v. Currier, 3 Metc. (Mass.) 417. Circumstances under which the onus of disproving the articles of incorporation are upon those who signed them. Pennsylvania Ins. Co. v. Murphy, 5 Minn. 36.

37. Thus in Oxford Iron Co. v. Spradley, 46 Ala. 98, 107, it is said, in the opinion of the court by Peck, C. J.: "The plea of nul tiel corporation, where a defendant is sued as a corporation aggregate, is an inappropriate plea, and an inconsistency in itself. We find no precedent for such a plea in such a case, nor any case in which it has been pleaded. The appointment of an attorney, and an appearance by him for the defendant, is an admission on the record that the defendant is a corporation." So in Colorado it is held that a defendant, impleaded as a corporation, cannot deny its existence, either in abatement or in bar; because if it is not a corporation it cannot as such appear and plead. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Eyser, 2 Colo. 141. Upon the same principle it has been held that an information against a body in its corporate name, charging that it has not been legally organized, and pointing out certain supposed defects in its organization, and praying for its dissolution, is bad, by reason of not having been brought against the persons claiming to be the corporation, the court reasoning that if a body is brought into court by a corporate name its corporate existence is thereby admitted. Mud Creek Draining Co. v. State, 43 Ind. 236. See also supra, XXII, D, 1, e, (I). Compare Stoddard v. Onondaga Annual Conference, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 573; Curtis v. Central R. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,501, 6 McLean 401.

will not do to say that where a defendant is impleaded as a corporation, which is not such, no one can appear for the real parties in interest and show the real fact.[38] Indeed the same court that put forth the proposition that a defendant sued as a corporation could not plead nul tiel corporation added in a subsequent case the following qualification: "The substance of such a plea seems necessary or permissible only in cases of misnomer or dissolution, and in the form and manner required in the case of a person."[39]

(B) How Pleaded. The plea of nul tiel corporation defendant should not only deny in positive terms that defendant is a corporation, but it should state what defendant is or who the defendants are. In other words in the technical language of common-law pleading it should "give the plaintiff a better writ."[40]

(IX) Stage of Proceeding at Which Nul Tiel Corporation Pleadable. The rule already stated[41] that the right to contest the existence of plaintiff as a corporation is waived by pleading to the merits yields to statutory rules of pleading in particular jurisdictions.[42]

38. See the strong reasoning upon this question of Hammond, J., in Kelley v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 1 Fed. 564, 569, 2 Flipp. 581.

39. McCullough v. Talladega Ins. Co., 46 Ala. 376, 377. In Massachusetts, in an action against a corporation, after the entry of a general appearance on the docket, and the filing by the corporation of an affidavit of merits, or, in the language of the statute (Mass. Laws (1852), c. 312), that the party "verily believes that the defendants have a substantial defense to the action on its merits," it is competent for defendants in their answer to deny that they are a legal corporation. Gott v. Adams Express Co., 100 Mass. 320; Greenwood v. Lake Shore R. Co., 10 Gray (Mass.) 373.

40. Freeman v. Machias Water Power, etc., Co., 38 Me. 343. When certain defendants, sued as a corporation, appear and plead in abatement that they "together with others" are doing business under a corporate name — that of defendant to the suit — but deny that the company is now or ever has been a corporation, this plea may be successfully attacked by a demurrer. It is defective in that it does not give plaintiff a better writ (1 Chitty Pl. (6th ed.) 481). The plea should be set forth who were the "others" with whom the persons answering are doing business in the corporate name of defendant, to the end that plaintiff may know against whom to bring his suit, if the plea should be sustained. American Express Co. v. Haggard, 37 Ill. 465, 87 Am. Dec. 257. Where a defendant was sued as a corporation, which was in fact a limited partnership, a denial in its answer "that defendant is or ever was a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of England" was held a negative pregnant, pregnant with the admission that defendant was a corporation, and it consequently raised no issue. Wright v. Fire Ins. Co., 12 Mont. 474, 31 Pac. 87, 19 L. R. A. 211. Where a defendant, sued as a corporation, answered, denying that "it is or ever has been a corporation, either public or private, and duly organized, chartered, or existing under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, or under the laws of any other State or government, for the purpose of carrying on the business of common carrier in goods and merchandise, or otherwise," it was held that this pleading was sufficiently specific under a statute (Iowa Code, § 2717) providing that where defendant is sued as a corporation, "it shall not be sufficient to do so in terms contradictory of the allegation, but the facts relied on shall be specifically stated." Folsom v. Star Union Line Fast Freight Line, 54 Iowa 490, 6 N. W. 702.

41. See supra, XXII, D, 2, e.

42. Thus in Missouri defendant may set up in a single answer as many defenses as he may have, and matter in abatement may be pleaded with matter in bar in different paragraphs of the same answer. Cohn v. Lehman, 93 Mo. 574, 6 S. W. 267; McIntire v. Calhoun, 27 Mo. App. 513. So in Massachusetts even where defendants are sued in the character of a corporation they may deny that they are a corporation, after they have appeared generally and filed an affidavit of merits. The entry of a general appearance is regarded as a waiver of all objections grounded on the want of a proper service of the writ upon the defendants, but not as affecting the merits; and the question of the defendant being a corporation is consequently regarded as a question affecting the merits. Greenwood v. Lake Shore R. Co., 10 Gray (Mass.) 373. In Vermont, in an action of book-account against a corporation, if defendant would deny its corporate existence, the question must be raised by plea before judgment to account is rendered. Hunneman v. Fire Dist. No. 1, 37 Vt. 40. That the estoppel raised against a defendant to deny the existence of the corporation plaintiff, by reason of filing an answer admitting the contract sued on, but denying the corporate character of the plaintiff, is waived by the failure of plaintiff to demur to the answer, see Law Guarantee, etc., Soc. v. Hogue, 37 Oreg. 544, 62 Pac. 380, 63 Pac. 690. The execution and delivery of a lease to a corporation as such, being prima facie evidence of the existence, no proof in answer to plea of nul tiel corporation in an action for the rent is necessary until such evi-

(x) Manner of Putting in Issue Corporate Existence in Actions Before Justices of the Peace. In actions before justices of the peace, where formality of pleading is not required even on the part of plaintiff, and where defensive pleadings may be made ore tenus, the existence of a corporation may be put in issue by defendant, without a denial under oath, and even without a written denial of any kind;[43] and on an appeal to a higher jurisdiction, where the trial is de novo, each party proceeds without filing new or more formal pleadings. In some jurisdictions this rule is varied so that on an appeal to a higher court for the purpose of a trial de novo, in the absence of anything to the contrary, defendant is presumed to have pleaded the general issue.[44] This plea goes to the merits, and as already seen, where plaintiff sues as a corporation, it admits its corporate capacity and its ability to sue as an artificial body.[45] It is therefore deemed immaterial in such an action, whether plaintiff was in fact a corporation or a mere voluntary association acting under the name which it assumed; and so where a plaintiff calling itself The Farmers and Drovers' Bank sued upon a note which had been transferred to it by the payee, the suit having been commenced before a justice of the peace, it was held unnecessary, upon an appeal to the circuit court, to prove that plaintiff was a corporation.[46]

(xi) Manner of Pleading Dissolution of Corporation. That the corporation has ceased to exist or was not a corporation at the commencement of a suit upon a contract may be pleaded in abatement, but not in bar of a recovery.[47] Where an answer denies the existence, at the commencement of the action, of a corporation which is shown to have once existed, the answer should according to one theory particularly set forth the manner in which the corporate powers ceased.[48] It must according to this theory show that the corporation has expired by limitation, or that it has been terminated by a competent legal proceeding. Merely to allege facts which would warrant an adjudication of forfeiture is not enough, since the right of the corporation to exist cannot be tried collaterally.[49] But the prevailing theory seems to be that a general averment of dissolution is enough.[50]

g. Amendments in Case of Failure to Plead Corporate Existence. In an action by[51] or against[52] a party described by an artificial name, it is always proper, if deemed necessary, to allow the plaintiff to amend his writ, declaration, or complaint, so as to allege the fact of corporate existence. And the rule is of course the same where the corporation is not sufficiently described so as to identify it from some other corporation, but in such a case an amendment cannot be made dence is rebutted. West Side Auction House Co. v. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co., 186 Ill. 156, 57 N. E. 839 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 497].

43. Stanley v. Farmers' Bank, 17 Kan. 592.

44. Reed v. Snodgrass, 55 Mo. 180.

45. See supra, XXII, D, 2, e.

46. Kansas City Y. M. C. A. v. Dubach, 82 Mo. 475, 480; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Williamson, 61 Mo. 259. In New Jersey the rule is similar. Defendant must take an exception in the justice's court to the failure of plaintiff to prove its corporate existence, or the right to make an objection is waived, and it cannot be interposed for the first time on appeal. State v. New York, etc., Telephone Co., 49 N. J. L. 322, 8 Atl. 290. See also Johnston Harvester Co. v. Clark, 30 Minn. 308, 15 N. W. 252.

47. Meikel v. German Sav. Fund Soc., 16 Ind. 181; Dental Vulcanite Co. v. Wetherbee, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,810, 2 Cliff. 555.

48. Heaston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 16 Ind. 275, 79 Am. Dec. 430, where the court say: "A faulty answer in this respect was erroneously held good in Morgan v. Lawrenceburgh Ins. Co., 3 Ind. 285."

49. Hartsville University v. Hamilton, 34 Ind. 506.

50. Perry v. Turner, 55 Mo. 418; Poughkeepsie Bank v. Ibbotson, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 473. It has been ruled that where the receiver of a railroad corporation is served with process in an action proceeding on a right of action against the corporation, he may plead in abatement, in his own name, that the corporation is extinct, or he may make the defense by motion to dismiss the suit, or by a suggestion of his attorney on the record, supported by affidavits showing the facts. Kelley v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 1 Fed. 564, 2 Flipp. 581.

51. Wilson v. Sprague Mowing Mach. Co., 55 Ga. 672.

52. Alabama Western R. Co. v. Sistrunk, 85 Ala. 352, 5 So. 79.

substituting the other corporation, because this would amend an action against one party so as to make it an action against another party, which cannot be done; but a new action must be commenced against the right party, founded upon new process.[53]

h. Defense That Plaintiff Corporation Was Organized For Unlawful Purposes. It seems pretty clear that it will not be a good defense to an action brought by a corporation, although organized under the laws of another state, that the corporation was organized primarily for an unlawful purpose, that is to say, during the late Civil war, for the purpose of running the blockade in aid of the rebellion, unless the purpose of the action is in aid of the unlawful purpose for which the corporation was organized.[54]

CORPORATION SOLE. A corporation consisting of a single person, who is made a body corporate and politic, in order to give him some legal capacities and advantages, and especially that of perpetuity, which as an individual person he could not have.[1]

CORPORATOR. A member of a corporation;[2] a member of a corporation aggregate;[3] one of the stockholders or constituents of the body corporate;[4] an organizer or first stockholder of a corporation.[5] (See, generally, CORPORATIONS.)

CORPOREAL. Things which may be seen and touched;[6] material.[7] (Corporeal: Hereditaments, see ESTATES; PROPERTY.)

53. Little v. Virginia, etc., Water Co., 9 Nev. 317.

54. Importing, etc., Co. v. Locke, 50 Ala. 332.

1. 1 Bl. Comm. 469 [quoted in Overseers of Poor v. Sears, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 122, 125]; 2 Kent Comm. 273 [quoted in Havana Bank v. Wickham, 7 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 134, 138].

Instances of sole corporations.— The sovereign of England. Burrill L. Dict. A bishop, dean, parson, and vicar. Havana Bank v. Wickham, 7 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 134, 138 [quoting 2 Kent Comm. 273]. A minister of a town or parish, seised of lands in right of the town or parish, as parsonage lands, etc., is for that purpose a sole corporation, and holds the same to him and his successors. Brunswick First Parish v. Dunning, 7 Mass. 445, 447. And see Overseers of Poor v. Sears, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 122, 125, where it is said: "We are not aware, that there is any instance of a sole corporation, in this Commonwealth, except that of a person, who may be seised of parsonage lands, to hold to him and his successors, in the same office, in right of his parish."

The term will include an individual banker, conducting business under authority of a statute. Havana Bank v. Wickham, 7 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 134, 138.

Almost obsolete in law.—"There are very few points of corporation law applicable to a corporation sole." 2 Kent Comm. 273 [quoted in Overseers of Poor v. Sears, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 122, 125].

Distinguished from corporation aggregate. —"The distinction established by law, between a sole and an aggregate corporation, . . . is, that a corporation aggregate has a perpetual existence without change, so that an estate once vested in it, continues vested without interruption Whereas, when a bishop or parson, holding estate as a sole corporation, dies, or resigns his office, the fee is in abeyance, until a successor is appointed. From this flows one necessary, but obvious legal consequence, which is, that a grant to an aggregate corporation, carries a fee, without the word 'successors'; but a grant to a corporation sole, without including successors, carries a life estate only to the actual incumbent, who is the first taker." Overseers of Poor v. Sears, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 122, 126.

2. Gulliver v. Roelle, 100 Ill. 141, 147 (where it is said: "And all know that to be a member of a stock company a person must be a shareholder, or to be a member of a mutual company, a policyholder"); In re Atlantic Mut. L. Ins. Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 628, 9 Ben. 270; Bouvier L. Dict.; Webster Dict. [quoted in In re Lady Bryan Min. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,978, 2 Abb. 527, 1 Sawy. 349].

3. Sweet L. Dict.

4. In re Atlantic Mut. L. Ins. Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 628, 9 Ben. 270.

5. English L. Dict.

6. Either movable or immovable. Sullivan v. Richardson, 33 Fla. 1, 116, 14 So. 692.

7. Burrill L. Dict. [citing Coke Litt. 9*a*].

Distinguished from "corporal."— "Corporeal" means "possessing a body," that is, tangible, physical, material; "corporal" means "relating to or affecting a body," that is, bodily external. "Corporeal" denotes the nature or physical existence of a body; "corporal" denotes its exterior or the coördination of it with some other body. Hence we speak of "corporeal hereditaments," but of "corporal punishment," "corporal touch," "corporal oath," etc. Black L. Dict.

Distinguished from incorporeal.—In Roman law, the distinction between things corporeal and incorporeal rested upon the sense of touch; tangible objects only were considered corporeal. In modern law, all things which

CORPSE. The dead body of a human being.[8] (Corpse: Possession and Disposition of, see DEAD BODIES. Right of Burial in Cemetery, see CEMETERIES.)

CORPUS. A body; a human body; an artificial body created by law, as a corporation; a body or collection of laws; a material substance; something visible and tangible, as the subject of a right;[9] something having local position, as distinguished from an incorporeal right;[10] physical substance, as distinguished from intellectual conception;[11] the body of an estate,[12] or the capital of an estate.[13] Also, a substantial or positive fact, as distinguished from what is equivocal and ambiguous;[14] a corporeal act of any kind, (as distinguished from animus or mere intention,) on the part of him who wishes to acquire a thing; whereby he obtains the physical ability to exercise his power over it whenever he pleases.[15] As applied to railroads, the term means a peculiar species of property, of a compound character, consisting of roadway, embankment, superstructure and equipment.[16]

CORPUS CHRISTI DAY. A feast instituted in 1264, in honor of the sacrament.[17]

CORPUS COMITATUS. The body of a county; the whole county, as distinguished from a part of it, or any particular place in it.[18]

CORPUS CORPORATUM EX UNO POTEST CONSISTERE. A maxim meaning "One person may constitute a corporation."[19]

CORPUS CORPORATUM NEQUE IN LITE SISTI; NEQUE UTLAGARI, NEQUE BONA FORISFACERE, NEQUE ATRINCTUM PATI, ATTORNATUM FACERE; NEQUE EXCOMMUNICARI POTEST. A maxim meaning "A corporation can neither be brought into court nor outlawed, nor can it forfeit goods, suffer attainder, take power of attorney nor is it liable to excommunication."[20]

CORPUS CORPORATUM NON HABET HÆREDES NEQUE EXECUTORES NEQUE MORI POTEST. A maxim meaning "A corporation has neither heirs nor executors nor can it die."[21]

CORPUS CUM CAUSA. An English writ which issued out of chancery, to remove both the body and the record, touching the cause of any man lying in execution upon a judgment for debt, into the king's bench there to remain until he satisfied the judgment.[22]

CORPUS DELICTI. The body of a crime.[23] (Corpus Delicti: Generally, see CRIMINAL LAW. In Particular Crimes, see ABORTION; ARSON; BURGLARY; HOMICIDE; LARCENY; RAPE.)

CORPUS HUMANUM NON RECIPIT ÆSTIMATIONEM. A maxim meaning "A human body is not susceptible of appraisement."[24] may be perceived by any of the bodily senses are termed corporeal; although a common definition of the word includes merely that which can be touched and seen. Abbott L. Dict.

Corporeal investiture was a symbolical delivery of estates, under the feudal system. 2 Bouvier Inst. 154.

Corporeal possession of land is a residence on or occupation of or cultivation of the same. Dickson v. Marks, 10 La. Ann. 518, 519.

8. Black L. Dict.

Does not include decomposed remains.—Carter v. Zanesville, 59 Ohio St. 170, 52 N. E. 126, 127.

9. Burrill L. Dict.

10. Thus, the corpus of land is sometimes distinguished from the estate or interest in it. So in the Scotch law, a specific article of property is called corpus, as distinguished from its mere equivalent in money or other form. Burrill L. Dict.

11. Black L. Dict.

12. Sanderson v. Jones, 6 Fla. 430, 450, 63 Am. Dec. 217.

13. As distinguished from the income thereof. Weems v. Bryan, 21 Ala. 302, 307.

14. Burrill L. Dict. [citing Best Presumptions 269, 279].

15. Burrill L. Dict. [citing 1 Mackeldey Civ. L. 284, § 240].

16. Jackson v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 513, 25 L. ed. 460.

17. Black L. Dict.

18. Black L. Dict. And see Waring v. Clarke, 5 How. (U. S.) 441, 452, 453, 12 L. ed. 226; U. S. v. Grush, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,268, 5 Mason 290, 298.

19. Lofft Max. 302.

20. Lofft Max. 303.

21. Lofft Max. 299.

22. Burrill L. Dict.

Applied also to a writ of habeas corpus for the removal of a cause. Burrill L. Dict. And see, generally, HABEAS CORPUS.

23. Black L. Dict.

24. Wharton L. Lex.

Applied in Snevily v. Read, 9 Watts (Pa.) 396, 401.

CORPUS JURIS. A body of law, a term used to signify a book comprehending several collections of law.[25]

CORPUS PRO CORPORE. In old records, body for body; a phrase expressing the liability of manucaptors.[26]

CORRAL.[27] As a noun, a pen or inclosure for horses or cattle.[28] As a verb, to surround or inclose, to coop up, to put into a close place.[29] (See, generally, ANIMALS.)

CORRECT.[30] As an adjective, in accordance or agreement with a certain standard, model, or original; conformable to truth, rectitude, or propriety; not faulty; free from error or misapprehension; accurate.[31] As a verb, to make straight or

25. Black L. Dict.

Corpus juris anglici signifies a body of English law. English L. Dict.

Corpus juris canonici signifies the body of canon law. Black L. Dict. See also 6 Cyc. 345, note 11.

Corpus juris civilis signifies the body of the civil law; the system of Roman jurisprudence compiled and codified under the direction of the emperor Justinian, in A. D. 528–534. Black L. Dict. And see Blackborough v. Davis, 1 P. Wms. 41, 52. See also CODE.

The three great compilations of Justinian, the Institutes, the Pandects, and the Code, together with the Novellæ, form one body of law, and were considered as such by the glossatores, who divided it into five volumina. The Pandects were distributed into five volumina, under the respective names of Digestum Vetus, Infortiatum, and Digestum Novum. The fourth volume contained the first nine books of the Codex Repetitæ Prælectionis. The fifth volume contained the Institutes, the Liber Authenticorum or Novellæ, and the three last books of the Codex. The division into five volumina appears in the oldest editions; but the usual arrangement now is the Institutes, Pandects, the Codex, and Novellæ. The name Corpus Juris Civilis was not given to this collection by Justinian, nor by any of the glossatores. Savigny asserts that the name was used in the twelfth century; at any rate, it became common from the date of the edition of D. Gothofredus of 1604. Wharton L. Lex. [citing Smith Dict. Antiq.].

26. Burrill L. Dict. [citing 3 How. St. Tr. 110].

27. The word comes from the Spanish language, and is to be construed according to its approved usage. People v. Borda, 105 Cal. 636, 639, 38 Pac. 1110.

28. Century Dict.

Compared with "pen."— Where a statute made it a misdemeanor to keep any sheep or other live stock "penned, corralled, or housed on, over, or on the borders of" any stream, etc., the court said: "This plainly implies that, within the meaning of the statute, the animals may be inclosed by means other than an ordinary pen or corral, as such structures are not usually built on or over a stream. And such use of the words 'pen' and 'corral' is authorized." People v. Borda, 105 Cal. 636, 640, 38 Pac. 1110 [citing Century Dict.].

29. People v. Borda, 105 Cal. 636, 640, 38 Pac. 1110, where it is said: "This need not necessarily be done by means of an artificial structure, but may also be done by means of, or through the agency of, men and dogs, either alone or in conjunction with natural or artificial barriers of an inanimate nature."

30. Not a technical word.— See Gordon v. South Fork Canal Co., 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,621, 1 McAll. 513.

31. Century Dict.

Applied to executor's accounts.— See Wright v. New York City M. E. Church, Hoffm. (N. Y.) 202, 214. See also EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

"Correct and satisfactory."— Goods were supplied to an infant, and when he became of age, he certified, pursuant to statute, that the items of the account were "correct and satisfactory." The court declared "these words to mean that the items are properly set out and the sums charged in respect of those items satisfactory." Rowe v. Hopwood, L. R. 4 Q. B. 1, 3, 38 L. J. Q. B. 1, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 261, 17 Wkly. Rep. 28.

"Correct" and "true" as used in an insurance policy see Fowkes v. Manchester, etc., L. Assur., etc., Assoc., 3 B. & S. 917, 923, 32 L. J. Q. B. 153, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 309, 11 Wkly. Rep. 622, 113 E. C. L. 917.

"A correct description" is one which identifies the individual object intended to be designated. Springer v. Kroeschell, 161 Ill. 358, 369, 43 N. E. 1084 [quoting Phillips Mech. Liens, § 378]; Gordon v. South Fork Canal Co., 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,621, 1 McAll. 513.

"Correct weight" as stated in a coal ticket, issued pursuant to a statute, see Knowles v. Sinclair, [1898] 1 Q. B. 170, 172, 18 Cox C. C. 681, 62 J. P. 102, 67 L. J. Q. B. 67, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 624, 46 Wkly. Rep. 188.

Distinguished from "complete."— See Adams v. Macfarlane, 65 Me. 143, as applied to an arbitration.

"True and correct" synonymous with "true and complete."— "The statement that a transcript contains 'a correct statement' of certain proceedings is the practical equivalent of a certificate that the transcript is 'a true and complete copy' of such proceedings." Yeager v. Wright, 112 Ind. 230, 235, 13 N. E. 707, construing Ind. Rev. Stat. (1881), § 459. "'A true and correct copy' is the equivalent of 'true and complete transcript.'" Collier v. Collier, 150 Ind. 276, 278, 49 N. E. 1063 [quoting Walker v. Hill, 111 Ind. 223, 225, 12 N. E. 387], construing Burns Rev. Stat. Ind. (1894), § 624. A "true and correct copy" instead of as a "true and complete right; remove error from; bring into accordance with a standard or original; point out errors in.[32] (See CORRECTION.)

CORRECTION. The act of noting and pointing out for removal or amendment, as errors, defects, mistakes, or faults of any kind.[33] Also discipline;[34] CHASTISEMENT,[35] q. v.; the chastisement by one having authority, of a person under his lawful power who has committed some offense, for the purpose of bringing him to legal subjection.[36] (Correction: Of Account, see ACCOUNTS AND ACCOUNTING. Of Appeal Papers,[37] see APPEAL AND ERROR. Of Apprentice, see APPRENTICES. Of Award, see ARBITRATION AND AWARD.[38] Of Ballot, see ELECTIONS. Of Bill of Exceptions, see APPEAL AND ERROR. Of Instrument,[39] see REFORMATION OF INSTRUMENTS. Of Irregularities and Errors at Trial, see CRIMINAL LAW; TRIAL. Of Judgment,[40] see APPEAL AND ERROR; JUDGMENTS. Of Pupil, see ASSAULT AND BATTERY; SCHOOLS AND SCHOOL DISTRICTS. Of Seaman, see SEAMEN; SHIPPING. Of Specification for Patent, see PATENTS. Of Verdict, see CRIMINAL LAW; TRIAL.)

CORRELATIVE. Having a mutual or reciprocal relation.[41]

CORRESPOND. To harmonize with, or be suitable to.[42] Used in reference to written instruments, the word means adapted to each other.[43]

CORRESPONDENCE. A term meaning identity; adaptation;[44] making things copy" is good. Bailey v. Martin, 119 Ind. 103, 108, 21 N. E. 346; Anderson v. Ackerman, 88 Ind. 481, 490 [quoted in Walker v. Hill, 111 Ind. 223, 225, 12 N. E. 387].

32. Century Dict.

Applied to review of tax assessment.—People v. Feitner, 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 641, 645, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 321, construing N. Y. Tax Law, §§ 250, 256. See also, generally, TAXATION.

33. Century Dict.

"Correction or explanation," as used in an amendment to a specification for a patent, under a statute, see Kelly v. Heathman, 45 Ch. D. 256, 260, 60 L. J. Ch. 22, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 517, 39 W. R. 91.

"Revision" and "correction."— Where a municipal charter authorized a property owner to call upon the city council to revise and correct errors committed in the proceedings had in assessing the cost of improvement against his property, the court said: "The words, 'revision and correction,' mean that the council may be called upon to review that which had been done and to make the proceedings conform to the law." Hutcheson v. Storrie, 92 Tex. 685, 696, 51 S. W. 848, 71 Am. St. Rep. 884, 45 L. R. A. 289 [citing Vinsant v. Knox, 27 Ark. 266, 272]. See also Cox v. Stevens, 14 Me. 205, 207, where under a militia act directing that the roll of the company should be annually revised, etc., and that the company should be paraded annually "among other things for the purpose of correcting the company roll," the court said: "Correcting and revising the roll . . . mean the same thing, in the sense in which these terms are used by the Legislature." Cox v. Stevens, 14 Me. 205, 207.

34. Black L. Dict.

35. As used in reference to chastisement, the term implies a preceding offense. Sampson v. Smith, 15 Mass. 365, 368.

36. 2 Bouvier Inst. 497.

"Correction" by master of a vessel see Sampson v. Smith, 15 Mass. 365, 368.

"There to be corrected," as used in a statute, relating to corporal punishment, see Rex v. Hoseason, 14 East 605, 608.

37. Correction of certificate on certification of case see 2 Cyc. 746, note 73.

Correction of mistake of court below in executing mandate see 2 Cyc. 608, note 62.

Correction of order by consent see 2 Cyc. 620, note 18.

38. Correction by consent of a bill to set aside an award see 3 Cyc. 356, note 91.

39. Correction of change made in ignorance in a note see 2 Cyc. 183, note 5.

Correction of clerical error in a corporation note see 2 Cyc. 207, note 42.

Correction of immaterial part of instrument see 2 Cyc. 212, note 73.

Correction of mistake in a conveyance see 2 Cyc. 203, note 23; 2 Cyc. 235, note 97.

Correction of mistake to conform to original intention see 2 Cyc. 148.

Correction of name without changing identity of person see 2 Cyc. 212.

40. Correction of error in judgment see 2 Cyc. 941, note 38.

Correction of judgment in an action for a penalty under a bond see 5 Cyc. 857, note 4.

41. Burrill L. Dict.

Thus a relative term is one which designates things which cannot exist one without the other. 1 Bouvier Inst. 37. "Father" and "son" are correlative terms. "Son" is the correlative of "father." "Right" and "duty" are correlative terms. Burrill L. Dict.

42. Sackville-West v. Holmesdale, L. R. 4 H. L. 543, 557, 39 L. J. Ch. 505.

43. Sackville-West v. Holmesdale, L. R. 4 H. L. 543, 557, 39 L. J. Ch. 505.

44. Sackville-West v. Holmesdale, L. R. 4 H. L. 543, 571, 39 L. J. Ch. 505, where it is said: "Correspondence does not necessarily mean identity, it equally means adaptation, and it has various meanings to be gathered from the circumstances in which the word is used."

agree.[45] It also means the interchange of written communications.[46] (Correspondence: As Evidence, see EVIDENCE. Contracts by, see CONTRACTS.)

CORROBORATE. To strengthen;[47] to give additional strength; to make more certain;[48] to add weight or credibility to a thing;[49] to confirm by additional security, to add strength.[50] (See, generally, CRIMINAL LAW; EVIDENCE.)

CORROBORATION. The act of corroborating, strengthening, or confirming; addition of strength; confirmation.[51] (Corroboration: Newly-discovered Evidence, see NEW TRIAL. Of Accomplice, see CRIMINAL LAW. Of Confession, see CRIMINAL LAW. Of Witness, see WITNESSES. To Overcome Answer, see EQUITY. See also CORROBORATE.)

CORRUGATED. Wrinkled; bent or drawn into parallel furrows or ridges; as corrugated iron.[52]

CORRUPT.[53] As an adjective, unlawful;[54] dishonest, without integrity;[55] guilty of dishonesty, involving bribery, or a disposition to bribe or be bribed.[56] As a verb, to do an act for unlawful gain.[57] (See CORRUPTION.)

45. Sackville-West v. Holmesdale, L. R. 4 H. L. 543, 557, 39 L. J. Ch. 505, where the lord chancellor denies that the proper meaning of the word "corresponding" is "harmonizing with, or being suitable to." He said: "I think such meaning is a secondary meaning only. A foot mark corresponds with the foot when it has been made by it. A copy of an instrument corresponds with the original when the wording and paging, and if possible the hand-writing agree. A lease corresponds with the counterpart."

46. Black L. Dict.

47. State v. Guild, 10 N. J. L. 163, 187, 18 Am. Dec. 404; Scheftel v. Hatch, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 240, 241, 53 N. Y. St. 655; Black L. Dict. [quoted in Still v. State, (Tex. Crim. App. 1899) 50 S. W. 355, 358].

48. Still v. State, (Tex. Crim. App. 1899) 50 S. W. 355, 358.

49. Black L. Dict. [quoted in Still v. State, (Tex. Crim. App. 1899) 50 S. W. 355, 358].

50. State v. Guild, 10 N. J. L. 163, 187, 18 Am. Dec. 404.

"Corroborated" used in connection with testimony see State v. Guild, 10 N. J. L. 163, 187, 18 Am. Dec. 404; Scheftel v. Hatch, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 240, 241, 53 N. Y. St. 655 [quoting State v. Guild, 10 N. J. L. 163, 187, 18 Am. Dec. 404]; Gabrielsky v. State, 13 Tex. App. 428, 439. And see Evans v. Evans, 41 Cal. 103, 108.

"Corroborating." — Meaning of term used in connection with "circumstances" see State v. Guild, 10 N. J. L. 163, 187, 18 Am. Dec. 404 (where it is said: "It becomes material . . . to settle what is meant by the qualification, 'corroborating,' annexed to the term 'circumstances.' The phrase clearly does not mean facts which, independent of the confession, will warrant a conviction, for then the verdict would stand not on the confession, but upon those independent circumstances"); State v. Buckley, 18 Oreg. 228, 233, 22 Pac. 838. Corroborating evidence is evidence aliunde, which tends to prove the prisoner's guilt independent of his declarations. State v. Buckley, 18 Oreg. 228, 233, 22 Pac. 838 [quoted in Gabrielsky v. State, 13 Tex. App. 428; Schwartz v. Com., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 1025, 21 Am. Rep. 365].

51. Webster Int. Dict.

52. Century Dict. And see Goodyear v. Cary, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,562, 4 Blatchf. 271, 1 Fish Pat. Cas. 424, construing the words "shirred or corrugated."

53. The word does not convey a precise idea. What it does express, though still in a vague manner, is the quantity — what it endeavors, though unsuccessfully, to express, is the quality — of the blame. Abbott L. Dict. [quoting 1 Bentham Ev. 351].

54. U. S. v. Johnson, 26 Fed. 682, 683.

55. Century Dict. [quoted in State v. Ragsdale, 59 Mo. App. 590, 603].

"Corrupt old tory."— In an action for slander, on account of the utterance of the words "keep a strict watch on him — he is a corrupt old tory," it was said "that the other qualities imputed, by the adjective 'corrupt,' represented the plaintiff as one possessing a heart of general depravity; and that the accompanying request, that he should be watched, implied an opinion that he was capable of disingenuousness, or artifice, to effect his sinister purposes. The joint application of the epithets 'corrupt' and 'tory,' has a tendency rather to qualify and limit, than to extend the former, by confining it to political feelings or sentiments." Hogg v. Dorrah, 2 Port. (Ala.) 212, 219.

"Corrupt or fraudulent motive" as used in a statute see State v. Norris, 111 N. C. 652, 16 S. E. 2, 4.

56. Century Dict. [quoted in State v. Ragsdale, 59 Mo. App. 590, 603].

"Corrupt bargain or consideration" as used in a statute in relation to elections see Re Kingston Election Case, 30 U. C. C. P. 389, 394.

57. Anderson L. Dict. [quoted in State v. Ragsdale, 59 Mo. App. 590, 603].

Distinguished from "procure."— In Henslow v. Fawcett, 3 A. & E. 51, 55, 1 Hurl. & W. 125, 4 N. & M. 585, 30 E. C. L. 46, where a statute prescribed a penalty against any person who shall "corrupt or procure" any elector to vote or forbear voting, and the offense charged was "corrupting," etc., Denman, C. J., said: "Procuring is one thing: it is essential that the vote should be given. Corrupting (which word is connected by the

CORRUPTION.[58] Something against law;[59] something forbidden by law, certain acts by arbitrators, election or other officers, trustees;[60] an act done wi intent to gain advantage not consistent with official duty and the rights of othe a champertous contract; a contract of usury;[61] any color of influence, of me relation of any kind, on the administration of justice;[62] inducing a violation duty by means of pecuniary considerations;[63] the act of an official or fiducia person who unlawfully and wrongfully uses his station or character to procu some benefit for himself or another person.[64] (See CORRUPT; CORRUPTLY; an generally, BRIBERY; EXTORTION; FRAUD.)

CORRUPTION OF BLOOD. See CONVICTS.

CORRUPTIO OPTIMI EST PESSIMA. A maxim meaning "Corruption of t best is worst."[65]

CORRUPTIVE. In old pleading, CORRUPTLY,[66] q. v.

CORRUPTLY. Viciously, or wickedly.[67] As defined by statute, a wrongf design to acquire or cause some pecuniary or other advantage to the pers guilty of the act or omission referred to, or to some other person.[68] (See CORRUP CORRUPTION; and, generally, BRIBERY; ELECTIONS; EXTORTION; FRAUD.)

disjunctive particle) is another; it seems to me to lie altogether in the act of the party giving the bribe." And Littledale, J., observed: "The words of the act are 'corrupt or procure;' and it seems to me that these two words mean different things." And see Sulston v. Norton, 3 Burr. 1235, 1237, 1 W. Bl. 317; Harding v. Stokes, 2 Gale 41, 5 L. J. Exch. 178, 2 M. & M. 233, 1 Tyrw. & G. 599.

58. A hard word, not always accurately understood; covering a multitude of official delinquencies, great and little. Wight v. Rindskopf, 43 Wis. 344, 351.

59. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Chicago City R. Co. v. Olis, 192 Ill. 514, 61 N. E. 459].

"Simoniacal" corruption.— See Fletcher v. Sondes, 3 Bing. 501, 529, 11 E. C. L. 247, 1 Bligh N. S. 144, 4 Eng. Reprint 826; Mosse v. Killick, 50 L. J. Q. B. 300, 301, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 149, 29 Wkly. Rep. 522; Newman v. Newman, 4 M. & S. 66, 71, 1 Stark. 101, 16 Rev. Rep. 386, 2 E. C. L. 47.

60. Anderson L. Dict. [quoted in State v. Ragsdale, 59 Mo. App. 590, 603]. And see Adams v. Great North of Scotland R. Co., [1891] A. C. 31, 45, where, as used in a statute in reference to corruption, bribery, or falsehood, it was said that the word "corruption" should receive no other than its ordinary construction, and it cannot be taken to include irregular conduct on the part of an arbitrator with no suggestion of any corrupt motive.

61. Anderson L. Dict. [quoted in State v. Ragsdale, 59 Mo. App. 590, 603].

62. Wight v. Rindskopf, 43 Wis. 344, 351.

63. Abbott L. Dict.

64. Black L. Dict.

65. Wharton L. Lex.

66. Burrill L. Dict. [citing Woody's Case, Cro. Jac. 104].

67. Williams v. People, 26 Colo. 272, 274, 57 Pac. 701; U. S. v. Edwards, 43 Fed. 67. Compare State v. Stein, 48 Minn. 466, 470, 51 N. W. 474, where it being alleged that the defendant's testimony was wilfully and corruptly false, it was held that this was equivalent to alleging that he wilfully and knowingly testified falsely.

Distinguished from "dishonestly." Cooper v. Slade, 8 E. & B. 1151, 1160, E. C. L. 1151.

Distinguished from "wickedly," "immorally," etc., in Bewdley Election Petition, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 676, 678.

Distinguished from "wilfully" in William v. People, 26 Colo. 272, 274, 57 Pac. 701; U. S. v. Edwards, 43 Fed. 67; Rex v. Stevens, 5 B. & C. 246, 249, 11 E. C. L. 448. And see Rex v. Richards, 7 D. & R. 665, 671, 4 L. J. K. B. O. S. 155, 16 E. C. L. 313. See also Anonymous, Cro. Eliz. 201; Lembro v. Harper, Cro. Eliz. 147.

May imply motive.— Chicago City R. Co. v. Olis, 192 Ill. 514, 61 N. E. 459 [quoting Overtoom v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 181 Ill. 3; 54 N. E. 898].

May import falsity.— State v. Smith, 4 Vt. 201, 212, 22 Atl. 604. But see Reg. v. Oxley, 3 C. & K. 317 [quoted in State v. Smith, 63 Vt. 201, 212, 22 Atl. 604].

"Fraudulently and corruptly."— In Wo sham v. Murchison, 66 Ga. 715, 719, it said: "These words, say this court in t case of Lake v. Hardee, 57 Ga. 459, 468, 'me more than mere illegal conduct; they me moral turpitude and intentional fraud, to passed upon by the jury from all the facts the case.' They mean actual fraud, actu intentional wrong-doing willful and corru dealing, a purpose to impose on his cestui q trust, and to benefit himself."

"Wilfully, knowingly, maliciously a falsely" may imply "corruptly." State v. Bixler, 62 Md. 354, 357.

68. Ariz. Pen. Code, § 7; Cal. Pen. Co § 7; Minn. Stat. § 6842; N. D. Rev. Cod § 7715; S. D. Pen. Code, § 810; Utah R Stat. § 4053.

An act may be corruptly done, though t advantage to be derived from it be not fered by another. Bouvier L. Dict. [quo in Chicago City R. Co. v. Olis, 192 Ill. 5 516, 61 N. E. 459].

CORS. Body,[69] q. v.

CORSEPRESENT. A Mortuary,[70] q. v.

CORSNED. A species of ordeal in use among the Saxons, performed by eating a piece of barley bread over which the priest had pronounced a certain imprecation.[71]

CORTES. The name of the legislative assemblies, the parliament or congress, of Spain and Portugal.[72]

CORVEE. In France, a duty imposed upon labor of working the highways.[73]

COSCEZ. A term applied in Domesday, to an inferior class of tenants.[74]

COSDUNA. In feudal law a custom or tribute.[75]

COSE. A corrupt form of Chose,[76] q. v.

COSEN or COZEN. In old English law, to Cheat,[77] q. v. (See Cosening; Cosin.)

COSENAGE or COSINAGE. In old English law, kindred; cousinship;[78] collateral relationship or kindred by blood; Consanguinity,[79] q. v. Also a writ that lay for the heir where the tresail, i. e., the father of the besail, or great-grandfather, was seised of lands in fee at his death, and a stranger entered upon the land and abated.[80] (See Cosin.)

COSENING. An offense, mentioned in the old books, where anything was done deceitfully, whether belonging to contracts or not, which could not be properly termed by any special name.[81] (See Cosen.)

CO-SERVANT. See Master and Servant.

COSHERING. A feudal prerogative or custom for lords to lie and feast themselves at their tenants' houses.[82]

COSIN, COSYN, or COSEN. In old English law, a collateral relative by blood, as a brother, sister, uncle, etc.; any relative in the ascending line, above a great-grandfather.[83] (See Cosen; Cosinage.)

COSS. A term used by Europeans in India to denote a road-measure of about two miles, but differing in different parts.[84]

COST.[85] The amount paid, charged, or engaged to be paid for anything bought;[86] charge, expense, loss, detriment.[87] Also a contraction of ceo est, that

69. Burrill L. Dict.

70. Wharton L. Lex. [citing 2 Bl. Comm. 426; 2 Stephen Comm. 148].

71. If the accused ate it freely, he was pronounced innocent; but if it stuck in his throat, it was considered as a proof of his guilt. Burrill L. Dict. [citing 4 Bl. Comm. 345; Crabb Hist. Eng. L. 30].

72. Black L. Dict.

73. State v. Covington, 125 N. C. 641, 644, 34 S. E. 272, where it is said: "A grievance which contributed powerfully to their revolution of a century ago, since which time the roads have been worked by taxation."

74. Burrill L. Dict.

75. Black L. Dict.

76. Burrill L. Dict.

77. Burrill L. Dict. See also Middlemore's Case, 3 Leon. 171.

78. Black L. Dict.

79. Burrill L. Dict. [citing Coke Litt. 160*a*].

80. Black L. Dict. [citing Fitzherbert Nat. Brev. 221].

81. Black L. Dict.

82. Black L. Dict.

83. Burrill L. Dict.

84. Wharton L. Lex.

85. It is a word capable of a larger or narrower construction according to the subject-matter, and the circumstances of the particular case. Gray v. Harper, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,716, 1 Story 574.

Distinguished from "damages." — The word "cost" is of limited significance,— much narrower than "damages," for instance, which, in the case of laying out one railroad over and across another, has been held not to include compensation for the interruption and inconvenience to the business of the latter occasioned thereby. In re Newton, 172 Mass. 5, 10, 51 N. E. 183 [citing Massachusetts Cent. R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 124; Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 9 Gray (Mass.) 226].

86. Webster Dict. [quoted in McCoy v. Hastings, 92 Iowa 585, 586, 61 N. W. 205].

Cost of an article at any particular place is the price given, and every charge which attended the purchase and the exportation, paid or supposed to be paid, at the place whence the article is exported. Goodwin v. U. S., 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,554, 2 Wash. 493.

"Prime cost" is distinguished from "actual cost" in Goodwin v. U. S., 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,554, 2 Wash. 493.

87. Brower v. Maiden, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,970, Gilp. 294.

"Cost of insurance" see Tillson v. U. S., 129 U. S. 101, 104, 9 S. Ct. 255, 32 L. ed. 636. See also, generally, Insurance.

is.[88] (See Cash Market Value; Compensation; Cost Price. See, generally, Costs.)

COSTAGES or CUSTAGES.[89] In old English law, costs.[90] (See, generally, Costs.)

COSTARD. A head. Also a kind of apple.[91]

COST-BOOK. A book in which a number of adventurers who have obtained permission to work a lode, and have agreed to share the enterprise in certain proportions, enter the agreement, and from time to time the receipts and expenditures of the mine, the names of the shareholders, their respective accounts with the mine, and transfers of shares.[92] (See, generally, Mines and Minerals.)

COSTES. Costs.[93] (See, generally, Costs.)

COST, FREIGHT, AND INSURANCE. Words meaning cost of an article with commission and cost of premium of insurance and the freight.[94] (See, generally, Carriers; Insurance; Shipping.)

COST PRICE. The price paid for goods by a purchaser;[95] what is actually paid for an article;[96] the sum which the seller himself paid for the article.[97] (See Cash Market Value; Cost.)

"Cost of relief" as used in a statute see Dinning v. South Shields Union, 13 Q. B. D. 25, 48 J. P. 708, 53 L. J. M. C. 90, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 446.

"Cost of tuition" see State v. Hamilton, 69 Miss. 116, 10 So. 57. See also, generally, Schools and School Districts.

Election expenses.— Where a statute imposed on the borough auditor the duty of printing and distributing the ballots for the election of borough officers and certifying "the costs of such printing and distribution to the county commissioners for payment, as part of a county election expenses," the court said: "The distribution of ballots, and their preparation for distribution, as required by the law, involved both manual and clerical labor. The language, 'the cost of such . . . distribution,' necessarily implies payment for the time expended by the auditor." Corr v. Lackawanna County, 163 Pa. St. 57, 61, 29 Atl. 745, construing Pennsylvania act of June 19, 1891.

88. Burrill L. Dict.

89. Lord Coke derives this word from the verb conster, and that again from the verb constare; "for these costages must constare (appear) to the court to be legal costs and expenses." Burrill L. Dict. [citing 2 Inst. 288].

90. Burrill L. Dict.

91. Wharton L. Lex.

92. Black L. Dict.

The cost-book contains the names of all the shareholders, and the number of shares held by each is set opposite to his name. In a cost-book partnership, a shareholder may get rid of his shares, and with them his liabilities, so far as his partners are concerned, without their consent, either by transfer or simple relinquishment, provided the cost-book regulations do not prohibit such a course; in the former case the fact of transfer being entered by the purser in the cost-book, and in the latter notice being given to the purser of his having so relinquished his shares, and all his claims upon the mine. Wharton L. Lex.

93. Burrill L. Dict. And see Trewennarde v. Skewys, Dyer 55*b*.

94. English L. Dict. And see Wancke v. Wingren, 58 L. J. Q. B. 519.

The terms are very unusual, and are perfectly well understood in practice. Ireland v. Livingstone, L. R. 5 H. L. 395, 41 L. J. Q. B. 201, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 79.

95. Buck v. Burk, 18 N. Y. 337, 340.

96. McCoy v. Hastings, 92 Iowa 585, 586, 61 N. W. 205 [quoting Buck v. Burk, 18 N. Y. 337]; Anderson L. Dict.; Black L. Dict.

97. Herst v. De Comeau, 1 Sweeny (N. Y.) 590, 605, where it is said: "But it may refer to the sum paid to its original producer, or to some one of the numerous holders through whose hands it has passed between the original producer and the immediate seller."

The term is a relative one, and differs in its meaning according to the circumstances under which it is used: thus, the cost-price to an importer is one thing, to a jobber or middleman another, to a retailer another, and to a purchaser from a retailer still another. Herst v. De Comeau, 1 Sweeny (N. Y.) 590, 605.